UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
VOL. 26 NO. 25
JAN. 28, 1928.

Laura La Plante
in "Finders Keepers"
by Mary Roberts Rinehart.
Universal

BRITISH EDITION

SNOOKUMS

GOOD ENOUGH FOR THE LARGEST HOUSES

GOOD ENOUGH
FOR YOU!

The last five Snookums pictures saw their premiere at ROXY'S and in a chain of well-known houses across the continent. It took them no time at all to get hep to this marvel kid, this Box-Office Baby — he simply pulled the customers in like nobody's business. He'll do it for you! There is no record of a single Snookums flop in any theatre, remember that!

From George McManus' famous comic strip, "The Newlyweds and Their Baby," syndicated in every nook and corner of the land. STERN BROS. PRODUCTIONS—UNIVERSAL JUNIOR-JEWELS.

Critics

everywhere speak in the same glowing terms about

The Three Tryon Pictures available are:

Painting The Town

A Hero For A Night

Hot Heels

"With an upward rush that has astonished filmdom, the young actor, Glenn Tryon was working hard, striving to be funny in two-reelers, in which capacity he attracted the attention of Carl Laemmle. Laemmle gave him a chance and the result was a picture called "Painting the Town" which created a sensation at Roxy's Theatre in New York and brought him to the fore with exhibitors throughtout the country. You'll find Tryon extremely likable and clever."

—From the Chicago Evening American.

GLENN TRYON

THE GREAT

No. 568.--- Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

LAURA LA PLANTE has now developed into the screen's great comedienne.

I know of no close second to her.

I know of none who compares with her in ability as a pantomimist; none who has such a rare combination of beauty and cleverness; none who is so wholly the very incarnation of youth and joyousness!

Yes, it's a big order. But she fills it to the full and overflowing.

Soon you will see her in "Finders Keepers." The fact that this story was written by Mary Roberts Rinehart is a powerful box-office argument. The fact that it is the best picture Wesley Ruggles ever directed is another. The fact that the superb cast is headed by such performers as John Harron and Edmund Breese is still another.

But the big fact which stands out in bold relief is the fact that this whole picture is Laura La Plante at the peak and pinnacle of her best.

COMEDIENNE

When the critics review this picture, you are going to be buried under a shower of adjectives with regard to Miss La Plante.

The world and his wife will suddenly realize that a star of first magnitude has appeared—a star to be reckoned with hereafter as one of your very strongest attractions.

Before you even have an opportunity to show "Finders Keepers," the truth will be known by your customers and they will be eager to see Miss La Plante. If you have not booked this picture, that is your worry, not mine — except that as one who has tried to give you the straight truth through all the years I have been in business, I advise you to arrange for a booking.

Any previous Laura La Plante picture which you have not shown should be booked also, for the wise showman is he who looks ahead and prepares for the demand which is sure to come. Miss La Plante, by the way, has never been in a poor picture—but "Finders Keepers" is her very best to date.

The screen has needed a real comedienne for quite a while. Laura La Plante now proves her right to the title, and she need share the honor with none!

But she'll share the PROFITS with you!

For the FIRST TIME in MOTION

You, Mr. Exhibitor, are the FIRST consideration!

For the first time in the history of Motion Pictures you, Mr. Exhibitor, are the BENEFICIARY of a sales celebration! This time YOU come absolutely FIRST.

Heretofore there have been drives — drives for this and drives for that — but never before have you heard of a celebration put on for YOU, the Exhibitor — a celebration put on by a producing company FOR YOUR EXCLUSIVE BENEFIT.

And here's the reason — Carl Laemmle — you all know Uncle Carl — is celebrating his 22nd anniversary in the motion picture industry and in order to give him the proper kind of send-off the big shots here at the home office have organized a celebration in his honor by which CARL LAEMMLE'S PET HOBBY—THE EXHIBITOR—BENEFITS FIRST.

E in the HISTORY of PICTURES

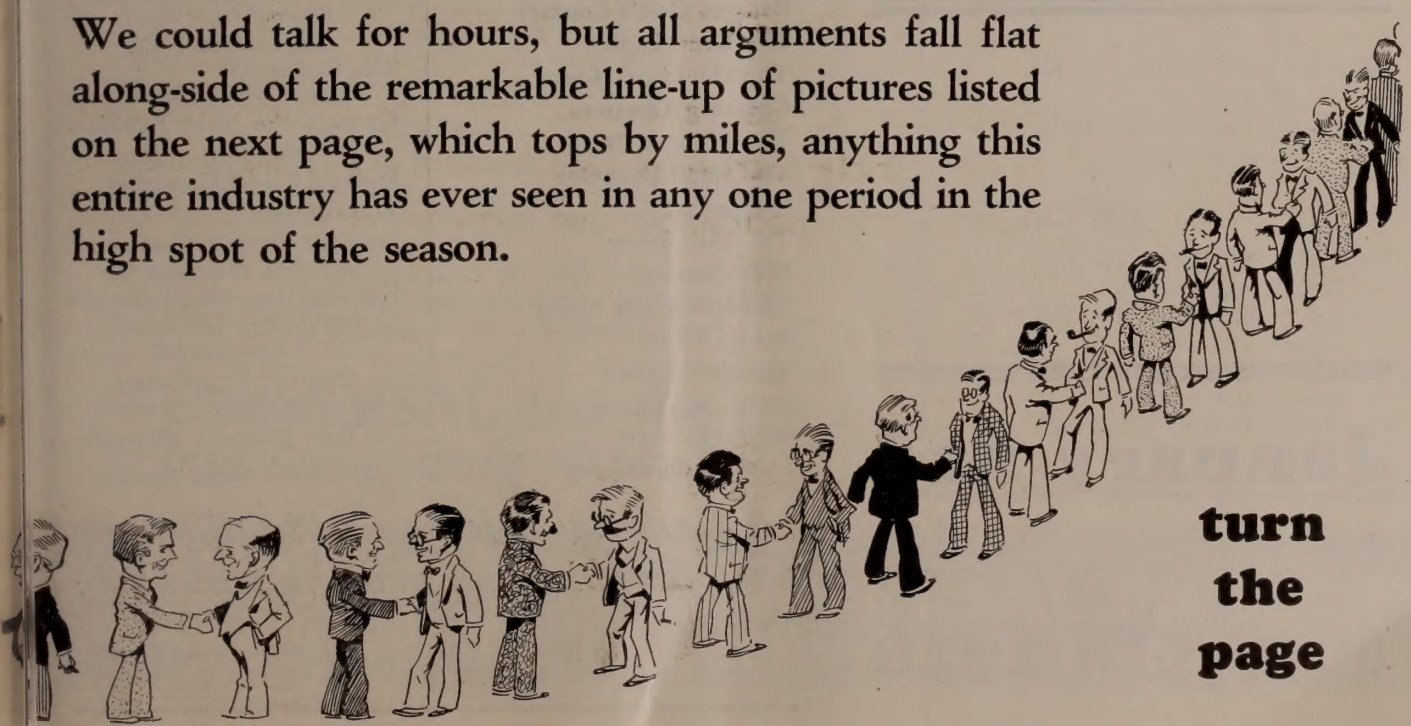
In this 22nd anniversary celebration Universal presents the biggest group of money makers ever offered by one company in any one season in the entire history of the industry.

We could talk for hours, but all arguments fall flat along-side of the remarkable line-up of pictures listed on the next page, which tops by miles, anything this entire industry has ever seen in any one period in the high spot of the season.



turn the page

This is a partial list of the box-office pictures you can get during Carl Laemmle's

22

Anniversary Celebration

January 22d to May 5th 1928

Universal's Amazing Four

The Cat and the Canary
Les Miserables
The Cohens and Kellys in Paris
We Americans
— and its Resplendent Fifth
Love Me and the World is Mine

Glenn Tryon Pictures

Painting the Town
A Hero for a Night
Hot Heels

Back to God's Country
The Lone Eagle
The Shield of Honor
Cheating Cheaters
The Chinese Parrot
The Small Bachelor
Surrender!
The 13th Juror
Wild Beauty
The Irresistible Lover
A Man's Past
The Fourflusher
Alias the Deacon
Midnight Rose
13 Washington Sq.

Reginald Denny Pictures

That's My Daddy
Out All Night
On Your Toes

Laura La Plante Pictures

Silk Stockings
Finders Keepers
Thanks for the Buggy Ride

Hoot Gibson Pictures

Painted Ponies
Galloping Fury
The Rawhide Kid
A Trick of Hearts

Universal Super Shorts

Snookums, The box office baby
Universal Junior Jewels
Carl Laemmle, Jr's.
The Collegians
Universal Junior Jewels
Oswald the lucky Rabbit—
1 reel cartoons
Snappy 1 Reel Comedies
The Gumps
Stern Brothers 2 Reelers including Mike and Ike
Keeping Up with the Joneses
Let George Do it and Buster Brown
Octavus Roy Cohen
Charlie Puffy—2 Reelers
2 Reel Western Dramas
Universal Super Serials

A Universal Salesman will call on you soon. Give him your undivided attention.

£780

in cash Prizes for showmen!

HERE is every live showman's opportunity to win some big prize money while he is putting over his Universal Serials and Series.

Starting February, 1928, 156 prizes will be awarded over the following 52 weeks—three prizes a week, totaling £15, as follows:

First Prize	£7 10 0
Second Prize	£5 0 0
Third Prize	£2 10 0

Every seasoned showman is awake to the money possibilities of Universal's serials and series. But not every one has been pushing them to the fullest extent. Hence the contest—making your efforts doubly worth while. You get increased profits besides your prizes.

To compete, just create your exploitation scheme, send us full details, together with specimens of your special billing matter, throwaways, etc., and for Heaven's sake, don't let modesty stand in your way—for the best schemes frequently come from the most modest exhibitors.

JUDGING

Each week's efforts will be judged during that week and prizes awarded within seven days. Every showman has a chance—neither size of house nor size of town makes any difference.

There are 12 subjects, so that if you run all the Serials and Series, you have 12 chances a week. 52 weeks of competition and 3 prizes a week. 156 chances for you to win a prize!

UNIVERSAL has the business-getting shorts!

8 serials

BLAKE OF SCOTLAND YARD
12 Episodes

FIGHTING FOR FAME
10 Episodes

TRAIL OF THE TIGER
10 Episodes

TROOPER 77
10 Episodes

MYSTERY PILOT
10 Episodes

SCARLET ARROW
10 Episodes

THE VANISHING RIDER
10 Episodes

THE HAUNTED ISLAND
10 Episodes

4 series

STUNT COWBOY SERIES
13 two-reel stories

TEXAS RANGER
13 two-reel stories

NORTH WEST MOUNTED
13 two-reel stories

CHAMPION KID RIDER
13 two-reel stories

EUROPEAN MOTION PICTURE CO LTD OFFICES EVERYWHERE

Distributors of
UNIVERSAL PICTURES
Empire News Bulletin & British Screen Classics.

A MAN'S PAST

Starring

CONRAD VEIDT

Europe's Barrymore with Arthur Edmund Carew, Barbara Bedford, George Siegmann, Ian Kieth—A George Melford Production

UNIVERSAL PICTUURE

from the play "Diploma," by Emerich Foeldes.

CONRAD VEIDT

A FILEFUL OF PRAIS

The Chinese Parrot
The Irresistible Lover
Silk Stockings
A Hero for A Night
The Count of Ten
The Fourflusher
Surrender!
Buck Privates

The Shield of Honor
The Lone Eagle
The Small Bachelor
Cheating Cheaters
Alias The Deacon
Back To God's Country
A Man's Past
Wild Beauty

Hostetter Amusement Company

Executive Offices
640 Electric Building
Omaha, Nebr.

This Communication from

Joe Burton

Resident Manager

KEITH THEATRE
NORTH PLATTE, NEBRASKA
Jan. 9th. 1928

Universal Pictures Corp;
New York City
N.Y.

Gentlemen;

I wish to extend to you my Congratulations on the Picture A MANS PAST, from a Box Office stand-point it has an appeal and as a Production it is a Wonderful Picture.

My Audience gave it a Unanimous opinion of it being the best Picture seen in this House in a Long time and we have had lots of the so Called Specials.

With best regards to all who had a Hand in it's making and assuring you I am looking forward to more of this Kind of Pictures from Universal I beg to remain.

Sincerely Your's

Joe Burton.

E LIKE THIS About Every Picture in

Thanks for the Buggy Ride
Hot Heels
13 Washington Sq.
Midnight Rose
The Thirteenth Juror
The Grip of the Yukon

THE BIG GUN GROUP

The
UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for the Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick, ~ Editor
Published by the Motion Picture Weekly Publishing Co. Heckscher Bldg. 730-5th Ave. New York City
Copyright 1927 UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION All rights reserved

Vol. XXVI JANUARY 28, 1928 No. 25

UNIVERSAL MOVIEGRAMS

"FALLEN ANGELS," the Arthur Somers Roche Red Book Magazine story, in which Norman Kerry is starring with Pauline Starke, Marian Nixon and Kenneth Harlan, has been completed at Universal City under the direction of Edward Laemmle. This is young Laemmle's fifth successive crook picture.

CONRAD NAGEL and Renee Adoree are announced by Universal as the featured players of "The Michigan Kid," which Irvin Willat will place in production this week. Others who will have important roles are Lloyd Whitlock, Adolph Milar, Maurice Murphy and Virginia Grey.

JOSEPHINE DUNN, Kathleen Williams and Edwin Martindel have been cast for character roles in "We Americans," now in its third week of production at Universal City. George Sidney, Beryl Mercer, George Lewis, Patsy Ruth Miller and Albert Gran are included in a cast which, from all reports, is as carefully and capably selected as any which Universal has ever announced. Edward Sloman is directing, under the supervision of Carl Laemmle, Jr.

"FINDERS KEEPERS," the Mary Roberts Rinehart Saturday Evening Post story, has been nominated for its Selected Class by the Better Films Committee of the National Board of Review. In this film Laura La Plante fully justifies all of the first place classifications which have been given her by the editors of film papers, who, at the end of each year classify the standings and performances of the various screen luminaries.

STYLES HALT PRODUCTION AT UNIVERSAL CITY STUDIOS

Carl Laemmle Authorizes Announcement That He Hopes to Close Down Studios in Whole or in Part to Avoid Out-of-Date Styles of Pictures Made a Year and a Half In Advance.

FOR a novel but practical and common-sense reason, Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation, from his studio in Universal City yesterday authorized the following statement to be given out from the company's headquarters in New York.

"Production activity at Universal City will be greatly curtailed or entirely suspended sometime in February. Our production program is so far in advance of our requirements that such a program would interfere in no way with our releasing. Forty-five per cent of our production for the year beginning September, 1928, has been completed. And, of course, the entire quota of pictures for the current year is finished. 'We Americans' was the only production of this year which was not completed by last September. It has just been finished.

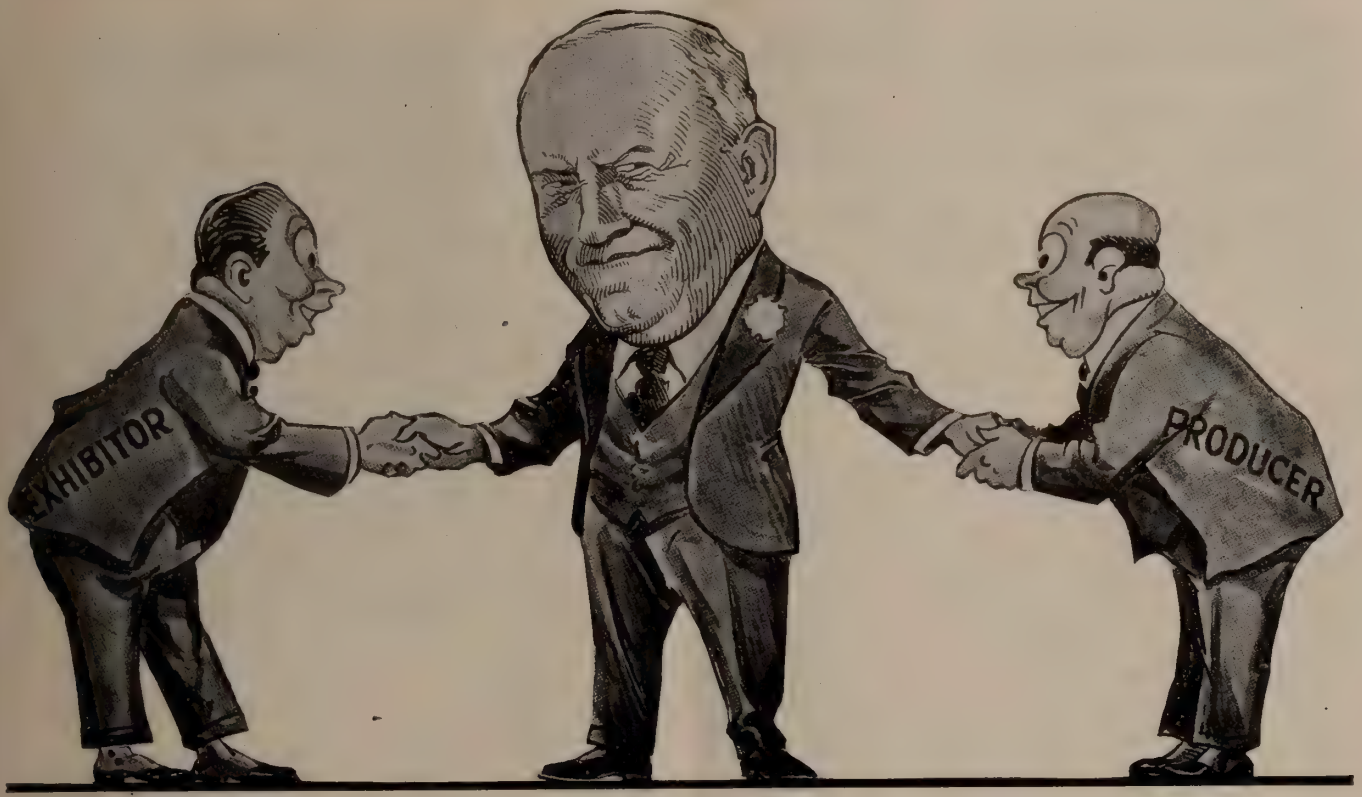
"It would be possible for us to finish our entire year's program of pictures for 1928-1929 by June or July, if the studios were operated at the present rate of production. But there is grave danger in making pictures a year and a half to two years in advance of their release dates. Women's styles change so rapidly, and Los Angeles is so far away from the source of these styles, that a producer is incurring the penalty of having his pictures look old and out of style when they finally reach the screen.

"Millions of women in the United States look to moving pictures for up-to-date styles and ideas on how to dress. For this reason, it is absolutely necessary that the styles in moving pictures be as authentic and up-to-date as possible. Universal City takes the most elaborate precautions to style its pictures accurately.

"Two of our Super or Road Show pictures have been completed—'Uncle Tom's Cabin' and 'The Man Who Laughs,' on which the last shot was taken last night. 'Show Boat' is not yet scheduled to go into production for some time yet, and 'Broadway' is not ready to be shot. There are fifteen companies working at the present time and ten pictures ready to go into production. But from the standpoint of releasing, it would be possible to wait an entire year before they were put into work. We are doing our outmost to terminate as much production activity as possible sometime in February without working a hardship to our employes.

"Pictures which will be completed before the end of this month are 'The Michigan Kid,' by Rex Beach; 'Honeymoon Flats,' by Earl Derr Biggers; 'Home James,' with Laura La Plante; 'Cream of the Earth,' by Percy Marks; 'Fallen Angels,' by Arthur Somers Roche, and 'Freedom of the Press,' by Peter B. Kyne."

UNIVERSAL announces March 4th as the official release date of "Love Me and the World Is Mine." This is the Marv Philbin-Norman Kerry story which was directed by E. A. Dupont, whose fame in this country heretofore rested entirely on "Variety."



Uncle Carl

By David Barrist

(Reprinted from Brevity by special permission of David Barrist.)

SOME DAY THEY'RE gonna give Carl Laemmle a dinner.
AND THE LITTLE fellers in the sticks will leave their shooting galleries.
AND THE CIRCUIT owners will halt their multi-million dollar mergers.
AND THE MIGHTY executives will lay down their busy pens.
AND ALL JOURNEY to the Big City to pay their respects
TO THE MOST beloved man in pictures—Uncle Carl.
UNCLE CARL OF the fighting heart and kindly soul.
PIONEER, BLAZER OF trails and champion of right.
THE MAN WHO PROVED that success in the movies as in other fields
MAY BE WON without climbing over the prostrate forms.
OF COMPETITOR and customer—of producer and exhibitor.
LEAVING ITS TRAIL of suffering and of bitterness.
ITS TRAIL OF vengeful, cursing, spitters of venom.
SMASHED AND CRUSHED by the power that is competition.
IN THE TRADE that God forgot
AND THEN UNCLE Carl will learn.
THAT GREATER EVEN than the wealth of his millions.
IS THE ESTEEM AND RESPECT in which he is held.
BY FRIEND AND foe alike—by partner and competitor.
A PRICELESS TREASURE in an industry where greed and self
ARE THE RULING gods—twin spreaders of discord.

Canadian Press Takes up Cudgels For Protection of Universal's Version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin"

Ray Lewis, Editor of Canadian Moving Picture Digest, Urges Arbitration To Settle Re-issue of Old Films Under Publicity of New and Expensive Ones

"UNIVERSAL will soon release their version of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' in Canada.

"I have not had the pleasure of reviewing this picture, but the 'stills' which I have seen, and the unanimous press approval on the merit of the production, inspires me to caution exhibitors to reserve a Universal 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' booking.

"WE CHILDREN of a grown-up generation remember the days of Uncle Tom, Simon Legree, Little Eva, Topsy, and the other characters including the Eliza, who so successfully crossed the ice.

"But our children, the children of today are ready for 'Uncle Tom's Cabin,' to whom this story would be as fresh and interesting as it ever was.

"THERE is a protective system introduced in our Industry which secures producers who utilize uncopyrighted material for production purposes.

"Registration at the 'Hays' Organization offices of the title, secures for the producer protection from the pernicious policy of trading upon someone else's publicity, or invested capital.

"WE REMEMBER the day when one picture produced other versions of the same material, to the financial detriment of all the producers concerned.

"An example was the simultaneous productions of 'Romeo and Juliet.' Another habit of the Industry, for which there is at present no cure, is the releasing of cheap productions of a title, which has recently gone into production; and upon which the present producer has spent a vast sum of money, in order to make the picture possess outstanding quality; and receive world-wide publicity.

"IN CONNECTION with Universal's 'Uncle Tom's Cabin,' Mr. Laemmle claims that he has been subjected to just this kind of unfair competition.

"Unwilling to buy up at an exorbitant price, old film of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin,' the owners of such film have endeavored to precede Universal's 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' bookings, taking advantage of the Universal publicity to sell their cheap production to exhibitors and the public; ;and thereby aoing Universal considerable financial damage and injury.

"I BELIEVE that conditions of this kind should come under the jurisdiction of an Arbitration Board, who should call in such old films, deciding with the owners upon a just and equitable price for purchase, by the producer interested in clearing the market for the presentation of the new production.

"The same rules which govern other arbitration matters should govern such proceedings.

"IF PRODUCERS wish to re-issue old films let them do so on their own initiative and capital. The fact that 'junk' is shelved until someone gets an inspiration to produce a new version, is an indication that the possessor of the old film is trading upon the investment which the new version is exploiting; and the financial advantage to the possessor of the old film, under such circumstances should not be taken into consideration.

"The re-issue of some 'old timers' is not to the advantage of the Industry as a whole; and in many cases the release of an old film, following the announcement of a new version is manouvered, not by the producer of the old version, but some 'sharper,' who is in this Industry just to make money out of such business tricks. He gets a hold of the old film because there is a possibility of a purchase by the new producer.

"Mr. Laemmle claims that such a state of affairs transpired in connection with Universal's announcement and production of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin.'"

Making of Hugo's "Man Who Laughs" To be Broadcast

THE production details surrounding the filming of a special motion picture will be broadcast over station WPCH at the Hotel McAlpin in New York on Thursday, January 26th, at 6.45 P. M. Nat Rothstein, advertising executive of the Universal Pictures Corporation, will describe in detail the making of "The Man Who Laughs," an adaptation of the famous Victor Hugo story which will shortly be completed and be shown for the first time on Broadway in March.

A short time ago Rothstein described the making of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" with such success that the station received a deluge of mail in praise of the entertainment, which brought about the return booking on another picture.

DAVID BELASCO THRILLED BY "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN"

The Great Actor-Producer, Who Once Played "Uncle Tom," Recommends Universal's Screen Version to All Classes of Motion Picture Fans.

David Belasco "takes his pen in hand" to write Carl Laemmle a warm letter of congratulation.

BELASCO THEATRE

Forty-fourth Street, Near Broadway
New York City

Under the Sole Management of
DAVID BELASCO

Jan. 4, 1928.

Dear Mr. Laemmle:

Last evening a kind fate took me to see your picturization of "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN." Having played "Uncle Tom" myself, as well as almost all the other parts at one time or another when I was an aspiring actor, I felt a more than casual interest in seeing Harriet Beecher Stowe's wonderful story on the screen. The way you have handled it thrilled me to the heart. Here is the greatest human story ever written presented in a fashion worthy of the subject.

We hear much of plays and pictures which should be avoided. Here is one we should hear much of as being a desirable picture to see. Every teacher, minister, rabbi and priest should tell of it to every person, children and adults, with whom they come in contact. Everyone should be encouraged to see it.

It is inspirational as well as educational; full of pathos, humor and life—a great picture in every particular—a fascinating picture!

Congratulations and good wishes.

Faithfully,

David Belasco

Mr. Carl Laemmle,
Universal Pictures Corp.,
730 Fifth Avenue,
New York City.

David Belasco as "Uncle Tom," a part he played long ago when he was a young hopeful.

Harold B. Franklin

Director General
West Coast Theatres Inc.
writes to Mr. Laemmle---

Form 1201 B

CLASS OF SERVICE
This is a full-rate Telegram or Cablegram unless its character is indicated by a symbol in the check or in the address.

WESTERN UNION

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT — J. C. WILLEVER, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

SYMBOLS
BLUE	Day Letter
NITE	Night Message
NL	Night Letter
LCO	Deferred
CLT	Cable Letter
WLT	Week End Letter

The filing time as shown in the date line on full-rate telegrams and day letters, and the time of receipt at destination as shown on all messages, is STANDARD TIME.

Received at

WC Los Angeles, Calif. 1116A
Jan. 6, 1928

Mr. Franklin advised okay use letter reference "Les Miserables."

L. J. Shadur, Secretary
238P and refers to

No Advertisement ever written by any man can compare to Mr. Franklin's own private opinion of Victor Hugo's

LES MISERABLES

STAND BY!
News from WEST COAST
THEATRES
GENERAL PUBLICITY
HEADQUARTERS

Jeff Lazarus
DIRECTOR

Publicity Bulletin No. 27 — 23 November, 1927

TO ALL MANAGERS:

Subject: Universal's "LES MISERABLES"
Mighty Successor to "Hunchback of Notre Dame"

"Les Miserables" is Universal's mighty successor to "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." It is a painstakingly faithful reproduction of Victor Hugo's great novel, in its atmosphere of pity and contrition as well as in detail of its scenes and characters. It is to be doubted indeed whether any film has ever reproduced so purely the essence of a book as this picture does for Hugo's novel. The gentle, austere way in which the story is unfolded, without losing one bit of its poignancy, effects one as nothing else would except reading of the novel itself. The film is original in that it makes a definite break from the sensational effects from the average "super" production and the fact that it sticks so closely to the story and comes out as a great picture, with a new technique. The acting is of a kind that is seen once in a decade . . . nothing short of marvelous.

Wherever "Les Miserables" has played, it has been shown to large audiences. It was an outstanding success in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and it is now in its second week in Los Angeles with every indication of its going further. The picture pleases; everyone talks about it; everyone is impressed and it is worthy of every effort that you can put behind it.

his →

A UNIVERSAL
FILM de FRANCE TRIUMPH

Presented by
Carl Laemmle

Now grabbing BIG Money for Exhibitors everywhere---Get it, it's good for you!

Carl Laemmle Sets Box-Office Winners for Anniversary

"Cat and Canary," "Les Miserables," "We Americans," "Cohens and Kellys In Paris," and "Finders Keepers" Will Be Available For 22nd Anniversary Period.

George Sidney who stars in "We Americans," and Beryl Mercer, who left a Broadway show to play the mother role in the Universal picture to be released in April.

A typical night class where foreign grown-ups are taught English is one of the settings from "We Americans" that makes it a gripping drama of our times.

CARL LAEMMLE, president of the Universal Pictures Corporation, after having recently made a general survey of picture prospects for the coming months and particularly of Universal's outlook, has just issued the following memorandum of instructions to the sales and other personnel of his organization:

"I have just completed a survey of current screen successes and prospective screen successes for the current season, and with reference to Universal, I want to point out that we have five releases which stand out head and shoulders as exceptional box-office pictures.

"They are 'The Cat and the Canary,' 'Les Miserables,' both already released, and 'The Cohens and Kellys in Paris,' 'We Americans,' and 'Finders Keepers,' yet to be released. The first two, by their remarkable runs in various leading theatres throughout the country, already have demonstrated their superiority. Of the other three, 'The Cohens and Kellys in Paris,' prints of which now are being rushed to exchanges, is hailed by all who have seen it as a worthy successor and an even better box-office picture than 'The Cohens and Kellys,' our clean-up picture of a season or so ago. 'Finders Keepers,' already shipped east, is in a class by itself as a laugh riot. 'We Americans,' which is nearing the cutting stage at Universal City, will be equally entertaining a picture. I have followed the production of this feature closely and have seen the rushes day by day. My candid judgment is that this picture will be another winner, with heart interest and general entertainment value that will make it stand out brightly in the year's galaxy of screen offerings.

"I wish I could make just five such pictures as the foregoing every year and then rest on my oars. Every one of them is destined to roll up amazing grosses for our exhibitor patrons. Two of them already are doing just this. I will stake my reputation as a judge of pictures, backed by many years of experience in this business, that the other three will do likewise."

"The Cat and the Canary", made by Paul Leni from the John Willard mystery play, with Laura La Plante at the head of a strong cast, was launched by Universal last fall. It was such a decided success that it immediately jumped into the super-film class and took its place as a record-breaker. It has consistently broken house records from Coast to Coast, on the basis of exhibitor reports in this country. On the strength of this picure he was entrusted with Universal's biggest offering for next season, "The Man Who Laughs."

"Les Miserables" is regarded as the surprise picture of the current season. It was made by the Societe des Cineromans in France and obtained by Carl Laemmle for release as a Universal Film de France. It was set into a Broadway house by Universal with some trepidation, but it astounded filmdom by being a complete sellout for days and days. It ran on Broadway for three months and rolled up amazing box-office totals. Its history since being

(Continued on page 40)

So This Is Coney Island!

Huge Set from "The Man Who Laughs" Reconstructs Playground of Queen Anne's Reign, Which Is Surprisingly Like Modern Amusement Park

OUT on the Universal lot stands the Coney Island of the 18th Century, and if ever an amusement park looked mad and gay and thrilling it is this huge set from "The Man Who Laughs," the picturization of Victor Hugo's famous novel. Southwark Fair is a wild confusion of side shows, merry-go-rounds, Ferris wheels, bearded ladies and five-legged cows. All the old laugh-getting attractions are there—the shouting ballyhooers, the white-washed clowns and the tumbling acrobats.

What is more, the set is so authentic that a band of fun-makers from the England of the period would feel quite at home if they could return. Paul Leni, who is directing the stupendous film version for Universal Pictures, has left no stone unturned to re-create a Southwark Fair for the screen that is an exact replica of the original.

From an old fan in the British Museum and which once belonged to a court lady it was learned that Ferris wheels were used in those days. The Ferris wheel is not nearly so high nor so big as the thrillers of Luna Park, but it is gaily painted, boats four seats, and actually rises and revolves as a couple of husky yokels turn the huge wheel that controls the pulley.

The merry-go-round of Southwark Fair looks like a fat, sturdy May pole painted in bright, crude colors and supporting the most fantastic little horses and baskets for the youngsters too small to mount the wooden steeds.

The side shows in the Southwark Fair scenes make Coney Island look anemic. A fire-proof man who inhales flame, a five-legged cow which was once a sacred animal, a manazee from Java, a spider woman with a human face and an insect body are just a few of the freaks of the fair. Nor has the showmanship of the circus changed since the days of Queen Anne. All these monsters are mysteriously hidden behind tents, outside which grotesque pictures of them are painted in bold strokes. The barkers must have been the same motley crew as those of our day, and they ballyhooed in the same boisterous manner.

The main attraction in the traveling show of "The Man Who Laughs" has an honored place in the courtyard of the Lancaster Inn. Big signs featuring Gymplaine, the laughing man and Dea, the beauteous blind maid (played by Conrad Veidt and Mary Philbin respectively) placard the walls of the inn. Hard benches and a crude stage lit with guttering footlights fairly reek of the gaudy atmosphere of the wandering circus. The clowns are masterpieces of their kind with chalk-white faces, scarlet mouths that stretch from ear to ear, and eyebrows that are black triangles of humor.

The Southwark Fair reproduced in Universal's screen version of "The Man Who Laughs" is as thrilling as anything covered by the admission fees at Luna Park.

Even the goods sold within the booths are authentic, and represent a collection of clothes, knick-knacks, luxuries and trifles that would do justice to the boardwalk clap trap of Coney Island. Quite obviously the good folk of merrie old England spent their hard-earned farthings even as you and I on a holidav.

The whole set is gorgeous hokum, classic have been chosen with the same faithful adherence to the period of Hugo's novel. The throng of people on the Southwark Fair grounds dress exactly as a sturdy, pleasure-loving lot of Britons would on such a festive occasion.

The whole set is gorgeous hokum the kind we all love and turn out to see every so often with all the enthusiasm of our first circus. It is rich in color, elaborate in detail and true in feeling. The building of the set has entailed months of research, thousands and thousands of dollars and the same masterful direction that has distinguished Leni's previous triumphs. The result is an achievement in filming that teems with the atmosphere of the Coney Island of merrie old England.

CARL LAEMMLE'S
22nd Anniversary
22

A Wesley Ruggles Production

with Johnny Harron, Edmund Breese, Arthur Rankin, Eddie Phillips.

If you've read the box-office report on the opposite page you'll get some conception of how Laura La Plante counts at the box-office and you'll also begin to realize that here Universal has been giving you the great screen comedienne in excellent pictures right along. That's Universal policy always and now we give you the very best picture Laura has ever made:

Carl Laemmle presents

LAURA LA PLANTE

in "Finders Keepers"

from the story by

MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

THE CAT AND THE CANARY: Laura La Plante—Another box-office winner plus the best in entertainment. Played it on a rainy day and night and did fairly well considering the weather. Promise plenty of mystery and thrills when you advertise this and they'll surely get everything and then some. Pleased all classes from the sixes to the sixties. Let's have some more like this.

Laura La Plante has been coming along by leaps and bounds and with this picture she has finally arrived.

—Ben Eskind, New Kentucky Theatre, Madisonville, Ky.

from
Herald and World,
January 14,
1928.

. . . Another Scintillating Lo

Laura La Plante

"FINDERS KEEPERS"

ey Ruggles Production
nny Harron, Edmund
Eddie Phillips, Arthur from Story by Mary Rhinehart.

a gem of purest ray sereme--a picture that is every foot box-office --a laugh special if ever there was one--whimsical, delightful--starring the screen's recognized great comedienne.

r Run Special from Universal

The Whole W

Laura La Plante has been coming so fast these past few months that she is now the recognized leading screen commediene—a sure money getter every picture, everywhere—the fans popular favorite with a huge personal following—and in her latest whimsical comedy, "FINDERS KEEPERS," she is a treat to the eye—the showman's delight!

Finders Keepers

Universal

The Tip-Off:—Should be a big box office attraction if properly publicized and advertised. It is an audience picture from every angle.

Slow starting picture with Laura La Plante, but motovates along nicely after the first reel. A capable cast handles the comedy situations very well with many laughs resulting. Titles are funny. Needs cutting for general release.

It's a war story with a lot of breezy action, capers by the capable Laura. Johnny Herron excellent as the fresh soldier and proves that a leading man role isn't all stuffed shirt and staycomb.

Edmund Breeze plays the role of Colonel as though he'd had some military experience, Edwards Deering excellent as the tough sargeant, and Arthur Rankin all right as Blondy. Well directed by Wesley Ruggles; screen play, Beatrice Van; titles, Tom Reed.

It will make you money.

from "Screen Showman"

MING WORLD, MONDAY, NOVEMBEI

REEL REVIEWS

By George Gerhard

FOR twenty or twenty-five minutes Laura La Plante, showing this week in "Silk Stockings" at the Colony, sits in a witness chair in a divorce court and goes through pantomime to outline to the Judge how cruel her husband has been to her during their married life. And, despite the length of the portrayal, she holds spectators in breathless interest with her every motion.

Certainly, this must be something in the nature of a record. We have many a pantomimist upon the screen, and a lot of them were pretty bad, but we never before have seen pantomime of such cleverly artistic execution carried out to such lengths. And, what's more, unless Miss La Plante chooses to enlarge upon her genius for mimicry we probably never will from "N. Y. Eve. World"

Laura La Plante is the In orld Agrees—

—exhibitors —newspapers —fans!

SILK STOCKINGS, starring Laura LaPlante (seven reels). Here's another hit with adorable Laura. Just like the rest and she sure clicks here. John Harron does good work in this. A very good comedy. Type, comedy.

C. H. Guillaume, State, Elkpoint, S. D.

from "Greate Amusements" dustry's Great Comedienne!

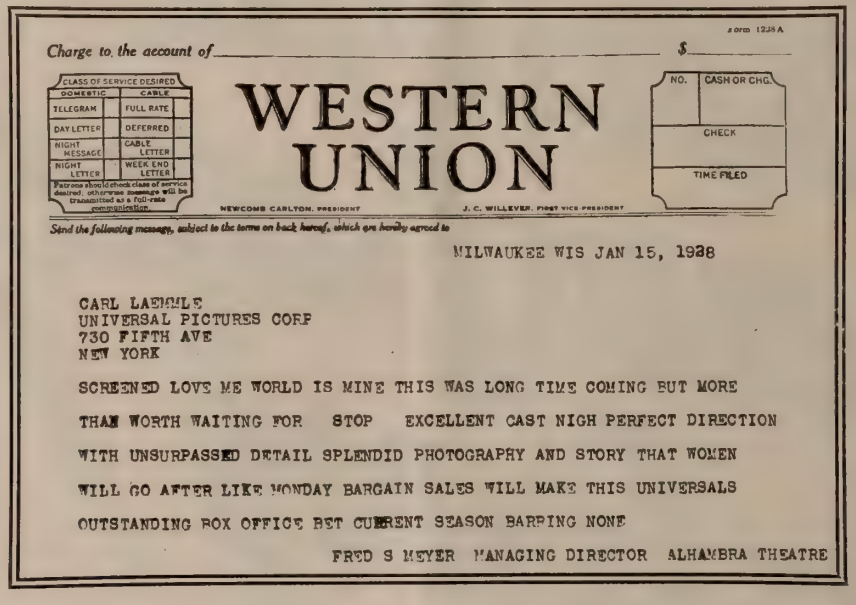
Paul Leni to Direct Another Big Thriller

PAUL LENI has been selected to direct the Universal screen adaptation of "The Last Warning," the famous mystery play by Thomas Fallon, which created a sensation on Broadway a season or so ago. Al Cohn is now preparing the script.

Leni received this assignment from Carl Laemmle because of his remarkable work with "The Cat and the Canary," another famous stage mystery, which, by reason of Leni's masterful technique, became one of 1927's greatest pictures. Since then, Leni also has put another mystery on the screen, "The Chinese Parrot," adapted from the Earl Derr Biggers novel.

More recently Leni has been engaged in the most important work now going on at Universal City—the direction of "The Man Who Laughs," from Victor Hugo's important offering for 1928. Leni is in the final week of camera work on this super, which is by far the most ambitious thing he ever attempted, and one of the outstanding Universal efforts.



Form 1238 A

Charge to the account of _____ $_____

CLASS OF SERVICE DESIRED

DOMESTIC	CABLE
TELEGRAM	FULL RATE
DAY LETTER	DEFERRED
NIGHT MESSAGE	CABLE LETTER
NIGHT LETTER	WEEK-END LETTER

Patrons should check class of service desired; otherwise message will be transmitted at a full-rate communication.

WESTERN UNION

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT J. C. WILLEVER, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

NO.	CASH OR CHG.
CHECK
TIME FILED

Send the following message, subject to the terms on back hereof, which are hereby agreed to

MILWAUKEE WIS JAN 15, 1928

CARL LAEMMLE
UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORP
730 FIFTH AVE
NEW YORK

SCREENED LOVE ME WORLD IS MINE THIS WAS LONG TIME COMING BUT MORE THAN WORTH WAITING FOR STOP EXCELLENT CAST NIGH PERFECT DIRECTION WITH UNSURPASSED DETAIL SPLENDID PHOTOGRAPHY AND STORY THAT WOMEN WILL GO AFTER LIKE MONDAY BARGAIN SALES WILL MAKE THIS UNIVERSALS OUTSTANDING BOX OFFICE BET CURRENT SEASON BARRING NONE

FRED S MEYER MANAGING DIRECTOR ALHAMBRA THEATRE

Fine Year's Record For Marian Nixon

MARIAN NIXON, whose current Universal picture, "The Four Flusher," was the attraction at the Colony Theatre last week, has completed an eventful year. She made eight pictures during 1927, an average of one every six and one-half weeks, the half week being her period of rest between. This is an unusual average for any featured player today, and one of which the charming Marian is justifiably proud.

Two of these pictures have been shown here, Paul Leni's production, "The Chinese Parrot," and now "The Four Flusher." The others, in the order in which they were made, include "Out All Night," with Reginald Denny; "Meet the Prince," with Glenn Tryon; "Thoroughbreds," with Richard Walling, George Siegmann and Otis Harlan; "Fallen Angels," which she recently completed with Norman Kerry, Pauline Stark and Kenneth Harlan, and she is now making "Cream of the Earth" under the direction of Mel Brown.

Joe Murphy, Star Of Andy Gump Films In N. Y. for Vacation

JOE MURPHY, who plays Andy in the Gumps Comedies, made by Sam Von Ronkle for Universal release, arrived in New York several days ago for a brief vacation. He recently completed his quota for two-reelers for the coming season.

In addition to his work in the Gump Comedies, Murphy was seen during the past season in a rare bit of characterization in "The Cat and the Canary." He will also be seen in a special role in "The Man Who Laughs."

While in New York, Murphy will make appearances in various theatres in connection with the showing of Gump Comedies.

"BODY PUNCH" NEW DIRECTOR'S FIRST FILM

SCREEN adaptation is under way at Universal on "The Body Punch," an original photoplay written by Harry O. Hoyt, which is to be the first directorial effort by Leigh Jason, recently signed by Universal, according to announcement by Carl Laemmle.

"The Body Punch" is a melodrama filled with suspense and thrilling action, the story being based on activities of the resin ring.

A prominent player is now under consideration for the leading role.

Mary Nolan Gets New "U" Contract

MARY NOLAN, former stage favorite, whose work in pictures during 1927 quickly stamped her as a coming star, has just received a new contract from Universal, extending her term of employment by the Carl Laemmle organization until January 31, 1929. Her former contract, taken over by Universal from Featured Productions, Inc., September 26th last, runs until February 1st.

Since joining the Universal forces, Miss Nolan has distinguished herself by her good work. She already has had important roles in two Universal pictures, "The Foreign Legion," Norman Kerry's latest feature, and in "Thoroughbreds."

Not only has Universal renewed her contract as the result of her good showing, but also has assigned her to play an important role opposite Conrad Veidt in that star's next big picture, "Grease Paint."

Lowe to Adapt Mann Page Story For Universal

EDWARD T. LOWE, JR., prominent screen writer, has been signed by Universal to do the adaptation and continuity of "Lonesome," the Mann Page story recently purchased by that company, according to an announcement from the Universal home office.

Additions to Casts At "U" City

STANLEY TAYLOR and Hugh Trevor have been added to the cast of "Cream of the Earth" at University City. This picture is being directed by Melville Brown from a story by Percy Marks, author of "The Plastic Age." Marian Nixon and Charles Rogers play the leading roles. Arthur Shadur is supervising the production.

Also, Kathlyn Williams and Edwin Martindel have been added to the cast of "We Americans," the Broadway stage success being screened under the direction of Edward Sloman.

Laura La Plante Proclaimed Screen's Leading Comedienne

Summaries and Predictions of Critics and Trade at End of Year Hand Laurels to Laura as Film's Funniest Female

ONE of the wisest New Year's resolutions that the moving picture world made with the dawn of 1928 was about our Laura La Plante. They resolved with a nice accord that she is the leading comedienne of the screen. The critics and the trade writers have a way, you know, of summing up the past year's performances and predicting bright things for the lucky stars of the future. They get their heads together and pin blue ribbons on this actor and throw a few brickbats at another poor wretch. They tell the public and the exhibitors to keep their eye on some young fellow who has the makings of a matinee idol or a box-office wow. And nine times out of ten they are right, these professionals who know their movie faces.

Laura La Plante in "Finders Keepers" refuses to be dragged back to the set by her director, Wesley Ruggles.

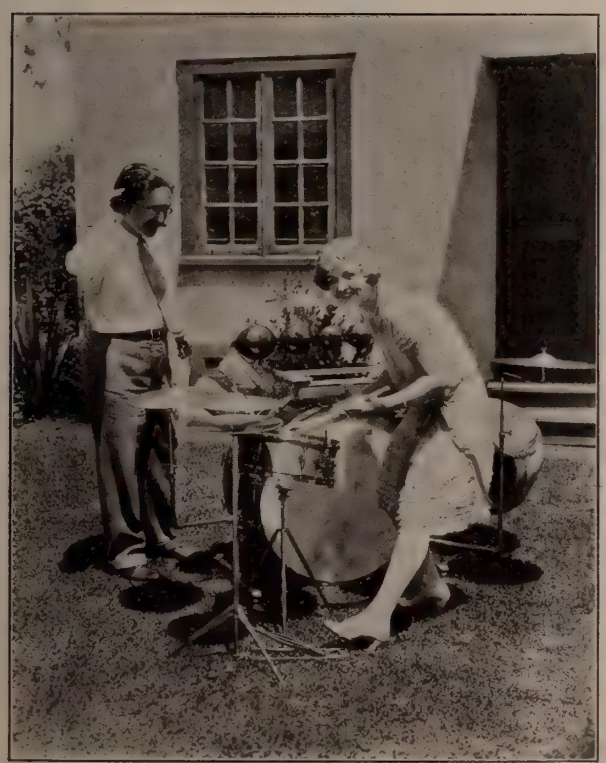
Never were they sounder than when they launched their opinion about Laura La Plante.

For Miss La Plante has something for which most movie actresses would surrender their permanent waves and sell their diamonds. Beauty is hers as it is theirs, but Laura has, in addition, that rare comedy sense that means bigger and better contracts and an ever-growing fan audience. Other actresses may register lovely profiles and sweet smiles through endless reels and get for their efforts the mild praise that Miss So-and-So looked as charming as ever and played adequately. No damning by faint praise for Laura! She doesn't need to depend on the fact that gentlemen still do prefer blondes on the silver screen, although her fair hair is as golden as the best of them. She refuses to be the stereotyped young thing who is the mere recipient of the hero's caresses. She simply has to, and does, walk away with the honors on her own grounds—that of a first-rate comedienne.

In "Silk Stockings," Universal's picture of young married love and jealousy, Miss La Plante makes a riot of the courtroom scene and imitates her husband with a drollery that is all too seldom seen on the screen.

She is not afraid to look ridiculous, distorted and even a bit ugly, if these expressions will put across the humor of the situation. In "Thanks for the Buggy Ride," which had its premiere at the Colony Theatre, New York, this week, Laura La Plante appears in one uproarous sequence in blackface make-up. Her next starring vehicle, to be released in Febrnary, "Finders Keepers," finds the young Laura masquerading as a buck private in a uniform several sizes too large for her and a helmet that is about as becoming as an inverted bowl would be. But all of these costumes only add to Miss La Plante's comedy charm. She has dimples, and knows how to use them. She has a keen sense of the ridiculous, and knows how to put it across to her film audience.

They knew what they were talking about, those gentlemen of the press who handed Laura the comedy laurels. Listen to your own theatreful next time one of her pictures is on the screen and count the laughs. They have spelt success for Laura La Plante, and they have just as direct a message for you.



Laura gives Universal's ace title writer, Walter Anthony, a jazz treat just to let off a little steam between shots.

UNIVERSAL'S 1928 WINNERS

JANUARY
2—Special Attraction, "SPURS and SADDLES" Art Acord.
9—Dog Series, "THE WOLF'S TRAIL" Dynamite, the Dog.
16—Super Jewel, "SURRENDER" Mosjoukine, Philbin.
23—Universal Jewel, "IRRESISTIBLE LOVER" Kerry, Lois Moran.
30—Denny Super, "ON YOUR TOES" Reginald Denny.

FEBRUARY
6—Special, "COLETTE THE UNWANTED" Andree Rolane.
6—Special Attraction, "STRAIGHT SHOOTIN'" Ted Wells.
13—Aviation Series, "SKY-HIGH SAUNDERS" Al Wilson.
20—Super Jewel, "SILK STOCKINGS" Laura La Plante.
27—Gibson Jewel, "GALLOPING FURY" Hoot Gibson.

MARCH
5—Special Attraction, "THE BORDER CAVALIER" Fred Humes.
12—Super Attraction, "THE HUNCHBACK OF OF NOTRE DAME" Lon Chaney.
12—Universal Jewel, "BACK TO GOD'S COUNTRY" Renee Adoree.
19—Super Jewel, "CHINESE PARROT" Leni Production.
26—DENNY SUPER PRODUCTION.
26—Dog Series, "THE CALL OF THE HEART" Dynamite, the Dog.

APRIL
2—A LAURA LA PLANTE SUPER.
9—Special Attraction, "DESERT DUST" Ted Wells.
16—Universal Jewel, "WILD BEAUTY" Rex and June Marlowe.
23—Gibson Jewel, "RAWHIDE KID" Hoot Gibson.
30—Aviation Series, "THREE MILES UP" Al Wilson.

MAY
7—Super Jewel, "A MAN'S PAST" Conrad Veidt.
14—Special Attraction, ONE GLORIOUS SCRAP" Fred Humes.
21—Gibson Jewel, "TRICK O' HEARTS" Hoot Gibson.
28—Universal Jewel, "THE SMALL BACHELOR" Barbara Kent.
28—Dog Series, "FOUR-FOOTED RANGER" Dynamite, the Dog.

JUNE
4—Super Jewel, "THE 13th JUROR" Francis X. Bushman.
11—Special Attraction, THE CLEAN-UP MAN" Ted Wells.
18—Universal Jewel, "COUNT OF TEN" Charles Ray.
25—Aviation Series, "PHANTOM FLYER" Al Wilson.

JULY
2—Super Special, "MEN OF DARING" All Star.
9—Special Attraction, "THE FEARLESS RIDER" Fred Humes.
16—Universal Jewel, THE MIDNIGHT ROSE" Lya de Putti.
23—Gibson Jewel, "THE WILD WEST SHOW" Hoot Gibson.
30—Dog Series, "FANGS OF DESTINY" Dynamite, the Dog.

AUGUST
6—Universal Jewel, "SHIELD OF HONOUR" Dorothy Gulliver.
13—Special Attraction, "THUNDER RIDERS" Ted Wells.
20—SUPER JEWEL (Title to Be Announced)
27—Aviation Series, "THE AIR PATROL" Al Wilson.

SEPTEMBER
3—SUPER JEWEL (Title to Be Announced)
10—Super Special, "THE PRINCE OF ADVENTURERS" Mosjoukine.
10—Special Attraction, "PUT 'EM UP" Fred Humes.
17—DENNY SUPER PRODUCTION.
24—Gibson Jewel, "THE SOCIETY COWBOY" Hoot Gibson.
24—Dog Series, "THE HOUND OF SILVER CREEK" Dynamite, the Dog.

OCTOBER
1—A LAURA LA PLANTE SUPER
8—Special Attraction, "MADE TO ORDER HERO" Ted Wells.
15—UNIVERSAL JEWEL (Title to Be Announced)
22—Super Special, "WAR HAWKS" All Star.
22—Super Special, "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" All Star.
22—Gibson Jewel, "RIDING FOR FAME" Hoot Gibson.
29—Universal Jewel, "BUCK PRIVATES"
29—Aviation Series, "WON IN THE CLOUDS" Al Wilson.

NOVEMBER
5—SUPER JEWEL (Title to Be Announced)
12—Special Attraction, "THE ARIZONA CYCLONE" Fred Humes.
19—DENNY SUPER PRODUCTION.
26—Universal Jewel, "THE COLLEGIANS IN BUSINESS." Collegian Cast.
26—Special Attraction, "GREASED LIGHTNING" Ted Wells.

DECEMBER
3—A LAURA LA PLANTE SUPER (Title to Be Announced)
10—UNIVERSAL JEWEL (Title to Be Announced)
17—Special Attraction, "QUICK TRIGGERS" Fred Humes.
17—Imperial, "SHOW BOAT" All Star.
24—GIBSON JEWEL (Title to Be Announced)
31—UNIVERSAL JEWEL (Title to Be Announced)

Distributed by EUROPEAN MOTION PICTURE CO. LTD. 167 Warren St., LONDON

3 Knockouts!

BOOK these 3 Big Serials NOW for 1928

Cash in on a knowledge in serial making that has been standing the test for years and years. Universal—the first company in the field—gives you the sure-fire material with old favorites and new sensations in the cast; stories with every element to bring your people back again and again. Serials that stand up week after week and bring the adults as well as children in to see them.

THE VANISHING RIDER

starring William DESMOND

It has the power

with Ethylne Clair
From the Story by William Lord Wright
Directed by Ray Taylor

Adults and childr

The SCARLET ARROW

starring Jack Daugherty

Thrills in every r

with Helen Foster
From the novel by Frank R. Adams
Directed by Robert F. Hill

These

of — — — tell the world to bring them back again and again!

n will glory in it—

The HAUNTED ISLAND

starring Francis X. Bushman Jr.

with Hazel Keener
From the Story by Howard Clark
Directed by Ray Taylor

e—action and love

Universal serials have the stuff that money is made
You've got them and the world belongs to you!

London's two —known and loved wherever English is spoken. The story that caused a war. London's £600,000 sensation. Two and a half years in the making. A cast of thousands.

PACKING them in daily at the beautiful LONDON PAVILION, despite the worst showman's weather in fifty years. Nothing can stop this box-office marvel. The press is wild about it. The public crams in to see it. All England has heard about it, and wants to see it. Be the first to book this spectacular masterpiece—the first to reap the tremendous profit harvest.

Released October 22, 1928

EUROPEAN is giving y

Miracle Hits!

THE surprise picture of the year. An instant and amazing success. Standing them up—turning them away at the Rialto, Piccadilly Circus, four times a day. If you doubt it, try to get in! Never before has a production excited such enthusiastic and wide-spread comment. The trade is clamoring for it. Get YOUR bookings in early!

Released December 10, 1928

The story of the world's most passionate lover—a man who loved all beautiful women and whom all beautiful women loved. 10,000 in the cast. Scenes resplendent with beautiful colouring. Gorgeous sets.

ou the big ones AGAIN!

Notice!

To all exhib been playing 'Th

We have ready for you now a new series of cessor to those greatest of all two reelers had The Collegians you had the people keep them coming. This is how you can do Collegians" tell your patrons that you've something equally as good as "The Colle Post author writing especially for Univers where to everybody as one of the great name and the whole world laughs—they ning Post stories—they appreciate his fore the public by plugging his comedies in CHARLIE PUFFY 2 REELERS made for them to follow Carl Laemmle Jr's "The C itors who have e Collegians'

Starring
GEORGE LEWIS with Dorothy Gulliver, Eddie Phillips, Hayden Stevenson, Churchill Ross.

two reel comedies that are a natural suc-
Carl Laemmle Jr's The Collegians. If you coming back for more and you'd like to it: Starting with the last two or three "The got something new coming—tell them it's gians"—tell them it's a Saturday Evening l—Octavus Roy Cohen—known every-umorists of our time—just mention his remember with glee his Saturday Eve-rand of humor—so keep his name be-advance—OCTAVUS ROY COHEN—laughter—6 of them in the series—Buy llegians!"

Eliza crossing the ice was used as the exciting motif of this huge 230 sheet hand painted poster on the London Pavilion. The signs is 48½ ft. by 28ft., and was painted by the John de Frene Studios in London.

"PRINCE OF ADVENTURERS" TAKES LONDON BY STORM

Broke All Previous Records For Rialto Theatre Premieres

WHEN European Motion Pictures signed up "Prince of Adventurers" for a British run many months ago, they anticipated that the film would be one of the greatest sensations ever presented on the screen. But they were wrong. Instead of being one of the greatest, "Prince of Adventurers" has proved itself in the first two weeks at the Rialto, London, the finest spectacular production of all time, earning praise and enthusiasm of which no one had ever dreamed. Opening on Tuesday night, December 27th, in a house which has seen so many sensational premieres with the European Motion Picture Company, "Prince of Adventurers" broke all records for the theatre.

For the first time in the history of the kinema, queues commenced to line up for the first performance of the picture before nine o'clock in the morning and within twenty minutes of opening at twelve o'clock the house was packed to the doors. There was not an inch of standing room to spare, and crowds who queued up and poured round the theatre long after the show had started had to be turned away.

If the theatre had seated twice as many it would have been filled and many would have still been turned away. In spite of the fact that it was holiday time this was a record for any theatre in London.

And it has not stopped at that. At each and every performance during the first two weeks there has been a repetition of those first night scenes —House packed. Standing room capacity taken—crowds turned away.

The enthusiasm over "Prince of Adventurers" is terrific. It is extraordinary, phenomenal. Never has London seen such extraordinary scenes, such tremendous enthusiasm. They come in crowds, and they keep on coming. And the pressure has not abated. "Prince of Adventurers" is undoubtedly the showman's greatest box-office guarantee ever supplied by France. "Michael Strogoff" has had a wonderful career, but "Prince of Adventurers" is predicted to go one better, marvellous as "Strogoff" has proved.

Horace Shepherd, who has an excellent reputation in English musical circles, and who proposed and arranged the original score for "Prince of Adventurers," has been personally conducting the orchestra from the opening night, and the music score came in for almost as much appreciation as the film.

J. V. Bryson has gone the limit in putting over "Prince of Adventurers." For several weeks experts have been busy erecting a new organ in the cinema in preparation for the "Prince of Adventurers." A new Panatrope device was installed, and on the first night these were heard for the first time together with a greatly enlarged orchestra.

"Prince of Adventurers" is smashing records every day at the Rialto at perhaps the most unfavorable time of the year. Rialto and European are looking forward to Ivan Mosjoukine's great masterpiece staying for a record season of many months.

The press comments bear out the testimony of broken house records.

News of the World:

"'Prince of Adventurers' a wonderful film spectacle, brilliantly produced in colour."

People:

"'Prince of Adventurers.' This is one of the most remarkable and most spectacular films of the year, containing some exceptionally beautiful shots of ancient Venice."

Illus. Sunday Graphic:
"The scenes and costumes are so lavish that they have to be seen to be believed. From an artistic point of view I doubt if this film has ever been equalled."

Weekly Dispatch:
"For spectacle and fine acting see 'Prince of Adventurers.'"

Daily Express:
" . . . is a most beautiful film, full of glowing pictures, some of the grandest of which are in natural colour."

Lloyds Weekly News:
"As a spectacle this film is beyond praise. Some of the settings are amazingly beautiful, and in addition the merely scenic element is never permitted to overshadow the acting. Mosjoukine, for example, is at his most versatile and brilliant."

Daily Mail:
"Perhaps the most truly festive film commencing its first run . . . is the 'Prince of Adventurers,' a romantic version of the life of that astonishing scoundrel, Casanova. The film is sometimes funny, sometimes an impressive pageant, always colourful and interesting, with its picturesque intrigue in eighteenth-century Venice and Russia, and the queer, clever Mosjoukine with his slanting eye as the elegant and naughty hero."

Sunday News:
"Probably the film the most worth seeing in London this week is the Casanova film."

Weekly Dispatch:
"Do not miss 'Prince of Adventurers'—lavish and lovely."

Reynold's Illus. News:
"M. Volkoff, the producer, has reason to be proud of his work, for the picture is one of the best of recent films and the colour photography is superb."

Evening Standard:
"Here's a gay picture-book of mediæval times, some of the pages in colour, too. 'The Prince of Adventurers' is spacious, rhythmic and satisfying, at once spectacular and delicate as the old Russian ballet."

Sunday Express:
"'Prince of Adventurers' is gorgeously costumed and gloriously scenic."

This arresting sign drew crowds to the London Pavilion because a banjo, amplified by eight loud speakers, made the sign vocal.

Giant Animated Sign On London Pavilion For "Uncle Tom"

A MILLION brilliant lights that flash and scintillate in Piccadilly, the throbbing heart of London, owe their ascendency to illuminated sign-manufacturers.

Into this firmament of irridescent, scientific stars there has quite recently come a new planet unknown to London's metaphorical astronomers who know the dear old Circus so well.

This is perhaps the most original and striking sign in the world and is causing huge crowds to gaze in open-mouthed wonderment at the grey old front of the London Pavilion, the traditional centre of the world.

It is just another way of telling the world that "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is to be seen within and there is no doubt that this sign ranks among the greatest that New York, Paris or Berlin, or in fact any other city, can show.

Designed and devised by John de Frene and erected by the Strand Interchangeable Signs, this huge advertisement measures 42 ft. in length, 25 ft. deep and spreads right across the theatre front. Over 380 lamps are used, but so ingenious is the lighting arrangement that current costs but 9/- an hour.

It is not, however, the sign itself which is attracting such enormous crowds. Singling it out from any other sign within the vicinity, a banjo is playing, amplified by eight loud speakers operated through the Panatrope arrangement. This, of course, is concealed behind the sign and broadcast music fills the Circus as it were from the screen to the banjo. It is interesting to note that no more scientifically advanced instrument than the ordinary gramophone record is responsible for this.

The sign itself consists of the homely figures of "Uncle Tom" and "Aunt Chloe" in the homely attitude of "The old folks at home" cut out inside the banjo. This pleasant little scene is set in a background of negro dancing scenes, flooded by three huge arc-lights.

The theatre side is decorated by one of the most striking paintings in town, depicting Eliza's sensational escape across the ice closely followed by bloodhounds and slavers. Measuring 48 ft. by 28 ft., this painting is surrounded by a mass of coloured lights which give very toneful and artistic effects.

The laurels for putting over "Uncle Tom" surely go to the European Motion Picture Company and must as surely go down in the annals of exploitation history as one of the biggest stunts ever known, marked by bright lights and blocked pavements.

"On Your Toes" Is Vivid Fight Film

C. A. W. in the Cinema predicts a good run for "On Your Toes" and calls it an excellent all-round portrayal:

"Lovers of a clean, fast-moving sporting picture, dexterously balanced by insets of boisterous comedy, will enjoy themselves with this one. The theme is familiar, dealing with a poetic sort of 'softie,' who fights his way up to the championship crown, but its dramatic twists and general development are exclusively its own. The whole thing turns upon the fact that Kane Hallidav is the son of the now dead Kid Roberts, undefeated world's champion, but Kane is unaware that his fistic talent is inherited—he thinks he is just an unsuccessful professor of ballroom dancing.

"How he is coerced into a boxing career, and how he finally gets a match with the champion bring down the curtain on what is one of the most realistic-any-staged and gruelling screen contests in our recollection."

play them

STERN BROS.

13 "MIKE AND IKE" Com edies from Rube Gold berg's famous newspaper ca toons syndicated by hundreds newspapers.

13 "BUSTER BROWN"—Bu you all know R. F. Ou cault's mischievous kid and h gang—including the dog, Tig

Universal Shorts are

and the World is Yours!

PRODUCTIONS

13 "LET GEORGE DO IT!" Comedies by the same George McManus who does "THE NEWLYWEDS" (SNOOKUMS) —syndicated far and wide.

13 "KEEPING UP WITH THE JONESES" Comedies from the famous comic strip by "Pop" Momad, known in every nook and corner of the land.

6 OCTAVUS ROY COHEN —Charlie Puffy 2 Reelers written especially for Universal by the famous Saturday Evening Post humorist.

26 "OSWALD, The Lucky Rabbit," SENSATIONAL cartoon hit created by Walt Disney-Winkler Productions.

12 "GUMPS!" From Sidney Smith's famous comic strip. Samuel Van Ronkel Productions. Tremendous newspaper tie-up.

First Run Class

"THE LONE EAGLE"

Universal-Jewel Production

Starring RAYMOND KEANE

BILLY HOLMES, a lieutenant in the U. S. Aviation Corps, is assigned to a unit of the Royal Flying Corps that is seeing almost constant action over the western front. On a visit to a neighboring village, Billy meets Mimi, a charming French girl who worships aviators. In order to impress her, he tells Mimi he is an ace.

Raymond Keane

During a skirmish with the German planes, Red McGibbon, an ace and close friend of Billy's, is killed in bringing down the younger brother of Lebrun, the leader of the Hun forces. Lebrun drops a challenge over the allied headquarters for an air duel to avenge his brother's death. Billy confesses to Mimi that he is not an ace, but resolves to volunteer to answer Lebrun's challenge.

An exciting air fight follows in which the first allied aviator is killed. Billy tries his luck but his plane comes down in flames. Another flyer goes after Lebrun. He also falls. Billy, who miraculously escaped injury, takes another plane and this time brings Lebrun to the ground. After the Armistice Holmes returns to America with Mimi, his bride.

"SMILING WOLF"

Two-Reel Featurette

Starring FRED GILMAN

PREACHING Joe Parker, an evangelist accompanied by his daughter, Peace, gets stuck in the sand as his covered wagon moves over the prairie. Mel Craven, a disreputable character, offers to pull the wagon out in exchange for a kiss. His offer is refused but Craven tries to collect. He is knocked out by "Smiling" Wolf, a Texas Ranger who sees the affair. Preaching Joe quotes the Bible to his daughter's rescuer and deplores his violence, but Peace admires the battling Texan. Later the preacher leads a raid on the local saloon. John Steward, the owner of the place fears that the raiders will find the loot stolen from the Eagle mine and instructs his men to hide it in a better place. The ranger overhears all this but they knock him out while they carry out the loot. Craven makes off with the loot in the preacher's wagon, forcing the girl to go with him. The ranger gets loose and takes to horse, pursuing and subduing Craven. Preacher Joe performs the marriage service for the lovers.

"OSWALD THE LUCKY RABBIT"

In The Ocean Hop

Oswald Cartoon by WALT DISNEY

OSWALD decides to compete for the $25,000 prize for a trans-Atlantic hop and arrives on a "dark horse" at the starting field. His rival wrecks Oswald's machine, but nothing daunted, Oswald solicits the help of an accommodating dachshund and gets off to a wonderful start. Oswald's rival juggles the signs and Oswald goes so many miles off his course that the poor dachshund collapses just as they near their goal. Quick-witted Oswald finished the journey in a parachute, and collects the prize money amidst much applausse from the reception committee.

"CLEARING THE TRAIL"

Two-Reel Featurette

With NEWTON HOUSE

FRANK COLTON was a pony express rider on the Grand Spring circuit. His young brother, Billy, tended stock at Grand Spring and spent all his spare time trying to persuade "Pop" Jones, boss of the station, that he could qualify as an express rider.

As Frank is riding into the station he sees some settlers camped by the stream and stops to warn them of prowling Indians. Arriving in Grand Spring he finds Billy all agog because "Pop" has said he could ride with Frank to his next station.

Luke Slade, a renegade, with a price on his head, bribes the Indians in a neighboring camp to plunder wagon trains. He knows Frank is due and disburses some Indians to waylay him while he leads another group to get the settlers, whom they have spied at the stream.

Frank and Billy are only a few miles on their way when they are suddenly attacked by the Indians. Frank manages to give Billy the mail pouch with hasty instructions to ride back to the stockade. When the Indians discover Frank hasn't the mail they start out after Billy who manages, by quick thinking and doubling on his trail, to elude them. He leaves his horse at a little distance, steals through the woods and frees Frank; at Frank's suggestion Billy rides pell mell to warn the settlers while Frank returns to the stockade.

Billy hardly has time to reach the settlers before the Indians are upon them. A fierce fight ensues in which Billy's sure aim brings down Luke Slade.

A very proud Billy leads the settlers in safety to the station where "Pop" Jones not only gives the reward but also a commission as Pony Express rider.

Universal

"THE CHINESE PARROT"

Universal-Jewel Production

With AN ALL-STAR CAST

SALLY RANDALL, daughter of a rich Hawaiian planter, marries Philmore, the man of her father's choice, thereby jilting her lover Madden. Tearing from her throat the priceless pearls that are her father's wedding gift, Madden declares that one day he will buy her at the same price.

Twenty years later, Mrs. Philmore, now a widow, is forced to sell the pearls in San Francisco. The purchaser, by chance, turns out to be Madden, now a millionaire. Madden insists that Mrs. Philmore, accompanied by her daughter Sally, deliver the pearls to his desert hacienda the next day.

Madden is imprisoned by some thugs in his own house. Delaney who looks very much like Madden, impersonates him when Sally and Jack Eden, son of the jeweler through whom the sale is made, arrive. Chang, the Chinese detective in charge of the pearls, has already hired himself in Madden's household as a cook.

While at dinner, the parrot yells, "Help! I'm being murdered." Chang talks to the bird in Chinese with no avail. Jack demands the pearls from Chang and is about to deliver them to Delaney when an interruption occurs. Jack puts them under a newspaper only to find a moment later that they are gone. Much excitement reigns but finally, the parrot tells all, Madden is released, the crooks captured, Mrs. Philmore and Madden reconciled, and Jack and Sally united.

"THE LOVE WALLOP"

Universal Snappy Comedy

Featuring ARTHUR LAKE

ARTHUR starts out in his Ford with little sister to join the best girl and his rival at the circus. Unfortunately he bumps into the Bozo Brothers. Both cars are decidedly the worse for the encounter.

Arthur escapes on the run. As he stands on the corner wondering what next, a passing shopper entrusts him with her baby. In due course Arthur deposits his unwelcome charge in an empty baby carriage and proceeds to the circus. On arriving he is unceremoniously pushed into the prize ring to down none other than one of the Bozo Brothers. Just as the fighter is about to annihilate Arthur, he is hit on the head by a flying missle. Arthur gets credit for knocking him out, also the prize money and a kiss from "Sweetie" who has been sitting on the side lines.

Synopses

"OCEAN BRUISES"

Universal Gump Comedy

Featuring JOE MURPHY and FAY TINCHER

Joe Murphy as Andy

ANDY is dismayed by a telegram announcing mother-in-law's arrival for a six months' visit. To escape he immediately tells Min that business demands a trip to foreign parts. While they are hurriedly packing, mother-in-law rings the door bell. Before Min can answer the bell Andy dashes around the house and kidnaps Ma. He locks her in the closet and the packing is continued. In her efforts to get out, Ma breaks the lock and is catapulted into the half-filled trunk. Andy and Min, returning with arms full of clothes, fail to see her, and not until they begin to unpack on the steamer is Ma discovered. Andy thought he had his share of trouble getting to the steamer, but it didn't compare with what happened when Ma regained her freedom.

Fay Tincher as Min

"SAMSON AT CALFORD"

Two-Reel Junior Jewel Production

"Collegians" Series

Starring GEORGE LEWIS

THE snow fighters of Calford practice for the annual battle with a rival college. They throw the snowballs so accurately that one of them beans the constable and another breaks a window in the church. The constable demands that they pay for the window or go to jail. They agree to pay out of the proceeds of the annual show which is to be presented that night by the winning school. The constable gives them until midnight to pay.

Calford wins and rehearses for "Samson and Delilah." They induce the bewhiskered Dean to play the role of Samson while Ed Benson appears as Delilah, much to the jealous discomfort of Don Trent, who had picked himself out for the limelight. Ed goes through the first act that night but is shanghaied by Trent's henchmen at the end of the act and tied hand and foot while Trent, in Ed's costume, goes on in the shearing scene and cuts off the dean's whiskers.

The rival school who had to pay admission are disgusted with the show until Ed gets loose and stages a fist fight in which he knocks out Trent. The boys are about to take the cash box and go home when the constable enters and takes charge of all the money to pay for the window.

"A SCRAMBLED HONEYMOON"

"Harold Highbrow" Series

HAROLD, the cub reporter, and Betty Moore, his sweetheart, are doing cross-word puzzles, when Betty's father, owner of the Sap Center Clarion arrives. He is enraged at Harold and sends Betty home.

Moore tells Harold the circulation of the Clarion must be enlarged and Harold sallies forth in quest of some village scandal for the front page. As he goes up the street he comes upon Alma Sherman, an actress, called "The Female Hercules," who has just given the village sheik a good beating for being fresh with her. Harold finds her watch on the sidewalk and returns it. Miss Sherman invites him to call upon her at the hotel.

When he arrives at the hotel, Harold inadvertently goes into the wrong room, much to the chagrin of the charming bride who is its occupant. Fearing her husband, who is due at any moment, will make a wreck of Harold, she pushes him into the bathroom and when husband arrives he is busily playing plumber. Unfortunately for Harold the real plumber soon arrives and trouble follows.

Things look bad for Harold until "The Female Hercules" comes to his rescue. Friend husband transfers his blows to the real plumber who proves to be a burglar. At last Harold all unwittingly has unearthed a front-page story for his paper.

"ON DECK"

Two-Reel Stern Bros. Comedy

"Let George Do It" Series

ENSIGN HARRY is George's rival in love and the moment's favorite. To satisfy the girl's craving for naval heroes George masquerades as a sailor and goes to call on her. On his way he encounters a marching squad of sailors and is compelled to go with them. The first man he sees on the ship is the ensign, who decides to do him dirt. The ensign tells him he is now in the navy and orders him to swab the deck. George is persecuted by his superior and hazed by the sailors. It takes him all night to get into his hammock and the moment he gets to sleep they wake him for roll call. After many sad mishaps his luck changes and he gets a rise out of the woman of his heart.

"SKY HIGH SAUNDERS"

Universal Thrill Feature

Starring AL WILSON

Al Wilson

SKY High Saunders, while looking for his twin brother Michael, whom his family believes lost in combat in France, discovers a gang of smugglers who use aeroplanes to carry on their operations. Delatour, the leader of the smugglers, is in love with Helen Leland, a school teacher, whom Sky High saves from his unwelcome attention. A fight between the two men follows and Delatour is knocked out. He is astounded at being attacked by one of his own men, for he has mistaken Sky High for Michael. Later at the rendezvous Delatour goes after Michael with killing intentions, and Mike has all he can do to convince the chief that he has been around the camp all day. His alibi is borne out by the other men and Delatour is forced to believe that he has been "seeing things."

On the trail of the smugglers, Sky High runs to earth a plane that he has shot down and discovers that the pilot who dies in his arms is his twin brother. He then goes to the rendezvous disguised as Michael and learns about a big job which is soon to be pulled. He sends an S. O. S. and is reinforced by army planes who blow up the mountain stronghold and wipe out the band of cut throats, while he deals with Delatour in a fistic duel on the wing of a plane thousands of feet above the jagged peaks. They land safely and the story ends with Sky High and Helen in each other's arms.

"OH, MABEL"

Two-Reel Stern Bros. Comedy

"Mike and Ike" Series

MIKE HOBNAIL, a lawyer, receives a call from a woman who gives her name as Mabel. His wife gets jealous and will not accept the explanation that Mabel meant to phone his brother Ike. Mabel gets Ike on the phone and tries to blackmail him with a breach of promise threat. Ike runs to Mike for help and Mike agrees to take the case. On his way to the office Mike's car runs into Mabel's. She claims damages and he takes her to the office. The jealous wife comes in and Mike is forced to settle with the vamp for a large sum to get rid of her before the hair pulling starts.

In the interest of his brother Ike, he calls at Mabel's apartment. His wife follows, concealing herself in the room. Mike makes love to the girl and has a hard time proving that he did it to save his brother.

Julius Stern Goes to Coast to Launch Comedy Production for Coming Season

Increased Budget for Next Year Insures Even Better Stern Brothers Product

JULIUS STERN, president of the Stern Film Corporation, makers of Stern Brothers Comedies, left New York for Hollywood early this week, accompanied by his studio chief, Sigmund Newfield, to launch the greatest production season in the history of the comedy organization. Scoffing at the so-called "epidemic" of studio shut-downs, Stern states that instead of shutting down, the Stern Brothers plant is due to be the busiest lot in Hollywood.

It is the comedy chief's intention to increase the number of companies now working at the Stern studio. Within a few weeks there will be at least five companies busy on pictures for the 1928-29 season. With the exception of a small number of pictures yet to be made for the current season, the Sterns are all clear for a concentrated drive on next year's comedies. They expect to have a surprising percentage of 1928-29 comedies completed before the beginning of the new selling season.

Sigmund Newfield, general manager of the Stern studio, came East after the holidays to confer with Julius Stern and with Universal executives and sales chiefs on the new Stern product. As a result of these conferences, the Sterns are to increase their production budget materially. Although no figures have been announced, it is understood that next year's comedy production at the Stern lot will mount to a figure very close to $1,000,000.

No increase in the number of pictures is contemplated, which means that the full value of increased production costs will go into picture improvement. There will be a decided increase in production value in all of the Stern product. Every series will get the benefit of better scripts, better casts, better sets and more care in direction and technique.

"The Newlyweds and Their Baby" comedies, the special Stern Brothers series made for Universal Junior Jewel release, will, of course, come in for an important share of the contemplated production betterment.

"We have had very encouraging results with these comedies, featuring Snookums, our baby star," said Stern, commenting upon his plans. When you consider the fact that six of his current series of twelve have played in the big Roxy Theatre; that three others have played in the Capital, New York, and still others in the Colony or some other Broadway house, you will realize why we are willing to go the limit in making these two-reelers. In fact, we are going to make them so they will be without peer in the short subject field. We have engaged new writers, new technicians and installed new studio facilities. On top of all this, the baby himself now is a regular little trouper. If you don't think that a baby can really act and feign emotions, go and see some of the recent Newlywed comedies. And he is getting better every day.

"Although I may have some surprising news concerning our plans for 1928-29 to be announced within a few weeks, I am not prepared to go into details at this time, except to state that the present popular line-up of Stern Brothers comedies probably will be continued. These series include the 'Let George Do It' comedies, with Sid Saylor, adapted from the George McManus cartoons; the 'Mike and Ike' (They Look Alike) comedies, with Charles King and Charles Dorety, adapted from Rube Goldberg's famous cartoon; the 'Keeping Up With the Joneses' comedies, adapted from the Pop Momand cartoons, and the Buster Brown comedies, adapted from the R. F. Outcault funny strips.

"The comedies are clicking all over the country and in Europe. While my brother, Mr. Abe Stern, remained at the studio, I have been making a survey of comedy conditions, both in the United States and abroad. I have talked with hundreds of exhibitors, American, British, German, French and others. I find it the general consensus of opinion that the public wants good, clean, wholesome comedy, and that's exactly what we have been making. We have been particularly careful to keep our comedies clean. The good will and appreciation of the public has shown in better representation and greater popularity.

"We are encouraged to go out and break our own records for the coming year. That's why we are off to a quick start. We are too busy to lay-off. We mean to have plenty of next year's comedies on hand so that exhibitors will be able to see them for themselves when they get ready to plan their 1928-29 programs. We are not afraid of a 'look-before-you-book' policy. We welcome it. It has increased our business in the past and we are going to take advantage of it in the future.

"We have the most complete comedy studio in the world, we have a great line-up of comedy material, we have popular stars and we have top-notch directors, writers and technicians. You can't hold a better hand than that. We are going to back that hand to the limit."

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fleckles will accompany the comedy chief to California. Sam Newfield, who directs the "Let George Do It" comedies, and who came East with Sigmund Newfield, his brother, left New York last week to hurry back to the studio.

With the arrival of Julius Stern and Sigmund Newfield at the Hollywood studio, the triumvirate which guides the destinies of Stern productions will be assembled. Abe Stern, vice-president and treasurer of the comedy corporation, already is at the studio. The three will give their entire attention to production during the coming months.

BOX OFFICE WINNERS FOR 22ND ANNIVERSARY

(Continued from page 16)

generally released has been a similar one according to authentic box-office reports. The public, contrary to expectation in some quarters, is eager to see the famous Victor Hugo novel in screen form.

"The Cohens and Kellys," which was a sequel to the perennial favorite, 'The Cohens and Kellys,' which was the surprise picture of the year several seasons ago, when Universal launched it. Made by William Beaudine with such stars as George Sidney and J. Farrel MacDonald, and with Vera Gordon, Kate Price and Gertrude Astor, among the principals, it has all the laugh ingredients of "The Cohens and Kellys" and more.

"Finders Keepers," is Laura La Plante's latest feature comedy. It was directed by Wesley Ruggles from the famous Mary Roberts Rinehart's magazine story of training camp life in the early days of the war. The picture has just been received in the East and is hailed by officials and executives at the Universal home office as the best and funniest picture Miss La Plante has ever made.

"We Americans" is being made at Universal City from the Broadway stage success by Milton Gropper and Max Siegel. Edward Sloman is directing it under the supervision of Carl Laemmle Jr. The cast is headed by George Sidney, with such support as George Lewis, Patsy Ruth Miller, Eddie Phillips, Beryl Mercer and Albert Gran. Reports from Universal City indicate that it will be a sensation, because of the rare combination of its audience appeal and its comedy.

Like Handing You Money on a Silver Platter—

"Not many film companies these days are doing what your company is doing for the good of this business and for the small theatre owners.

"We are using your Complete Service Contracts now and feel that they are a great help. In fact, they are the difference between loss and profit in one of the houses."

—M. R. Blair,
Mgr. Iowa Theatres Co.
Cedar Falls, Iowa.

that's

Universal's

COMPLETE SERVICE CONTRACT

COLUMN RIGHT!

Column RIGHT where you need it when it will do the most good—in The Saturday Evening Post where it is seen and read weekly by more than 15,000,000 people . . . the publication that sways public opinion your way!

the column at the right will appear in The Saturday Evening Post of Feb. 11th 1928.

Watch This Column
Our Weekly Chat

"The Man Who Laughs" with CONRAD VEIDT

In producing Victor Hugo's "The Man Who Laughs," I was attracted first by the fame of the author —second by the glamour of a royal court —its ceremonious pomp, intrigues and many love affairs—third by the extraordinary talent the characters called for.

Moreover I saw in it a play that would be even more interesting and thrilling than "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," which proved one of the great successes of screen history.

"Magnificent extravagances" were necessary on our part to produce it properly. It was essential, too, that I find a man of most unusual capability to act the trying leading role. I found him in CONRAD VEIDT and in this chat I desire to pay a personal tribute to him for the remarkable work he has done.

He is ably assisted by an excellent cast including charming MARY PHILBIN and GEORGE SIEGMANN under the direction of Paul Leni. Watch for and be sure to see "The Man Who Laughs" when it plays your city.

Meantime see Universal's thrilling picturization of "Uncle Tom's Cabin"—not the play you have seen on the stage but a profoundly beautiful spectacle which cost us nearly two million dollars and two years to make. I mention the cost to show you the pretentious character of the picture.

Good pictures deserve good titles and I would like your title suggestions for several pictures I am now producing. I will pay $50 for any title accepted, and if more than one suggests the same title, they will receive the same amount. Write to me at once for synopses of these pictures. Suggested titles must reach me by March 1, 1928.

Carl Laemmle
President

(To be continued next week)

Send 10c for autographed photograph of your favorite Universal star

If you want to be on our mailing list send in your name and address

UNIVERSAL PICTURES
730 Fifth Ave., New York City

UNIV[illegible]EEKLY
VOL. 27
NO. 1
FEB. 11, 1928

BRITISH EDITION

CARL LAEMMLE presents

It's a UNIVERSAL

"The COHENS and KELLYS in PARIS"

STARRING

GEORGE SIDNEY — J. FARRELL MAC DONALD with VERA GORDON and KATE PRICE

A WILLIAM BEAUDINE PRODUCTION

MORE BOOSTS

FROM REVIEWERS THAN ANY PICTURE OF THE PAST TWO YEARS!

THEY raved about it—one paper after another—in one city after another where the picture showed. And the reports of exhibitors to the trade papers had nothing but praise for its quality and nothing but jubilation for the amazing roll of profits that began to pile up in every house from the first showing on. Half-week theatres held it for a full week. Week houses held it for two. Long run houses are still running it. Get it for your house. Get it and reap, gentlemen!

VICTOR HUGO'S

Les Miserables

A UNIVERSAL FILM
DE FRANCE TRIUMPH
Presented by CARL LAEMMLE

"The LIBERTY stepped to the fore with "LES MISERABLES" an did such a big week's business that it was decided to hold the picture a second week, a practice which is rare at the LIBERTY."—Kansas City exhibitor's report.

DATE IT AHEAD--
ADVERTISE IT AHEAD--

And tell them you're getting the funniest series of mirth-provoking comedies they've seen in many a day—the logical successor to those sure-fire Collegians.

OCTAVUS ROY COHEN'S [PLAY UP THE NAME]

CHARLIE PUFFY COMEDIES

6 TWO REELERS

UNIVERSAL

6 Big Weeks at the RIALTO

SURRENDER

MARY PHILBIN AND IVAN MOSJOUKINE

that's boost enough for any picture

A UNIVERSAL SUPER JEWEL
Released January 16, 1928

SIX weeks bucking the terrific opposition of London's theatre-filled West End. Six weeks of phenomenal business with competition all around it. It takes a Special to do that — and "Surrender" is a special every way you look at it. A clean-up everywhere it's played. That's the kind of picture for your cinema.

Another EUROPEAN Big One!

YOU know what DENNY did for you in "The Leather Pushers" — as fighting, smiling Kid Roberts. Well, here's the same Denny again. Back in the same kind of a role that made him famous. Oh, Boy. How he fights. How he dances. How he makes love. He does EVERYTHING! A new Denny. A greater Denny. Denny in the greatest feature picture he ever made! You know what to do!

A Denny Super Released
January 30, 1928

Distributed by EUROPEAN

that's

S OF SERVICE

s is a full-rate gram or Cable-
m unless its character is indicated by a symbol in the check
-- in the address.

The filing time as shown in

To th

Laura La Plante

the Great Commedienne—

Laura La Plante!

Exhibitor Everywhere

Offhand, this being the age of labels and slogans, it would seem that Laura La Plante is by way of becoming the Elsie Janis of the screen. Certainly this reviewer can think of no other movie personage who is so expert in the art of mimicry.

It doesn't matter to what the young woman puts her hand; always she passes the thing off as if she were born to it. She has a complete bag of tricks, and yet when she reaches into that bag and draws one out the trick takes on all the authenticity of something really substantial.

George Gerhard, of N. Y. Evening World, says exactly that in a recent review.

Tell that to your waiting public when you book her in "FINDERS KEEPERS" from the story by Mary Roberts Rinehart.

A WESLEY RUGGLES PRODUCTION
with Johnny Harron, Eddie Phillips, Edmund Breese, Arthur Rankin, Capt. Duncan.

AGAIN! RO Picks U

The largest theatre in the land books these smashing Universal hits!

No Question About It --- Universal

13 WASHINGTON SQUARE

that chased the chills up and down the spines of Broadway. From Leroy Scott's famous novel and big N. Y. stage success with a great cast that means capacity. Look at this line-up. ALICE JOYCE—ZASU PITTS—JEAN HERSHOLT—GEORGE LEWIS—HELEN JEROME EDDY—and others. See Universal's crowd producing press sheet on this one.

Reg. Denny in "That's My Daddy"

Directed by Fred Newmeyer, whose comedy ideas will spread the fame of this latest Denny to every corner of your community—and what a cast—REGINALD DENNY—BARBARA KENT—LILLIAN RICH—TOM O'BRIEN and many others. It's DENNY at his best—a Dancing Master who turns prize fighter and cleans 'em up—and it will flood your box-office with admissions.

LOVE ME and the World is Mine

Starring MARY PHILBIN whose recent tremendous publicity in her latest and greatest dramatic success triples her box-office drawing power. Note this marvelous cast—MARY PHILBIN—NORMAN KERRY—HENRY B. WALTHALL—BETTY COMPSON—GEORGE SIEGMANN—MARTHA MATTOX and a host of others. . . . It's another "Merry-Go-Round" on a bigger scale, bound to smash plenty present-day box-office records. Directed by Du Pont—director of "Variety."

AND ROXY BOOKS 'EM ALL — Proof of Uuiversal's leadership of the big ones.

las The Sure Fire Box Office Winners

UNCLE CARL sure has a find in this actor

W. B. Heick
Rex Theatre
Calumet, Minn.

GLENN TRYON

is a newcomer in the feature length comedy field—but already he has a powerful "fan" following. . . .

WATCH HIM GO?

His current release:

"A HERO FOR A NIGHT"

with Patsy Ruth Miller is better than "PAINTING THE TOWN"

A William James Craft Production

A Universal Star Trade Marked "Box Office"

5 SNOOKUMS pictures in succession at the ROXY!

SNOOKUMS

And that can mean only one thing — that Snookums is a drawing card of the first magnitude—a money-maker—a movie "natural"! Here's a fact that ought to induce you to sign for every one of his pictures on the spot —there is no record of a single Snookums flop in any theatre anywhere!

From George McManus' famous cartoons. 12 delightful two-reelers.

Produced by
STERN BROTHERS

UNIVERSAL
Junior Jewels

The
UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for the Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick—Editor
Published by the Motion Picture Weekly Publishing Co. Heckscher Bldg. 730-5th Ave. New York City
Copyright 1928 UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION All rights reserved

Vol. XXVII FEBRUARY 11, 1928 No. 1

UNIVERSAL MOVIEGRAMS

GLENN TRYON, Eddie Phillips and Fay Holderness have been selected for important parts in "Lonesome." This is the Universal City studio title of the Mann Page original story which will be the first American direction of Paul Fejos, to whom Carl Laemmle has given a five-year contract.

HAVING finished "Home, James," Laura La Plante immediately countermanded the direction and left for Honolulu on the S. S. Malolo. She will spend her vacation at the New Royal Hawaiian Hotel, returning to Universal City in time to start "One Rainy Night" or "Three Rainy Nights"—whichever it's going to be—under the direction of Wesley Ruggles.

ALEXANDER MARKEY, explorer and writer, will leave Universal City next week upon a combination scientific and filming expedition. He will be accompanied by Wilfred Clark, cameraman, and Lou Collins, assistant, together with a scenarist. His object is a story and film of the Maoris.

BRANDON HURST arrived in New York Monday. He left Universal City immediately upon completion of his role of Barkilphedro in "The Man Who Laughs" under the direction of Paul Leni.

RENEE ADOREE has fully recovered and joined the company consisting of Conrad Nagel, Lloyd Whitlock, Frederick Esmelton, Adolph Milar, Maurice Murphy and Virginia Grey at Mt. Lowe, where Irvin Willat is directing Rex Beach's Alaskan story, "The Michigan Kid."

"Cohens and Kellys in Paris" Disclosed as Big Money-Maker By Actual Box-Office Figures

Extraordinary Reports to Universal Home Office Indicate That Laugh-Picture Will Surpass All Other Cash Pullers of Year.

UNIVERSAL home office officials are beginning to get reports on the early runs of "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris" and are highly elated over the amazing box-office strength shown by this picture. When Carl Laemmle decided to make this sequel of the original box-office sensation, "The Cohens and Kellys," he indicated that he hoped the new picture would be as good as the first, although the target was a hard one to shoot at. Reports reaching New York during the last few days make it certain that the new film is even more popular with audiences and exhibitors than the earlier one.

So far the picture has been shown in a number of important first run houses, among them the Granada Theatre, San Francisco; the Ambassador, St. Louis; the Capitol, Atlanta; the Rialto, Washington; the Court, Wheeling, W. Va., and the Plaza, Northampton, Mass. It rolled up such notable grosses as $33,406 in the Ambassador, $24,000 in the San Francisco cinema palace, $9,442 in the Atlanta house, $8,200 in Washington, and $4,465 in Wheeling. These figures are first-rate for the various houses, some of them record figures, and indicate conclusively, the Universal sales department feels, that the picture clicks definitely with the public. The film will have its Broadway premiere next week, when it will play in the Colony Theatre.

Universal, in order to afford absolute evidence of the drawing power of the C. & K. release, have made public the following day-to-day figures on some of the aforementioned week runs:

Ambassador Theatre, St. Louis:
Saturday	$6,300.00
Sunday	7,500.00
Monday	3,860.00
Tuesday	4,064.00
Wednesday	4,304.00
Thursday	3,829.00
Friday	3,529.00
Total	$33,406.00

Granda Theatre, San Francisco:
Saturday	$4,718.00
Sunday	6,138.00
Monday	2,344.00
Tuesday	2,846.00
Wednesday	2,966.00
Thursday	2,698.00
Friday	2,298.00
Total	$24,008.00

Capitol Theatre, Atlanta:
Monday	$1,151.00
Tuesday	1,361.00
Wednesday	1,416.00
Thursday	1,381.00
Friday	1,682.00
Saturday	2,451.00
Total	$9,442.00

(Continued on next page)

"COHENS AND KELLYS IN PARIS" BOX-OFFICE BET OF SEASON

Broadway First Run at Colony Past Week

(Continued from preceding page)

Rialto Theatre, Washington:

Saturday	$1,420.00
Sunday	2,074.00
Monday	731.00
Tuesday	979.00
Wednesday	988.00
Thursday	978.00
Friday	1,040.00
Total	$8,210.00

Court Theatre, Wheeling:

Monday	$736.45
Tuesday	715.80
Wednesday	815.30
Thursday	587.55
Friday	570.70
Saturday	1,038.90
Total	$4,464.75

In connection with the showing of the picture in Wheeling, Earl W. Kramer, eastern sales manager for Universal, received a wire of appreciation from George Shaver, the exhibitor in this case, which goes on record as one of the most enthusiastic wires ever received by a film company from a theatre man, also as one of the best testimonials for a picture.

Shaver wired as follows:

"A deserving box-office picture is deserving of praise. Permit me to congratulate you on your newest 'Cohens and Kellys in Paris,' which it was my pleasure to play all last week. It's a knockout and despite the severest snowstorm, blizzard and zero weather in several years, had the crowds standing out all week. Patrons screamed throughout entire picture and everyone who saw it automatically became mouth-to-mouth advertisers. Better than 'Cohens and Kellys.' Universal surely hit this bull's-eye for a box office attraction that also gives the customers one hundred percent entertainment."

Universal executives hasten to add that the Court Theatre is not a Universal-owned house, and, in fact, only joined the ranks of Universal customers during the last year.

Tying Carl Laemmle's Saturday Evening Post advertising right to the box Office, the famous weekly column was enlarged to giant size and placed at the Colony Theatre by Joe Weil to herald "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris."

A report of somewhat similar encouragement came from the Plaza Theatre in Northampton, Mass. Charles J. Costello, manager of that house, wrote to the Universal branch in New Haven as follows:

"I played your feature 'The Cohens and Kellys in Paris' the last four days of last week. Our opposition was the strongest of the season and during these four days we had the biggest snowstorm and cold spell of the season. In spite of these facts 'The Cohens and Kellys in Paris' came close to the record mark of the season at this house. It opened up to a fine business and held up to the closing performance with everything against it, even the weather. It is the first picture I have played in some time that the patrons stopped to tell me how much they enjoyed the picture. Many of them liked it better than the first 'Cohens and Kellys.'"

According to the reviews in Washington newspapers, the Washington showing of the picture was equally as well received. Such comments as "It looks like a real money-maker," "Gales of laughter were the reaction of yesterday afternoon's audiences," "The film is packed with laugh-provoking incidents" were current in the criticisms. The News, comparing the picture to the original Cohens and Kellys comedy, comments as follows:

"One of the season's best bits of comedy is on tap at the Rialto. The film, a companion picture to 'The Cohens and Kellys,' proves a much more decided hit than its predecessor. The work of the inimitable George Sidney and J. Farrell MacDonald, co-stars, places them in the first rank of movieland's comedy teams. The action goes at a tremendous clip."

In Atlanta, Fuzzy Woodruff of the Sunday American,

(Continued on page 40)

Carl Laemmle Prescribes

Partnership Cooperation Needed

Universal Chief, on Eve of His 22nd Anniversary in Motion Picture Business, Warns Against "Dotted Line" Pictures and Advises Concentration on More Merchandising and Less Money Talk.

CARL LAEMMLE, veteran chief of the Universal Pictures Corporation, who is soon to celebrate the 22nd anniversary of his entry into the motion picture business, believes that future progress and prosperity in the industry depends upon the extent to which producers and exhibitors can view their problems and conduct their affairs more as partners than as antagonists. In a recent interview, he pointed out, from a viewpoint of twenty-two years experience and observation, several striking principles by which those in the industry can get together in a joint program of progress.

"Many people, producers, distributors and exhibitors alike, seem to lose sight of the fundamental idea upon which our industry is built," said the Universal chief. "This idea is that those who make pictures, those who market them and those who exhibit them are fundamentally partners. The public, not the theatre, is the ultimate consumer, and the producer and the distributor are just as much concerned with the public as the theatre-man. The view-point of all concerned should be focused on the screen, rather than on each other.

"The motion picture business is the same as any other business as regards the relations between the manufacturer, merchant and customer. The success of the business is based on satisfied customers. Satisfying the ultimate consumer is the joint problem of all, the producer to make pictures that the public will want to see, and the exhibitor to select and exhibit them in proper way. The producer or distributor has a further problem—because, in addition to the public, the exhibitor is also his customer. In addition to satisfying the public by making first-class pictures, he also must satisfy the exhibitor, not only in the quality of his pictures, but in the service he renders to the exhibitor and the treatment accorded. A very important part of this service consists of helping the exhibitor to market the picture to the public.

"It is a straightforward merchandising proposition. It is similar to any merchandising proposition. And the more that the viewpoint of everyone concerned is shifted to the merchandising angle, rather than the price angle, the better co-operation there will be and the more satisfaction on the part of the public.

"There should be no 'dotted line' pictures, made solely with sales contracts as the objective. Neither should there be 'dotted line' salesmanship, with the signing of the contract as the supreme end of all effort. Pictures should be pointed at the screen. Salesmanship should be pointed at the screen just as surely.

"Such salesmanship is linked with service. Service that takes the form of square dealing, assistance in presenting the picture to the public, and back of all this, a fertilization of the public mind in favor of the picture.

"The ideal partnership co-operation between producer and exhibitor is obtainable by the following efforts on the part of each: The producer should strive to make pictures absolutely keyed to the public taste, he should aid the exhibitor in marketing these pictures, by general campaigns as well as by specific advertising aids, and most important of all, he should play square in his dealing with the exhibitor, treating him as any manufacturer would treat a retailer whose business and whose prosperity is of mutual concern.

"The exhibitor should regard the producer in the light of a friendly and interested source of his picture supply. He should meet the producer half-way and recognize that the square-shooting producer is primarily trying to turn out pictures that will bring the public to the exhibitor's theatre. He is not primarily trying to get the exhibitor's signature on a contract. Also, that in the making of such pictures, the producer must frequently involve himself in an exceptional outlay, and naturally deserves increased returns.

"Finally, the exhibitor owes it to himself and to the picture to market it in the best possible way—which includes taking advantage of the many publicity, advertising and exploitation aids placed at his disposal by the maker of the picture. In this way he is putting the final touches to the operation of the local partnership co-operation by which this industry should make and deliver its product to the ultimate consumer.

"I long have guided the Universal organization into these channels. To the limit of human ability, we are making pictures with the greatest possible audience appeal. In the matter of distribution, the square-deal policies of Universal have become an axiom in the industry. In the matter of co-operation marketing, we go to extreme measures in aiding the exhibitor, not only in the current pushing of individual pictures by advertising accessories of tried and proven value and designing and by campaigns pointed, not at the exhibitor, but at the public, and also by fertilization of the public's interest in good screen entertainment in general and Universal pictures in particular. Added to all this, I am proud to say that the Universal organization, from the top right down, by right and instructions, has learned to regard the exhibitor as a partner, a fellow-worker and co-operator in the affairs of the industry. Where there is mutual interest, there is trust, and where there is trust, there is co-operation. Where there is co-operation, there is progress.

"Twenty-two years may seem a long time in this industry. Certainly, they have been years of constant change and progress. They seem all too short to me. The next twenty-two years will be just as progressive, I am sure. And of one other thing I am certain. It is that the feeling of partnership co-operation between all branches of the picture industry will increase by leaps and bounds, wiping away today's problems, and creating a united front for the entire industry, with all the progress, power and prosperity such unity would mean. This may sound like the millennium, but then, remember that the first twenty-two years are the hardest."

Cure for Industry Ills

Between Producer and Exhibitor

Laemmle's 22nd Anniversary is being celebrated by the entire Universal organization. The sales department, under the direction of Lou B. Metzger, general sales manager, and his aids, Earl Kramer, eastern sales director; Morton Van Praag, western sales director and Ted Schlanger, short subject sales manager, are holding a concerted period of sales activity for the period January 22nd to May 5th. As a tribute to Laemmle's many years of square dealing and good pictures many of Universal's exhibitor patrons are setting in an unusual number of Universal pictures during this period.

To give added zest to the celebration, Universal has announced awards totaling more than $5,000 for the branch offices making the best showing in this drive. The eastern and western division personnel have taken up special purses for additional competitive awards and several exchange groups have put up sweepstakes for fun among themselves. More than $2,500 is represented in these intersection and inter-office "bets." Furthermore, various Universal stars, directors, and other studio personages have contributed further sums for results with this or the other picture. These amounts total to more than $3,000, thus making a grand total of more than $10,000 to be divided among Universal salesmen, sales managers and exchange personnel as a result of the Carl Laemmle 22nd Anniversary celebration.

As additional incentive for the celebration, Universal's best pictures are available for showing during the drive period, including such outstanding pictures as "The Cat and the Canary," "Les Miserables," "The Cohens and the Kellys in Paris," "We Americans," "Love Me and the World Is Mine," "Painting the Town," "A Hero for a Night," "Hot Heels," "That's My Daddy," "Out All Night," "On Your Toes," "Silk Stockings," Finders Keepers," "Thanks for the Buggy Ride," and a long list of other tried and proven hits as well as an unusual line-up of short features, headed by Snookums, "The Collegians," the new Octavus Roy Cohen comedies, the Oswald cartoons and other outstanding comedies.

Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corp., prides himself that he has taught his whole organization to consider the exhibitor as a partner and a fellow worker.

FOR 22 YEARS of Unstinted Exhibitor Support

RE-WA

The largest Array of High-wide & Handsome Money Making Pictures in all Filmdom!

Partial List

Universal's Amazing Four

The Cat and the Canary
Les Miserables
The Cohens and Kellys in Par
We Americans
—and its Resplendent Fifth
Love Me and the World Is Min

Glenn Tryon Pictures

Painting the Town
A Hero for a Night
Hot Heels

Back to God's Country
The Lone Eagle
The Shield of Honor
Cheating Cheaters
The Chinese Parrot
The Small Bachelor
Surrender!
The 13th Juror
Wild Beauty

A Universal Salesman

The Irresistible Lover
A Man's Past
The Fourflusher
Alias the Deacon
Midnight Rose
13 Washington Square

Reginald Denny Pictures

That's My Daddy
Out All Night
On Your Toes

Laura La Plante Pictures

Silk Stockings
Finders Keepers
Thanks for the Buggy Ride

Hoot Gibson Pictures

Painted Ponies
Galloping Fury
The Rawhide Kid
A Trick of Hearts

Universal Super Shorts

Snookums, The box-office baby

Universal Junior Jewels

Carl Laemmle, Jr.'s

The Collegians

Universal Junior Jewels

Oswald, the Lucky Rabbit—
1 reel cartoons

Snappy 1 Reel Comedies
The Gumps

Stern Brothers 2-Reelers
including Mike and Ike
Keeping Up with the Joneses
Let George Do It and Buster Brown

Octavus Roy Cohen
Charlie Puffy—2-Reelers
2-Reel Western Dramas
Universal Super Serials

call on you soon. Give him yaur individual attention.

CARL LAEMMLE'S
22nd Anniversary Celebration.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" CALLED FINEST FILM OF THE CENTURY

F. W. Harland-Edgecumbe, English Journalist, Finds Universal's Spectacular Picture Most Impressive Thing in America

WHAT would you choose as the most impressive thing in America if you were here on your first visit? This is not an "ask me another" poser, but a question that F. W. Harland-Edgecumbe, young English journalist, answered promptly after three weeks in New York with the words, "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

As a matter of fact, Mr. Harland-Edgecumbe needn't have crossed the Atlantic to have been thrilled by Universal's film version of the Harriet Beecher Stowe classic. It has been playing to crowded houses at the London Pavilion for weeks. However, the gentleman in question did not see it there, but at the Central Theatre on Broadway. It stirred him as typically American and as a great power for moral good. In addition, he considered it box-office built—"The paramount achievement of the century as purely theatrical entertainment."

But here are his own words:

"There is such a thing as unthrifty spectacularity. It is possible to be extraordinarily lavish and to produce extraordinary effects without exactly hitting the mark aimed at. For instance, in the history of the manufacture of motion pictures, there are many skeletons left lying on the road which tell their tale of well-intentioned but misguided lavishness.

"It has been left to the Universal film company to produce the two classic examples of lavishness which have achieved uniformity of cautioned extravagance, uncalculated costliness, if that is not paradoxical, undeniable beauty and, in fact, two productions which have passed through the whole gamut of commercial and artistic enterprise and come out outstanding examples of what may be achieved in the way of screen entertainment. I refer, of course, to Stroheim's 'Foolish Wives' and, more recently, that lavish spectacle, 'Uncle Tom's Cabin.'

"I saw the former in England, and the latter I have seen recently at the Central Theatre on Broadway. Now, I always approach any screen entertainment with a skeptical mind, for I have been, like most people, rather prejudiced by the flamboyant advance notices and publicity in connection with new films.

"So I entered the Central Theatre prepared to find a show which might perhaps reach about half-way towards the remarkable heights of artistry which the billboards and the columns of the daily press had tried to make me believe had been reached.

"To my surprise, I found that the dictionary does not contain sufficient adjectives to definitely describe the most remarkable film it has ever been my pleasure to witness. While waiting for the picture to commence, I casually scanned a pamphlet which told me how two million dollars had been spent upon this photo-dramatization of a novel which has—and will forever—held its place in literature. I read that five thousand players had been employed and that it had taken two years for Mr. Harry Pollard, the director, to complete the production.

"It is a pity that America knows no knighthood because Mr. Pollard deserves such an honor, and would no doubt have received it in my own country had he produced a film which so accurately portrayed a great historical epic.

"And now to the film itself. It goes without saying that it plays upon the whole gamut of human emotions. It plays havoc with one's risible senses, and in the space of two minutes afterwards tugs the heart-strings. I will admit here and now that I wept unshamedly and unrestrainedly during the death scene. That particular scene is the most poignant and most beautiful which has ever been put upon the screen.

"It avoids pathos — I mean the cheap, pedantic pathos. It avoids bathos. It achieves the highest realm of artistry inasmuch as when it is finished one can forget it. To my mind, that is the most consummate artistry.

"Eliza's escape from her master and the overwhelming bitternesses which encompass her life stands out as another masterly piece of work. I want to deal with the picture tout ensemble, yet I find it difficult to refrain from heaping praise upon each individual artist as I think of him or her. Very often in the picturization of so dramatic a climax as this, the producer leaves just a taste of exaggeration in one's mouth. But not so in 'Uncle Tom's Cabin.' There are scenes of brutal debauchery which ring true. There are scenes of spectacular magnificence which are convincing in every detail. There are intimate scenes which one's brain and one's heart appraises at very truth.

"I know not who selected the cast, but the selection, to my mind, was governed by a genius. Looking at the picture, and reflecting upon it hours afterwards, I find it difficult to imagine anyone else playing any one of the many roles enacted.

"From the standpoint of pure histrionic worth, the picture is marvelous. From the standpoint of historic accuracy and the portrayal of the foulest blot on America's page of history, it is still more marvelous. As entertainment — that is, purely theatrical entertainment—it is the paramount achievement of the century, so far as the screen is concerned. So far as the history of motion pictures is concerned, men a hundred years from now engaged in the industry will refer to 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' as a stepping stone in much the same way as military men today refer to the Battle of Waterloo.

"One thought occurred to me as I walked away from the theatre—pensive, somewhat sad, certainly purged of certain worldly traits. It was this:

"If the educational authorities of America would insist that every child of whatever nationality, creed or color should see this film; if the civic authorities would do their best to encourage every adult of whatever creed or color to see this film, America would have done itself a power of moral good. I am convinced that here is a picture which, because a film cannot find its way into a national gallery, should be adopted by the government and used for the purpose which it so readily achieves—humanization."

"Surrender" Is Well Worth Seeing

Nancy Lee in the Milwaukee Journal says:

"Here is a fine, dramatic story well told by the camera. It contains some sincere and enjoyable acting on the part of Mary Philbin, who, by the way, looks most entrancing in the newest of her screen appearances.

"Mosjukine, whose name was Moskine when he played the lead in 'Michael Strogoff,' is the Russian who with his Cossacks invades a sleepy little Austrian town. Young Lea (Mary Philbin) daughter of the rabbi, takes his eye and it is she who finally saves her people and the village from plunder.

"The story is told dramatically, seriously and with not too many excursions down by-paths. Photographically, the picture is worth seeing."

Realistic Sets Of Grim Prison In "Fallen Angels"

THE grim aspect and hopelessness of prison life have been exemplified with startling reality in the atmospheric motion picture setting of a penetentiary now standing on the lot at Universal City and waiting to be used in "Fallen Angels," a dramatic story of the underworld.

High, grey walls, an iron-barred gate, and other details combine to give the impression of sternness and despair associated with the life of a prisoner.

There have been few sets made with the effectiveness of this one in carrying out the prison idea, it is said. Looking at it without the players who will take part in the scene is alone enough to engender the desired feeling called for by the story.

This is said to be one of the largest prison settings ever made. The walls are more than thirty feet high and thick enough on the top for the guards to walk upon. The interior is three stories high and has three balconies upon which the tiers of cells are built. The balconies are wide enough for ten men to walk abreast.

In the center is the prison yard, surrounded by the four walls, and at one end, overlooking the entire prison, is the watch tower. Ingenious locations have been built for the cameras so that several of them may be used at once from different angles without interferring with each other.

Edward Laemmle is in charge of the direction of "Fallen Angels," in which Norman Kerry and Pauline Starke play leading roles. Included in the cast are Marian Nixon, Kenneth Harlan, Crauford Kent, Ward Crane, Jack Raymond and Byron Douglas. Arthur Somers Roche wrote the story from which the screen adaptation was made.

"U" Chain House Have New Cabinet

UNIVERSAL CHAIN THEATRICAL ENTERPRISES, INC., now is being operated by a Cabinet of which the operating executive is Charles B. Paine. Supervising the working of the cabinet are Beno Rubel, representing Carl Laemmle, and E. H. Goldstein. In addition to Paine, the cabinet consists of H. M. Messiter, his asistant; Joe Weil who continues as director of advertising, publicity and exploitation for the chain; Herbert L. Robinson, comptroller, and Charles Burden, head of the real estate department.

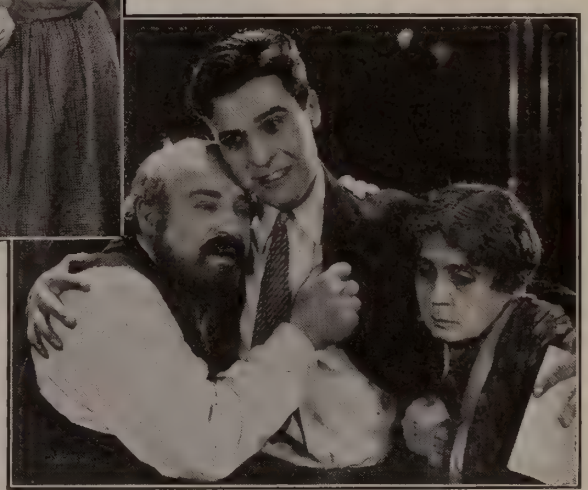
Universal Plans Series of Pictures Built Around "Cohens and Kellys"

AS a result of the exceptional showing of "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris," the sequel to the original screen hit, "The Cohens and Kellys," Carl Laemmle has decided to make a series of "Cohens and Kellys" features.

Among the titles selected for these pictures are "The Cohens and Kellys in Ireland," "The Cohens and Kellys in Jerusalem," "The Cohens and Kellys in Jail," "The Cohens and Kellys in Darkest Africa" and "The Cohens and Kellys in Hollywood." Instructions have been issued for the immediate preparation of stories for these vehicles. The director and casts will be announced later.

Reports from the Granada Theatre in San Francisco, the Ambassador Theatre in St. Louis, and the Capitol Theatre in Atlanta indicate that "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris" will excede the original "Cohens and Kellys" in popular appeal. Box-office records at these theatres shown an amazing draw. The picture will have its New York premiere Saturday in the Colony Theatre.

In "We Americans" Patsy Ruth Miller takes the part of the daughter who studies art and Americanism, and Beryl Mercer is her superb mother.



George Sidney, George Lewis and Beryl Mercer are among the splendid cast in "We Americans," Universal's epic of the melting pot.

Rex Receives Fan Letters

DOES a film horse receive fan mail? One horse in Hollywood does, and how!

Rex, King of Wild Horses, Universal's famous equine player, doesn't have to take a back seat to any human player when the letters from admirers are counted. The animal star is said to receive more mail than any other four-footed actor—or actress—in the film colony.

Persons all over the world who have thrilled at Rex's pictures, use this method of expressing their enjoyment at his superb performances. He is among the most popular of animal screen players. In spite of his almost untamable spirit, he has an uncanny ability to "act" when in front of the camera.

Wesley Ruggles Is Member "U" Post Of War Veterans

WESLEY RUGGLES, one of Universal's foremost megaphone wielders, and an officer in the photographic section of the Air Service during the World War, is to become a member of the Universal Post of Veterans of Foreign Wars at their forthcoming meeting.

He has been accepted and will take his oath and obligations from a "buck" who soldiered under him during the conflict.

HOOT GIBSON

the ridin'est Cowboy on the motion picture range——

PAINTED PONIES: Hoot Gibson—January 4. This is an extra good Gibson picture with lots of laughs, thrills and action. Everybody likes Hoot Gibson here. Six reels.—Lyceum theatre, Manchester, Mo.

7 great Westerns with the Box-Office kick

"Painted Ponies"
"Galloping Fury"
"The Rawhide Kid"
"A Trick of Hearts"
"The Wild West Show"
"A Society Cowboy"
"Riding for Fame"

and all from

HOOT GIBSON

Coming!

with a tremendous rush to pour thousands of dollars in profits into the tills of thousands of Exhibitors . . .

The greatest laugh riot since the record breaking "COHENS AND KELLYS"

¶ Now is time for you to get your play dates set before the mad rush of bookings pour in. Remember what hapened with the COHENS AND KELLYS and get yourself set for this BIG ONE.

The Cohens and Kellys

$33,406.00

is the week's gross at Skouras' Ambassador, St. Louis, for "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris"; it hit the high spots at the Granada, San Francisco, with $24,008.00 for the week; it piled up nearly $10,000.00 at the Capitol, Atlanta — big money everywhere — and wait till you see the figures for New York!

NOT in many box-office Paris." From s laugh—not the ences, but the h

IT'S A UNIVERSAL
sta
GEORGE SIDNEY and with VERA GORDON, Kate Price, Gertr
A William Be
Adaptation and continuity by Al. Cohn. S in Paris!

veeks has the Capitol picked a better et than "The Cohens and Kellys in rt to finish the picture is one long ld chuckles of mildly pleased audi-rty roars of delighted fans.

RUN SPECIAL

ARREL MacDONALD
or, Sue Carol and Charles Delaney.
Production
ervision by Joseph Poland.

turn

Here is your answer on the Cohens and Kellys in Paris

WESTERN UNION

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT — J. C. WILLEVER, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

SYMBOLS
BLUE	Day Letter
NITE	Night Message
NL	Night Letter
LCO	Deferred
CLT	Cable Letter
WLT	Week End Letter

ASS OF SERVICE his is a full-rate egram or Cable-
m unless its char-
er is indicated by symbol in the check
r in the address.

The filing time as shown in the date line on full-rate telegrams and day letters, and the time of receipt at destination as shown on all messages, is STANDARD TIME.

Received at WHEELING, W. VA.

[WIRE]

E. W. KRAMER, CARE UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORP.,
730 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK, N. Y.

CONGRATULATE YOU ON YOUR NEWEST "COHENS AND KELLYS IN PARIS" WHICH IT WAS MY PLEASURE TO PLAY ALL LAST WEEK. IT'S A KNOCKOUT AND DESPITE THE SEVEREST SNOW STORM BLIZZARD AND ZERO WEATHER IN SEVERAL YEARS HAD THE CROWDS STANDING OUT ALL WEEK. PATRONS SCREAMED THROUGHOUT ENTIRE PICTURE AND EVERYONE WHO SAW IT AUTOMATICALLY BECAME MOUTH-TO-MOUTH ADVERTISERS, BETTER THAN "COHENS AND KELLYS." UNIVERSAL SURELY HIT THE BULL'S-EYE FOR A BOX-OFFICE ATTRACTION THAT ALSO GIVES THE CUSTOMERS ONE HUNDRED PER CENT ENTERTAINMENT.

GEORGE SHAFER, COURT THEATRE.

Long Run Special
It's a Universal

Universal Holds Honors for New Films On Broadway During Past Week

"13 Washington Square" at Roxy and "Buck Privates" at Colony Only New Pictures to Reach New York's Big Play Houses

UNIVERSAL supplied all the new film fare to Broadway's hungry movie-goers during the last week in January. At Roxy's huge cathedral, "13 Washington Square" played to tense audiences. Laughter mingled with the thrills in this adaptation of Leroy Scott's famous story. In addition to a corking plot, it offers such excellent actors as Jean Hersholt, Alice Joyce, George Lewis, Zasu Pitts and Helen Jerome Eddy. The picture is skillfully directed by Melville W. Brown.

George Gerhard in the Evening World comments as follows on this "interest-compelling picture":

"A capably woven mystery story, which has scant recourse to gunplay and sudden death, is '13 Washintgon Square,' at the Roxy. And contrary to the usual complaint, the weaving appears to be the author's own—the story appears to have been brought to the screen as Leroy Scott wrote it.

"This is due, no doubt, to the able direction of Melville W. Brown as much as to any other ingredient. At any rate, Universal has handled this story with commendable sincerity, and the result is an entertaining and interest-compelling picture.

"Jean Hersholt and Alice Joyce are the featured players, George Lewis being the juvenile lead. But, aside from Hersholt, Zasu Pitts and Helen Jerome Eddy are the best characters. Both are always excellent, no matter what they set their hands to, and the picture is no exception. But, as it happens, neither has a so-called baby face, so, of course, they will continue to be cast in character parts instead of up where they indubitably belong.

"Here one is a housemaid and the other is an impecunious third cousin of the celebrated Mrs. De Peyster. But their work is of such a high order that they carry th story along sailing. Hersholt is 'Deacon' Pyecroft, and, designedly or not, his role is very much like that of the star of 'Alias the Deacon.' He is the same sort of ministerial person—that is, ministerial outwardly — but a celebrated, if humane, crook on the side. And despite the repetition, he is very good, as he always is."

* * *

Mordaunt Hall in the New York Times adds his enthusiasm:

"The silence caused in big theatres by the animated images on a screen is frequently astonishing, and it is presumed to be a sign that the picture is holding the audience's interest. Yesterday, during some of the passages of '13 Washington Square,' the new photoplay at the Roxy Theatre, some 6,000 persons sat as still as if they were all holding their breaths; suddenly the majority of the spectators broke the stillness by hearty laughter. It was most impressive, especially if you entered while the picture was on.

"This is a competently acted and expertly produced picture. Melville W. Brown has handled the idea so pleasingly that it is a good entertainment, the sort of thing that makes you give vent to an explosion of mirth whether you want to or not. There are in the cast Jean Hersholt, who played the part of the tutor in 'The Student Prince'; Zasu Pitts, who sacrifices looks for an intelligent character study; Alice Joyce, the personification of dignity, and Helen Jerome Eddy, who is never nonplussed by the sight of a motion picture camera. Aside from the praiseworthy performances of these players, interest in this affair is increased by the numeral '13,' the location of Washington Square and the name of De Peyster.

"It was an exciting strip of this story that compelled silence and once during the hushed moments a baby added to the excitement by a sudden yell. People bob up unexpectedly during the hectic incidents of this film and it was chiefly anticipation of the character's surprise that elicited explosions of merriment."

* * *

From the World comes Quinn Martin's praise:

"Nice but important film melodrama goes on this week at the Roxy, where Leroy Scott's old story, '13 Washington Square,' that one about the rich mamma who delayed her journey to Europe in order to prevent her son's marrying a bum, is being seen. In it Miss Alice Joyce, never handsomer, plays Mrs. De Peyster, and in the part of 'Deacon' Pyecroft is to be seen Mr. Jean Hersholt, one of the two or three best character actors in America."

* * *

At the Colony, "Buck Privates" was shown. It is a screaming comedy of America's returning soldiers in Luxembourg. It is frank farce played in high spirits and good for a houseful of laughs. Among its most interesting features is the star, Lya De Putti, the beloved vamp of "Variety" cast in an entirely new sort of role. Here the beautiful Lya is a demure and bashful maiden and as such wins a whole new array of fans. Malcolm MacGregor is a handsome and compelling soldier, and Zasu Pitts lends her always infectious humor.

Once more the Evening World gives exhibitors a reliable review:

"'Buck Privates' is an exceedingly enjoyable picture. It tells a rollicking yarn about American doughboys and Luxembourg girls on the occasion of the march of the American Army of Occupation from the Argonne and the Meuse to the banks of the Rhine.

"It is enacted by such players as Lya de Putti, Malcolm MacGregor, Eddie Bribbon and Zasu Pitts; but, somehow, that ingredient does not seem to this reviewer to have so much bearing upon its success as has the unexceptional direction of Melville Brown and the activities of the gagmen. Yes, he directed this one, too. Personally, it is our belief that Brown's touch more than that of the gag-men injected its frolicsome tempo into it, but, at any rate, it is there.

"There is a wealth of infectious wit in this story, which was written by Stuart H. Lake. And, if memory serves, Lake used to rub elbows with yours truly on the Journal copy desk. Certainly, if Carl Laemmle could continue to dig up pictures such as this one, he would have little trouble in bringing the Colony back to a successful "Pictures Only" Schedule.

"As it is, he has a great bet in Josef Cherniavsky and his Colonials."

* * *

Harriette Underhill in the Tribune says:

. . . many persons in the theatre, including our Aunt Elizabeth, declared that 'Buck Privates' was the funniest picture they ever had seen and it probably will be considered so out on the road. As we have so often confessed, we know nothing of comedies; but we do know that we like Zasu Pitts."

Those who do know something of comedies will recognize in "Buck Privates" in addition to Zasu Pitts, a sequence of hilarious situations, an excellent cast, and splendid direction.

Alexander Markey, Explorer and Writer, Heads South Sea Expedition For "U"

ALEXANDER MARKEY, explorer and writer, will shortly embark from Universal City for New Zealand with a staff to make a picture from an original story of the Maoris. He will establish headquarters in New Zealand and plans to make his picture on the little known islands surrounding this country, referred to as the South Sea Islands. He will be accompanied by Wilfred Cline, cameraman, Lew Collins, assistant, and a script girl.

Markey was formerly secretary of the Society of Fine Arts here and is known as a lecturer and author of distinction. He is a son-in-law of Bernarr MacFadden, the publisher and physical culture advocate. The motion pictures attracted his attention and he divorced his other interests to study them at first hand. He has spent the past nine months at the studios of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

Markey has made a study of the little known Maoris who are the original inhabitants of New Zealand some six hundred years prior to the arrival of the white man. They are known to be descendants of the Polynesian race. The white settlers at first regarded them as savages, but when friendship was restored it was found that they possessed an elaborate system of society and government with elevated ideas on morality and religion. They readily adopted civilized life and became converted to Christianity. Today, they have the highest standing in the life on the islands.

The filming of a Maori story has never been attempted. His plans include filming the inhabitants of the Fiji and other surrounding islands, in which case his mission is regarded as hazardous, for the natives there have not adopted the habits of the whites as the Maoris have done on the island of New Zealand.

The story is laid in the colorful Yukon country and was one of the most popular of Beach's recent novels. J. Grubb Alexander wrote the screen adaptation and Peter Milne the continuity.

One of the spectacular sets from "The Man Who Laughs." This old English street scene has been reconstructed fathfully from its period.

"The Michigan Kid" Starts Production

FILMING of Rex Beach's novel, "The Michigan Kid," has just started at Universal studios under the direction of Irvin Willat.

Renee Adoree and Conrad Nagel appear in the principal roles of the picture with Lloyd Whitlock, Adolph Millar, Maurice Murphy, Virginia Grey and others in support.

Lya De Putti Made Personal Appearance At Colony Theatre

LYA DE PUTTI, star of the Universal picture presented at the Colony Theatre titled "Buck Privates," made a personal appearance at the theatre last Wednesday evening at nine o'clock. She was enthusiastically received by her large following.

Miss De Putti has remained in New York since her return from making pictures abroad a few weeks ago. She will shortly leave for the Coast to begin work on one of the many picture offers she has received while here.

"Buck Privates" is the first picture in which Miss De Putti has been seen in on Broadwav for some time. She made another production at Universal City titled "Midnight Rose."

"Body Punch" Goes Into Production At Universal City

PRODUCTION on "The Body Punch," an epic of the resin ring written by Harry O. Hoyt, has just started at Universal under the direction of Leigh Jason, according to an announcement by President Carl Laemmle.

Jack Daugherty and Virginia Browne Faire are portraying the principal roles with Wilbur Mack, Arthur Millette, George Rotsonaros and Monte Montague in prominent supporting roles. Harry O. Hoyt also did the screen adaptation of the story which is under the personal supervision of William Lord Wright.

Glenn Tryon Stars With Barbara Kent In "Lonesome"

GLENN TRYON and Barbara Kent will play the leading roles in Paul Fajos' first American picture for Universal titled "Lonesome," Eddie Phillips and Fay Holderness have also been selected for important parts.

"Lonesome" is an original story by Mann Page which Edward T. Lowe, Jr., has adapted. Fajos, the youthful European director of the sensational picture "The Last Moment," selected this story because of its simplicity and beauty.

"Fourflusher" Fine Box Office Feature

THE FILM DAILY pronounced Universal's comedy romance, "The Fourflusher" thoroughly pleasing with a new co-star combination of Marian Nixon and George Lewis that is appealing.

"Here's one any audience should like. It's light, amusing, clean and the romance is real. There's a delightful combination in it that makes for really good entertainment. It can be recommended without restraint. The story deals with the efforts of a young shoe salesman, who bluffs his way through, especially when he meets the girl he loves and wants her to think he's a big shot. He comes down to earth in time to make good and the girl is right on hand for the honeymoon trip to Niagara. Splendidly directed."

From UNIVERSAL with a most amazing record of box-office accomplishment . . .

Two of them - - "The Cat and the Canary" and "Les Miserables" - - already released, are galloping through the country leaving a trail of broken records behind them . . . another - - "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris" - - just started, is piling up amazing receipts against the stiffest kind of competition and at the worst season of the year . . . still another - - "Love Me and the World Is Mine" - - is being grabbed by the biggest houses in the land . . . the fifth with the inimitable Laura La Plante in a Mary Roberts Rinehart story, "Finders Keepers," is grabbing the headlines wherever it shows . . . and the last one now in the cutting-room - - "We Americans."

Man, there're six to make your eyes turn green with envy if your opposition gets them . . . there's six with quality, with pulling power, with endurance . . . buy 'em . . . book 'em . . . play 'em and get the money . . . there's a lot more dope on the following pages . . . read 'em . . .

AMAZING
in Quality—in Pulling Power—in PROFITS!

Another MERRY-GO-ROUND on a bigger scale.

LOVE ME and the World is Mine

With the famous MERRY-GO-ROUND cast including Norman Kerry, Betty Compson, George Siegmann, Henry B. Walthall, Martha Mattox and others.

LOVE ME and the World is Mine

directed by
A. E. DUPONT who gave you
"Variety"

LOVE ME and the World is Mine

booked by ROXY for the largest theatre in the world.

A UNIVERSAL LONG RUN SPECIAL

If you played last year's biggest money-maker, "The Cohens and Kellys," all we need say is here is its successor—

"THE COHENS AND KELLYS IN PARIS"

If you weren't one of the lucky ones last year all we need say is this one is twice as big—twice as funny.

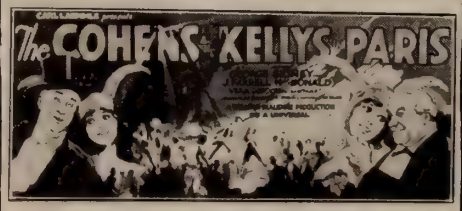
"THE COHENS AND KELLYS IN PARIS"

Previews have just started in a few key cities—see record figures on other pages.

"THE COHENS AND KELLYS IN PARIS"

starring GEORGE SIDNEY and J. FARREL MacDONALD with Vera Gordon, Kate Price and Gertrude Astor. A William Beaudine Production. Adaptation and continuity by Al Cohn. Story supervision by Joseph Poland.

"THE COHENS AND KELLYS IN PARIS"



AMAZING
in Quality—in Pulling Power—in PROFITS!

The surprise money-making picture of the season.

LES MISERABLES

The picture the whole world has been waiting for.

LES MISERABLES

Victor Hugo's Immortal Human Document

LES MISERABLES

"Three evenings entertainment in one" says FILM BULLETIN.

LES MISERABLES

Presented by
Carl Laemmle

A UNIVERSAL FILM DE FRANCE TRIUMPH

It will touch the hearts and quicken the pulse of every mother's son and daughter in this broad land—

"WE AMERICANS"

Starring GEORGE SIDNEY with George Lewis, Patsy Ruth Miller, Beryl Mercer, Albert Gran, Eddie Phillips —what a great cast of stars that is

"WE AMERICANS"

The one BIG picture pointing the way to success—big as the heart of all America.

"WE AMERICANS"

From the Broadway stage success by Milton Gropper and Albert Siegel. Directed by the man who gave you "HIS PEOPLE" — Edward Sloman. Supervised by Carl Laemmle, Jr.

"WE AMERICANS"

AMAZING
in Quality—in Pulling Power—in PROFITS!

The picture that set a new box-office standard everywhere.

THE CAT AND THE CANARY

The picture with the perfect cast — starring LAURA LA PLANTE with Arthur Edmund Carew, Forrest Stanley, Gertrude Astor, Tully Marshall, Creighton Hale, Flora Finch.

A PAUL LENI PRODUCTION from the Big Money stage play by John Willard

THE CAT AND THE CANARY

"THE CAT AND THE CANARY" is by far the best mystery melodrama from every viewpoint yet produced for the screen"—Film Bulletin

A UNIVERSAL LONG RUN SPECIAL

At the peak and pinnacle of her career—

LAURA LA PLANTE in "FINDERS KEEPERS"

From the story by Mary Roberts Rinehart, whose fame as a writer has reached every home in the United States.

LAURA LA PLANTE in "FINDERS KEEPERS"

the screen's great comedienne —growing better with each picture.

LAURA LA PLANTE in "FINDERS KEEPERS"

with Johnny Harron, Edmund Breese, Arthur Rankin, Capt. Duncan. A Wesley Ruggles Production.

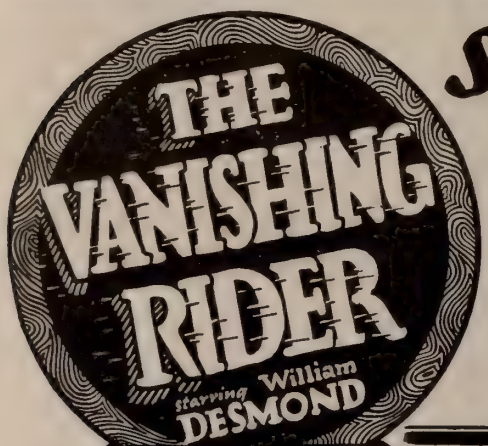
LAURA LA PLANTE in "FINDERS KEEPERS"

Look at the box-office reports in any trade paper—on any Laura La Plante picture and you'll see that she goes over Big everywhere!

LAURA LA PLANTE in "FINDERS KEEPERS"

UNIVERSAL

Tops the picture field this season with THREE sure-fire serials!



with ETHYLNE CLAIR
From the Story
by William Lord Wright
Directed by Ray Taylor

with HAZEL KEENER
From the Story by Howard Clark
Directed by Ray Taylor

with HELEN FOSTER
From the novel
by Frank R. Adams
Directed by Robert F. Hill

Get this! No Serials In the Field Even Begin to Approach these Three for Profit Punch!

Railway Excursions Into London to See "Uncle Tom's Cabin"

EUROPEAN have just completed arrangements with the Southern Railway which will be of great benefit to those served by that line who so far have been prevented from seeing "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the London Pavilion. The Southern are to start almost immediately "Uncle Tom's Cabin" specials to town, the passengers on which will be entitled to see the Pavilion show on presentation before 2:30 P. M. of the return half of either cheap day or half-day excursion tickets. This will operate every day except Saturday or Sunday, and those who have so far not seen European's masterpiece owing to the prohibitive expense of coming to town will welcome these interesting arrangements, which are a credit to the enterprising European staff.

This news from England proves that worthwhile pictures wherever they are played will receive the cooperation of people who have a sincere regard for the better sort of movies. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" during its run at the Central Theatre in New York City has been accorded the fullest support from the public school system. Teachers all through the city schools are urging their pupils to see the great screen classic, and principals are broadcasting the same message during the assembly periods.

Snookums Recovers From Pneumonia

JULIUS STERN, president of the Stern Film Corporation, makers of Stern Brothers Comedies, has just made public the fact that Snookums, the baby star of the Stern lot, who plays the baby in "The Newlyweds and Their Baby" comedies, has been seriously ill with pneumonia during the past four weeks, but now is well along toward complete recovery.

The baby was stricken early in January, after having suffered from exposure when on a holiday trip into the California mountains with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McKeen. He was rushed back to Los Angeles and for a week or more his condition was precarious. About the middle of the month, however, the crisis had passed and since that time he has been mending rapidly.

It is expected he will be recovered completely within another week or so. When he has gained his strength, plans will be put into effect to make a new series of "The Newlyweds and Their Baby" comedies. These two-reelers are adapted from the popular cartoons by George McManus.

Judging from Bessie Love's startled expression and George Allen's stern pose, Tom Moore must make some terrible sounds on the saxaphone. Just a bit of diversion between scenes on their latest picture, "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?"

"Buck Privates" Cleverly Presented In Granada Theatre, Santa Barbara

UNIVERSAL'S comedy of the American army in Luxemburg was presented at the Granada Theatre, Santa Barbara, California, in a manner that prepared the audience for the boisterous note of the film. "Buck Privates" is a rollicking picture full of doughboy humor and beer garden conviviality. The Granada Theatre had for its stage presentation setting the exterior of the tavern in the picture with the band sitting on beer barrels. German bar maids serving great steins of beer—Uncle Sam's Variety—added to the realistic atmosphere.

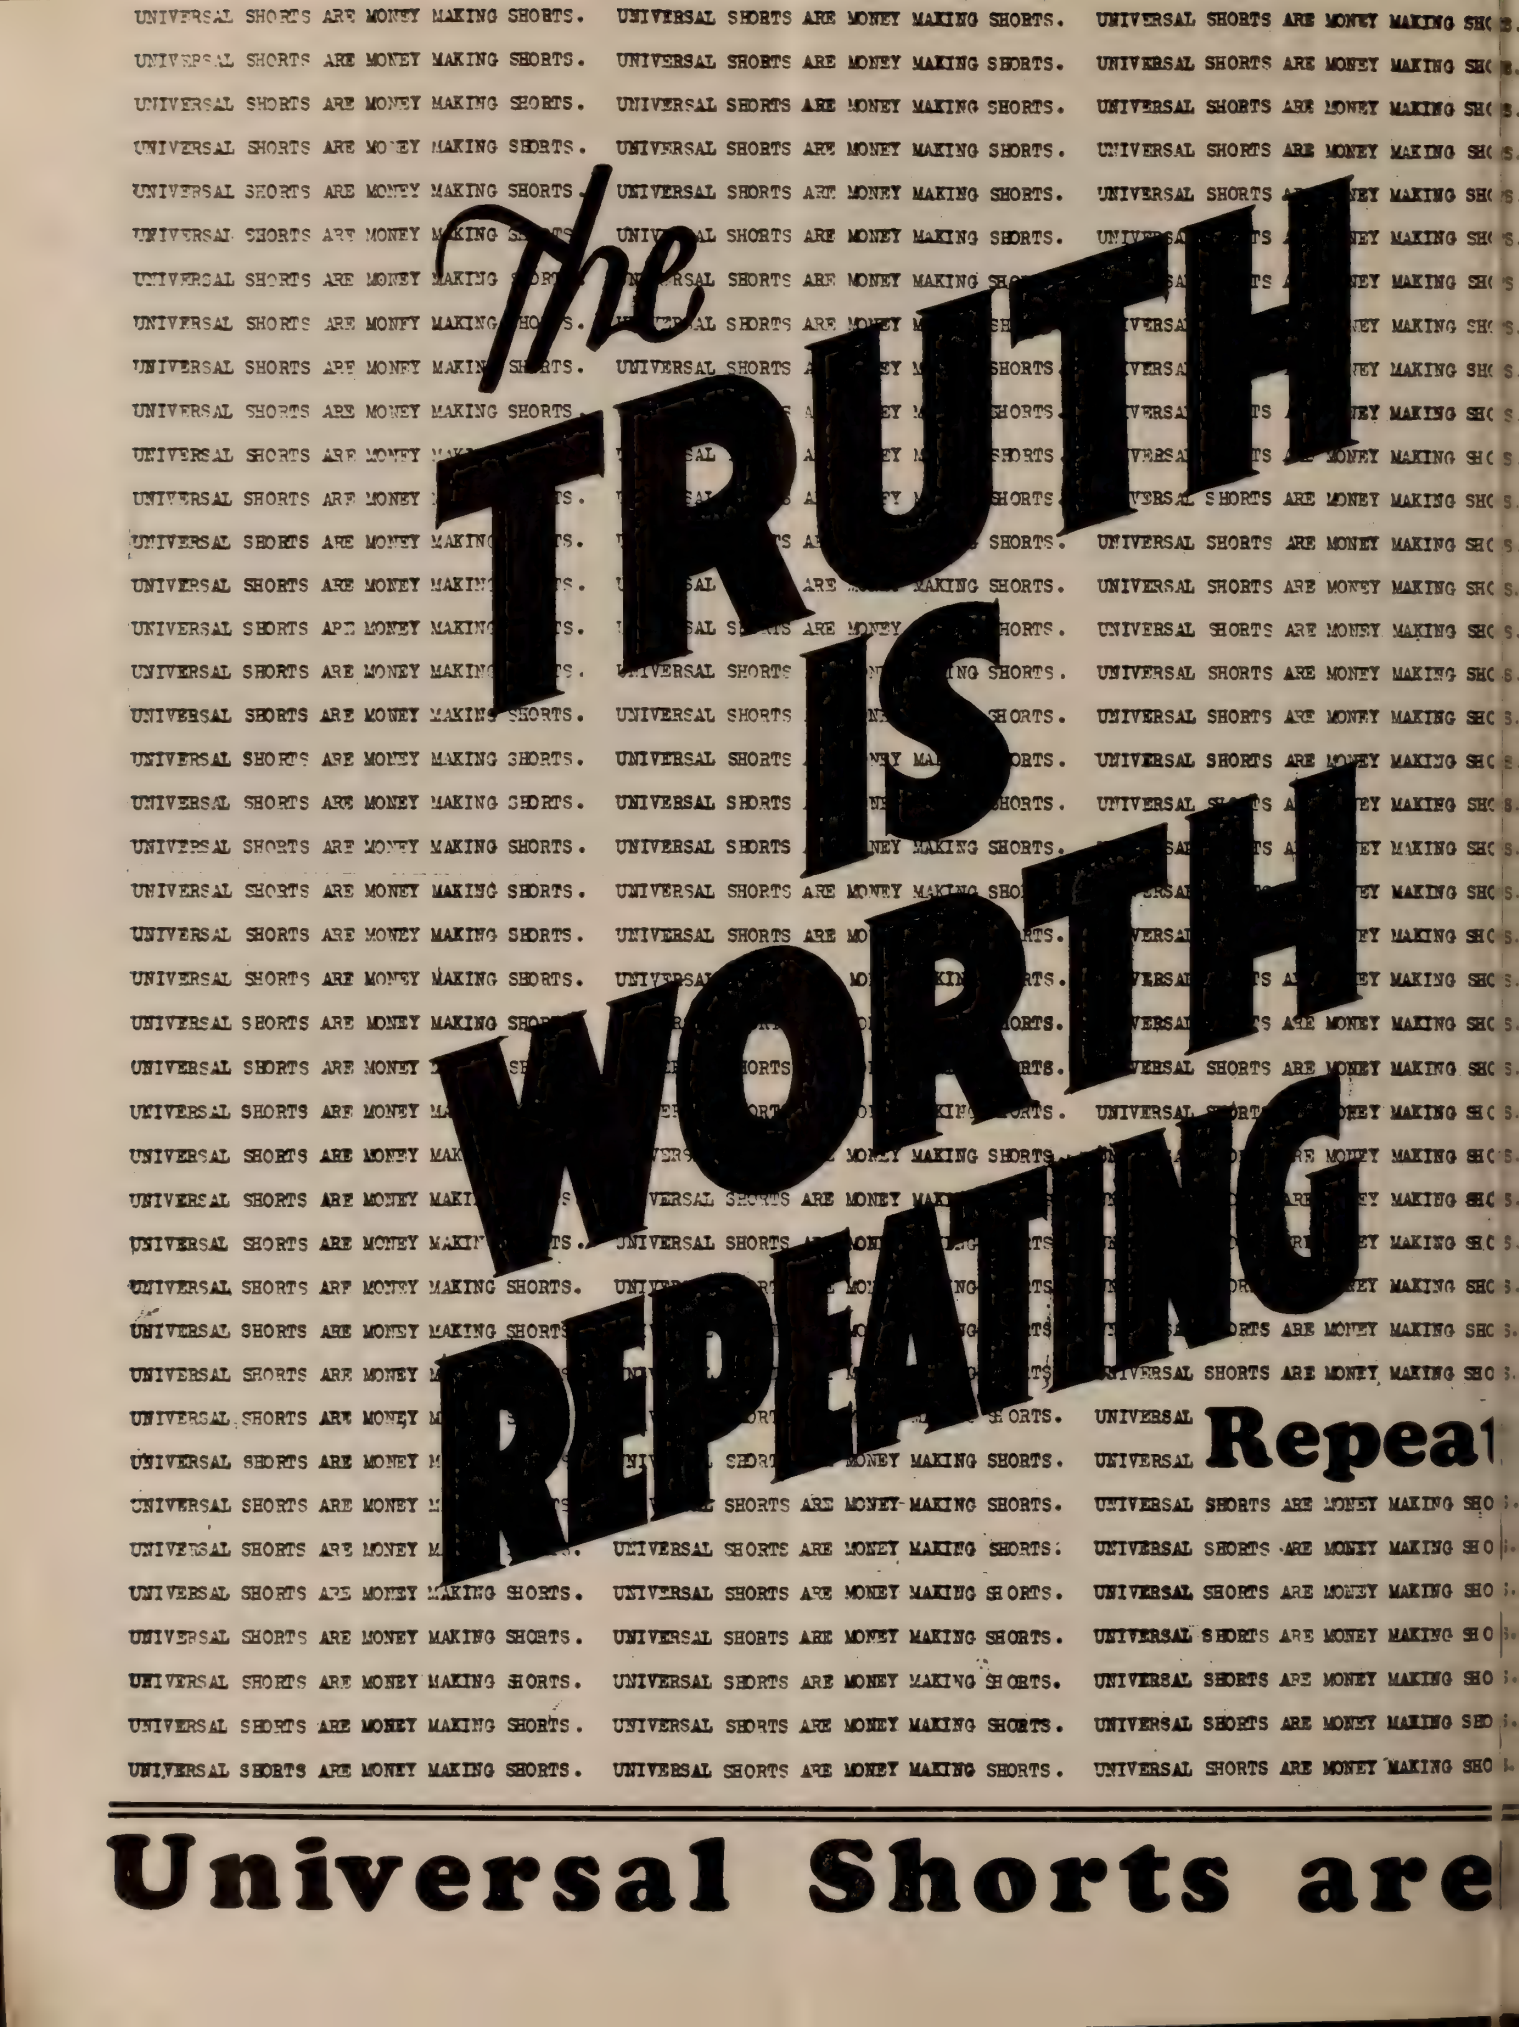
The orchestra opened with the "Overture of 1812" and then followed with such old time war songs as "My Buddie," "Pal of Mine," "Rose of No Man's Land," and a military dance by two clever children.

A goofy dance by two buck privates well typified the spirit of the buddies in the film, who go in for all the post-war pastimes on a grand scale. The grand finale was the song "Buck Privates" inspired by the film. The trio from the picture, Buddie Jamieson, Eddie Gribbon and Lee Bates, sang the song on the opening night. The curtain closed while the band was playing the last chorus of the song, and the main title was immediately flashed without the curtain being opened for bows. This prologue should prove successful elsewhere.

Monthly Calendar Helps Sell Pictures

EXPLOITEER Charles Lowenberg has devised a novel idea of selling the pictures shown in the Rivoli, Universal's Chain Theatre in East Indianapolis. Each month 5,000 calendars are sent out to the patrons with the coming attractions neatly printed across the corresponding play dates. The calendar, about 8" x 11", is printed on firm cardboard, and perforated for hanging. It is the sort of calendar that milady or her maid will find convenient in the kitchen to check off ice, milk, or various household necessities.

The cost of printing is entirely defrayed by advertisements of local merchants. Consequently, the calendar is a free means of keeping the Rivoli's pictures constantly before the eyes of the public.



The TRUTH IS WORTH REPEATING

Repeat

Universal Shorts are

Stern Bros. Productions

13 "MIKE AND IKE" Comedies from Rube Goldberg's famous newspaper cartoon syndicated by hundreds of newspapers.

13 "LET GEORGE DO IT!" Comedies by the same George McManus who does "THE NEWLYWEDS" (SNOOKUMS)—syndicated far and wide.

6 OCTAVUS ROY COHEN Charlie Puffy 2-Reelers written especially for Universal by the famous Saturday Eve. Post humorist.

13 "KEEPING UP WITH THE JONESES" Comedies from the famous comic strip by "Pop" Momand, known in every nook and corner of the land.

13 "BUSTER BROWN" — But you all know R. F. Outcault's mischievous kid and his gang —including the dog, Tige!

12 "GUMPS!" From Sidney Smith's famous comic strip. Samuel Van Ronkel Productions. Tremendous newspaper tie-up.

26 "OSWALD, The Lucky Rabbit." The Cartoon Sensation by Walter Disney. Winkler Productions. Released by Universal 26 Times a Year.

this phrase till you learn it by heart— its the truth! Act on it!

Money-Making Shorts

WOW!

26 "OSWALD, The Lucky Rabbit," SENSATIONAL cartoon hit created by Walt Disney. Winkler Productions.

Released through UNIVERSAL

DE LUXE THEATRES, INC.
1307 East Forty-fifth Street
Seattle, Wash.

December 15, 1927.

Mr. Mat Aparton,
Universal Film Exchange,
1933 Third Avenue,
Seattle, Wash.

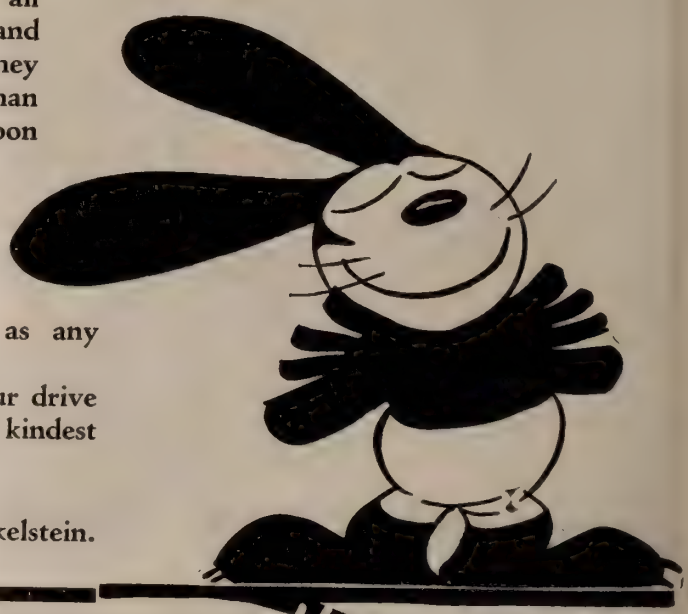
Dear Mr. Aparton:

I have seen two of the Oswald Cartoons. They are all that you said about them and more. Personally I think they are as fine, if not finer, than any brand of screen cartoon that I have seen to date.

Please excuse my resistance against the price you quoted me. The Oswald cartoons are certainly entitled to as much money as any single-reel on the market.

I wish you success in your drive on these cartoons. With kindest regards.

Yours very truly,
AF:DR (Signed) A. Finkelstein.



OSWALD - The LUCKY RABBIT

Sid Saylor as the boob postman in "A Man of Letters" lets business wait on pleasure.

Sid loses an eye over Dorothy Vernon in his February release of the "Let George Do It" series.

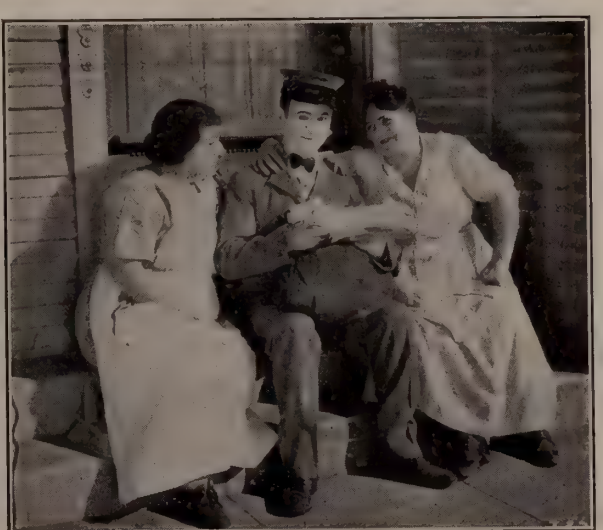
Six Comedy Releases During February Announced By The Stern Brothers

Snookums Heads Unusual Line-Up Of Two-Reelers from Stern Plant

SIX two-reel comedies will be released this month by the Stern Film Corporation through Universal exchanges, it has just been announced by Julius Stern, president of the comedy producing organization. This is an unusual number of Stern Brothers Comedies to reach the screen in any one month, and is especially notable because of the shortness of the current month.

The releases are headed by a new comedy of "The Newlyweds and Their Baby" series, adapted from the George McManus cartoon strips with Snookums, the Stern Brothers baby star, in the featured role. It is "The Newlyweds' Servant," a rollicking beach resort comedy; in which the Stern Brothers Follies girls play conspicuous roles. Gus Meins directed it, with Addie McPhail as Mrs. Newlywed and Jack Bartlett as Mr. Newlywed. Addie, who is rather tall for pictures, features the shortest bathing suit in Hollywood in this picture. The two-reeler is being released this week as a Universal Junior Jewel. It was a decided hit at the Colony Theatre, New York City, and over the Loew circuit on a pre-release run.

The other five Stern Brothers releases include two of the "Let George Do It" series, a Buster Brown Comedy, a "Mike and Ike" comedy and the latest "Keeping Up With the Joneses" comedy. The first to be released is the "Jones" comedy, "Start Something." Gus Mein directed this one, from an adaptation of Pop Momand's cartoon strip characterizations. Harry Long plays Aloysius P. McGinis and Stella Adams is Clarice, his wife. This comedy recently had its Broadway premiere in the Colony Theatre. It afterwards played over the Loew circuit. It is said to be one of the funniest of the "Joneses" comedies.



Even fat and forty housewives fall for Sid Saylor's engaging smile. The postman is one of his funniest characterizations.

The Buster Brown Comedy for February release is "Buster Steps Out," in which Buster, his dog, his sweetheart and his pals go on a fishing trip. Buster is played as usual by Arthur Trimble. Doreen Turner is Mary Jane. Francis Corby directed the two-reeler and put into it a number of highly laughable sequences.

The first "Let George Do It" February release, adapted from the George McManus comic strips, is "A Man of Letters," in which Sid Saylor, as George, takes the role of a boob postman. It is one of the most laughable of his long series of impersonations. Sam Newfield, who has been directing the "Let George Do It" series, has been especially successful in this two-reeler in taking full advantage of Saylor's unique comedy capabilities. Pretty Marie Wood and

(Continued on page 40)

Action! Romance! Dash!

Let Them In!

THE COLLEGIANS-- These shorts please as near 100% as anything we have ever shown. First series was wonderfull entertainment. Second we are now showing simply super-wonderful. S. G. FRY, Palace Theatre, Mount Pleasant, Texas

starring

George Lewis

with Dorothy Gulliver, Hayden Stevenson, Churchill Ross, Eddie Phillips. Director of first series, Wesley Ruggles—of second series, Nat Ross.

Carl Laemmle Jr's

UNIVERSAL Junior Jewels

The Collegians

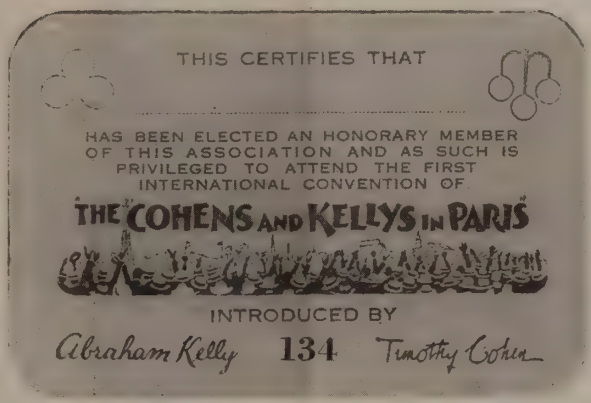
CARL LAEMMLE'S FAN LETTERS

Saturday Evening Post Readers Praise Their Favorite Pictures

"Chinese Parrot" Rates 100 Per Ct.

"IT gives me great pleasure, I assure you, to pronounce 100 percent rating for Paul Leni's 'The Chinese Parrot' with Marian Nixon; Edmund Burns played his role splendidly. I am very fond of Mr. Burns, have seen him several times, and he is a favorite of mine; so glad you gave him such a splendid chance. You will remember my having asked you over a year ago to give Edmund a good role some time? Well, I certainly am pleased. Hobart Bosworth's role in this picture was commendable; he is without question a mighty fine actor and one who can be depended upon to play his part with earnestness and sincerity. I notice an old timer, Florence Turner, had a good part. Good for her; glad to see her getting back into picture work. Sojin, I am afraid, took away honors in this picture. He surely is a fine actor. Really, he played the outstanding role of the entire picture."

—Arthur Pitt Light,
Saginaw, Mich.



A clever exploitation stunt for "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris" is to send one of these membership cards to every Cohen and Kelly in town. It sets the clan talking.

"Uncle Tom" Wins Plaudits

"YOU can, indeed, be complimented upon your 'Uncle Tom's Cabin,' which is a splendid portrayal of the famous classic. No detail has been omitted which can secure its success with an ever-increasing discriminating public. Its technical features are commendable and the photography is the finest that I have seen this year. An outstanding feature of this picturization is the acting of Mona Ray as Topsy, whose efforts can only be summarized as superb. The role of Eliza, as enacted by Marguerita Fischer, really touched the heartstrings by its pathos and tenderness. The character of Simon Legree was a happy choice for such a fine actor as George Siegmann, whose handling of this difficult role was entirely adequate."

—Joseph Zahn,
New York City.

"Les Miserables" Haunts Audience

"'LES MISERABLES' certainly was not a disappointment. It was all that could be wished for. All other pictures seem to fade into insignificance compared with it. It is a living, breathing picture with a soul —one that haunts you. More pictures are needed of that type."

—Mrs. Theresa Royer,
Dunbar, W. Va.

"Chinese Parrot" Bound to Thrill

"'THE CHINESE PARROT,' like 'The Cat and the Canary,' is bound to thrill its audience. Paul Leni, the director of both, in 'The Chinese Parrot,' shows his talents for making very thrilling lighting effects to good advantage. It is another 'Cat and the Canary,' not in story, but in thrills."

—Duncan Boss,
Paterson, N. J.

Here's Another Fan For Conrad Veidt

"ONE week ago, I had the satisfaction of seeing 'A Man's Past' and liked it wonderfully well. Those touches of human misery and compensating loyalty were classic. Then, too, Conrad Veidt, whom I had never seen before, added one more 'fan' to his galaxy."

—Mrs. Sara Worcester,
New Haven, Conn.

"Cheating Cheaters" Really Amusing

"'CHEATING CHEATERS'— thanks for a really amusing crook comedy with dandy subtitles and splendid work from Sylvia Ashton and Betty Compson," —George Patterson,

Manitoba, Canada.

"Collegians" Are Sure Cure for Blues

"JUST a few words to express my most sincere congratulations for your second release of 'The Collegians.' I was much interested during the first presentation of this second release, and in endeavoring to see what effect this picture had on the audience, I looked around, and I am positive that not a single person had a sad expression on their face. I myself, was feeling 'blue' when I walked into the theatre, but when I saw those good ideas of college life, which were brought out in this presentation, it seemed as if I had been impregnated with a completely new vigor and my sentiments of melancholy were soon replaced with joyous laughter. From time to time, when students were expressing their funny ideas which are nevertheless familiar with collegians, I could hear a roar of laughter."

—Leo Paul Roy,
Montreal, Que.

"Painting the Town" Wonderful Comedy

"'PAINTING THE TOWN' was truly a real comedy. I saw it last Sunday evening and feel that I am well repaid for going. I expected to see a good comedy, but it was far from my thoughts that it would be a wonderful comedy. Not that I doubted your ability to produce a first-class picture. But I did not think it was possible to produce a comedy with a real story, and have it keep to its purpose and yet be hilarious. I like surprises like that, so keep right on."

—Wm. Batty,
Middletown, Conn.

G. D. Hughes is justly proud of his New Liberty Theatre in Heavener, Oklahoma, built adjoining the old playhouse. It seats 750 and is one of the best equipped little houses in the state. Mr. Hughes has a circuit of three other theatres in Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Thrilling Film of Diving Submarine Taken by International Newsreel

HOW a submarine looks from the air as it is being submerged at sea is vividly pictured for the first time in the current issue of International Newsreel, now being shown at leading theatres throughout the country. The pictures were made off the coast of San Diego, California, by three International Newsreel cameramen during tests of Uncle Sam's new and biggest underwater craft. These new submarines, the V-2 and V-3, are fifteen feet longer than a destroyer and are capable of doing 22 knots an hour on the surface.

One of the newsreel cameramen, Merwyn Freeman, flew over the submarines. Another, Frank Blackwell, was inside the V-2, while B. E. Moissant was strapped to the periscope of the V-2. Moissant wore a life-preserver and the small boat kept nearby the submarine to pick up the cameraman after it had been deeply submerged. Lieutenant Commander G. A. Rood of the V-2 conducted the experiment through a rear periscope and gave the signals for the submerging.

Moissant, for the first time in history, succeeded in picturing every move of the submarine as it slowly sank under the waves and disappeared completely from sight. His position on the top of the periscope permitted him to show the submarine after it had sunk fifteen feet below the surface of the sea. The water was particularly clear so that remarkable pictures were made.

Meantime Blackwell was making pictures through the porthole covered with an especially constructed glass which permitted his camera to picture the surroundings beneath the waters. Commander Rood succeeded in stopping the submerging of the submarine just as Moissant's head reached the water and he was cut loose and taken aboard the small boat that had been held in readiness. The pictures are remarkably thrilling and a print will be added to the navy archives in Washington.

Brandon Hurst Jester in "Man Who Laughs" Arrives in New York

BRANDON HURST has completed the role of Barkilphedro the jester, in Paul Leni's production of Victor Hugo's classic "The Man Who laughs," for Universal, and arrived here Monday to make a picture at an Eastern studio.

Mr. Hurst reports that "The Man Who Laughs" is nearing the final cutting and will shortly be ready.

Conrad Veidt Has "It" In "A Man's Past"

CONRAD VEIDT, according to the Washington Herald, has "it." He shows it to fine advantage, so the paper says, in Universal's photodrama, "A Man's Past." The picture deals with that age-old subject whether a physician has the right to put an end to the suffering of incurable patients. The reviewer is well sold on Veidt's screen personality.

"Another lover possessing that indefinable 'it' has been brought to the screen. Already acclaimed as the Don Juan of Europe's cinema public, Conrad Veidt, is now conquering America.

"Veidt's Washington debut at the Rialto yesterday was an unqualified success. In 'A Man's Past,' an adaption of the Hungarian play 'Diploma,' the distinguished European artist reveals a talent comparable with John Barrymore.

"Both as actor and lover the dashing European is superb. His characterization of a difficult role leaves nothing to be desired. Intermingling romance with pathos and adventure, the new idol blossoms forth as an artist approaching screen immortality.

"Whether or not one is justified in taking the life of an incurable patient is the plot on which this story is founded. In this instance a distinguished surgeon, depicted by Veidt, is sentenced to a 10-year term of imprisonment for it.

"Escaping confinment, the physician is preparing to leave the country when he meets a blind friend. Sacrificing his own welfare, he remains behind to assist his comrade. The climax appears when a prison official recognizes the former convict.

"How the situation is smoothed out and the heart of a beautiful girl is won by the debonair surgeon forms a part of the plot that better be seen than described."

"Phyllis of Follies" Starts Production

FILMING of Arthur Gregor's original screen story, "Phyllis of the Follies," has started at Universal under the direction of Ernst Laemmle, according to anouncement by President Carl Laemmle.

John B. Clymer made the screen adaptation of the photoplay which has a theatrical background and is said to be replete with laughs and marital complications.

Alice Day, Matt Moore and Edmund Burns are appearing in the principal roles with Lilyan Tashman cast in a prominent featured part.

European Gives Series of Matinees To Aid London Flood Fund

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "Prince of Adventurers" Shown at Pavilion During Drive

FOLLOWING the happy result of their London Pavilion Thames Matinee when over £147 was raised for the disaster victims, European have decided to go out and get £1,000 for the Funds. At the first matinee, a packed house was headed by the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, Sir Charles and Lady Batho, the Mayor and Mayoress of Westminster, the Mayor and Mayoress of Fulham and Miss Madge Franckeiss, the London flood heroine who was accompanied by her brother Peter and a nurse from the Fulham Hospital, to which Miss Franckeiss returned after the performance.

Miss Franckeiss is still being treated for injuries which she received while carrying out her gallant rescues, and she was driven straight from Fulham Hospital to the Pavilion.

They were loudly cheered as they entered the theatre, and, with her brother and aunt, was introduced to the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, the Mayors and Mayoresses of Westminster and Fulham, and Mr. James B. Lowe, the original "Uncle Tom" of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" which is having such a successful run at the Pavilion.

The Lord Mayor said he regarded the courage and devotion of those who did some wonderful rescue work as one of the bright spots in the calamity. He thanked the supporters of his Fund.

"I am calling a meeting of the Mayors of the riverside boroughs to assist me in the distribution of most of the money at my disposal," he added.

"Nobody who went through the flood will ever forget it," said Miss Franckeiss. "It was a dreadful experience, and in it many people lost all they had."

So keen is the Mayor of Westminster to go the limit with his Thames Flood Fund, that he has consented to appear at European's second Flood Matinee at the London Pavilion on Sunday, January 29th. Instead of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "South Before the Warr," there was an all black show. "The South Before the War" Company featured prominently in the show, and every coloured artist of note in the country appeared. The whole of the proceeds are to be devoted to the Mayor of Westminster's Fund, which is to be called "The Florence Mills Memorial Charity Performance in Aid of the Thames Flood Fund."

When "Painting the Town" played in Liverpool, Clem West, European's branch manager, staged a beauty contest as one way of brightening the city. The lucky six toured Liverpool in state.

On Sunday, February 5th., the third bid was made to reach the £1,000.

Starting at 2:30 the performance included the Mosjoukine masterpiece "Prince of Adventurers" and other films, together with "South Before the War" artists from the London Pavilion.

Sandwich Men Exploit "Uncle Tom's Cabin"

WITH the above picture still playing to packed houses at the London Pavilion, and the interest of the public still at a high pitch, Billy Stewart has even doubled his efforts to let the world know when and where to see "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

No less than 200 sandwich board men were concentrated on London and the more important suburbs last Sunday.

They commenced their parade at 11:0 a. m. and continued right up until 7 p. m. It was practically impossible for anyone in the more important suburbs of London to walk a hundred yards without seeing a sandwich man.

The Sunday previous to that he had 100 men from 9:0 a. m. to 5:0 p. m., and later another hundred with illuminated signs up to 9 p. m.

The "Painting the Town Girls" were entertained at the Prince of Wales Cafe and attracted much attention wherever they went.

"South Before War" Smashing Prolog For "Uncle Tom"

WHEN European first announced that "Uncle Tom's Cabin," the spectacular £600,000 Universal film, was to go on at the London Pavilion with a stage show, it was generally thought that whatever speaking performance was given would be nothing more than a great prologue.

Yet, within twenty-four hours of the premier presentation of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "South Before the War," the whole of London was talking about the greatest film masterpiece of the age and the extraordinary dramatic show which was being staged with it. Instead of a prologue, they found that the star of the film was making a personal appearance by himself on the stage and starring in two gorgeous stage scenes, with a lavishly equipped and produced company of over forty artistes.

Even England's sternest film critics have given way before the beauty and grandeur of "South Before the War" and lavished their praise on the stage spectacle as well as the screen.

It is interesting to note what Mr. E. W. Betts, of the Westminster Gazette has to say about "South Before the War." "As a rule, I detest film prologues and what cinema experts call 'Presentations,' but I must make an exception of 'South Before the War,' the stage introduction to the 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' film at the Pavilion . . . as they have good voices and considerable humour, the darkies' entertainment is capital."

Mr. W. A. Mutch, in The Daily Chronicle, said "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is preceded by a negro song and dance act called 'South Before the War,' which in itself is worth the price of admission."

Universal Takes

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN

A Universal Super Special

Released December 31, 1928

Now in its 2nd month of sensational business at the

LONDON PAVILION

Piccadilly Circus

They thought we were crazy when we opened it "cold" at the greatest theatre in the heart of London's fashionable West End. AND NOW WE WANT TO EXTEND OUR LEASE. Never before has such tremendous business been witnessed at this premier theatre. Turnaway houses daily—still in its second great month—and drawing greater and greater crowds daily. Think of the business it will do for YOU—with the prestige of its sensational London run behind it!

EUROPEAN is giving you

London by Storm!

The great surprise production of the year, it crashed London's West End and instantly started to break records at the RIALTO THEATRE—a house known for its great receipts. Four times daily, twice on Sunday, it packs the house to the portals. Now past its hundredth performance and going like a house afire. The picture for class, prestige AND tremendous profits.

Past its 100th performance of its record breaking business at the RIALTO
Piccadilly Cir.

"Prince of Adventurers"

A Universal Film De France Extravaganza

Released September 10, 1928

the Big Pictures AGAIN!

"COHENS AND KELLYS" IN PARIS" BOX-OFFICE BET OF SEASON

(Continued from page 11)

also characterizes the picture as a far better fun-film than the original Cohens and Kellys hit, which he reiterates as one of the biggest money-makers of last season.

As a result of the exceptional business in the Capitol Theatre, Atlanta, with "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris," which played to capacity for the entire week, Morty L. Semon, the manager of that house, has wired to Universal advocating and asking Carl Laemmle to consider the making of further Cohens and Kellys pictures, such as the Cohens and Kellys in England, Japan, Italy, Germany and other countries, as soon as practical.

Whether Universal will follow this suggestion or not, is not certain at this time, although there was an announcement several months ago that a new Cohens and Kellys picture was being considered for the 1928-1929 season. The critic of the Washington Times, in reviewing the current picture after its presentation at the Rialto Theatre there, made the following prophesy:

"If we can guess the future, this won't be the last 'Cohens and Kellys' comedy."

"The Cohens and Kellys in Paris" was directed by William Beaudine from a story by Joseph Poland, who also supervised the production. Al Cohn made the adaption. George Sidney and J. Farrell MacDonald are the leading principals, with Vera Gordon, Kate Price and Gertrude Astor featured in the order named. The cast also includes Sue Carroll, Charles Delaney, Gino Carrado and others.

The humor of the original "Cohens and Kellys" is heightened by setting these amusing characters in the wilds of Paris.

"Les Miserables" Is Screen Classic

FROM the Milwaukee Journal comes this glowing review:

"'Les Miserables' is an achievement. It is stern and beautiful and also humorless and absorbing. It contains at least two of the best pieces of acting the screen has contributed to its high gallery of good acting.

"One of them is that of Gabriel Gabrio, or Jean Valjean. The other is that of a little girl, Andree Rolane. As Cosette, she is a waif so appealing and forlorn that she may be said to share the picture equally with the stout Jean, who lived again so ably in the figure of Gabrio that townspeople where the film was made in France called him nothing but 'Jean.'

"The Victor Hugo story does not suffer in any way. No uncalled for liberties have been taken with the book in the name of the box office. The settings are vivid.

"It is perhaps a mistake to single but two actors for particular praise. The old priest—from whom Jean steals the candlesticks—is there in the flesh, and also his sister, who is not quite so ready to give away all she has.

"One of the film's splendid accomplishments is when Jean makes his gesture of love toward his once hated enemy. The transition from hatred to compassion is done well:

"'Les Miserables' should be as much a classic on the screen as it is in literature."

"Irresistible Lover" Highly Humorous

NORMAN KERRY'S charms are given due credit by the Chicago Evening American:

"Norman Kerry has ever been the irresistible lover on the screen. Witness 'The Merry Go Round,' and 'The Phantom of The Opera,' and his various other successes.

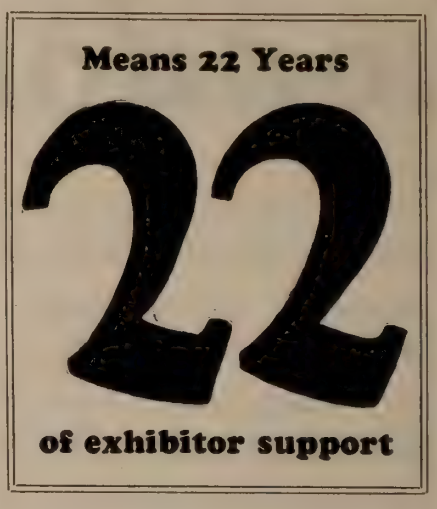
"Knowing this, Universal evidently decided to come right out and call a spade a spade. And so we have Norman playing the title role in a movie, the title of which is 'The Irresistible Lover.'

"This has a thistledown plot and there's nothing in the least novel about its complications. But it's so well put on and played that it is delightful.

"Kerry plays a young millionaire and man of fashion who has a penchant for falling for Follies girls. After an adventure of this kind, he usually wakes up to the fact that the girls are mercenary misses and so he pays them off and promptly forgets them. Because of these goings on, however, he gains quite a bad reputation in the newspapers, with the result that when he does fall in love at last and with the right girl—he has a hectic time of it. She is the daughter of a policeman and straight laced.

"After a series of highly humorous and romantic adventures, we have several people going gunning for Kerry, the husbands of the ladies with whom he has 'carried on,' not the policeman's daughter. Little Lois Moran is the daughter.

"Arthur Lake does one of his usual made flappers as the young brother and is excellent."



FEBRUARY RELEASES OF STERN'S FILMS

(Continued from page 33)

Dorothy Vernon, one brunette and the other very blonde, support Saylor in this comedy. Jimmy Kelly also is in the cast.

The "Mike and Ike" release this month is "What a Party," directed by Francis Corby with Charles King as Mike and Charles Dorety as Ike. These comedies, adapted from the popular newspaper comics by Rube Goldberg, are becoming more and more in demand, Universal sales heads report. The current release, which recently was shown at the Colony Theatre, New York City, then at the Cameo and later over the Loew circuit, is said to have plenty of entertainment value.

The final Stern Brothers release for February will be another "Let George Do It" comedy, entitled "George's False Alarm." As another chapter in Sid Saylor's inimitable characterizations, it shows George as a rookie fireman. The two-reeler is filled with gags. The Los Angeles Fire Department co-operated in the making of the picture and it contains thrills as well as laughs. Mary Elwyn is the girl. The cast also includes the old screen favorite, Max Ascher as the Fire Chief. This two-reeler already has had its Broadway first-run. It was directed by Sam Newfield.

It Satisfies!

For the 4th consecutive year Exhibitor C. S. Hayner has signed a Universal Complete Service Contract. Read his letter which follows:

I have just signed my fourth complete service contract for my theatres in Central Park, Pratt City and Farrant City, Alabama, and wish to state that each year's contract has proved better than the previous one.

More power to Universal and "Uncle Carl's" Complete Service Contract.

C. S. Hayner,
Central Park,
Alabama.

Universal's Complete SERVICE CONTRACT

Watch This Column
Our Weekly Chat

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN"
Proves a Revelation

It has been suggested to me that possibly some people might think that our beautiful production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is merely a picturization of the old drama shown on the stage.

If such an impression exists, it is most erroneous

Universal's screen version is the most pretentious effort ever made with this American story as the vehicle. It required two years to make and cost nearly two million dollars.

In the stage plays, the crudest of painted scenery was used. In Universal's picture version the entire company was sent into the Southland and much of the play was enacted in the very country where the action was laid by the author.

Dame Nature was our scenic artist

And you simply can't conceive the beautiful and natural effects thus secured. No painter in the world, regardless of the character of his talent, could possibly reproduce on canvas the beauty we have secured through the medium of the camera.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin," as produced by UNIVERSAL, will be a source of constant wonder to you from title to conclusion. And I can say, in all truthfulness, that never before has "Uncle Tom's Cabin" been played in such a mighty and realistic manner.

This picture, as UNIVERSAL has created it, is not just a picture. It is a great spectacle, in my estimation, and you can't gain any notion of its grandeur without seeing it with your own eyes.

Keep watch for it. Then write me your conclusions.

Carl Laemmle
President

(To be continued next week)

Send 10c for autographed photograph of your favorite Universal star

If you want to be on our mailing list send in your name and address

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

730 Fifth Ave., New York City

Ad No. 357

NEWS!

News is publicity. Publicity is money in your pocket. Money in your pocket is what you're after. Tie up with the newsy, breezy Universal advertising in the Saturday Evening Post and you'll get what you're after.

Column at left will appear in the Saturday Evening Post issue of Feb. 18, 1928

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
Vol. 27 No. 11
April 21, 1928

Consistently Good! —that's Universal!

UNIVERSAL PRODUCT. We find that Universal has the most consistent pictures on the market. Giles Master, Strand Theatre, Gallup, New Mexico.

from M.P. World

YOU can't run your theatre on one or two big hits a year—and you know it. You need bread-and-butter pictures. Pictures that protect your brick and mortar. That will bring in the cash customers every day in the year. And you get them from Universal. Specials? Here, too. Shorts? Likewise. Westerns? Best in the world. Quit your shopping. Come to the company that gives you everything!

Universal—the Backbone of Your Program

Glenn Tryon attains an ambition

The High Potentate of Pep

TRYON

WHEN Glenn Tryon was a little boy he said "When I grow up I'm going to make a lot of money for a lot of movie exhibitors."

He kept this ambition in the back of his head until one day he met Carl Laemmle, President of Universal Pictures Corp., who put him in a picture called "PAINTING THE TOWN." This picture was so extraordinarily funny that movie fans flocked in droves to see it and critics everywhere said "At last—a real comedian." So he made another picture called "A HERO FOR A NIGHT" and that was so funny it played to SRO all over the country.

In a little while—May 13th to be exact—Universal will release his latest, "HOT HEELS," a William James Craft Production with Patsy Ruth Miller—and they say it's funnier than anything he's done yet.

And that's how Glenn Tryon attained his life long ambition to make a lot of money for a lot of exhibitors.

PLAY

No. 581.---Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

YOUR play dates are your greatest strength.

Everything depends upon your proper use of them.

When I ask you to allot every possible play date that you can to Universal, it is not merely because my Anniversary Drive is now in full blast and will continue in full blast until May fifth, but also because your strength and my strength are inseparably bound together—just as your prosperity and my prosperity are one and the same thing.

Sentimentally, I ask for every possible play date during my Anniversary Drive from now until May fifth.

Practically, I ask for all possible play dates all the time because the play dates you allot to Universal mean just that much money which I can turn into better and better pictures for your future supply.

After all, you've got to judge the various companies in this business by their past performances. You've got to decide what companies you fear and what companies you trust.

DATES

You've got to separate the sheep from the goats, in your own mind. You've got to place your business and your money where you think it will do you the most good, not only for the present, but for the future.

It simmers down to a question of what company you want to throw all possible strength to. If you decide that the Universal has earned first place in your confidence, the only method you have of showing it is by the use of your play dates.

By booking every Universal picture you can possibly book and by giving Universal the bulk of your play dates and the earliest ones you can give—in this way you are demonstrating your faith in Universal, and protecting yourself.

By using the Universal output as the backbone of your year's supply and then filling in the rest of your needs elsewhere, you are giving Universal the strength which it returns to you each year in the form of mighty good pictures at a live-and-let-live price.

Now is the time to show your colors. I have shown mine ever since I started in this business 22 years ago—and I intend to continue to show them as long as I am a factor in such a wonderful industry.

Laura La

The Screen's Great Comedienne!

In "FINDERS KEEPERS" Laura La Plante adds immeasurably to her already lustrous career. It is without question her greatest picture—a picture that stamps her with the imprint of glorious greatness in the minds of all who behold her—critics, movie fans, exhibitors—"FINDERS KEEPERS" is box office plus. You'll never know how good it is until you play it. Play it!

AGAIN Universal has the Plante

in

The WESLEY RUGGLES PRODUCTION

"FINDERS KEEPERS"

with Johnny Harron, Edmund Breese, Arthur Rankin, Capt. Duncan from the Saturday Evening Post Story by MARY ROBERTS RINEHART Pictures!

The
UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for the Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick, ~ Editor
Published by the Motion Picture Weekly Publishing Co. Heckscher Bldg. 730-5th Ave. New York City
Copyright 1928 UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION All rights reserved

Vol. XXVII APRIL 21, 1928 No. 11

UNIVERSAL MOVIEGRAMS

THEY are coming from all over the world to "We Americans" at the Colony Theatre, New York. George Sidney, having finished "Give and Take" at Universal City, hopped a train for New York and arrived just as Patsy Ruth Miller was returning from a vacation trip to Paris and London. In New York already are Beryl Mercer, who plays Patsy Ruth Miller's mother, and Daisy Belmore, who plays the German mother in the film.

MAY 1st is the date on which Universal's serial program gets under way at Universal City. On that date Jack Nelson will start production of "The Diamond Master" by Jacques Futrelle.

THE Atlanta Constitution and Honorable Clark Howell, its editor, are so much impressed with the Peter B. Kyne newspaper story, "Freedom of the Press," that they have requested the privilege of sponsoring its world premiere at the Capitol Theatre in Atlanta, Ga. It opens there on April 23.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" will have its Philadelphia premiere on April 23 at the Garrick Theatre. Administrative, social and artistic Philadelphia will compose the first-night audience.

APPARENTLY the name of Kelly means nothing in Germany. The title, "Anybody Here Seen Kelly?" has been changed by Universal's German releasing outfit to "Hat Jemand Den Kleinen Kohn Gesehen?" All of which indicates that the "little Kohn" is the equivalent of the English Kelly. Which leads us to conjecture what will Universal's German office do with the title of "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris"?

PAUL LENI TELLS WHY THE TERRIBLE LURES US

Director of "Man Who Laughs" Expounds Unique Audience Theory

"OOOOOOO! Ohhhhhhhh! Look at that!"

Screams in the dark. Shudders. Creeps. Loud whispers on all sides.

These are not incidents emanating from a torture chamber, but the pleasurable reactions of a group of people who paid to experience these very thrills. They come from a theatre audience who, for the moment, have lost themselves in the unveiling of a mystery story on the screen.

"The lure of the terrible" is the showman's description of this excited state of the audience and he lets it go at that. What people will or will not like has always been pretty much of a mystery to him, but he knows that when people act like that it will boost his box-office receipts.

It was this fascination for the abnormal by the average person that made "The Cat and the Canary" one of the year's biggest box-office hits and Paul Leni a noted director. Leni filled it with creepy situations, weird characters and spooky angles.

Leni had just come to Hollywood from Germany when Universal assigned him "The Cat and the Canary" for his first American production. He made sets for "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari," the earliest successful picture to portray the abnormal in life with an artistry that was in itself abnormal. He also directed "Three Wax Works." The German was noted for his skill in chilling the hearts of an audience with fearful, yet pleasant reactions.

"The Cat and the Canary" was a decidedly "scary" picture. Of those who saw it, who will ever forget that long windowed passageway where the curtains moved mysteriously in every puff of wind and seemed to sweep after the characters who ran through it? Or the gooseflesh brought about by the mere entrance of the old servant, played by Martha Mattox, into the room? Or the strong desire to shout "Look out" to Laura La Plante as the black, snaky fingers were about to grab the necklace that hung around her throat?

Leni knows, perhaps, better than any other man why the fearful and gruesome aspects of life should hold a lure for human beings.

It is our curiosity to know what the abnormal is like," said the Universal director. "Our imaginations have been satisfied concerning the everyday things of life, but it is seeking knowledge about the unknown things existing in the limbo of the world that causes the 'lure of the terrible.'"

(Continued on page 32)

There is no faking of Central Park and New York's skyline in Universal's forthcoming comedy starring Bessie Love and Tom Moore. Bessie Love in a lonesome moment.

The background of Bessie Love's nap gives an interesting view of the Plaza. The Heckscher Building, the one with the tallest spire, is the home office of Universal Pictures.

New York Scenes from "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?"

Washington Square with its famous arch and its row of old-fashioned and once aristocratic houses forms the scene of Bessie Love's arrival in search of Kelly.

Like all true sight-seers, Bessie Love takes a trip to the Art Museum on Fifth Avenue in the film story written by Leigh Jason and directed by William Wyler.

WHO is the star that comes across regularly with the Big-Money Hits

?

REGINALD DENNY

—and the best Denny yet is "Good Morning, Judge," with Dorothy Gulliver, Otis Harlan. A Wm. Seiter Production.

Presented by
CARL LAEMMLE

Get In Touch With

UNIVERSAL

More Reviews of

Enthusiastic Reports Still Pourin

THE critics of the trade papers are as much sold on the box-office and human-interest merits of "We Americans" as the first-night newspaper reviewers were. From the Motion Picture News comes the following comment:

"We Americans"

A Sure-Fire Americanization Drama

(Reviewed by Chester J. Smith)

A combination of an Americanization and a war picture is this sure-fire Universal production, with just enough of the war stuff to carry off the full import of the story adapted from the successful stage play by Milton Herbert Gropper and Max Siegel. It is by no means a war story, as there is but one sequence showing action on the battlefield. It is described as a drama of American immigrants.

There is much about the screen play that is not entirely new and there is a bit of hokum here and there emphasized for tear-drawing purposes, but all in all it looks like a picture that can hardly miss. It has a great abundance of natural pathos and it develops some situations that are markedly dramatic.

* * * *

The characters, particularly those of the immigrants, are exceptionally well played and could hardly be improved upon. The portrayals of George Sidney and Beryl Mercer, as Mr. and Mrs. Levine, the old Jewish couple, are real masterpieces. Patsy Ruth Miller, as their daughter, also carries off her share of the laurels, as does Albert Gran in the German role of Mr. Schmidt.

Drawing Power: Should prove an excellent attraction at houses of all descriptions.

Exploitation Angles: The Americanization angles provide for various hook-ups that should stimulate business; the all-star cast.

THEME: Young American lieutenant of leading family falls in love with daughter of Jewish immigrants. His life is saved in action by the girl's brother, who sacrifices his own life to do so. The lieutenant returns to claim his bride only to meet objections from his parents, who are made to realize their folly upon meeting the girl's parents, and having explained to them their great sacrifice.

A. J. in Motion Pictures Today recommends the picture for its unusually strong emotional appeal:

"We Americans"

"We Americans" is another melting-pot picture in which Italian, German and Jewish characters are featured and to which are added a soupcon of Irish and a dash of Scandinavian. Before the picture ends none is without his first papers and the blue blood of the Bradleighs mingles and is set for a merging in marriage with the red blood of the Levines.

The story is strongest in its emotional appeal with George Sidney more convincingly effective than ever before and Beryl Mercer in a mother role that she makes a masterpiece of patient suffering and appeal.

"We Americans"

in from Trade and Newspapers

The problems of immigrant assimilation as they appear to the immigrant and the younger generation form the theme of this simply told but exceedingly strong emotional narrative. One of its novelties is the clear demonstration that an attractive Jewish girl can fall in love, when she goes outside her own race, with somebody who isn't Irish. Edward Sloman in directing the picture has shown fine skill and an artistic simplicity that raises the picture above the level of the average. Patsy Ruth Miller is the young Jewish girl of the new generation, Kathlyn Williams is the Fifth Avenue mother, George Lewis is the Jewish hero who gives his life in battle to save his commanding officer and John Boles, Eddie Phillips, and Albert Gran are conspicuous in a well chosen cast.

Universal presented "We Americans" at the Colony Theatre and a representative audience gave its genuine approval.

A. J.

Lack of space in last week's issue of the Universal Weekly prevented publishing all of the newspaper reviews of the premiere of "We Americans" at the Colony Theatre. The following criticisms are of the same enthusiastic calibre that distinguished the reviews of the other papers:

New York World
By Quinn Martin

The Colony Theatre, in a new dress and operating under the more dignified policy of two-shows-a-day, opened its doors last night to an invited audience, which saw the first showing of Carl Laemmle's "We Americans." This is a film version of the stage play of the same name which ran on Broadway much longer than any of the critics had any idea it might run.

* * * *

The various leading parts are well acted by George Sidney, Beryl Mercer, John Boles and Patsy Ruth Miller, and for the reason that the message of the picture bears so directly upon several real problems which face the foreign-born inhabitants of the country, it probably will have a long and prosperous run.

New York Herald Tribune
By Harriette Underhill

Carl Laemmle, Jr., supervised the filming of "We Americans," which opened at the Colony Theatre last night, and knowing that he had pleased us in the past we tried to trust him and believe that the new picture would not be much worse than the advertisements predicted. Still, as we entered the theatre we trembled for we were in no mood to join in the cheers which usually greet an imitation "Abie's Irish Rose" production. But the younger Laemmle has kept his head and there is no more hokum in "We Americans" than we ourselves should have ordered had we been doing it. Edward Sloman, the lightning director, made this picture and it is the best thing he ever did.

* * * *

Beryl Mercer plays the role delightfully, but why shouldn't she, when one remembers it was she who played the title role in the one-act Barrie play, "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals"?

(Continued on page 10)

WHAT

name means Big Money any time to large and small theatres anywhere and everywhere.

?

REGINALD DENNY

—and the Biggest Big-Money Denny yet is "Good Morning, Judge," with Mary Nolan, Dorothy Gulliver, Otis Harlan, etc. A Wm. Seiter Production.

Presented by
CARL LAEMMLE

Get In Touch With UNIVERSAL

WHEN

a lot of the near stars flop who unfailingly can be relied on for the Big Money

?

REGINALD DENNY

—and the most sure-fire Denny to date is "Good Morning, Judge," with Mary Nolan, Dorothy Gulliver, etc. A William Seiter Production.

Presented by
CARL LAEMMLE

Get In Touch With

UNIVERSAL

Still More Reviews of "We Americans"

(Continued from page 9)

The cast is what is known as all star, yet there is no finer performance in the picture than that given by Miss Mercer. We think we liked George Sidney next best as Mr. Levine. He is one comedian who can take off his shoes, complain of his ills, lie down and snore without ever being offensive.

Patsy Ruth Miller, looking so foreign and so different with plain hair and big earrings that we hardly knew her, plays the Jewish rose, Beth Levine. Josephine Dunn wins another beauty contest, but her part is small.

We admit to not being an authority on these poly-racial pictures, but it seems to us that "We Americans" has just the proper mixture and is of a proper consistency to please everybody.

New York American
By Regina Cannon

"We Americans" had its premiere unreeling at the Colony Theatre last night before an audience looking like Mayfair itself. Much ermine and glitter went toward making the occasion that which is referred to in social columns as auspicious.

The picture was adapted from the stage play of the same name, which opus was one of Broadway's successes several seasons ago. Director Sloman adhered rather closely to the script, so the authors will have little to complain of in the matter of manhandling their brain child.

* * * *

First acting honors go to George Sidney, who is one of the cleverest thespians on the silver sheet, with the man who plays Mr. Schmidt running close behind. Patsy Ruth Miller makes a sincere and charming heroine and George Lewis a likable juvenile.

"We Americans" contains some fine film entertainment that will please old and young alike. It is generously interspersed with laughs and has its underlying pathos, too. Put it on your list of pictures to see.

Missouri Newspaper Eulogizes "The Fourth Commandment"

THE Monett Times comments editorially on Universal's Mother Picture:

Even those people who are opposed to motion picture shows as a matter of principle, would have had to admit that "The Fourth Commandment" shown at the Rialto Theatre this week, brought home forcibly the scriptural admonition, "Honor thy father and thy mother," had they witnessed the picture.

The picture brought out a mother's love and tenderness and the consequences of neglecting her in her old age. The picture made a deep impression on the children present. Parents noticed the day following an unusual tenderness and consideration on the part of their children who saw the picture.

The motion picture is a great force either for good or evil, and Monett appreciates the fact that the local theatres buy the pictures which emphasize the good. A sermon cannot impress the lesson more forcibly than does the pictured story.

Stanley Fabian House Holds Successful Preview Of "Anybody Here Seen Kelly?"

"HAS ANYBODY HERE SEEN KELLY?" one of Universal's outstanding Jewels for next year, underwent a highly successful preview showing several day ago in the Colonial Theatre, Pompton Lakes, N. J., a Stanley Fabian house. The picture drew an excellent audience against the double handicap of a Jewish holiday and Holy Week. The audience was enthusiastic over the production and laughed wholeheartedly at its succession of humorous scenes.

The previewing of a picture in the East is a novelty. Most companies try-out their pictures on the West Coast. Many Universal pictures are tried-out in this way on audiences in the small cities around Los Angeles. In the case of "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?" it was decided to hold the preview in the East. The picture is laid in New York City and many of its scenes actually were photographed on Fifth Avenue, at Times Square and at other well-known New York points of interest. William Wyler, the director, brought Bessie Love, the star, and a special company from California to New York to obtain these scenes.

As a result of the preview at Pompton Lakes, C. S. Michelson, managing director of the Colonial for the Stanley Fabian circuit, wrote as follows to Ted Schlanger, Eastern sales manager for Universal:

"This is to advise you that we screened your picture, 'Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?' as a pre-view tonight to a very enthusiastic audience. Tonight, being a Jewish holiday and in Holy Week, I did not anticipate a very large audience, but for some reason business was very good, and I attribute it entirely to the catchy title of the picture and to the fact that it was a 'pre-view' showing.

"The audience liked the picture very much, judging from the many laughs it got, and on the way out I stopped many who claimed it very enjoyable.

"If this is to be a sample of your coming product, I think we can look forward to a very satisfactory year."

The Pompton Lakes preview was attended by several Universal home office executives who went away highly satisfied at the audience reaction to the production.

The picture was made by Wyler from a story by Leigh Jason, adapted by Gladys Lehman. Tom Moore is the leading male co-star with Miss Love. Other principals are Kate Price, Tom O'Brien, Alfred Allen, Bruce Gordon and Addie McPhail. It is a New York police story with a French flavor and a continuous comedy streak.

"Red Hot Speed" Denny's Next Film

"RED HOT SPEED" will be the title of Reginald Denny's next picture for Universal. The adaptation is now being made ready for production to commence about May first. Fred Newmeyer, who recently had his contract extended by Universal, will probably direct. No announcement has as yet been made regarding Denny's leading lady.

"Red Hot Speed" is a fast and thrilling automobile racing story based on a series of unusual events that Denny has wanted to screen for some time.

Denny is now vacationing at his cabin home high up in the Sierra Madre mountains where he is isolated with only a few companions. Here he spends his time riding, shooting, trapping and gardening until such a time when the studio advises him to report for his next picture.

"Me and Baseball are the biggest attractions of the minute — and I'm not so sure about baseball."

OSWALD

The Lucky Rabbit

"If you are looking for an A-1 comedy this is one. Had more comments on it than on the feature."

—G. N. Turner, Family Theatre, North Branch, Minn.

Cartoon Creations of Walt Disney

WINKLER PRODUCTIONS

Released by

UNIVERSAL

Hoot Gibson gets 'em in Play these

GIBSON
Current Releases:

The WILD WEST SHOW

The FLYING COWBOY

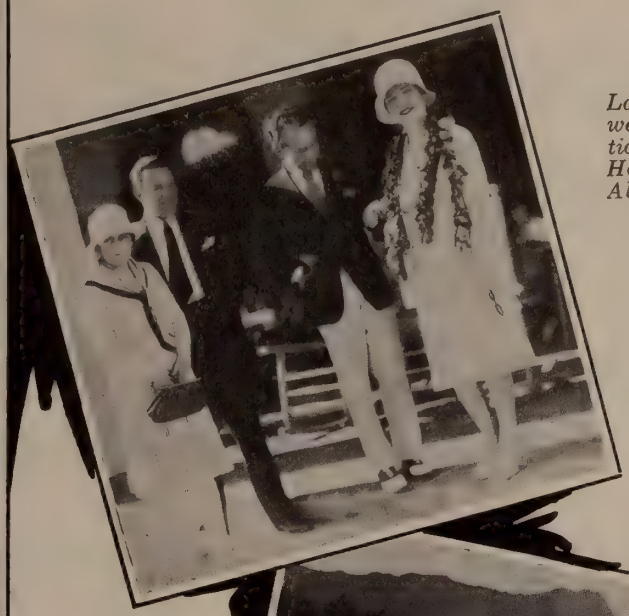
RIDING for FAME

-and there are thousands of exhibitors proving it every day-Ask

Universal

UNIVERSAL CELEBRITIES IN THE SOUTH SEAS

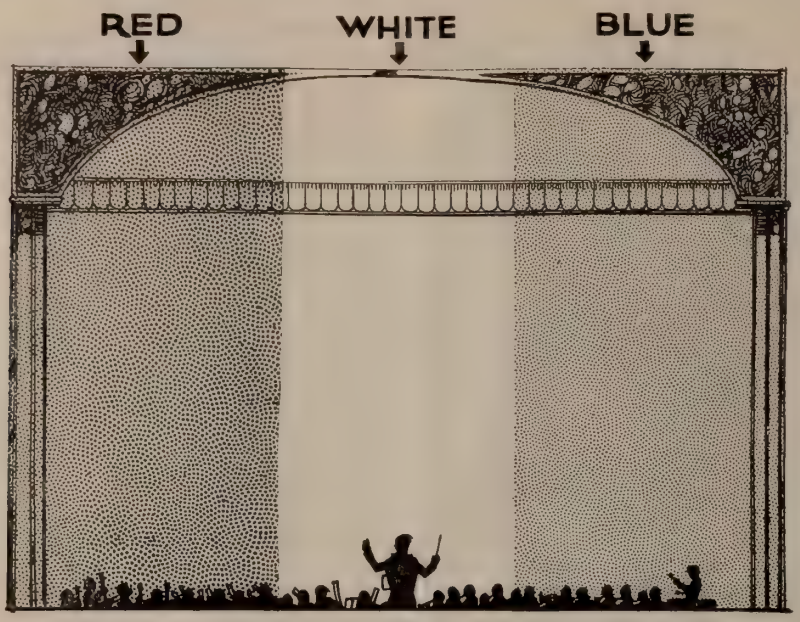
Laura La Plante, on vacation, and Alexander Marky, on his way to the Maori expedition, stop for a swim in Honolulu.



Laura La Plante, wearing the traditional garland of Honolulu, while Alexander Marky admires it.

Laura La Plante and Alexander Marky set sail in a native boat at Waikiki Beach.

Fiji youngsters who have just staged a native dance for Alexander Marky and the members of his expedition for Universal.



Red, white and blue lighting thrown by Brenkert machine over the stage makes an effective setting.

Victor Herbert's "American Fantasy" gives the proper patriotic note for a "We Americans" overture.

EFFECTIVE PROLOGUE FOR "WE AMERICANS"

Colony Theatre Presentation May Be Adapted At Small Cost.

"WE AMERICANS" is so full of exploitation possibilities that exhibitors will find little difficulty in devising sure-fire stage presentations for it. However, the prologue which Jerry de Rosa used at the Colony Theatre for the world premiere was greeted so enthusiastically and can be reproduced with so little expense that it is given here as an aid to exhibitors who plan to put over the big film in an effective manner.

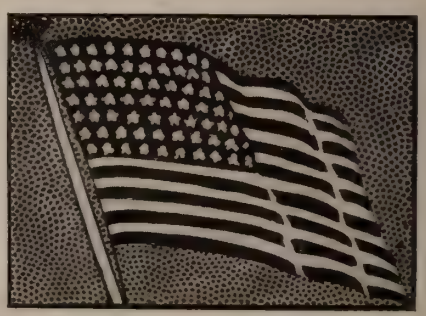
A white plaster bust of George Washington against a blue background brings hearty applause.

The curtains are closed as the pit rises. The house lights are full on. As the leader signals for the overture, the house lights dim out. A Brenkert machine throws red, white and blue lighting over the full stage. (Use three split gelatine.) The orchestra breaks into a medley of patriotic music, Victor Herbert's "American Fantasy," for instance. Toward the finish the curtains slowly part.

As they part they reveal a white plaster bust of George Washington, spotlighted from booth. Behind this bust is a blue background against which a machine is shooting a moving cloud effect. A scrim prop is down in one. The audience gets but a flash of this scene.

As lights dim out on Washington, a standard motion picture of colored American flag hits the scrim. Simultaneously the main title is thrown on from the other projection machine. The waving American flag then runs as a background for the credits and switches off as scrim is raised and first scene of the picture flashes on.

This prologue will appeal as strongly to patrons of a small picture house as it did to Broadway theatre-goers, and it is sufficiently simple and inexpensive for any exhibitor to undertake. In addition, it strikes the right note of red-blooded Americanism.



As always, the American flag waving brings down the house. It is here used as a background for the credits.

Conrad Veidt's Acting In "A Man's Past" Warmly Praised

Ardent Movie Fan and Critic Anticipates Seeing Veidt in "The Man Who Laughs."

COOK COUNTY INSTITUTIONS

Oak Forest, Illinois.

March 8, 1928.

Mr. Carl Laemmle, President,
Universal Pictures Corp.,
730 Fifth Ave., N. Y. C.
My dear Mr. Laemmle:

Without warrant or special privilege, I beg to tender you my unsolicited expression of opinion of the merits of Conrad Veidt, whom I saw recently in your great Universal picture, "A Man's Past."

As publicity man for the Cook County Institutions of Illinois, and as an ardent film fan and reviewer of photoplays, I wish to emphatically register my reactions to this wonderful picture and to the marvelous performance of your European protege.

For finesse, reserve, and yet complete expression of emotion—without contortion of features or inflection of eyelid—this actor has me hypnotized; and I look forward with pleasant anticipation to seeing him in many future films, including "The Man Who Laughs."

Press clippings state that you have renewed his contract for a lengthy period. More power to you!

From my recollections of your pioneer efforts on Milwaukee Avenue when I was identified with the Dramatic Magazine, a local magazine which met an untimely death in the Schiller Building; from the years elapsing during which I have fought Mencken and Nathan of the American Mercury; and modestly hint that on a few occasions I have made them shut up, climb a tree, or hunt a pole, in their fanatical antagonism to the movies; I have presumed to cite you as a sterling example of "What the movies are coming to."

Due to the broad liberality of your Chicago distributing branch, our institutions have for years been the beneficiaries of your films, for which I thank you in the aggregate names of all who love "Uncle Carl."

JOSEPH BROSNAN,
Publicity.

Pete Harrison says

Double Your Playing Time on with GEORGE SIDNEY, Patsy Ruth Miller, George Lewis, Beryl Mercer, Eddie Phillips, Albert Gran, John Boles, Josephine Dunn, Kathlyn Williams. From the stage play by Milton Herbert Gropper and Max Siegel. Supervised by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Screen adaptation by Al Cohn.

AN EDWARD SLOMAN PRODUCTION

Presented by CARL LAEMMLE

Note: In my ansv of Universal Picture the issue of March proved to be a good mend to those who time if I should find deserves extending could make more m
you would if you
Those who have bo
two; those who ha play three or even three days can play warrant it.

... and You Will Double

ERICANs

to Mr. Carl Laemmle, President Corporation, which was printed in
, I said that if "We Americans" x office attraction I would recomve bought it to extend the playing a good picture. In my opinion, it playing time. I believe that you y by playing it the extra time than hould play an ordinary picture.
ht it for one day can safely play it bought it for two days can safely our; those who have bought it for four, and even five if circumstances

It's a Laemmle Special—Double Your Playing Time!

from Harrison's Reports, April 7, 1928

Your Profits!... because

We Americans is a WOW!

Read what the Critics say!

"'WE AMERICANS' is one of the most successful pictures Carl Laemmle ever made."
—Quinn Martin, N. Y. World

"'WE AMERICANS' is one of the best 'melting-pot' stories ever brought to the screen. It is crammed full of human interest."
—George Gerhard, N. Y. Eve. World

"'WE AMERICANS' is sure-fire and a good audience picture."
—Rose Pelswick, N. Y. Eve. Journal

"'WE AMERICANS' has everything that makes a great picture."
—Bland Johaneson, N. Y. Mirror

"'WE AMERICANS' is a real hit and will draw for some time to come."
—H. D. Strauss, in Morning Telegraph

"'WE AMERICANS' should prove a big movie hit."
—N. Y. Evening Inquirer

"'WE AMERICANS' is sure-fire and an excellent attraction."
—Chester J. Smith, M. P. News

"'WE AMERICANS' will leave many full and overflowing theatres."
—Hank Linet, Exhib. Daily Review

Double Your Playing Time!

Universal City Studio Speeds Up in Preparation For 1928-29 Program

New Serials Go Into Work Around First of May

THE big Universal studio plant at Universal City, Calif, is undergoing increased activity in preparation for next year's schedule, according to advices just received from the coast.

The first picture to go into work will be a new serial, "The Diamond Master," adapted from the widely read Saturday Evening Post story by Jacques Futrelle. George H. Plympton and Carl Krusada made the adaptation and scenario. Jack Nelson, formerly an Ince director and a noted thrill expert, will handle the making of the picture, under the general supervision of William Lord Wright, serial and short subject chief at Universal City.

About the same time Leigh Jason will start the direction of a series of underworld thrillers, entitled "The Eyes of the Underworld," by William Lester.

Ted Wells will start on a new series of western features. His first will be "Riding Romance," in which he will be supported by Miss Vonceil Viking, who won this reward by making a horseback trip from New York to Los Angeles recently, thereby hanging up a record for her sex. Henry MacRae probably will direct the Wells pictures.

Edmund Cobb also will start the first of a series of twelve two-reel Forest Ranger pictures. Bob Curwood will begin work on a series of twelve Stunt Cowboy two-reelers. George Chandler, former vaudeville star will begin a series of twelve Tenderfoot Thrillers, of the western comedy drama type.

About the first of June, production will be started on still another serial. It will be "The Pirate of Panama," from the story by William McLeon Raine. Arthur Henry Goodin and George Morgan are working on the scenario.

Feature production for the new season will be resumed at the big Universal studio plant about the same time. Laura La Plante is due to start work on one of her specials for next fall. It probably will be "The Last Warning," from the famous stage play, which Paul Leni is to make on the same scale as last fall's "The Cat and the Canary."

Also, Glenn Tryon and Hoot Gibson are due to plunge into next year's picture schedule shortly. Denny will return to the Universal studio a little later and begin his year's activities. Preliminary plans for the making of "Show Boat" are well along, and its initial production move may be timed for a date not far distant. Also, a new "Cohens and Kellys" picture will go into the making at the earliest possible moment. It is to be "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City," and is promised as a worthy successor to its predecessors, "The Cohens and Kellys" and "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris."

Barbara Kent's Contract Renewed By Universal

BARBARA KENT, pretty Universal ingenue, seen recently in important roles in such Universal pictures as "The Small Bachelor," "The Lone Eagle," "That's My Daddy," and "Stop That Man," has been re-signed by Universal. She is now completing the leading feminine role in "Lonesome," directed by Dr. Paul Fejos.

Notice!

There's one sure way--for every exhibitor, everywhere to make certain that his theatre will draw capacity every matinee - - - - - - - - - - - - play the UNIVERSAL serials listed on this page - - - - - - and you dont have to take our word for it—ask any exhibitor who has them booked in—he'll tell you that UNIVERSAL SERIALS have Capacity Class!!

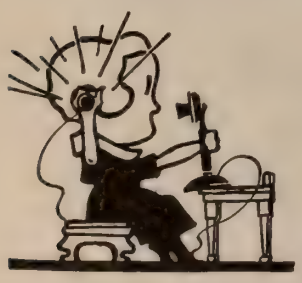
"HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME" VOTED GREATEST MOTION PICTURE

Universal's Masterpiece Has Big Lead in Milwaukee Straw Vote

Ballot in Alhambra Theatre, Gives Overwhelming Victory to "Hunchback."

THE bona fide returns from a straw vote, Manager Fred S. Meyer of the Alhambra Theatre, Milwaukee, Wis., reports shows that "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" is by far the greatest motion picture ever made, in the opinion of the Alhambra patrons. The ballot created lively interest among the "regulars" of the picture house. The actual return is as follows:

"HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME"	217
"ORPHANS OF THE STORM"	161
"BIRTH OF A NATION"	156
"FOUR HORSEMEN"	150
"PHANTOM OF THE OPERA"	147
"THIEF OF BAGDAD"	130
"SEA BEAST"	107
"VARIETY"	73
"INTOLERANCE"	50
"CIVILIZATION"	31



Hello, Mr. Exhibitor!
I am calling to tell you that

Again Universal has the pictures!

Wesley Ruggles Signs Long Term Contract With Universal

WORD has just come from the coast that Wesley Ruggles, the director, has signed up with Universal on a long term contract. He has been with the Laemmle organization for almost two years. His new contract will keep him at Universal City for at least a similar period, it is understood.

Ruggles has gained great credit for his recent Universal successes, including several of Laura La Plante's biggest hits. Beginning with "Beware of Widows," Ruggles' line-up during the past year or so includes "Finders Keepers," "Silk Stockings" and "The Four Flusher."

He is expected to make at least three La Plante pictures during the coming months. They will be "One Rainy Night," "That Blonde" and "Dangerous Dimples." He also will make "The Olympic Champion," another Universal special, probably starring George Lewis.

O. T. (Shag) Jordan Gets Atlanta Office For Universal

O. T. (SHAG) JORDAN, veteran Universal salesman, has been appointed manager of that company's Atlanta office, taking the place of Ben Y. Cammack, who recently joined the Universal home office force as general manager of short subjects and Complete Service.

Jordan's appointment, suggested by Cammack and Ted Schlanger, eastern sales director, and approved by Lou B. Metzger, general sales manager, is an instance of the promotion within the ranks policy inaugurated by Carl Laemmle. Jordan has won his way upward step by step in the Universal organization.

Jordan has been with the company upwards of fifteen years. He began his career as shipping clerk, worked his way up to the place of booker, then salesman and, some years ago, was specializing in Bluebirds and other special feature brands.

He knews every nook and cranny of the Atlanta territory. Recently he qualified for listing in the Universal Sales Department Honor Role by winning a Permanent Carl Laemmle Button through having led his exchange for four weeks in succession.

Carl Laemmle's policy of promotion within the ranks has done much to ensure the loyalty of his employees and build up a strong personnel in the Universal organization.

For goodness sake read This---

COHENS AND KELLYS IN PARIS, starring George Sidney and J. Farrel McDonald (7,481 feet). It is surely a wonderful picture. If anyone else had had this picture besides Uncle Carl they would have road-showed it for a year at a $2.00 top on Broadway. Broke my house record for Sunday night at 10 and 35. It is nice to stand at the door and have them all going out smiling and saying "that was the best I ever saw, get more like it." Now, boys, get this one and step on it—you will do the business. —C. J. McKenney, Iona, Minn.

From Greater Amusements

Carl Laemmle presents

The Cohens and Kellys in Paris

starring GEORGE SIDNEY and J. FARREL MACDONALD with Vera Gordon, Kate Price, Gertrude Astor, Sue Carol, Charles Delaney —A William Beaudine Production—Adaptation and continuity by Al Cohn—Story supervision by Joseph Poland—Supervised by Jules Bernhiem.

yes—and this is only one out of hundreds more we have read, proving absolutely that again —Universal has the pictures!

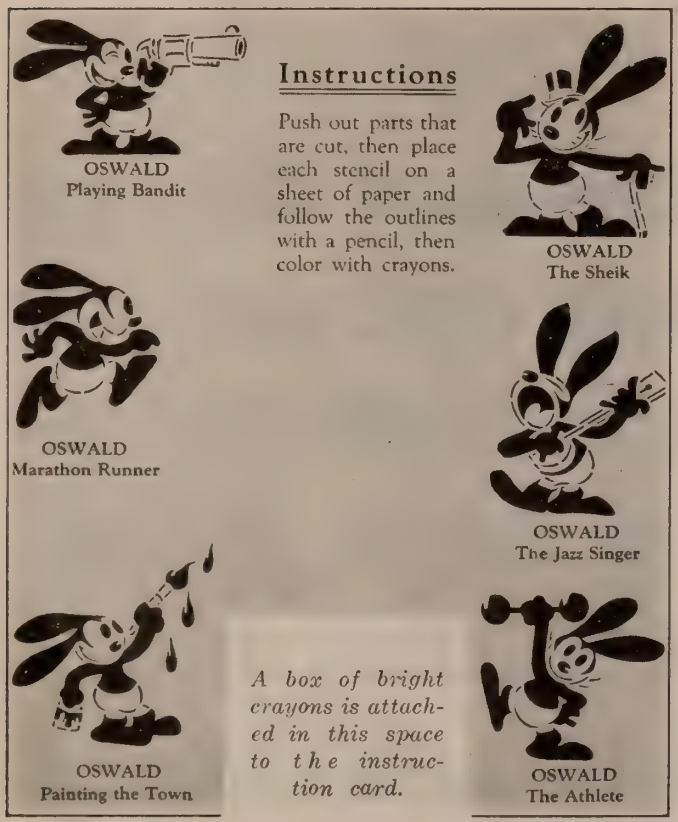
OSWALD STENCIL SET AN EXPLOITATION WOW

Universal's Lucky Rabbit Gets Biggest Tie-up In Short Subject Film History

NEVER before in the history of short subject exploitation has there been such a tremendous tie-up as that recently effected in connection with Oswald the Lucky Rabbit. Universal's comedy rabbit, created by Walt Disney and produced by the Winkler Productions, has been made the subject of a novelty stencil set for children. The set will be distributed through five and ten cent stores and other chain stores all over the country, which means reaching millions of purchasers and movie-goers.

The set consists of stencils cut in bright, firm paper, crayons and drawing paper. The parts that are cut have to be pushed out by the young owner of the set before the stencil can be traced with a pencil on a sheet of drawing paper. The real fun begins when the child comes to coloring the outline drawing with gay crayons. The instruction sheet, shown on the lower left hand corner of this page, shows the completed pictures of Oswald as an aid to coloring them. The little cartoons are familiar to all movie fans as one of the most amusing comedy subjects on the screen today. Youngsters will go wild over the set as surely as they laugh with delight at the films of Oswald.

The cover of the Oswald Stencil Set is gaily colored in red, yellow and black, making it an eye-catching toy for five-and-ten cent store distribution.



The cover of the box has been designed with a view to catching the passing eye. The background is in bright red and yellow, while the cartoons of Oswald are silhouetted sharply in black.

These Oswald Stencil Sets can be effectively used as prizes at Oswald matinees, or tied-up with newspaper contests for little folk. The set will make sure-fire window displays in local stores together with announcements of playdate and theatre. The sets may be bought from the Universal Toy and Novelty Company, 2329 Third Avenue, New York City, for nine cents each. Make the favorite comedy character even more famous by tying him up with this newest drawing novelty.

The distribution of the stencil set will be as wide as Oswald's fame and appeal directly and instantly to the very youngsters who are Oswald fans all over the country.

"The Cat and the Canary"

"Business was doubled on second night."

—H. Shilling, Mgr., Auditorium Theatre. Connersvill, Ind.

"Love Me, and the World is Mine"

"Excellent patronage at The Great Lakes Theatre, Buffalo, N. Y."

—From Motion Picture News reports.

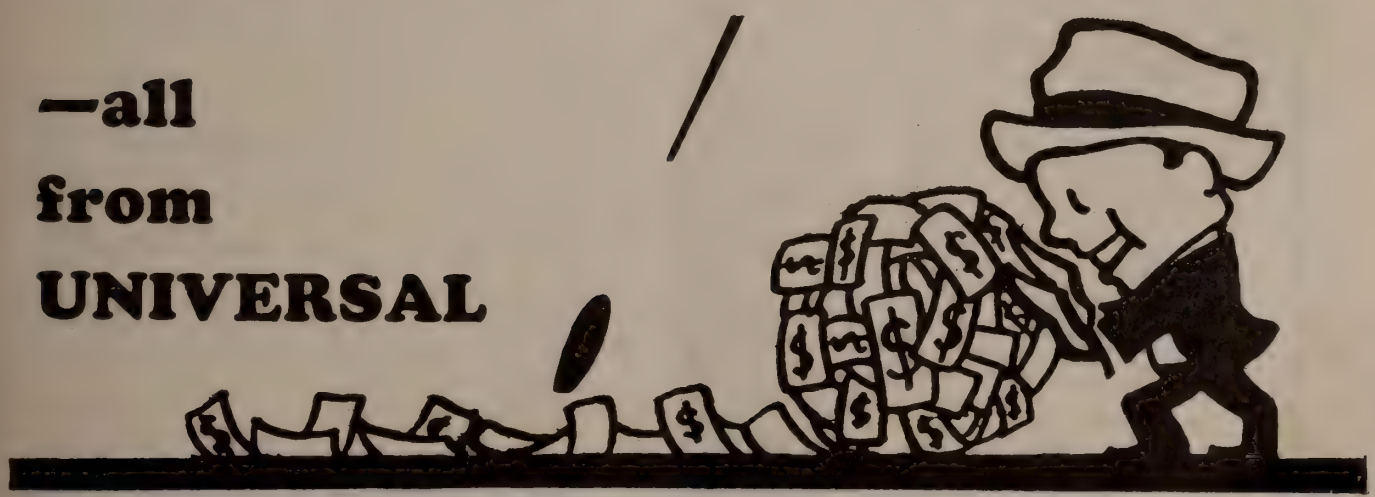
"Les Miserables"

"Long lines quite common, at St. Francis Theatre, San Francisco, Calif."

—From Variety's box-office reports.

—they made me what I am today

—all from UNIVERSAL



THE BOX-OFFICE BABY

When more laughs can be crowded into two reels of film

SNOOKUMS

the box-office baby

will crowd them into 2 reels. 12 of them all produced by

STERN BROTHERS

from George McManus' inimitable cartoon strip "THE NEWLYWEDS AND THEIR BABY."

JUNIOR JEWELS released thru

UNIVERSAL

Strong Line-Up Announced By Stern Brothers For April

Five High-Grade Two-Reelers Listed For Current Release In Comedy Field

STERN BROTHERS, makers of two-reel comedies for Universal, announces a strong list of fun-films for April. The line-up, strengthened by careful selection to give the exhibitor plenty of pulling power for building up his clientele after the winter, includes one Universal Junior Jewel and four regular Stern Brothers comedies.

The Universal Junior Jewel release is "The Newlyweds' Friends," the latest comedy of the popular series made from the George McManus newspaper comic strips. Snookums, as usual, is the star. This clever baby is seen in a new set of situations and gags built around the attendance of his parents at a wedding. Snookums almost wrecks the ceremony, but he saves his face by catching a thief who is getting away with the wedding presents. Jack Bartlett and Addie McPhail are Mr. and Mrs. Newlywed. Gus Meins directed the comedy.

The "Keeping Up with the Joneses" series release for April is "Her only Husband," in which Mrs. McGinis catches her husband mixed up with a chorus of cuties in a night club show. Stern Brothers obtained the services of a noted group of stage dancers for this comedy. It will please the butter and egg men everywhere. Harry Long, Stella Adams and Hart Martell are the principals. Meins also directed this one.

"That's That!" is the new Buster Brown comedy which reaches the screen in April. Directed by Francis Corby, with Arthur Trimble, Doreen Turner and the dog Pete as the Buster Brown trio, this comedy is fast moving and filled with laughs. It has a remarkable aeroplane sequence for which the Stern Brothers cameraman should get great credit. The basis of the story lies in the following epilogue by Buster: "Resolved. It is better to mind papa than to mind papa's business."

"Taking the Count," the Mike and Ike comedy for April, is without doubt the funniest of that series. Corby directed it with Charles King and Charles Dorety as Mike and Ike, supported by pretty Jean Doree and Doris Eaton as the feminine foils. This comedy has been widely commended in trade paper reviews and in spots where it has had pre-release showings.

The final Stern Brothers release for the month will be "When George Hops," the latest of the "Let George Do It" series, starring Sid Saylor. In this one, Saylor plays the role of a dumb bell-hop, but despite his dumbness, it is surprising how he gets in the wrong rooms at the right time. Sam Newfield directed the comedy. The girls in it include pretty Ruby McCoy, Hollywood favorites, and several others just as pretty, especially in the night scenes. Allan Sears, Charles Meakin and George Morrell also are in the cast.

"Cupid At Vassar" Bought By Universal For Laura La Plante

UNIVERSAL announces the acquisition of screen rights for "Cupid at Vassar," the popular stage success by Owen Davis. It will be used as a starring vehicle for Laura La Plante, Universal's popular comedienne.

The story is said to be exceptionally suitable for Miss La Plante, who has a flare for the type of light comedy Davis has mastered for the stage.

"We Americans" Booked to Open In Los Angeles

"WE AMERICANS," the Universal special which opened last week in the Colony Theatre, New York City, for an extended run, has been set into the Loew's State, Los Angeles, for the week of May 11th, it has just been learned at the Universal home office. This will be the outstanding run of the picture on the west coast, according to present indications.

UNIVERSAL ANNOUNCES SERIAL LINE-UP FOR NEXT YEAR

PLANS INCLUDE FIVE SERIALS ADAPTED FROM FAMOUS STORIES

AN ambitious serial program for 1928-1929 has just been announced by the Universal Pictures Corporation. It embraces a full line-up, including five serials, made from stories written by popular writers. Four are taken direct from widely known books. The other is by one of the screen's best-known writers of thrillers.

The serials are as follows: "Tarzan the Mighty," "The Final Reckoning," "The Pirate of Panama," "The Mystery Rider," and "The Diamond Master." The first three will be in twelve chapters of two reels each, and the other two in ten chapters.

"Tarzan the Mighty," will be another of the famous Tarzan pictures, adapted from the works of Edgar Rice Burroughs, master craftsman in the realm of fanciful adventure. The serial will be adapted from the Burroughs book, "The Jungle of Tarzan," which has been read all over the world. Universal has not determined yet who is to play the role of the physically super-man, Tarzan. Nor has a director for the serial been chosen. Scenario experts at Universal City are preparing the script.

"The Final Reckoning" is being adapted from the popular book by C. A. Henty, famous author of boy's books and one of the most widely read authors of the present day. The book abounds in romance and adventure, and is regarded as ideal serial material of an exceptional type.

"The Pirate of Panama" is from William MacLeod Raine's successful story, based on a spectacular treasure hunt. It starts in a big city, carries on aboard a mystery craft with strong drama and sea atmosphere, and ends in exciting battles between the contending forces on a far-off Island in the Pacific. Players for this thriller will be announced soon. Arthur Henry Goodin and George Morgan are now working on the script. The serial is expected to go into production on June 1st.

"The Mystery Rider," from the pen of George Morgan, long recognized as one of the thrill experts in the screen world, will be another serial in the highly successful series of William Desmond pictures which began with "The Riddle Rider." The Return of the Riddle Rider," and "The Vanishing Rider," more recent serial hits, were others in this series. Desmond's popularity, especially in the romantic mystery rider role he created in "The Riddle Rider" and continued and built up in his successive Universal serials, assures "The Mystery Rider" of immediate attention on the part of exhibitors and the public. The Universal serial experts promise that the picture will outdo its predessors.

"The Diamond Master," which will go into production May 1st, is adaptde from the popular Saturday Evening Post serial by Jacques Futrelle. Jack Nelson, former Ince director and noted builder of screen thrills, is to direct it. The scenario is being prepared by George H. Plympton and Carl Krusada. It is an engaging story of a wizard of the laboratory who invents a machine that can forge diamonds from coal dust.

Ben Y. Cammack, general sales manager for Short Subjects, at the Universal home office, states that the forthcoming line-up of serials is by far the greatest ever to be attempted by Universal.

"Our experience this year has taught us that high type serials made from popular stories with real entertaining stories running through them, can break their way into first-run houses and have a sturdy grip on serial fans everywhere. Our serials during the past months were built around exceptional stories and they proved their mettle by rolling up remarkable business."

Hoot Gibson Begins "Clearing the Trail"

HOOT GIBSON, Universal's cowboy star, has commenced production on his next picture. "Clearing the Trail" is the title of the story written for him by Charles Maigne and adapted by Jack Nattefore. Reeves Eason will direct.

Dorothy Gulliver, Wampas baby star, will play the leading role opposite Gibson and Fred Gilman, former cowboy star, will play an important part. Other members of the cast include Philo McCullough, Captain Anderson, Andy Waldron and Duke Lee.

This is the third Hoot Gibson picture for the coming season. The others now completed include "The Danger Rider," and "Burning the Wind."

"RUBE" GOLDBERG

created them

Hundreds of newspapers thruout the country featured them

Millions of readers who are also movie fans have laughed themselves blue in the face at their comical antics and brings them to life on the screen in 13 two reelers made for laughter by

UNIVERSAL

STERN BROTHERS

that's

MIKE

and

IKE

2 Reel Comedies

"Give us more laughs in 2 reel comedies," exhibitors all over the country keep shouting.

Let George Do It

said

UNIVERSAL

so

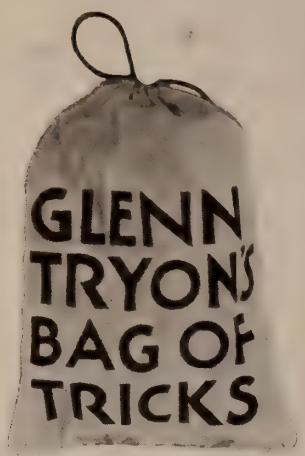
STERN BROTHERS

made 13

LET GEORGE DO IT

2 reelers from George McManus remarkably funny newspaper comic character

Book them for laughs and profits !



This bag may be bought from the Modern Magic Co., 219 Greenwich St., N. Y., for $2.00 per single 100; $1.85 per 100 in 500 lots; and $1.75 per 100 in 1000 lots.

GLENN TRYO

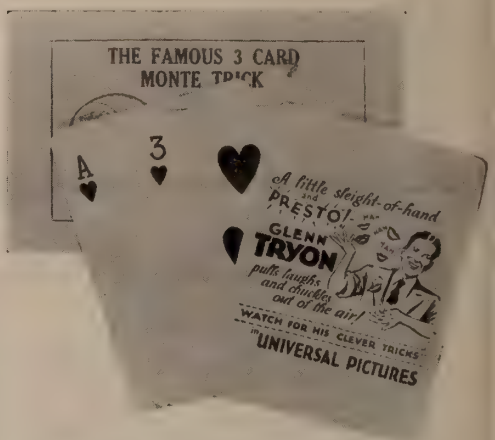
Famous Sleight-of-Hand Tricks of Universal's Comedy Ace Bagged for Exploitation

UNIVERSAL has bagged Glenn Tryon's amusing magic stunts and made them available for exhibitors use. The funny tricks that make the beautiful girl on the screen laugh in spite of herself and equally delight the audience out in front, can now be carried bodily from your theatre into the homes of Glenn Tryon fans. You patrons, in turn, can make their friends and families chuckle and wonder and marvel at the same slight of hand tricks that tickle Tryon audiences.

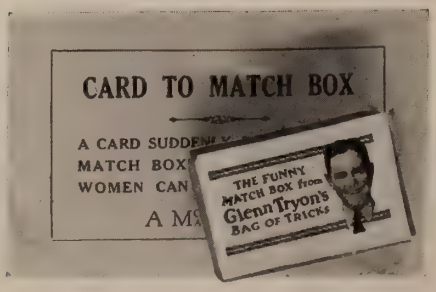
Glenn Tryon holds a piece of sugar between thumb and forefinger and then . . . presto! . . . the sugar has disappeared. Glenn's inimitable smile flashes across the table. The heroine loses her frosty dignity and the audience roars. Who could resist that smile and the funny little way Glenn has of showing his tricks! Glenn Tryon's tricks are famous to the four corners of moviedom. They are part of the stage business that made him such a find that Carl Laemmle signed him up as one of the leading Universal comedians.

To tie up directly with the famous Tryon tricks, of the screen, Universal has prepared for exhibitors a collection of reasonably priced novelty tricks to be used for give-away purposes at Glenn Tryon "Trick Matinees."

Not one novelty, but a series of them so that you can give away Tryon Tricks every time you play a Tryon picture and thus build up the gag ideas that Glenn puts over on the screen. You can get your patrons talking about Tryon Tricks, and expecting a clever little stunt as a free souvenir on every Tryon playdate. Spread the word that these magic coins, cards, boxes, etc., they can be



This Hindu trick hinges on dropping four cards into a hat and only picking out three. It and all the other tricks cost $2.25 per single 100; $11.00 per 500; and $20.00 per 1000.



This card magically turns into a match box in your hand.

An elastic cord makes these coin rings vanish up your sleeve, safe from the keenest observer.

N'S BAG OF TRICKS

The Monte trick makes it possible to show with three cards four blanks, four aces and four three spots.

the life of the party, spread laughs and surprises in true Tryon style.

Glenn Tryon has revived the old and honorable art of parlor tricks and his host of followers can imitate him with the clever bag of magic novelties that Universal furnishes.

This assortment of novelty tricks comes in a neat little bag as illustrated on the opposite page. Seven "Magic Tryon Tricks" have been prepared to date and more are to come. Buy the tricks separately and the bag separately as you need them. The prices and description of each trick is plainly marked under the illustration. By giving out the first trick to each boy and girl at your Tryon Trick Matinee, you will create interest in those to come. In addition to these give-aways, a complete set of the seven tricks in the Glenn Tryon bag may be offered as prizes in any contests you run. The newspapers will tie-up on the idea, as it is novel and of wide appeal to children and more adults than would confess to a weakness for card tricks.

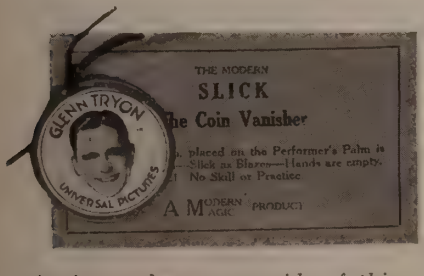
When you play your next Tryon picture, use the second trick for give-aways and repeat with the complete bag as prizes. You can get your audience to expect a new trick with each new Tryon picture you show. Awarding the complete "bag of tricks" will help you put over to the fans the idea of getting a complete collection.

In other words, this bag of tricks settles once and for all your exploitation problem and angle on the new Tryon product. The idea makes for continuous exploitation that builds and builds and builds until you have the whole town wild over Tryon and his famous bag of tricks.

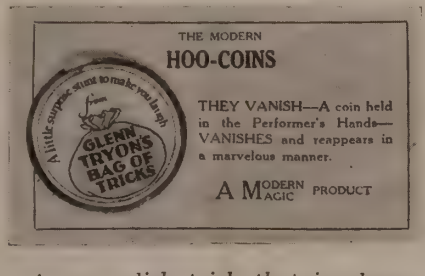
Exhibitors who have already cashed in on the box office receipts of "Painting the Town" and "A Hero for a Night" will look forward to his next release, "Hot Heels," directed by William James Craft. It is expected to exceed its forerunners in humorous situations and speed. It is a thrilling comedy of the Havana, Cuba, race track. Patsy Ruth Miller will play the feminine lead.

Exhibitors should plan now to tie-up Tryon films with Tryon tricks. The idea is a sure-fire "natural."

With four cards you can show aces, deuces or three spots as well.



A pin on the reverse side of this coin makes it stick to the performer's suit and fool the public.



A very slick trick that involves a coin disappearing within another.

Laughs!

Buster Brown is responsible for more laughs than any single comic character in history and millions of movie fans know it.

There are 13

BUSTER BROWN

2 reel Comedies

Produced by

STERN BROTHERS

from R. F. Outcault's famous newspaper comics

Released thru

UNIVERSAL

The only reason comedies are made at all is to provide laughs for the movie fans.

STERN BROTHERS

KNOW IT—

so they got together with "Pop" Momand, creator of the funniest newspaper family that ever appeared in print and brought to the screen his

Keeping up with the Joneses

in 13 2-reelers all released thru

UNIVERSAL

Making millions laugh daily in hundreds of newspapers.

CARL LAEMMLE'S COLUMN BRING BRISK COMMENTS

Saturday Evening Post Readers Give Universal a Big Hand.

Could Never Tire Of "The Hunchback"

"AT THE Colony Theartre, last Wednesday, I saw 'The Hunchback of Notre Dame' for the third time, and enjoyed it immensely. I feel that even if I reviewed that masterpiece of Universal's fifty times over, I could not tire of it. That is characteristic of any big Universal production."

—Lewis Pearl,
New York, N. Y.

"That's My Daddy" Sure Was Good

"WAS down to the Empress again this afternoon and saw another good Universal. It was 'That's My Daddy,' with Reginald Denny. It sure was good. Denny is as good as ever. But the best part of the picture was the little girl, Jane La Verne. She sure was fine. I stood in front of the theatre after the show and everybody was talking of this little girl. I heard Roxy over the radio from the Roxy Theatre, New York, tell about her last Monday, but he didn't say enough nice things about her. I hope you will have her in more of your pictures. Barbara Kent was good in her part. Lillian Rich was also good."

—H. S. Carlstrom,
Fremont, Nebr.

"Finders Keepers" Convulsed Audience

"I REALLY feel that I must write to you about 'Finders Keepers' with Laura La Plante. She is extremely entertaining and very funny. When she became a soldier I thought I'd surely die laughing! But when she began to march, well, you should have been in the theatre to find out how they liked it. Honest, I thought the entire audience would have convulsions by laughing so hard! It was a continuous performance, and I saw it twice and went the next day purposely to see it again. I believe you could call it a real success and Miss La Plante should be highly congratulated."

—Ernest Saunders, Jr.,
Lewiston, Me.

"Cohens and Kellys In Paris" a Scream

"'THE COHENS AND KELLYS IN PARIS' finally arrived in Rapid City and certainly seeing that was one of the most hilarious evenings I have spent in a long time. I never saw anything so funny."

—Viola A. Jesse.
Rapid City, S. Dak.

Exquisite Shots In "Wild Beauty"

"YESTERDAY had the happiness of seeing the beloved Rex in 'Wild Beauty.' The photography is exquisite. One of the heartening things about animal pictures now is that there is a distinct moral stride to them. No longer is the animal portrayed in sickly sentimentality, merely as pet or servant, but the tale is invariably treated from the fundamental morality underlying the tragedy of man and beast; that our progenitors had no inherent right to enslave these creatures."

—Helen King,
New York, N. Y.

Whole Family Liked "The Fourflusher"

"HAD the opportunity to witness the showing of your picture, 'The Four Flusher.' I want to say that my husband, son and myself are very great critics and seldom a picture pleases all three. But this one did. Marian Nixon is very clever and George Lewis was equally as good. Their love scene could not have been improved upon. The one who played the 'sissy-boy' or pal of the shoe clerk, was very good. He is one who need not say words to talk, the expressions he can put in his face, the raising of the eyebrows, all speak for themselves. We liked him; there was a laugh in his every movement. And, by the way, everyone else laughed. We were not alone in our pleasure. More pictures on the same order (not necessary to have them the same theme), would help a lot to elevate our pictures. I could say a great deal more about the picture."

—Mrs. Jack King,
Kenosha, Wis.

"Freedom of Press" Sponsored by Editor Of Atlanta Paper

"FREEDOM OF THE PRESS" made such an excelent impression on Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, that the paper has requested the privilege of sponsoring the world premiere of this film at the Capitol Theatre there on April 23rd.

"Freedom of the Press" is an adaptation of a story by Peter B. Kyne based on the murder of Don Mellett, editor in Canton, Ohio, recently, following a crusade waged by his paper against graft and the underworld that proved to be effective.

The picture was directed by George Melford. Lewis Stone, Henry Walthal, Malcolm MacGregor and Marcelline Day play the principal roles at the head of a large cast.

Vonceil Viking Starts Ted Wells Film

VONCEIL VIKING, the courageous twenty-three year old blonde who established a record by being the first woman to cross the continent on horseback, which also brought with it a contract to play in pictures from the Universal Pictures Corporation, starts her first picture the first of May. She will play the leading role opposite Ted Wells, Western star.

The title of the picture is "Riding Romance" and will be made under the direction of Henry MacRae and the supervision of William Lord Wright. This is the first of a number of western features Wells will make for Universal for the coming season.

Miss Viking has been entertained extensively and has had many honors conferred upon her in recognition of her unusual feat, which she accomplished in one hundred and twenty days. She has had several tests at the studio and upon these the company executives base great predictions for her future in motion pictures.

"Diamond Master" Set For Early Production

UNIVERSAL has purchased Jacques Futrelle's thrilling mystery story "The Diamond Master" for production as a chapter play. This story appeared serially in the Saturday Evening Post. Production is scheduled to commence May 1st under the direction of Jack Nelson. The scenario is now being prepared by George H. Plympton and Karl Crusada.

Either or Both mean certain satisfaction to YOU and your patrons. BOTH mean twice as much—BOOK THEM!

ANDY GUMP

Two-Reel Comedies.

Samuel Van Ronkel Productions.

Based on the brilliantly successful newspaper feature by Sidney Smith — A Tie-UP That Means Money!

Here is a series of two-reelers written by the foremost magazine humorist of today a Saturday Evening Post favorit — and that means THEY'RE GOOD!

OCTAVUS ROY COHEN CHARLIE PUFFY COMEDIES

Get 'em from UNIVERSAL

"13 WASHINGTON SQUARE"

Universal-Jewel

Starring JEAN HERSHOLT and Alice Joyce

JEAN HERSHOLT

MRS. dePeyster plans a trip to Europe with her son, Jack, hoping to break up a marriage between him and Mary Morgan, a grocer's daughter.

When Jack brings Mary to meet his aristocratic mother, she refuses to see the girl. Jack decides to abandon the trip and marry Mary at once.

On reaching the steamer, Mrs. dePeyster realizes that Jack does not intend to accompany her. Hoping to avoid newspaper reporters and to stop her son's marriage, she exchanges clothes with her devoted cousin, who is in less fortunate circumstances. The cousin sails in her place and Mrs. dePeyster, with her maid, who poses as her sister, goes to cousin Olivetta's boarding house.

"Deacon" Pyecroft, a picture thief, who is planning to rob the dePeyster home, lives in the boarding house. When he meets Mrs. dePeyster and her maid, he mistakes them for fellow crooks and tries to make a deal with them. The terrified Mrs. dePeyster departs for her closed house, 13 Washington Square, as soon as night falls.

Jack and Mary, on their way to be married, stop at 13 Washington Square to pick up some of Jack's clothes. "Deacon" Pyecroft, thinking the coast is clear, also goes to 13 Washington Square. Many terrifying and ludicrous situations develop in different parts of the house.

"THE TRAIL OF THE TIGER"

Universal Chapter Play

Featuring JACK DAUGHERTY

No. 10—"The Reckoning"

HEMINGWAY is startled to find a note the Chameleon left, saying that his daughter, the Chameleon and Jack were in the tunnel. Hemingway rushes back to the mine, pulls away some bushes, and shouts directions about getting out.

Tiger winks to his henchmen and holds Jack's party off with his gun while the henchmen break through the thin wall. It lets out to a ledge on to which is a rope dangling from above. Tiger is the first one up the rope . . . and as soon as he gets on top he slashes through it, again double-crossing his own friends!

Hemingway arrives and tries to stop him but Tiger knocks him down and rides off quickly towards the plane. Hemingway recovers, lowers a rope, gets Jack out first, who starts a terriffic chase after Tiger. Jack overtakes Tiger after he has taken the bill of sale, and in a terrific fight on the edge of a high promontory fate plays a hand! Tiger loses his balance, and falls over. Chameleon, Hemingway and Trionne arrive just at the end, and they all rush down to get the bill of sale from Tiger's lifeless body.

The Chameleon makes a startling discovery . . . and Trionne cries with joy when she learns that Hemingway is her father. The Chameleon discloses himself as Jack's uncle, who has sent him to the circus at Jack's father's request.

Hemingway is welcomed back to the M. M. He makes restitution, pouring gold nuggets on the table to the coffers of the society.

Later, at the circus, Trionne and Jack are back, going through their act together. The Chameleon gives them the circus as a present and they fall happily in each other's arms.

Gentlemen!
I am here tonight to tell you that

Again Universal has the pictures!

Universal

"RIDE 'EM PLOWBOY"

Cartoon with Oswald the Lucky Rabbit

WHILE Oswald, the corn-row draftsman, plows, the denizens of the barn-yard go about their affairs. The chickens run around in circles, the pigs root, the windmill winds and the milch-cows milch around, cuddling their spearmint.

Oswald breaks his plow on a rock and has to hitch up one of the pigs in place of it. As a result the furroughs are as neatly turned as before.

The hens are holding high carnival in the henshouse. A game little chicken from Long Island performs the latest Broadway shake, while the others keep time with their saxa cackles. Suddenly the head-man enters, struts his stuff, and chides them for wasting time. The birdies fly to their nests and proceed to augment the egg supply.

Meanwhile, Oswald finishes his plowing, and turns to the cows. His expertness with the milk-handles promises a frothy supper for the barn-yard gang. The gang at this moment is crowded around the two hen-house rivals, who are in the midst of a fifteen-round, no-decision bout for the cock-of-the-walk title.

The show is stopped short by a cyclone which comes sneaking up to gobble the whole barn-yard, fences, chicken-coops, and all. It snatches at Oswald and the cow, but succeeds only in sucking them into the air a few miles. How Oswald gets out of this predicament has to be seen to be appreciated.

"GAUGE OF BATTLE"

Western Featurette

With FRED GILMAN

ANNE CREASON'S happiness over her approaching marriage with Breezy Layton, the Texas Ranger, was clouded by anxiety over her younger brother, who had a reputation for wildness.

Bruce Lantard, a neighboring rancher who secretly stole cattle, induced Bob Creason to join his gang.

Breezy, who caught Bob red-handed, was obliged to arrest him. When Anne realized that Breezy would not release Bob she broke her engagement and reluctantly promised to marry Lantard when he assured her he would free Bob.

Finally Lantard's true character and occupation became evident.

Bob Creason had an opportunity to redeem himself by saving Breezy's life, and Anne, who regretted her injustice, reconsidered her choice of a husband.

Synopses

"A BIG BLUFF"

A Stern Brothers Comedy
"Keeping Up with the Joneses" Series

AS Pa McGinis reached new financial levels Ma determined to arrive socially and started her campaign with a reception for Count DeBate. When he arrived Pa was missing. Ma finaly located him in a neighboring excavation, where he was enjoying himself fith the workmen. Before the guests arrived, a detective appeared and claimed the Count as a criminal.

The desperate McGinis family tried to palm off the detective as the Count. This didn't go over very big and ended in a complete flop when the detective's jealous sweetheart arrived and turned the party into a free-for-all.

"THE THUNDER RIDERS"

Five-Reel Western
With* TED WELLS

BETTY BARTON comes West to claim the ranch and fortune left her by her father, "Pap Streak Barton." Her inheritance has been left in trust with her father's old friend, Duncan, who determines to try out the mettle of the girl he has never seen.

Duncan and his son, Jack, plan a reception and entertainment for the Barton party calculated to measure up with an Easterner's ideas of the wild and woolly West.

When Betty arrives with her aunt and Percival Kent, who aspires to marry her, they are met by a stage coach and a retinue of cowboys. The trip to the ranch is interrupted by an Indian attack, planned by the Duncans, which frightens the Aunt and Percival but delights Betty.

During a masqued ball given at the Duncan Ranch for the Bartons, Jack plans to arrive as a bandit and kidnap Betty. The foreman hears of this and tips off Kent.

When Jack goes to don his bandit's togs he is seized and bound by Kent's gang and Kent plays bandit. He makes off with Betty to a cabin in the hills, where he has arranged for a hasty marriage.

Not until Jack comes to and frees himself does his father realize that Kent has tricked them. They pursue Kent and reach the cabin just in time to save Betty from marriage with Kent, whom the Sheriff has identified as an escaped convict. Since a wedding is all arranged for Betty and Jack, they decide that there is no time like the present.

Step On It

it's LON CHANEY

in his greatest role

Victor Hugo's

The HUNCHBACK of NOTRE DAME with Norman Kerry, Ernest Torrence, Patsy Ruth Miller, Raymond Hatton. Directed by Wallace Worsley. A UNIVERSAL Production. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

--there's no picture on earth like it--play it again and again!

"Dangerous Dimples" For Laura La Plante

THE fact that Laura La Plante has deep and charming dimples had a lot to do with Universal's selection of an original story for her titled "Dangerous Dimples." This will be one of her scheduled pictures for the coming year, of which she now has five.

"That Blonde" will probably be the second of the five she will make under the direction of Fred Newmeyer, beginning about the first of May. "One Rainy Night" and "The Last Warning," an adaptation of the popular Broadway mystery play by Thomas F. Fallon, which will be directed by Paul Leni, will follow.

"Home James" is the first of the five pictures to be completed under the direction of William Beaudine.

Laura La Plante's popularity has increased so decidedly and so steadily that she is now acknowledged by millions of fans and many competent critics as the leading film comedienne.

PAUL LENI EXPLAINS LURE OF THE TERRIBLE

(Continued from page 6)

Mr. Leni has just completed filming anotheranother for Universal in "The Man Who Laughs," which is taken from Victor Hugo's novel of the same name. It is based on one of the most beautiful romances of literature and has given the director the opportunity of showing a new side of his megaphone genius.

Soon he will start direction of "The Last Warning" with Miss La Plante where every element in 'The Cat and the Canary" success will be duplicated.

Cleveland Critic Keen About Work Of Mary Philbin

ANOTHER state has been heard from in praise of Mary Philbin's fine work in "Surrender." The reviewer on the Cleveland News writes:

"We wouldn't ask for ninety more enjoyable minutes than those we spent in viewing this well-made film fashioned after the story of Alexander Brody, 'Lea Lyon.' The locale is the Galician-Russian border in 1914. Knowing something of this we feared there would be the usual bursting of bombs and harrowing war scenes. There wasn't. Only one death that we can recall and that not in conflict.

"Mary Philbin, daughter of the old rabbi, is playing by a small stream when she meets the Russian prince Constantin, traveling incognito as a huntsman. They meet again later by appointment and the rabbi, despising everything Russian, insults him. Later the Russian troops with the prince in command take the village and he threatens to burn it and all the occupants if Lea refuse to come unescorted to his apartments that evening.

"As the torches are about to be touched to the brush and pitch placed about the stockades, the girl goes to the prince, this and the events that follow supplying the biggest moment in the story, involving many excellently pictured Jewish characters, their home customs and rituals.

"The acting of Mary Philbin not only impressed this writer with its sincerity and uniform excellence, but makes us conjecture at what we can evpect from her in her more mature years. Certainly she is not of the flapper type and mannerisms. We would be willing to gamble on this young lady's future.

"Ivan Mosjukine, in a happier role than he had in 'Michael Strogoff,' did the prince most acceptably, while Otto Matiesen and Nigel de Brulier gave forceful renditions of their respective roles. Clever bit of drama done in a manner that leaves little room for criticism."

Morris Safier, who has just been appointed sales manager of Universal's long-run department, began his motion picture career with Universal.

Morris Safier Made Long-Run Dep't Mgr. of Universal

MORRIS SAFIER resigned last Monday as sales manager of the extended run department of Warner Brothers to go with Universal as sales manager of its long-run department. He established headquarters at 730 Fifth Avenue, last Tuesday.

Mr. Safier's first work in moving pictures was in the sales department of the big U (Universal's New York Exchange) at the time the Bluebird brand was established. Since that time he has been identified with big pictures and with long runs—pictures like "The Birth of a Nation," "Way Down East," "Robin Hood," "Orphans of the Storm," and Chaplin pictures and, more recently, "The Jazz Singer."

In his new capacity with Universal he will undertake imediately plans for the road-showing and long-run distribution of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "The Man Who Laughs," "Show Boat," "Broadway," "We Americans" and "The Mating Call."

We will now adjourn to the nearest Universal exchange because Again Universal has the pictures!

You'll say so, too!

"ALL EXTRA GOOD"

J. M. Rinehart,
Majestic Theatre,
Stuttgart, Ark.

starring

George Lewis

with Dorothy Gulliver, Hayden Stevenson, Churchill Ross, Eddie Phillips. Director of first series, Wesley Ruggles. Director of second series, Nat Ross.

Carl Laemmle Jr's

UNIVERSAL Junior Jewels

The Collegians

The WELCOME HAND!

There is no better way of extending the welcome hand to your patrons than to announce to them that you are playing Universal pictures as advertised in the Saturday Evening Post thru Carl Laemmle's column appearing every week.

Incidentally, that same column is excellent material on which to base your advance advertising. Use it. It will help you.

The column at the left will appear in The Saturday Evening Post of April 28, 1928

UNIVE[illegible]WEEKLY
Vol. 27
No. 16
May 26-
1928

Beautiful Mary Nolan featured with Norman Kerry & Lewis Stone in "THE FOREIGN LEGION"
-Laemmle Special-

LAURA LA PLANTE has grown so fast in popular esteem that so able a critic as George Gerhard said in the New York Evening World (issue of January 23rd, 1928) "it would seem that Laura La Plante is by way of becoming the Elsie Janis of the screen."

LaPLANTE

Screen's Great Comedienne

NOW at the height of her glorious career in these four delightful romantic comedies—

"HOME JAMES"
A William Beaudine Production
with Charles Delaney, Aileen Manning, Ruth Hurst

"ONE RAINY NIGHT"
A Wesley Ruggles Production

"THAT BLONDE"

"DANGEROUS DIMPLES"

This is Laura's Greatest Year

—•—

Play Her for the Top Money in 1928-1929

His Face Is Your Fortune!

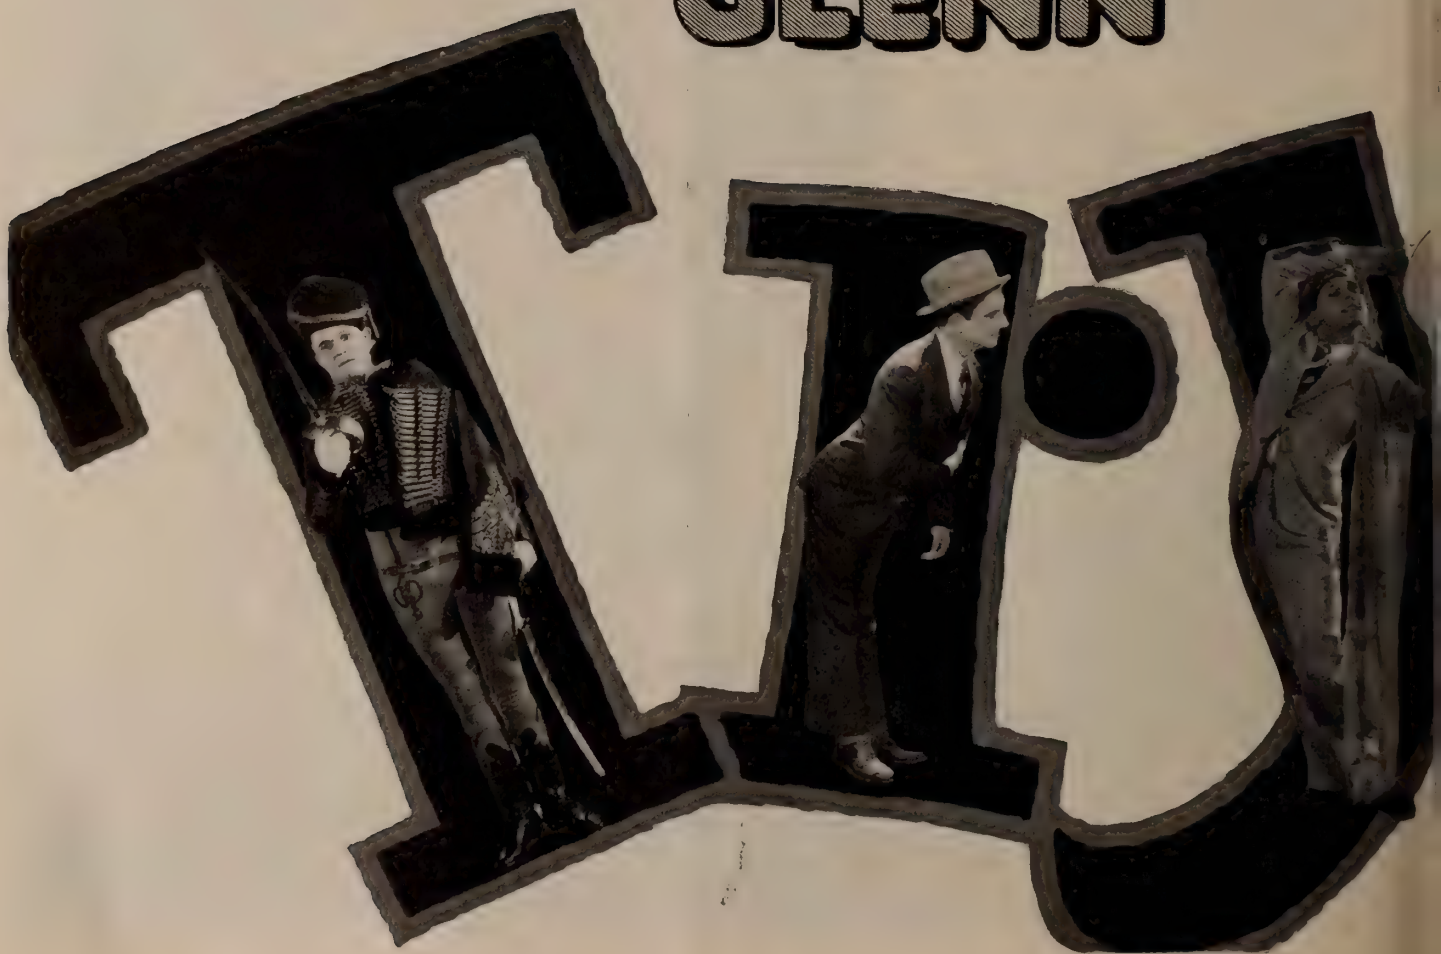
-- A Sensation overnight!!!
-- A tremendous Hit with Exhibitors!!!
-- A Riot with the fans!!!
-- A Box Office Bonanza!!!
-- A Million Dollar Smile!!!
-- A bagful of brand new tricks!!!
-- A host of side-splitting new gags!!!
-- An Instantaneous Success!!!

--that's

GLENN



REMEMBER

GLENN TRYON

in

"Painting the Town"

and

"A Hero for a Night"

Watch Him

burn 'em up with his four new knockouts for 1928-29

"Fresh Every Hour"
"The Gate Crasher"
"The Kid's Clever"
"The Life of the Party"

"He's Carl Laemmle's Sensational Screen Find"

"Fresh Every Hour" is a William James Craft Production.

Proven at Hot
GIBS
BEN WELLS
Cash in the Box Office

Absolute KING of all Western Stars

In 8 Great Gibson Jewels

Bigger and better than ever before! More action—more speed—more Western atmosphere than any group of Westerns you ever played! Better stories—bigger productions—a greater Hoot Gibson!

"THE DANGER RIDER"
by Arthur Statter
Directed by Henry McRae with Eugenia Gilbert

"POINTS WEST"
story by B. M. Bower
"BURNING THE WIND"
"CLEARING THE TRAIL"
"SMILIN' GUNS"
"BLOW FOR BLOW"
"THE GETAWAY"
"KING OF THE RODEO"

with Gibson!

PETER B. KYNE'S Sensational Newspaper Story

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

WITH

LEWIS STONE

MARCELINE DAY

Henry B. Walthall -- Malcolm MacGregor
Hayden Stevenson

A "Natural" backed by TREMENDOUS EXPLOITATION

A GEORGE MELFORD PRODUCTION

You'll be GLAD to pay more!

"Anybody Here Seen Kelly?"

The biggest and most popular song hit in twenty-five years turned into a knockout motion picture . . .

LOOK at This Cast

TOM MOORE
BESSIE LOVE
KATE PRICE
Addie McPhail
Alfred Allen
Bruce Gordon
Tom O'Brien

A Wm. Wyler production.

Based on Leigh Jason's great story "Come Across"

Universal Jewel

CARL LAEMMLE presents

NORMAN KERRY in Man-Woman and Wife

A Great Box Office Title
A Greater Story

With Pauline STARKE
Kenneth Harlan
Marian Nixon
Ward Crane
Jack Raymond
Crawford Kent

A Powerful Picture with Underworld Atmosphere and a New Twist

You'll be GLAD to pay more!

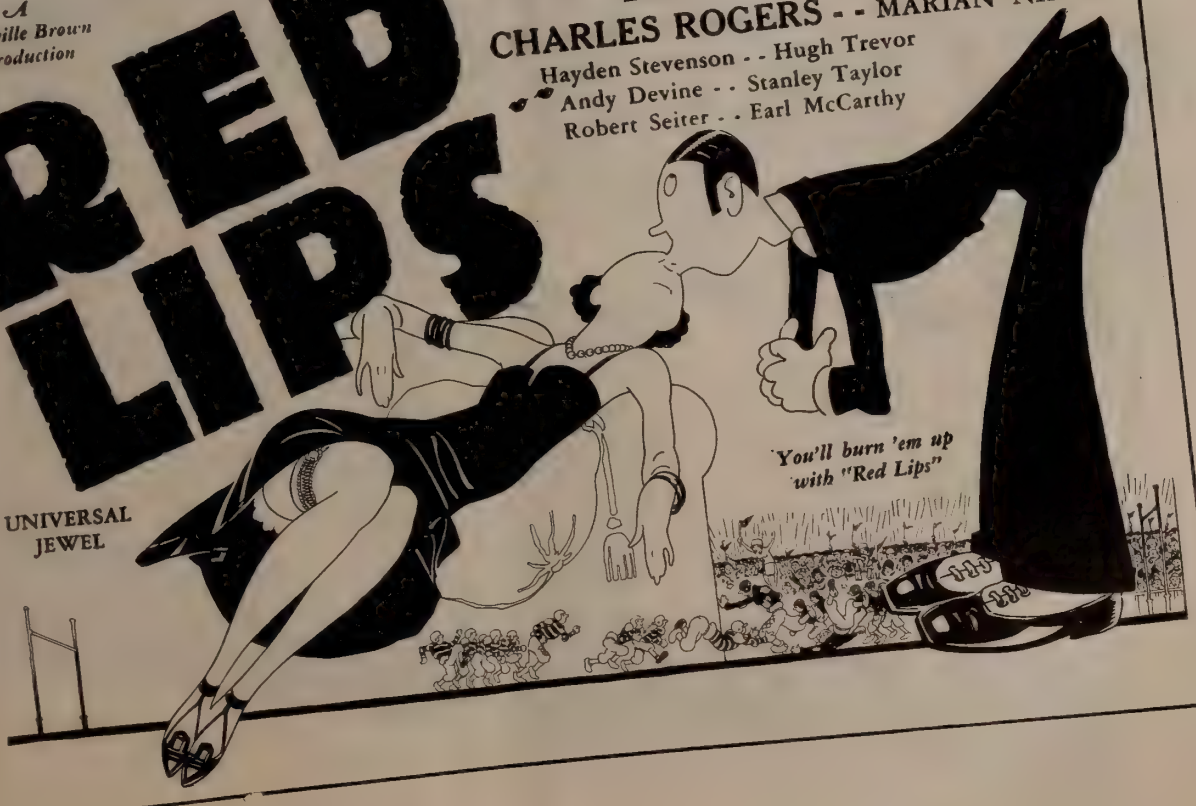
Youth at a temperature of 212°

Entertainment with a Capital "E"

CHARLES ROGERS - - MARIAN NIXON
Hayden Stevenson - - Hugh Trevor
Andy Devine - - Stanley Taylor
Robert Seiter - - Earl McCarthy

A Melville Brown Production

RED LIPS



You'll burn 'em up with "Red Lips"

UNIVERSAL JEWEL

You'll be GLAD to pay more!

It's a UNIVERSAL JEWEL

JEAN HERSHOLT

MARIAN NIXON & GEORGE LEWIS

— — in a gripping dramatic story of pride of family pitted against impetuous youth

JAZZ MAD

Story By SVEN GADE
Directed By
HARMON WEIGHT

You'll be GLAD to pay more!

"THE SHAKEDOWN"

Show business pictures get the money!—

Underworld pictures get the money!—

—here's one with the double-action money-making kick of both—a thrilling drama of the burlesque stage!

Story by Charles A. Logue

A WILLIAM WYLER PRODUCTION

Universal Jewel

You'll be GLAD to pay more!

Wm. MacLeod Raine's Powerful Story of the Frozen North

GRIP OF THE YUKON

UNIVERSAL JEWEL
An Ernst Laemmle Production

WITH NEIL HAMILTON
STAR OF "BEAU GESTE"
FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN
JUNE MARLOWE
OTIS HARLAN
BURR McINTOSH AND MANY OTHERS

You'll be GLAD to pay more!

PHYLLIS OF THE FOLLIES

RICH - - SPICY - - DARING
With all the Lure of Back Stage Romance

PLAYED BY A SPLENDID CAST INCLUDING
MATT MOORE--ALICE DAY
LILYAN TASHMAN and EDMUND BURNS
An Ernst Laemmle Production IT'S A UNIVERSAL JEWEL

Story by ARTHUR GREGOR

You'll be GLAD to pay more!

And there's more to come
Watch next week's weekly!

¶ In the issue of May 5th we told you about Carl Laemmle's 4 Great Super Productions

¶ In the issue of May 12th we told you about the 7 Big Laemmle Specials and the 4 Big Money Dennys

¶ In this issue we tell you about the 22 Headliner Jewels (including 4 Laura La Plantes and 4 Glenn Tryons) and 8 Hoot Gibson Jewels

¶ NOW watch next week's weekly for the greatest line of Short Subjects in the world and other program building features.

Proving that Again
UNIVERSAL has the Pictures!

AINT

No. 586—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

WHEN every picture producer is breaking his neck to find good stories for the screen—
When every picture producer is anxious to find some new way to please the exhibitor—

Aint it a grand and glorious feeling to have TWENTY-SIX COMPLETED PICTURES ON HAND AND READY TO SHOW?

That's Universal!

That many of our next season's pictures are ready to show. IT'S NEVER BEEN DONE BEFORE BY ANY PICTURE COMPANY IN ALL THE WIDE WORLD.

So much for the producer!

When the exhibitor is worried for fear he might make a mistake in buying his pictures for the next season—

IT?

When the exhibitor is afraid he might be terribly misled by some terrific promises—

Aint it a grand and glorious feeling for him to know that UNIVERSAL IS READY TO SHOW PICTURES INSTEAD OF PROMISES and THEREFORE THERE IS NO EARTHLY CHANCE OF MAKING A MISTAKE?

That's you!

Your whole buying scheme is revolutionized now. Every bit of guesswork is eliminated. In the past you have been perfectly willing to buy Universal on past performances — but now even that much guesswork is eliminated!

Twenty-six completed and ready and all knockouts!

Aint it a grand and glorious feeling?

This is exhibitors' year and Universal year. They're the same thing.

Aint life wonderful?

The
UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for the Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick, ~ Editor
Published by the Motion Picture Weekly Publishing Co. Heckscher Bldg. 730-5th Ave. New York City
Copyright 1928 UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION All rights reserved

Vol. XXVII MAY 26, 1928 No. 16

MOVIEGRAMS UNIVERSAL

THERE is a strong possibility that "The Girl On the Barge" will be made very largely in the East. Before this week is over, the majority of the cast will have reached New York. Jean Hersholt, who has never been in New York in all his life, arrives on Tuesday and Edward Sloman, who will direct, accompanied by his technical force, will arrive on Thursday. Elaborate arrangements have been made for production in New York harbor, in Albany and along the Erie Canal at Syracuse.

GLENN TRYON arrives in Universal City this morning from a two weeks' Universal convention campaign to find William Craft all ready to shoot "The Gate Crasher," his next Universal picture. In the cast are: Patsy Ruth Miller, T. Roy Barnes, Hal Reade and Beth Laemmle, niece of the president of Universal Pictures Corporation.

TARZAN'S sweetheart was selected last week. Natalie Kingston, famous bathing girl, was the unanimous choice for the lead opposite Frank Merrill in "Tarzan the Mighty." Others are Al Ferguson and Monty Montague.

HAYDEN STEVENSON will play his old role of college coach in the new series of "Collegians," which Carl Laemmle, Jr., has just started. Alice Howell and her daughter, Yvonne Howell, have been added to the cast of the first picture, "Calford vs. Redskins."

Emily Fitzroy Will Play Role of Parthenia Ann Hawks In Universal's "Show Boat"

Long Distance Negotiations by Harry Pollard Locate Much Wanted Player in London

THE first part in "Show Boat" has been cast. Emily Fitzroy will play the part of Parthenia Ann Hawks.

When Harry Pollard came to New York recently, it was with the avowed purpose of finding a Magnolia and a Ravenal. He went back to California without them, but in the meantime he knew whom he wanted for Parthy Ann Hawks, and started a search which covered two continents and an ocean before he succeeded in finding Emily Fitzroy. Eventually, through her agent in California, she was located in Paddington, London, and three-cornered negotiations between Los Angeles, New York and London resulted yesterday in signing Miss Fitzroy for the role which has been sought by every character actress in the moving picture business.

Miss Fitzroy first drew the attention of the moving picture world to her in a wonderful role in "Driven," produced in 1923 and released by Universal. The role of the Kentucky mother, who sacrifices her own life and that of her children to a Kentucky feud riveted the attention of the industry upon her, and Miss Fitzroy has been busy ever since. Some of her more recent pictures are "Love," with Greta Garbo and John Gilbert; "Orchids and Ermine," with Colleen Moore; "The Sea Tiger," with Milton Sills; "One Increasing Purpose," "Mockery," with Lon Chaney; "Buried Alive" and "Foreign Devils."

Miss Fitzroy will catch the next possible boat from Southampton in an effort to reach California by June 2, the starting date of the picture.

The other roles are still a subject of greatest speculation in Hollywood and in New York. Stars like Mary Ellis, Naomi Johnson, Zita Johann and Julia Hoyt were tested and, for various reasons of legitimate plans and failure to screen well, unavailable. Harry Pollard went back to the Coast almost convinced that he would have to choose a screen star who had voice and stage experience if any such exists.

The same applies to Ravenal. Fifteen tests of Broadway leading men were made without uncovering any possibilities and it seems certain that the part will go to a screen star. It is not so important for this role that the actor be able to sing. It is important, however, that Magnolia and Ravenal exactly fit the colorful types of the Edna Ferber Story.

BLANCHE MEHAFFEY, Virginia Pearson, Robert Graves and Leo White have been engaged by Hoot Gibson for his latest Universal picture, "Clearing the Trail." It is the third under his new production contract with Universal.

"GIRL ON THE BARGE" TO BE MADE IN EAST

Sally O'Neil to Head the Cast—Universal Unit Assembling in New York—Jean Hersholt Tuesday, Edward Sloman Next Week and Miss O'Neil and Malcolm McGregor Thereafter.

FOR ten years Universal has not made a production of its own in its studio in Fort Lee, N. J. Ever since the production activities of the company were transferred to its huge plant at Universal City, California, the glass enclosed stages across the Hudson on the Palisades have either been rented to other companies or have remained idle. But today there is activity there. The Universal Eastern studio is being refurbished for the inspection of Edward Sloman, Universal director, who will arrive in New York next week to decide whether the facilities there are sufficient for the filming of the interiors on Rupert Hughes' Erie Canal boat story, "The Girl On the Barge."

Sally O'Neil, who has been chosen as the star in "The Girl on the Barge."

When Universal abandoned its eastern plant to concentrate all of its activities at Universal City, the studio was considered the most up-to-date and usable on the entire eastern coast. When William Wyler came to New York to make the New York scenes of "Anybody Here Seen Kelly?" it was not necessary for him to use any of the studio facilities because the thing he wanted to get was outdoor New York. He completed his interiors at Universal City. It is possible that Sloman will do the same, but so much of his picture will have to be made here that it is quite possible that the entire production will be shot in New York instead of taking the company back to the coast for interiors.

Jean Hersholt, arriving in New York from California for a short vacation before he begins work on his role as barge captain in the Universal picture.

Important cast changes in "The Girl On the Barge," were announced this week when it was made public that Mary Philbin and George O'Brien have been withdrawn from the cast, to be replaced by Sally O'Neil and Malcolm McGregor. Jean Hersholt, who is to play the role of the barge captain, arrived in New York last Tuesday to enjoy a short vacation before camera-work on the new picture begins.

Malcolm McGregor, who will play the handsome juvenile lead opposite Sally O'Neill in the Erie Canal film.

When the continuity for "The Girl On the Barge" was completed it was found that the role of the girl was unsuitable for Miss Philbin, requiring, instead, a hoydenish, spitfire type. She requested Mr. Laemmle to relieve her from the role. Due to unavoidable delays in getting the production under way, George O'Brien, originally considered for the juvenile role opposite the girl, also became unavailable for this production on account of previous contracts. Malcolm McGregor is considered an excellent replacement.

Sally O'Neil recently completed "The Battle of the Sexes," the new D. W. Griffith picture, with Jean Hersholt. Other pictures in which she has

(Continued on page 32)

WESTERN AND THRIL

Seven Ted Wells and Vonceil Viking Films, Six Jack Perrins and Nine Melodramas Make Outstanding Production Schedule for Next Year

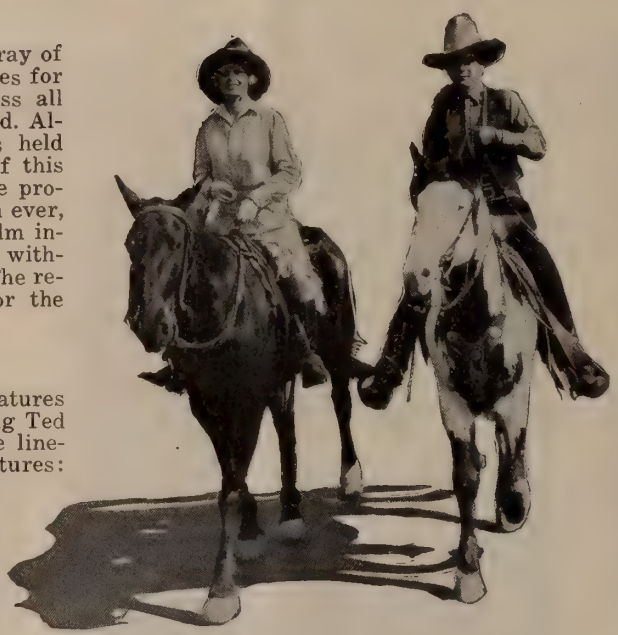
UNIVERSAL promises an array of Western and Thrill Features for 1928-1929 that will surpass all its past achievements in this field. Always have Universal Westerns held high rank among the makers of this kind of picture. This season the product will not only be better than ever, but will be outstanding in the film industry due to its quality plus the withdrawal of various competitors. The releases will total twenty-two for the forthcoming season.

Ted Wells Features

The first group of Western features consists of seven pictures starring Ted Wells and Vonceil Viking. The line-up includes the following pictures: 'The Crimson Canyon," "Born to the Saddle," "The Border Wildcat," "Beauty and Bullets," "The Ridin' Demon," "The Smilin' Terror" and "Grit Wins."

Ted Wells is well established as one of the most popular Western stars on the screen. He has been seen in scores of Universal pictures during the past year or so and has built up an enviable reputation among lovers of Western pictures by his pleasing personality, his dashing feats of horsemanship and his ability to handle himself as a heman should in rapid action and adventurous sequences.

Vonceil Viking, who will play opposite Wells in these features, is one of the best known young women in the United States. Last winter she won the attention of the country by riding on horseback from New York to Los Angeles in 120 days, in the face of extreme handicaps of weather, roads, accidents, sickness and floods. She hung up a record for her sex by this accomplishment and received thousands of columns of publicity as the result of her pluck, her beauty and her perseverance. When Wells heard of her plans for the trip, which she made on a dare to prove that the modern young American girl has as much hardihood as her pioneer ancestress, the Universal Western star wired her an offer to appear in pictures with him upon the completion of her trip. Carl Laemmle seconded the offer and so Miss Viking, a true daughter of the West, has been engaged on a long term contract by Universal.



Ted Wells, long popular as a Western star, and Vonceil Viking, the valiant girl who was the first woman to cross the continent on horseback, will co-star in seven Western Features for next season.

Jack Perrin and Rex Features

The other group of Universal Westerns, six in number, will co-star Jack Perrin and Rex, the Wonder Horse. Also, Starlight, Perrin's famous mount, will appear in these pictures in a role equally interesting and clever as that of Rex. The pictures in this group are "The Two Outlaws," "Wild Blood," "Plunging Hoofs," "Guardians of the Wild," "The Harvest of Hate" and "Hoofbeats of Vengeance." Perrin's popularity as a Western star, plus the countrywide vogue of Rex, the great horse-star of the screen, combine to make these offerings of exceptional box office value.

These six pictures were directed by Henry MacRae, veteran megaphone wielder and a past master at suspense and action.

"The Two Outlaws" is an exciting story of a mysteriously masked Lone Rider, a girl whose crooked guardian almost succeeds in depriving her of her ranch, and Rex, King of Wild Horses who saves the situation. Kathleen Collins plays the part of the heroine, while Starlight does some spectacular work. J. P. Mc Gowan, Cuyler Supplees and John Hall are in the supporting cast. Ethlyne Clair is the feminine lead with Jack Perrin in "Wild Blood," a film built around the romance of gold mines, the perfidy of a prospector who tries to lure the heroine to the city and the dramatic struggle of Rex to recover his mate, Starlight and avenge the injury to their colt. The villain is destroyed in one of the most thrilling stampedes yet screened. Theodore Lorch and Nelson Mc Dowell play minor roles effectively.

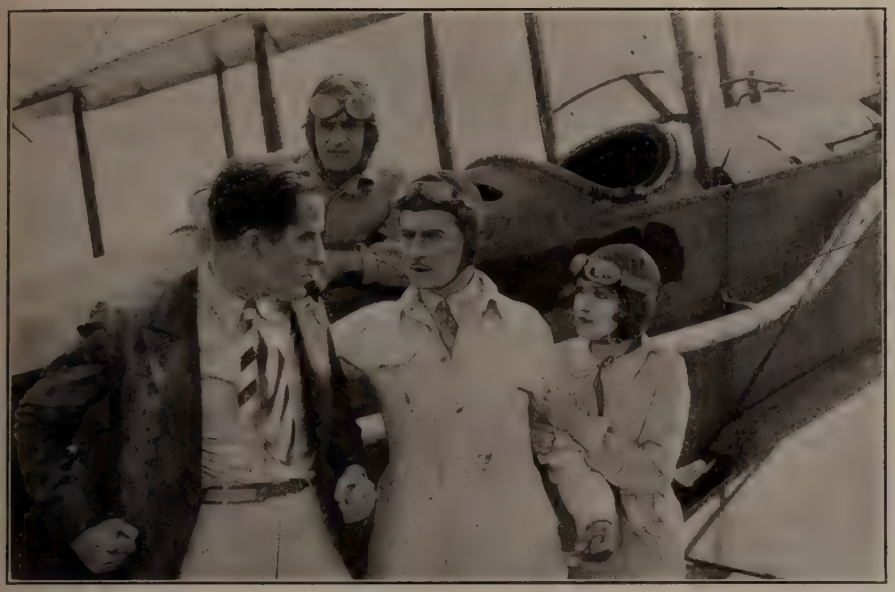
In "Plunging Hoofs" the interest in Rex' marvelous acting is heightened by an intense love drama between Parson Jed Campbell, played by Jack Perrin, and a dance hall girl, portrayed by Barbara Worth. J. P. McGowan and David Dunbar complete a competent cast.

"Guardians of the Wild" was adapted by George Morgan from his own story of a forest fire that threatens to endanger the hero and heroine. How Rex, in gratitude for the removal of a nail from his hoof, rescues the pair from a wall of flame forms the climax of a theme that is rich in gun fights, love interest and western atmosphere. Ethlyne Clair, Al Ferguson, Bernhard Siegel and Bob Homan are in the cast in support of Jack Perrin and Rex.

"The Harvest of Hate" contains the most exciting fight ever filmed between a man and a horse. In this picture, Rex assumes a real character and has his greatest opportunity to show his ability. Jack Perrin and his wonder horse, Starlight, play featured supporting roles. Helen Foster is the heroine and Tom London the villain. There are many thrilling scenes, including that of a runaway circus wagon, a headlong plunge over a cliff and a terrific fight between two men.

The last Jack Perrin film, "Hoofbeats of Vengeance," is a colorful tale of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. Rex and Starlight play more prominent roles as secret spies than any of the human actors in the film. Their superhuman cunning and intelligence aids the mounties in routing a band of smugglers and in finally uniting the lovers, portrayed by Jack Perrin and Helen Foster.

FEATURES FOR 1928-29



Al Wilson and Wilbur McCauch add a fist fight to the other thrills of "The Sky Skidder," an aviation picture, in which Helen Foster and Pee Wee Holmes lend splendid support.

Aviation Thrillers

Included in the 22 Western, Thrill and Melodrama features to be put out by Universal for next season, are two Aviation Thrillers made by Al Wilson, the daring serial-stuntster of the screen. They are "The Cloud Dodger," directed by Bruce Mitchell, with Gloria Grey, Joe O'Brien, Julia Griffith, Gilbert Holmes, Frederick Clark and Ivan Unger in the cast; and "The Sky Skidder," also directed by Mitchell, with Helen Foster, Peewee Holmes, Wilbur McCaugh and others in support of the star. In addition to Wilson, several other stunt flyers appear in these two features.

"The Cloud Dodger" is a story of Al Williams, a thrill-mad member of the younger generation. He is out riding with his sweetheart when he steps on the gas and is pursued by a motorcycle officer. He drives at full speed to the flying field where his plane is in readiness and with his sweetheart Sylvia Le Moyne, takes into the air. The officer however, calls the aerial police and after a strenuous chase in the clouds the police plane is wrecked and Al is taken prisoner. Sylvia refuses to marry him on account of his wildness and her aunt insists that she marry at once so she is forced to accept the rich Stanton Stevens. Al learns of this and goes to his apartment quite down-hearted where he later dozes off and dreams that he is fifty years back in history. Stevens is a renegade white who leads the Indians in revolt and they capture Sylvia. Stevens is about to marry her when Al comes along in his plane and drops in a parachute in time to break up the wedding. This gives Al an idea and he rushes to Sylvia's house in time to stop the real wedding. Stevens knocks Al out however, and kidnaps Sylvia in his plane but is pursued by Al. After a terrific battle on the wing of Stevens' plane Al takes Sylvia to his plane by a rope ladder and they are married in the air where Al promises to settle down.

"The Sky Skidder" is built around Al Simpkins, an ambitious aviator who has invented a new fuel which he declares will fly a plane 1000 miles on a pint. He makes a trial flight on the fuel and while in the air sees his sweetheart, Stella Hearns, riding with the wealthy and dishonest Silas Smythe and as the car gets out of control Al sweeps down and rescues her by means of a rope ladder. Back at the flying field Silas overhears Al telling Stella there is just enough "Economo" left for a trial flight the next day so he steals the mixture that night and refills the tank with gasoline. When Al makes the exhibition the next day his plane runs out of fuel and he is forced to jump from the plane and land by parachute. The folks in Centerville lose all faith in Al's invention, but when he enters the air derby with a powwerful monoplane which he purchased with funds borrowed from Stella, he has a tank full of Economo and he gives her the formula which Silas steals from her just before the takeoff. Al then takes Stella in his ship and they go into the air after Silas to get the formula back. Stella takes the controls and Al reaches Silas' plane via a rope-ladder, where after a terrific fight, he retrieves the formula and after winning the race claims Stella as his bride.

With the present prominence of flying in the public consciousness, these two air thrillers are sure-fire drawing cards for any box-office. Wilson is a daredevil with cast-iron nerve and the stunts he pulls in, around, under and over an aeroplane while flying through the clouds, cause the small hairs at the back of one's neck to bristle and the breath to come in short takes. Where thrills and tills are buddies, these Al Wilson pictures spell sure profits.

The Melodramas

Universal has another prize in store for exhibitors and the public for next

(Continued on page 20)

Rex, the King of Wild Horses, poses regally as befits the star of six Universal releases.

WESTERN AND THRILL FEATURES FOR 1928-29

(Continued from page 19)

season in the form of a group of seven special melodramas. These action pictures are made by popular stars under the direction of first class directors. The stories are top-notch and the resulting pictures are good red meat for the most carnivorous picture audience.

The pictures are: "The Body Punch," "Beyond the Law," "Phantom Fingers," "The Hero of the Circus," "The Midnight Mystery," "The Price of Fear" and "Wolves of the City."

An indication of the worth and box-office value of this group may be had from the facts concerning "The Body Punch." It was adapted from a story written by Harry O. Hoyt, who has turned out most of the Glenn Tryon successes. Leigh Jason directed it, with Jack Daugherty, the popular Western and serial star, and beautiful Virginia Browne Faire in the leading roles. Others in the cast are: George Katsonaros, Arthur Willett, Monte Montague, Wilbur Mack and more who are equally well known.

"The Body Punch" is the highly dramatic and thrilling story of a gentleman prize fighter who is on his way up toward a match with the champion. He is famous throughout "Fistiana" (sports page slang for the prize fighting fraternity) for a particular knockout blow which he has perfected. This punch is known to all his friends in the sporting world as the body punch because it is delivered straight-arm to the body and usually brings his opponent down. He wanders into a cheap night club with his manager where he sees a young woman insulted by one of the frequenters. The girl's escort is too cowardly to resent the insult, so the hero (Jack Daughtery) takes up the cudgels in her defense. The lights are shot out, a wild melee ensues and Jack manages to reach the exit. Once outside he leaps into an ice wagon parked in front of the club, pulls the girl in after him and drives rapidly to her home. He is surprised to note that she is the daughter of the town's richest man. A friendship follows. He is invited to a charity bazaar given by the girl at her home. She asks him to box for her guests and a unique match is arranged between a wrestler and Jack; the wrestler to wrestle—no holds barred—the fighter to use his fists encased in boxing gloves—the idea being to prove or disprove the theory that boxing is a better means of self defense than wrestling.

There is bad blood between the wrestler and Jack and also between the girl's escort of the night at the night club. The escort and the wrestler frame Jack. The escort steals a necklace belonging to the girl, gives it to the wrestler to place in Jack's pocket. However, the wrestler keeps it in the hatband of his hat. When the girl discovers her loss, she reports it to the private detective on the grounds. They search all the guests and the escort accuses Jack of taking the necklace. Jack is arrested and held. He escapes, goes to the wrestler's rooms, searches for the necklace, but cannot find it. Meanwhile the wrestler returns. A tremendously thrilling fight ensues between Jack and the wrestler. Jack finally subdues him. The detective and the police arrive. They find the necklace in the hatband of the wrestler's hat. They take the wrestler into custody—clinch between Jack and the girl—fadeout and the end of five reels of glorious entertainment.

The other melodramas contain equally exciting situations. "The Price of Fear" is an adaption of "The Stool Pigeon," a mystery story by Basil Didsey. It, too, is directed by Leigh Jason, whose fine job on "The Body Pnch" won him a long-term contract with Universal. Bill Cody will play the lead and George Hackathorne has been selected for an important part.

Such a line-up of Western and Thrill Features puts Universal in a unique position for 1928-29. Ted wells, Jack Perrin, Rex and Starlight, comprise drawing cards that mean gold to exhibitors of western films.

Helen Foster saves Jack Perrin from Tom London's neat strangle hold in "The Harvest of Hate."

"The Body Punch" is filled with thrilling fights and tense moments as well as the beauty of Virginia Browne Faire and Jack Daugherty's competent acting.

Harrison Reports "Hot Heels" Has Universal Appeal

PETE HARRISON says of Glenn Tryon's latest comedy, "Hot Heels":

"Good entertainment! Human interest, thrills and comedy are mixed up in this picture, which starts out on a comedy slapstick note but finishes with a whirlwind horse-race, keeping the spectators in tense suspense. There are numerous comic absurdities in the opening scenes, where the hero is seen as an eccentric hotel-keeper, acting as his own clerk, and playing all kinds of tricks on the members of the traveling theatrical troupe, which had come to down. The wandering dancers put on a show at the town opera house. This is a laughable burlesque of the melodramas that were popular out in the 'sticks' a generation ago. Later, when the troupe goes broke, the hero agrees to finance it for a trip to Havana and goes along with the outfit. He is decoyed into this arrangement by the leading man, who fakes a telegraph message from Cuba. In the development of the plot it is shown that when the troupe arrives in Havana the hero discovers he had been fooled and thinks the heroine, with whom he is in love, had helped to frame him. The horse, Hot Heels, who performs in the show, is a thoroughbred. As a last resource, the heroine enters Hot Heels in a big race. The villain beats up Tod Sloan, the jockey, who was to have ridden Hot Heels. The hero substitutes, rides Hot Heels to victory, and wins the purse, and the girl.

"Glenn Tryon does excellent work in the part of hero, Patsy Ruth Miller is a charming heroine.

Universal Loans Barbara Kent To Canadian Co.

BARBARA KENT, pretty Universal ingenue, seen in many Universal pictures and who has just completed the co-featured role with Glenn Tryon in "Lonesome," the first Paul Fejos picture for Universal, has been loaned by the Laemmle organization to the British-Canadian Pictures, Ltd., as the lead for "Retribution," a picture going into production in Canada within a few days. Neal Hart is the male lead and the director.

Miss Kent will leave Universal next week for the Prince of Wales Ranch in Alberta, where much of the action will be shot. Other parts of the picture will be made at Calgary and Banff.

Bill Cody Cast In "Price of Fear"

WILLIAM "BILL" CODY, famous Western player, has been chosen by Carl Laemmle, President of Universal Pictures Corporation, to play the leading role in "Price of Fear," which is expected to go into production shortly, according to an announcement from Universal's executive offices.

"The Price of Fear" is an underworld story by Basil Dickey and will be directed by Leigh Jason, who recently completed "The Body Punch" for Universal.

George Hackathorne has been named to play the role of "Shrimp" Riley in the Dickey story. William Lord Wright will supervise its production.

Serial Favorite Sells Story to "U"

GRACE CUNARD, formerly one of the leading serial stars, and more recently seen in important roles in serials and other pictures, has turned her hand to story writing. Universal has just bought one of her stories, entitled "A Fightin' Fool."

The contract with her also calls for a continuity, which it is understood she will supply. The picture will be made as a western feature. It is unlikely that she has given up acting altogether, as she is expected to play in one or more Universal serials for the coming year, in roles similar to those in which she appeared this season in Universal chapter-pictures.

New "Newlyweds" Series Started by Stern Brothers

STERN BROTHERS have started production in their 1928-1929 series of "The Newlyweds and Their Baby" comedies. "The Newlyweds' Court Trouble" is the title of the first two-reeler. Sunny McKeen, the popular child star, is featured as in the prior series. Mr. and Mrs. Newlywed are played by Jack Eagen and Derelys Perdue.

The Sterns have added two well-known "gag" men to their corps of production experts. They are Glen Lambert and Robert Burns. Lambert has been assigned to the Newlywed unit, and Burns to the Buster Brown Comedy unit.

Francis Corby is directing the new "Newlyweds" comedies.

YOU can't go wrong on a picture BIG enough to be booked, second run by one of the biggest theatres on Broadway—a theatre that plays to grosses often over $75,000 a week(*). That's another reason why we say——

Double Your Playing Time and You'll Double Your Profits

(*) Booked for early showing by the Capitol Theatre, New York, which is just two blocks away on Broadway from the Colony, where this wonder picture played a long run at $2.00 top.

"WE AMERICANS"

with GEORGE SIDNEY, Patsy Ruth Miller, George Lewis, Beryl Mercer, Eddie Phillips, Albert Gran, John Boles, Josephine Dunn, Kathlyn Williams. From the stage play by Milton Herbert Gropper and Max Siegel. Supervised by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Screen adaptation by Al Cohn.

IT'S A LAEMMLE SPECIAL

Collegian's Contract Renewed by Universal

GEORGE LEWIS, Universal's collegian star, will remain with that studio, the option on his contract having been taken up, according to an announcement by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation.

The popular player first came into public view two years ago as star of Universal's "Collegian" series. Following that he appeared in "Honeymoon Flats" with Dorothy Gulliver and more recently in "We Americans" and "Give and Take."

His initial production under the new contract will be the first of the third series of the "Collegians" in which he will again be the star under the direction of Nat Ross.

Demond Will Write More Titles for "U"

AN OPTION held by Universal on services of Albert Demond, title-writer, has been taken up and he will remain under contract to the studio, according to an announcement by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation.

Demond has written the sub-titles for more than twenty pictures during the past year. Among them are "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris," "Hot Heels," "Fresh Every Hour," "Home James," and others. He is now working on "Give and Take," a story of the canning industry, starring Jean Hersholt and George Sidney, having recently completed titling, "Speedy" for Harold Lloyd, to whom he was loaned by Universal.

Walter Fabian Will Direct Western Series

WALTER FABIAN, who attained success directing Fred Gilman in his western productions, will direct Bob Curwood, also a Universal Western star, in the "Stunt Cowboy" series, according to an announcement by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation.

Fabian will begin production on May 15, with the first of the series of twelve units under the supervision of William Lord Wright. The supporting cast will be announced later.

As the title suggests the "Stunt Cowboy" series will be replete with unusual feats of horsemanship and daring stunts. They will be twe reels in length.

"FRESH EVERY HOUR"

Glenn Tryon, Universal Comedian, Wise-Cracks for the Interviewers

GLENN TRYON came to New York a couple of weeks ago to attend the Universal Convention at Atlantic City. He hadn't been in the big city for six years. He was out for a good time, renewing old acquaintances of his song and dance days, seeing the shows and incidentally lapping up atmosphere for his probable role as the hoofer in "Broadway." Between engagements, he paused to exchange a few breezy words with newspaper reporters. Most of them found Glenn in his apartment at the Warwick before breakfast, a movable feast that hovered over the comedian's tousled head anywhere from nine to noon. Some mornings it was evident that the star had slept only a brief hour or two after a round of dining, theatres, night clubs and what have you. But always Glenn fitted the title of his next Universal comedy, "Fresh Every Hour."

Not that he is a smart aleck in real life, but he is amazingly boyish, witty and enthusiastic. He refuses to be serious about himself or his career for more than a moment at a time and he has the happy knack of convincing the inquiring reporter that he is a "regular feller."

Betty Colfax of the Evening Graphic wrote of Glenn:

Rapid success like Glenn's has brought out the high-hat for many a movie star, but with this newcomer, a career is all in the day's work and being a star, just one of the breaks of the game. He is one of the most unspoiled actors who have ever stopped over in New York on the way to an Atlantic City film-maker's convention, much better-looking than he screens, full of pep with an ability to turn the flicker talk to a serious discussion of the industry, altogether an interesting, charming actor. Hollywood needs more like him.

Radie Harris in the Morning Telegraph said:

A few years ago, Glenn Tryon was just "coffee and cake" at Childs. Now he is caviar and burgundy on the Universal home lot. A few years ago, Glenn Tryon was saying "Whew, warm, ain't it?" at the Booth Theatre for ten a week. Now he says, "Delightful weather, isn't it?" at his suite in the Hotel Warwick at considerably more than that a day. All of which leads to the fact that the only thing Mr. Tryon has in common with "them thar bygone days" is the same boyish enthusiasm and unostentation.

Glenn Tryon, staggering into his suite at the Hotel Warwick, bore one of his funniest expressions as well as much expensive luggage.

It was at the aforementioned Warwick suite that we met Mr. Tryon one early morning last week. It was his first visit to New York in six years and he was improving the shining hours by wooing Morpheus. However, knowing the circumstances, we forgave him. He had been getting atmosphere for the role of the hoofer in "Broadway," a part soon slated for him. But we did punish him just a bit for his tardiness by making him wax autobiographical in between nibbles of toast and draughts of coffee.

You see, our first glimpse of Mr. Tryon was in "Painting the Town." After that we saw him in "A Hero for the Night" and "Two Girls Wanted." And since "Hot Heels" and "Lonesome" (in which he essays his first dramatic role under Paul Fejos' direction) have not as yet been released, that was our only record to date. Before that, our biography divulged nothing.

"That is because you visit only the Broadway picture palaces where the two-reeler is never shown," Mr. Tryon enlightened us. "If you frequented your neighborhood movie house, you would most likely have seen me there making whoopee in a Hal Roach comedy. Yes, I served a three-year apprenticeship in short-reelers before I landed my first role in a full-length production, 'The Poor Nut,' for First National.

"It was the best experience I could have had. The short-reeler is the kindergarten, primary and finishing school for both the dramatic actor and the comedian. It teaches him the elementary fundamentals that serve him so well in his later experience. It is to the screen actor what 'stock' is to the legitimate actor, a marvelous foundation."

Paul Fejos, the Hungarian director with whom Mr. Tryon worked in "Lonesome," had given us such glowing reports of his dramatic ability that we asked him about it.

"I thoroughly enjoyed my work in that film," was his answer, "but I prefer comedy roles. And Universal has arranged my program accordingly. Thus my next four pictures, 'Fresh Every Hour,' 'The Gate Crasher,' 'The Kid's Clever' and 'The Life of the Party,' are all comedies in which I essay the role of a smart aleck—a likeable rather than objectionable, fellow.

"Besides the pleasure I derive from these roles, my reason for preferring them also has its mercenary elements. There certainly is much more money to be made in the comedy field. Dramatic juveniles can be bought at a negligible salary; they can easily be replaced. Comedians come high. Look at Chaplin, Lloyd and Keaton. Should anything unforseen happen to them, their gap would be hard to fill. No, thank you, mercenary and inartistic as it may sound, when old age creeps upon me I would much rather get my whiskers entangled in the door of my limousine, parked in front of my Beverly Hills mansion, than have them caught in the cogs of a wheel-chair in which I happen to be ensconced at the poorhouse."

In speaking of "Painting the Town's" amazing success, Eileen Creelman remarked:

"This proceeded to smash a few box

(Continued on page 32)

It's never been done before by ANY Company.

26 Prize Pictures on the Universal 1928-29 line-up are in the exchanges for you to see – – – – – – that's why an outstanding Trade Paper* says–

READY NOW

 Exhibitors Daily Review of April 26th.*

BIG LA PLANTE-PEP TIE-UP WHEN "THANKS FOR BUGGY RIDE" PLAYS IN KELLOGG HOME TOWN

Battle Creek Grocers Cooperate with Bijou In "Pep" Exploitation

THE home town of Kellogg's PEP saw an extensive exploitation campaign recently when Laura La Plante played in "Thanks for the Buggy Ride" at the Bijou Arcade Theatre. Ted Force, manager of the theatre, co-operated with the Kellogg Company in letting Battle Creek know the full advertising value of the famous slogan, "Laura La Plante peps up with PEP."

Both the Inquirer and Evening News and the Battle Creek Moon-Journal carried three-quarter page ads of the Universal comedy, announcing that free tickets to see the show would be given away by Battle Creek grocers with each package of Kellogg's PEP.

Five thousand tickets were printed and distributed among the grocers of Battle Creek. These tickets when accompanied by one paid admission admitted two persons to any matinee during the three days' run of the picture. Quite a number of grocers sold out their stock of PEP and consequently ran out of tickets. As soon as they informed the Kellogg Company of this, they were furnished additional tickets, so that they could continue to take advantage of the tie-up. Nearly one thousand of the free admission tickets, with one paid admission, were turned in at the Bijou box-office. Mr. Force was well pleased with the results.

The Kellogg display material, placed by a special salesman throughout the city the entire week previous to the playdate, consisted, for the main part, of two hundred and fifty posterettes with snipes attached and mounted on window display cards, also a like quantity of free matinee ticket posters and cards. The theatre was furnished with two large cutouts of Laura Plante's head, cut from the 24-sheet posters. The large sign in reference to the showing of the picture was attached to each of these and they were placed at advantageous points in the main part of the city.

The Moon-Journal took the occasion to publish a three-column cut of Miss La Plante shaking hands with W. K. Kellogg, president of the Kellogg Company, after a sulky ride behind one of the Battle Creek manufacturer's famous horses. Miss La Plante recently visited Mr. Kellogg's Arabian horse ranch at Pomona, California, and was thus able to say with conviction, "Thanks for the buggy ride."

The result of the La Plante-Pep campaign in Battle Creek was so satisfactory to the grocers; Ted Force, the theatre manager, and Mr. E. R. Wholihan, of the Kellogg Company, that it indicates very practically just how effectively this tie-up may be used in other cities when La Plante comedies are playing in local theatres. It goes without saying, of course, that the possibilities of such co-operation are just as widespread and fraught with success when applied to the other Universal star whose name has been tied up with PEP, namely, Reginald Denny. The campaign this year promises to outstrip the previous Denny and La Plante Pep tie-ups.

This comfortable ballyhoo was used to exploit "Thanks for the Buggy Ride" for the seven days of its run at the Boulevard Theatre, Los Angeles, California. The house is one of the West Coast Theatres and its progressive manager is Montague Salmon.

"On Your Toes" Fastest Denny Yet

THE Chicago Daily News says: "Being an expert dancer and something of a prize-fighter as well, Reginald Denny is enabled to put over big the role of Elliott Beresford he plays in the new picture, 'On Your Toes,' at the Majestic.

"It is just about the fastest comedy the star has appeared in to date.

"Denny, as all the fans know, is a handsome, clean cut, gentlemanly actor. He came over to America from England in 1910, but stayed only a short time, returning to England to go on tour with 'The Merry Widow.' This didn't last long, and after that the athletic young man took up professional prize fighting for a time. So, he got the training he puts to such good use in 'On Your Toes.'

(Continued on page 32)

MORE
accounts will play this one than the 10,600 which played the first—

"THE COHENS AND KELLYS IN PARIS"

Why? just look at the exhibitor reports in any trade paper— Then see

UNIVERSAL

MOTION PICTURES TODAY CALLS "MAN WHO LAUGHS" GREAT AUDIENCE PICTURE

An Amazing Picture

THE most startling thing about "The Man Who Laughs" was its effect upon a crowded theatre. It seemed to cast a spell upon the spectators from the pit to the roof at the Central Theatre, spectators who were not guests at a premiere, but persons who crowded to the pay window in response to the sweep of word-of-mouth publicity that a sensation had come to Broadway. If the simile is fair—it seemed to drug them, to hypnotize them into forgetfulness of everything but the living story unfolding before them. When the characters suffered, the spectators suffered and shuddered; when the villain was throttled by an avenging dog they responded with approving applause.

So remarkable was the merging of spectators and picture that we were moved between the contemplation of the screen and the massed vibration of feeling that swept the theatre. Only once before have we seen and felt this phenomenon and that was when smoke sent panic running through a theatre audience. The air on that occasion was electric with fear and feeling. This picture and spectator situation held nothing of panic, but the intensity and the sweep of feeling was identical. "The Man who Laughs" is another of the successes which have been the highlights in Universal's history.

Hugo wrote it, Leni directed it, Conrad Veidt and Mary Philbin have starred in it. It is of the period of the second James of England and Queen Anne. Medieval cruelty gives it brutal strength and suffering. Costumes and scenery of the day give it splendor, beauty and magnificence. Conrad Veidt as a clown, whose face has in childhood been changed by surgery to a mask eternally grinning, gives it genius in bitter and horrible interpretation. Mary Philbin, blind from her babyhood, gives it loveliness and pathos. Structure and direction have made it the motion picture unusual, strange, weird, terrible and beautiful. Olga Baclanova, the sort of girl that women sniff at and men either secretly or openly cheer, displayed the gifts which God had given her and later wore amazing clothes.

Josephine Crowell was a queenly queen, Sam DeGrasse was James II and as mean and ornery as was required, Stuart Holmes as a courageous fop was brilliant and Cesare Gravina gave a remarkable performance as Ursus the traveling showman. The story deals with a boy mutilated by kingly order in revenge on his noble and rebellious father. Grown to manhood, he loves the blind girl he rescued from death when she was a baby. She loves him, but his disfigurement makes him reluctant to marry her. A fantastic series of events which separate them finally brings them to each other.

"The Man Who Laughs" is one of the greatest audience pictures we ever have seen.

ARTHUR JAMES.

EXTRANEOUS NOTE—In the picture is a device providing a solution for all trade paper situations. It is called the Iron Lady. It is filled with spikes and can be readily opened to admit one editor at a time. When closed the editor problem is no more. Neither is the editor. One Iron Lady on each coast would suffice and the expense, though great, would be in line with permanent economy. The Iron Lady was the medieval equivalent of the Dearborn Independent before it was cured.

International Newsreel Gives Los Angeles Mayor City Hall Dedication Film

DEDICATION ceremonies of the new City Hall at Los Angeles are to be a perpetual event in the life of Mayor George E. Cryer of that city, for he is now the proud possessor of motion pictures of the event, presented to him by International Newsreel through George C. Naylor of the Universal Film Exchange.

The films, which were taken at the formal opening of the new city offices, were given to the mayor exactly as they were released on the Pacific Coast by International Newsreel.

The film shows the parade, dedication ceremonies on the steps of the City Hall and intimate glimpses of the building itself.

"These films will preserve for me the happiest day of my life," the mayor said in accepting the gift. "I look forward with a great deal of pleasure to gathering my family together in future years and again living the events of last Thursday. Words cannot express my gratitude to International Newsreel, not alone for the gift, but the wide publicity they have given our city in releasing the event as a special throughout the West."

This is the second event of importance to both Los Angeles and International Newsreel that George C. Taylor has effected recently. The other was the signing of a three year contract to show both issues of International Newsreel at the new Warner Brothers Theater. Both achievements indicate the popularity of International in the home town of the movies.

Mayor George E. Cryer of Los Angeles (left), receiving a motion picture film record of the dedicatory ceremonies of the new City Hall from George G. Naylor of the Universal Film Exchange, on behalf of International Newsreel.

Universal Has Lost a Friend

DALLAS' merry amusement world was in mourning Wednesday for "Si" Charninsky, one of the most genial and popular figures that ever shared the fortunes of Elm St.

The managing director of the Capitol theatre died Tuesday afternoon as the result of a sudden illness which he suffered in his office about noon. He was taken in an ambulance to St. Paul's hospital, where he died within two hours. He had suffered some time an intestinal abscess, to which the sudden stroke was attributed.

Born in East St. Louis 45 years ago, Simon Charninsky moved to Dallas when he was 8, with his family. Deprived of educational opportunity as a result of economic misfortunes of his family, "Si" nevertheless capitalized the two most valuable assets of the showman—an unfailing good humor and a keen sense of showmanship. He built a considerable fortune for himself in his business enterprizes.

He was connected also with the operation of the Melba theatre, when it was opened, and at various times leased or managed other local houses, including the Jefferson and the Capitol, which he acquired in partnership with Ray Stinnett five years ago.

They were closer than two brothers. They were not only together during the day but spent their evenings together. The first thing in the morning, Si would telephone Ray. They'd breakfast together. If they had business in other towns where they operated theatres, they went together.

Amusement row has lost a wonderful fellow, and so has Universal.

His mother, Mrs. Pauline Charninsky, and five brothers and three sisters survive him.

Charninsky and Stinnett had recently won a verdict for $337,000 damages against Famous Players corporation, in a suit in which he charged the alleged "trust" had unfairly discriminated against his house.

Audience Roars At Denny's Latest

"GOOD Morning, Judge" hit the risibles of Wisconsin moviegoers, according to Peggy Patton in the Wisconsin News:

"The Alhambra, presenting 'Good Morning, Judge, completes a quintet of excellent Wisconsin av. pictures. There is not a weak or an uninteresting silversheet offering in the list, the Alhambra winning its laurels on a Reginald Denny picture.

"Not an unusual situation for likable Reggie can always be depended upon for 100 percent entertainment. The Saturday night audience chuckled and roared at the antics of the rich young man who posed as a bum and criminal in order to win the attention of a beautiful young woman who had the complex of saving souls.

"The picture is hilarious throughout, and the beautiful leading woman is Mary Nolan."

Hank Linet Calls "Man Who Laughs" A Powerful Thing

IN his editorial column of the Exhibitors Daily Review, Hank Linet commented the other day on the value of "The Man Who Laughs" to Universal and to the exhibitor.

Carl Laemmle, who has seen "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" bring in the golden stream some years ago, thought to duplicate the performance with another big costume picture, "The Man Who Laughs."

It is a powerful thing this story of the laughing clown. It grips one and thrills to the marrow.

"The Man Who Laughs" is about as excellent a pace setter for the new product of Universal as could be found.

The picture will no doubt enjoy a big run on Broadway, for it is of the stuff that comes nearest to deserving the $2.00 price.

When it hits the smaller price house, it will more than match strides with the first of Universal's new pictures. "We Americans."

Happy days in store for Universal

There is no Substitute for QUALITY

13 "SNOOKUMS"
the box-office baby in George McManus' "Newlyweds and Their Baby."
Junior Jewels

13 "MIKE and IKE"
Rube Goldberg's famous comic twins.

13 "LET GEORGE DO IT"
George McManus' great syndicated strip.

13 "KEEPING UP with the JONESES"
"Pop" Momand's popular comic family.

13 "BUSTER BROWNS"
R. F. Outcault's mischievous kid and his dog Tige.

STERN BROS.
COMEDIES
Two Reels Each
Released through
UNIVERSAL

Author of "Lonesome" Congratulates Universal

[TELEGRAM]

SANTA MONICA CALIF

CARL LAEMMLE
UNIVERSAL

MUST EXPRESS TO YOU MY VERY DEEP APPRECIATION OF LONESOME LAST NIGHT POIGNANTLY HUMAN AND MOST ARTISTIC IN EXECUTION MY CONGRATULATIONS AND TO ALL ON PICTURE ESPECIALLY DOCTOR FEJOS FOR SPLENDID DIRECTION AND MR. GLENN TRYON FOR FINE NATURAL PORTRAYAL OF BOY

MANN PAGE

Screen Title Writer Titles New Contract

A NEW long-term contract has just been arranged for Tom Reed, Universal title-writer, according to an announcement by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation. Reed has already been assigned to a number of productions which will keep him busy for the rest of the year.

He was recently called back from a vacation trip by Carl Laemmle, Jr., to write the titles for "Lonesome," the simple "boy and girl" picture which is said to have created a new type of direction in the film industry. After rushing 1,700 miles to Hollywood he discovered that he would only have to write thirty titles. Paul Fejos, the director, had so arranged the action that the scenes alone told the story, and fewer titles than usual were necessary.

In the past year Reed has written titles of a number of outstanding productions. "A Man's Past," "Finders Keepers," "Thanks for the Buggy Ride," "Stop That Man" and "Out All Night" are included in this group.

"Hunchback" Beats First Run Pictures

"WE have played 'The Hunchback of Notre Dame' at the Globe Theater, Bethlehem, Pa., on April 16, 17, and 18. This is the third time the picture had been played at this theater and we have done better with this picture than with a lot of first-run pictures. We were agreeably surprised at the amount of business we did with same."

—Sol Brill, president, Globe Amusement, Corp., New York City.

"We Americans" Has Real Punch

MILWAUKEE liked "We Americans" just as cordially as New York did. It played at the Alhambra Theatre to packed houses and enthusiastic reviewers. Nancy Lee in the Journal said:

"This is a powerful picture with a decided punch. It is a fascinating portion of America placed movingly and realistically upon the screen. The cast could scarcely be improved.

"It's a tale of the immigrant folks; set in their ways and yet ever so likeable; they irk the children born to them in America beyond words. They cling to the old tongue, the old customs; when daughter, an artist, brings home her latest sketch, mother looks at it, says: 'It's nice. Are you hungry?' And daughter, after more words, leaves the house.

"This is the situation with the Levines. There are other like families who make long faces over their children—the Italians down the crowded little street; the plump German butcher and his comfortable wife—'why are they ashamed of us?'

"Simple and beautifully done, is the story. Unusually fine is the acting of Beryl Mercer as Momma Levine, of Sidney as Poppa Levine and Patsy Ruth Miller is a new person, an altogether charming Beth Levine. Happy was the choosing of 'types,' the motley group that throngs the narrow New York streets. Restrained is the sentiment all the way through.

"We recommend 'We Americans' to evervone; and to some a second viewing of the picture."

It is one of the box-office assets of "We Americans" that the struggle between two generations graps the hearts of young and old regardless of nationality.

Preview of "Lonesome" Scores a Perfect Hit

[TELEGRAM]

SANTA MONICA CALIF.

CARL LAEMMLE
UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORP N Y

PACKED HOUSE WITNESSED PREVIEW OF GLENN TRYONS LATEST PICTURE STOP NEVER SAW SUCH AN ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION TRYON SCORED A PERFECT HIT ALLOW ME TO CONGRATULATE YOU ON ANOTHER BOX OFFICE SUCCESS BARBARA KENT SPLENDID PHOTOGRAPHY AND CAMERA ANGLES REMARKABLE

DICK DARST CRITERION THEATRE
SANTA MONICA CALIF

George Chandler In New "U" Series

"TENDERFOOT THRILLERS," a series of two-reel Western comedy dramas, will be among the first group of Universal pictures to start on May 15, according to an announcement by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation.

The series was written specially for Chandler and will comprise twelve units. The remainder of the cast and the director will be announced shortly by Supervisor William Lord Wright.

Chandler first became screen famous in a comedy series in support of Arthur Lake. He is one of the most rapidly rising players in Hollywood because of his clever and youthful manner of film portrayal. Up to a short time ago he was well-known as a big-league vaudeville star.

Additions to Cast Of Denny's Picture

CORLISS PALMER will play an important role in Reginald Denny's next Universal picture titled "His Lucky Day." Jocelyn Lee and George Bookasta have also been added to the cast of the picture which has gone into production under the direction of Fred Newmeyer.

Other members of the cast of this picture of the prize ring include Betsy Lee, the screen name of Imogene Steifel, who will play the leading role; Sam Hardy, Michael Visaroff and Harvey Clark. "His Lucky Day" promises to be an even faster comedy than "On Your Toes."

Universal Builds $250,000 Theatre In Winchester, Va.

UNIVERSAL CHAIN THEATRICAL ENTERPRISES, INC., has started building its New Empire Theatre in Winchester, Va., on the site of the old Empire Theatre. Issac Weinberg, General Manager of the Shenandoah Valley Theatre Corporation, local subsidiary of "U" has just completed negotiations for the purchase of additional land for the project. The demolishing of the old Empire is already under way and construction work will start very shortly.

The New Empire will seat 1500 and will represent an investment of approximately $250,000. It will be the finest theatre in the Shenandoah Valley and will be equipped with every modern facility for picture and stage presentations.

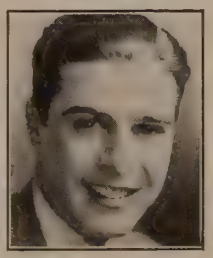
"Silk Stocking" Stunt Proves Effective

IF YOU saw a parade of Hupmobiles, each topped with a girl sitting on the hood resting her silk clad legs on the mud guard, you'd give more than a casual look, wouldn't you? So did everyone in San Diego, California, when Harry L. Hartman, resident manager of the Fairmount Theatre, staged this stunt during the run of "Silk Stockings." A huge banner attached to the first car in the parade bore the announcement of the Universal comedy's playdate. The box-office reflected the attention the stunt created.

When the Old B. O. Needs Pep—

The "COLLEGIANS"

Carl Laemmle, Jr.



George Lewis

with

George Lewis

Dorothy Gulliver, Hayden Stevenson, Eddie Phillips, Churchill Ross. 1st series directed by Wesley Ruggles, 2nd series directed by Nat Ross. Junior Jewels.

UNIVERSAL

"THE HAUNTED ISLAND"

Universal Adventure Picture
Featuring JACK DAUGHERTY

No. 8—"The Treasure Trap"

ESCAPING from the secret passage, Rosalind and Fitz James find themselves confronted by a forest fire from which they barely escape.

They make their way back to the castle and find that Spring Gilbert has gone to the sand caves determined to locate the hidden treasure. While they are studying the map, Spring Gilbert and his cohorts suddenly appear and after a battle manage to get possession of the map. They immediately start for the caves followed by Rosalind and Fitz James, who trust to their memories for the location of the treasure and hope to change its hiding-place.

As they search along the passages of the cave they suddenly come upon Peg-leg, the pirate guardian of the treasure. He threatens Fitz James, and just as they are about to come to blows the pirate suddenly opens a trap which precipitates Fitz James into an underground river.

No. 9—"Unmasked"

SPRING GILBERT, who has entered the wrong cave in his search for the treasure, emerges just in time to see Rosalind speeding toward the castle for help. When he returns to the castle, he plots with Mrs. Strang, the housekeeper, to make Rosalind believe that Fitz James has been saved from drowning and is Spring Gilbert's prisoner, who will be turned over to the police unless she consents to immediate marriage with Victor King and reveals her knowledge of the hidden treasure.

Rosalind refuses until she is shown from a window a man, whom she is told is Fitz James struggling for freedom. Frantic for Fitz James' safety, she finally consents to the marriage.

Meanwhile the Phantom Raider, searching for his lost friends, goes to the treasure cave to consult with Peg-leg and is horrified when he learns that Peg-leg has unconsciously sprung the trap on the man they both wished to save.

Fitz James, carried out to sea, manages to regain the shore and returns to the castle to learn through Canfield of Rosalind's predicament. With the aid of the Phantom Raider he kidnaps the minister and, donning his vestments, takes his place at the ceremony. Just as the unwilling bride arrives at the altar, Fitz James throws off his disguise and the Phantom Raider appears. Instantly confusion reigns. The raider seizes Spring Gilbert and faces him for the first time unmasked.

No. 10—"Uncut Diamonds"

SPRING GILBERT was terrified when he discovered that the unmasked Phantom Raider was none other than Rosalind's father, Mark Joy, who was believed to have perished in the ashes of the village of deserted men. In the confusion which followed and Rosalind's joy at being reunited with her father, the villains, Spring Gilbert and Victor King, get away and determine to make one last desperate effort to locate the treasure with which they hope to escape from the Island.

They find their way to the cave and finally encounter Peg-leg, who this time makes no mistake in springing his trap. The sinking men come in contact with a huge suspended cage which poves to be the hiding-place of the secret treasure. In their efforts to save themselves and the treasure the cage becomes dislodged and all are dragged down into the sea's depths. Rosalind and Fitz James escape and marry happily.

"OH, WHAT A KNIGHT!"

An Oswald Cartoon
SNAPPY COMEDY

OSWALD, mounted on his mule and singing his best, approached the Castle abode of his lady love. All went well until they reached the moat where several hungry alligators were waiting to welcome them. Fortunately they eluded the beasts with only the mule's tail confiscated. Oswald's whistle brought the lady to her balcony. Aided by his lariat and his helpful mule, he managed to join her in spite of her warnings about an irate parent. Just as they were exchanging most passionate embraces, the lady's father appeared and troubled started. Oswald was terrified but put up a brave fight and finally succeeded in snatching the lady and escaping, only to step out of a tower door into space. Luckily, the lady's skirts made a perfect parachute and when last seen were headed earthward blissfully unconscious of everything but each other.

"THE VANISHING RIDER"

No. 10—"Vengeance"

Universal Chapter Play
With WILLIAM DESMOND

WHEN Mary Allen lost control of the car in which Jim Davis resisted the attempts of the Bradly gang to recover the incriminating paper Bradly had signed, the car dashed over a cliff and was wrecked.

The Vanishing Rider, who had followed them at a distance, saw the accident, descended the cliff, and before Davis had recovered consciousness again, had possession of the Bradly document.

Although without evidence, Jim reported to the sheriff. Bradly's gang, realizing that their game was up, make a getaway in the stage.

A few miles from town they were overtaken by the Vanishing Rider.

When the sheriff placed the Vanishing Rider under arrest with the others, Jim Davis cleared the mystery by explaining that he and the Vanishing Rider were brothers in the Secret Service and that the activities of the Vanishing Rider were part of their plan to capture the Bradly gang.

Mary Allen's heart was also captured by the Vanishing Rider.

Universa

"THE WILD WEST SHOW"

Universal Jewel
With HOOT GIBSON

RODEO BILL and his cronies vote the small town circus a frost until the horses in the stage coach act bolt and give Bill an opportunity to rescue Ruth Hinson, the circus owner's daughter, who is the heroine of the act. Ruth tells Bill the circus is in financial straits and that her father wishes her to marry Alexander, his business partner, who has promised to put the show on its feet as soon as she marries him.

Hoot Gibson

Bill and his cronies rustle a big crowd from the country-side to see the performance next day when Ruth is to go up in a balloon.

Riding to town Bill sees the balloon, which has escaped its moorings, floating away. He dashes to the rescue and secures the dangling rope to his saddle horn. He is disgusted when he discovers he has rescued Zella the cross-eyed knife thrower, who made an accidental ascension.

Bill joins the circus as a handy man in order to be near Ruth. He incurs the dislike of Alexander, who plots with his henchmen to steal the gate money and incriminate Bill. Ruth, who discovers Alexander's plot, tips off Bill and he, with the sheriff, catch Alexander red handed.

A ravaging tornado hits the circus, blowing down the main tent as Ruth is doing a trapeze act. Bill manages to rescue her just before the crash. Things look bad for the circus but Ruth and Bill are too absorbed in each other to be disturbed.

Synopses

"BUCK PRIVATES"

A Universal-Jewel Production
With LYA DE PUTTI

JOHN SMITH left Yale to make the world safe for democracy. After the Armistice he is quartered in a little German village near the Rhine at the home of Major von Hartmann, and here he falls in love with Anne, the gruff Major's daughter.

Lya de Putti

Von Hartmann is president of a Pacifist society and opposed to the army of occupation. To make matters worse, the village officials agree to shear the hair of any of their daughters found fraternizing with American soldiers. Anne is the first to be caught and shorn. To shield Smith from punishment Anne allows the authorities to believe that the man seen with her in the garden was the tough top sergeant whom she despises. The captain threatens to bring him to trial by court-martial unless he agrees to marry the girl.

Anne escapes in a soldier's uniform while her ugly maid puts on the bridal veil and marches to the altar in her stead. Smith, frantic over the outcome, stops the wedding by kidnapping the bride during the ceremony and racing away with her. He is followed by Anne on a motorcycle, but tries to outdistance her, believing her to be a soldier pursuing him. The sergeant's friends finally get the bride away from him and the topper marries the wrong girl while Smith walks away dejected after his apparent defeat. As he nears the gate Anne comes limping in and falls in his arms while the sergeant lifts the bridal veil for the first time and learns that he has married the maid.

"A FULL HOUSE"

Stern Bros. Comedy
Keeping Up With The Joneses Series

PA McGINIS has just drawn the world's best in a little game in his office when Ma and Bella Donna arrive. Ma throws the poker hounds out on their ears and takes Pa to the costumers to select a costume for her masqued ball.

Pa gets into trouble again and escapes in a sailor suit. A passing cop mistakes him for an escaped nut. He chases Pa into a shop where he poses as a figure in the window until he is rescued by Bella Donna.

His Poker friends crash the masked ball and, with Bella Donna's assistance. Pa is enjoying their interrupted game of the morning when Ma again discovers them, uses her strong-arm methods and breaks up the party.

"MADE TO ORDER HERO"

Five-Reel Ranch Riders Picture
Starring TED WELLS

BERT LANE, owner of the 3X Ranch, receives word from his sweetheart, Margery Murray, that she is coming for a visit with her aunt Saphrona. Bert is downcast when he reads that the romantic aunt will not allow her niece to marry anybody but a society man or a hero. The ranch riders agree to impersonate the terrible Borden gang of killers and hold up the stage in which the women are expected to arrive. Bert plans to carry out a fake rescue to make himself a hero in the eyes of the aunt.

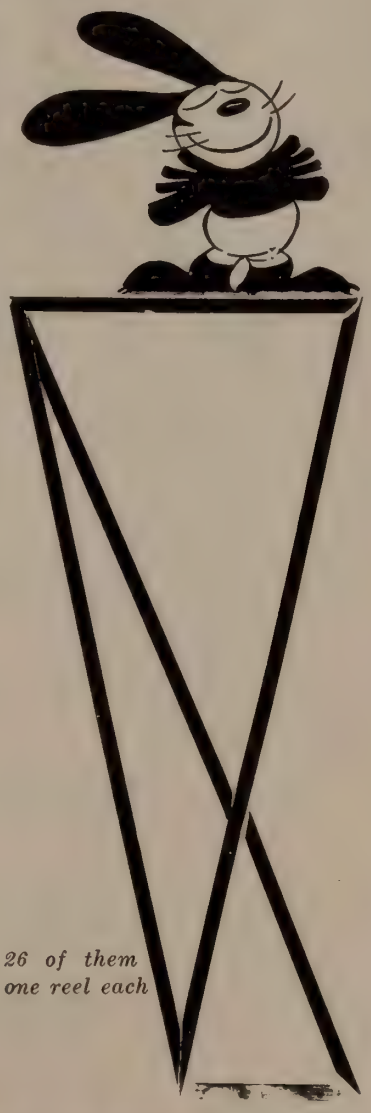
The boys attack the stage as planned, but they are driven off by the expert shooting of a man named Van Ralt, a passenger, who now becomes Aunt Saphrona's hero. She invites him to spend a week at Bert's ranch. The next day a horse runs away with Margery. She is rescued by Bert and faints in his arms. She wakes up in the arms of Van Ralt while Bert is running for a hatful of water. Van Ralt again claims the hero honors.

The ranch riders again impersonate the Borden gang and pull a fake raid on the ranch house, overcoming Bert in a faked fight and abducting Margery and Saphrona, whom they take to a mountain cabin. Bert aims to make a thrilling rescue later, but the plot is overheard by Van Ralt, who hogties Bert and admits that he is Borden, the notorious killer. Borden taunts Bert with the information that he is going to rescue the woman and then make a getaway with Aunt Saphrona's jewels and the girl.

Borden successfully carries out this plan, leaving the ranch boys hopelessly tied and riding away with the women. Bert, in the meantime, has freed himself from his bonds and rides to the cabin where he cuts the boys loose and pursuer "Killer" Borden.

Borden, approaching the canyon entrance to the hideout of his gang, takes Aunt Saphrona's jewels away from her and then forces the girl to go with him to the cavern stronghold. Bert cuts across the mountain to the hideout while the boys follow on the road. He bests the Borden gang in a fist fight and then holds them at bay with a gun tossed to him by Margery. The boys and the aunt arrive. She gets back her jewels and pronounces her blessing on the new hero.

Fun for the Family - - Money for YOU - -



26 of them one reel each

OSWALD
The Lucky Rabbit
Walt Disney Cartoon Creations.
Produced by Winkler Productions for
UNIVERSAL

"Girl On The Barge" To Be Made in East

(Continued from page 17)

appeared are "Slide, Kelly, Slide," "'Frisco Sally Levy," "The Callahans and Murphys" and "The Bachelor's Paradise."

Edward Sloman, who is to direct "The Girl On the Barge," left Universal City last Saturday. He will go first to Albany, thence to Syracuse and Buffalo before coming to New York. The picture will be filmed along the New York water-front, in the Hudson, at Albany, Syracuse and Buffalo, along the Erie Canal. Shooting will begin within two weeks. Miss O'Neil and McGregor will leave the West Coast in time to join the Sloman unit in New York before that date.

Hersholt, now stopping at the Ambassador Hotel with his wife and son, Alan, is in New York for the first time, despite the fact that he has been in pictures in this country since 1914. When he first came over from Denmark, he landed by way of Montreal, where he visited relatives of his wife. From there he proceeded to Hollywood by way of Chicago. His first picture work was in a Universal one-reeler. Later he worked with other companies and then returned to Universal as a stock player. His rise to prominence in unusual character parts has been within the last three years.

He will have two weeks in New York before beginning work. He will spend the time sightseeing.

Glenn Tryon Is Interviewed

(Continued from page 23)

office records. Universal gave the leading man a contract and promoted him to stardom or near-stardom. This success, however, has been a little too sudden for Mr. Tryon. He still does not realize it. One of the main objects of his trip East is to ask Universal that its advertisements do not show him as an overconfident smarty in real life. The other is to attend the annual convention of his company."

Yesterday the new star gave his first interview. For all the advice of Paul Fejos, under whose direction he has just completed "Lonesome." Mr. Tryon does not want to play in dramatic roles. He said:

"When people ask me if I don't long for bigger and better pictures, I say, 'And what then?' No, I like comedies. Who are the three outstanding stars today? Well, then. And do you know the proportion of men in any audience attending a comedy? Seven to ten. I figured that out from stock company days, when I was as closely in touch with the box office as with the stage. And did a vegetable ever make any one laugh? Ah, but an onion can make you cry.

"Yes, and what dramatic juvenile is making anywhere near as much as a good comedian? Except those in Westerners, of course. If I couldn't play comedy, I'd buy a big hat and ride a horse in pictures."

MR. EXHIBITOR

Save this issue!

File it along with the other issues about Universal Headliners for 1928-1929. They point the way to bigger and better box-office receipts for next season.

May 5	May 26
May 12	June 2
May 19	June 9

"On Your Toes" Fastest Denny Yet

(Continued from page 25)

There was more of the stage for Denny before he went into the movies, driven there for a living by the Actors' Equity strike, after he had returned from fighting with the 28 Londons and the royal flying corps. He was in 'Thirty-Nine East' with Constance Binney; the junevile lead with George Arliss in 'Disraeli,' and the lead with Elsie Ferguson in 'Footlights.'

"Then came 'The Leather Pushers,' and Carl Laemmle's discovery of Denny. He has been under contract for comedies, and, of course, 'On Your Toes' is the latest.

"Here Reginald Denny is seen as Elliott Beresford, the son of a prize fighter known as 'Young Evans,' but kept in ignorance of his father's profession by a dear old grandmother who brings her grandson up to be a dancer instead.

"With grandma's money he opens a sudio in New York and is blithely waiting for patrons, when along come sa girl he knows, whose father is a manager of prize fighters. She and her dad had hoped to find Young Evans' son a worthy successor of his father, but soon abandoned that hope, after they had met him. Still Mary does succeed in arousing his self-respect and making him ashamed of living on his grandmother's money, and a fight in a taxi shows his superiority over a would-be 'champ,' and the Sullivans take him in tow and in time land him in the prize ring.

"Needless to tell more. Denny becomes one of the best of 'em and he wins the girl and everybody is happy, even the old gandmother, so beautifully played by Mary Carr. Playing opposite Denny is Barbara Worth, and working with him in the ring is Hayden Stevenson."

La Plante's Double Draws Patrons In to "Finders Keepers"

LAURA LA PLANTE'S double and a ballot on the exciting problem of whether a man can fall in love after he is thirty kept Cleveland in a state of interest during the run of "Finders Keepers" at the Palace Theatre. Universal Exploiteer A. J. Sharick packed this exploitation stunt full to the brim. First, a high school girl who looks very much like Laura La Plante visited dance halls each night as Miss La Plante's double. The first person in each hall who identified the girl with the words, "You are the double of Laura La Plante, heroine of 'Finders Keepers' at the Palace," received a prize of $5.00

This stunt was well placarded in each dance hall with scenes from the picture and a picture of the double with a mask on. In two halls huge banners hung from the ceiling telling about the stunt. Mr. Sharick used a megaphone in each dance hall to announce when the double had been discovered, introduced her and her finder, and added some publicity about "Finders Keepers."

In addition, the double distributed ballots in each dance hall on whether a man can fall in love after he is thirty. The question was first asked by Will Durant and had had wide publicity in the Cleveland Press. The best answers to Durant's statement that 30 is love's deadline were published in the Press.

These two stunts went over so well that the picture opened to tremendous business, which increased to capacity before the week was over.

THANKS MR. EXHIBITOR

"Every picture on the Complete Service Contract that we have played justified its exhibition from the standpoint of worth, artistry, box-office returns and general satisfaction."

—W. W. Jobson,
Hollywood Theatre,
Cincinnati, Ohio

—and there are thousands of other exhibitors who feel the same way about

UNIVERSAL'S
Complete Service Contract

A Welcome Messenger To Millions of Homes!

Carl Laemmle's column, appearing in every issue of The Saturday Evening Post, is a welcome messenger of good cheer bringing the glad tidings of Universal's clean wholesome pictures to millions of homes. This messenger of happiness sits in at the family gatherings—helps select their evening's entertainment — gets their viewpoints on Universal pictures to come —brings conviction to them that Universal pictures are good, honest pictures with the highest entertainment values. This is how Universal's national advertising is bringing your public to your theatre to make profits for you.

Watch This Column

Our Weekly Chat

On the banks of the Rhine, with the American Army of Occupation, after the armistice, two soldiers, one a buck private and the other a sergeant, fall in love with a charming German maid. The prominent citizens of the town don't like it and they issue a warning that any German girl caught fraternizing with the soldiers will have her hair cut off.

Lya De Putti

This briefly is the foundation of "Buck Privates" a Universal production brilliantly directed by Melville Brown. The picture features the beautiful LYA DE PUTTI and the always popular MALCOLM MacGREGOR, assisted by such clever people as ZAZU PITTS and EDDIE GRIBBON, the latter, the sergeant. The big question is, who gets the girl? See the picture and get your answer there. Then write me your opinion.

Imagine "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Universal's great special production, drawing as crowded houses in South America, Canada and other foreign countries as in its own home, America. In Spain, the press said it had charmed the people there, so much that King Alphonso has requested a special command showing at his palace.

Virginia Gray as "Little Eva"

LAURA LA PLANTE, the screen's great comedienne, will make five pictures for the 1928-1929 season and in each instance the story is by a writer of prominence. She will make another mystery picture along the lines of "The Cat and the Canary" — this new picture being a remarkable story adapted from the Broadway stage success, "The Last Warning."

"We Americans," often described as the very best of the melting pot picture-plays, is mowing a wide path into public popularity. The singular thing about it is that no critic has had anything but praise for it. So, watch for it in your neighborhood or, better still, ask the manager of your favorite theatre when it will be shown.

Reginald Denny in "Good Morning Judge"

Take my sincere advice. See "The Man Who Laughs," starring CONRAD VEIDT and MARY PHILBIN. Also "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," featuring LON CHANEY, which has been re-issued by request.

Have you been following GLENN TRYON, the differ[illegible] Watch for [illegible]

The column at the left appears in THE SATURDAY EVENING POST, June 2, 1928.

UNIV[illegible]EEKLY
VOL. 27
No. 18
JUNE 9,
1928.

Laura La Plante
"Home in James!"
Universal Picture

The Man

Universal's 1928-29 Headliners!

These Four Great Carl Laemmle Super Productions

The Man Who Laughs
Uncle Tom's Cabin
Broadway
Show Boat

---

7 Smashing Laemmle Specials
4 Big-Money Dennys
22 Universal Headliner Jewels
Including 4 Laura La Plantes, 4 Glenn Tryons
8 Hoot Gibson Jewels
22 Five-Reel Western and Thrill Features
5 Amazing Super Serials Including
TARZAN THE MIGHTY
Complete Service Contract
International Newsreel
The Best Short Subjects in the World

Carl Laemmle

Who Laughs

--is the man who has something to be happy about. That's Carl Laemmle. Laughing because Universal is sitting on top of the world! Laughing because Universal has the goods! 67 Features! 26 of 'em finished. Showing 'em to exhibitors. Twenty-six of 'em completed. Pictures you can see --right NOW! Plays, stories, titles, casts, directors, PRODUCTION CLASS that you can see. SHOWMANSHIP that you can see. BOX-OFFICE thought in every single picture on the list that is so evident it fairly shouts! Shouts: YOU'VE GOT TO HAVE UNIVERSAL THIS YEAR. Carl Laemmle made 'em. Spent hundreds of thousands of dollars to get the pick of the market in stories, plays, books, etc. Got them. Called for the best in every department. Got it. We know it. You know it. Everybody knows it. UNIVERSAL IS SITTING ON TOP OF THE WORLD. NO WONDER THIS MAN LAUGHS!!

Leads the Way!

Gentlemen

No. 588—Straight from the Shoulder
Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

I WONDER if anything like this has ever happened before in the moving picture business:

A few weeks ago I wrote letters to the exhibitors who had contracted for "We Americans," telling them that the picture had cost more than I anticipated; that it was a far greater production than I had expected; and asking them to disregard their contracts and either play the picture on a percentage basis or else pay more for it.

Mind you, these gentlemen already had contracts. These contracts were as good as gold, enforceable 100 per cent without any dispute. They knew it. I reminded them of it.

Well, you never saw such a whole-hearted response in all your life. Letters have been pouring in from every part of the country, granting my request and expressing beautiful sentiments right from the heart.

I never realized in all my life how well Universal is liked and how anxious the exhibitors are to cooperate with my company. I always had a feeling that there was such a sentiment but I never had such striking proof of it.

I cannot possibly quote from all the letters, but just as an example of what they are like, please read this extract from the letter of I. W. Rust, Laporte, Texas: — "Knowing as I do your attitude toward the independent exhibitor and with a desire to, in a manner, show my appreciation for your interest in our welfare, you may instruct your Dallas office to change our contract as per your request."

I Thank You

And F. P. Griggs of Driggs, Idaho, after agreeing to play the picture on my basis, wrote:—"Your Salt Lake Exchange has always been more than fair in my dealings with them. I certainly appreciate the policy of live and let live of your organization and feel that it is only a reflection from your home office."

Then H. H. Daniels of Oswego, Kansas, writes:—"We will be very glad to cooperate with you in this matter. Our experience over a period of fifteen years with the Universal has always been very satisfactory."

I could quote from hundreds of such letters, but that is enough. I want you to know that my heart is filled with gratitude—not on account of the money part of it but because of this nation-wide expression of good will and friendship.

Gentlemen of the North, East, South and West—gentlemen everywhere—I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

And I know that "We Americans" will live up to all I have said about it and all you hope for!

The Flower Short of the Subject Field!

Laemmle Shows the Way!!

to greater profits for more than 14,000 Exhibitors with the best Short Subjects in the world!

The
UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for the Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick, ~Editor
Published by the Motion Picture Weekly Publishing Co. Heckscher B'ldg. 730~5th Ave. New York City
Copyright 1928 UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION All rights reserved

Vol. XXVII JUNE 9, 1928 No. 18

UNIVERSAL MOVIEGRAMS

CASTING has been completed on the Universal Special by Rupert Hughes, "The Girl On the Barge." In addition to Jean Hersholt, Sally O'Neil and Malcolm MacGregor, Edward Sloman has chosen Francis Robertson, a stage player who has never before essayed the films, Henry West, who appeared in "Speedy" and "Anybody Here Seen Kelly?" George Offerman, Jr., Maurice Mackintosh, Nancy Kelly and Rex, a talented mongrel canine actor.

THE work of Duane Thompson, the leading lady of "Phantom Fingers," which Leigh Jason is producing at Universal City, has been so good that Universal has signed her to a long time contract. Other players in this Basil Dickey story are George Hackathorne and Bill Cody.

THE secret is out. Fred Newmeyer, who is directing Reginald Denny in "The Night Bird," by Frederick and Fanny Hatton, is the old renowned baseball pitcher, Bugs Newmeyer. His record of twenty-three strikeouts in one game is still good. Denny's cast, by the way, includes Betty Lee, Corliss Palmer, George Bookasta, Sam Hardy, Jocelyn Lee, Michael Visaroff, Harry Semels and Harvey Clark.

THE first of the Laemmle Novelties, a single reel along entirely new lines, has been started at Universal City under the direction of Jacques Rollens. It is called "Handicapped."

"Collegians" Make Location Trip To Grand Canyon by Airplane

Studio Expedition for Two-Reeler Makes Third Location Trip Picture for Universal—"Girl On the Barge" and "Show Boat" Others

EVERY year Universal has at least one location trip picture. This year it will have three, and possibly more. "The Girl On the Barge," except for the weather, which has been vile so far, is successfully launched on its locations on the Hudson River, Erie Canal and the Champlain Canal. So complete will be this location expedition that Edward Sloman will make the entire picture in the East, having engaged the facilities of the Jackson Avenue Studios at Long Island City for the purpose of making the interiors.

"Show Boat," of course, will have to be very largely a location production. No stretch of the imagination of the production department can possibly visualize the snakev little Los Angeles River, which flows by the studio, bedecking itself to imitate the Father of Waters, which Edna Ferber says is the real star of "Show Boat." Harry Pollard is busy right now picking out the best possible locations for "Show Boat," the while he selects the cast.

UNIVERSAL has, or rather, had, a production on its Jewel schedule by Beatrice Van called "Sex Appeal." It was a story of companionate marriage, and although it treated it from a humorous angle, Carl Laemmle received so many protests against the title that it has been changed to "You Can't Buy Love." Ernst Laemmle will direct as soon as he gets out of the hospital.

A third location trip picture and one which takes a two-reel company farther from the studio than any location trip ever contemplated, is that of "The Collegians" to the Grand Canyon. The opening picture of the third series of "Collegians" is entitled "Calford vs. Redskins" and consists of an athletic competition between the college and a school of Hopi Indians. On one of his trips across the continent, Carl Laemmle, Jr., had become very much impressed with the histrionic ability of the troupe of Hopi Indians which occupies the government reservation at the Grand Canyon and gives exhibitions of Hopi Indian dances, athletic contests and the arts and crafts of the tribe. Inasmuch as he is the production supervisor of this series as well as the author, he decided to make this first production at the Hopi Indian house at the Grand Canyon. The company was sent on ahead. And it is interesting to note that the same players are in their respective roles—George Lewis, Dorothy Gulliver, Eddie Phillips, Churchill Ross and Hayden Stevenson. In order to save practically two days' time, Junior, Nat Ross, the director, Dick Smith, comedy writer, and the assistant directors and cameramen, made the first airplane location trip in history.

"It is only a question of time until the studios adopt this fast means of transportation for general use," said Ross. "The time element, which is so important in figuring the cost of a

(Continued on page 32)

"THE MAN WHO LAUGHS" WINS WARM FILM FANS

PATRON COMMENTS POUR IN TO UNIVERSAL HOME OFFICE IN PRAISE OF HUGO CLASSIC

Patron Spellbound By "Glorious" Film

"WITH an army of twelve, I have just left the theatre. It is with pleasure I write to you my view on the photoplay of 'The Man Who Laughs,' a glorious production, another triumph added to your many. It holds you spellbound. The most skillful piece of acting I have ever seen. Conrad Veidt is a cunning master of art, but I found wonder in the entire cast. Mary Philbin is exquisite in her simplicity. You are fortunate, indeed, to have her. It would be hard for me to form into words all the glory I found in the brilliant directed photoplay, with Paul Leni as the masterful director. Such force, such beauty, it would cause another 'man to laugh'—Victor Hugo, if he were here to witness the wonder portrayed by the Universal Corporation of a thing his own. You may well be proud. The picture will remain to your everlasting credit.

"Of course, you may look for a record-breaking run. Could not be otherwise. For those who appreciate art, my criticism is to the point."

—Mrs. K. M. B. Van Rensselaer,
New York. N. Y.

"Man Who Laughs" is Another Laemmle Hit

"I WENT last night to the Central Theatre with my girl friend to see 'The Man Who Laughs.' It is a picture which I shall not easily forget. I assure you that with a critical attitude which I have developed as a result of a college education and courses in English and dramatics, I have concluded you have again triumphed. Victor Hugo's masterpiece has been superbly expressed cinematographically by the Universal Pictures Corporation. Conrad Veidt performs very well in the title role and he deserves a great deal of credit for the success of 'The Man Who Laughs.' We must not forget Mary Philbin, Olga Baclanova and the others who have aided to make it another Carl Laemmle 'hit.' Last, but not least, Paul Leni, the director, is to be congratulated for the direction of such a film. I await with eagerness the time when I can again see one of your films. Let me again say that Victor Hugo's 'The Man Who Laughs' has been well portrayed, as have been the laws and customs in Seventeenth Century England by your film."

—J. D'Angelo,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

College Student Thrilled by Film

"I WAS thrilled with the superb acting, wonderful interpretation, the striking photography and the skill with which the whole was handled.

"As a student at the New Jersey College for Women, I am required to read 'L'Homme Qui Rit' in French. When I heard that they were to produce it as a moving picture in our own country, I was afraid they would spoil the intensity and charm of the story with poor acting. But I was pleasantly surprised and thrilled."

—Ruth G. Donner,
New Brunswick, N. J.

Beautiful Story Finely Produced

"MY husband and myself had the pleasure last Wednesday evening of seeing your picture, 'The Man Who Laughs.' It is a most beautiful production and the director did a fine piece of work—the story is absorbing, thrilling, and Mr. Veidt's acting is wonderful."

—A. Wubbenhorst,
New York, N. Y.

SOUTHERN EDITORS THRILL

As Guests of Clark Howell, Noted Atlanta Journalist, Associated Press Witness Universal's Newspaper Drama

A. P. Invitation Preview To Atlanta Elite Sponsored By* Atlanta Constitution *In Honor of Veteran Editor.

ASSEMBLED in annual conference in Atlanta, Ga., recently, the leading newspaper editors of Georgia, attending the Associated Press Convention in that city, were thrilled by a showing of Universal's great newspaper drama, "The Freedom of the Press," adapted from Peter B. Kyne's stirring story. The editors witnessed the picture as the special guests of Clark Howell, veteran editor of The Atlanta Constitution, and one of the country's leading newspaper men.

In order to give a local atmosphere to the dramatic film story of newspaperdom, it was accompanied by several hundred feet of special shots taken of the Atlanta Constitution plant, including the editorial offices, the news departments, the press rooms and scenes showing other activities of that big metropolitan daily. These scenes included views of Howell conferring over news stories with Frances W. Clarke, managing editor, and N. S. Noble, the paper's city editor. The special Constitution scenes worked in practically as a part of the film drama and made the story all the more realistic.

The following special trailer, tying up the Atlanta Constitution and "The Freedom of the Press" was used.

(1) By the way of a prologue to "THE FREEDOM OF THE PRESS" a drama of the newspaper world, Carl Laemmle presents a trip through our own ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

(2) Established sixty years ago, The Atlanta Constitution has been, in its more than half century of life, one of the biggest factors in the South's progress and the preservation of Southern Ideals.

(3) City room of The Constitution. N. S. Noble, city editor, and Francis W. Clarke, managing editor.

(4) Assigning reporters to their daily "beats."

(5) Hon. Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution for thirty-one years, reading "proofsheet" story of the Don Mellett case.

(6) Hon. Clark Howell and Francis W. Clarke confer with Mr. Noble on the story of murder of Don Mellett, Canton, Ohio newspaper editor, who died for the cause of fearless journalism.

(7) The fearless Southern editor expresses himself vigorously regarding the case, paying tribute to Mellett's courage.

(8) Not the least part of service a daily newspaper renders the public is by the newsboys whose "store" is an active corner and whose wares is "the latest news of the world."

(9) A modern newspaper's presses and its pressroom, usually hidden from the public gaze, is a scene of wild activity as the closing episode of "just another day" in the newspaper "grind."

(10) The Constitution is glad to endorse the efforts of Universal Pictures Corporation in presenting the drama that follows, a monument to the courage and glory of Don Mellett, Canton, Ohio editor, who died defending "THE FREEDOM OF THE PRESS."

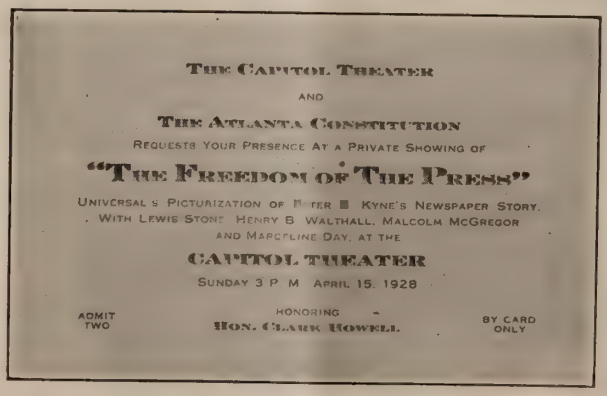
"The Freedom of the Press," which is based on the famous case of Don Mellett, the courageous Canton, Ohio editor, who was murdered by a vice ring because of his reform campaigns, made a distinct impression upon the assembled Georgia editors. Without exception they praised it as a picture and as a true presentation of newspaper activities and ideals. It was hailed as the most realistic newspaper picture ever made.

Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, in whose honor a private showing of "The Freedom of the Press" was given.

The showing proved to be the highlight of the editors' convention. Not only The Constitution, but the other Atlanta newspapers carried stories about the picture in connection with the convention, calling attention to the way in which it brings out what has been in the minds of newspaper men for a long time. This idea concerns danger in which an editor often is placed in carrying out his paper's duty to the community.

Howell, himself, in a long editorial, referred to the picture as follows:

"This picture is well worth seeing. It more than satisfactorily exhibits the ethics which a newspaper worthy of the name must observe if it is to gain and keep the confidence of the community it serves, and it exemplifies in a startling way that for which The Constitution has always stood in the making and exhibition of motion pictures—



THE CAPITOL THEATER
AND
THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION
REQUESTS YOUR PRESENCE AT A PRIVATE SHOWING OF
"THE FREEDOM OF THE PRESS"
UNIVERSAL'S PICTURIZATION OF PETER B. KYNE'S NEWSPAPER STORY.
WITH LEWIS STONE HENRY B. WALTHALL, MALCOLM MCGREGOR AND MARCELINE DAY, AT THE CAPITOL THEATER
SUNDAY 3 P. M. APRIL 15, 1928
ADMIT TWO HONORING
HON. CLARK HOWELL
BY CARD ONLY

The invitation to the Clark Howell testimonial preview of Universal's newspaper film brought forth a brilliant audience of Atlanta's most distinguished citizens.

AT "FREEDOM OF THE PRESS" cleanliness of thought and action.

"The picture is mechanically perfect in showing the manifold workings of the interior of a newspaper in its efforts to give to the public the daily news grist, from the receipt of the news over the wires or by way of the reporters, on through the copyreaders' desk, to the composing room, into the stereotyping department, to the mammoth presses and finally to the hands of the dealers who vend the finished papers to the public.

"Carl Laemmle has given to the public a story not only absorbingly interesting as a romance, but of great educational value, and one which will be enjoyed by every type of a motion picture devotee."

The picture was also the inspiration of a long editorial in the Atlanta Journal by John T. Boifeuillet, one of the leading editorial writers of the South.

The reaction upon the visiting editors is mirrored in the following commendations by them:

"It is a genuinely big picture. I enjoyed its presentation very much."—W. G. Sutlive, managing editor, The Savannah Press.

"It is a truly wonderful picture, one which teaches a great truth most effectively; a truth which cannot be emphasized too strongly. This picture deserves and will no doubt receive a splendid reception from the public."—Jack Williams, editor and publisher, The Waycross Journal-Herald.

"This is a very good picture and should give the public an idea of what the publisher or editor has to contend with in his fight against rascality."—W. T. Anderson, The Macon Telegraph.

"One of the most thrilling pictures ever put on the screen. No person who has an opportunity should fail to see this thrilling picture."—R. L. McKenney, president and editor, The Macon News.

"An appealing subject. I enjoyed it immensely."—Millwee Owens, managing editor. The Augusta Herald.

"I enjoyed the picture greatly."—Mark Etheridge, managing editor, The Macon Telegraph.

"Entertaining and dealing with an interesting story interestingly presented."—Joe Stovall, The Savannah Press.

The sponsoring of "The Freedom of the Press" by the Atlanta Constitution reaped columns and columns of newspaper publicity.

In addition to his editorial, Hon. Clark Howell, also made the following commendatory statement regarding "The Freedom of the Press":

"It is a wonderful picture and it carries a moral that should commend it to every community in America.

"One good feature about the picture is that it does not emphasize the fact that it is carrying a moral. It holds the interest from the beginning, and the story is so well told that its moral is impressed unconsciously. It deserves the widest circulation."

As the first result of the Associated Press Convention showing, the Atlanta Constitution joined with the Capitol Theatre in Atlanta in making the first public showing of the picture, an invitation pre-view, into a Clark Howell testimonial. The elite of Atlanta and of the State's dignitaries attended. It was one of the most brilliant and successful previews ever held in that city. The Atlanta Constitution scenes were incorporated in the picture as before and aroused great interest and enthusiasm. The pre-view, thus established as honoring Clark Howell, beloved by all Georgians, was the big event of the month in Atlanta. Exceptional newspaper reviews greeted this pre-view, with all the papers warmly praising the picture, which opened for a week's run on the day following.

Excerpts from these reviews will indicate the enthusiasm which greeted the picture.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION
(By Elmo Hamby)

Attuned to the thunderous, heart-warming roar of the presses, the saga of a modern newspaper editor's fearlessness and courage was presented in a world-wide premier of the film, "Freedom of The Press," at the Capitol theater Sunday afternoon at a special pre-view honoring Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution.

Newspaper pictures there have been before, and all have met with ordinary favor with the public, but in "Freedom of the Press" is presented a picture which meets with the gratified approval of every newspaper man standing as the sole paragon of a cinema story of a newspaper.

Special scenes in the nature of a prologue to "Freedom of the Press," which will be shown during the week of May 14 at the Capitol Theatre, showed Mr. Howell in a "camera interview," which depicts the business life of the editor and the problems he faces every day in presenting truth to the public.

The prologue also gave brief "shots" of the city room of The Constitution and the camera stole in on a conference between Mr. Howell, Francis W. Clarke, managing editor, and N. S. Noble, city clerk. The picture also included views of a meeting of members of the Associated Press, of which Mr. Howell is director, and thus is shown a group of the foremost editors of the country.

The story of "Freedom of the Press," founded on the Don Mellett case, and written by Peter B. Kyne, is told throughout with the great hum of the press, the Te Deum of every newspaper man, pulsing and surging its message of truth in face of all the evil which would muffle its voice and stifle its message.

SOUTHERN EDITORS THRILL AT "FREEDOM OF THE PRESS"

(Continued from page 9)

One of the many exciting scenes from Universal's powerful newspaper film founded on the famous Don Mellett case.

And true to form, when the fearless editor who has exposed the grafters of the city who would drive the children into the streets by confiscating the public park for commercial purposes, is murdered by the underworld, his last request before dying was:

"Start the presses, boys, let me hear their music again."

Not alone into the throats of those not of the profession Sunday afternoon, but also those newspaper men, there rose a telltale lump which is produced only by great drama such as this scene.

* * *

Marvelous camerawork tells a much more impressive story than the pen can, and in direction and technique, the producers have brought the Peter B. Kyne story to the screen in all its virgin power. Performances are splendid, but at no time is it possible for any individual role to submerge the great moral of the story.

Certainly, if there is but one film of the year to be seen by movie-goers, then let that film be "Freedom of the Press," which will have its world-wide public premiere at the Capitol theatre week of May 14.

THE ATLANTA GEORGIAN

(By Tarleton Collier)

The story of the editor who dies for his principles, in the matter of Don Mellett, the Canton, Ohio, martyr, and of his son, who carries on defiantly to the victory against corruption that was his father's reward, is in itself an enthralling melodrama. And the truth of it—for there is hardly an incident that is not to be matched in current history — makes it a document impressive and valuable in its assurance that truth and public service are the ideals of the worthy newspaper.

The height of pathos is reached in the moment of the martyred editor's death, when he asks that the presses be started, so that he might pass out to their music. Hokum? Maybe; but unforgettable stuff. Henry B. Walthall plays the editor, and Malcolm McGregor his son. Lewis Stone, once romantic hero, plays the heavy villain with an adroit and effective ease. Marceline Day is the girl.

* * *

An interesting outcome of the showing held for the Associated Press convention, according to Universal, is a widespread interest on the part of newspapers in the sponsoring of special previews of this film, similar to the way in which the Atlanta Constitution sponsored it. Already, arrangements have been completed by a number of newspapers in various parts of the country to make local scenes of their respective newspaper plants for presentation with "The Freedom of the Press" as a local prestige move. The threatre-men who have first call on the picture in those situations are co-operating gladly. The interest of the Atlanta Constitution in this picture is said to have netted more than ten columns of advance publicity in the various Atlanta papers.

There is plenty of conflict between the strong characters in "The Freedom of the Press." Witness Marceline Day and Lewis Stone glaring ominously at Malcolm MacGregor.

HOW THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION SPONSORED "FREEDOM of the PRESS"

Details of Tremendous Newspaper Sponsorship That Will Suggest Local Cooperation to Exhibitors

THE overhelming success of the joint presentation of "The Freedom of the Press" by the Capitol Theatre and the Atlanta Constitution is a gold mine to the exhibitor who realizes that he can do the same thing with his local newspaper. He, too, can hang out S. R. O. signs with the greatest natural newspaper tie-up that ever has been offered showmen, and gain the everlasting good will of his home paper. The details of the manner in which Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, made his newspaper history famous in Atlanta through his tie-up with Universal's great film pave the way for every other exhibitor and editor in the country to follow suit.

A cameraman toured the "Atlanta Constitution," the greatest newspaper in the South! Scenes were shot of the inside and outside of the building, its editors, reporters, pressmen, newsboys, etc. This material was made into a special trailer and attached to the print of the picture for showing in Atlanta. Titles were added in which the picture was dedicated to the Atlanta Constitution. Thus the "Constitution" became a part of this great picture. Thus it helped present to Atlanta, not only this great drama of the newspaper game but in addition, its own reminder to its readers that it stands for clean, fearless journalism and the freedom of the press!

This was the first time in the history of motion pictures that a newspaper actually participated in the presentation of a motion picture. A cyclone of publicity was the result.

Associated Press of Georgia

The editorial board of the "Constitution" requested that the picture be shown before the convention of the Associated Press of Georgia. Editors from the South acclaimed it. . . were lavish in their praise. A special preview of the film was arranged to honor the Hon. Clark Howell, veteran editor of the paper. The distinguished names of Atlanta composed the audience. Then "Freedom of the Press" opened its run at the beautiful Capitol, Atlanta's finest theatre, to S. R. O.

Rival Papers Add Extra Publicity

The publicity continued daily. Not only the Constitution but the Atlanta Georgian and the Atlanta Journal, added their praise of the film. The picture was presented under auspices of the Constitution . . . dedicated to the Constitution alone. They wanted the public to know that they also stood for the message to the public contained in this picture. So they added their praise of "Freedom of the Press" and its message. Never has a picture received such an ovation from the press. But then of course, Mr. Exhibitor, never has there been a picture so wondrously made to order for newspaper tie-up!

This badge can be used in a live tie-up with amateur journalists who contribute news stories or interviews during the week of the newspaper contest. The prize should be a tryout on the staff of the paper.

EXPLOITATION AIDS

"The Freedom of the Press" is unusually rich in exploitation possibilities. Universal offers a few suggestions for putting over the film in the way the biggest newspaper film of all time deserves.

Students' News Judging Contest

Here's a natural for a picture with a newspaper theme and one that's good for an unusually large amount of publicity. Get your local editor to announce prizes for the best 200 word articles submitted by students of all institutions of learning in your town on the most important news of the week, giving reasons for their choice. Share the cost of the prizes with the newspaper, with cash and tickets as the weekly awards. A medal or a tryout on the staff of the paper can be given as the award for the very best letter of all. The theatre name and playdate, the newspaper sponsoring the stunt and the picture itself can all be given splendid publicity in this contest.

Paper Style Show

A great stunt is for the local newspaper to offer prizes for the best costume made entirely out of newspapers. Have the contestants appear on the stage of the theatre, holding a "paper style show," with the winners to be determined by popular applause. The same idea can be adapted for a ballyhoo stunt with a girl and a man, wearing outfits made entirely out of the local newspaper.

This newsboy's change cap and apron is a big exploitation stunt for any town. The exhibitor should give each newsie in town a set two weeks in advance of the playdate of "The Freedom of the Press," staging a parade and special matinee to drive home the tie-up.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN

The Greatest Human Drama Ever Screened

CARL LAEMMLE'S Outstanding Achievement—
A Harry Pollard Production

Two years in the making
Produced at a cost of $2,000,000

You'll be GLAD to pay more!

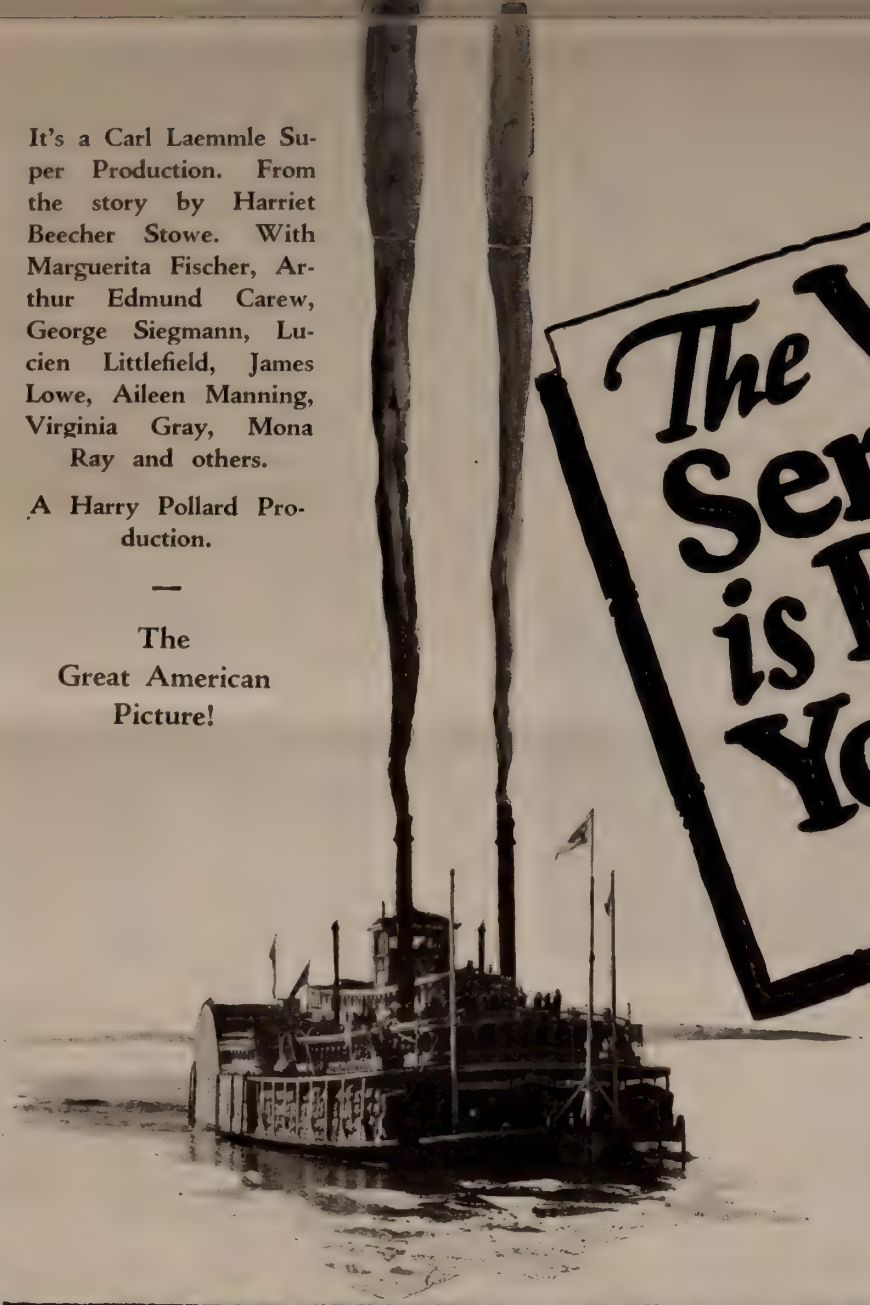
The World's Sensation is Ready for You NOW.

It's a Carl Laemmle Super Production. From the story by Harriet Beecher Stowe. With Marguerita Fischer, Arthur Edmund Carew, George Siegmann, Lucien Littlefield, James Lowe, Aileen Manning, Virginia Gray, Mona Ray and others.

A Harry Pollard Production.

—

The Great American Picture!



Direct from its spectacular six months, run at $2 top—Central theatre, Broadway, New York

Again--UNIVERSAL has the Pictures!!!

CAMERAS START TURNING ON "GIRL ON THE BARGE"

Edward Sloman Assembles Company at Whitehall, N. Y., for Canal Scenes Along the Champlain Ship Canal—Cosine Brothers, New York Product Experts, Associated with Him—Tug, Barge and Cast Arrive Simultaneously.

EDWARD SLOMAN, Universal director who brought a company 3,000 miles from California to film "The Girl On the Barge," from Rupert Hughes' story of Erie Canal life, has assembled his cast at Whitehall, N. Y., and has started camera-work on the first Universal picture to be made in the East in several years.

A new $25,000 tug and a barge loaded with 350 tons of coal as ballast proceeded up the Hudson River from New York City, arriving "on location" Thursday. The locations will be along the Champlain Ship Canal, near Whitehall. After Sloman looked over sites along the Erie Canal, he found the scenery unsuited to artistic picturization, and so turned to the Champlain canal, which is fringed by some of the most picturesque scenery in New York State.

Arthur Cosine, New York production expert, and his brother Ray, are associated with Sloman in the making of "The Girl On the Barge." Arthur is location manager. Ray is the second assistant director, under Jack Voshell, assistant, who accompanied Sloman from the Coast. Jackson Rose, one of Universal's camera-aces, came East with Sloman to take charge of the photography.

After determining the exact locations to be used, the company was faced with a considerable problem in regard to a barge. It finally was necessary to engage a new $25,000 tugboat, the Ronan, from the Matton Towing Company of Waterford, N. Y. The Ronan is an oil-burner fitted with Diesel engines. This was necessary so that no smoke would hamper the photography.

A full-sized barge was next obtained, but it had to be loaded with ballast so it would set right in the water. This necessitated 350 tons of coal, found to be the best material for a quick loading job. The barge was towed from Whitehall to New York with the bargeload of coal. After the up-State scenes are completed, it will be towed back to New York City for additional scenes at the East River terminal of the barge lines. Thus, Sloman is forced to tow 350 tons of coal around with his unit. After the picture is completed, the coal will be towed back to Whitehall again, where it will be sold.

The cast arrived in Whitehall Thursday. Jean Hersholt from New York City, and Sally O'Neill and Malcolm MacGregor from Hollywood.

Jean Hersholt, famous character actor, who will play the leading role of a barge captain in "The Girl On the Barge."

In addition to the three principals, Edward Sloman has chosen Francis Robertson, a stage player who has never been in the movies; Henry West, who appeared in "Speedy" and "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?"; George Offerman, Jr., Maurice Mackintosh and Nancy Kelly as the three MacCadden children in the film, and Rex, a talented mongrel canine actor.

Four more players have been added to the cast of "The Girl On the Barge." They left New York last week for Whitehall. The four are: Beatrice Blinn, a cousin of Holbrook Blinn, who has been appearing in "The Song Writer," by Crane Wilbur; Adelaide Rondell, whose experience has been limited to stock; Barbara Barondess, a former Follies girl, and Peggy Shannon, who appeared last year in "What Ann Brought Home" and "Romancin' Around" with Helen MacKellar.

This is the most ambitious location expedition sent out from Universal City since Harry Pollard took his company to Plattsburg, a few miles farther north in the Champlain valley two years ago for ice scenes for "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Universal this year has a number of companies faced with extensive location trips to widely separated parts of the United States.

After the barge and out-of-door scenes are completed, Sloman will conduct his company to a regular motion picture studio in the New York area, where the necessary interiors will be made. Thus the picture will be entirely an Eastern production.

Hersholt in Make-Up Refused Hotel Room

JEAN HERSHOLT, Universal star, now on location making "The Girl on the Barge," at Glens Falls, New York, put one over on the management of the local Queensbury Hotel when he arrived at the desk following a hard day's work.

Dressed as befits a Scotch barge captain having little respect for the Eighteenth Amendment, with a beard, wig and clothing of rough texture, he asked for his room by number. The clerk, who had just come on, curtly explained to him that the hotel was filled already by a lot of those motion picture people and there wasn't a room available. It took Edward Sloman, the director, to vouch for his rough-looking person before he was allowed the key for his room.

Hersholt will present a different appearance upon his return to New York in two weeks. While his face is entirely surrounded by false hair, it was necessary for him to shave his real moustache.

EXTRA!

It's never been done before—— For the first time in film history one of the country's leading newspapers BACKS a picture and PUTS it over with the public!

READ
the details on the next two pages BOOK
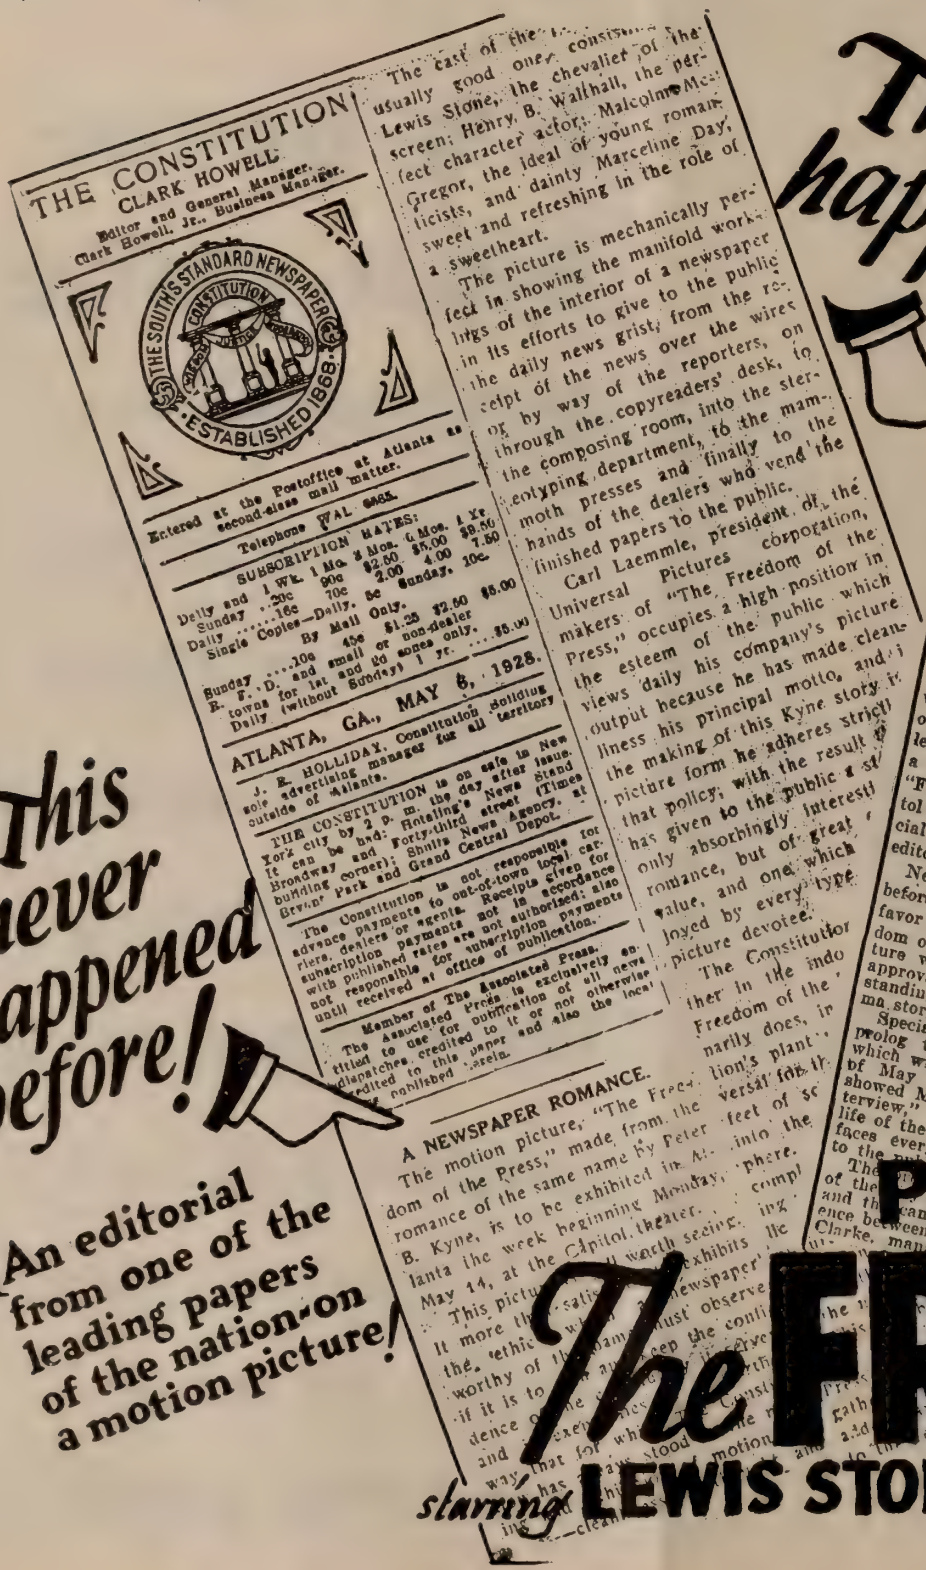
"Freedom of the Press"
PROFIT
by the spontaneous enthusiasm and natural exploitation value of this remarkable picture!

SMASHING FRONT



THE CONSTITUTION
CLARK HOWELL
Editor and General Manager.
Clark Howell, Jr., Business Manager.

THE SOUTH'S STANDARD NEWSPAPER CONSTITUTION
ESTABLISHED 1868

Entered at the Postoffice at Atlanta as second-class mail matter.

Telephone WAL 6465.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

	1 Mo.	3 Mos.	6 Mos.	1 Yr.
Daily and Sunday	90c	$2.60	$5.00	$9.60
Daily	70c	2.00	4.00	7.60
Sunday	25c

Single Copies—Daily, 5c. Sunday, 10c.

By Mail Only.

Sunday	45c	$1.25	$2.60
R. F. D. and small towns	70c	2.00	$5.00
Daily (without Sunday)	60c	1.75	3.50

1 yr. ... $5.00

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 6, 1928.

J. R. HOLLIDAY, Constitution Building sole advertising manager for all territory outside of Atlanta.

THE CONSTITUTION is on sale in New York city by 2 p. m. the day after issue. It can be had: Rotailing's News Stand (Times Building corner); Forty-third street, Broadway and Grand Central Depot. Bryant Park and Grand Central Depot.

The Constitution is not responsible for advance payments to out-of-town local carriers, dealers or agents. Receipts given for subscription payments are not authorized; also not responsible for subscription payments unless made with published rates and to regular agents. Receipts in accordance with published rates are not authorized; also until received at office of publication.

Member of The Associated Press.

The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to use for publication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper and also the local news published herein.

A NEWSPAPER ROMANCE.

The motion picture, "The Freedom of the Press," made from the romance of the same name by Peter B. Kyne, is to be exhibited in Atlanta the week beginning Monday, May 14, at the Capitol theater.

This picture is worthy of the subject. It more than satisfies the ethics of the newspaper profession. It must observe the confidence of the reader and keep the confidence of the reader if it is to be worthy of the confidence of the reader. It must observe the confidence of the reader and keep the confidence of the reader if it is to be worthy of the confidence of the reader.

The cast of the picture is unusually good, consisting of Lewis Stone, the chevalier of the screen; Henry B. Walthall, the perfect character actor; Malcolm McGregor, the ideal of young romanticists, and dainty Marceline Day, sweet and refreshing in the role of a sweetheart.

The picture is mechanically perfect in showing the manifold workings of the interior of a newspaper in its efforts to give to the public the daily news grist; from the receipt of the news over the wires or by way of the reporters, on through the copyreaders' desk, to the composing room, into the stereotyping department, to the mammoth presses and finally to the hands of the dealers who vend the finished papers to the public.

Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Pictures corporation, makers of "The Freedom of the Press," occupies a high position in the esteem of the public which views daily his company's picture output because he has made cleanliness his principal motto, and in the making of this Kyne story picture form he adheres strictly to that policy; with the result that has given to the public a story only absorbingly interesting romance, but of great value, and one which will be enjoyed by every type of picture devoted.

The Constitution is ... ther in the indo... Freedom of the ... narily does, in ... tion's plant ... versal for it ... feet of sc ... into the ... sphere. ... compl ... ing ... lic ... ...

This never happened before!

An editorial from one of the leading papers of the nation on a motion picture!

This never happened bef...

ASSOCIATED PRESS SERVICE

THI...

VOL. LX., No. 327.

Freedom of ...

SCENES OF CONSTITUTION S...

Proves Powe...

BY ELMO HAMBY.

Attuned to the thunderous, heart-warming roar of the presses, the saga of a modern newspaper editor's fearlessness and edurage was presented in a world-wide premier of the film, "Freedom of The Press," at the Capitol theater Sunday afternoon at a special preview honoring Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution.

Newspaper pictures there have been before, and all have met with ordinary favor with the public, but in "Freedom of the Press" is presented a picture which meets with the gratified approval of every newspaperman, standing as the sole paragon of a cinema story of a newspaper.

Special scenes in the nature of a prolog to "Freedom of the Press," which will be shown during the week of May 14 at the Capitol theater, showed Mr. Howell in a "camera interview," which depicts the business life of the editor and the ... faces every day ... to the ...

Noble, ... included ... bers of the ... Mr. Howe... shown a gr... of the coun...

The story ... founded on t... written by ... throughout wi... press, the Te... perman, pulsin... sage of truth ... which would m... its message.

And true to fo... editor who has ... of the city who ... dren into the st... the public park ... poses, is murdered ... his last request be... "Start the ... their ... Not ... of ... were rose a tell... produced ... only b...

PETER B. KY...

The FREEDO...

starring LEWIS STONE and MARCELINE D...

PAGE PUBLICITY!

Smack on the Editorial Page--that's only part of the enthusiastic campaign waged on behalf of this picture by this great newspaper—Your own local newspaper is waiting to do the same—Don't make them wait—Give'em the good news now—Start the profit ball a rolling!

...re!

...ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

ATLANTA, GA., MONDAY MORNING, MAY 7, 1928.

ONLY MORNING NEWSPAPER PUBLISHED IN ATLANTA

...Press"
...N EPIC FILM ::
...! Story

The picture also ... meeting of mem... ed Press, of which ...tor, and thus is ...foremost editors ...

...om of the Press," ...ellett case, and ... Kyne, is told ...at hum of the ...every newspa... ...ging its mes... ...all the evil ...ice and stille ...

...the fearless ...he grafters, ...e the chil... ...onfiscating ...rcial ...

...ES Sensational Drama

...M OF THE PRESS

with HENRY B. WALTHALL and MALCOLM McGREGOR

bring truth to the public. He has a ... some typical American youth, who has ... not yet left behind him the toys of ... childhood, and who is what the aver... age youth with money might be ex... pected to be.

For the editor, who, is portrayed by that dramatic veteran, Henry B. Walthall, a big day comes when his son is to go into the city room of the paper and begin his career. But an all-night party has delayed the boy, and he arrives at the office several hours late to be sternly reprimanded by his father and told that he must consider himself as any other staff man.

Lewis Stone, another veteran of the films, is cast in a marvelously different sort of antagonistic role as Daniel Steele, the political power behind the mayor. He has a ward, a charming girl with whom Bill, the editor's son, falls in love. Thus is the initial development of a plot which later is to grip viewers of the film with impelling force.

Tragic Scene.

Bill pleads with his father not to expose Steele and points out that he is to be married to Steele's ward. He tells his father, in one tragic scene, that the things his paper is about to do will cost him public faith at least and cost to the individual.

To avoid publication of the exposes of Steele's henchmen ... Walthall ... the ... been started and ... must fill the old, ... shows alpaca coat which ... worn by the editor for so ...

But the following day, Bill, brought with a sudden, abrupt smash into responsible manhood, refuses to don the coat of his father, because he "would never be big enough to fill it."

Then the special reporter assigned to uncover proofs of Steele's complicity in the vice ring, dashes in with the written proof that Steele is the boss of the ring. To prevent reelection of the mayor who is Steele's tool, the story must be run the following morning.

Test of Fire.

The test of fire is then applied to the youthful editor. His fiancee, with Steele, enters the office and pleads with him, and calls upon their love for each other to prevent publication of what she thinks are untruths about her guardian. But the boy, with his tragic and never-to-be-forgotten lesson learned at the deathbed of his father, tells her that regardless of the cost, the truth will be printed. The girl hands him the engagement ring and the boy is left alone.

Steele returns to ... the following ... calls ... Let her ...

A du... into fl... occupan... down in... already ... pressmen turn to flee, but th...

...tor leaps to the ... and shouts:

"Come on, boys, w... on time!"

In that sequence is ... terrific drama of a ... scene that will be ac... diences as one of the ... cinematic moments ever...

Two sharp clicks, a ... the crescendo of the pre... and while firemen shove ... the flames, the boy, his ... pressmen leap over hose ... press output to the street.

Marvelous camerawork ... more impressive story tha... can, and in direction and ... the producers have brought ... B. Kyne story to the screen ... virgin power. Performances ... did, but at no time is it pos... any individual role to subme... moral of the story.

...tainly, if there ... ...world ... ...ic pre... ...k of M...

If public approval means anything—

If box-office results mean anything—

If successful pictures mean anything—

LAURA LA PLANTE

is

"The Screen's Great Comedienne"

UNIVERSAL

Ray Taylor Directs New Ted Wells Film

"RIIN' ROMANCE," Ted Wells' newest Western starring picture for Universal, will be directed by Ray Taylor, according to an announcement by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation.

Taylor first became recognized as a director of serial productions. He wielded the megaphone on "The Scarlet Arrow," "The Vanishing Rider," and others. He was chosen for "Ridin' Romance" because of his ability to picturize suspense, action and mystery, all of which play a major part in the picture.

William Lord Wright will act as production supervisor. The supporting cast will be announced shortly as production is scheduled to start within a few weeks.

Universal Chain Appoints Garman

UNIVERSAL CHAIN THEATRICAL ENTERPRISES, INC., announces the appointment of L. M. Garman as manager of its Uptown Theatre, Kansas City, Mo. Garman will also supervise the Apollo, Lincoln, Isis, Gilham and Gladstone Theatres, other units of the "U" Chain in this city.

Martin Finkelstein has been appointed assistant supervisor of these theatres, having been promoted from the ranks.

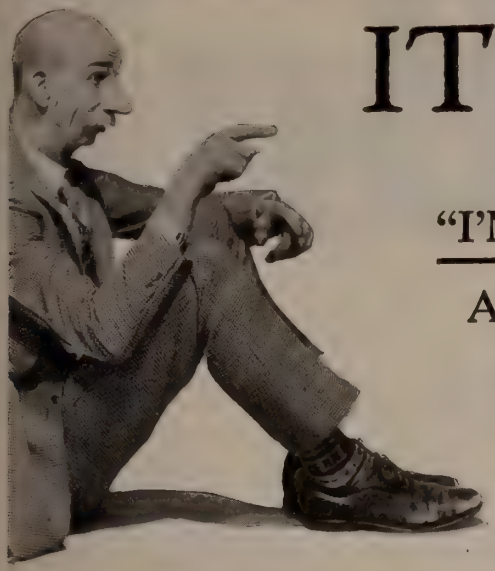
Duane Thompson Cast In "Phantom Fingers"

THE role of Crystal Annie, the leading feminine part in "Phantom Fingers," will be portrayed by Duane Thompson, it was announced by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation.

"Phantom Fingers' is an original screen story by Basil Dickey and its cast is headed by William Cody, with George Hackathorne in support. It is the second of seven pictures with underworld themes that will be produced at Universal under the direction of Leigh Jason. "The Body Punch" was the first. Production will be supervised by William Lord Wright.

Other pictures in this series of melodramas are "The Price of Fear," "Beyond the Law," "Wolves of the City," "Midnight Mystery" and "Maciste—The Hero of the Circus."

IT AIN'T TRUE



"I'M the Original Andy Gump And I Can Prove It," says Joe Murphy

JOE MURPHY denies most emphatically the assertion of David A. Hoag of Canandaigua, N. Y., that he is the original of the famous Sidney Smith comic strip from which the Universal two-reel comedies were adapted. Mr. Hoag has had the temerity to claim that the cartoonist stole his funny face, due to an operation at Johns Hopkins, for the model of the Andy Gump caricatures. On the grounds that the cartoons have brought "hatred, contempt, ridicule and obliquy" to Hoag, he is suing the Syracuse Post-Standard in the Supreme Court for $1,000,000 in violation of his facial copyright.

Neither the Post-Standard, Sidney Smith nor Joe Murphy seems very much concerned about the suit. Mr. Smith says he never met Mr. Hoag in his life, nor did he receive information about him from his brother, James Smith, who lived in Canandaigua for a time.

Joe Murphy will continue to ignore this latest claim as he has others of the same ilk during the last ten years. He knows he is the original Andy Gump and he can prove it!

There's No Blarney In Dublin Critic's Praise of Universal

WILLIAM BAURESS may be a warm-hearted Irishman as well as a Dublin critic, but there's no doubting the sincerity of his letter to Carl Laemmle in which he praises the entire Universal product.

"I cannot let this opportunity pass without again complimenting Universal on the excellence of its product. Two of this month's general releases, as you know, are 'The Chinese Parrot' and 'Back to God's Country'—two of the finest pictures seen here for a very, very long time. I could not explain in writing the great effect 'The Chinese Parrot' had on me (and the entire capacity audience), when I saw it first run here, and I would be very much obliged if you would convey to Mr. Paul Leni, for me, and on behalf of Universal fans, our heartiest congratulations on his phenomenal success.

"Any other large film producing unit could not compare their average film to that of Universal. There is something about Universal pictures that cannot fail to attract—the sure-fire box-office title, the color-crammed flashy posters, the superb photography, etc., cannot fail to attract the thousands that flock to the cinemas regularly to the delight of the sensible Universal exhibitor.

"I trust you will fully understand that we, here in Dublin, are sincere in our enthusiasm for Universal's product.

"To you, dear Mr. Laemmle, are we deeply indebted for your arduous work in trying to give us the very best there is in motion pictures, and I think you have more than accomplished your aim."

Glenn Tryon Starts On "The Gate Crasher"

"THE GATE CRASHER," Glenn Tryon's new comedy, is now under production at Universal City with Patsy Ruth Miller appearing in the leading feminine role.

Tryon, who has only recently become recognized as one of the most promising comedy stars on the screen, is reported to have in his new picture a funnier vehicle than "Painting the Town," "A Hero for a Night" and "Hot Heels," his past successes for Universal.

William Craft, who has directed most of Tryon's pictures, is again wielding the megaphone on "The Gate Crasher," and Harry Decker is supervising production. In the cast are T. Roy Barnes, Beth Laemmle, Tiny Sanford, and others.

Lotus Thompson Cast Supporting Ted Wells

LOTUS THOMPSON has been signed as leading lady for Ted Wells, Western star, in "The Crimson Canyon," his forthcoming picture, according to an announcement by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation. Ray Taylor will direct.

Others in the supporting cast who have already been named are Wilbur Mack and Buck Connors. William Lord Wright will supervise the production, which will be the first of seven Western pictures starring Wells and directed by Taylor.

John Bull

You'll Be Glad to Pay More!

It's a Carl Laemmle Super Production starring CONRAD VEIDT and MARY PHILBIN with Olga Baclanova, Caesar Gravina, Brandon Hurst, George Siegmann, Sam De Grasse, Stuart Holmes.

A PAUL LENI PRODUCTION

VICTOR HUGO'S

The Man W

Again Universal has the Pictures!

Goes Wild!

"'THE MAN WHO LAUGHS' is one of the best films America has given us." Reynold's Illustrated News.

"'THE MAN WHO LAUGHS' is one of the best half dozen pictures made in America." Weekly Dispatch.

"'THE MAN WHO LAUGHS' is worthy to be ranked with the world's best." Sunday Graphic.

"'THE MAN WHO LAUGHS' should prove an enormous success." Manchester Dispatch.

"'THE MAN WHO LAUGHS' is a 100 per cent entertainment." Daily Sketch.

"'THE MAN WHO LAUGHS' is another unusual film." News of the World.

"'THE MAN WHO LAUGHS' is a lavish effort." Morning Post.

"'THE MAN WHO LAUGHS' is a wonderful picture." Westminster Gazette.

"We would not miss a single foot of 'THE MAN WHO LAUGHS'." Daily Renter.

"'THE MAN WHO LAUGHS' has tremendous box-office possibilities." Cinema.

"'THE MAN WHO LAUGHS' should prove a big box-office attraction." Sunday News.

Who Laughs

Again! Carl Laemmle Shows the Way!

Dorothy Coburn brings her blue-eyed, black-haired good looks and a nice comedy sense to the "Let George Do It" series.

Left: Betty Welsh's curly head is one of the new attractions of the "Mike and Ike" comedies.

Right: Harriet Mathews shares the feminine honors with Miss Welsh in "Mike and Ike."

Derlys Perdue, former Wampas Baby Star, will be Snookums' screen mother in the 1928-29 "Newlyweds and Their Baby" series.

NEW FACES MARK LINE-UP OF STERN BROTHERS COMEDIES

Larger Casts Including New Comedians Presage Faster and Funnier 1928-29 Product

NEW faces, new comedians and larger casts will mark the Stern Brothers Comedies for the coming year, according to an announcement just made by Julius Stern, head of the Stern Film Corporation. Almost a complete turnover has been made in acting personnel for the Stern two-reelers. With the exception of such outstanding stars as Snookums, the baby star of "The Newlyweds and Their Baby" series, Sid Saylor, the star of the "Let George Do It" series, and Arthur Trimble, the Buster of the "Buster Brown" Comedies, an entirely new group of stars and players has been assembled.

With great care, the Sterns have picked an array of principals and supporting players of established comedy experience and with distinct screen personalities. This change in casts, coupled with the engagement of new gag-men and other studio experts, combines to assure comedies for the new season on a much higher plane than ever before turned out, Stern asserts.

Snookums Has New Parents in "Newlyweds" Comedies

For the 1928-29 series of thirteen "Newlyweds" comedies, Snookums, the baby star, will be supported by a new pair of parents. They are to be Jack Egan and Derlys Perdue. Egan is well known as a screen comedian. Following a long experience on the stage he turned to the screen and has established himself as a first-class comedian. His most recent work was as one of the principals in "Harold Teen," for First National. Miss Perdue is a former Wampas Baby Star and has been a favorite among comedy fans for several years. She also has played in a number of features, including "Daytime Wives," "The Bishop of the Ozarks," "Quick Triggers" and other F. B. O. and Universal pictures. Before starting in pictures she had several years' experience on the stage as a dancer, in stock and in road shows. She is a tall, pretty brunette who screens exceptionally well and is said to fit the character of Mrs. Newlywed perfectly.

Little Merry Mae McKeen, 14 months' old sister of Snookums, is the latest addition to the Buster Brown comedies.

Sid Saylor Has New Team Mate and Blue-eyed Leading Lady

Sid Saylor, the star of the "Let George Do It" Comedies, now recognized as one of the most promising comedians in the short subject field, has been provided with new supporting principals for his forthcoming two-reelers. Harry Martell, long a favorite in screen comedies, has been engaged to team up with Saylor in this series. He formerly was a "heavy" in comedies, but recently has developed into a first-rate straight comedian.

(Continued on page 23)

New Faces Mark Line-up of Stern Brothers Comedies

(Continued from page 22)

In addition to Martell, Saylor will have pretty Dorothy Coburn with him as leading lady. This young screen favorite has been seen in many Hal Roach comedies and also has played ingenue leads in other productions. She is blue-eyed and black-haired, with a distinct flair for comedy.

New "Mike and Ike" Still Look Alike

For the "Mike and Ike" series, the Stern Brothers have acquired an entirely new line-up of principals. Mike and Ike, those two funny fellows of the Rube Goldberg cartoons, will be played by Joe Young and Ned La Salle. Young is a recruit from the Mack Sennett lot, where he has established himself as a top-notch laugh-getter. La Salle, who has a stage career behind him and who has played many juvenile roles in feature pictures, was "discovered" by Mr. Abe Stern, as a possible comedian. His work so far in the "Mike and Ike" comedies proves that he has distinct comedy ability. Young and La Salle make a well-teamed pair. They are good-looking and know how to wear clothes. This gives an excellent background for their comedy antics.

Supporting Mike and Ike is a pair of well chosen girls, Harriett Mathews and Betty Welsh. Both are pretty and both are well experienced in comedy. Miss Mathews played in many of the "Collegians" and in other comedies. Miss Welsh, who is a daughter of William Welsh, a popular screen character man, has done ingenue leads in a number of features in addition to lighter roles in short comedies.

Buster Brown Adds Lots of Little Playmates

It is in the "Buster Brown" comedies that the Stern Brothers believe they have the most fortunate array of new talent. In the first place, there is a new Mary Jane, selected from a field of 500 applicants. She is little Lois Hardwick, one of the screen's brightest youngsters. She will be remembered as Alice in the "Alice" comedies of last year. She also has played in a number of features, among them "Seventh Heaven," "The Enemy," "The Crowd" and "Lilac Time." Then there is Oatmeal, small and dark, a little colored boy discovered by Julius Stern while playing a diminutive role in the plantation scenes in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." This little dash of chocolate in the "Buster Brown" comedies is said to be good for a laugh every move he makes, and some without moving.

Another new screen personality has been added to this series of comedies. She is Merry Mae McKeen, the 14 months' old sister of Snookums McKeen, and who promises to push her older brother aside for juvenile honors. She is roly-poly and full of capers and has been found to be an important addition to the "Buster Brown" two-reelers. The cast of these fun-films also has been augmented by Bobby Newman, a fat boy, and Bobby Lloyd, another well known child actor. Buster's bunch has grown considerably and promises wholesale attacks on the ribs of the nation next season. Buster and Tige are played by the same favorites as always, little Arthur Trimble and Pete the dog. This new and very young blood in the Buster Brown Comedies for the next year assures comedy fans of something to write home about.

Harry Martell and Dorothy Coburn add to Sid Saylor's humor in "Sailor Suits."

Joe Young and Ned La Salle are telling a whopper to Betty Welsh and Harriet Mathews in "Fish Stories."

Lois Hardwick and Arthur Trimble try peroxide on the black "Oatmeal" in "Buster Trims Up."

He's sittin of the

They'll Be Glad to Pay More!

Universal's 1928-29 Headliners!

Four Great Carl Laemmle Super Productions

The Man Who Laughs
Uncle Tom's Cabin
Show Boat (Now in Production)
Broadway (Now in Preparation)

7 Smashing Laemmle Specials

The Foreign Legion The Michigan Kid
Lonesome The Girl on the Barge
Give and Take The Last Warning
The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City

4 Big-Money Dennys

22 Universal Headliner Jewels

Including 4 Laura La Plantes, 4 Glenn Tryons

8 Hoot Gibson Jewels
22 Five-Reel Western and Thrill Features

Tarzan the Mighty
and 4 Other Amazing Super Serials

Complete Service Contract
International Newsreel
The Best Short Subjects in the World

59293 5 26

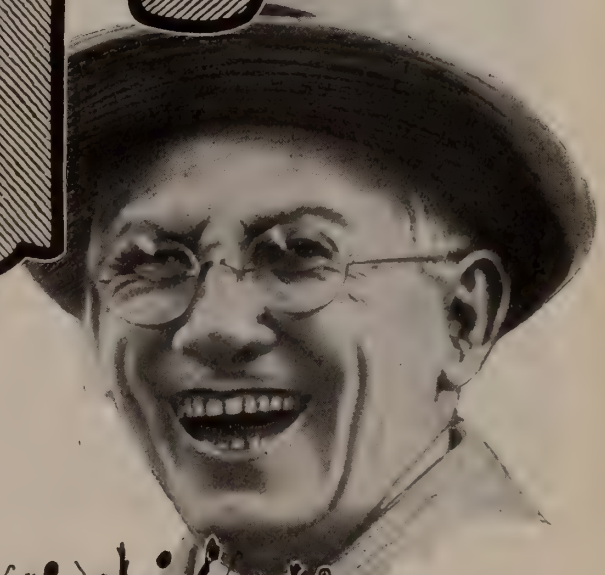
and 10,000 sitting there

Of course he's happy. twenty-six of his sixty-sev 1928-1929 READY NOW see.

And exhibitors are hap buy. Finished pictures. actually ready now in th season. It's never been mle's done it. Twenty-si Exchange Manager. He to show.

Carl Laemmle

g on top world



Exhibitors are with him!

y shouldn't he be. With Universal Headliners for the exchanges for you to

They can see before they pleted pictures. Pictures rst weeks of the selling e before. But Carl Laem- ady. Ask your Universal ot 'em. And he's rarin' shows the way!

Rochester Showman Presents Gold Pass to Chief of Police At "Shield of Honor" Opening

Chief Andrew J. Kavanaugh of the Rochester Police Department being presented with a gold pass to the Madison Theatre by Earl Wellman in connection with Universal's film, "The Shield of Honor."

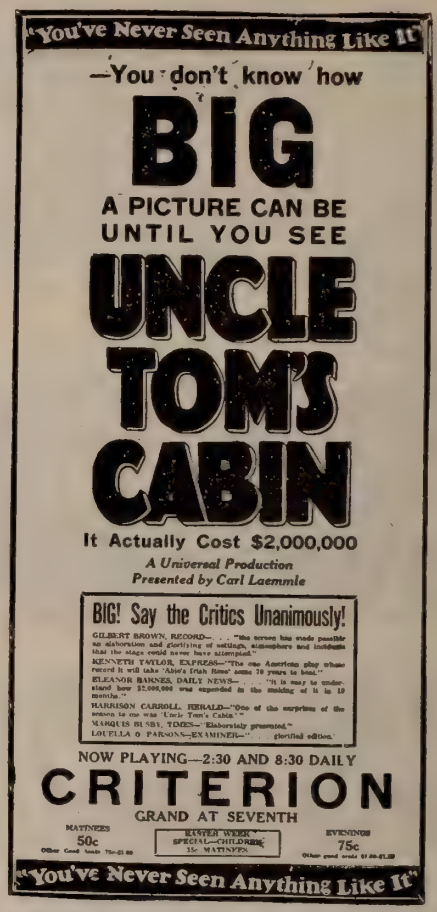
THE showing of Universal's police picture, "The Shield of Honor," was made the occasion of a burst of civic enthusiasm in Rochester. Earl Wellman, manager of the Madison Theatre, presented Chief of Police Andrew J. Kavanaugh with a gold pass good until 1999. The ceremony took place on the front steps of police headquarters, and elicited much interest as well as amusement at Manager Wellman's prediction of longevity for the police chief.

The film was dedicated to Kavanaugh, the Commissioner of Safety and the Director of Police. City officials, members of the police and their families were invited to the theatre on the opening night.

Chief of Police Kavanaugh broadcast over radio station WHEC on the subject of "Making Rochester a Better and Safer City."

The result of the tie-up was an exceptionally good run for the picture.

"The Shield of Honor" is an Emory Johnson production with Neil Hamilton, Ralph Lewis, Dorothy Gulliver, Claire McDowell and Joe Girard cast in the main roles. It has proven a film with exceptional exploitation angles due to its glorification of the police. In Grand Rapids, Michigan, a policeman's popularity contest was a great hit.



This ad, which appeared in the Los Angeles Examiner, shows how a canny exhibitor can get behind a big picture and plug it for all it's worth. Box-office records have proven that the Criterion's statements are not exaggerated.

Prominent San Diego Citizen Recommends "We Americans"

THE following letter received by the San Diego Union expresses the sentiment of many of the newspaper men, educators and representative men and women who attended the local preview at the West Coast, California:

"The cast of 'We Americans' is so large and the story so true to the lives of the people represented that by publishing of the names of the cast in every way possible through the Program and Newsette, newspapers and posters, I believe the patrons would be able to follow the inner feelings, thoughts and ideals of these future Americans through the personal interest created.

"To me the picture is so intensely a story of the lives of thousands living in the large Eastern cities, that the generations living on the West Coast may have forgotten the sacrifices that their grandparents made to make it possible for them to enjoy the comforts and pleasures that their forefathers paid so dearly for. I believe that it will awaken in the hearts of every viewer that forgotten episode in their family that opened the glory of this land of liberty and freedom to them, and brought their present happiness and prosperity.

"This picture is a departure from the general run inasmuch as it unfolds to you just how the old-time prejudices and aloofness that existed between the descendants of the 'Mayflower' cult and the Nineteenth Century immigrant was accomplished.

"I enjoyed the picture and will enjoy seeing it again and I think that will be the case with thousands. I know it will bring tears to many eyes, but they will enjoy crying.

"HENRI JULES PINCHON."

Mrs. Hersholt and Son Return to Hollywood

MRS. JEAN HERSHOLT and Jean Hersholt, Jr., left last Friday on the Twentieth Century for Los Angeles following their first visit to New York.

Mr. Hersholt arrived on location at Glens Falls, New York, last week and commenced work at once on exteriors on the Champlain Ship Canal for his forthcoming picture adapted from Rupert Hughes' story, "The Girl On the Barge," under the direction of Edward Sloman, with Sally O'Neil and Malcolm MacGregor.

Jean Hersholt, Jr., whose primary object in accompanying his father East was to visit Coney Island, achieved his ambition and never had a better time in his life. "Worth coming three thousand miles to see," was his verdict.

Carl Laemmle Denies Universal Is Involved in Pool

CARL LAEMMLE, president of the Universal Pictures Corporation, arrived back in New York several days ago from Louisville, Ky., and emphatically denied that Universal is linked up with any pool of film companies, as was reported several days ago.

"There is not one word of truth in the story published about the Universal pooling with any other company or companies," he said. "Such a thing has not even been discussed nor considered."

Mr. Laemmle witnessed the Kentucky Derby while in that state. He went thence to Chicago where he was joined by Lou B. Metzger, general sales manager for Universal, on his way back to New York after a month of country-wide sales conventions.

Mary Nolan To Be Featured By Universal

MARY NOLAN, the blonde beauty recruited by Universal from the musical comedy stage and seen in several recent Universal pictures, will be featured in a picture for next season, it is announced at the Universal home office. The picture will be "Come Across," from a story by Charles W. Tyler. J. Grubb Alexander is doing the continuity. William Wyler will direct the picture, which is of the underworld type.

Miss Nolan's latest two Universal roles were in "Good Morning, Judge," with Reginald Denny, and "The Foreign Legion," with Norman Kerry. She has been characterized as the most glorious blonde on the screen.

"U" Accessory Mgr. Visiting Exchanges

DAVE BADER, Universal accessory manager, who attended the three Universal sales conventions in Atlantic City, St. Louis and San Francisco, is now visiting various exchanges in the West and Middle West on his way back East. He will stop off at Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, Denver, Kansas City, Omaha, Des Moines and Chicago, to carry the message of bigger and better accessories.

The PUBLIC
is going for him more and more every day!

A HERO FOR A NIGHT: Glenn Tryon—This boy is a comer, watch out Lloyd, Chaplin, and all you clever comedians as Carl has a very clever boy. The picture is extra good. Worth showing in any house. Six reels.—E. L. Wood, Coliseum theatre Edmore, Mich.

PAINTING THE TOWN: Special cast—55%. very clever and laughable comedy drama. Glenn Tryon has every comedian on the screen today backed off and down when it comes to personality. Keep on giving him good gags and a good plot and he will stand at top of comedy ladder in the public's estimation.—Philip Rand, Rex theatre, Salmon, Idaho.

THE TOWN, starring Glenn Ruth Miller (six reels). An Tryon, is a wonabsolute knockout. This man, interesting in comedy roles. The story is the captions are very, very clever. Every- nounced it a scream. Play it and boost Thurs. Rating, 100 per cent. Film —C. H. Cotton, Nujoy, Hitch.

A HERO FOR A NIGHT: Glenn Tryon—Another good picture for Tryon. If he sticks to his peanuts, automobile trick devices and genial personality, he will push Lloyd for king of comedy honors.—Geo. E. Fuller, The Playhouse, Fairhope, Ala.

These clippings from Ex. Herald and M. P. World and Greater Amusements.

GLENN TRYON
in William James Craft Productions with Patsy Ruth Miller

"HOT HEELS" is his latest scream

REGINALD DENNY

— the name that keeps the ticket roll unwinding. The name that thousands of exhibitors depend on for averages as certain as the tides. The name that always spells BIG MONEY——

REGINALD DENNY

Presented by Carl Laemmle

Through UNIVERSAL

Cast Has Been Completed For "Girl on the Barge"

EDWARD SLOMAN, who is directing Jean Hersholt, Sally O'Neil and Malcolm MacGregor in the principal roles of Universal's production of Rupert Hughes' story "The Girl on the Barge," has completed casting the production.

Those who are now on location along the Champlain Ship Canal at Glens Falls, New York, include Francis Robertson, an actor who has never before essayed the films; Henry West, who appeared in "Speedy" and "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?" George Offerman, Jr., Maurice Mackintosh, Nancy Kelly and Rex, a talented canine actor.

The barge, a tug and three hundred and fifty tons of coal, rented new from local companies and made old "a la the movies", form the important properties in this picture. The loaded barge was towed to Glens Falls and will be towed back to New York as scenes are made along the Hudson. MacGregor is captain of the tug, Hersholt of the barge and Miss O'Neil, his daughter.

Weather permitting, the company should arrive here within two weeks to make scenes around New York harbor.

Duane Thompson Signed By Universal For 5 Years

DUANE THOMPSON, who plays the leading role in "Phantom Fingers," the mystery thriller now in the process of production under the direction of Leigh Jason, has been placed under a long term contract by the Universal Pictures Corporation. Miss Thompson will continue to play leads in the series of melodramas which will follow the completion of "Phantom Fingers."

Other pictures in this series will include "The Price of Fear," "Beyond the Law," "Wolves of the City," "Midnight Mystery" and "Maciste—The Hero of the Circus."

George Hackathorne, who has been absent from the screen for a long period, will be seen in "Phantom Fingers" as well as Bill Cody.

Universal Renews George Lewis' Contract

GEORGE LEWIS, Universal's collegian star, will remain with that studio, the option on his contract having been taken up, according to an announcement by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation.

The popular player first came into public view two years ago as star of Universal's "Collegian" series. Following that he appeared in "Honeymoon Flats" with Dorothy Gulliver and more recently in "We Americans" and "Give and Take."

His initial production under the new contract will be the first of the third series of the "Collegians" in which he will again be the star under the direction of Nat Ross. The company is now in the Grand Canyon.

So popular have the "Collegians" pictures been that two more series, the third and fourth are planned for release during the forthcoming year. Carl Laemmle, Jr., is responsible for the production of the series, which he has supervised since their release. The cast includes such popular actors as Dorothy Gulliver, Eddie Phillips. Churchill Ross and Hayden Stevenson.

"SURRENDER" MAKES A HIT AT NEW FILMARTE THEATRE

Los Angeles Theatre Uses Mary Philbin Film To Carry Out Its Policy of Unusual Offerings

THE Filmarte Theatre in Los Angeles made announcement recently that it intended to run artistic pictures, no matter where they are made. The policy has been followed with the happy result that not only the fans but the critics seem to be more than satisfied. "Surrender," with Mary Philbin and Ivan Mosjoukine, received unusually fine press notices, as the following excerpts will indicate:

THE HOLLYWOOD CITIZEN
By H. E. S.

Billed as proving that "art is not foreign to Hollywood," the Filmarte Theatre last night presented "Surrender," a Universal production, which will run for one week.

"Surrender" IS artistic, but nonetheless entertaining, and a film which probably would be well received by any ordinary film fan, in any regular motion picture theatre.

Mary Philbin, prettier than ever, plays the leading role in "Surrender," which is laid in Galicia and deals with the Russian march into that country at the outbreak of the war.

* * *

"Surrender" is finely drawn and well acted, with beautiful photography and settings prevailing.

LOS ANGELES TIMES
By Philip K. Scheuer

"Surrender" was directed by Edward Sloman, who engineered the production of "We Americans," which presented an old theme refreshingly handled and was exhibited a few weeks ago. The current offering goes back even further than the other for its inspiration—to biblical times and the passages about Esther, in fact—but again Sloman has brought to bear a valued intelligence and fashioned a photoplay of authentic content and absorbing drama.

* * *

Mary Philbin, whose work under the guiding hand of D. W. Griffith in "Drums of Love," achieved something of the nature of a triumph, is cast in "Surrender" as Lea Lyon, the girl of the people. Without minimizing the quality of the spell Griffith exerted, it must be said that Miss Philbin's performance here is one of rare excellence. In her is epitomized the morbid mood which hangs like a pall over the narrative, and the pace of her slow, plodding clop-clop walk is the pace of the picture.

LOS ANGELES RECORD
By Llewellyn Miller

Mary Philbin does an arresting study of idealistic inarticulate girlishness. She contrasts a glowing starry-eyed shyness with a weary passivity, and with a terrified defiance. This with a beautiful restraint and simplicity that make it an almost perfect piece of work. She is lovely in none too graceful peasant costume.

Ivan Mosjoukine is a slick exotic villain of a Russian prince. Otto Matieson is excellent in an important supporting part, as is Nigel de Brulier.

LOS ANGELES EXAMINER
By Patterson Greene

. . . Mary is a first rate emotional actress, and she isn't afraid to upset her face when she wants to register deep feeling. I liked her best when she was walking to the Russian general's tent, past the sniggering soldiers, to pay and pay.

George Rotsky got

$14,000 for the Palace Theatre, Montreal Canada, for one of the best grosses of the year

Palace (F. P.) (2,700; 35-60).—"Hunchback of Notre Dame" (reissue). George Rotsky struck little gold mine with this.

Only ran six days, owing to change in policy starting new pictures Saturdays instead of Sundays and gave one of best grosses of year with $14,000.

The clipping above is from VARIETY

Play it again and again-- it always gets the money!

UNIVERSAL SYNOPSES

"THE SPEED SHEIK"

Featuring ARTHUR LAKE

ARTHUR is intent upon winning the auto race from his rival, for Mary, the girl he adores, has promised to marry the winner.

Arthur Lake

Anything is fair in love and war and the contestants pull many stunts during the race.

Arthur's rival throws a hand grenade, which bounces back into his car, and exploded, wrecking the car and leaving Arthur undisputed winner of the race and the girl.

"THE SCARLET ARROW"

Universal Chapter Play

No. 3—"Desperate Men"

CAPTAIN BOB subdues Brodsky, and dives into the river to rescue Kathleen. Getting ashore, they are met by the hermit who takes them to his cave. On regaining consciousness Kathleen recognizes him as the robber of Masterson's safe. He tells her of the Indian cave discovered by her father and Masterson and the map torn in two as a pact of friendship, of Masterson's duplicity and his stealing the map for her. Kathleen discovers she has lost her half of the map. The hermit suggests that she return to the fur shop for further reconnoitering while Captain Bob goes in search of the fur thieves.

Meanwhile Carey has escaped and goes to the Mounties for aid. Masterson, abandoning the map, returns to town intent upon a get-away. Bob is again captured by the fur thieves, but frees himself and dashes back to town only to be trapped with Kathleen by an explosion in the dance-hall. Taking advantage of the confusion, Brodsky double-crosses Masterson and makes off with the furs.

No. 4—"Wild Bullets"

THE hermit and Baptiste rescue Kathleen from the ruins of the dance-hall and carry her to the hermit's cave. Bob is helped from the debris by the Mounties. Knowing Kathleen is safe they pursue Brodsky.

Masterson and Fay are planning a get-away when Casey walks in on them. After a fight he is imprisoned and Masterson and Fay escape.

When Kathleen comes to, in the cave, she insists upon finding Bob. She and Baptiste go to the fur store and discover the imprisoned Casey. The hermit warns them with a missiled arrow that Bob has been taken prisoner in a distant cabin by the fur thieves. They make for the cabin and Kathleen gives up to Brodsky the piece of map given her by the hermit to save Bob's life. At this juncture Masterson and Fay arrive. In the confusion Kathleen and Bob escape to a near-by cabin. Their safety is only momentary, however, as a pile of tremendous logs, which Casey has accidently loosened, crash down the hillside and bury them in the debris of the cabin.

"THE COUNT OF TEN"

Universal Jewel

With CHARLES RAY, JAMES GLEASON and JOBYNA RALSTON

JOHNNY McKINNEY is a rising, young prize-fighter whose aim is the middle-weight championship of the world. Jimmie, his manager, takes him to Chicago to arrange a championship fight when Johnny falls in love with Betty, a glove clerk in a department store and marries her. Her father and brother move in on them and live off the money which Johnny earns. Betty, with more money than she has ever had as a clerk, spends it lavishly and soon gets her husband into debt. In a charity bout, Johnny breaks a bone in his hand and has to lay off fighting. At the same time, Betty's brother asks her for $7,000 to cover a gambling debt. Betty refuses and when Johnny finds her in tears he is told by the brother that she is expecting a little stranger and needs the money for hospital bills. Johnny rushes to Jimmie asking to borrow $7,000 and refusing to say what it is for. The manager refuses, saying he will not be made a leech of by Betty's family. The fighter breaks with him and challenges the champion in order to get the money. Arthur, the brother, manages him. Johnny loses the fight as he is unable to use his right hand and Jimmie, sitting in the audience, cannot watch his punishment or the mistakes of Arthur who is in Johnny's corner. He throws in a towel as an admission of defeat. The fighter, broken physically and mentally, will not see his wife as he realizes that her family have brought him to his present position. Jimmie, who has been most bitter against them, brings about a reconciliation between the fighter and his wife, and the brother and father are ordered from the house.

SAILOR SUITS

Stern Brothers Comedy

"Let George Do It" Series

Featuring SID SAYLOR

WANDERING in the park, George and his "Buddy" find themselves rating less than zero, for it's Sailors' day off, and the girls can't see anything but the Navy. They hit on the ingenious plan of swiping a couple of smocks from some artists and sailor hats from two small boys. All set for action they soon discover a "sweetie" rowing on the lake. Their efforts to double-cross each other and make a date with her lead to many laughs. Finally George wins just as the Navy "M. P.," who mistakes the boys for sailors, orders them back to the ship. They get out of this squeeze just in time for George's date. When they arrive at the girl's house they find that she has double-crossed them both and invited them to her wedding with a real sailor.

Sid Saylor

"THE IRON CODE"

Western Featurette

With JACK PERRIN

HAPPINESS reigned at the Chaudet home in the Canadian wilds, for it was Marie's wedding day and she was expecting her sweetheart, Bob Frazer of the Mounties.

Wolf Baptiste, who had been unsuccessful in winning Marie, dashed in announcing that Bob had been hurt and was calling for Marie.

Wolf and Marie were scarcely out of sight when Bob appeared. The confused report of Marie's father convinced Bob of foul play.

As they were starting in pursuit Bob saw the flash of the M. P. signals directing him to go at once to Indian Gulch, where the Elk Horn bank robbers were in hiding.

Torn between duty and inclination Bob sent Marie's father to headquarters for help in seeking her and went to the Gulch, where to his surprise he found Babtiste's headquarters and Marie held prisoner.

The gang succeeded in binding Bob and departing with the unwilling Marie. Starlight, Bob's almost human horse, freed him. Help came from headquarters and the gang was captured.

"Sex Appeal" Now "You Can't Buy Love"

IT HAS been announced that Universal would make a picture titled "Sex Appeal" to be shown this coming season. The title has been changed to "You Can't Buy Love."

"You Can't Buy Love" is a story treating with companionate marriage in a humorous vein. The adaptation has been prepared by Beatrice Van.

The picture promises to be one replete with box-office appeal. The new title will prove a drawing card and the lighter touch applied to a problem so much in the public mind will be a distinct comedy relief.

Ernst Laemmle is scheduled to direct this production and will commence when he is discharged from the hospital where he has been confined following an automobile accident in which he suffered some painful injuries.

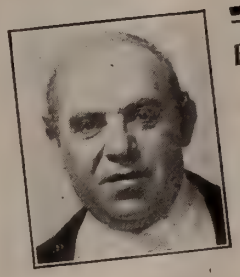
"Collegians" Are In Clarksdale, Ariz.

UNIVERSAL'S "Collegians" are now on location at Clarksdale, Arizona, where they are filming scenes for "Redskins Versus Calford," the picture featuring athletic competition between teams of Hopi Indians and Collegian players.

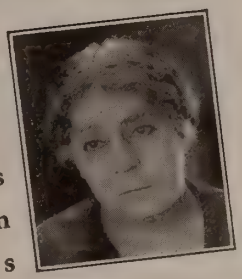
Following the shooting at this place the company will move to a point on the Grand Canyon where they will take scenes with the natural settings of the gorge as background. In filming the third series of "Collegians," of which "Redkins Versus Calford" is the first unit, Universal plans to use many of the famed scenic spots of the United States as backgrounds.

Carl Laemmle, Jr., author of the stories, is acting as production supervisor. Nat Ross is directing and George Lewis and Dorothy Gulliver appear in the leading roles. In the cast are also Eddie Philips, Churchill Ross, Yvonne Howell, Hayden Stevenson, Tiny Hanlon and others.

We Americans



George Sidney



Berryl Mercer

Believe your trade papers. This one is knocking 'em over with its tremendous story of youth in leash and love against obstacles. Hundreds of exhibitors have already increased the amount of their rental on this one. They know what they've got. Take their showman's tip.—

Patsy Ruth Miller

George Lewis

Eddie Phillips

John Boles

double your playing time—and you'll double your profits—

IT'S A LAEMMLE SPECIAL

With George Sidney, Beryl Mercer, George Lewis, Patsy Ruth Miller, Eddie Phillips, John Boles, Albert Gran.

From the stage play by Milton Herbert Gropper and Max Siegel. Supervised by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Screen adaptation by Al Cohn. AN EDWARD SLOMAN PRODUCTION.

Hoot Gibson Chosen As Guest of Honor At Sacramento Fete

AN invitation by the city of Sacramento to be guest of honor at the "Days of '49" celebration, to be held there June 1, 2, and 3, has been extended to Hoot Gibson, famous Universal screen cowboy. Gibson has wired his acceptance of the signal honor.

The actor plans to give an exhibition of riding and driving as a feature of the celebration. He is said to be the winner of more prizes for horsemanship than any other film player. Among his prizes is the championship cup for being best all-around cowboy at the Pendleton, Oregon, Round-up of 1912.

Gibson has just completed work on "The Danger Rider," his newest Universal release, most of which was made at Bishop, Cal., under the direction of Henry MacRae. Eugenia Gilbert is Hoot's feminine lead in this picture.

Universal Finishes Forest Series Film

"THE FIGHTING FORESTER," first of a series of twelve pictures written around the United States Forestry Service, has been completed at Universal City under the direction of Joseph Levigard, according to an announcement by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation.

Edmund Cobb plays the starring role and Vonceil Viking appears in the feminine lead. Miss Viking is noted as having ridden across the United States on horseback in 120 days, the first equestrienne to have accomplished that feat.

Miss Viking will bring to the Forestry series unusual horsemanship, youth, blonde good looks and a tremendous amount of publicity which accrued from her cross-country ride.

Other units of the series will be started shortly, Laemmle announced. "The Fighting Forester" was written by George W. Pyper and was supervised by William Lord Wright.

"Collegians" Make Location Trip

(Continued from page 6)

production, justifies paying the higher rate for air travel. I save two days by taking the air route and arrive in time to make preparations for the players who come by train."

"Calford vs. Redskins" is not the only location trip that the third and fourth "Collegians" series will make during the year. A number of famous spectacles, historical locations and spots of scenic grandeur will be utilized by this most famous two-reel series the industry has ever produced.

Jocelyn Lee Signed For Denny Film

JOCELYN LEE has been signed by Universal to play an important role in "The Night Bird," Reginald Denny's comedy of the prize ring, according to an announcement by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation.

"The Night Bird" was written by Frederick and Fanny Hatton. Earle Snell adapted it for the screen and wrote the continuity.

Fred Newmeyer is directing it. Included in the cast are Betsy Lee, leading woman, Sam Hardy, Harvey Clark, Corliss Palmer, Michael Visaroff, George Bookasta, Harry Semels and others.

Ted Wells Starts "Crimson Canyon"

TED WELLS, Universal Western star, has commenced filming his first picture for next year's program of eight titled "Crimson Canyon," under the direction of Ray Taylor and the supervision of William Lord Wright.

"Crimson Canyon" was written by George Morgan. Lotus Thompson will play the leading role, while Wilbur Mack and Buck Connors will play prominent roles.

Young Players Get Comedy Leads

ARTHUR LAKE is to star and Lillian Gilmore will play the leading feminine role in "Horace of Hollywood," a comedy series of one-reelers to be made by Universal, according to an announcement by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal.

Lake and Miss Gilmore are two of the youngest leading players on the Universal lot. Doran Cox will direct them under the supervision of William Lord Wright.

You said it - - Mr. McKenny!

THE COHENS AND KELLYS IN PARIS: Special cast—It was one of the best pictures I ever had the pleasure of showing in Iona. If some other company had this picture they would have road-showed it at $2.20 top, but Uncle Carl is a real man for us little fellows. Broke house records for Sunday night in fifteen years. Book it, boys, and step on it hard. It sure is a fine feeling to go to the door and see them go out with that big smile and say, "Mac, get some more like it." Uncle Carl sure has the pictures this year. Eight reels.—C. J. McKenney, Majestic theatre, Iona, Minn.—

(from Ex. Herald and M. P. World)

UNIVERSAL sure has the pictures!!!

More than 2200

signed contracts to date. That's the amazing record piled up by

UNIVERSAL'S COMPLETE SERVICE CONTRACT

and the best proof in the world that

Carl Laemmle Leads the Way!

Coming Events Cast their Shadows Before

The column at the right will appear in the Saturday Evening Post of June 16, 1928.

Every Universal picture is given its share of national advertising in this column. Every Universal picture is an event in the lives of millions of movie fans throughout the country. Every Universal picture casts its shadow of sure-fire profits before it for the wise exhibitor who gets in line for Universal!

Watch This Column
Our Weekly Chat

It has always been more or less of a habit of moving-picture producers to change the author's version of a story in order to insure the happy ending. So far as Universal is concerned, this has been the result of popular demand.

Mary Philbin in "The Man Who Laughs"

People did not want to see the hero and heroine robbed of their rightful rewards. They wrote me hundreds of letters demanding the happy ending, and saying that they go to the theatre to be pleased and not to be saddened.

Have any of you changed your minds? Would you prefer now to see the story faithfully produced? At all events Universal proposes to produce several pictures in which the stories will be followed just as the authors wrote them, and the ending will be the natural ending. Let's see how you like them. I'll confess that I am very curious and will eagerly await the public's verdict. What do you think about it?

No picture produced in recent years has received the generous and enthusiastic praise which the great newspapers of America are giving "We Americans." On the occasion of the recent presentation in Washington, D. C. the Star, Post, Times, Herald and News published elaborate reviews, and united in declaring it one of the outstanding and original pictures in screen history.

Hoot Gibson

HOOT GIBSON'S new picture "The Wild West Show" is bound to be received with pleasure by the great mass of people who love Westerns. The greatest rider of them all has a splendid story. You'll like it, I am positive.

The New York World describes Universal's production of "The Man Who Laughs" as "a beautiful and dignified picture" The masterful interpretations by CONRAD VEIDT in the star's role, and the charming acting of his co-star, MARY PHILBIN, are worthy of far more than ordinary praise.

Arthur Edmund Carew in "Uncle Tom's Cabin"

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" bids fair to become one of the greatest pictures of the year. For a story of 70 years old, this is remarkable, yet as produced it is "a spectacle of grandeur and magnificent acting", as one critic said.

Have you seen LAURA LAPLANTE the screen's greatest comedienne, in her newest picture "Finders Keepers," or GLENN TRYON, the screen's different comedian, in "Hot Heels"? Better ask your favorite theatre for them.

·Carl Laemmle, President

If you want to be on our mailing list send in your name and address

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

"The Home of the Good Film"

730 Fifth Ave., New York City

UNIV[illegible] WEEKLY
[illegible]
July 28, 1928

Glenn Tryon

The Yankee Doodle Dandy of the Screen in

"HOW TO HANDLE WOMEN"

with

Marian [illegible]

This is booking time but you must book the pictures listed on this page IF YOU WANT THE BIG MONEY THIS YEAR . . . . . .

Carl Laemmle Super Specials

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN
THE MAN WHO LAUGHS
BROADWAY SHOW BOAT

Laemmle Golden Special

THE FOREIGN LEGION

Laemmle Specials

THE MICHIGAN KID
THE COHENS AND KELLYS IN ATLANIC CITY
GIVE AND TAKE
THE GIRL ON THE BARGE
THE LAST WARNING

4 BIG MONEY DENNYS

22 Headliners Jewels

4 GLENN TRYONS
4 LAURA LA PLANTES
FREEDOM OF THE PRESS
ANYBODY HERE SEEN KELLY?
MAN, WOMAN AND WIFE
RED LIPS
HONEYMOON FLATS
THE SHAKEDOWN
THE PLAY GOES ON THE CHARLATAN
JAZZ MAD
COME ACROSS
SILKS AND SADDLES
THE GRIP OF THE YUKON
PHYLLIS OF THE FOLLIES
YOU CAN'T BUY LOVE

8 HOOT GIBSON JEWELS

Quality Must Prevail, says Carl Laemmle

BOOKED by the WORLD'S GREATEST SHOWMEN!

Skouras Bros. Circuit

EXECUTIVE OFFICES
AMBASSADOR THEATRE BLDG.
SEVENTH AND LOCUST

St. Louis, Missouri

CHARLES P. SKOURAS
GENERAL MANAGER

June 25th, 1928.

Mr. Carl Laemmle,
Universal Film Exchanges, Inc.,
730 Fifth Ave.,
New York, N.Y.

My dear Mr. Laemmle:

We have just screened "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and I want to take this opportunity to give you our reaction to this film version of the most famous play the American stage has ever known.

There is no need to recall what "Uncle Tom's Cabin" achieved as a play. We are interested in what it will do as a motion picture. Truthfully, we are of the opinion that it will be one of the outstanding popular-priced successes of the screen.

Transcription has been wonderfully well handled and we believe the picture has a mass appeal that will sweep the country from coast to coast. As far as St. Louis is concerned, we confidently expect to reach new records in both the deluxe and subsequent run theatres.

Permit me to congratulate you upon your vision in picturizing the story and to congratulate your production staff upon its splendid execution.

Sincerely yours,

Charles P. Skouras

CPS/C

YOU CAN HEAR IT AS WELL AS SEE IT

and now—

LAURA LA PLANTE

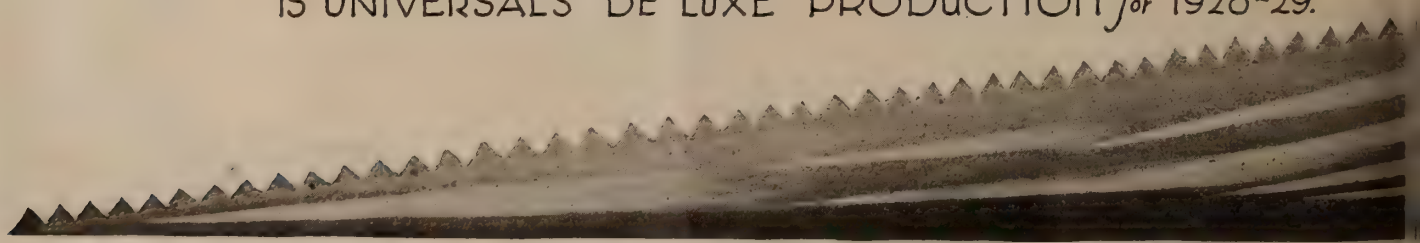
"The Magnolia of 'Show Boat'

now takes her place in the forefront of the biggest box office stars...

The fact that she has been chosen to play the most sought after part in the gift of the motion picture industry immeasureably enhances her value in the eyes of the public and makes each new Laura La Plante picture an event of greatest importance to every exhibitor....

"SHOW BOAT"

IS UNIVERSAL'S DE LUXE PRODUCTION for 1928-29.



ANNE

Your audiences can now HEAR as well as see the tremendous epic sweep of this Victor Hugo masterpiece. They can HEAR as well as see the mighty roar of the crowds at the Southwark Fair.

The clanging of the main gates at the Queen's palace.

The clatter of the soldiers spears and armour.

The blowing of the horns at the Queen's Concert.

The raucous laughter in the House of Lords.

The shrieking of the crowds in the man-hunt for the Man Who Laughs.

The barking of the dogs at the gate of the palace

The howling of the mobs.

The whistling of the wind thru the rigging of the vagabond ship.

The blowing of the horns, the ringing of the bells and the rolling of the drums at the Southwark Fair.

The ringing of the bell at the secret panel.

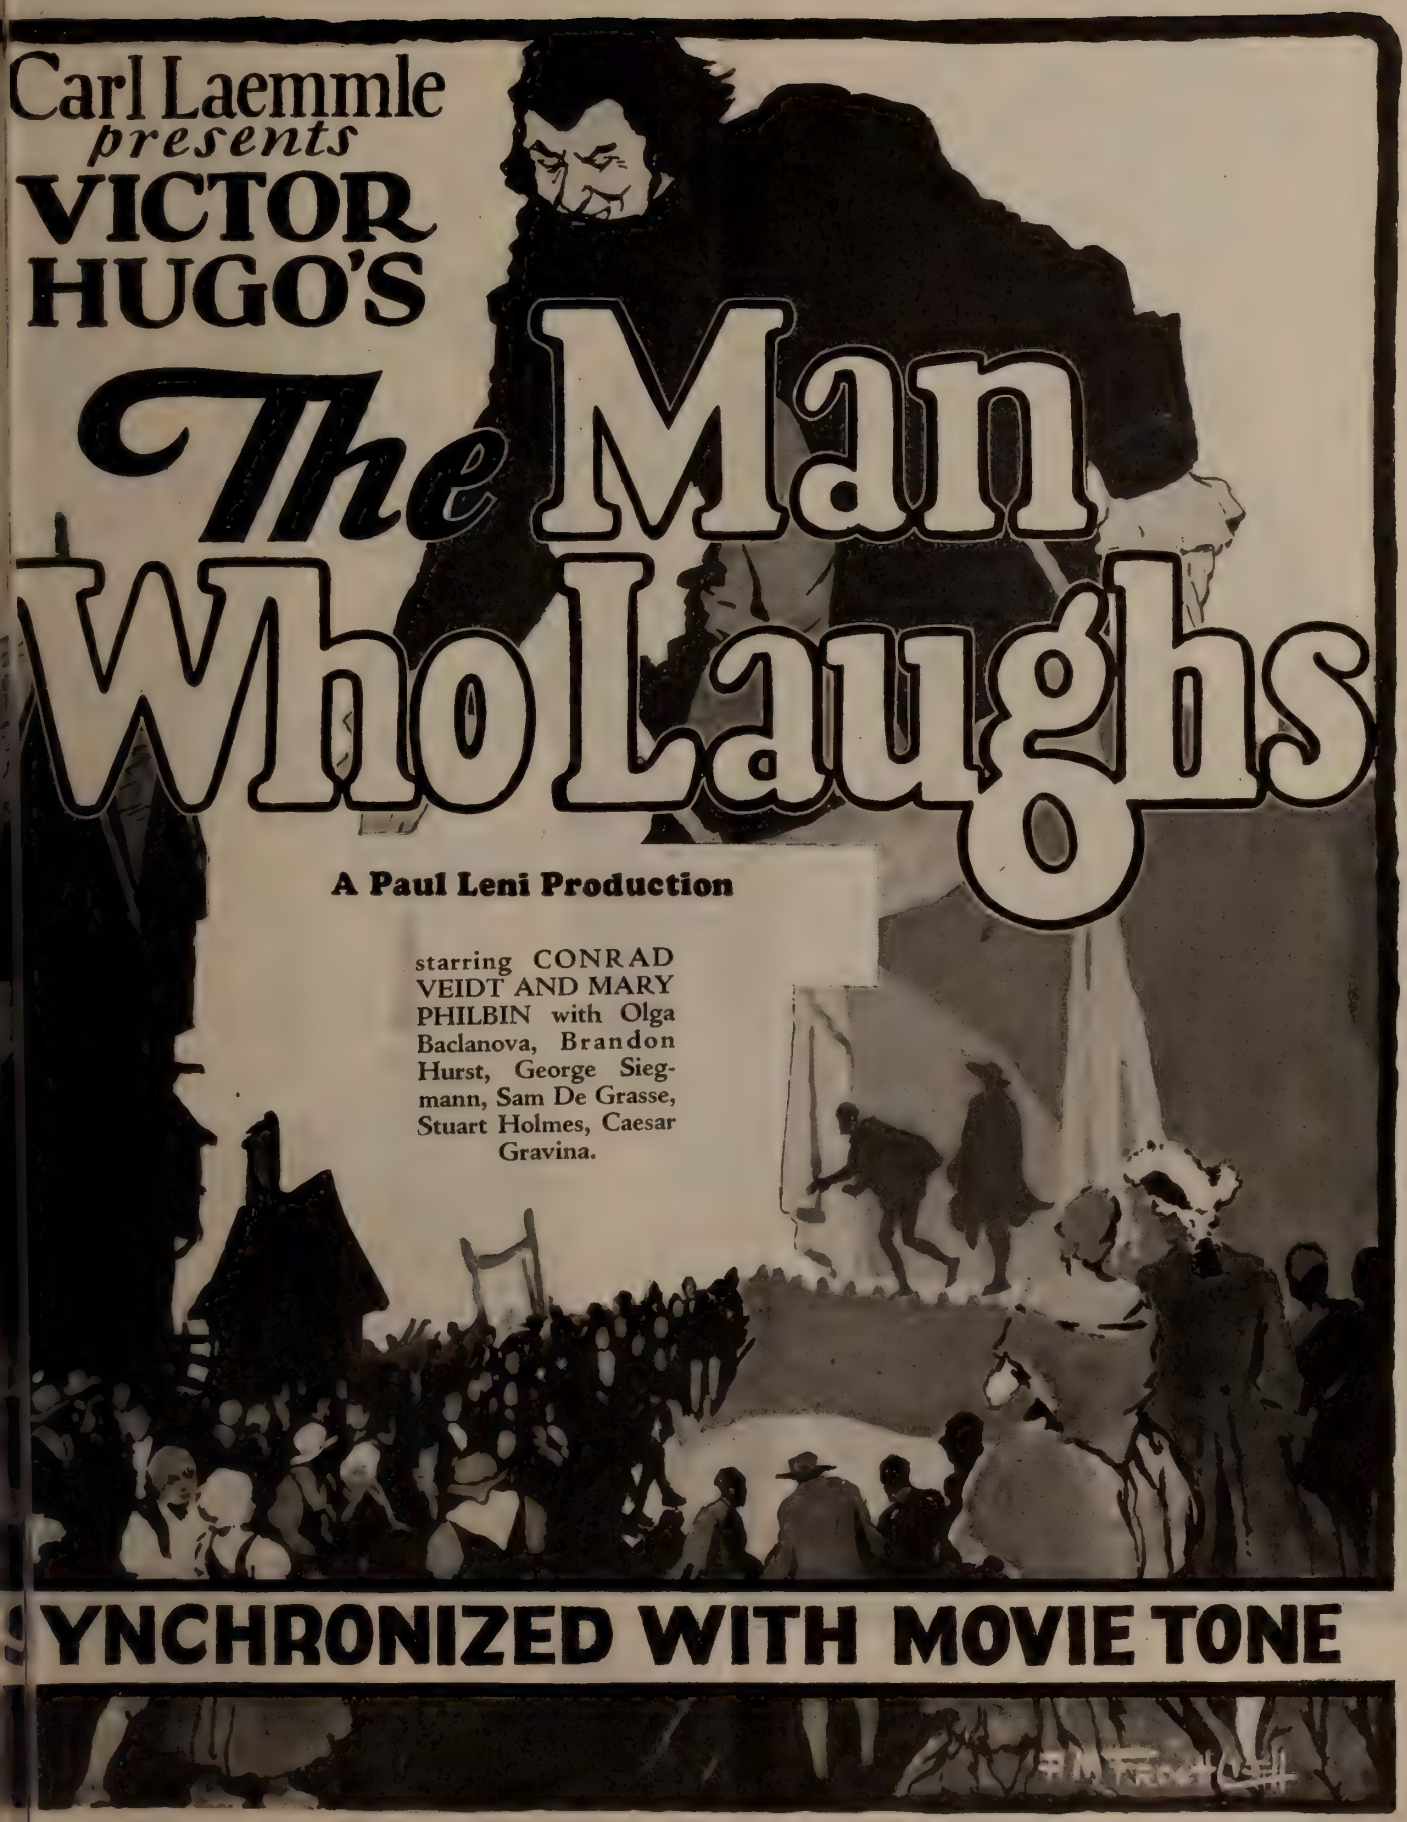
The clatter of the horses' hoofs going thru the Royal gates.

The crash between the green van and the King's coach.

The hoof-beats of the cavalry.

And an Augmented Symphonic New York Orchestra.

HEAR IT AS WELL AS SEE IT·



Carl Laemmle
presents
VICTOR
HUGO'S
The Man
Who Laughs
A Paul Leni Production
starring CONRAD
VEIDT AND MARY
PHILBIN with Olga
Baclanova, Brandon
Hurst, George Sieg-
mann, Sam De Grasse,
Stuart Holmes, Caesar
Gravina.
YNCHRONIZED WITH MOVIE TONE

TARZAN THE MIGHTY
EDGAR RICE BURROUGH'S
JACK NELSON sensational stories
IT'S A UNIVERSAL

Was too Ritzy

I always figured it undignified and unprofitable to play serials in my house. But—

When I saw how my competitors were cleaning up with Universal Chapter plays I fell in line.

Now, I can't wait until I get TARZAN THE MIGHTY which must be a knockout and the wonder serial of them all, judging by the advance stills. And I'll book THE FINAL RECKONING, THE MYSTERY RIDER, THE PIRATE OF PANAMA, and THE DIAMOND MASTER as fast as I can get them.

To hell with dignity! From now on I'm going to cash in on Universal serials because Universal serials always get the money!

UNIVERSAL SERVES EVERY WEEK in UNITE

No. 595—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

MORE than ten thousand exhibitors in the United States and Canada get their pictures—all or part of them—from the Universal every week! To be exact—12,553.

Nearly a third of this vast army of theatres use everything Universal releases!

To keep these thousands of theatres supplied, our exchanges in the United States and Canada carry over 161,000,000 feet of positive film. And to this we add every week the steady flow of 2,400,000 feet of new positive prints!

Nearly 900 experts give all their time to the shipping and inspecting of these miles and miles of film — that it may reach our customers on time and in good condition. They inspect and ship 79,426 reels of film every week!

While the film is inactive it is stored in 110 fire-proof vaults in all parts of the country.

I could give you other interesting statistics, but these will be enough to show you what a vast machine has been geared up to handle your business.

12,553 EXHIBITORS

D STATES and CANADA

The amazing feature of this story is the fact that although more than ten thousand customers are taken care of every week; and although more than 79,000 reels of film are inspected and shipped every week; and although millions of pieces of advertising accessories are delivered to our thousands of customers—the mistakes are so few as to be almost unworthy of notice.

This same expertness, this same exacting care is exercised by Universal offices in every other civilized part of the world. Deliveries of good pictures are prompt and in good order in spite of the fact that we have to use every known form of transportation including railroads, automobiles, airplanes, horses, camels, wheelbarrows and even the sturdy shoulders of human runners.

While this tremendous and intricate machine is performing its functions 24 hours of every day, the Universal studios—by far the largest and best equipped in the world—are feeding it its needed supply of fine pictures of every type and length and description, from the mightiest of super - productions down to the one-reel comedy.

If you are not a member of this far-reaching family, why dont you join it and partake of its strength?

Carl Laemmle

The
UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for the Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick, ~ Editor
Published by the Motion Picture Weekly Publishing Co. Heckscher Bldg. 730~5th Ave. New York City
Copyright 1928 UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION All rights reserved

Vol. XXVII JULY 28, 1928 No. 25

UNIVERSAL MOVIEGRAMS

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" has been synchronized in Movietone with the Dixie Jubilee Singers and a highly realistic accompaniment of sounds of all kinds, and is now ready to be heard as well as seen.

NEELY EDWARDS has been chosen to play the part of Schultzie, the stage manager of the little theatrical company in "Show Boat," Elise Bartlett the leading lady, Ellie, and Harry Holden, the character actor, Mr. Means. Gertrude Howard, who was the Aunt Chloe in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," will play the role of Queenie, the cook on the show boat.

FIVE more players have been added to the already imposing cast of "The Last Warning" in support of Laura La Plante. They are Charles French, Tom McGuire, Ella McKenzie, Fred Kelcey and Harry Northrup. Paul Leni is rapidly completing the production.

LESLIE FENTON, the brilliant young character actor who scored such a stage triumph in "An American Tragedy," has been added to the cast of "The Play Goes On" in support of Conrad Veidt, under the direction of Paul Fejos at Universal City.

TOM REED is the first title writer at Universal City to whom has been assigned the duty of writing talking dialogue for a synchronized picture. It's for "Lonesome."

The Gleasons Will Star In "Shannons of Broadway" A Universal Talking Picture

Famous Broadway Play and Its Stars to Be Produced at Universal City as Remarkable Talking Picture for Which James Gleason Is Already Preparing in California

ON Saturday morning, Universal signed contracts by proxy with James Gleason, author and star, for the purchase of "The Shannons of Broadway." The fact that Mr. and Mrs. Gleason were in California and the necessity for providing for the various kinds of rights which moving pictures now require, such as synchronization, dialogue, television, novelization, etc., demanded a new form of legal contract, which has now been perfected by Siegfried F. Hartman, General Counsel for Universal, used for the first time in "The Shannons of Broadway."

"The Shannons of Broadway" will in all probability be a complete talking picture. At any rate, Universal has the right to make it such. Furthermore, it will have the services of Mr. and Mrs. James Gleason, who starred in the New York production at the Martin Beck Theatre.

By the terms of the contract, Universal will not be permitted to release "The Shannons of Broadway" before February 1, 1929, although the picture can be completed and held in the exchanges for release on that date, if Universal is so minded. In fact, Mr. and Mrs. Gleason are foregoing several offers to act this fall in order to hold themslves available to Universal for appearance in the moving picture production of "The Shannons of Broadway."

Elaborate preparations are already under way under the direction of Mr. Gleason for preparing the script and devising a synchonizing technique which will do away with the present crudities of talking pictures.

"The Shannons of Broadway" enjoyed a remarkable run on Broadway in a season which found musical comedy hits the big outstanding draw. It closed only recently and will reopen again on September 24th in Philadelphia, and will play successively Baltimore, Washington, Newark, Boston, Cincinnati and Cleveland, reaching Chicago just after Christmas for a run.

The roles played on the stage by Mr. and Mrs. Gleason will be assumed by Harry Tyler and Gladys Crolius. These two players were promoted to feature prominence because of their remarkable work as Eddie and Alice Allen in the original production.

Laemmle Discloses Sound Plans

Expenditure of Million and a Quarter in Universal City and Fort Lee Authorized and Work Far Advanced Toward Completion—Movietone Actually in Use on "The Last Warning" Set and the Interiors for "Show Boat"—Details of the Equipment Being Installed at Universal City.

"TALKING pictures will only be permanently successful when an entirely new technique is utilized in their production," says Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation, in disclosing the results of three months' intensive work, investigation and study of sound synchronization. This investigation has been going on at Universal City and in the New York laboratories of the company ever since it made its agreement with the Electrical Research Products, Inc., three months ago. In these three months, plans involving the expenditure of over a million dollars at Universal City and $250,000 in the laboratories and studio at Fort Lee have been drawn, and the materials required have been ordered, and insofar as Universal City is concerned, are already being installed.

"There is a novelty, it is true, about hearing the human voice on the screen, which is a distinctly box-office draw at this moment," continued Mr. Laemmle, "but as soon as the novelty of this phenomenon has worn off and audiences have become accustomed to hearing the characters talk, they will no longer overlook the crudities of the technique of what is commonly called the talking picture of today. Unless a new technique is devised, a new technique of directing, of acting, and of cutting and titling, we will be right back where we were before, except that audiences will be yearning for the good old days when the moving picture was the silent drama, and they were glad of it.

"In the development of our sound activities at Universal City, and at New York, we have been proceeding cautiously, with a view to making our sound pictures as technically new and advanced as a new art deserves to be. For, to my mind, talking pictures presents an entirely new situation. Moving pictures did not become an art until they entirely divorced themselves from the stage method of telling a story. They developed their own method of story telling. Now, with the new dimension, as it were, our organization is struggling, as probably every other one is, to fit it in artistically, effectively and in a manner which will be purely moving picture and not theatric.

"In carrying out this plan, Universal has experimented not only with its authors, scenarists and literary people, but with the various media which are available at the present time. Under our contract with the Electrical Research Products, Inc., we are officially using a process similar to the Movietone process and equipment for two sound stages, Monitor room and projection rooms has been received at Universal City.

"Several weeks ago we broke ground for three units in a space in Universal City which we have been saving for years for just such an emergency. The buildings we are erecting now can be enlarged to two or three times their capacity. In addition to the apparatus installed at Universal City, we will proceed immediately with plans for converting the studio at Fort Lee into a sound-proof studio. It is certain that we will need a studio as well as laboratory and projection room equipment in New York, and it is fortunate that we have such a splendid framework upon which to impose the sound-proof studio as we have in Fort Lee. When this studio was built, it was acknowledged to be the finest studio in the east. And while it has been anti-dated in many of its features since that time, it has not been allowed to run down.

"Roy Hunter, the expert at Universal City, who will have charge of the mechanical end of our sound processes, has been in the east for the last three weeks, going over the apparatus with the Electrical Research Products' engineers and with them mapping out the requirements for equipping the Fort Lee laboratory and studio. It will be several months before the work of equipping these will be completed, although the laboratory work is well under way under the direction of Irving Stolzer.

"At the same time, elaborate tests of actors' voices have been undertaken with the apparatus which is going to be used for "Show Boat" and which is now installed on one of the sets for "The Last Warning." These tests were both indoor and outdoor. The utdoor tests were under what might be called normal conditions, but the indoor tests had to be taken on a stage which was not built for sound production. Nevertheless, the results were astounding to all of us. Universal finds itself in an exceptionally gratifying position in regard to Movietoning its stars.

"Joseph Schildkraut, Reginald Denny, Glenn Tryon, Conrad Veidt and Jean Hersholt have all had splendid stage experience and their voices register 100 per cent. Kathryn Crawford, the new beauty for whom great things are being predicted at Universal City, also registers splendidly, as might be expected of the star of "Hit the Deck." There are a number of players, also, who have had stage experience, like Otis Harlan, Eddie Phillips, Hayden Stevenson and John Boles and whose tests have all been splendid.

"Our plans for synchronization include 'Uncle Tom's Cabin,' 'The Man Who Laughs,' 'The Last Warning,' 'The Girl on the Barge' and 'Give and Take.' But more elaborate technique will enter into such pictures as 'The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City,' with George Sidney and Vera Gordon; Reginald Dennv in 'Red Hot Speed,' an automobile story; 'Man Woman and Wife,' with Pauline Starke, Norman Kerry, Kenneth Harlan and Marian Nixon; 'Lonesome,' the Paul Fejos special. Others will be added to the list of this year's pictures as they go into production and we determine what treatment is best to use with them.

"Next year's pictures are already being planned with sound. They include the first moving picture musical comedy based upon Carl Laemmle, Jr.'s 'The Collegians,' 'The Minstrel Show,' an interesting innovation; in another stage field, 'The Shannons of Broadway' with Mr. and Mrs. James Gleason in their original roles; 'The World Tomorrow,' a story based on an idea by Leonard Fields, eastern scenario editor, in which we will attempt to show, both visibly and audibly, a story of the next generation; 'The Braggart,' a play written especially for sound reproduction with Jean Hersholt in mind for the title role, by Benjamin Kutler.

"It is quite possible that some of these novelties can be finished and released this year. At any rate, Universal feels very happy at the progress it has made in the last three or four months in solving the problem of the new technique required for sound pictures."

(Continued on page 14.)

Toot-Toot-

Here they come—with a train-load of NEW gags—new ideas — more laughs — bigger laughs — with an augmented cast and the same SUREFIRE principals.

Starring
GEORGE LEWIS
with Dorothy Gulliver, Eddie Phillips, Hayden Stevenson, Churchill Ross. Directed by Nat Ross. Written and supervised by

Carl Laemmle Jr.
Universal Junior Jewels.

Nothing on the entire short pare with CARL LAEMMLE eel market can begin to com-

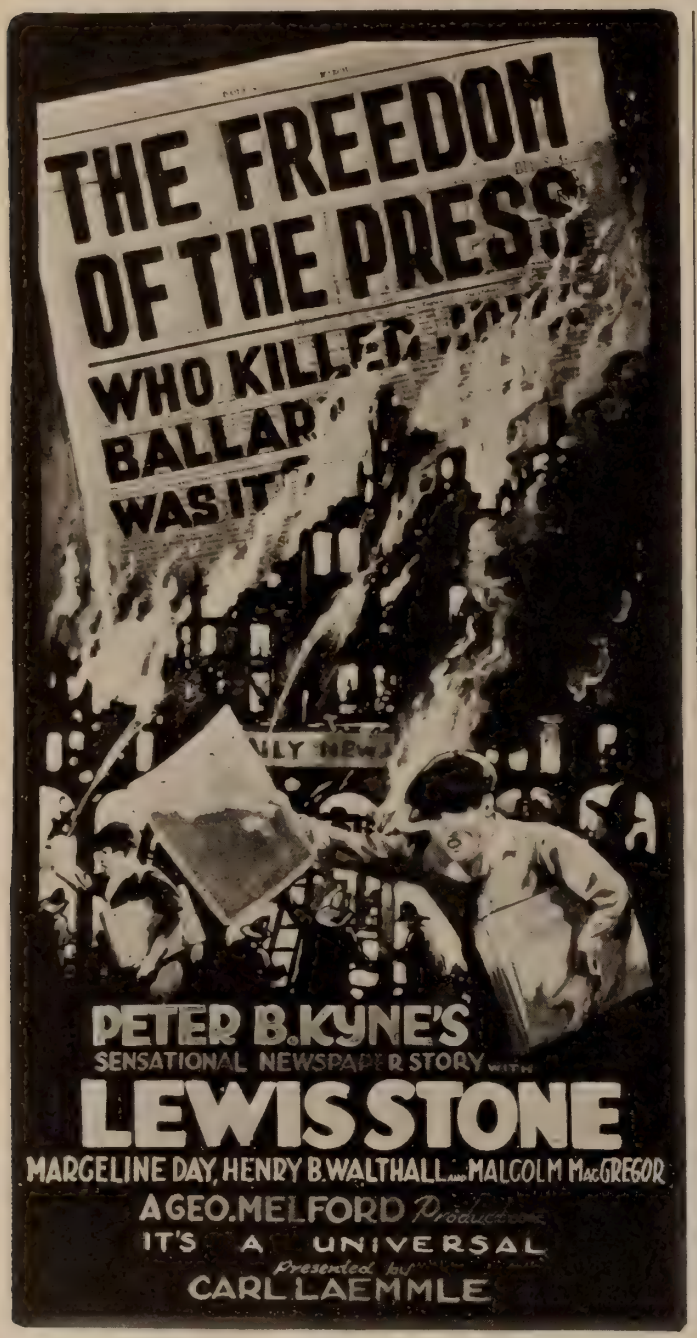
JR'S "THE COLLEGIANS".



It's a WOW of a newspaper picture with a SUREFIRE exploitation angle. Ask your Universal Exchange Manager to tell you about the ATLANTA CONSTITUTION - CAPITOL THEATRE tie-up that sold it right up to the hilt in Atlanta, Ga.

Laemmle Discloses Sound Plans

(Continued from page 11.)

GROUND was broken July 2 at Universal City for the erection of Unit Number 1, in the new mammoth soundproof-stage system which is being installed upon orders of President Carl Laemmle. The first group consists of three sub-units; a Main Stage, 60 by 100; a combined Theater and Monitor room, 35 by 50; and an Apparatus Section, 73 by 53. This new Unit will be the nucleous of Universal's comprehensive synchronization plant, sufficient ground space being allowed for expansion as future requirements will demand.

The main stage is of the truss type. The walls will be built of sound-insulating material and the floors are to be insulated separately from the balance of the building to obviate ground noises, such as passing motor trucks. The ceiling has been especially designed to prevent overhead sounds, such as heavy winter rainstorms, and passing airplanes from penetrating the "shooting" chamber. There will be a soundproof vestiblue wide enough for a truck to deliver props and equipment to the studio direct. This will be a one-way passage.

The Theater and Monitor room will house an expert who controls the microphones and sound volume by a remote control system. The monitor hears only the recorded voice although he is able to see the players through plate glass windows. He is thus able to modify or enlarge the voices or atmosphere sounds.

The theater itself will be built in absolute proportion to an actual theater. The screen, projection "throw" and sound volume will be proportionately diminutive so that actual theatrical conditions can be simulated. Projection rooms are to be built so that a picture can be screened into the main stage itself to accommodate post-synchronization when a hundred-piece orchestra may be required, for example.

The Apparatus Section will house a Generator Room, a Battery Room, Amplification Room, two Recording Rooms, Stock Room, Test Rooms, Office, two Cutting Rooms, Disc-Shaving Room and Rest Rooms. The Recording and Amplifying rooms will be vibrationless, special concrete piles being sunk to separately support these two chambers. The new Units will be built to accommodate both disc and film synchronization devices.

An interesting feature of Universal's sound proofing system is, in addition to the special lining material, a network of tracks to accommodate heavy baffling curtains to be used in isolating the subjects to be photographed, or to be more specific, "audiographed." These are portable sound-deadeners, or "baffles," a new word in the shifting cinema dictionary.

The cutting rooms will be adjacent to the theater, as the cutter of the future will have to edit his films by sound as well as by sight. Special space will be devoted to the Synchronization Department in the laboratory which is being enlarged to accommodate the new device.

Exhaustive tests of every sound—and vibration-proof material extant were taken by studio officials before construction contracts were finally awarded. A novel use of science was made by Universal when a seismograph was utilized to determine the exact degree of vibration which is to be the allowable maximum for the Amplifying and Recording Rooms.

Universal Chain Theatres Spend Half Million in Sound Devices

UNIVERSAL Chain Theatrical Enterprise, Inc., will invest close to half a million dollars in the installation of sound devices in strategically located theatres throughout the country according to announcement from Charles B. Paine of the "U" Home Office. nouncement from Charles B. Paine of the "U" Home Office. Universal already has three houses equipped and running

(Continued on page 32)

Skouras Bros. Book More Universal Than Ever Before

Contract with St. Louis Theatre Magnates Heads Week's List of Big Bookings—Koppin Deal in Detroit Closed for 21 Theatres

BIG deals continue to pour in from the selling forces, deals involving for the most part 100% contracts for Universal pictures.

On a flying trip to St. Louis during the hottest spell of the year, Lou B. Metzger, General Sales Manager, and Fred J. McConnell, Short Product Sales Director, returned with the most complete contract which Universal had ever been given by Skouras Brothers. They attribute their success in great measure to the outstanding quality and merit of Universal product this year and the fact that it was possible to show these theatre magnates, who dominate the St. Louis territory, so many of these pictures. The fact that Universal already has thirty pictures in the exchanges, ready for exhibitors to see, has had a tremendous influence on the way Universal is regarded in the market this year, and the fact that the product is so outstanding and of such high quality has more than convinced exhibitors this year of the gigantic stride forward which Universal took last year when Carl Laemmle decided to move out to California and personally supervise Universal productions.

Under the terms of the Skouras deal, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "The Man Who Laughs," the synchronized pictures, will play in the Grand Central Theatre, which is the Skouras synchronized house in the district, while the majority of the other product will play in the beautiful Ambassador and Missouri Theatres, the finest houses in the Middle West. One unusual feature of the contract was the fact that although it is for next September, the bookings begin immediately.

"The Foreign Legion" opened in the Ambassador Theatre July 13th and in spite of the heat, its opening elicited on July 13th the following telegram from Spyros Skouras:

"CONGRATULATIONS ON BOX OFFICE SUCCESS FOREIGN LEGION PLAYING AMBASSADOR THEATRE. DESPITE SPECIAL HOT WEATHER CONDITIONS PICTURE HAS GONE AHEAD EVERY EXPECTATION. KINDEST REGARDS."

There will be a succession of three Universal pictures in a row at the Ambassador — "The Foreign Legion," "The Michigan Kid," opening July 21st, and "Red Lips," opening July 28th.

The booking of short product by Skouras Brothers was just as favorable to Universal proportionately as the features. As it happens, "The Collegians" have never played in St. Louis, and now they will have their first opportunity at the beautiful Ambassador Theatre, a fact which opens up the entire territory to "Collegians" pictures. Other product includes the Stern Brothers Comedies, the Oswald Cartoons, the Laemmle Novelties, the "Horace in Hollywood" series, and International News. It is also a matter of extreme interest in the territory that "Tarzan the Mighty," the lead-off serial, will go into the splendid Ambassador Theatre.

Another deal just completed is the almost 100% deal with the Koppin Circuit of twenty-one theatres in and around Detroit. This deal was closed by Salesmen McCoy and Fowser under the direction of Ray Moon, manager of the Detroit Universal office. The contract covers practically all of Universal's feature and short-reel product.

The Koppin theatres are the Ferndale, Wayne, Picadilly, Harmony, Garden, Park, Comique, New Home, Ambassador, Norwood, Lakewood, Uptown, Ramona, Republic, Koppin, Rosebud and Rialto of Detroit, the Durant and Strand of Flint, Mich., the Calvin of Dearborn, Mich., and the Irving of Broodmoor, Mich.

Earl Kramer of the Big U, not satisfied with the tremendous Broadway bookings which he has secured within the last two or three weeks, has closed "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "The Man Who Laughs," "The Foreign Legion" and "The Michigan Kid" for the new 5,000-seat Stanley Theatre in Jersey City. The Stanley has already begun to play the contract on these four pictures, with more to follow.

J. M. Skorey of Denver, who at the present reading has the position of No. 1 salesman in the Universal national rating, just sent in another 100% contract for the Kimo Theatre of Albuquerque, New Mexico, Bachechi's beautiful 1,350-seat house. This is only one of a succession of deals closed by Skorey and is the best reason why he is No. 1 salesman in the United States at the present moment.

Reginald Denny Ready for "Red Hot Speed"

WITH "The Night Bird" completed and its preview showings disclosing the finest Denny picture yet, Reginald Denny is getting himself all set for a real talking picture. Its title is "Red Hot Speed."

When "Red Hot Speed" was written by Gladys Lehman last year, there was no thought of synchronization in making it, but the developments of the last few months determined Universal to make a talking picture of "Red Hot Speed." For the last three months, Miss Lehman has worked with Faith Thomas, adaptor, and Matt Taylor in whipping it into a technique which may set a standard for moving picture productions of this character because it will be one of the first, if not the very first picture, to reach the screen with all the new technique thoroughly thought out and worked out before the picture went into production in the studio.

Joseph Henaberry has been engaged to direct the production, and he, too, has been interested in the production of talking pictures for the last few months, with a view to utilizing his former stage experience with the San Carlo Opera Company in the new angles developed by sound. It will be like old home week to Henaberry to come back to Universal City, because, in common with so many other first-class directors, he virtually started his picture career on the Universal City lot. It was eighteen years ago that he went into pictures. He is one of the real veterans.

THRILL

MICHIGAN KID
RENEE
ADOREE
CONRAD
NAGEL
REX BEACH
A Laemmle Special

CARL LAEMMLE presents
RENEE ADOREE
AND CONRAD NAGEL

THE MICHIGAN KID
STARRING
RENEE
ADOREE
AND CONRAD
NAGEL
REX BEACH
AN IRVIN WILLAT production
A LAEMMLE SPECIAL

CARL LAEMMLE presents
RENEE ADOREE & CONRAD NAGEL in "The MICHIGAN KID"
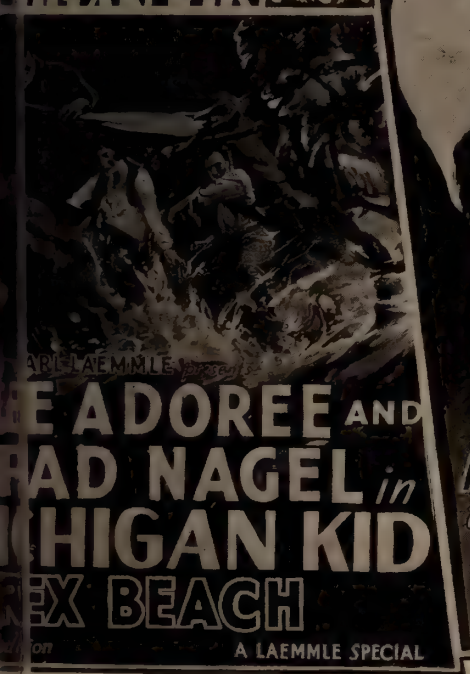
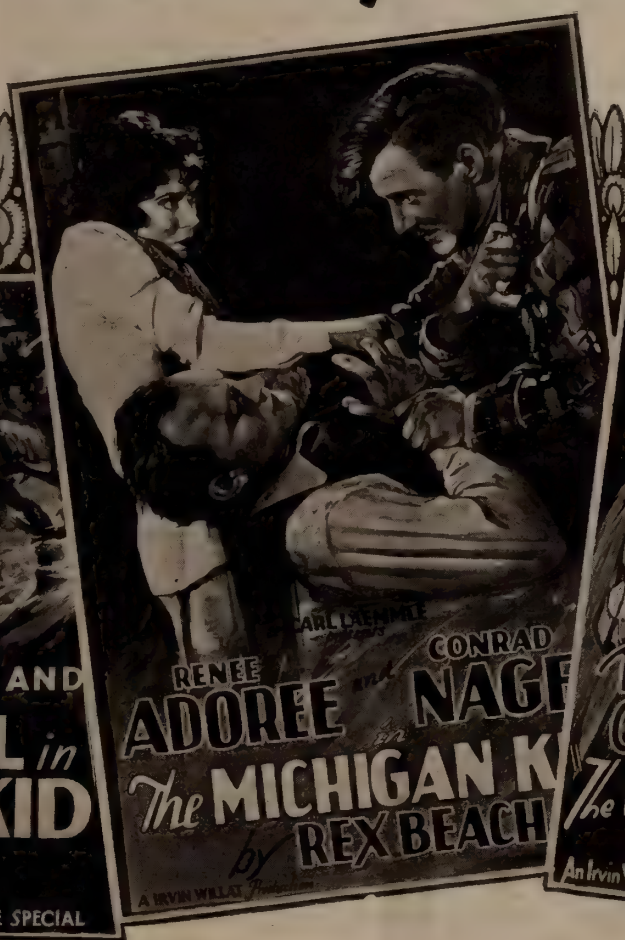
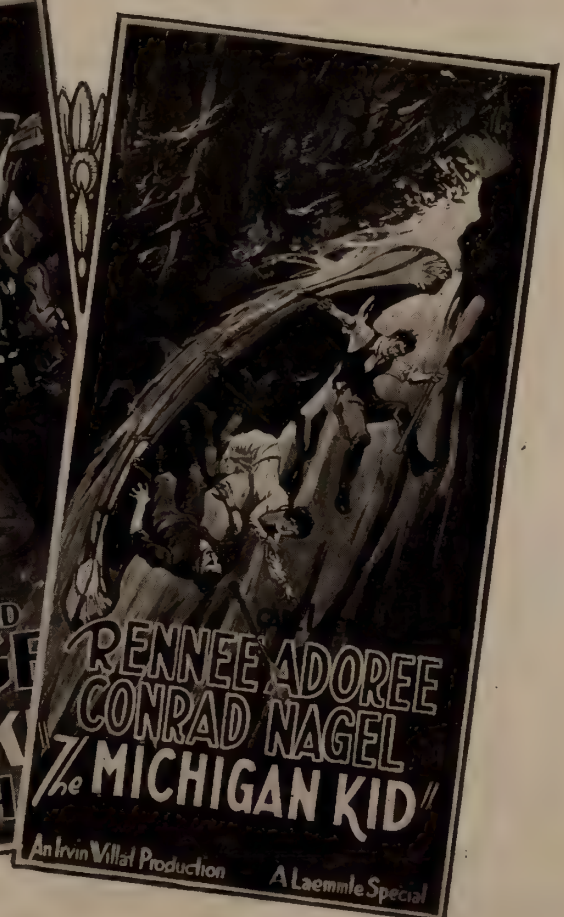
by REX BEACH
A LAEMMLE SPECIAL

POSTERS

for the greatest "thrill" picture since "The Storm"







"LONESOME" is Declared Exceptional Picture

Highest Designation in Its Power Given to Universal Special by Committee on Exceptional Photoplays — "Handicapped", First Laemmle Novelty, Shown on the Same Bill.

THE National Board of Review has declared "Lonesome" an Exceptional Picture through the action of its Committee on Exceptional Photoplays. This is the highest honor which can be paid to a film by the National Board of Review.

To signalize this honor, the National Board asked the Universal for the privilege of presenting "Lonesome" to the hundreds of interested men and women in and around New York City who support the work of the Committee through their personal efforts, money contributions and their intense interest in the betterment of motion pictures. More than seven hundred prominent New Yorkers from every walk of life witnessed this special showing of "Lonesome" on the evening of July 10th in the Intimate Theatre in the Engineering Society's Auditorium, 29 West 39th Street.

The showing was under the auspices of the Committee of Exceptional Photoplays and was preceded by a short talk from Alfred Kuttner, Review Secretary of the National Board of Review. The audience was specially invited as the guests of the Board and included leaders in the various professions and arts and members of the discriminating motion picture audience which the National Board of Review has built up over a period of years. In speaking of the occasion, Dr. Kuttner said:

"In selecting 'Lonesome' for its third invitation presentation of 1928, the National Board of Review is continuing a policy begun many years ago, under the auspices of its Committee on Exceptional Photoplays, of showing from time to time such films as are outstanding.

"These special showings of the National Board have made history in the progress of motion pictures toward a higher entertainment and artistic level.

"They constituted the first attempts in this country to distinguish the exceptional film and bring it to the attention of a public open-minded as to the possibilities of the screen and interested in tracing its actual achievements.

"They served to focus attention on the unusual film. The aim was, and is, steadily to increase public sentiment for the finer qualities to be found in screen entertainment and to provide a leadership in developing discriminating taste in pictures.

"You are invited tonight to help us gather an informed and authoritative appraisal of screen values as represented by the film presented. Our thought is to bring merited recognition to the cinema as it attempts a more individual method of expression. We believe that the critical appreciation and discernment of groups such as this will go far toward safeguarding the power and virtue of the screen and setting them in their proper light.

"It is a great mistake to suppose that the Exceptional Photoplays Committee isn't interested in pictures which have the possibilities of wide interest and success as well as those which are exceptional purely from the artistic standpoint. The National Board believes that a picture can have both a wide popular appeal and at the same time certain features which indicate the technique and imaginative growth of the motion picture art. Such a picture the Board feels 'Lonesome' to be, as it felt that 'The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari,' Charlie Chaplin's 'The Kid' and 'Passion' were and proved themselves to be."

Though the night was one of the hottest that New York experienced in its hottest spell of the year, every seat in the hall was filled and the reaction of the audience was spontaneous and would have delighted the heart of Dr. Fejos had he been there to witness it. At the end, it was accorded a burst of applause which is seldom if ever heard in the typical moving picture theatre, and one which was surprising, indeed, from an invited audience.

The music was supplied by Joseph Cherniavsky, musical director of Universal Pictures Corporation. On the same bill with "Lonesome" there was shown the first of the Laemmle single-reel Novelties, "Handicapped," written by Sam B. Jacobson and directed by Jacques Rollens. This also provoked genuine applause and interest.

"Lonesome" as a picture is an expression of the higher quality of production which Carl Laemmle has definitely set for himself and which the product of 1928-1929, already made and shown, has gone very far to demonstrate.

Carl Laemmle became thoroughly convinced that more artistic and more significant pictures could be made without in any way detracting from their popular appeal and understanding. His belief was thoroughly concurred in by Carl Laemmle, Jr., whose youthful enthusiasm is expressing itself in so many directions at Universal City.

It was Carl Laemmle, Jr., who persuaded his father to put Dr. Fejos under a long-term contract. It was he more than anyone else who was responsible for the way in which "Lonesome" was developed and translated to the screen. He saw in Fejos a genius who needed the encouragement and backing of a great moving picture company to give his advanced and artistic ideas the concrete and substantial setting which gave production value and commercial attractiveness to Fejos' idealism. The result was, as Carl Laemmle, Jr., expresses it, "art, but art for the masses."

So keen is Carl Laemmle, Jr., to have everything possible done to "Lonesome" which would tend to make it a perfect expression of art and box-office value that the studio has recalled the negative to Universal City, where it will be equipped not only with a full synchronization in Movietone, but will be given half a dozen talking sequences in important dramatic points, which will still further

(Continued on page 32)

FIRST RUNS WELCOME NOVELTY, "HANDICAPPED"

ROXY had the honor of showing the very first of the Laemmle Novelties, "Handicapped," at the Roxy Theatre beginning July 7, and both Roxy and his audiences were extremely pleased with it. In spite of the fact that the novelty of this Novelty might have been worn off somewhat by Roxy's showing, the National Board was glad to include it in its exceptional program when it paid its tribute to "Lonesome" on July 10th.

Its next triumph was at the El Capitan Theatre in San Francisco, where it was booked by manager Ackerman on sight. W. J. Heineman of the San Francisco exchange screened it for Mr. Ackerman the moment it came in, and it was booked for the following Saturday, July 4th.

"Handicapped" is the kind of picture that will meet a first-run reception everywhere it is shown, because it is first-run theatre material and because first-run picture material is none too plentiful.

What a Representative Southerner Thinks of "Uncle Tom's Cabin"

ALTHOUGH the Motion Pictures Times, one of the Associated Publications, Inc., and published in Dallas, Texas, doesn't make a practice of reviewing pictures, still its editor, V. W. Crisp, after seeing "Uncle Tom's Cabin," felt that his rule should be broken for this one time at least. Mr. Crisp reviewed "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Furthermore, he reviewed it as a southerner, a representative southerner in a representative southern city and in a representative widely circulated southern paper.

In addition to being a splendidly written article, Mr. Crisp's viewpoint and views are of interest to the entire screen. Mr. Laemmle has secured permission of Ben Shlyen, President of Associated Publications, Inc., to reproduce in the Universal Weekly this excerpt from the Motion Picture Times. Here it is:

Universal's "Uncle Tom" Should Live Forever

By V. W. Crisp

Bob McIlheran screened "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Tuesday. It was a bare screening in a bare projection room, but how it did go over with those to whom pictures are mere everyday trifles. As the scenes of Uncle Tom passed in view, one recalled the eternal "Birth of a Nation," and to say that the two films can be compared for likeness is indeed a tribute to the current production of Carl Laemmle.

In massiveness of production Griffith probably surpassed, although the snow scenes and the daring flight across the river of ice blocks, when Eliza struggles for the safety of her boy, are yet to be outdone. That is one place where your interior organs try to escape through your esophagus.

Emotion is There

There are so many points of intense emotion in the film that any audience will assume the angle of interest—that of leaning forward to the screen. The death of Eva will bleed a heart as big and strong as the Rock of Gibraltar. The scourges and death of Uncle Tom will bring the pity and fire the anger of the most loyal Southerner. It's too big a story to attempt justice in a review here. It is great. Performance of the characters of Uncle Tom, Topsy, Eva and Simon Legree will go down in film history.

Offensiveness is Gone

The Southern exhibitors only anticipation has been the book story of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," in itself obnoxious to the red blood of the South. But get this right, Universal has stayed reasonably within the story of the book and has woven a tragedy into the production that will offend nowhere. The film version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will provoke sympathy, it will flame the heart, it will soothe the mind and help to strengthen the brotherliness now moulding so tightly the South and North. Slavery was a grave evil. That is admitted. It is a joy that it is gone, but no film or any other medium will ever justify the means and the sorrowful desolation through which this evil was removed.

Yet this point has nothing to do with Universal's big film. Any exhibitor in the South can play it to big profits, without apology, and patrons will shake the hand of exhibitors who bring the picture to their towns. Among the cast will be found many well-known and popular players, including Margarita Fischer as Eliza; Arthur Edmund Carew as George Harris; James B. Lowe as Uncle Tom; Mona Ray as Topsy; Virginia Gray as Eva; George Seigmann as Simon Legree, and Gertrude Howard as Aunt Chloe.

Where Honor is Due

To Uncle Carl Laemmle we raise our hat in thanking him for this great production—one that will put money into the exhibitor's box office. To Harry Pollard, we extend our felicitations for his unadulterated skill in assembling and controlling these many units of production, and for building a story of action that will live forever.

SYNCHR PICTURES

Here are the first ten of the 18 pictures to be synchronized by Universal!

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN"

"THE COHENS AND KELLYS IN ATLANTIC CITY"

GLENN TRYON in
"THE LIFE OF THE PARTY"

LAURA LA PLANTE in
"THE LAST WARNING"

REGINALD DENNY in
"RED HOT SPEED"

"THE MAN WHO LAUGHS"

JEAN HERSHOLT and SALLY O'NEIL in
"The GIRL on the BARGE"

CHARLES ROGERS and MARIAN NIXON in
"RED LIPS"

NORMAN KERRY and PAULINE STARKE in
"MAN, WOMAN AND WIFE"

LAURA LA PLANTE in
"THAT BLONDE"

ONIZED ARE GREAT!

BUT

the only basis that spells success for big box office receipts for SYNCHRONIZED PICTURES is

GOOD PICTURES

and that's where

UNIVERSAL LEADS the Entire Field!

CAST OF "SHOW BOAT" IS NEARLY COMPLETE

Neely Edwards and Elise Bartlett Latest Additions to Universal Film

HARRY POLLARD yesterday announced the engagement of Neely Edwards to play the part of Schultzie, the stage manager of the show boat company in "Show Boat." At the same time it was announced that Elise Bartlett would play the role of Ellie, leading lady of the show boat company, and Harry Holden will play Mr. Means, the old character actor in the same company.

With these selections, the company which gave the performance on the show boat is at present made up as follows:

Leading man, Gaylord Ravenal.....Joseph Schildkraut
Ingenue, Magnolia.....Laura La Plante
Heavy woman, Julie.....Alma Rubens
Character man, Means.....Harry Holden
Leading woman, Ellie.....Elise Bartlett
Stage Manager, Schultzie.....Neely Edwards

Gertrude Howard, who was Aunt Chloe in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," has been chosen for the role of Queenie, the cook on the show boat.

Old Auto Exploits "Buggy Ride"

IN an age when last year's model is a bit outclassed each spring, a thirty - eight - year - old automobile attracts as much attention as a hooped skirt. When Laura La Plante's comedy, "Thanks for the Buggy Ride," played at the Keith-Albee Theatre in Boston, Samuel Grant, publicity director, got hold of a two-cylinder model with a speed of eighteen miles that proved to be an attention-catcher of the first water.

As the illustration above shows, the wheels of the car look more like those of a buggy than a motor car. The engine is in the rear of the car and the antiquity is cranked from the rear also. The sign on the front of the machine broadcast the playdate of the Universal film wherever the car went. An attractive girl to sit beside the much-begoggled driver lent the necessary human-interest touch and significance to the title of the picture.

The stunt proved exceedingly effective and drew a fine attendance.

This high-stepping 1890 model attracted a lot of attention in Boston when it was used to exploit "Thanks for the Buggy Ride" at the Keith-Albee Theatre.

Exceptional Cast For "Last Warning"

THREE rather exceptional players were yesterday signed by Paul Leni for bits in "The Last Warning" in support of Laura La Plante. Tom O'Brien and Fred Kelcey will play detectives and Harry Northrup was signed to play the coroner.

The cast is an exceptionally large one and the castings have been made with the utmost care, to have each actor exactly fit the role he is to undertake. It already includes Laura La Plante, John Boles, Roy D'Arcy, Mack Swain, Burr McIntosh, Bert Roach, Margaret Livingstone, Mme. Daumery, Slim Summerville, Montagu Love, D'Arcy Corrigan and Torben Meyer.

Work on "The Last Warning" is being pushed as rapidly as possible to permit Laura La Plante time to prepare herself for her big role of Magnolia in "Show Boat."

Duane Thompson Leads with Ted Wells

DUANE THOMPSON has been assigned the leading feminine role opposite Ted Wells in the Universal Western star's next picture, "Beauty and Bullets," now in production.

Ray Taylor is directing under the supervision of William Lord Wright.

Miss Thompson was recently placed under a long-term contract to Universal. Some of her recent roles have been played opposite William Cody in "The Price of Fear," "The Stool Pigeon" and "Midnight Mystery."

Harry Gribbon Signed For "The Shakedown"

HARRY GRIBBON, character actor, has been signed to play the bouncer in "The Shakedown," William Wyler's next directorial vehicle for Universal, according to an announcement by Carl Laemmle.

"The Shakedown" is the story of a boy's hero-worship for a boxer and how the kid's confidence in him helped the boxer go straight. The prize ring and the burlesque stage are backgrounds for the story, which is an original by Charles A. Logue, who also wrote the continuity.

James Murray will play the leading role in the picture, which will be made under the supervision of Harry Decker.

Milwaukee Paper Reviews 3 Universal Productions Before They Are Booked

Universal Newspaper Stunt Reintroduces "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "The Man Who Laughs" and "The Foreign Legion" to Milwaukee Audiences

By Nancy Lee

THERE is one Universal exchange which has such a drag with the daily newspapers that it is possible for it to secure reviews of forthcoming pictures in the papers before they are even set in the theatres where they are ultimately to play. This exchange is the Milwaukee exchange, which is under the management of George L. Levine. Ann McDonough, however, is the little person to whom credit for the securing of three reviews in the Sunday issue of the Milwaukee Journal is due. The pictures Mrs. McDonough showed to Nancy Lee were "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "The Man Who Laughs" and "The Foreign Legion," and this is what Nancy Lee said about them:

COMING to Milwaukee in time for early fall release will be a rip-roarin' melodrama of the kind you have not seen on such a lavish scale in some months of motion picture going—"Uncle Tom's Cabin," the great melodramatic classic.

This in itself should tend to make the wilted spectator revive, but there is another special production booked for early showing—Victor Hugo's "The Man Who Laughs." Each is notable for an entirely different set of reasons. Each will be equipped as a sound production. Then, of only slightly less importance, is a third picture, "The Foreign Legion," which can be rated as a pretty good program picture.

A short time ago we saw the above mentioned pictures at a pre-showing. Here's some dope on them:

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN"

Produced by Universal

The cast:

Eliza.....Margarita Fischer
George Harris
Arthur Edmund Carew
Uncle Tom.....James B. Lowe
Topsy.....Mona Ray
Eva.....Virginia Gray
Simon Legree.....George Siegmann
Aunt Ophelia.....Aileen Manning
Shelby.....Jack Mower
Mrs. Shelby.....Vivien Oakland
St. Clare.....John Roche
Mrs. St. Clare.....Gertrude Astor
Cassie.....Eulalie Jensen

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" is the darling of the troupers. It comes up—in one form or another — as annually as grass. Its ripe old age gets riper and riper. Probably a century or two from now it will be considered the typical melodrama of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

It's like the perpetual bedtime story where the child remarks: "But mama, when are you coming to the ogre part?" For the crossing of the ice by Eliza certainly has the importance of that. If mentioned casually, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is sure to draw the comment from someone, "Oh, yes, Eliza crossing the ice!"

The only change in the reception of the piece, so far as we can judge, is that "Uncle Tom" is not, in this modern age, treated with the dread seriousness it once provoked. When the wisecrackers got hold of it, some of the tears went out.

But getting down to brass tacks: The present production has been made with all modern available resources—sound, photography, lighting and sets—and it may justly be pronounced mechanically perfect. It is clear and smooth. Many of the scenes are taken on the Mississippi and they are all beautiful. Stern wheelers paddle up and down the river; white southern mansions are seen in the white sun; pickaninnies scramble around and there is a lazy, hazy atmosphere that undeniably belongs to the South.

And right into this pretty picture walks the most ferocious of all villains, Simon Legree. He is excellently portrayed by George Seigmann. Leering, brutal, quick on the whip, possessed of maniacal fury and the simplest of superstitions, Legree is indeed a choice morsel of the theater. He has a pair of eyes which, when you see them in a close-up, will tell you instantly that here indeed is a super-villain.

The cast has been chosen rather well. Little Eva is quite as the book has her, but Topsy looks too old for her role. She is rather clever about it, nevertheless. Margarita Fischer, who as Eliza supplies most of the romance and the melodrama, acts as naturally as it is possible for anyone to act with all that weighty tradition behind her.

Then there is Uncle Tom himself. His role is one of the most natural and casual in the picture. The negro actor who takes his part must also have felt the tradition behind him, but in a far less artificial manner than that of Miss Fischer.

The ice scene is very well done. Eliza whirls down the ice with her cloak flapping and her child clutched in her arms. The water seethes and rushes and just before the torrent goes over the falls, Eliza is rescued by a Quaker on the opposite bank—the bloodhounds yapping across the way. The rescue might possibly arouse incredulity. The Quaker, hanging face downward over the roaring current with his feet wrapped around a limb of the tree catches Eliza by the hands. Just how the three manage to extricate themselves from this position is left unexplained by a fade-out.

Toward the end soldiers march in a photographic background through the picture as a symbol. But they emerge from their misty background to be used in the climax. This extra book touch is effective.

However you look at it, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is decidedly worth your time. It is a treat of melodramas.

(Continued on page 32)

The New Pictures

'Uncle Tom' and 'The Man Who Laughs' Are Specials; 'Foreign Legion' a Program Film

CARL LAEMML

NORMAN KERRY A

The FOREIG

With MARY NOLAN AND JUNE MA

From the story "The Red Mirage" by I. A. R. Wylie

AN EDWARD SLOMAN PRODUCTION

A LAEMMLE SUPER PRODUCTION

'U' PICTURE TOPS B'WAY RECEIPTS AT ROXY RUN

First-run pictures had a fair week on Broadway, ending on Saturday. The Fox organization refused to issue any figures for its Broadway houses.

The Roxy topped all the rest with $90,000, with "The Foreign Legion," Universal picture. The

DAILY REVIEW EXHIBITORS

Hate, Passion
Soldiers and Strife with th most famous military organization in the worl

It topped Broadway receipts at the ROXY THEATRE where it had its premier and topped the previous week's receipts at the ROXY by more than $20,000.00. That's going some!

But the FOREIGN LEGION is so big in theme, cast, direction and audience appeal that Carl Laemmle selected for it a brand new name all its own.

It is a Laemmle Golden Special - - and it is a surefire golden bonanza for every exhibitor who plays it!

HOOT GIBSON

and his crew of thrilling

Devil Riders

in the new product western

"CLEARING THE TRAIL"

Olympic Teams Train On Universal Pictures

The President Roosevelt of the U. S. Lines with the Olympic Teams and Universal Pictures.

WHEN the President Roosevelt of the United States Lines sailed out of New York harbor on July 11th for Amsterdam, she carried the entire contingent of the American Olympic Teams with her. The United States Lines had fitted up this splendid vessel with all of the conveniences and necessities for athletic exercises which the teams demand to keep in training.

But the most important of these conveniences and necessities was a commodious and comfortably fitted up projection theatre and plenty of first-class Universal pictures to run in the projecting machines. During the War, the United States Government learned the lesson that human beings, particularly under stress and strain, absolutely require relaxation and the opportunity of forgetting themselves in the pleasant or exciting make-believe of moving pictures . They realized that the troops in th front line trenches needed this relatation most of all.On the same hypothesis, the United States Lines and the Olympic Committee agreed that moving picture relaxation was of primary importance in keeping our athletes on edge for the Olympic battles ahead of them.

Martin Petry of the United States Lines, and Herman Stern of the Big U Exchange collaborated in picking out a program of pictures which would have a splendid psychological effect on the teams and also satisfy its mixed component elements, since a third of the contestants are women.

The pictures chosen were "The Count of Ten," starring Charles Ray, a prize-fight story, and "Love Me and the World Is Mine," starring Mary Philbin and Norman Kerry, a romance of the world war. Since "The Collegians" are athletic in almost all of their chapters, two episodes of "Collegians" were included, as well as a "Newlyweds and Their Baby" comedy with Snookums.

Universal Films Booked for Rancocas Racing Stables

THE Big U Exchange is constantly finding unusual and non-competitive spots in which to place Universal pictures. Herman Stern of the Big U yesterday made an unusual booking at Red Bank. This was with the Rancocas Stables, owned and operated by Harry F. Sinclair, just outside of Red Bank, N. J.

The films are booked by the management and with the purpose of giving entertainment and relaxation to the boys, without the danger of their overstaying their training hours by going into the cities for less wholesome amusement. The contract was signed by Mark Fator, brother of the famous jockey, LaVerne Fator, and pro-

(Continued on next page)

Selected as Captain Andy

Otis Harlan, in the character of the tug boat captain, in Mary Philbin's picture "Forbidden Son," who has been chosen by Harry Pollard as the Capt. Andy of "Show Boat."

UNIVERSAL FILM BOOKED FOR RANCOCAS RACING STABLES

(Continued from preceding page.)

vides for the showing of pictures on Wednesday and Saturday nights in a specially fitted up community room of the Rancocas Stables.

The contract begins the last week in July and extends for ten weeks or through the racing season. At each showing there will be a feature picture, a serial and a comedy and a news reel. The serials will alternate on Wednesday and Saturday,—"Blake of Scotland Yard," starting on Wednesday, and "Trail of the Tiger" on Saturday.

There are more than twenty jockeys and two or three times as many stable boys and attendants who will provide the audience for these Universal pictures.

Universal Chooses Philbin Film Title

"NO PLACE TO LOVE" has been selected as the title for a forthcoming Mary Philbin starring vehicle, according to an announcement by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation.

"No Place to Love" is an original story now being written by Will Chappel, screen author, and will probably be directed by Wesley Ruggles.

¶ Every picture Glenn Tryon has made for Universal has been a sure money picture for every exhibitor who has played it!

¶ Every picture Glenn Tryon has made for Universal has added to his "fan" popularity.

¶ Book Glenn Tryon in the four pictures listed above for 4 SUREFIRE dates this year!

Universal Synopses

"ROPIN' ROMANCE"

Western Featurette

Featuring Newton House

YOUNG Bobby Warren and his sister, Mary, in quest of a new home in the great Southwest discovered a deserted cabin and took possession.

With the aid of "Silent Bill", a young settler, who befriended them set up housekeeping, unconscious that a notorious gang of train robbers used the cabin as a cache.

Discovering that the cabin is occupied Bart Wilson and his gang determine to drive the squatters off. When Bobby starts for the post for grub they descend upon Mary and order her off the premises.

Meanwhile other members of the gang had pursued Bobby, fortunately Bill came to his rescue and, fearing cabin. A terrible fight with the gang Mary's safety, they returned to the followed. The situation looked desperate until Bobby cleverly made his escape and brought aid from the post. With the gang apprehended the Warrens were left unmolested and a romance soon developed between Mary and Silent Bill.

"THE SCARLET ARROW"

Adventure Picture

Featuring Francis X. Bushman, Jr.

No. 9—"Guardians of the North"

BOB and Kathleen are captured at the river ford. The troopers take Bob to headquarters for identification, while Masterton, claiming guardianship over Kathleen, takes her away secretly to a lonely mountain cabin where he tells her she will be detained because she knows too much of his sinister dealings.

Meantime, Casey has convinced Fay that Bob and he are her friends and that he loves her. She realizes her love for him and is dismayed when Brodsky and his men on their way back to loot the Indian cave of its gold suddenly surround and capture Casey. Fay realizes she must continue her role as a member of the gang, planning to trick Brodsky and help Casey escape. She accompanies Casey to Brodsky's cabin where he is placed under guard, Brodsky continuing on his way to the Indian cave where he and the gang are captured by Bob.

The hermit has trailed Masterton and Kathleen to the cabin and hearing Masterton plotting to loot the Indian cave, follows him. Catching him in ambush, he drags Masterton from his horse, but during the fight the hermit loses his footing and plunges over a steep cliff where he is found by Casey and Fay.

As Bob is marching his prisoners to headquarters he is ambushed by Masterton and forced to release them under the threat that Kathleen is in peril and will never be seen again. Bob complies and is himself tied to a tree while Masterton hurries back with the gang to get Kathleen and make his escape. Bob is found by two troopers and with them he sets out in chase of the gang.

Kathleen, who now has possession of half the torn treasure map given her as useless by Masterton, tricks the old woman left guarding her and locks her in a closet. But as she dashes from the cabin she is surrounded by Masterton and the gang.

"THE NEWLYWEDS' HAPPY DAY"

Junior Jewel

"Newlyweds and Their Baby" Series

WHILE they are on a camping trip, Snookums and his Dad are chased by a bear and the Newlyweds decide to return home immediately. They have no sooner reached there than they receive a telegram announcing the arrival of Snookums' wealthy grandfather.

The Newlyweds, with an eye to the future, make elaborate plans to entertain the old gentleman. Snookums has a grand time at the expense of the assembled relatives, who depart much annoyed.

Mrs. Newlyweds' tears over Snookums bad behavior are quickly turned to smiles when she discovers that father-in-law is so tickled with Snookums' antics that he declares him his sole heir.

"McGINIS vs. JONES"

Stern Bros. Comedy

Keeping Up With the Joneses

MA McGINIS feels she has arrived socially when a golf match between Pa and Mr. Jones is scheduled at the club. What Pa don't know about golf doesn't matter for Bella Donna, who acts as caddy, and Ma gives him a helping hand at every opportunity.

Before the match is over Pa is so weary that Bella Donna wheels him from shot to shot in a wheel barrow. Things look bad on the 18th hole until, by a fluke, Pa makes it in one flat and establishes himself as the winner.

"THE SCARLET ARROW"

Adventure Picture

Featuring Francis X. Bushman, Jr.

No. 10—"Held by the Law"

TRAPPED as she is, attempting escape, Kathleen is told by Masterton that he intends taking her over the border where Brodsky as her husband will know how to tame her. But Masterton's plans are upset by Bob and the troopers who have hotly pursued the fur robbers to the hut.

Kathleen, realizing rescue is at hand, flees into another room while the old woman of the hut shows Masterton, Brodsky and henchmen a secret floor trap leading into the cellar and thence thru a passage out to the nearby hillside.

Kathleen and Bob are re-united just as Casey and Fay bring in the totally injured hermit. With his dying breath, the hermit reveals that he is Kathleen's own father and that the real treasure hoard lies under the altar of the Indian cave.

Masterton, outside has doubled back to the hut and spied—thus overhearing. He finds his horse and dashes for the cave. But Brodsky seeing this pursues him. Bob sees the horsemen surging by and with Kathleen and the troopers gives chase. A thrilling dash for the cave ensues, Masterton reaching it first.

He discovers the hidden treasure chest but is overtaken by Brodsky. In a terrible fight between them Masterton shoots Brodsky and escapes just as Bob and the troopers surge in. Mortally wounded Brodsky confesses that Masterton is the man behind the fur thefts. A spectacular race takes place between Bob and Masterton, Kathleen trailing. Bob finally bulldogs Masterton from his horse and as the two men battle on a narrow ledge below Bob snaps the handcuffs on his quarry. In due course, Bob and Kathleen are happily married.

"THE KING OF SHEBAS"

Snappy Comedy

ARTHUR took Mary for a spin in the flivver and felt like the world's best until Billy Fox pulled up along side and threatened to cramp his style. Arthur, however, managed to get Mary away. Billy followed in hot pursuit—and so did a motor cop.

It was Arthur's luck, for he shook the cop and got Mary to promise to elope.

All went well until, as Mary was climbing out the window, the respective fathers happened on the scene. Mary was marched into the house and Arthur to the woodshed.

Billy, meantime, got into a mix-up with the motor cop's daughter which nearly landed him in jail.

When Billy and Arthur compared notes they decided to be off of women.

Baron Holds Laemmle Week

USUALLY it is the releasing com anies which think up sales angles and distribution plans for the exhibitor. Now comes an exhibitor who thought one up for himself. Not only did he make money with it, but he has written a letter to Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, which registers better than any other words the success of the plan he himself suggested.

This plan was a Carl Laemmle week and was to consist of the showing of pictures which have been outstanding in the past life of the Universal company. When this exhibitor, Samuel Baron, suggested it first to Earl Kramer, manager of the Big U, Mr. Kramer told him he thought it was a splendid idea and that he would do everything in his power to get prints of the subjects he wanted, for the unique showing at the St. George Playhouse, 100 Pineapple Street, Brooklyn. This is a particularly fashionable neighborhood, being ar und the corner from the Hotel St. George. The subjects the exhibitor wanted were "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," "Blind Husbands," "The Last Laugh," "Merry Go Round," "Painting the Town" and "Skinner's Dress Suit."

Here is Mr. Baron's letter to Mr. Laemmle:

"Quite naturally you will be interested to know the outcome of my Carl Laemmle Week. Since it was my own suggestion, I am also very glad to tell you how successful it was to me and interesting to my patrons. Naturally, I think it is a good idea, since I suggested it, but if it had not been a big success, I would be the first to admit it.

"Permit me to cite why I feel that films produced years ago and accredited to be masterpieces, after thousands of pictures put before the public, still retain and improve in quality—because by comparison they shine.

"It is only fitting and proper that I should select Universal as a medium for a week of 'revival films,' for it is common knowledge that under your supervision Universal has produced some of the most outstanding pictures.

"My revival policy consisted of 'The Hunchback of Notre Dame,' 'Blind Husbands,' 'The Last Laugh,' 'Merry Go Round,' 'Painting the Town' and 'Skinner's Dress Suit'."

FOUR-PERIOD WARDROBE MADE FOR "SHOW BOAT"

A WARDROBE including costumes of four different periods, ranging from 1885 to the present, had to be assembled for "Show Boat," Universal's production of Edna Ferber's world-known novel.

The garment list which Director Harry Pollard gave to Johanna Mathieson, head of Universal's wardrobe department, was one of the most difficult to fill in screen history, according to the wardrobe mistress.

"This is among the few pictures ever made that required costumes of four different periods," said Miss Mathieson. "There are pictures that need two, and sometimes three, but rarely four."

When Edna Ferber was writing her famous novel from which the film is adapted, she could not be accused of planning it with an eye to the screen rights. She made it about as difficult as any book has ever been to transfer into a motion picture. Pollard is now faced with the job of making this great story, which extends through three generations, into the picture.

The costume periods needed will be that of 1885, 1896, 1901 to 1905, and the present.

"During the forty or more years covered by the story many changes took place in the American style of dress," Miss Mathieson said.

"In the middle-eighties women went in strongly for bustles and wide-shouldered dresses. About 1896 the 'leg o' mutton' sleeves were the keynote for style. This was accompanied by the 'hour glass' waist. Around 1901 to 1905 came the regime of the Gibson girl. She wore a flowing princess dress, with a wide ruffled skirt. Soft pompadours and curls went with this ensemble.

"From that time to the present the change has been revolutionary. There is very little left of the former styles in modern dresses. With the modern costumes we had no trouble, of course. But I had to spend over three weeks of research before I was able to start desinging the rest of the costumes," she concluded.

Leslie Fenton Is Cast In "The Play Goes On"

LESLIE FENTON, youthful character actor, has been signed to to play the dramatic role of Buffo in "The Play Goes On," according to an announcement by Carl Laemmle, Jr., who will personally supervise the production, which is to star Conrad Veidt.

Fenton, in spite of his youth, has given a number of great character portrayals to both the stage and screen. His stage role of the boy in "An American Tragedy" is especially remembered, and under the direction of Fejos, director of "Lonesome," he is expected to add to his laurels.

The original story and continuity of "The Play Goes On" were written by James A. Creelman.

Hungarian Author is Signed by Universal

COINCIDENT with Universal's purchase of "Spring Shower," an unusual original screen story for Mary Philbin, the author, Ilona Fulop, has been placed under a long-term contract, according to an announcement by President Carl Laemmle.

Her first assignment is the preparing of the continuity of her own story.

Miss Fulop is a noted Hungarian writer, having written two novels in book form, twelve novels which were serialized in newspapers and magazines and has had more than 500 short stories published.

She was born in Szabadka, Hungary, and came to America ten years ago, carrying on her writing in New York.

She went to Hollywood two years ago and recently entered motion picture work, her latest effort being the scenario on "Good Time Charlie."

Ted Wells Finishes "Beauty and Bullets"

"BEAUTY AND BULLETS," starring Ted Wells under direction of Ray Taylor, has been completed by Universal, according to an announcement from the studio.

Val Cleveland and Vin Moore wrote the story and continuity and George Plympton the adaption.

The cast of the production, which was supervised by William Lord Wright, includes Jack Kenney, Wilbur Mack, Dad Leonard and Alpha Orba.

YOU CAN COUNT ON DENNY

AGAIN THIS YEAR BECAUSE

DENNY ALWAYS DELIVERS!

Book every DENNY picture this year and take advantage of his magic box office name!

Commends "Tarzan the Mighty"

"Tarzan the Mighty" Production Values Lifted to Par of Features, Says Editor Wilkerson.

WHEN William Wilkerson took over by purchase the Exhibitors Daily Review, he started in the trade paper field with an experience such as very few trade paper owners and editors have enjoyed. Mr. Wilkerson has had the advantage of occupation in many branches of the industry, like film selling, the management of exchanges, the actual production of moving pictures, and a knowledge of studio work and problems from the inside.

Last week he saw the first three episodes of "Tarzan the Mighty" for the first time. As a film salesman, a theatre manager and an exchange man, he saw the serial from a practical viewpoint. As an editor, he tells you about it in the Wednesday, July 18th issue, in his own column, headed "Observations." Editor Wilkerson has permitted us to reproduce this comment, and it is herewith reprinted.

OBSERVATIONS

Chapter Plays

When we used to sell them they were known as "serials." Now they have gotten a bit high-hat and are called chapter plays and until yesterday, "by any other name . . .". You know the rest.

Different

Paul Gulick, the genial p.a. of Universal, invited us to a showing of the first three episodes of "Tarzan The Mighty," Universal's new chapter play. We were greatly surprised. This one is different and is going to have a wide appeal, in that it is going to create a new audience for this type of entertainment.

The Change

Someone around the "U" office evidently had a bright idea. Figured that serials (beg pardon) "chapter plays" were getting to be known as strictly an entertainment for kids. Exhibitors were booking them for Saturday's and playing them only at matinees. Something had to be done. And they have done it.

Story

They have taken a story that is plausible, given it excellent direction and a superb cast. But the big kick of the chapters we saw were furnished by the animals. Real actors and have a very important bearing on the story. Animals are always interesting. These more than ever.

Adults

Adults will go for this one with more interest (if possible) than the kids. They will not have to stretch their imagination to be entertained nor will they snicker at the impossibility of the story or situations. The production values have lifted to the par of feature productions in that the sets and the camera work are superb. Exhibitors would do well to look at this one before booking it. They will forget about the "for matinees only" and run it all day and maybe more.

WILKERSON.

READ 'EM AND REAP!

There Are Profits for Exhibitors in Universal Pictures That Bring Such Letters as These to Carl Laemmle

"Hot Heels" Grabs Laughs

"SATURDAY I had the pleasure of seeing my favorites, Glenn Tryon and Patsy Ruth Miller, in 'Hot Heels.' It was just full of big scenes—the one at the opera house, the the hotel, then at the boatside and in the salon, and, at last, the big race. 'Hot Heels' just tumbles along, grabbing the laughs, where 'Thanks for the Buggy Ride' grabbed the giggles. Glenn Tryon is absolutely the most amusing 'eccentric dancer' in captivity, and he deserves his picture in the Kellogg Pep ads. 'No Misfits With A Tryon'!"

—D. W. Brown, Plymouth, Mass.

"Good Morn'g, Judge" Is Simply Great

"I SAW 'Good Morning, Judge' at the Liberty Theatre Saturday. Think it great. Denny is one of my favorites. Miss Mary Nolan is a beautiful girl and did fine acting. Dorothy Gulliver was excellent. The Judge was human enough to get even by giving the boy $100 fine. When Miss Hanington's secretary told Freddy Gray (John D. Smith) to take a shower bath, that he may as well get used to it—that was the limit! He did not know that the poor boy had been used to them and that he lied like a prince. Then Miss Hanington told Miss Gray that the boy had never had a chance: that the family was all crooks. That was rich."

—J. E. Glyn, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Fine Fight Scenes In "Count of Ten"

"'THE COUNT OF TEN' is a great picture. The entire cast headed by Charles Ray gave a great performance. Mr. Ray has a great chance to display his great ability, and he does. The fight scenes are handled great. In fact, they look so real that one wonders how the actors survived the punishment. The story is something new on the screen, and Universal once more is first with the latest."

—Duncan Boss. Paterson, N. J.

"MAN WHO LAUGHS" IS GREATEST FILM IN SEVERAL YEARS

"LAST evening I had the great pleasure of witnessing 'The Man Who Laughs.' Seated next to me was Mr. A. G. Young, the eminent publisher of 'Publisher and Editor.' Together we studied the merits of this stupendous production which you flashed before us on the screen. There was pathos in this film — heartrending stirring of the human emotions. Doctor, lawyer, banker and critic felt it —there was no gainsay to the unutterable dramatic portrayal of the Laughing Mountebank by the master actor Conrad Veidt.

"In my opinion, 'The Man Who Laughs' is the greatest screen play and the most outstanding I have seen for several years. The gross Hollywood humor was happily missing. I shall not hesitate to recommend this picture to anyone."

—H. Howard Kafka, New York City.

"We Americans" Touches Boy

"THIS evening has been one of very great enjoyment to me—not that gained from humorous entertainment, but that enjoyment, special and very satisfying, which results from, perhaps, art, a good book, or, as it did for me tonight, from sympathetic acting and direction, and a simple and oh, so human story, deftly handled.

"I am a boy, eighteen soon, and as I sat through 'We Americans' tonight, I, who thought I had perfected for myself an impeccable philosophy (and very sophisticated) of emotions, found myself wiping my eyes and wondering whether I should be amused, ashamed or angry because I found it necessary to do so. I have, I suppose, a rather impossible but sincere request. I wish you could tell them all for me how fine they were and how much I enjoyed them."

—Robert Offergeld, Bay City, Mich.

Hoot Gibson's Best Has Everything

"'THE WILD WEST SHOW' is the best Hoot Gibson Western. It contains humor, love, good direction and wonderful scenery. The 'running shots' of Hoot Gibson riding are scenes that, if the picture had been made in Europe, the critics would be raving about the camera angles, etc. The episode of the cross-eyed knife thrower was great."

—Duncan Boss, Paterson, N. J.

Laura La Plante A Laugh Riot

"'THANKS FOR THE BUGGY RIDE' was an awfully good picture. I love to see people sing in that comically solemn way. Laura La Plante was a perfect riot in black face. She looked just like a grown-up Topsy. Glenn Tryon is a good actor, not just a funny one. He's believable when he's 'Smarty,' but more likable otherwise."

—Eleanor Merriam, Chicago, Ill.

"Good Morn'g Judge" Sets New Comedy Pace

"THE 'Ace of Comedians'—everyone knows this means Reginald Denny—is in town again—this time in his latest, 'Good Morning, Judge.'

"This picture is a laugh riot from beginning to end; Miss Nolan, the marvelous blonde, is on the verge of switching it to drama; but what person lives that could look at Denny, much less Otis Harlan, and keep a straight face. This pair of clowns will make a sphinx laugh out loud.

"'Good Morning, Judge' has given us a new plane for comedies, which I am afraid will be hard to reach. There have always been pictures with the philanthropic theme, but none with such 'gags' and new ideas as you spring on us this time. The titles, too, are great, the audience was in an uproar so much that it was impossible to hear the good music accompanying the picture. I want to say, honest and sincerely, that this is the best, cleanest and most novel comedy that you have given us to date. More of them, please."

—Thornton T. Fridell, Seattle, Washington.

Milwaukee Paper Reviews 3 Universal Productions Before They Are Booked

(Continued from page 23)

"THE MAN WHO LAUGHS"
Produced by Universal

Gwynplaine (The man who laughs) Conrad Veidt
Dea ..... Mary Philbin
Barkilphedro ..... Brandon Hurst
Duchess Josiana ..... Olga Baclanova
Ursus ..... Cesare Gravina

One sits in grim appreciation through this treatment of Victor Hugo's story and marvels at the acting of Conrad Veidt. He out-Chaneys Chaney. The grin which he holds upon his face by muscle power alone is at once a fascinating and fearful thing. In a normal sense, his mouth has no expression at all. It is all the more remarkable that Veidt can express the shades of feeling with his eyes, forehead and hands. Veidt gives a remarkable performance.

It is a story of the reign of Queen Anne and James II. Brutality and wanton cruelty were at their heights. And so it happened that because the king was angered, the son of one of his subjects was given to the Compraccicos. These strange people made their living by kidnaping children and so changing their features by surgery that they became unrecognizable.

Gwynplaine suffers this fate. Then he is cast off and allowed to wander in a storm. He comes upon a blind baby and takes her, as it chances, to the cabin of old Ursus the philosopher. A few years later, Ursus runs a traveling circus. Gwynplaine is the great attraction in it while Dea (Miss Philbin) is one of the players.

Circumstances make known Gwynplaine's birth and he goes to court, and the house of peers. Wherever he goes, people are moved to tremendous riot by his comical face.

He meets the errant duchess of the court (Baclanova), but she only drives him at last to the waiting arms of Dea.

Paul Leni, the director, has done an outstanding piece of work. He is intelligent, skillful and knows how to get the best results from his actors. All praise to him.

"The Man Who Laughs" abounds in incident. All sorts of queer characters and faces peer at you from the camera. They stay but a minute, yet establish the fact perhaps that Compraccicos treat their wives rudely; that in a circus where the audience roars its delight someone may be moved to pity by the antics of the performers; that in medieval days the more cruel the superiors the more cruel their henchmen.

One of the surprising things about the picture is the definite atmosphere that seeps from it. You can't avoid it any more than you can your tax bill. It hits you straight in the face. Compounded in it are fear, horror, fascination, pathos, pity, desire for revenge and a great impulse to see the thing through to the end.

For "The Man Who Laughs" contains the Victor Hugo elements of tragedy. The story has been admirably turned to the screen.

Growing on another bush entirely is "The Foreign Legion." As might be supposed at first, the film is not a saga of the Legion itself. Rather it is the story of one man's contact with it.

He (Kerry) did some fibbing in London to save the honor of the girl he loves. The girl is already married and it's her husband who is the villain. Feeling himself disgraced in the eyes of society he joins up with the Legion, not knowing that his father, whom he has never seen, is in charge of one regiment.

The girl (Mary Nolan) goes to Africa, where her husband also becomes a member of the Legion. The drama is heavy and fast now. Only the little sister (June Marlowe) knows that the hero is true and straight. She saves things at the last moment, but not before the father (Lewis Stone) must sentence his own son to death for some insubordination or other out in the desert. Stone's performance is memorable.

The story moves quickly and interestingly. Kerry is good. Africa has been duplicated beautifully. A sandstorm on the desert is one of the high spots.

This picture is worth a trip from wherever you are to wherever it is showing.

"Lonesome" Declared Exceptional

(Continued from page 18)

heighten its dramatic climaxes. Fortunately, the two principal players, Glenn Tryon and Barbara Kent, have excellent screen voices, if that term may be used. Tryon for some years before going into screen work was playing in stock, vaudeville and touring companies and is thoroughly at home in the new talking medium. Barbara Kent has had no experience of the stage, but she has a splendid and cultivated singing voice.

Tom Reed, the first Universal title writer to utilize his talents in devising talking dialogue for pictures, is already hard at work on the title episodes of "Lonesome." He wrote the titles for the production and has the new sequences very nearly completed. Fejos will undoubtedly direct them before he starts on the Conrad Veidt vehicle, "The Play Goes On," which also will be developed as a talking picture.

One of the impressive features of "Lonesome" is an entirely new three-color device which is used in the sequences in Coney Island. It is particularly expressive to denote the lapse of time while the boy and girl are so interested in each other that they fail to notice the approach of night, while they are on the beach, and this transition from daylight to night, with its brilliantly illuminated pleasure palaces, flashing lights and multi-colored advertising signs, is most artistically depicted by this new colored process.

Another outstanding feature of "Lonesome" is the opportunity it gives to Glenn Tryon to prove his thorough histrionic ability. So far, Universal pictures have only expressed his comic side, but in "Lonesome" he will be revealed to his public as an actor of surprising depth and feeling.

Universal Chain Theatres Spend Half Million on Sound Devices

(Continued from page 14)

with sound pictures, these being the Kenosha Theatre, Kenosha, Wisconsin; the Capitol Theatre, Grand Island, Nebraska, and the Broadway Theatre, Santa Ana, California. These houses are equipped for Vitaphone and Moviephone presentations.

Location of the houses selected for the installation of Vitaphone and Movietone equipment will be announced shortly. H. M. Messiter, assistant to Mr. Paine, is now arranging for the buying and booking of sound and "Talkie" entertainment for the theatres which will get the new equipment. This equipment will be available for both Vitaphone and Movietone reproduction. Installation will proceed immediately.

Edmund Cobb Film Complete at "U"

THE completion of "The Boundary Battle," an Edmund Cobb starring production under direction of Joseph Levigard, has been announced by Universal. The picture was one of the Forest Ranger series, based on the life of the men in the United States Forestry Service.

Lillian Gilmore appears in the feminine lead with David Dunbar and Clark Comstock in the cast. William Lord Wright supervised production.

—LISTEN BROTHER!

The only buy in this industry as good as a UNIVERSAL COMPLETE SERVICE CONTRACT is another UNIVERSAL COMPLETE SERVICE CONTRACT! More than 12,500 Complete Service Contracts have already been signed. That's evidence that is evidence.

Better than a Circus Parade!

The selling value of Carl Laemmle's weekly column in the Saturday Evening Post outlasts that of a dozen circus parades.

It goes straight to the homes of more than 15,000,000 movie fans all over the country.

It is a DIRECT MESSAGE TO THE FAN FROM EVERY UNIVERSAL EXHIBITOR that the best movie entertainment in the world may be found at his theatre.

Watch This Column

Our Weekly Chat

MORE than ever I am convinced that moving-picture patrons should co-operate with their favorite neighborhood theatres and tell the managers what pictures they would like to see. One is just as deeply interested as the other, and far from resenting requests and suggestions, the managers will be delighted to receive them. If, for example, you desire to see Universal's spectacular production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," or Victor Hugo's "The Man Who Laughs," "Show Boat," "Broadway," or "Lonesome," just mention it by telephone or post-card to the manager of your favorite theatre. And just now is the time to do it. Theatres all over the land are making their bookings for Fall. Help them. And incidentally help yourselves. — C. L.

All of you who have read the "Tarzan" stories, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, will be pleased to know that Universal has one of these tales of jungle life in work, starring FRANK MERRILL and that charming young actress NATALIE KINGSTON. Lovers of the "Tarzan" stories are numbered by the thousands and in producing "Tarzan the Mighty" we are responding to a popular request from the readers of this column. "Tarzan the Mighty" is an original serial produced by Universal by special arrangement with Edgar Rice Burroughs, author of "Tarzan of the Apes," "The Cave Girl" and other stories.

Natalie Kingston

I have received so many requests from picture-fans for HOOT GIBSON pictures that I have issued orders to secure for this most popular of all the screen-cowboys the very best stories available—stories that are out of the beaten path. One of them is entitled "Clearing the Trail," it is one of the best West- ... of recent years and ... is supported ... HY GUL- ... cast of ... Eason ... himself ... credit in the popularity ... ing by leaps and ... will add many admirers when his pictures for the coming season are shown. MR. DENNY assisted the story committee in the choice of material for his new pictures and he is tickled pink with the selections made.

Write to me for a list of the forthcoming releases of Universal—there are many surprises in store for you. Meantime keep in mind "The Man Who Laughs," with CONRAD VEIDT and MARY PHILBIN, "Lonesome," that exceptional picture produced by Dr. Fejos in which there are two in the cast, yet thousands who take part. GLENN TRYON and BARBARA ... performances will delight you

Reginald Denny

Laemmle, President

The column at the right will appear in the July 28, 1928, issue of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

Are you one of the 10,327 exhibitors who are profiting by this great campaign?

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
VOL. 28, NO. 13 NOV. 3, 1928

Laura La Plante

in Universal's Greatest Production

"SHOWBOAT"

DIRECTED BY HARRY POLLARD

What do you think when you see these three words on the screen:

"CARL LAEMMLE Presents——"

When Carl Laemmle authorizes the use of these words—this is what it means to you and to every other Exhibitor:

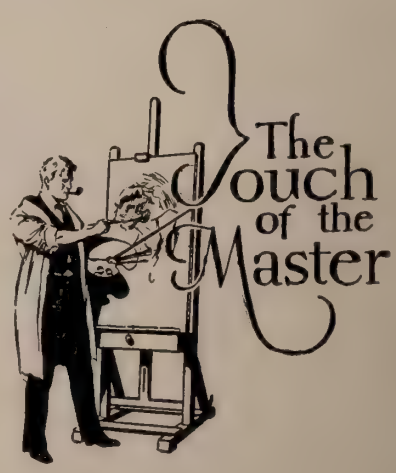
It means here is a picture that from opening frame to final fade-out represents loving care all along the line. It means that the most thoughtful consideration has been given the selection of the story. It means that the development of that story has been done by the finest collection of Motion Picture brains that money and the persuasive personality of Carl Laemmle himself could attract to the Universal Organization.

It means that the Directing, the Acting, the physical make-up of the Scenes and Settings, the selection of authentic properties, the Costuming, the Camera-work, the Editing and the Titling are all in the hands of men and women whom Carl Laemmle, through his twenty-two years of Experience, has selected as being the best obtainable.

These words, "CARL LAEMMLE Presents——" mean to every Exhibitor —large or small:

Here is a picture that Carl Laemmle KNOWS is good. He KNOWS what went into its making. He KNOWS that nothing was overlooked or left undone. He KNOWS that the Exhibitor and his patrons will receive from it full Entertainment value for their money. He KNOWS that the Exhibtor can safely advertise to his public—

"CARL LAEMMLE Presents——"



One Day's BIG DEALS

at the Universal Home Office

Bunches of 'em. The staff is swamped. That's the way the fat contracts are pouring into Universal daily. That's the stuff that proves: "Silent or Sound—Carl Laemmle Leads the Way." On the following pages, two or three of the Big Deals on the various pictures in Universal's line-up are indicated. Just two or three of the highlights to show you the calibre of the business coming this way. Keep in step with the Leaders —sign up with Universal!

-- Silent or Sound - Carl Laemmle Leads the Way!!!

PARDON MY

No. 609—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

TAKE a Rex Beach story.

And Renee Adoree and Conrad Nagel.

Turn them over to Director Irvin Willat.

Send them all up north where the pine forests bend flat in the blizzardy gales; where the raging torrents go tearing along at breakneck speed, gouging out their own banks and roaring on to perdition; where the forest fires burn like hell itself.

Let Irvin Willat wave his magic directorial wand over all these elements and you get----

"The Michigan Kid"!

And boy! YOU'VE GOT SOMETHING.

If you thought for a minute you had passed the age when you could get a kick out of life, you've got something coming to you in the form of rejuvenation.

SWEARING

If you thought you were growing anemic, you've got something coming to you that will pump the old blood till it squirts through your veins like liquid excitement.

You remember "The Storm"---the picture which was played in more theatres than any picture up to its time. Well, I've always wanted a picture something on that order. I've tried to get it many a time. Several times I thought I had it but I was mistaken.

But now I've got it and, better still, I've got something that is even bigger and better than that old record--breaker.

AND IT'S ALL READY FOR YOU TO SEE!

This means one more added to the long list of Universal pictures which are READY FOR YOU TO SEE---and it is another proof that Universal is miles ahead of the herd not only in quality but in timely delivery of the actual pictures.

Watch for "The Michigan Kid."

A love story? You bet your life. And also a picture that's got the whole outdoors in it---everything the world loves in its movies.

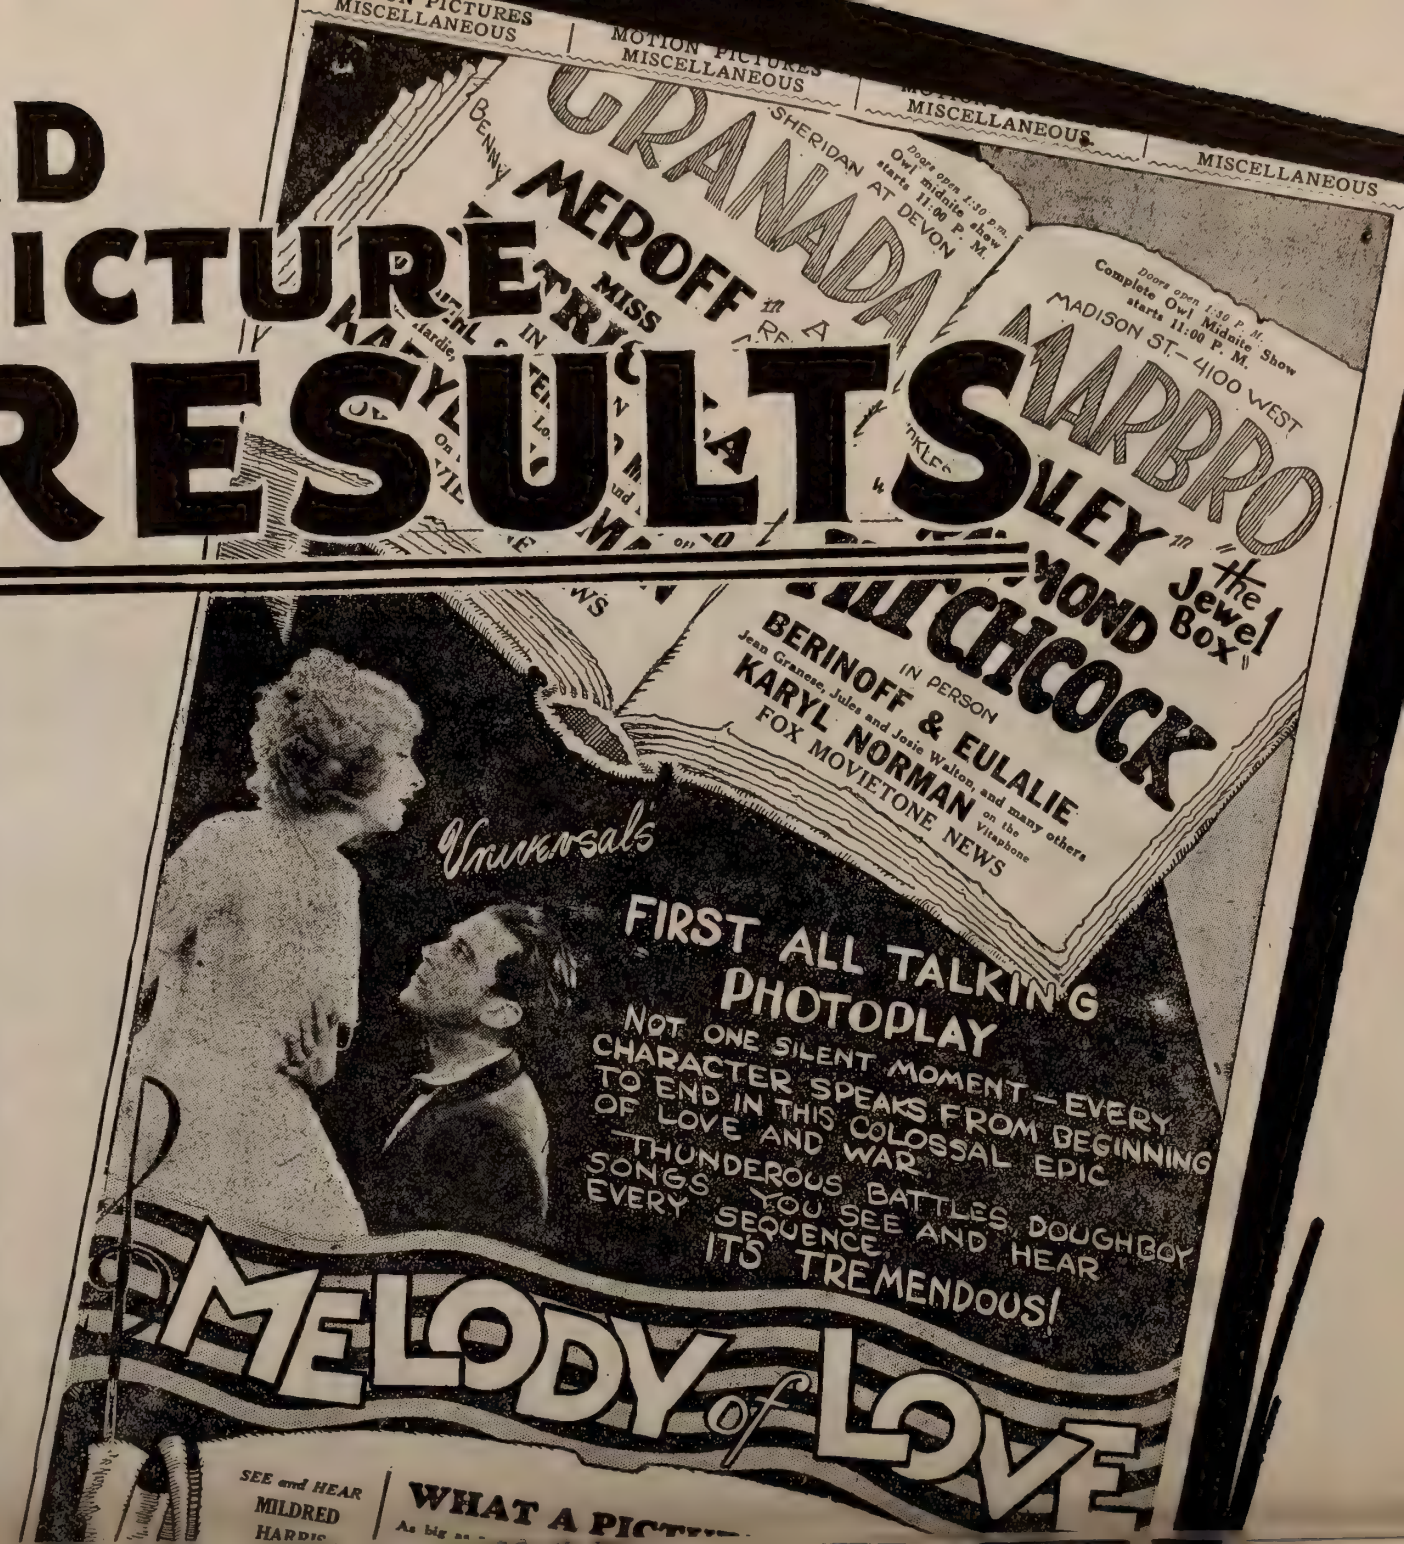
It's the best blankety-blank thriller in a long long time and ---please pardon my swearing, but I'm excited about it!

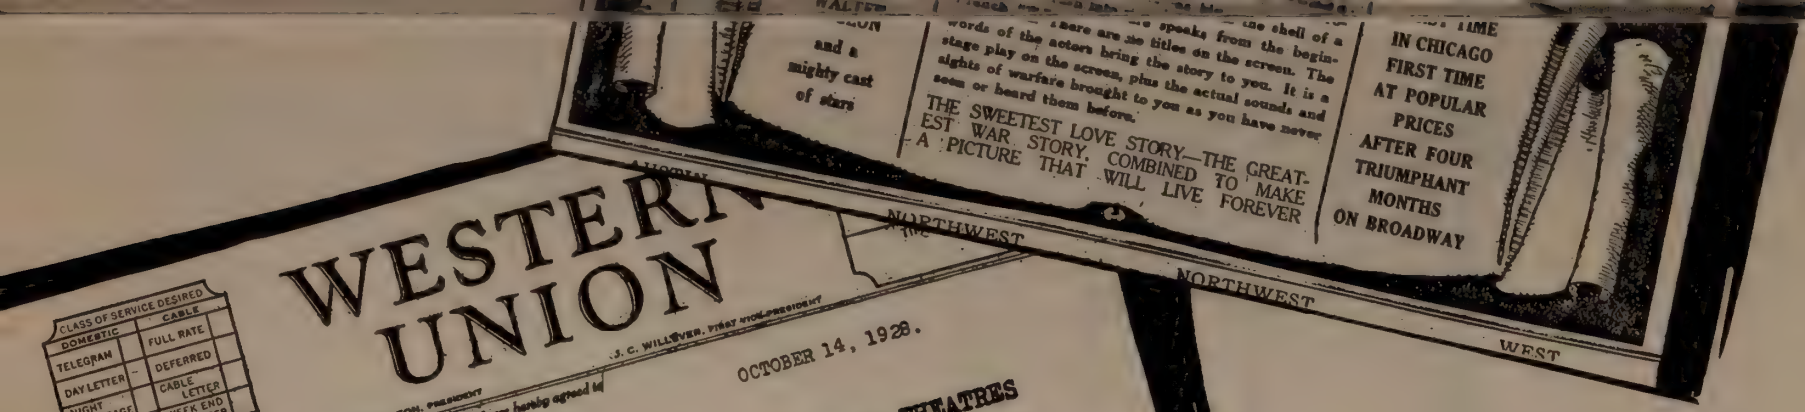
A BIG AD
A BIG PICTURE
BIG RESULTS

The advertisement at the right is a reproduction of the quarter-page ad which opened the campaign in Chicago—

The telegram says "BOTH theatres had lines nearly a block long eight abreast all evening"

When you've got a big money picture plug it for all it's worth. That's showmen first principles — and the telegram below proves it.
It's Carl Laemmle's First 100% Talking Picture.





featuring Walter Pidgeon, Mildred Harris, Tom Dugan, Jane Winton, Jack Richardson—Story by Robert Arch—An Arch Heath Production—Sound supervision by C. Roy Hunter—with the famous Universal City Melody Four.

WESTERN UNION

CLASS OF SERVICE DESIRED

DOMESTIC	CABLE
TELEGRAM	FULL RATE
DAY LETTER	DEFERRED
NIGHT MESSAGE	CABLE LETTER
NIGHT LETTER	WEEK END LETTER

Patrons should check class of service desired; otherwise message will be transmitted as a full-rate communication.

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT — J. C. WILLEVER, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

Send the following message, subject to the terms on back hereof, which are hereby agreed to

OCTOBER 14, 1928.

CHICAGO , MR CARL LAEMLE

MELODY OF LOVE OPENED MARBRO AND GRANADA THEATRES TODAY BOTH THEATRES HAD LINES NEARLY BLOCK LONG EIGHT ABREAST ALL EVENING JUST LEFT GRANADA AT ELEVEN FIFTEEN TONIGHT MORE THAN FIVE HUNDRED WAITING GET IN UNDOUBTEDLY YOU HAVE ONE OF THE GREATEST OF ALL BOX OFFICE ATTRACTIONS IN THE MELODY OF LOVE EXPECT RECORD ENGAGEMENTS HERE REGARDS

H. M. HERBEL

THE MELODY OF LOVE

BIG DEALS

Pantages
Publix
Lisbon
Loew, etc.

Play safe with sound! — — Book UNIVERSAL!

The
UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for the Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick, ~ Editor
Published by the Motion Picture Weekly Publishing Co. Heckscher Bldg. 730-5th Ave. New York City
Copyright 192, UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION All rights reserved

Vol. XXVIII NOVEMBER 3, 1928 No. 13

UNIVERSAL MOVIEGRAMS

"LAST week Carl Laemmle purchased two highly prized New York stage plays, together with full talking and musical rights. The first was "The Climax," in which Jean Hersholt will play the lead under the direction of Renaud Hoffman. Julian Josephson is writing the continuity and Carl Laemmle, Jr., will supervise. The second is "Barnum Was Right," by Philip Bartholomae and John Meehan, purchased for the use of Reginald Denny. It played a long engagement at the George M. Cohan Theatre, with Donald Brian starred.

"CLEAR THE DECKS," Reginald Denny's current picture, will be finished next week at Universal City. His next vehicle, "His Lucky Day," will be directed by Eddie Cline, who was last week engaged by Carl Laemmle for this directorial assignment.

THE production of "The Play Goes On," which had been assigned to Edward Sloman, has been temporarily postponed to permit Sloman to make "The Bargain in the Kremlin" immediately. This intense drama of a Russian violinist by Sir Philip Gibbs will be a one hundred per cent. talking picture. Joseph Schildkraut will play the violinist.

IN the pretentious list of short sound subjects which Universal is compiling, one of the most interesting will be Tom Terriss as Scrooge in Dickens' "Christmas Carol."

Universal Spends Fortune In Sound Picture Purchases

Carl Laemmle Invests Heavily in Plays, Operas, Novels For Sound Pictures Following Big Patron Response to "Lonesome" and "Melody of Love"

SO enthusiastic has been the public's response to Universal's first talking pictures, "Lonesome" and "The Melody of Love," and so convinced is Carl Laemmle that sound is a factor to be reckoned with permanently in moving pictures, that Universal is expending a fortune in the purchase of plays, operas, novels and originals for sound pictures.

The moving picture industry needs a new name for what are now called sound pictures. This generality has been used to cover all manner and degree of audible entertainment on the screen, from the one hundred per cent. talking picture like "The Melody of Love" to the synchronization of musical accompaniment with which no spoken lines are used. Nevertheless, they are all sound pictures. The great majority of Universal's features for this year will have some kind of sound to satisfy the public's apparently insatiable appetite for this new sensation. But Universal is every day announcing the purchase or planning of an all-talking production in a way to point undoubted leadership in this department.

For instance, last week Universal announced the purchase of "The Climax," the famous Edward Locke stage production, which is an ideal play for music and dialogue. It contains "The Song of the Soul," one of the sensations of the year. "The Climax" was produced and will offer an opportunity for a golden-voiced girl as heroine, for which Universal has already started a nation-wide search. The only definite plans for "The Climax" so far announced are that Renaud Hoffman will direct it, that Jean Hersholt will be featured in one of the principal rôles, that Julian Josephson will write the continuity, and that Carl Laemmle, Jr., will supervise.

The next day Universal announced the purchase of "Barnum Was Right," as an all-dialogue picture for Reginald Denny. "Barnum Was Right" is the well-known play by Philip Bartholomae and John Meehan which played the George M. Cohan Theatre so long and so profitably. Donald Brian was starred in the original rôle of an entertainer at a summer hotel.

On the heels of this comes the announcement that Universal is to make one and possibly three productions with Paul Whiteman, the famous jazz king. The amount of money involved in the contract between Carl Laemmle and Paul Whiteman is in all prob-

(Continued on page 32)

HOOT GIBSON is apparently adding aviation to his repertoire of sports which he has capitalized in Universal pictures. He is one of the best known automobile racers on the Coast and his horsemanship was what won him his first entry into the movies. But the announcement that Ruth Elder is to be his next leading lady gives promise of an entirely new type of Western in Hoot's next, and Hoot may be emulating Reginald Denny yet.

CARL LAEMMLE ACKNOWLEDGES COOPERATION OF WILLIAM FOX

Thankful Title on "The Melody of Love" at the Colony Theatre Tells the Story of Unique Assistance which Resulted in Universal's First 100 Per Cent. Talkie

UNIVERSAL'S first 100 per cent. talking motion picture, "The Melody of Love," and the unique circumstances surrounding its production, marks a new mile-stone in the film industry's history of entente cordiale and cooperation between companies. It is another potent evidence of the sincere and mutual helpfulness that has distinguished the screen's pioneers since the inception of the industry.

This pace-setting Universal production, actually the first all-talker made by the Movietone methods, and which has enabled Universal to take place among the leaders in the sound picture field, was made with the assistance of the Fox Film Corporation, and could not have been made without them.

Crowds milling around The Colony Theatre on the opening night of "Melody of Love," Universal's first 100% talking production.

The picture was launched on Broadway at the B. S. Moss Colony Thetare last week-end and broke house records. As a tribute to the organization which helped in the making of the picture, Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, caused the following title to be included in the showing:

"I take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation to William Fox for the kind assistance that enabled Universal to produce "The Melody of Love" through the Fox-Case Movetone Method."

CARL LAEMMLE.

The circumstances which brought about the making of "The Melody of Love" as a Universal Movietone picture with Fox aid had their inception months ago, when the sound picture agitation was gathering volume. Carl Laemmle had been making a deep study of the various sound devices and finally decided to cast his lot with the Movietone method of sound on the film, pioneered by William Fox with the Fox-Case activities.

So rapidly had public fancy and the trend to sound advanced, that time became the essence of success. Universal, determined and all set to launch its sound program, faced weeks of inactivity until sound proof stages could be built and until sound reproducing equipment could be had at the Universal City studio plant from the Western Electric.

It was then that the Fox organization lent valuable assistance. A complete sound reproducing Fox-Case outfit was turned over to the Universal City production experts for temporary usage. The unit crew went with it. With this unit, Universal was able to make necessary tests, to experiment with short subjects, to produce several short reel Movietone acts, dialogue sequences for several productions and finally "The Melody of Love," the first full-length, all-talking picture ever attempted by the sound-on-the-film method.

The results speak for themselves, and are substantiated by the pleased patrons at the Colony Theatre in New York and at various other big theatres throughout the country where this screen innovation is being shown. So great was the response at the Colony that Sunday opening broke the house record by $1330.

Universal now is equipped with elaborate sound-proof studios and the necessary sound reproducing equipment for the completion of its ambitious talking picture program. The use of the Fox-Case Movietone unit enabled the Laemmle organization to get off to a running start in the sound film race, and there is considerable good-will feeling on the part of Carl Laemmle and his associates for William Fox.

Cameraman Awarded Two-Year Contract

AS a result of his successful work in "Erik the Great" and other Universal features, Hal Mohr, cameraman, has received a two-year contract with Universal at an exceptionally high salary, according to an announcement from the studio.

Mohr was recently employed by Universal for "The Last Warning," a mystery production, to handle the difficult photography demanded by Director Paul Leni, who is noted for the odd and unusual camera angles in his pictures.

Later he was assigned to work with Dr. Paul Fejos, also noted for his camera effects on "Erik the Great," which was supervised by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Mohr recently accompanied Fejos to New York for the New York atmospheric shots necessary for "Broadway."

CARL LAEMMLE SIGNS GREATEST MOTION

Carl Laemmle

Universal to Star Whiteman in "The King of Jazz," Synchronized Sound Production Featuring Life of Whiteman Using Entire Jazz Orchestra—Ferdie Grofe to Do Scoring—Lyrics and Music Written by L. Wolfe Gilbert and Mabel Wayne.

Universal Contract Sets New Salary Mark of Half Million.

Paul Whiteman and Orchestra Leave for Universal City Around Middle of February for Eight Weeks.

A NEW dazzling personality for the movies, a new record in moving picture compensation, and a totally new form of moving picture entertainment were signallized last Monday when a contract was signed between Paul Whiteman, jazz king, and Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation.

Weeks of negotiation followed the original broaching of the subject to Paul Whiteman, but Universal's proposition was so tempting that a contract was the result. By virtue of this contract, Whiteman and his jazz orchestra will interrupt their tour of the country around the middle of February for eight weeks to make a production at Universal City which will embody a great many of the tremendously interesting and dramatic incidents in the life of Paul Whiteman.

"The King of Jazz" has been selected as the title of the production. Ferdie Grofe, Whiteman's chief arranger, is to do the scoring. The lyrics and music will be written by L. Wolfe Gilbert and Mabel Wayne, co-authors of the hit "Ramona."

In the meantime, a screen writer will be assigned to accompany Whiteman on his present tour of the United States. During this tour he will write the screen story, working in the elements which have made Whiteman great and which would adapt themselves to the new form of screen entertainment. The final story will be accompanied by many of the musical compositions which Whiteman has made famous and his entire organization of thirty individual musicians will be used in the portrayal of these compositions. Mr. Laemmle has a series of options for following pictures, which will bring the total compensation to Paul Whiteman well above the million-dollar mark.

The contract itself was taken by Nat Goldstone, Universal sound supervisor in the East, to Atlanta, where Whiteman is appearing this week, and returned yesterday for Mr. Laemmle's signature. Mr. Laemmle also received yesterday morning the following telegram from Mr. Whiteman, expressing his satisfaction with the contract.

"Have just signed contract and want you to know I am with you heart and soul stop That this day shall inaugurate an endless friendship and that our affiliation shall have genuine Universal appeal is the sincere wish of

"PAUL WHITEMAN."

In speaking of this, one of his greatest triumphs, Mr. Laemmle said:

"To have the privilege of presenting to moving picture audiences and music lovers throughout the world the unique and unrivalled personality of Paul Whiteman is a great privilege. I sincerely feel that it is one of the greatest privileges which I have ever had. To have captured the king of jazz, the very musical spirit of these modern days for Universal pictures, gives me one of the thrills of my life. When we determined to our satisfaction, through the marvelous reception which has been given to such pictures of ours as 'The Melody of Love' and 'Lonesome,' that talking pictures were bound to be a permanently great factor in moving pictures, we immediately laid our plans to secure the biggest factors which this new invention permitted. The first one we chose was Paul Whiteman.

"It has taken us some time to persuade Mr. Whteman that he would be even greater on the screen than he is at the present time, but I am happy to say that we have persuaded him and that he now feels, as we do, that this is a great opportunity for him. You may rest assured that Universal will provide in its first Whiteman picture a production which will in every way be a credit to Mr. Whiteman and to Universal."

Paul Whiteman's life is a colorful one with its spectacular rise to fame as the first successful exponent of symphonic jazz. Whiteman's parents were musical, but in the conventional manner. His mother was a concert singer and his father supervisor of music in the municipal schools of Denver, where Paul was born. Whiteman's father also conducted a "legitimate" orchestra in Denver. The young Paul inherited the musical tendency, but from a very early age had a strong leaning toward ragtime, coupled with a sincere appreciation of classical music.

PAUL WHITEMAN IN PICTURE CONTRACT

Paul Whiteman, Jazz King.

The famous Paul Whiteman jazz orchestra very much in action (above), and (below) sitting figuratively at the Maestro's feet.

Whiteman hit upon a happy medium. He believed that jazz could be placed on a symphonic basis. When his father's disapproval made it wise for Paul to go west to San Fancisco the innovator had a chance to experiment. His small orchestra had its ups and downs, but the patrons of the Alexandria Hotel recognized that Whiteman's band was "different." Movie celebrities such as Charlie Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks, Lew Cody, Sid Grauman and Marshall Neilan invited Whiteman to play at their homes at private functions. Even at that, it was hard sledding for Whiteman.

Then along came his angel in the guise of the noted banker. S. W. Straus, through whose influence Whiteman and his orchestra were sent to Atlantic City to play at the opening of the Hotel Ambassador. They took immediately. Shortly after this success, Whiteman was engaged at the once-famous Palais Royal, where he held forth for five years. A Victor Talking Machine contract followed. More fame came along when Whiteman and his band graced George White's "Scandals." Then came a contract to appear in the Ziegfeld Follies. Whiteman scored another victory at the Palace for a period of nine consecutive weeks.

His unique jazz concert at Aeolian Hall, in which he introduced George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," marked Whiteman's acceptance by the highbrow musical critics. This symphonic jazz idea of his was, they conceded, not so unrelated to art after all. Whiteman's concert created a furore in musical circles and established him as firmly among serious music lovers as his vaudeville and night club work had already done with the general public.

From that momentous occasion Whiteman and his jazz orchestra have been making triumphant tours both here and abroad as the acknowledged Jazz King of the world.

Much of the drama of this struggle for fame will be incorporated along with Whiteman's music in "The King of Jazz."

THEY WE

and

DENNY!

AT THE TRADE SHOW they said Denny was a marvel—getting bigger and bigger every time. They laughed, they smiled, they just grinned. They thought it capital entertainment all through. They said they wanted more Denny and that there could be ONLY ONE DENNY FOR THEM!

RED HOT SPEED

A Universal Super Jewel

With Glenn Tryon, supported by Kathryn Crawford, the former famous American stage star.

Released July 1st, 1929.

N. B. This is just the biggest comedy from the biggest find, you ever had—get it!

Universal consistently gives you t

NT OVER

how!

THEY SAID Glenn Tryon was just a great boy! They said he appealed to them with his fresh boyish antics and they were certain they would get a clean-up with him. They said "The Kid's Clever" is greater than "Painting the Town"—they said it was a hundred times more laughable than "Safety Last"!

TRYON!

THE KID'S CLEVER

A Universal Denny Super

With a huge cast including Alice Day.

Released November 19, 1928.

N. B. It's the last big Denny for 1928, so go out and get it for a clean-up farewell to the old year!

TRADE SHOW SENSATIONS!

DENNY AND "CLEAR THE DECK" CAST RECEIVE OVATION IN SEATTLE

WHEN the Emma Alexander of the Pacific Steamship Lines docked at Seattle recently, the news that it bore Reginald Denny and the entire cast of "Clear the Deck" had gone before it. Crowds of fans and newspaper reporters welcomed the company, which consisted of Olive Hasbrook, Denny's leading lady in the Universal talking sea film; Otis Harlan, Lucien Littlefield, Colette Merton, Brooks Benedict, Robert Anderson and Elinor Leslie. Director Joseph Henaberry and his assistant and business manager, Joseph Pasternak, were also on board. The company was escorted by the press, a flock of fans and a police squadron to the Hotel Savoy. The movie celebrities drove through Seattle in Buick cars, with "Clear the Deck Company" signs on their automobiles and banners flying.

The evening of their arrival, despite the fact that the company had been busily shooting scenes on the boat and in the harbor all day, they made personal appearances at the Pantages Theatre. The audience accorded them round after round of applause. Exhibitors from surrounding districts besieged the Universal branch exchange all day for admittance and made an enthusiastic addition to the regular movie patrons that evening.

The following afternoon the company was invited to attend the University of Washington vs. University of Montana football game. Once again the "Clear the Deck" company rode in state to the bowl where they were escorted around it by two motorcycle traffic officers who blew their sirens to attract attention. The big crowd, approximately thirty thousand, screeched and yelled their heads off for Denny. Between quarters they resumed their cheering, which was broadcast over the air with the news of the game.

"Clear the Deck" is an adaptation by Earl Snell and Gladys Lehman of the E. J. Rath novel, "When the Devil Was Sick." The film is being synchronized as a talkie. The location trip, during which the company made their stop-over in Seattle, included shots of the waterfronts of San Francisco and Seattle, as well as action on the boat.

The Seattle papers featured the handsome Denny and his company during their location trip.

SHIP AHOY! WHAT STAR DO WE SAIL BY?

Enough Of Them Aboard Emma Alexander To Stump Hardiest Of Deepsea Navigators

When movie stars go down to the sea in ships it is with, as the vulgar would say, class.

Hence, Reginald Denny and his company of forty-five celebrities of the no longer silent drama will arrive in Elliott Bay today on the Admiral liner Emma Alexander, which they are using as a floating studio for the production of the talking sea film, "Clear the Deck."

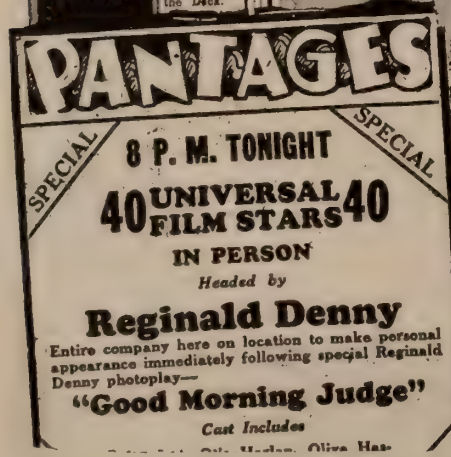
The Pantages Theatre cashed in on the personal appearances of the Universal stars.

REGINALD DENNY, Universal screen star, who appeared in person at The Pantages last night.

WHILE "REGGY" SLEPT—Margaret Stedman, Colette Merton, Mary Grant, three of the motion picture cast of Universal players arrived today aboard the steamship Emma Alexander on deck morning before Reginald Denny, leading awoke

Denny Catches Up on Beauty Sleep

The young gentleman with the bronzed countenance, girls, is Mister Reginald Denny. And the girl whom you're envying is Olive Hasbrouck, formerly of Boise, Idaho, now Denny's leading lady. They arrived on the Emma Alexander Friday, making a talking movie with a troupe of players, including humans and educated goats. Photo by Fred Carter, Star staff photographer.



PANTAGES

SPECIAL SPECIAL

8 P. M. TONIGHT

40 UNIVERSAL FILM STARS 40

IN PERSON

Headed by

Reginald Denny

Entire company here on location to make personal appearance immediately following special Reginald Denny photoplay—

"Good Morning Judge"

Cast Includes

He's Why the Dock Will Be Full of Girls Friday

Reginald and 45 Other Motion Picture People en Route on Emma Alexander

IF YOUR heart suddenly starts fluttering at the sight of a handsome young man, closely resembling Reginald Denny, sauntering down the street Friday or Saturday, don't be surprised, girls, for it will be none other than Reggie himself—in person—not a motion picture.

Denny, heading a party of 46 motion picture people, including 35 actors and actorines, directors, cameramen and all the rest that go to make up a complete producing company, will be visiting in the city Friday and Saturday.

They arrive early Friday morning on the Admiral liner Emma Alexander, aboard which vessel they are filming a sea story called "Clear the Deck" for the Universal Pictures cor-

MOTOR TAKES Screen Star and

GREAT

Carl Laemmle's Super Production

GREAT

Great Production+
Great Exploitation=
Great Profits!

VICTOR HUGO'S Magic Name

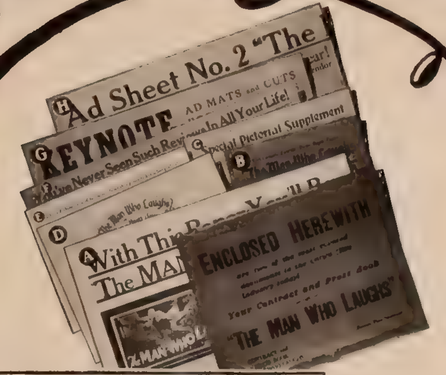
Great Selling Campaigns!

for Big Cities—for Large and Small Towns—for Villages and Hamlets—for Every Size and Type of Theatre Everywhere

SILENT AND SOUND

There's a sure-fire selling campaign to fit any size theatre in any size town anywhere—in the giant Press Book described to the right.
It tells you exactly how to put this big production over in the biggest possible way!



HERE'S THE BIG LINE-UP

A Enormous 8-page Exploitation Section.
B Contracts and Other Documents for Exhibitor.
C Wonderful Herald, 39 Photographs in Rotogravure.
D Giant 10 pages of Press Copy and Cuts.
E Post Card Ballot Plan for Packing 'em in.
F Amazing Reviews from nine New York Papers.
G Keynote Ad Sheets. Dozens of Ads., All Sizes.
H Ad Sheets No. 2. From Slugs to Half Pages.

The greatest aggregation of material ever compiled to put a picture over with the Public.

Putting It Over In a Big Way

First: Book "The Man Who Laughs" and set the play dates.

Second: Study the most complete Press Book ever compiled. It shows you exactly how to bring in the audience for SRO business

Here's What Pulled the Record Gross in Oklahoma City

1 Tie-Up with Music Jobber
Columbia Phonograph record No. 1400 D, the theme song of "The Man Who Laughs", entitled, "When Love Comes Stealing". The music jobber loaned theatre a Columbia Phonograph for the lobby where song was played. The machine was ornamented with "The Man Who Laughs" cutouts.

2 Hotel Restaurant Tie-Up
A bottom line on the menu cards of the three best hotels read: "See and hear 'The Man Who Laughs' at the Liberty Theatre. Good Food and Good Entertainment go hand-in-hand!"

3 Packard Motor Car Tie-Ups
Two banners strung on the sides of Packard Service Car and two specially painted compoboard displays 6 ft. x 6 ft. for show-room display. The copy on signs and banners was as follows: "The Man Who Laughs Drives a Packard."

4 Radio—Broadcasting
Station WKY (Morning Oklahoma and Evening Times) broadcast theme song, "When Love Comes Stealing," twice each evening. The announcer stated that the song was the theme song of "The Man Who Laughs"—"now playing at the Liberty Theatre." On the opening date a description of the picture was broadcast.

5 Newspaper Tie-Ups
Three Oklahoma City dailies were furnished with advertising copy by the music jobber, which advertising featured "The Man Who Laughs" and the theme song. Three subdealers of music concern put in window displays. They used newspaper space also.

6 Heralds
Distributed ten thousand roto-Heralds through local news agency. Handled as inserts slipped into newspapers and publications—including the "Saturday Evening Post."

7 Book Store Tie-Ups
Feature window display in prominent book-shop.

8 Window Tie-Ups
The theme song and Columbia Records made up five window displays and these stores carried a line in all their newspaper advertising for five days.

9 Publication Tie-Up
The Oklahoma City Railwayan—circulation, 40 thousand weekly. Special slug of advertising for one week's issue at no cost.

10 Public Library Tie-Up
Twenty thousand "Man Who Laughs" bookmarks distributed at Public Library.

Carl Laemmle's Magnificent Super Production The MAN WHO LAUGHS from Victor Hugo's Most Dramatic Novel!

Great Exploitation! Great Universal Paper!! Great Profits!

The Inspired Picture for Every City, Town and Village!!!

Most Successful Newspaper Tie-Up ever Devised

Newspaper Serialization for "THE MAN WHO LAUGHS"

12 Chapters—Mats Free—Your Editor Wants This!

A brilliant condensation of the great Victor Hugo story. Fascinating installments to run daily for two weeks before your opening. Illustrated as above. Actual size 6 inches by 6 columns. The pictures tell the story to your patrons. The cleverly worded narrative will pack them into your theatre.

Samples of the Selling Paper For This Great Production

Left—
3-Sheet

Right—
6-Sheet

Below—
24-Sheet

Read these Wires

"Marvelous business."

J. WM. HOUCK,
Kenosha Theatre, Kenosha, Wis.

"Superior to anything I have seen."

J. M. SHINE,
Gloversville, N. Y.

"Stood them up Patron and Newspaper comment wonderful."

ROBT. D. HUTCHINSON,
Liberty Theatre, Oklahoma City.

Read these Reviews

"Magnificent acting."

Philadelphia Inquirer

"You will feel that you have discovered a movie masterpiece."

Chicago Herald and Examiner

"Veidt out-Chaneys Lon Chaney in the matter of . . . Make-up."

Philadelphia Bulletin

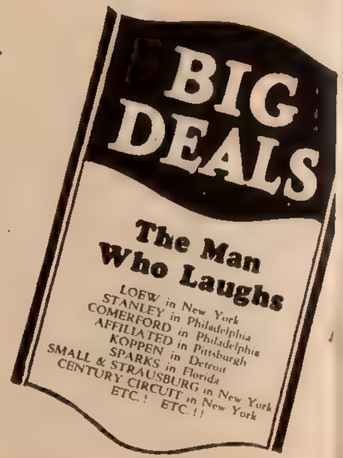
A PAUL LENI Production

Starring

CONRAD VEIDT & MARY PHILBIN

with

Olga Baclanova, Cæsar Gravina, Brandon Hurst, George Siegmann, Sam De Grasse, Stuart Holmes.



CARL LAEMMLE - VICTOR HUGO - PAUL LENI - CONRAD VEIDT - MARY PHILBIN !!

Get Greater Profits with

Mike & Ike

Rube Goldberg's justly famous comedy characters brought to life to make millions happy. And how they do! 13 two-reelers—you'll wish there were more.

Snookums

Starring in "The Newlyweds and Their Baby" comedies from George McManus' inimitable cartoon strip. The box-office baby gets them in. 13 two-reelers.

Buster Brown

Every boy's hero, with his dog Tige, every dog's envy, in 13 two-reelers. Adapted from R. F. Outcault's great cartoons—and nothing lost in the process.

Let George Do It

George McManus made cartoon-George a household word. Stern Brothers put him on the screen. You make 13 clean-ups with him —one for every two-reeler.

BIG DEALS

Loew
Publix
Libson

Released by UNIVERSAL

Don't Get Stung!

Oakley, Idaho.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

On July 23rd, I ranthe old print of "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN". The picture was misrepresented to me and I had it booked for two days but after seeing it the first night and the disappointment of my patrons, pulled it off.

Due to the name of "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" and the wide publicity that Universal had been giving this picture, I did a very good business but every one coming out of the theatre complained about it and continued to do so for several days. I therefore, bought Mr. Laemmle's production of "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" to vindicate myself with my people. I am going to send out a form letter thruout my territory informing my patrons of that and expect to get back into their good graces.

This is written for the sole purpose of advising any exhibitor who buys the old delapidated print of "UNCLE TOM" that he is just kidding himself and his people and it will prove a boomerang to him and he will suffer in the long run if he expects to stay in business in the town in which he is now operating.

Yours very truly,

J. W. Simmons

J. W. Simmons,
Orpheum Theatre,
Oakley, Idaho.

BIG DEALS

Balaban and Katz

Comerford Circuit

etc., etc.

There's only one $2,000,000 Production of

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN

It's the Great American Picture

With Marguerita Fischer, Arthur Edmund Carew, Lucien Littlefield, James Lowe, Virginia Grey, Adolph Milar, Vivien Oakland, Lassie Lou Ahern, Mona Ray, Aileen Manning.

A HARRY POLLARD Production

— and Carl Laemmle has it!

Fejos, Returning to Coast with Tryon, Leaves Cozine to Finish N. Y. Shots

DR. PAUL FEJOS, director, and Glenn Tryon, star, who have been in New York taking atmospheric shots for Universal's super production of "Broadway," the celebrated Jed Harris stage success, have returned to California, leaving Arthur Cozine, New York location expert and production executive, to complete the New York shots necessary for the picture. Cozine faces several more days of shooting around Times Square and elsewhere in the metropolitan area.

"Broadway" was written by George Abbott and Phillip H. Dunning, and produced by Jed Harris. It was the sensation of Broadway last season. Carl Laemmle paid the unprecedented price of $225,000 for the screen rights. He later acquired the talking picture rights and is making the picture as the super-talking feature. Carl Laemmle, Jr., is supervising the production.

"Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City" Is Completed at Universal Studios

"THE COHENS AND KELLYS IN ATLANTIC CITY," the third of Universal's popular Irish-Jewish comedies, has been completed at Universal City.

The "Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City" will have dialogue as well as sound effects.

Under the direction of William Craft, the entire company spent four weeks at Atlantic City shooting exterior scenes before starting work on the West Coast. While in Atlantic City the company staged a Summer Girl Contest, offering as first prize a six month contract to appear in pictures. The prize was won by Elsie Allen, a Philadelphia girl, who will be seen in the production.

The all-star cast includes George Sidney, Mack Swain, Vera Gordon, Kate Price, Cornelius Keefe, Nora Lane, Claude Payton and Tom Kennedy.

A neat and startling way to ballyhoo a picture adapted from a widely-read novel is this walking volume of "The Michigan Kid," devised by Universal exploiteer, A. J. Sharick, for the run of the picture at the State Theatre, Toledo, Ohio.

Ruth Elder Signed With Hoot Gibson

HOOT GIBSON, Universal Western star, has selected Ruth Elder, Atlantic flight heroine, for the leading rôle in his next picture, the title of which has not as yet been announced.

Following upon Miss Elder's successful debut as a screen heroine in Richard Dix's current picture, "Moran of the Marines," at the Paramount Theatre here, Gibson's announcement forecasts her coming popularity in motion pictures.

Gibson and his staff are preparing the story, which will combine aviation and the West. Production will commence the fifteenth of November.

Following the completion of this picture, Gibson will make "Points West," adapted from the story by B. M. Bower. He recently completed "King of the Rodeo," made during the Chicago Rodeo under the direction of Henry MacRae, with Kathryn Crawford in the leading rôle.

Universal Film Cut in Airplane

FOLLOWING a rush order from the Pantages Theatre in San Francisco for a print of the first Universal Sound Production, "The Melody of Love," B. W. Burton, Universal's star film cutter, departed for San Francisco, via airplane, with the film only partially cut. Burton completed cutting the picture while enroute to San Francisco in the airplane.

In order to allow Burton to edit the film while flying north, a miniature projection device was installed in one of the giant Western Air Express planes especially for the occasion. The cutting of "The Melody of Love" in such a fashion will mark the first film ever assembled in an airplane.

"The Melody of Love" is Universal's first all dialogue production. Directed by A. B. Heath, the cast includes Walter Pidgeon, Jane Winton, Mildred Harris, Tom Dugan, Jack Richardson and Victor Potel.

Another Great Audience Picture From Universal

THE SHAKEDOWN

TWO NEGATIVES
ONE SILENT—ONE TALKING

"Startling Results with Tarzan!"

LIBERTY THEATRE

LIBERTY THEATRE COMPANY INCORPORATED
MEXICO, MO.

October 2, 1928.

Mr. Harry Hynes, Manager,
Universal Film Exchanges, Inc.,
3320 Olive St.,
St. Louis, Mo.

Dear Harry:—

I have delayed writing you relative to the opening of TARZAN THE MIGHTY until several weeks had elapsed so I could get a more accurate idea of the box office value of this attraction.

Am happy to say that the results have been more than satisfactory—to me they have been startling.

As you probably know we set this on our regular Western day. We put considerable effort behind getting this serial started properly. We used considerable paper, heralds, slides, buttons and novelty advertising, and we opened with the first two Chapters, permitting children under twelve to come in for five cents provided they presented at the box office the coupon which was printed on the herald.

Our business that night was over 50% more than our normal Tuesday business had been. Subsequent Tuesdays have fallen about $20 under the opening Tuesday but the present figure still represents an increase over our former Tuesday business of about 50%.

Results, therefore, are as I have said not only satisfactory but far beyond what I had expected. I believe it will do the same for anyone else if the proper interest is created at the beginning.

With kindest regards, Iam,

Very truly yours,
W. F. Lorenz, Manager,
Liberty Theatre Co.

wfd/d

BIG DEALS

Famous Players Canadian Corp. Ltd., Books

Tarzan for Naniamo, Nelson and New Westminster Theatres, Vancouver, B. C., etc., etc.,

With

NATALIE KINGSTON

and

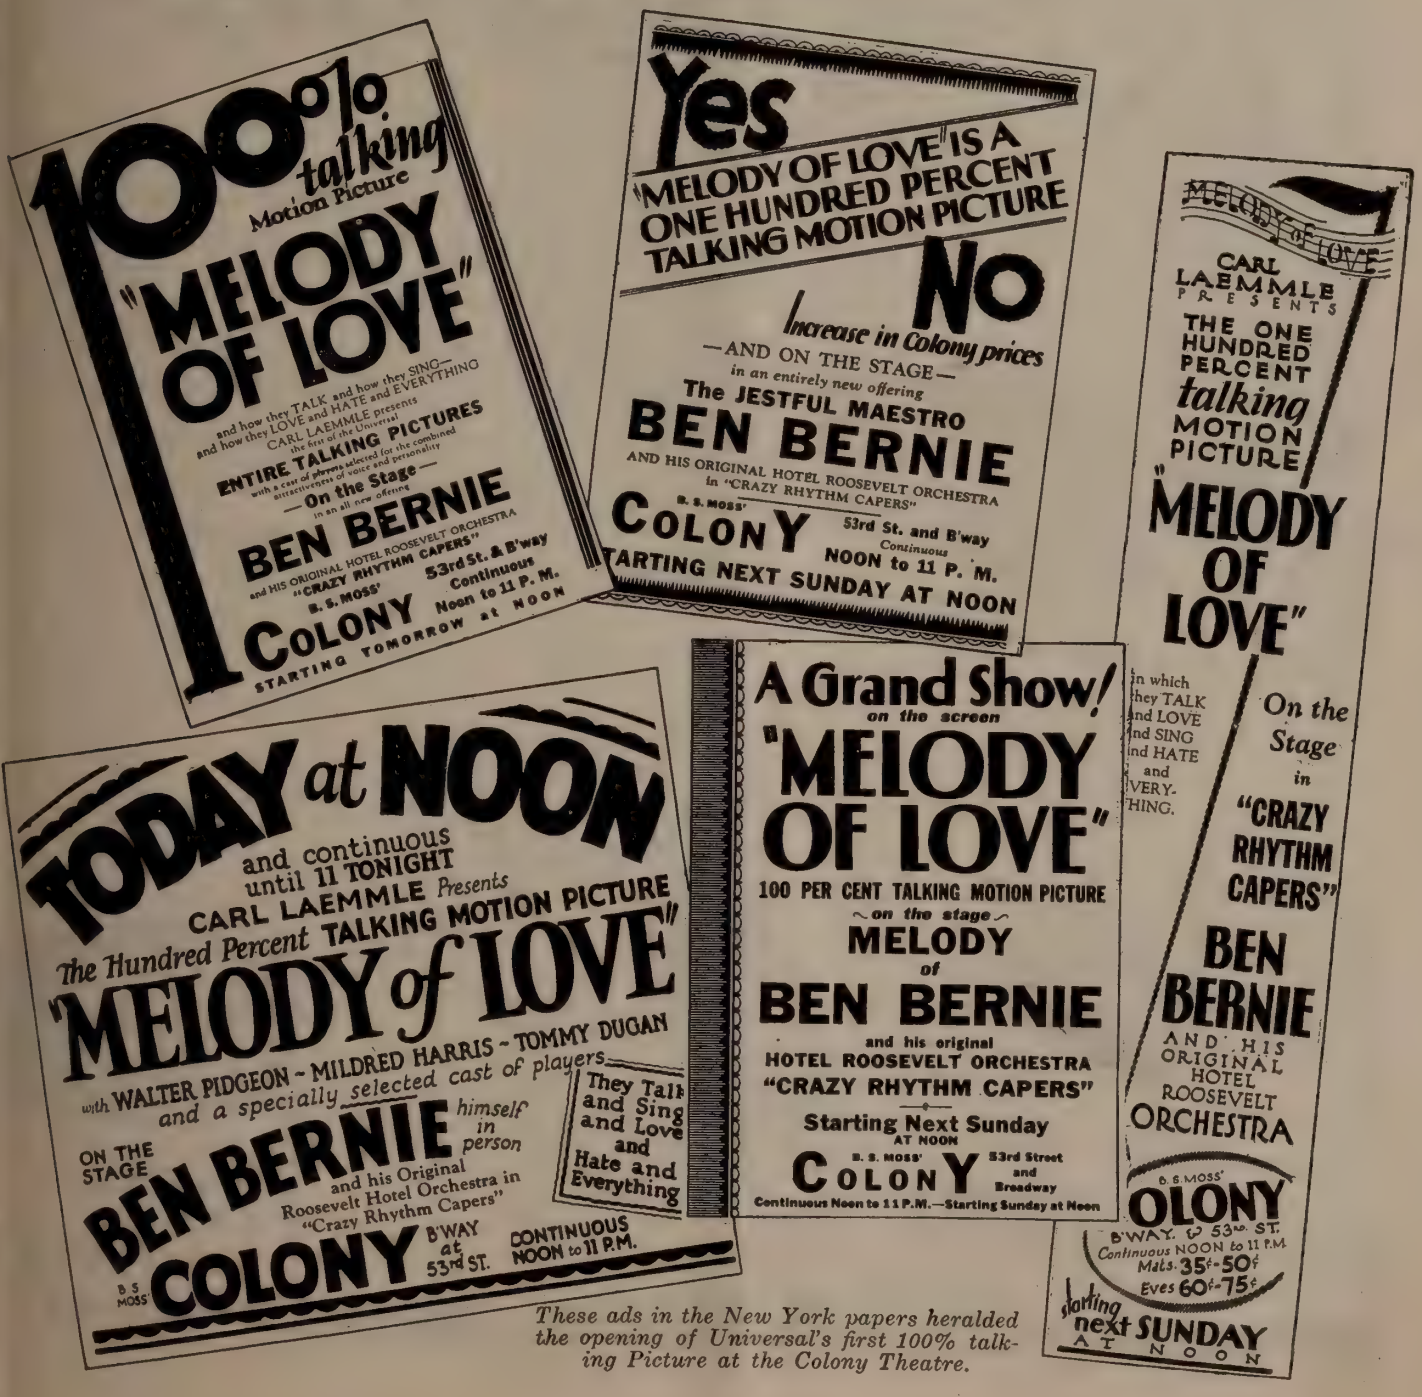
FRANK MERRILL

An original serial produced by Universal by special arrangement with Edgar Rice Burroughs, author of "Tarzan of the Apes," etc.

UNIVERSAL'S Stupendous Serial of the African Jungle!

Directed by JACK NELSON

How a Real Showman Puts Over a Big Picture



These ads in the New York papers heralded the opening of Universal's first 100% talking Picture at the Colony Theatre.

Universal one-reelers

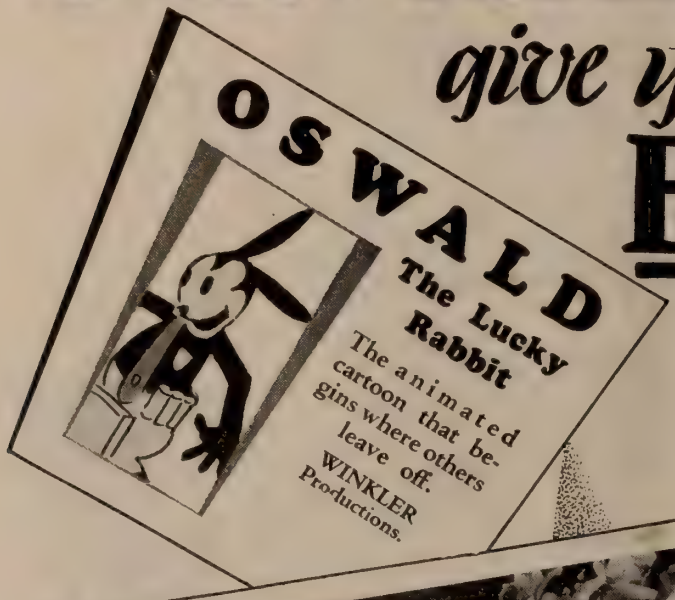
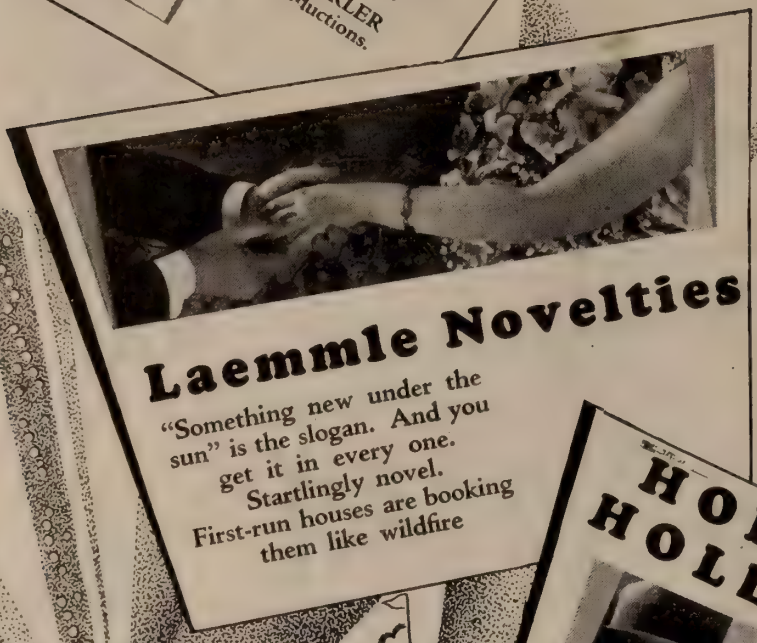
give your program that

Extra Edge—





In this day of keenest competition, when the exhibitor must make every single item on his program count the most, it is vital to have the finest one-reelers money can buy—modern, in tune with the times, the kind that present-day audiences demand—Universal One-Reelers.

BIG DEALS

STANLEY FOX THEATRES
Shumberg

"THE KID'S CLEVER" DISCLOSES TRYON AT HIS INVENTIVE BEST

Comedian's Latest Brain Wave is Amphibian Automobile Whose Mad Dash Over Land and Sea Adds Thrills to Fun

INVENTION has been a harmless hobby with Tryon so far in his Universal career. He had a little goober gun in "Prince of K'Nuts" and a bill-poster in "The Gate Crasher." There was a taxi full of patents in "Hero for a Night," and a few neat hotel devices in "Hot Heels." They were humorous but harmless.

But in "The Kid's Clever," this brilliant young comedian's latest picture, Tryon has an amphibian automobile. It should go as well on water as land. But someone crosses the wires just before Tryon started out on a trial trip with the Big Magnate. . . .

It was just unfortunate for the Mayor of the town, the sheriffs and the town people, the bouquets, brass band and illuminated address, that Tryon proclaimed the car to be under full control just as he slipped in the gear. The car replied by reversing at anything approaching a 100 miles an hour, darting forward with startling suddenness and displaying the most surprising agility at doing double figure eights backwards.

The Big Business Man had his heart in his mouth, his courage in his boots and his lunch in a position of peculiar indecisiveness, while the brass band, the bouquets and the townspeople fled in a shower of water that had sprung up from a broken street pipe, and in utter confusion as well!

Then the car headed for the sea and tipped its cargo gently but firmly into the water.

But wait. It is not the end. The bold bad villian has escaped with the valuable motor contract. The Magnate must have it back.

See Tryon as he sits at the wheel with the Big Business Man in the back and his sweetheart by his side. Watch him slide in the gears, and the car shoot forward. Follow them at an unbelievable speed to the ferry, dodging cars, trucks and constables by a hairbreadth. Watch them pause at the ferry and then leap into space—onto the water, and away after the villain. Thrills? Tryon is giving them one a second as the great car, now a speed boat, leaps through the water, almost flying. Across the river and up the landing stage into the crowded streets.

A mass of cars block the road. Can he do it? Will he guide us safely through, for the audience races with Tryon: You are the passengers in this hair-raising dash to certain death. Tryon does do it. He is gone before the police can see him, round cars before they can move. A thousand times in the mad ride you flirt with death by a hairbreadth, you gasp and tremble and sob with relief, until the contract is caught just as it is soaring away in a plane.

Glenn Tryon convinces Kathryn Crawford in "The Kid's Clever" that he and his amphibian automobile are gifts to humanity.

"Belphegor" Thrills Wardour Street

European Chapterplay Receives Most Enthusiastic Response Of Any Serial Ever Shown to British Motion Picture Trade

THE following press reviews about European's new serial are ten times more convincing than any editorial comments:

Daily Film Renter. — An excellent chapter play. The plot is well conceived and the mystery sustained throughout. Excitement and thrills conclude each episode. There are a large number of characters, but with the aid of clever tilting, the story is eagerly followed. The cast is well chosen and the picture well directed. To general patrons, especially where mystery serials are appreciated, the solving of the problem, "Who is Belphegor?" will probably be followed with keen interest. An excellent booking, full of tense interest, thrills, and the real quality which the chapter play demands.

Bowler Reed's All Film Review.— Excitement and thrills predominate, each episode finishing on a good note of tension. It is safe to predict that this French-made serial will enthrall and grip chapterplay lovers, who will eagerly await the next week's instalment.

Bioscope.—Excellent mystery play. Suitability: Splendid where such serial dramas are popular. Each one of these ten episodes is a complete and rousing adventure in itself and the interest is cleverly carried forward from one to another. Here is a fine opportunity for budding criminologists, the identity of the Phantom is cleverly concealed. . . . Amazing ingenuity of author . . . even out-Wallaced Edgar in the baffling mystery. All the parts are characteristically played by competent artists. Admirable in every respect and the scenes in the Louvre could not be bettered.

FOX BUYS "THE COLLEGIANS" for his new

5000-seat

BROOKLYN Theatre

He knows that they'll build prestige and profit for his new house.

UNIVERSAL JUNIOR JEWELS

Starring GEORGE LEWIS with Dorothy Gulliver, Hayden Stevenson, Churchill Ross, Eddie Phillips. 2 reelers.
Directed by Nat Ross.

Carl Laemmle Jr's 4th Series will TALK

The big fellows KNOW!

Universal Warmly Thanked For "Uncle Tom's Cabin"

Movie Critic Feels Debt of Gratitude For Universal Version of Stowe Classic

By PEGGY PATTON

(Reprinted from "Wisconsin News.")

I have just seen "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the Alhambra and I feel that I owe Universal a personal debt of gratitude! What is more, there are countless individuals who are going to feel the same way and here is the reason:

In the first place it is a marvelous picture! It is presented with full movie-tone settings and sound effects and has been provided with an elaborate musical accompaniment. But it does not need the support or novelty of sound to make it a great picture. Its appeal would be just as potent if it was completely done in the silent drama—it is just that good.

But I have a weakness for talkies and sound pictures, so I thrilled at the baying of the bloodhounds; the soothing harmony of negro melodies and folksongs; the moaning misery of a people in bondage; the ugly crack of a cruel whip; the curses and ugly jests of those who deal in human flesh; the fury of the blizzard and the cracking of the ice.

I mentioned that I felt a personal debt to Universal! To be more explicit the last time I saw Harriet Beecher Stowe's immortal drama on the boards it was presented by a road company with a lack of acting ability that turned this stirring novel into a farce.

* * *

Carl Laemmle spent $2,000,000 to give you a realistic version of this life of the old South—with the full breath of life and realism—the greatest human drama ever screened. The money is well spent and the selection of cast was one of the best investments. Each is so particularly suited to his respective role. The acting of James B. Lowe as Uncle Tom is marvelous. Others who contribute praiseworthy performances are Margarita Fischer as Eliza; Mona Ray as Topsy; Virginia Gray as Eva; George Siegmann as Simon Legree, and Arthur Edmund Carew as George Harris.

Universal has given me the memory of the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" that I want to file away... I don't care if I never see another version of it.

"Uncle Tom" Fortune Hunt Proves Excellent Exploitation

A NEW sort of treasure hunt was inaugurated when Exploiteer James F. Lundy started an Uncle Tom's Cabin Fortune Hunt in Lafayette, Ind., in connection with the run of the Universal picture at the Luna Theatre. The theatre put out ten thousand serially numbered coupons in a house-to-house campaign which the participants were to take to the various merchants' windows and see if their coupon bore the number that the merchant had placed in his window. If so, a prize was given to the lucky holder, but the merchant agreed to leave the display on the picture in the window for the balance of the week. The plan netted the theatre fourteen window displays, and excellent box-office results.

remember "The Calgary Stampede"?

--well here's another one just as good!

HOOT GIBSON

Carl Laemmle presents the King of Western Stars in the King of Western Pictures.

Directed by Reaves Eason

A UNIVERSAL Gibson-Jewel

BIG DEALS

SKOURAS BROS., SCHINE, Buffalo

KING OF THE RODEO

Big "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Poster Campaign Offered British Exhibitors by European

James V. Bryson Prepares Boon to Showmen for Putting Over "Uncle Tom's Cabin"

SINCE "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was presented at the London Pavilion, Piccadilly, earlier in the year for a record run of over three months, James V. Bryson and the European organization have been planning advertising and exploitation campaigns for Carl Laemmle's mightiest moving picture achievement on a scale unprecedented in Wardour Street.

Press books with as much material as would fill the Harriet Beecher Stowe novel again, brightly and snappily written, were prepared; exploitation campaigns were carefully thought out and the most ingenious and novel ideas from the experts from Universal and Europe were incorporated in them; and advertising schemes without parallel were originated.

But not content with this, J. V. Bryson has now placed before the British exhibitors a proposition that is unique. With it British showmen will be able to advertise "Uncle Tom's Cabin" to their hearts' content, to poster their areas for miles around, in fact, to carry out the biggest advertising possible for the very least cost.

Designed by one of the world's finest poster artists, these striking posters may be had in 48, 12 and 6-sheets and double crowns.

One of the world's finest poster artists was engaged to draw up posters in keeping with the mighty film and the result of his work are forty-eight, twelve and six sheets, and double crowns of real artistic value, lavish, striking, attractive.

They were originally advertised at a high price. That was a mistake. James V. Bryson intended to make not a single penny out of this mammoth campaign. The posters are available at cost price, double crowns at 2½d, six-sheets at 1/3d, twelve-sheets at 2/6d and forty-eight sheets at 9/6d, are the means by which the British exhibitor can go out and prove that he is a showman to his finger tips. They are the means by which he can attract the greatest interest, arouse the most enthusiasm and stimulate the greatest demand for the picture he has booked.

The wise showman will go after a big picture in a big way.

"How to Make Money With Serials" Is a Very Practical Business Builder

European Offers At Nominal Cost Exploitation Book On Chapterplays That Will Reap Returns at Box-Office

THERE is nothing in "How To Make Money With Serials" that cannot be worked, and consequently it is a volume of unfathomable depths, inestimable width and with the limit of possibilities in money-making.

"How To Make Money With Serials" is a neat little book bound in red and stamped in gold, and although it sells in America for two dollars, J. V. Bryson has decided to give it free to all exhibitors booking Universal serials. It is well known that Mr. Bryson has already decided to make 1929 the big serial year and has commenced by placing on the market "Belphegor" and "Tarzan the Mighty," besides other big serials.

The book contains 100 pages of the greatest aids to exploitation that ever the exhibitor had, and perhaps the most novel and useful feature is the serial calendar.

This is constructed in 13 vertical columns, each of which is headed with the name of 13 days prior to show date. In each column is placed the date to be followed to work an effective scheme. The calendar is fully described and cross referenced in the accompanying pages, and there can be no doubt that this idea is not only absolutely new, but the most novel and useful aid the exhibitor ever had placed before him.

"How To Make Money With Serials" has been devised under the supervision of Carl Laemmle, by the best brains of the industry and is packed with a hundred (and more) ideas.

Each stunt carries its own illustration in addition to many plates of affected tie-ups, diagrams in line, etc.

The "Foreword" by Carl Laemmle is well worth reading, too. In this he talks about the serial as a form of modern entertainment, its possibilities and future position in the entertainment world.

The Talk of the Industry!

BIG DEALS

LOEW'S Theatres book Lonesome" for 58 Theatres 131 Playing dates

"LONESOME" is an unusually fine film. It is an unusually fine picture and an attraction that will be heard from.
Exhibitor's Herald.

"LONESOME." A splendid symphony of the screen. This film is going to be ranked as one of the best of this year. We believe that Paul Fejos is THE coming Director. Filmograph.

"LONESOME" creates fine impression. A trail breaker.
M. P. News

"LONESOME." Daring but successful. A fine picture.
Morning Telegraph

Fejos joins the ranks of directors such as Lubitsch, DeMille and Von Stroheim. The longer your thoughts dwell upon it the finer it becomes. Exhibitor's Herald

"LONESOME." An unusual picture. So vivid, a deep impression is left that lasts long after one has seen the picture. With great skill Mr. Fejos has brought a new style of direction into the business.
Harrison's Reports

"LONESOME" scored an instantaneous hit. Ex. Daily Review

"LONESOME" is human interest film of the month.
Screen Secrets

"LONESOME" Previewed three times, and each time to much spontaneous applause. Film Daily

You won't be sorry you saw "LONESOME."
Photoplay

"LONESOME." A happy achievement. L. A. Times

Universal has surely put its right foot forward with "LONESOME." Daily Screen World.

THE NATIONAL BOARD OF REVIEW: "LONESOME is an exceptional picture. This is the highest honor which can be paid to a film by the National Board of Review.

A Paul Fejos PRODUCTION
Starring
Glean Tryon
and Barbara Kent

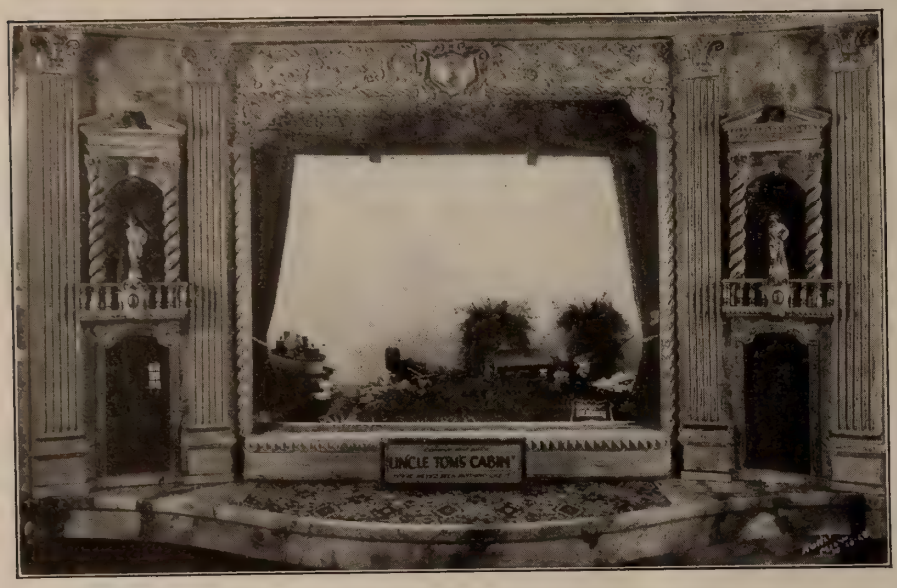
LONESOME

-- Silent or Sound - Carl Laemmle Leads the Way!!!



Three weeks before "Uncle Tom's Cabin" opened at the Alhambra Theatre in Milwaukee, Fred Meyer, managing director, had this shadow box displayed in the lobby. An amber moon and blue lights in the sky gave a striking night effect to the cabin scene.

Carl Laemmle To Make Talkie Of Dickens' "Christmas Carol"

CARL LAEMMLE, president of the Universal Pictures Corporation, today announced that he would make a featurette of Charles Dickens' famous "Christmas Carol."

Tom Terris, the talented British actor and director, will direct the picture, as well as play the role of Scrooge. Production will be commenced at Universal City at once to have the picture ready for timely showing throughout the country during the Christmas holidays.

This is only one of the interesting announcements that Universal will make in their pretentious list of short sound subjects.

Universal produced this Dickens' classic as a silent picture first in 1915. It was made in two reels by Rupert Julian, who also played "Scrooge." The picture was highly successful. Remade with sound it will be one of the most important pictures of the holiday season.

"Bargain in Kremlin" Goes Into Production

EDWARD SLOMAN will commence production immediately on the recently announced story, "The Bargain in the Kremlin," purchased by Universal Pictures Corporation from Sir Philip Gibbs. Joseph Schildkraut will play the star role. J. Grubb Alexander has completed the adaptation.

Schildkraut is particularly suited for the leading role in that he is an accomplished violinist, as is the hero of this famous Russian story. This is essential as the picture will be made with talking and sound.

It was originally announced that Sloman would first direct "The Play Goes On." This will follow "The Bargain in the Klemlin."

UNIVERSAL SPENDS FORTUNE IN TALKIES

(Continued from page 6)

ability the highest ever involved in a moving picture contract. It also marks the entrance of one of America's most picturesque and successful personalities into pictures. Every company in the business had made an offer to Whiteman and it is a great feather in the cap of Universal that Carl Laemmle was able to capture this latest prize.

Another contract consummated within the week was the deal for Ring Lardner's "You Know Me, Al," and a number of other humorous series by this great American humorist. The contract for these series is held by Stern Brothers, who will undoubtedly make a number of feature pictures as well as short product from the Lardner material.

Universal has already placed in production its talking version of "Broadway," and within a few weeks will start production of "The Minstrel Show," with Eddie Leonard, a production written especially for a talkie in the same way that "The Melody of Love" was written, and "The Bargain in the Kremlin," by Sir Philip Gibbs. This picture will be one hundred per cent. talking, with Joseph Schildkraut playing the leading rôle.

Advertising Man Praises Saturday Evening Post Column

ANGLO-CALIFORNIA TRUST COMPANY
COMMERCIAL-SAVINGS-TRUST
SAN FRANCISCO

Mr. Carl Laemmle,
President, Universal Pictures,
730 Fifth Avenue.
New York City.

Dear Mr. Laemmle:

Before entering the banking business, I was Advertising Manager of a large concern and, since that time, I have continued a very active interest in good advertising.

I have been very much interested in reading your single-column advertisements in "The Saturday Evening Post" and I want you to know that, in my opinion, your advertisements are the most interesting and effective motion picture advertisements published today. Your advertisements are giving the American people an appreciation of yourself and your pictures, which should result in more box-office sales for Universal pictures. Speaking personally, I know that Universal pictures are usually very good pictures.

With very best wishes, I am,
Sincerely yours,
(Signed) R. D. BRIGHAM.

They Just Can't Get Along With out It!

"I consider Universal Complete Service Contract the best buy for any exhibitor,"

Says JACK GARDNER,
Overland Theatre, Toledo, Ohio.

"We believe it a money-maker and a money-saver,"

Says G. M. FOX,
Cameo Theatre, Weyburn, Sask.

"I hope you will continue it. You can count on me as a regular user,"

Says CHAS. PELCNIK,
Maple Heights Theatre, Maple Heights, Ohio.

"It sure works great for me,"

Says LEON G. LAYTON,
Newport, N. Y.

"We consider it a lifesaver and you have given us good, consistent box-office results,"

Says L. C. DENTON,
Rex Theatre, Caliente, Nev.

You, Mr. Exhibitor, Sign a Universal Complete Service Contract and next year you will be saying the same things printed above!

More Than 12,500 Contracts Already Signed!

Your Place in the Sun!

IN this day of stiff competition, you can only keep your place in the sun by keeping in the public eye. National advertising does that for you—or playing pictures nationally advertised, such as Universal Pictures sold to the nation's millions EVERY week in Carl Laemmle's "Saturday Evening Post" Column.

Watch This Column
Our Weekly Chat

Send for your copy of Universal's booklet containing complete information on our new pictures. It's free.

NO man in this world can go far alone. Some one said it, I don't know who. But no matter who it was, it's true. The man who thinks he can go the whole distance by himself, is a "smart alec." I don't want to be placed in that class, and that's why in this column, I am continually asking for your opinions, constructive criticisms and suggestions. I am ambitious to please and entertain—to make greater and better pictures—but I must have the Public's assistance inasmuch as I know I don't know it all by a long shot. The greatest thing in the moving-picture industry is The Public, and if the Public will help me, I will give it what it wants.

—C. L.

A timid, fear-stricken girl, thrust onto a haunted stage and beset on all sides with menacing shadows, clutching hands, doors that open and close themselves, this is but part of Universal's mystery picture, "The Last Warning," adapted from the great Broadway stage success and from Wadsworth Camp's great novel, "The House of Fear." The timid girl is LAURA LA PLANTE, and the picture, in my estimation, will be another "Cat and Canary" in which MISS LA PLANTE starred with such signal success. Paul Leni, who produced "The Cat and the Canary," is directing "The Last Warning," and Carl Laemmle, Jr., will supervise production.

Jean Hersholt in "Jazz Mad"

THIS I WANT YOU TO KNOW—that all over America and Europe, critics and special writers are of one voice in praising Universal's productions of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "The Man Who Laughs," both of which, by the way, have been synchronized with sound effects. Perhaps "we builded better than we knew." I expected some criticism, but there wasn't any. This is unusual, is it not? You should ask your favorite theatre whether it includes these masterly productions in its Fall or Winter schedule.

Marian Nixon in "Jazz Mad"

Peter B. Kyne wrote "Freedom ... story of ...ook ...aturing ...E, also "The ...ch, starring CON... ...EE ADOREE.

Carl Laemmle, President

...want to be on our mailinglist? Just say the word. To meet a popular demand Universal will send photographs of actual scenes from "The Collegians" as follows: Set of 5, 50c; Set of 9, 90c; Set of 18, $1.80; Set of 25, $2.50.

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

"The Home of the Good Film"

730 Fifth Ave., New York City

Right: Carl Laemmle's Column to appear in the "Saturday Evening Post" of October 27th.

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
VOL. 28 - NO. 16
NOV. 24, 1928

Exploitation number

JOSEPH SCHILDKRAUT
The "RAVENAL" of "SHOW BOAT"
NOW BEING COMPLETED AT UNIVERSAL CITY.

Tools of the Trade

Babe Ruth will hit more home-runs with a baseball bat than he will with a broomstick.

You can build a better house with good tools than you can with poor tools.

Babe Ruth's trade is hitting home-runs, so he gets the best baseball bats money can buy. That's just common sense.

If you were building a house you'd get the best materials and the best tools available. That's common sense.

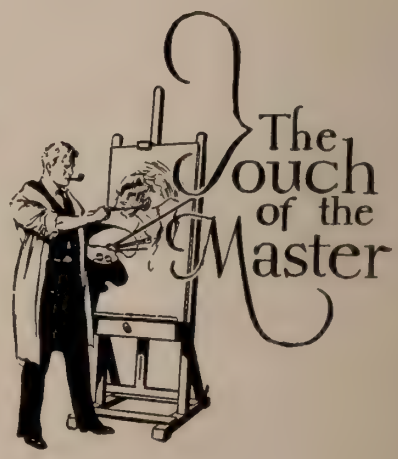
The same line of reasoning applies to pictures.

You might be able to put a picture over on the strength of its box-office appeal alone, but all showmen know the chances are great that an exploitation campaign to match the quality of the picture will put it across bigger and better.

THAT'S COMMON SENSE.

Therefore---when you play Universal pictures use Universal's Tools of the Trade and you'll get the most money out of every engagement. That's profit sense.

Universal gives you the best exploitation brains in the industry and this Weekly proves it.



Gentlemen--Meet the boys!

Earle E. Griggs
Atlantic

F. R. Cleaver
Detroit

Charles Brennan
Washington

R. M. Cooper
New Haven

Spencer Sladdin
Buffalo

F. F. Vincent
Portland-Seattle

Each man pictured on this page is a tried and true Exploitation Expert with many BIG TIME money making campaigns to his credit.

Each has made big pictures bigger and great pictures greater.

Book Universal and if you want help call for the "U" Exploitation Man in your territory. He'll give it to you with a will!

H. D. McBride
Los Angeles-San Francisco

Andy Sharick
Cleveland-Pittsburgh

Ned Gerber
New York

Jack Baker
Chicago

Bob Wood
Philadelphia

J. F. Lundy
Cincinnati-Indianapolis

NO MATTER HOW GOOD IT IS, - - -

No. 612—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

NO matter how good a picture it is, you've got to get behind it and boost it. You've got to do your part in making your profits.

Any product, no matter how good, needs boosting. In fact, the better it is the better it will stand energetic advertising.

Take the case of Mr. DeFrenne, manager of the Liberty Theatre in Mexico, Mo. He knew when he booked the Universal's remarkable serial "Tarzan the Mighty" that he had a ten-strike on his hands. But did he simply sit back and let it ooze its way to the public? Did he whisper about it or did he shout it from the house-tops? He did what any genuine showman would do—he got after it for all he was worth. He campaigned it and as a result he boosted his Tuesday business about 50 per cent.

Afterward he wrote as follows:—"We put considerable effort behind getting this serial started properly. We used considerable paper, heralds, slides, buttons and novelty advertising, and we opened with the first two chapters, permitting children under twelve to come in for five cents provided they presented at the box-office the coupon which was printed on the herald.

BOOST IT!

"Our business that night was OVER fifty per cent. more than our normal Tuesday business had been. Subsequent Tuesdays have fallen off about $20 under the opening Tuesday BUT THE PRESENT FIGURE STILL REPRESENTS AN INCREASE OVER OUR FORMER TUESDAY BUSINESS OF ABOUT FIFTY PER CENT.

"The results have been more than satisfactory—to me they have been startling."

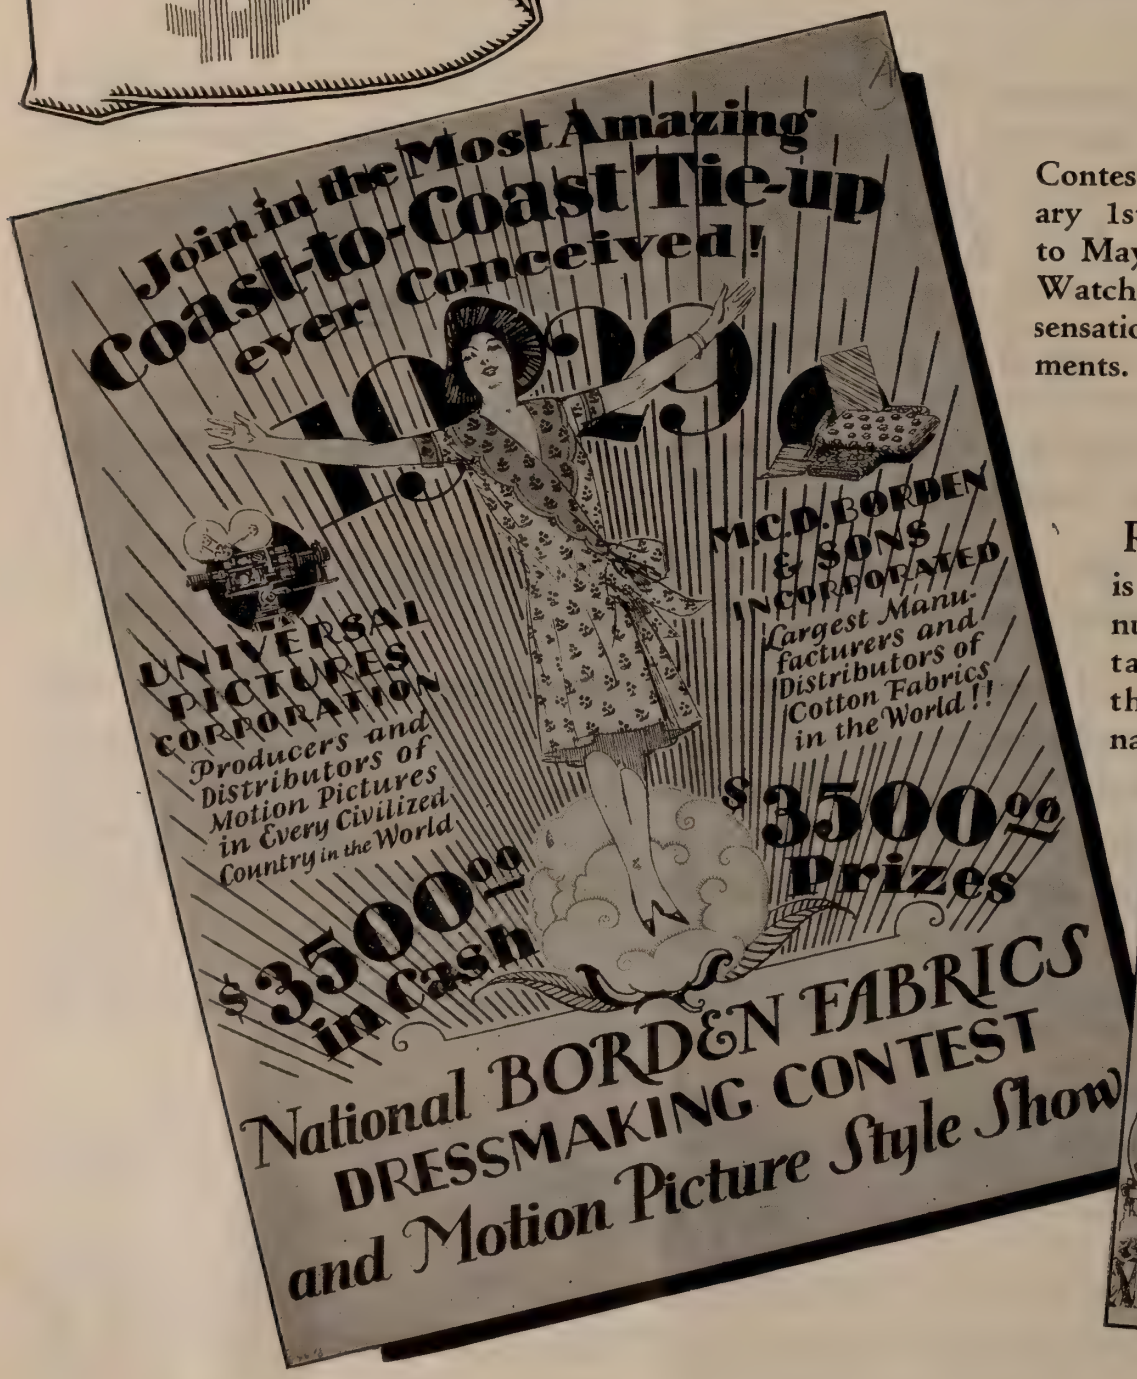
And I am happy to say that the closing episodes of this wonder serial are exactly as powerful as the early ones.

As I said before, the better your show the better it will stand advertising. It doesn't matter a bit whether it is "Uncle Tom's Cabin" or "The Man who Laughs" or "Lonesome" or "The Collegians" or the Hoot Gibson pictures or the Oswald cartoons or any of the long list of remarkable productions Universal has turned out for you—you've got to do your part by an advertising campaign which proves your own belief in your show.

It's all right to say these pictures are "naturals" and that nothing can hurt them, but that's all nonsense. If you don't show a strong enthusiasm in your wares, you can't expect your public to do so.

The cleverest advertising ideas and supplies in the world are right there in your nearest Universal exchange. The more you make use of them, the surer you are of increasing your business!

Nation



Contest starts January 1st, 1929—Runs to May 15th, 1929—Watch for further sensational announcements.

15,000
Retail Stores
is the estimated number of exploitation points throughout the nation.

all tie-ups

The M. C. D. Borden & Sons Inc. — Universal Pictures Coast to Coast Dressmaking Contest.

Illustrated in these pages is only one of the tremendous National tie-ups which will pull money into the box offices of Universal Exhibitors all over the country. Here are the highlights of the huge Retail Store-Theatre-Newspaper Campaign covering five months' Dressmaking Contest climaxed by Theatre Style Show featuring Universal Stars.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE CONTEST

PLAN

Nationwide dressmaking contest, using Borden Fabrics. Prize winning dresses to be worn by Universal stars in actual pictures.

PRIZES

97 National Cash Prizes totaling $3,500.

TIME

The contest starts January 1, 1929, and closes May 15th, 1929.

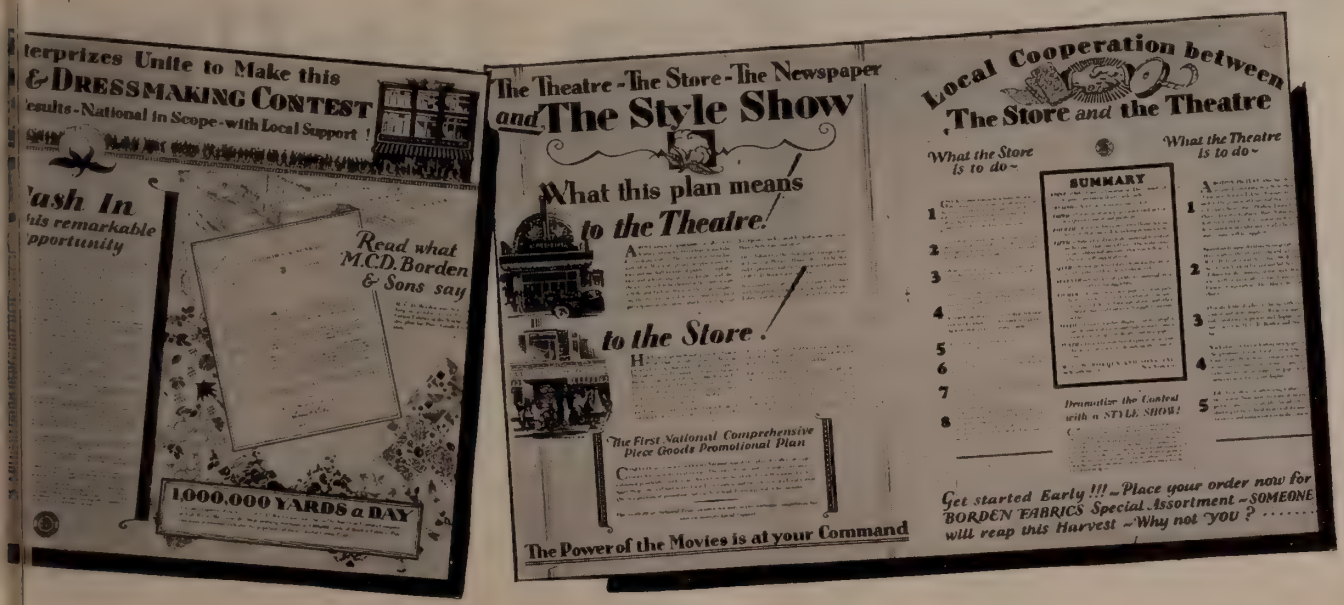
OPERATION

Each retail store dealing in Borden Fabrics may promote the contest and enter 15 of the best dresses submitted to the National Judges at Borden and Son, Inc., to compete for the 77 National Prizes and the honor of being worn by Universal stars.

THEATRE TIE-UP

Style shows to be staged at local theatres showing Universal pictures, with final crowning of the "Cotton Queen," elected by popular vote through newspaper coupons.

Contest folders supplied on request.



Nation

Look this list over — It will pay you well!

BORDEN FABRICS DRESSMAKING TIE-UP
Described on preceding pages.

KELLOGG PEP TIE-UP
Described on the opposite page.

REIS JIM SHIRTS and JIM PANTS
Reis Co. will be glad to co-operate with Exhibitors by furnishing materials. For local dealers wire Duke Parry at Erwin Wassy & Co., Graybar Bldg., New York.

BRADLEY SWIMMING SUITS
The Bradley Knitting Co. of Delavan, Wisc., tieing up with entire Collegians cast. Write them for dealer contact.

MADE-RITE SLIPPERS
Mary Philbin, Jean Hersholt, Dorothy Gulliver. Address Made-Rite Slipper Co., Washington and York Streets, Brooklyn, N. Y.

DENNISON TARZAN POSTER CONTEST
Ask Dennison Mfg. Co., Framingham, Mass., for Tarzan Poster bulletin.

SUNBATH AND SNOOKUMS
Ask Jack Rauch, 48 West 46th St., New York, for dealer contacts.

HELBROS WATCHES—COLLEGIANS TIE-UP
Special displays available at Helbein Stone Watch Co., 48 West 48th Street, New York.

SPUR TIE—UNIVERSAL STARS
For materials address Hewes & Potter, Inc., 65 Bedford Street, Boston, Mass.

ANSCO CAMERA TIE-UP
Universal Stars and Universal Pictures. Ansco Photoproducts, Binghampton, N. Y.

SAMSON TRUNKS — "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" TIE-UP
Address Schwayder Trunk Co., 1050 Broadway, Denver, Col.

SNOOKUMS CANDY BAR
Schutter-Johnson Candy Co., 20 N. Jefferson, Chicago, Ills.

WHIPPET MOTOR CARS—COLLEGIANS TIE-UP
Willys Overland Co., Toledo, Ohio.

COOK'S PAINTS—UNIVERSAL STARS
BAXTER DAVIS ADV. CO., Commerce Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

LUX SOAP UNIVERSAL STARS

DOUBLE "A" HAIR WAVERS

KLEENEX PAPER HANDKERCHIEF TIE-UP

VENDING MACHINES AND UNIVERSAL STARS

ADLER & SONS COLLEGIANS CLOTHES

BI-KNIT SLEEPING GARMENTS WITH SNOOKUMS

WATCHES—DENNY AND LA PLANTE MODELS

PRINCESS COSMETICS, UNIVERSAL STARS

SNOOKUMS SWEATERS FOR JUVENILES

PETER RABBIT PLAYTHING TIE-UP

VIM-RAY LIGHT BEAUTY TIE-UP

LUCKY STRIKE UNIVERSAL DIRECTORS TIE-UP

UNIVERSAL GOLF BALL TIE-UP

DETECTO SCALES TIE-UP

The Kellogg Pep Tie-Up--

OSWALD CANDY BAR

SNOOKUMS SAFETY PIN TIE-UP

SUPER WHEEL SKATES COLLEGIANS TIE-UP

CRAYOLA CRAYONS AND COLOR SETS SNOOKUMS TIE-UP

SNOOKUMS DOLL TIE-UP

PHANTOM RED COMPACTS TIE-UP

BUSTER BROWN SHOE TIE-UP

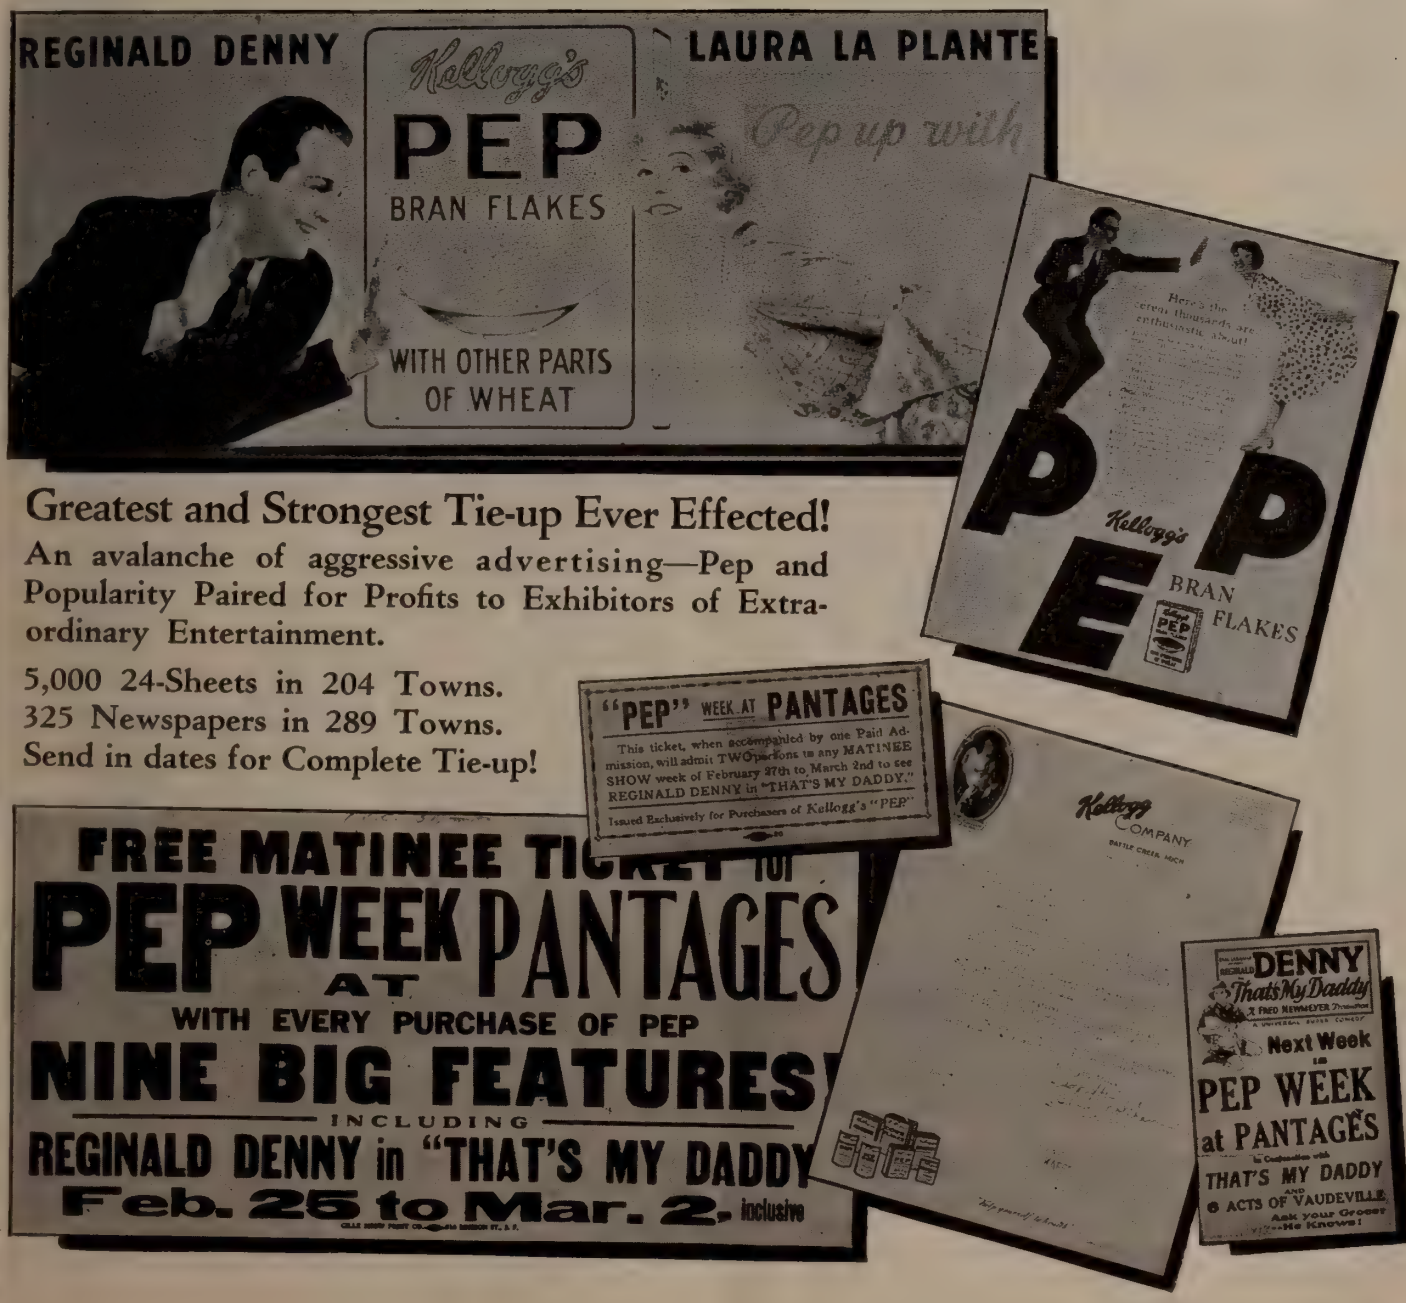
FRUIT OF THE LOOM SHIRT TIE-UP COLLEGIANS

DELTAH PEARLS, UNIVERSAL STARS—INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Details of all of the above tie-ups may be had from any Universal Exploitation Man in your territory or address

UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORP., EXPLOITATION DEPT., 730 Fifth Avenue, New York.

al tie-ups



Greatest and Strongest Tie-up Ever Effected!

An avalanche of aggressive advertising—Pep and Popularity Paired for Profits to Exhibitors of Extraordinary Entertainment.

5,000 24-Sheets in 204 Towns.
325 Newspapers in 289 Towns.
Send in dates for Complete Tie-up!

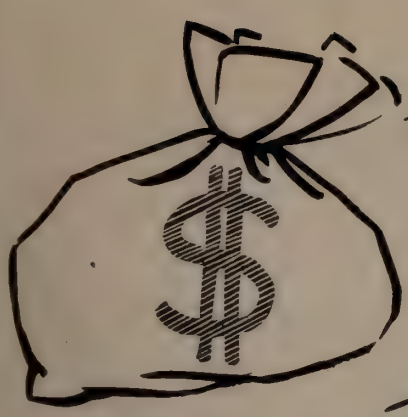
The
UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for the Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick, ~ Editor
Published by the Motion Picture Weekly Publishing Co. Heckscher Bldg. 730-5th Ave. New York City
Copyright 1928 UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION All rights reserved

Vol. XXVIII NOVEMBER 24, 1928 No. 15

EXPLOITATION

EXPLOITATION enters into every modern business. Sometimes it plays an inconspicuous part, never wholly realized by the purchasing public. In the motion picture industry, however, it is as important a factor as the product itself. It goes hand in hand with every picture produced by every company in the business. In this issue of Universal Weekly, we are offering exhibitors the benefit of concentrated exploitation, such as heralds, complete campaigns and posters.

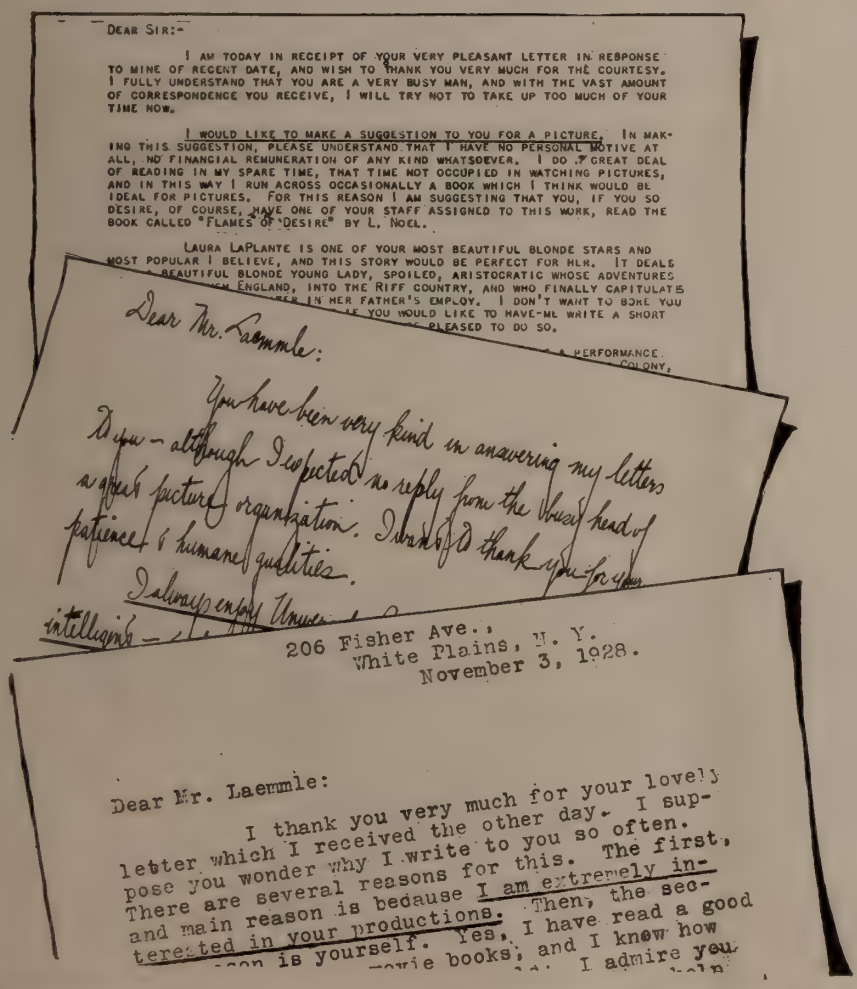
The picture above represents a poster designed by Paul Leni, the director of "The Last Warning." It was placed on a billboard in the center of Universal City, the most intimate place for such exploitation—the place where the picture was taken.



The Saturday Evening Post Dept

The Staff behind the Column that Sells the Picture to Your Public!

Below: Three letters typical of the thousands received



DEAR SIR:-

I AM TODAY IN RECEIPT OF YOUR VERY PLEASANT LETTER IN RESPONSE TO MINE OF RECENT DATE, AND WISH TO THANK YOU VERY MUCH FOR THE COURTESY. I FULLY UNDERSTAND THAT YOU ARE A VERY BUSY MAN, AND WITH THE VAST AMOUNT OF CORRESPONDENCE YOU RECEIVE, I WILL TRY NOT TO TAKE UP TOO MUCH OF YOUR TIME NOW.

I WOULD LIKE TO MAKE A SUGGESTION TO YOU FOR A PICTURE. IN MAKING THIS SUGGESTION, PLEASE UNDERSTAND THAT I HAVE NO PERSONAL MOTIVE AT ALL, NO FINANCIAL REMUNERATION OF ANY KIND WHATSOEVER. I DO A GREAT DEAL OF READING IN MY SPARE TIME, THAT TIME NOT OCCUPIED IN WATCHING PICTURES, AND IN THIS WAY I RUN ACROSS OCCASIONALLY A BOOK WHICH I THINK WOULD BE IDEAL FOR PICTURES. FOR THIS REASON I AM SUGGESTING THAT YOU, IF YOU SO DESIRE, OF COURSE, HAVE ONE OF YOUR STAFF ASSIGNED TO THIS WORK, READ THE BOOK CALLED "FLAMES OF DESIRE" BY L. NOEL.

LAURA LAPLANTE IS ONE OF YOUR MOST BEAUTIFUL BLONDE STARS AND MOST POPULAR I BELIEVE, AND THIS STORY WOULD BE PERFECT FOR HER. IT DEALS [illegible] BEAUTIFUL BLONDE YOUNG LADY, SPOILED, ARISTOCRATIC WHOSE ADVENTURES [illegible] ENGLAND, INTO THE RIFF COUNTRY, AND WHO FINALLY CAPITULATES [illegible] IN HER FATHER'S EMPLOY. I DON'T WANT TO BORE YOU [illegible] IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO HAVE ME WRITE A SHORT [illegible] PLEASED TO DO SO.

[illegible] A PERFORMANCE. [illegible] COLONY.

Dear Mr. Laemmle:

You have been very kind in answering my letters [illegible] although I expected no reply from the busy head of a great picture organization. I wish to thank you for your patience & humane qualities.

I always enjoy Univ[illegible] intelligib[illegible]

206 Fisher Ave.,
White Plains, N. Y.
November 3, 1928.

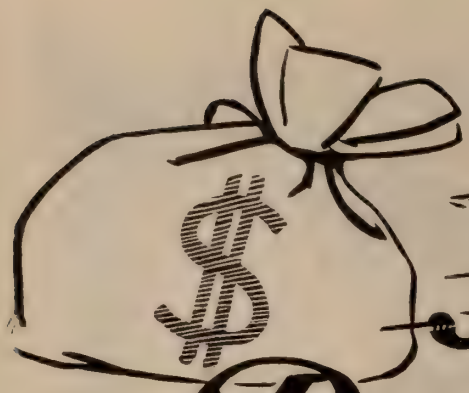
Dear Mr. Laemmle:

I thank you very much for your lovely letter which I received the other day. I suppose you wonder why I write to you so often. There are several reasons for this. The first, and main reason is because I am extremely interested in your productions. Then, the second is yourself. Yes, I have read a good [illegible] movie books, and I know how [illegible] I admire you [illegible]

Ten of them (in New York and Universal City) specialists in their work. They assist Carl Laemmle in the difficult task of handling the thousands of letters in response to his Satevepost Column.

They find out for the fan when and where a certain Universal Picture will be playing in his community. They investigate the box-office possibilities of stories and plays suggested by readers for Universal to produce. They circulate the opinions of "Watch-This-Column" readers on Universal pictures and stars among the production heads—to be used as a guide in making future pictures. They are now sounding out the public attitude on talking pictures for the trade papers.

And every letter answered is helping you to put over Universal Pictures in your town.



Sales Promotion!

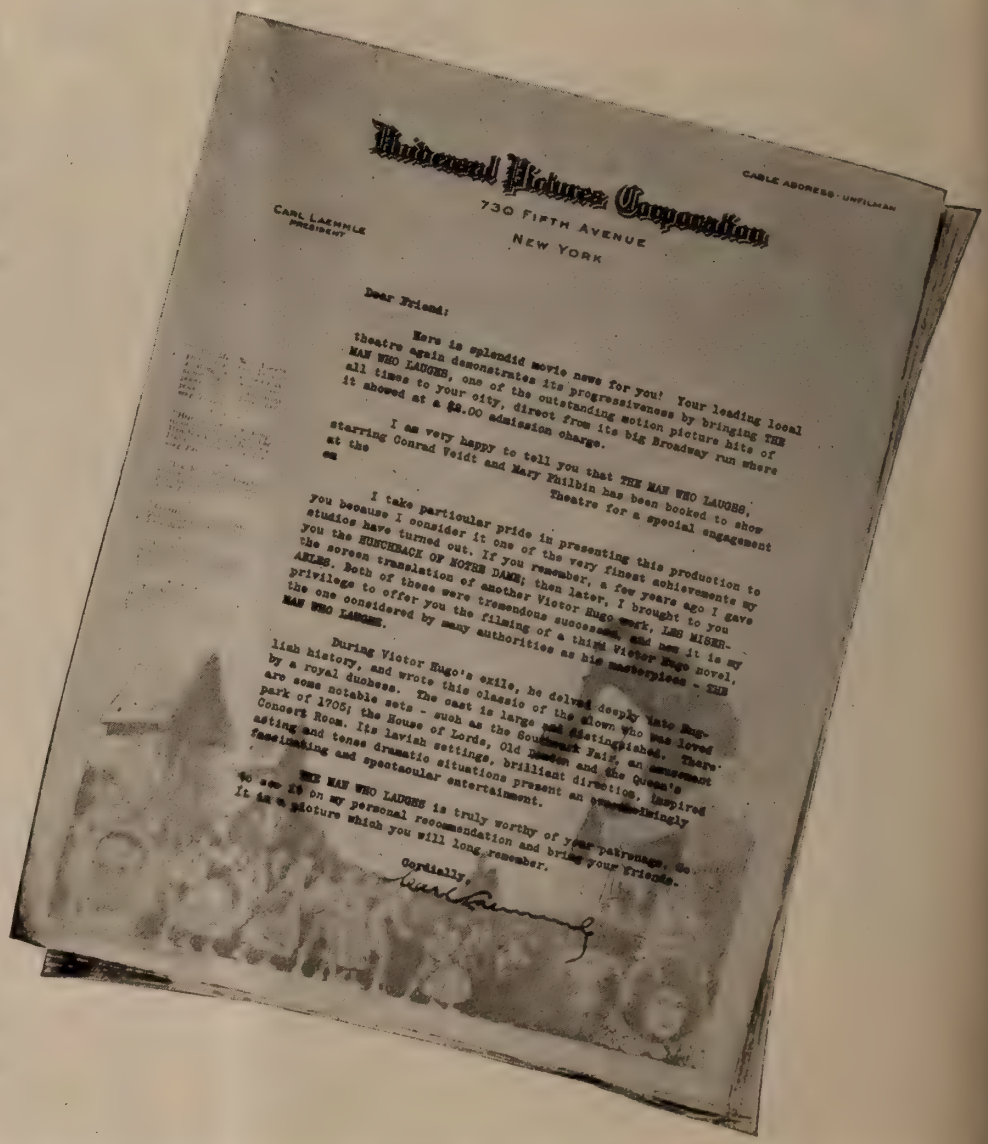
Carl Laemmle personally invites the best people of YOUR town to YOUR theatre!

Real Cooperation

When you book a big Universal Production give your Exchange a list of the best people of your town. Under first class postage a personal letter similar to the one on the right will be mailed to each name. This letter is a knockout in the way of personal exploitation!

He Sends This Little Book, Too!

With each letter so mailed is enclosed the little book of a thousand wonders described on page 32 of this "Universal Weekly." Many hundreds of thousands of these books have already been mailed in this manner.



Universal Pictures Corporation

CABLE ADDRESS - UNFILMAN

CARL LAEMMLE
PRESIDENT

730 FIFTH AVENUE
NEW YORK

Dear Friend:

Here is splendid movie news for you! Your leading local theatre again demonstrates its progressiveness by bringing THE MAN WHO LAUGHS, one of the outstanding motion picture hits of all times to your city, direct from its big Broadway run where it showed at a $2.00 admission charge.

I am very happy to tell you that THE MAN WHO LAUGHS, starring Conrad Veidt and Mary Philbin has been booked to show at the Theatre for a special engagement on

I take particular pride in presenting this production to you because I consider it one of the very finest achievements my studios have turned out. If you remember, a few years ago I gave you the HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME; then later, I brought to you the screen translation of another Victor Hugo work, LES MISERABLES. Both of these were tremendous successes, and now it is my privilege to offer you the filming of a third Victor Hugo novel, the one considered by many authorities as his masterpiece - THE MAN WHO LAUGHS.

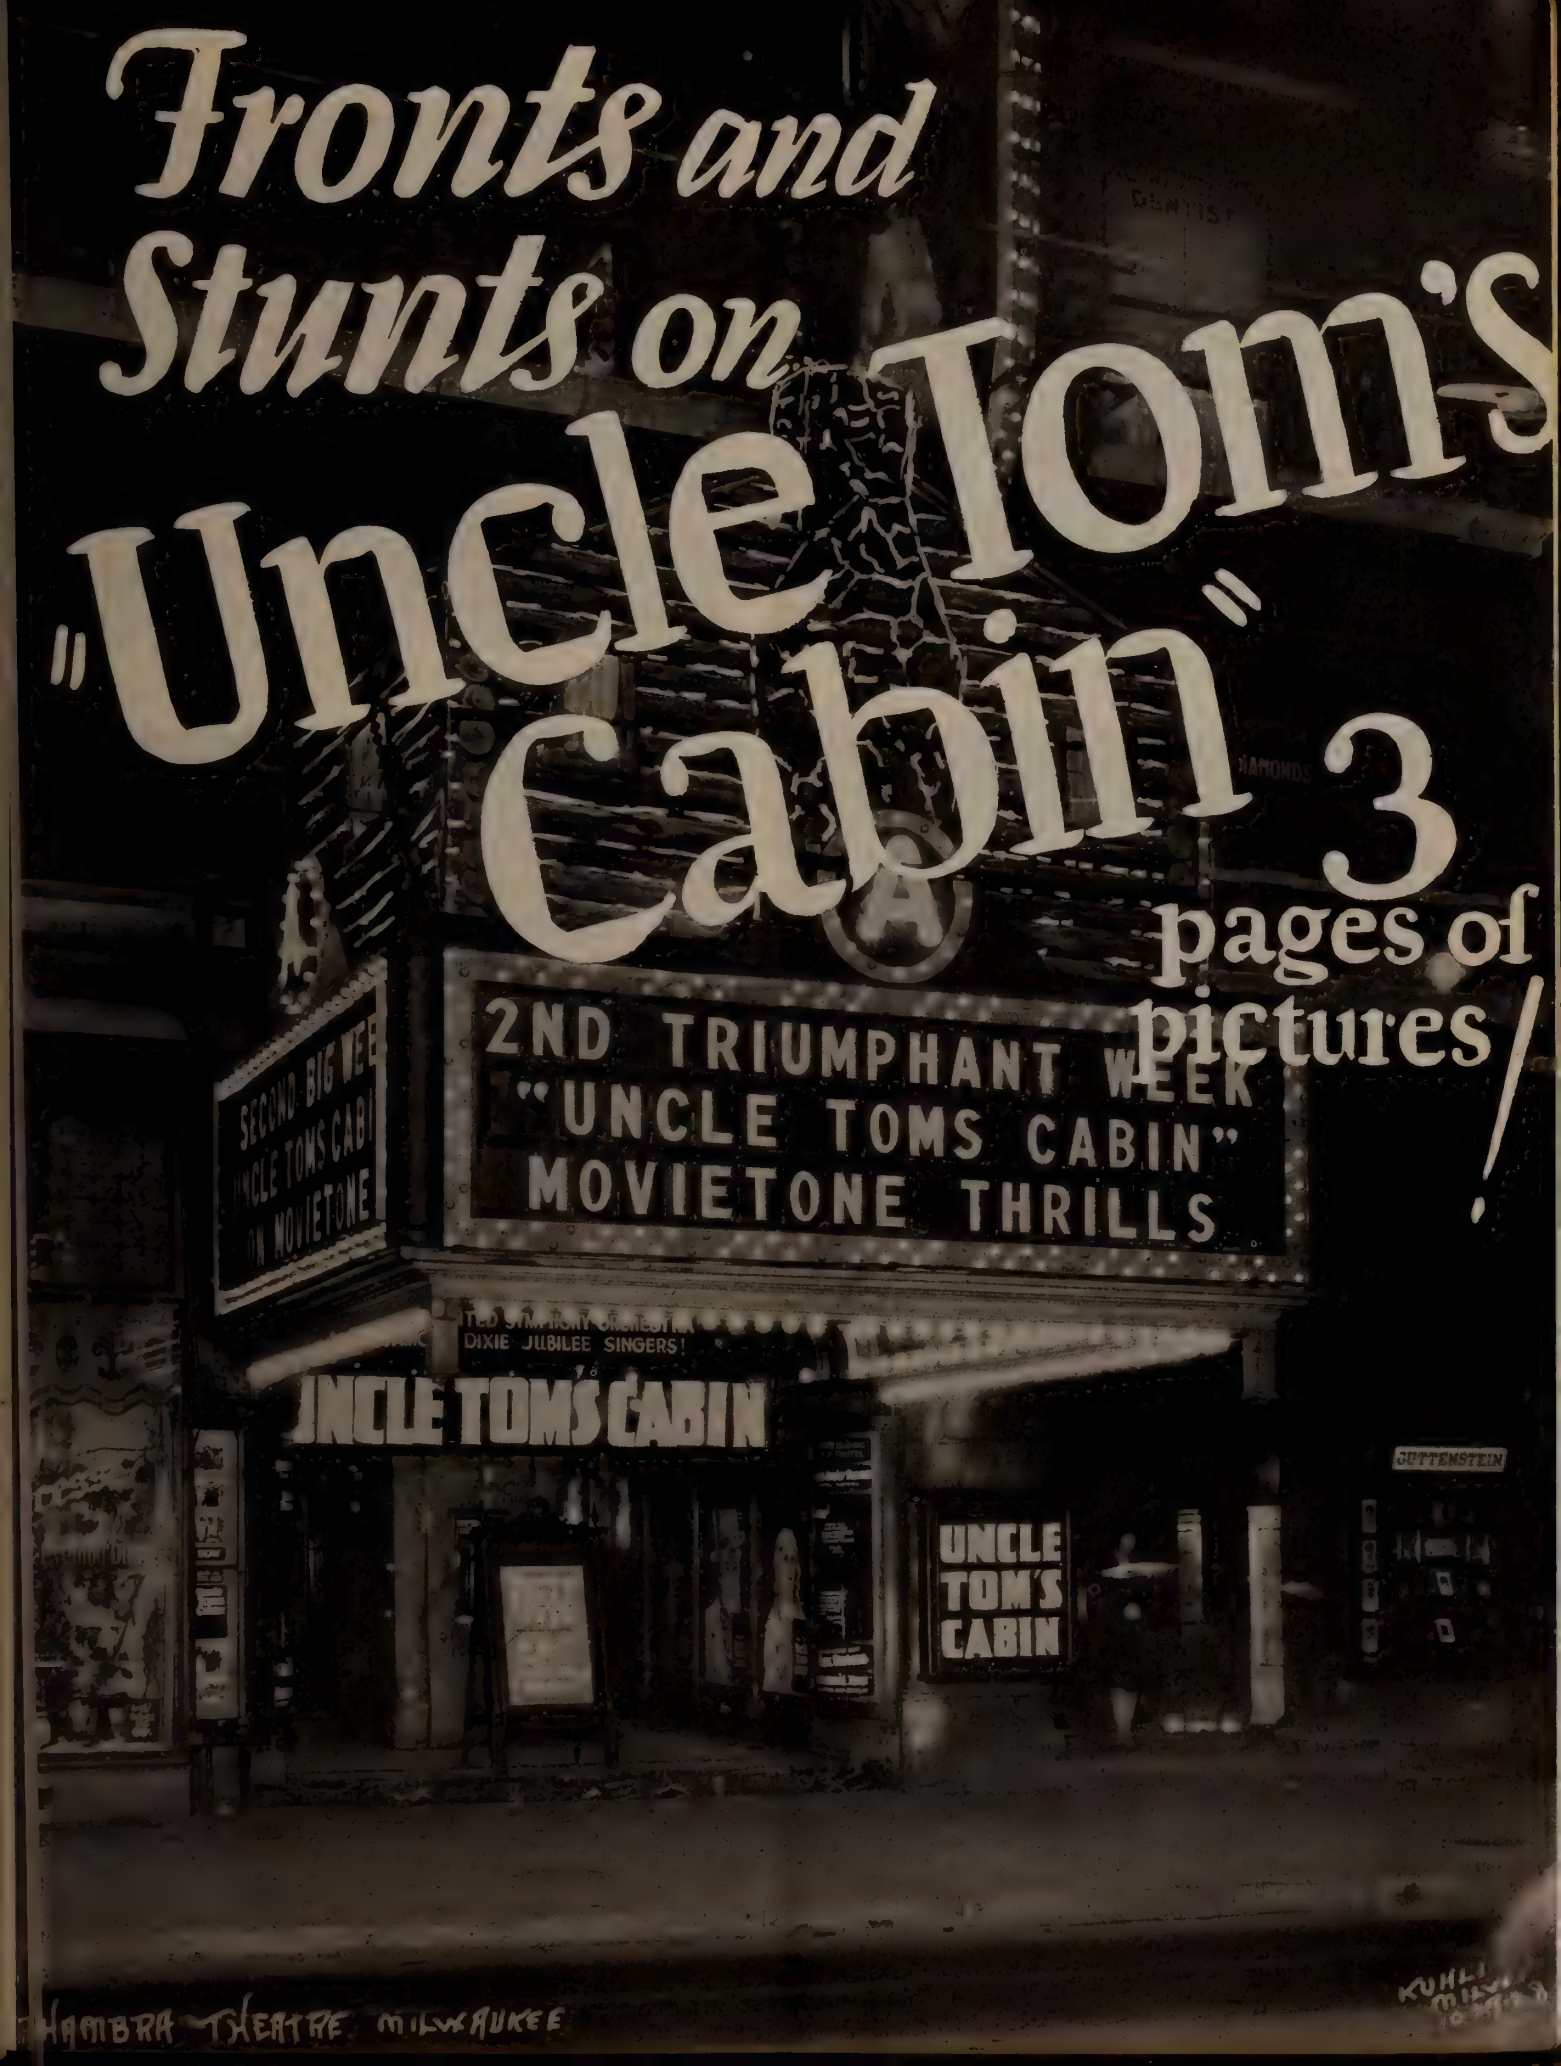
During Victor Hugo's exile, he delved deeply into English history, and wrote this classic of the clown who was loved by a royal duchess. The cast is large and distinguished. There are some notable sets - such as the Southwark Fair, an amusement park of 1705; the House of Lords, Old London and the Queen's Concert Room. Its lavish settings, brilliant direction, inspired acting and tense dramatic situations present an overwhelmingly fascinating and spectacular entertainment.

THE MAN WHO LAUGHS is truly worthy of your patronage. So to see it on my personal recommendation and bring your friends. It is a picture which you will long remember.

Cordially,

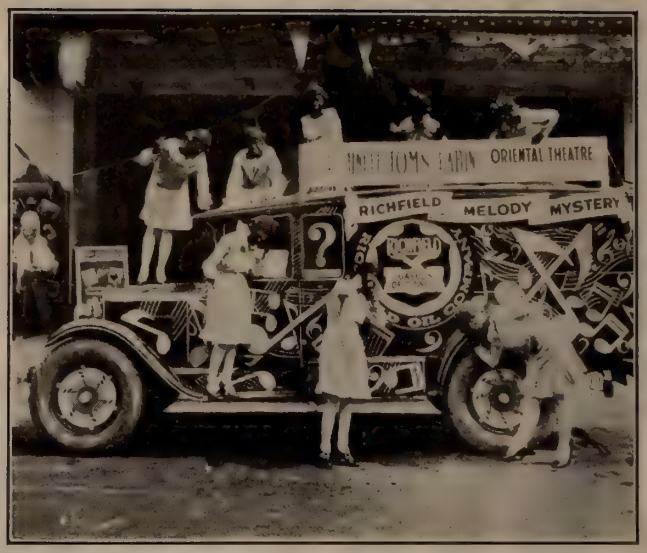
Carl Laemmle

Carl Laemmle Personally Invites Them!



Fronts and Stunts on "Uncle Tom's Cabin"
3 pages of pictures!
2ND TRIUMPHANT WEEK
"UNCLE TOMS CABIN"
MOVIETONE THRILLS
SECOND BIG WEE
UNCLE TOMS CABI
IN MOVIETONE
DIXIE JUBILEE SINGERS!
UNCLE TOM'S CABIN
UNCLE TOM'S CABIN
GUTTENSTEIN
HAMBRA THEATRE MILWAUKEE

Topsy Ushers of the Oriental Theatre, Portland, Oregon.



Topsy Ushers going over the top—Oriental Theatre, Portland, Ore.

Show Window Tie-up for Criterion Theatre, Los Angeles.

Uncle Tom Float for the Criterion Theatre, Los Angeles.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" Float for the Capitol Theatre.

Ballyhoo on "Uncle Tom's Cabin" for the Allen Theatre, Akron.

Leavenworth Soldiers' Home tie-up. Globe Theatre, Kansas City.

Macomb Theatre, Mt. Clemens, Mich. Special Bus Lines from Nearby Towns Direct to Theatre.

Cast for Minstrel Prologue, Uptown Theatre, Wichita, Kas.

Effective Banner on the Willis Theatre.

Miniature "Eliza Crossing the Ice," Criterion Theatre, Los Angeles

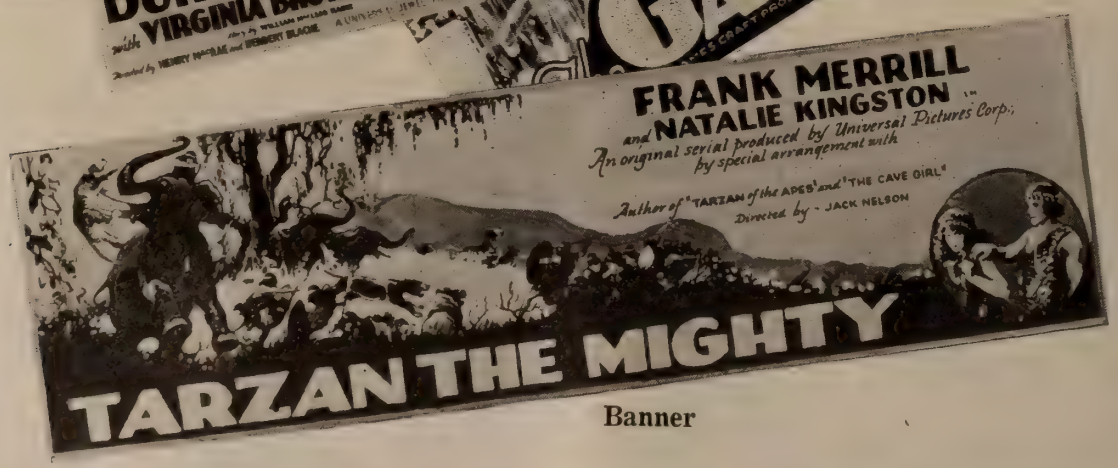
Window Card Tie-up with Street Cars for Uptown Theatre, Wichita, Kans.

Acce

EVERY conceivable kind of accessory, everything you need to help you put your pictures over—alike in one respect, sure-fire pulling power. No wonder Universal is famous for its great line of accessories.

3-Sheet

24-Sheet

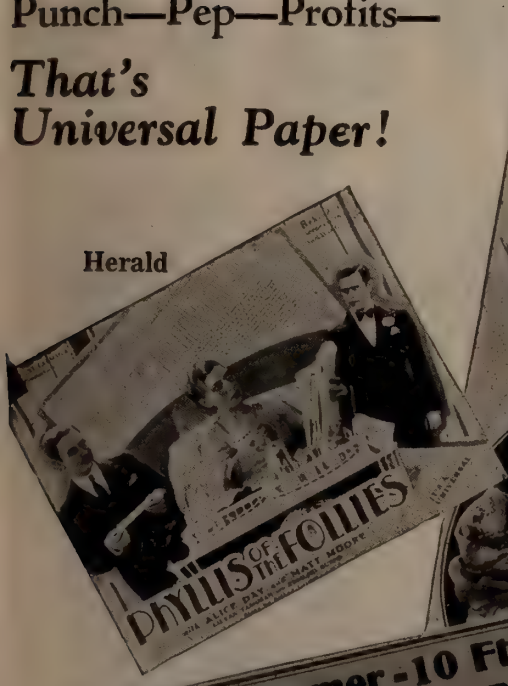


Banner

ssories

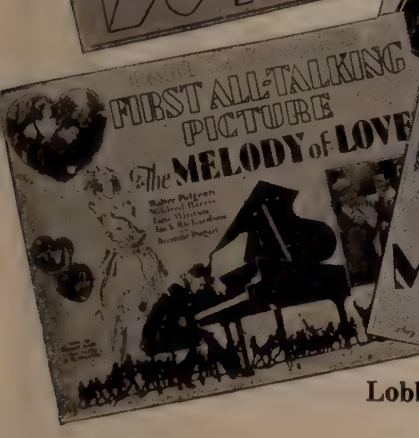
Punch—Pep—Profits—

That's Universal Paper!



Herald

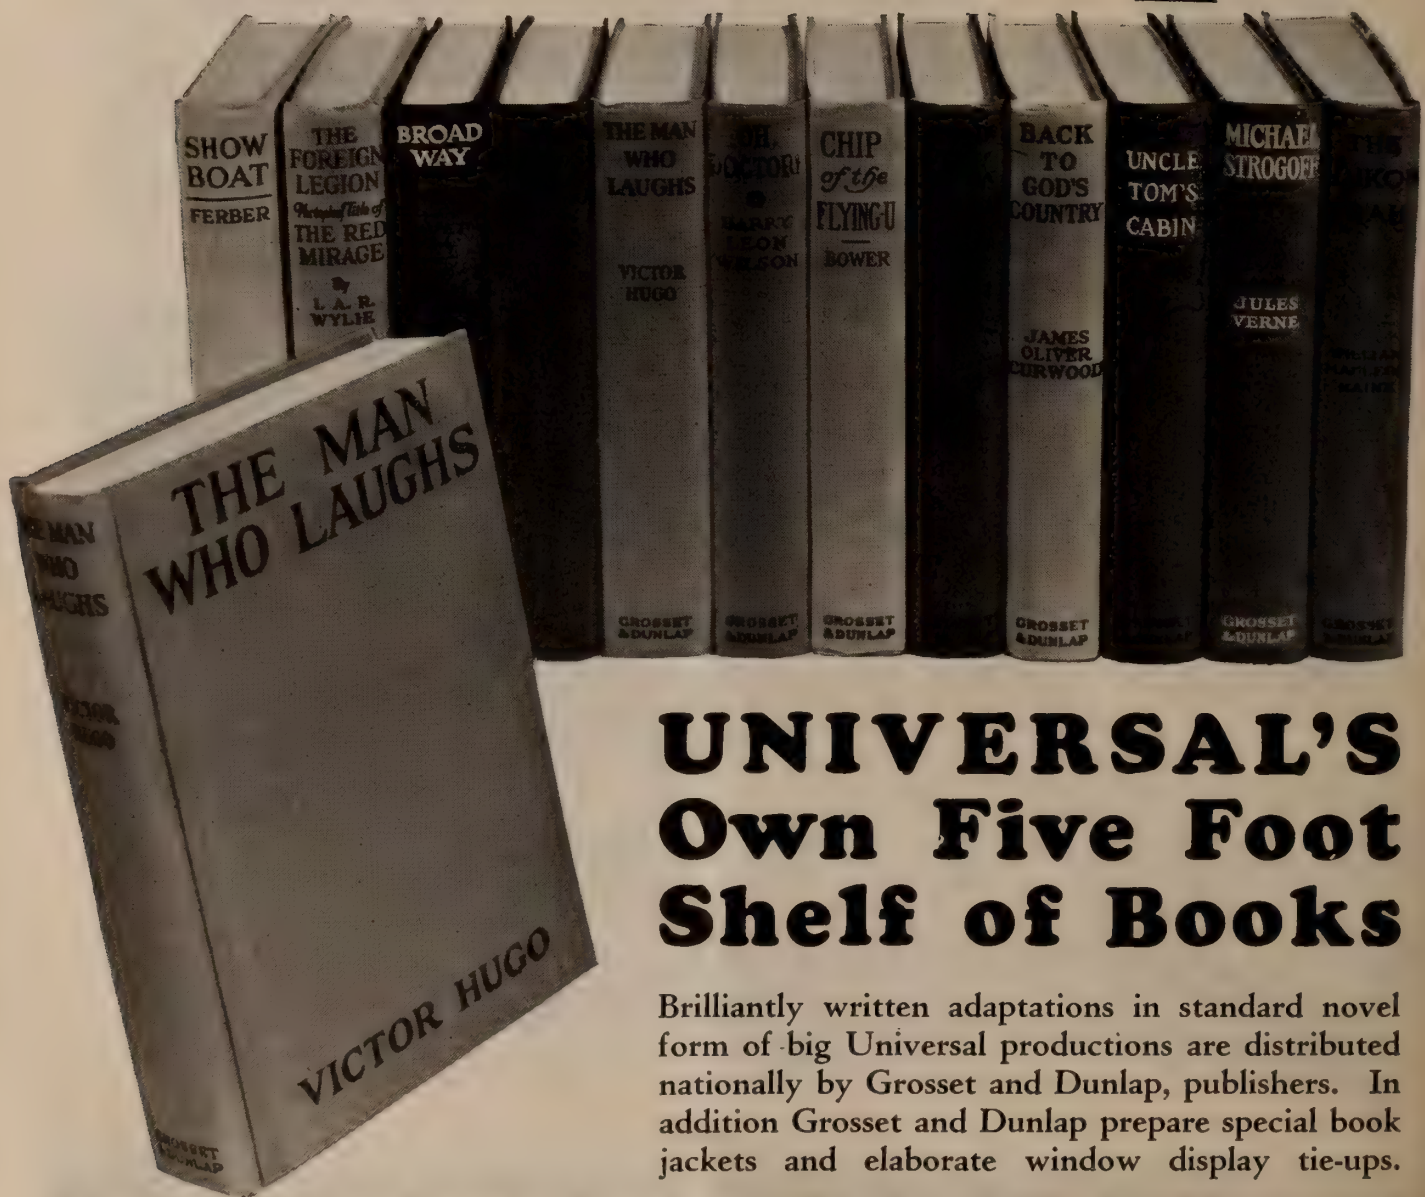
Roto Herald



Lobby Cards

1-Sheet

Book tie-ups



UNIVERSAL'S Own Five Foot Shelf of Books

Brilliantly written adaptations in standard novel form of big Universal productions are distributed nationally by Grosset and Dunlap, publishers. In addition Grosset and Dunlap prepare special book jackets and elaborate window display tie-ups.

These Great Book Tie-Ups Help Sell the Picture!

Special Exploitation Service for "The Man Who Laughs"

Your Universal Salesman will tell you all about it--ask him he knows!

UNIVERSAL SHOWMAN'S KIT

16 Sample Exhibitor Aids!

EVERYTHING to guarantee capacity business COMPLETE for "THE MAN WHO LAUGHS"

(1) Complete Press Sheet Including: (A) Enormous 8-page Exploitation Section. (B) Contracts and Other Documents for Exhibitor. (C) Wonderful Herald, 39 Photographs in Rotogravure. (D) Giant 10 pages of Press Copy and Cuts. (E) Post Card Ballot Plan for Packing 'em in. (F) Amazing Reviews from nine New York Papers. (G) Keynote Ad. Sheets. Dozen of Ads., All Sizes. (H) Ad. Sheets No. 2. From Slugs to Half Pages. (2) Lobby Hanger. (3) Heralds. (4) Serialization (5) Tie-Up Window Posters. (6) Fan Booklet. (7) Feature Story. (8) Country wide Reviews. (9) Song. (10) Crossett & Dunlop Book. (11) Sateve post Ads. (12) Novelty Hats. (13) Novelty Mailing Cards. (14) National Cosmetic Tie-Up. (15) Fan Promotion Letter. (16) Special Lobby News Bulletin.

There never was a showman's service like this before--there may never be another like it again

EVERYTHING TO GUARANTEE CAPACITY BUSINESS FOR YOUR HOUSE—all in one BIG SHOWMAN'S KIT . . . samples of all the wonderful accessories, novelties, tie-ups, newspaper services that is helping to put the picture over in big towns and small towns all over the country. Everything you need is in it.

This is not Press Sheet talk but actual samples of the 15 elements of UNIVERSAL SHOWMANSHIP designed to help you put "THE MAN WHO LAUGHS" across in the biggest possible money way for you.

Exploitation Man Tells How to Put Over "The MAN WHO LAUGHS" to BIG Money

(Especially reprinted from Nov. 3, 1928, issue of Exhibitors' Herald.)

SO extensive is that compilation of tie-up proposals that they are printed herewith practically in full. It is to be noted that many of them can be used for other productions and thus merit filing away in the scrapbook.

Tie up with your local candy store on the following stunt: Sell the merchant an idea to have an advance sale on loose candy at so much a bag. Number each bag. Then place a show card in the window with ten red seals. Under each seal there should be a number. To the person who buys a bag of candy and the number corresponds with the number under the seal the person will receive a free pass to see the picture.

Arrangements have been made with the Grosset and Dunlap people, publishers of the novel, "The Man Who Laughs." Locate immediately the bookstore in your town who has this novel for sale. Arrange with him for a special window display. You can suggest to him that you will give a free pass for each novel sold. This will help him to sell the novel and in return you should receive a very effective window display.

Tie up with your local music stores on the theme song, "When Love Comes Stealing." This song is published by the Robbins Music Co.

Tie up with your local music dealer on the following stunt. Arrange with him to place a phonograph in the window, also a show card with the following caption, TO THE FIRST TWENTY-FIVE PERSONS GUESSING THE NAME OF THE PIECES NOW BEING PLAYED EACH WILL RECEIVE ONE FREE PASS TO THE BLANK THEATRE TO SEE "THE MAN WHO LAUGHS."

• • •

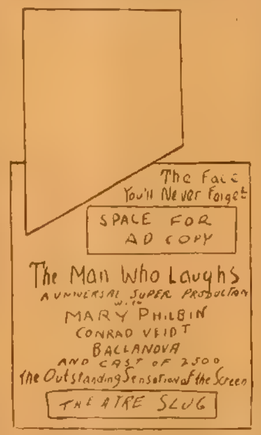
Tie up with as many merchants as you can on the following stunt: One week before the showing of the picture place a window card in each window with a big red question mark. Have copy on the card reading: IF YOUR TELEPHONE NUMBER APPEARS ON THIS CARD ON BLANK DATE YOU WILL RECEIVE A FREE PASS TO SEE "THE MAN WHO LAUGHS" AT THE BLANK THEATRE. On the day before the showing place five telephone numbers picked at random from the telephone book in space designated for same. The persons who have these numbers will be the prize winners. The merchant will be glad to place these numbers for you.

By all means use plenty of paper in exploiting this picture. REMEMBER, ADVERTISING ALWAYS PAYS.

Use the roto herald. It is very effective. When distributing this herald number each one. Select certain numbers, these numbers to be redeemed for tickets.

Tie up with the merchants, give them a certain amount of Heralds to be distributed from their stores.

Use as many ones, threes, sixes and twenty-fours as you possibly can. Remember that every time you get the name of the picture before the public it means more business.



Rough mimeograph sketch of ad layout in campaign laid out by Jack Baker of Universal's Chicago exchange for "The Man Who Laughs"

• • •

Universal has a very effective lobby hanger, it is securely tied and is made of cardboard. It is made into four sections, each section about five inches apart. Consult the press sheet regarding this useful accessory.

Many useful and attractive lobby displays can be made from Universal's accessories. Allow me to suggest a few for your benefit.

Secure the one or three sheet of "The Man Who Laughs," cut out the figure and mount on heavy cardboard, then cut out the letters of the title, mount these in an extraordinary fashion, you will find that when the job is finished you will have an attractive lobby card.

Use the special lobby hangers. They will attract attention.

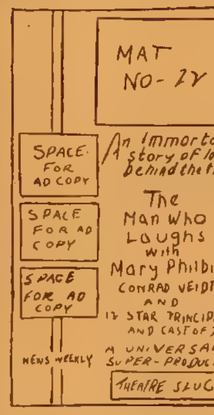
Make large cut-outs of the most important characters.

Use a cut-out of "The Man Who Laughs." Secure a laughing record from your local music dealer. Place the phonograph behind the cut-out playing the record. You will find that this stunt will attract attention to the sign, which will inform the public when you are showing the picture.

The following suggestion is one that will create interest and one that will not cost a lot of money.

The stunt is known as the "Mysterious Gwnyplaine."

Advertise in your theatre that you have received word from a mysterious man by name of "GWNYPLAINE" and that he will soon visit your town. Advertise this about two weeks in advance of the showing. Convey this message to your local newspaper. Explain to him that you wish to tie up with the paper to publish stories regarding this character, after you have seen the editor visit the merchants, explaining to them about the stunt and that you want this mysterious man to visit their store on such and such a date. Ask them to post a notice in their window to this effect. Advise the newspaper what you have done. Then try to secure additional space advertising that the mysterious man will visit the store of ———, merchant, on such a day at such an hour. To those who can identify the mysterious man each will receive a pass to see the picture.



Conduct an ad contest giving prizes to the ones who submit the best advertisement on the picture.

Arrange a special showing for the newspaper people. Use your own judgment in selecting the night.

The title, "The Man Who Laughs," suggests a very good tie-up for a single or double page "truck" for your local newspaper. Sell the advertising manager the idea to sell the merchants of your town an ad on this special page. Have each merchant use a headline caption similar to the following:

"THE MAN WHO LAUGHS" IS THE MAN WHO BUYS ..... TIRES.

• • •

COURTESY DRIVING CAMPAIGN

Arrange with your local newspaper to publish the license numbers of motorists who are polite to pedestrians. For example—Stopping their car to allow children to cross the street. Give free tickets to see the picture to the motorists whose license numbers are published.

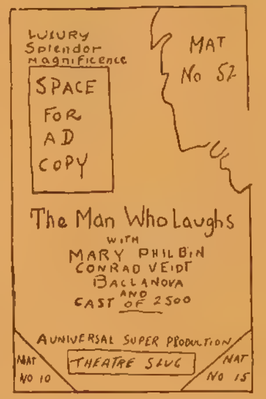
Arrange with your local newspaper editor to publish the serialization of "THE MAN WHO LAUGHS." It is in twelve episodes, pictorial form. This serial should be published at least two weeks in advance of the showing.

Arrange with your local editor to publish an essay contest under the title, "WHAT FEATURE OF THIS NEWSPAPER DO YOU LIKE THE BEST?" Limit the contest to 150 words. Present free passes to the contestants who submit the best essays, or if you prefer, give cash prizes.

Conduct a long-haired beauty contest at least two weeks in advance of the showing. Tie up with the editor to publish the pictures of some of the entrants. Select at least ten of the girls to appear at your theatre on the evening of the first showing of "THE MAN WHO LAUGHS." This tie-up practical in view of the fact that Mary Philbin, the star, has long tresses.

• • •

A novelty stunt that will create interest is to arrange either with your local newspaper or with a local photograther to take pictures of various groups of people, you can also tie up with several merchants of your town in this fashion. Let them put a card in their window advertising that the mysterious photographer will be at his store at a certain time. The photographer is to take a picture of the persons assembled at each store. Now here is the gag, either have the newspaper publish these pictures or put them on a one-sheet board and place the photo taken in each store on this board. Ring the heads of two or three persons. To these people you can give prizes. It will not only create interest for the merchant but will also create interest for the picture.



Have the newspaper publish various scenes from the picture. Let the public title each picture, offering cash prizes and theatre tickets for the best titles submitted. Run this contest for a period of six days preceding the run of the picture.

Publish an essay contest and offer free tickets for the best essays submitted. The following titles are suggestions for this contest:

THE STRANGEST THING I EVER SAW.

MY FIRST EXPERIENCE IN LOVE.

THE SPOOKIEST STORY I EVER HEARD.

THE MOST THRILLING MOMENT OF MY LIFE.

Conduct a long word contest using the name "GWYNPLAINE." Offer free tickets to the persons who submit the greatest amount of words formed from the above name.

Conduct a star guessing contest. Secure seven or eight stills of Mary Philbin in her former pictures. Have the editor publish these pictures. The object of the contest is to have their readers identify as many of the pictures naming them as possible. The following pictures Mary Philbin has appeared in: "MERRY GO ROUND," "PHANTOM OF THE OPERA," "SURRENDER," "LOVE ME AND THE WORLD IS MINE," "THE MAN WHO LAUGHS."

Conduct a Mary Philbin Similarity contest, selecting as the winner the girl who resembles Mary Philbin. Publish pictures of the various entrants in the local newspaper.

If it is impossible for your local newspaper to sell a special page arrange with the advertising manager to sell the various merchants an idea to use photos of the various characters in their own ads. To the persons who can identify them you will give free tickets to see the picture. Their answers must be accompanied by a fifty word letter on the subject "Why Do You Think That Mary Philbin Is the Screen's Greatest Actress." This idea will keep you in lieu of postal regulations.

Tie up with the traction company and bus lines, inserting cards in each with the following caption: "TAKE THE ..... TO THE ..... THEATRE AND SEE "THE MAN WHO LAUGHS." Same idea may be applied to the taxicabs.

Tie up with a local automobile distributor, using a car on the streets. Place a sign on a car with the following caption, STOP ME AND I WILL DRIVE YOU TO THE ..... THEATRE WHERE "THE MAN WHO LAUGHS." Advertise this THEY ARE SHOWING UNIVERSAL'S PICTURE medium in your theatre that the ..... Automobile Co. will drive their patrons to the theatre free of charge. Sell the auto dealer on the fact that they will have an opportunity in selling the riders or interesting them in the car.

Soap lettering is always effective. Soap all empty store windows with advertisements on the picture.

Use the old peep hole stunt. Select an empty store window, cover same with a bright red show card color with the exception of a small peep hole. Place a sign in the window reading "STOP, LOOK THRU THIS HOLE." In the back of the window have a one or three display also a special card telling them when you are going to show the picture.

Employ a man to hand out small business cards with the following caption: I AM NOT "THE MAN WHO LAUGHS," BUT HE WILL SOON BE HERE AT THE ..... THEATRE.

By all means tie up with a radio station if there is one in your town. Many stunts can be worked over the air.

A tie-up has been arranged with the Carlyle Laboratories, who are now using Mary Philbin on all of their advertising for their merchandise "PHANTOM RED COSMETICS."

Call on all drug stores and beauty parlors. If they handle this merchandise, arrange with them for window displays. The Carlyle people will furnish them with photos and window display material. The following suggestions are offered to you regarding this stunt:

With each purchase of "Phantom Red Cosmetics" you will give one free pass.

Arrange with the largest drug store for a window display, having a girl demonstrating the proper way to apply "Phantom Red Cosmetics."

About two weeks in advance of the showing of the picture, distribute small cards to each of your patrons. On each card will be printed a letter. To the person who secures the complete set of letters spelling Philbin you will give one free pass to see the picture. Each card is to carry copy regarding the picture.

Advertise on your screen two weeks in advance that you wish your patrons to leave their names at the box-office or with the doorman. Select twenty or thirty names from the amount you receive. On the night preceding, or if you wish the first night of the showing of the picture, you will flash on the screen the names that you select. The persons are to receive some small prize. Use your own judgement in prizes.

Tie up with the high school of your town, arrange for a special students' matinee. Almost every high school student has read "THE MAN WHO LAUGHS."

By all means use every medium possible in getting circulars into the homes. The following are some suggestions which are not new, but have proven to be of great help in exploiting pictures.

LAUNDRY SHIRT BOARDS
BREAD PACKAGES
SHOPPING BAGS
MILK BOTTLE TOPS
MILK CARDS
GROCERY BAGS

Mailing lists are always practical. Let me suggest that you send an oversized post card to as many people as you desire. Incorporate a very snappy slogan and good copy. The people are bound to see this card and take notice of its unusual size.

If you contemplate in circularizing the town allow me to suggest the following stunt: Use a cut-out door hanger with the following caption, "GOOD MORNING, NEIGHBOR. BE SURE AND VISIT THE ..... THEATRE ON ....., DATE AND SEE UNIVERSAL'S SUPER-PRODUCTION "THE MAN WHO LAUGHS.'"

Use the old telephone gag having one of your ushers to call as many people as you desire using the following conversation: "Hello, this is 'The Man Who Laughs,' I will be in town soon, be sure and see me." Use this gag at least two weeks in advance of the showing.

Tie up with the local library to allow you the privilege of placing bookmarks in all books leaving the library.

Tie up with the local restaurants, supplying them with menu blanks. At the top have the following printed: HAVE YOUR DINNER DOWNTOWN, THEN GO TO THE ..... THEATRE AND SEE UNIVERSAL'S SUPER-PRODUCTION "THE MAN WHO LAUGHS."

If there are any large factories in town supply them with blank pay envelopes, using one side for advertising the picture.

Watch for sensational new stuff on

"SHOW BOAT" and "BROADWAY"

UNIVERSAL is preparing a marvelous line-up of advertising and exploitation material on these two supers that will amaze you. Usable stuff—and BIG, to match with the size and prestige of these tremendous box-office magnets. Material such as you've never seen the like in all your showman's experience. Always a leader in exhibitor aids, Universal is going to far outdo even themselves this time.

Universal Showmanship Leads!

Seasonal

VERSATILE STUNTS for SPECIAL OCCASIONS!

Universal's Exploitation Department is alive to every opportunity. It is impossible to record all the variety of original selling stunts. Space in this publication permits but a few to be shown.

Window display for "The Foreign Legion," Union Square Theatre, Pittsfield, Mass.

For something special to fit a special occasion ask the Universal Exploitation man. He will give you new and original ideas that will put the show over big.

Exploitation!

Ask your Universal Exploitation man what to do for Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Year's or for any other

RED LETTER OR HOLIDAY

"THANKSGIVING"

Another chance to decorate your lobby in keeping with the season! Another chance to use your head on your bookings for this holiday week in order to be sure you have something of universal appeal!

MORNING SHOW FOR THE KIDDIES

Another chance to run a special morning matinee to gather in some extra coin on the day - a special program with some kiddie stuff in it to bring them out early in the morning. A chance to give false faces away as souvenirs for this morning matinee. A chance to run a masquerade contest on your stage as a special feature of this matinee! Go after the special morning matinee, selling tickets in advance and put it over to big business! The people you pull to this show will not hurt your afternoon attendance a bit. It will clear the way to take better care of the overflow crowd during the afternoon and evening of Thanksgiving.

SPECIAL MIDNIGHT SHOW ON THANKSGIVING EVE

If your city is one in which midnight shows are looked on with favor, you can certainly run one on Thanksgiving Eve. You can sell tickets in advance for this show - putting them on sale two weeks ahead. You can shout about it as a gala Thanksgiving celebration, promoting some local organization to put on some masquerade skit on the stage. Perhaps you can tie up with the local newspaper to give prizes for the best ragamuffin costume and make the selection via a contest on your stage similar to the way you do with the kiddie contest mentioned above.

FREE TURKEYS!

As a feature of this special show you can offer to give away three or five or ten turkeys free to people holding ... p the "GIFT NITE" memorandum I sent you ... ining a give-away plan on a coupon basis ... with the lottery laws. Employ the plan in this case in this case. You can make a special deal with your local butcher to give you the birds for nothing or at a very small price by permitting him to put a huge bird in a pretty cage in your lobby and giving him plenty of publicity on the idea.

(continued next page)

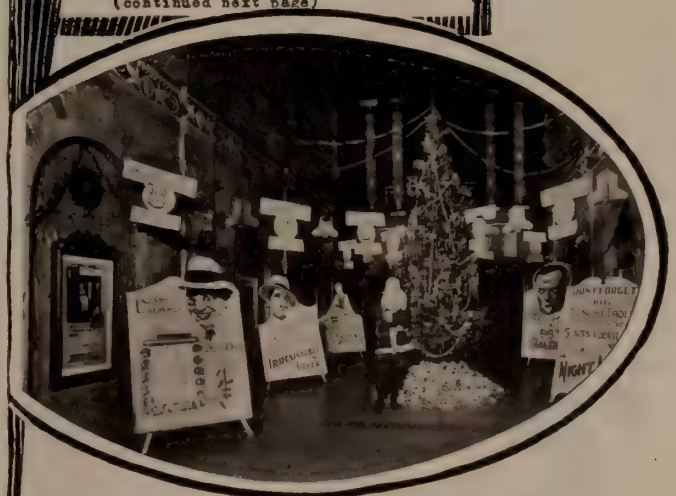
Advertise one week in advance on your screen, with flash banners and circulars, that Thanksgiving turkeys will be given away free at your theatre on Thanksgiving Eve. We have been ordered to put this stunt on at all our theatres wherever it is practical to do so. If yours is a theatre in which you cannot put the stunt on, please write me at once, telling me why you are not going to do it. We expect to see in your Operation Report that you have done this and want your comment on how it works out.

We do not want you to be content with just "big" business on Thanksgiving. That's to be expected on this holiday. You can do business that day without a nickel's worth of advertising! We not only expect big business - we expect extra money from extra shows on that day! GO TO IT!

And don't forget, you're in the "PEP" Drive - the extra business will help you "over the top!"



A Special Christmas Lobby Display

Press Sheets

—with the modern note!

IN tune with the times—that's Universal's press sheets. The sample ads show how the problem of selling sound pictures is handled. The rest of the press sheet's just as snappy, just as novel. Universal's progressive policy gives you the latest ideas and the best to help you sell your pictures!

CARL LAEMMLE'S
First
ALL-TALKING PICTURE

WALTER PIDGEON
Mildred Harris and Jane Winton

Producing an amazing realism far beyond the limitations of a stage play—

Last 2 Times Today

Walter Pidgeon
Mildred Harris
Jane Winton

All Talking Sensation!
Tin Pan Alley-Soldiers and Songs

Voices Give It the Breath of Life
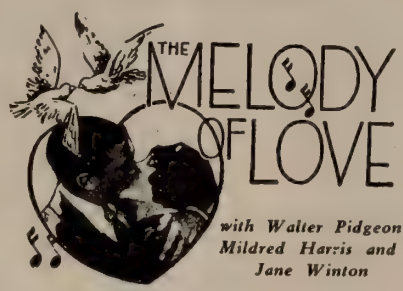
CARL LAEMMLE'S FIRST
ALL TALKING PICTURE



with Walter Pidgeon Mildred Harris and Jane Winton

A Revelation in Screen Entertainment!

Combining the Best Features of Screen and Stage
The Limitless Vision of the Camera — the Whole Range of the World of Sound.

HEAR -- MARVEL -- SEE

A SOUND SENSATION!
THE MELODY OF LOVE

WALTER PIDGEON
Mildred Harris
Jane Winton
Tom Dugan and a large cast

SEE! HEAR! ENJOY!
THIS GREAT ALL-TALKING PICTURE

Showmanship on Broadway

By Harry Reichenbach

Recipe: Take a little noise, mix it with red, white and blue paint, add few amber-colored electric bulbs, stir with plenty of stories in paper, cover with lobby display of novel sort, add one Universal feature, put in a few feet International News Weekly, several Laemmle shorts and you have BALLYHOO.

And Broadway loves Ballyhoo. Broadway is Applesauce Alley and the axes of its earth are greased with banana oil. The folks are all related to Barnum and, although you have the greatest show on earth, you must still hit the drum and wake them up.

There are more theatres in Broadway than in the ten leading cities in America. Competition is keen. You must pull your customers from the far-flung corners of New York. And when you have to pull them any distance, it's farther from Sixth Avenue to Broadway than from Canada to Mexico.

At the Colony Theatre we have made an effort to establish a house that is just three blocks from the traffic district. The congested traffic zone seems to end at Fifty-first Street. The Colony is at Fifty-third. Yet, day in and day out, the title of the attraction and the show we are giving, pulls the quota up from the lower street. We are populating the street at its semi-populous sections. We are adding showmanship to unusual attraction and pulling people from every section of the big burg. On Saturday and Sunday when we are not busy at the office, we watch. Cars dump crowds at the door. Taxis pull up and the amount registered on the meters show the folks have come a long distance. Private autos add their quota. On the first Sunday with "Melody of Love" we played to eighty per cent. more people than the capacity of the house. "Lonesome" did even better. "Man, Woman and Wife" broke the mid-week record Tuesday, November 6. So, what are you complaining about—or, who's complaining?

Big cit

Guaged to fit any size town and to cover any size territory.

It stands to reason that where costs and admissions are high and where the population is scattered over a hundred square miles it is difficult to make local exploitation as closely PERSONAL as is the case in the smaller locality where nearly everyone may be easily reached.

Universal Exploitation Service is equipped to specialize in the origination of Big City Ballyhoo and Exploitation ideas that will reach and sell the greatest possible number of people for the smallest possible outlay. This service is maintained for the purpose of increasing profits. Use it to the limit!

MARQUEE COLONY THEATRE, BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

No Matter what your Problem, Carl y ballyhoo

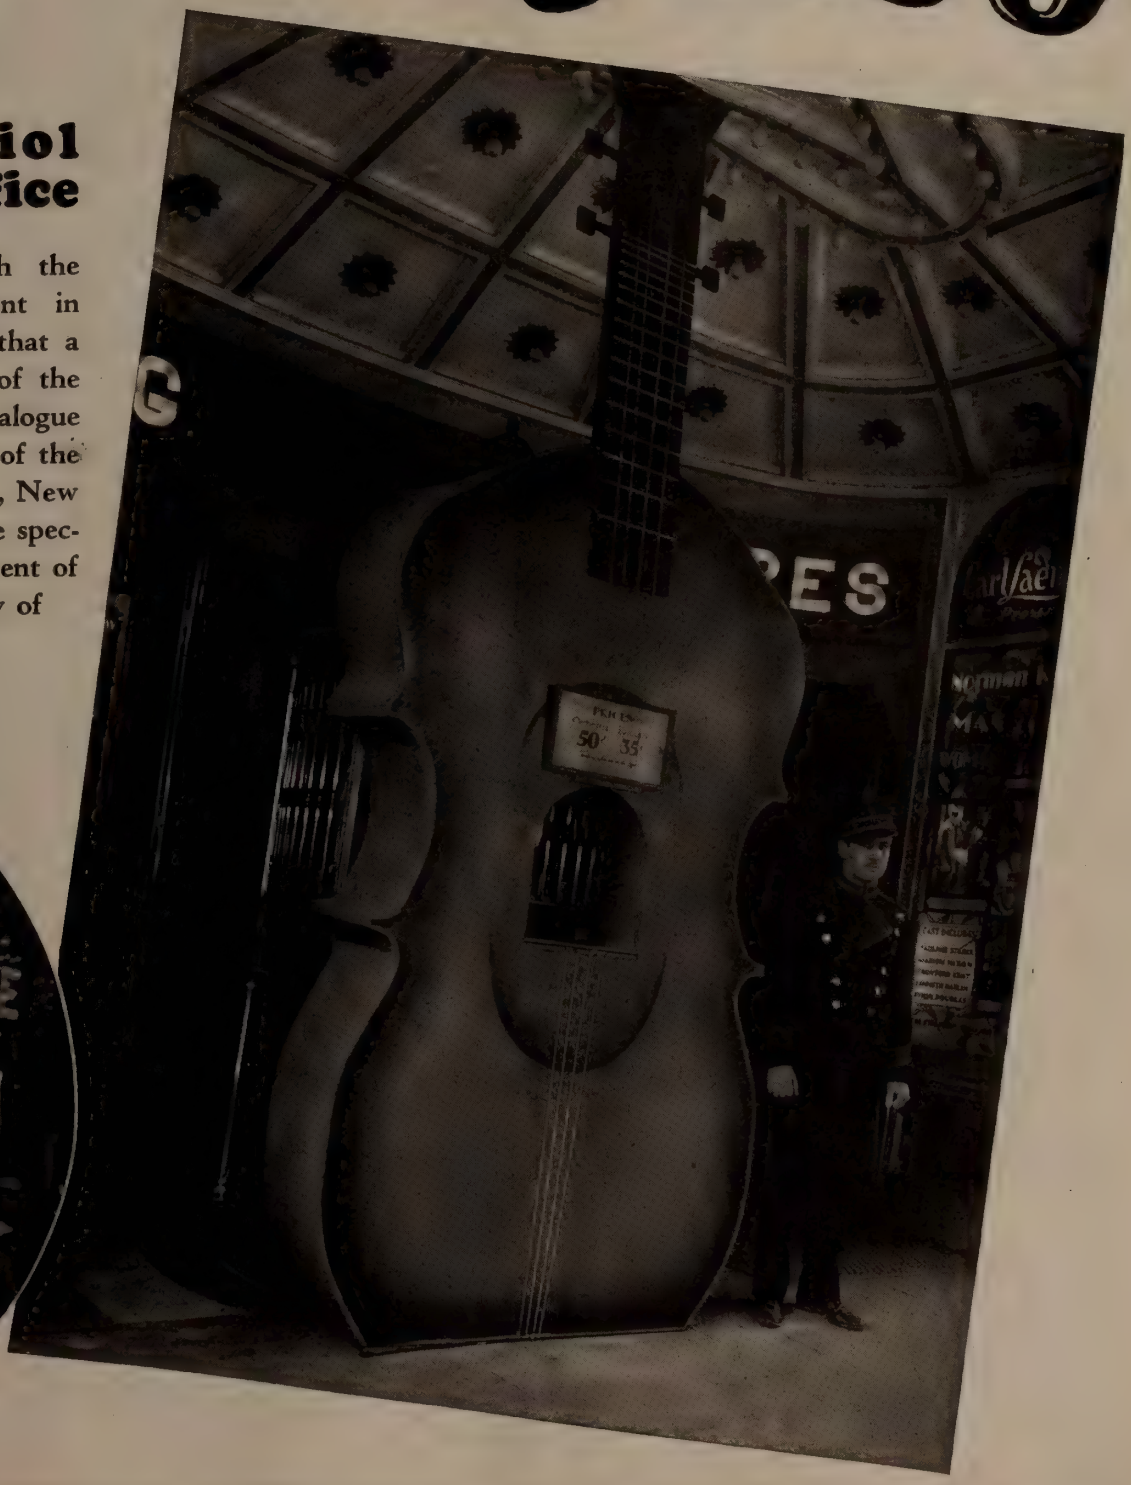
Bass Viol Box-Office

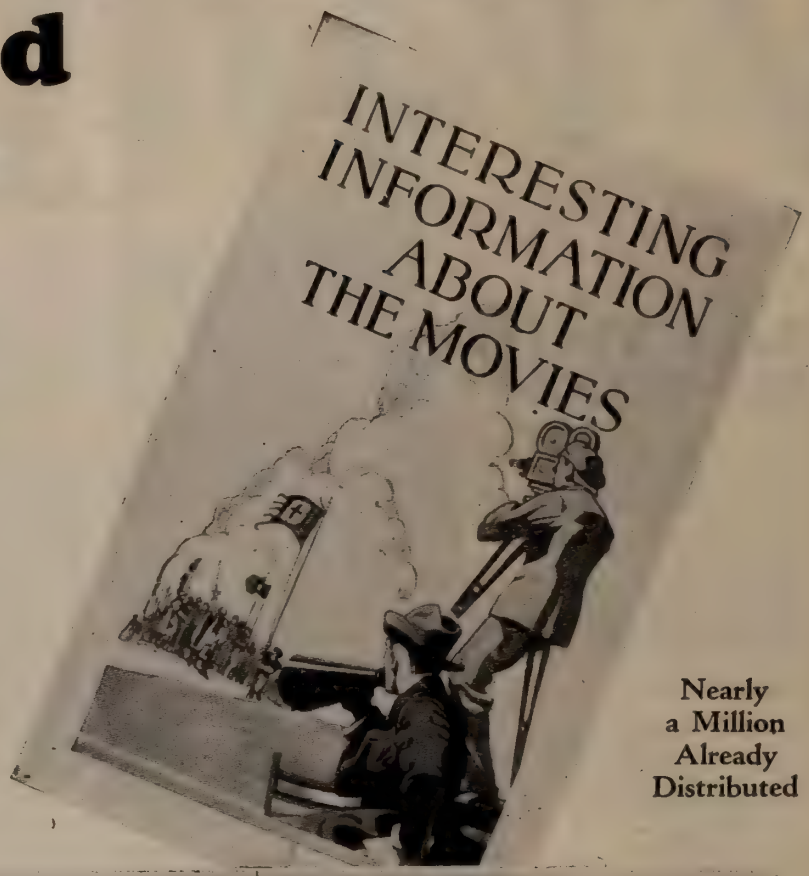
Connected with the sound equipment in the theatre so that a startling effect of the music and dialogue filled the lobby of the Colony Theatre, New York during the spectacular engagement of "The Melody of Love."



Laemmle's Organization can Solve it!

The Little Book of a thousand wonders

Your patrons—the picture fans—expect you to be up-to-date on the questions they ask—the things they want to know about the movies. Greatest patronage and good-will builder ever published. Vest-pocket or ladies' purse size —2¾ x 4¼ inches in clear, readable type on thin paper.



Nearly a Million Already Distributed

Read these specimen pages.

See how interesting they are.

Then ask your nearest Universal Exchange Manager how you can use them.

UNIVERSAL CITY
On An Active Day

UNIVERSAL CITY on a busy day . . . thousands of extras garbed in the raiment of many countries and many eras of history . . . directors' voices reverberating over loud speakers . . . assistant directors shouting to the players . . . the calliope for "Show Boat" echoing in the Hollywood hills. . . .

Robert Welsh reading a report from Edward Sloman, directing Jean Hersholt in "The Girl on the Barge" in New York . . . Reginald Denny in the prize ring for "The Night Bird" . . . Glenn Tryon, accompanied by William Craft seeing the first cut of "The Gate Crasher" . . .

Carl Laemmle "in conference" walking from the front office to the zoo and back, a distance of more than a mile. . . . Carl Laemmle, Jr., talking to Paul Leni about "The Last Warning" . . . Laura La Plante, more beautiful than ever, going to her dressing room to change. . . .

Joseph Schildkraut, in all his Southern finery for the role of Ravenal in "Show Boat" . . . Harry Pollard speeding to the "Show Boat" set on the back lot. . . . Thousands of small town types waiting in their seats, colored folks in the gallery of the big Show Boat. . . .

The hum of rotary saws at the mill, cutting lumber for sets. . . . A big truck loaded with varicolored paint for the paint shop. . . .

Wesley Ruggles directing the new discovery, Fred MacKaye, in a jail sequence of "Salvage" . . . William Wyler reading the script of "The Shakedown" and talking to beautiful Mary Nolan at the same time. . . .

Noon. . . . The rush to the cafe. . . . Not room for all . . . many go across the street to another cafe. . . . Some drive to Hollywood. . . . Stars and directors having their meals brought to their dressing rooms and offices. . . . The "Collegians" troupe gathered around a large table, eating and joking. . . . George Lewis, Dorothy Gulliver, Hayden Stevenson, Nat Ross and the rest. . . . Their clothes are torn. . . . They are in the midst of filming a college class rush. . . . .

A group of players during the filming of "The Man Who Laughs"

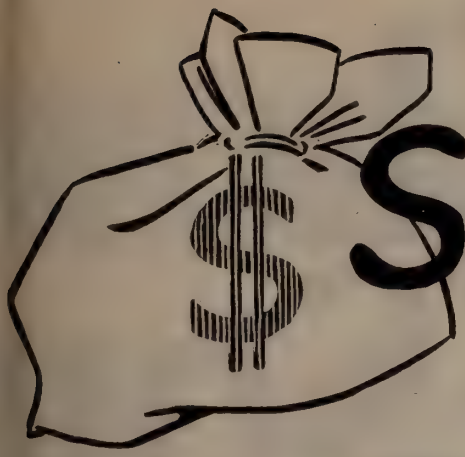
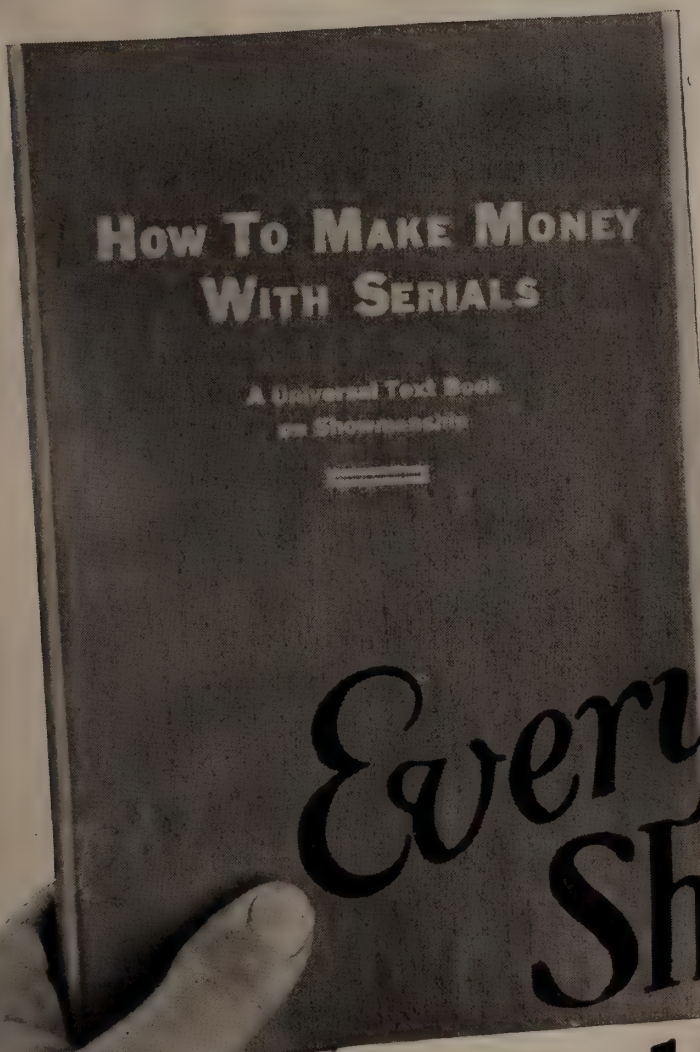
Scenario writers wandering around in deep unconsciousness. . . . Tom Reed and Albert De Mond telling each other about their funny titles. . . . Walter Anthony studiously writing titles. . . . Publicity men scurrying hither and yon,



Serial Book



UNIVERSAL'S Helping Hand again! A 100-page book—sturdily bound—packed with tried-and-tested showmen's information—writ- by a high-paid staff of experts who KNOW, because they've put over dozens of serials. You get it FREE, when you play Universal serials. That's why it pays exhibitors to tie up with Universal—the company that knows it's exploitation. And hundreds more are doing it daily.

Every Showman Needs this book

100 Pages of seat-selling showmanship.
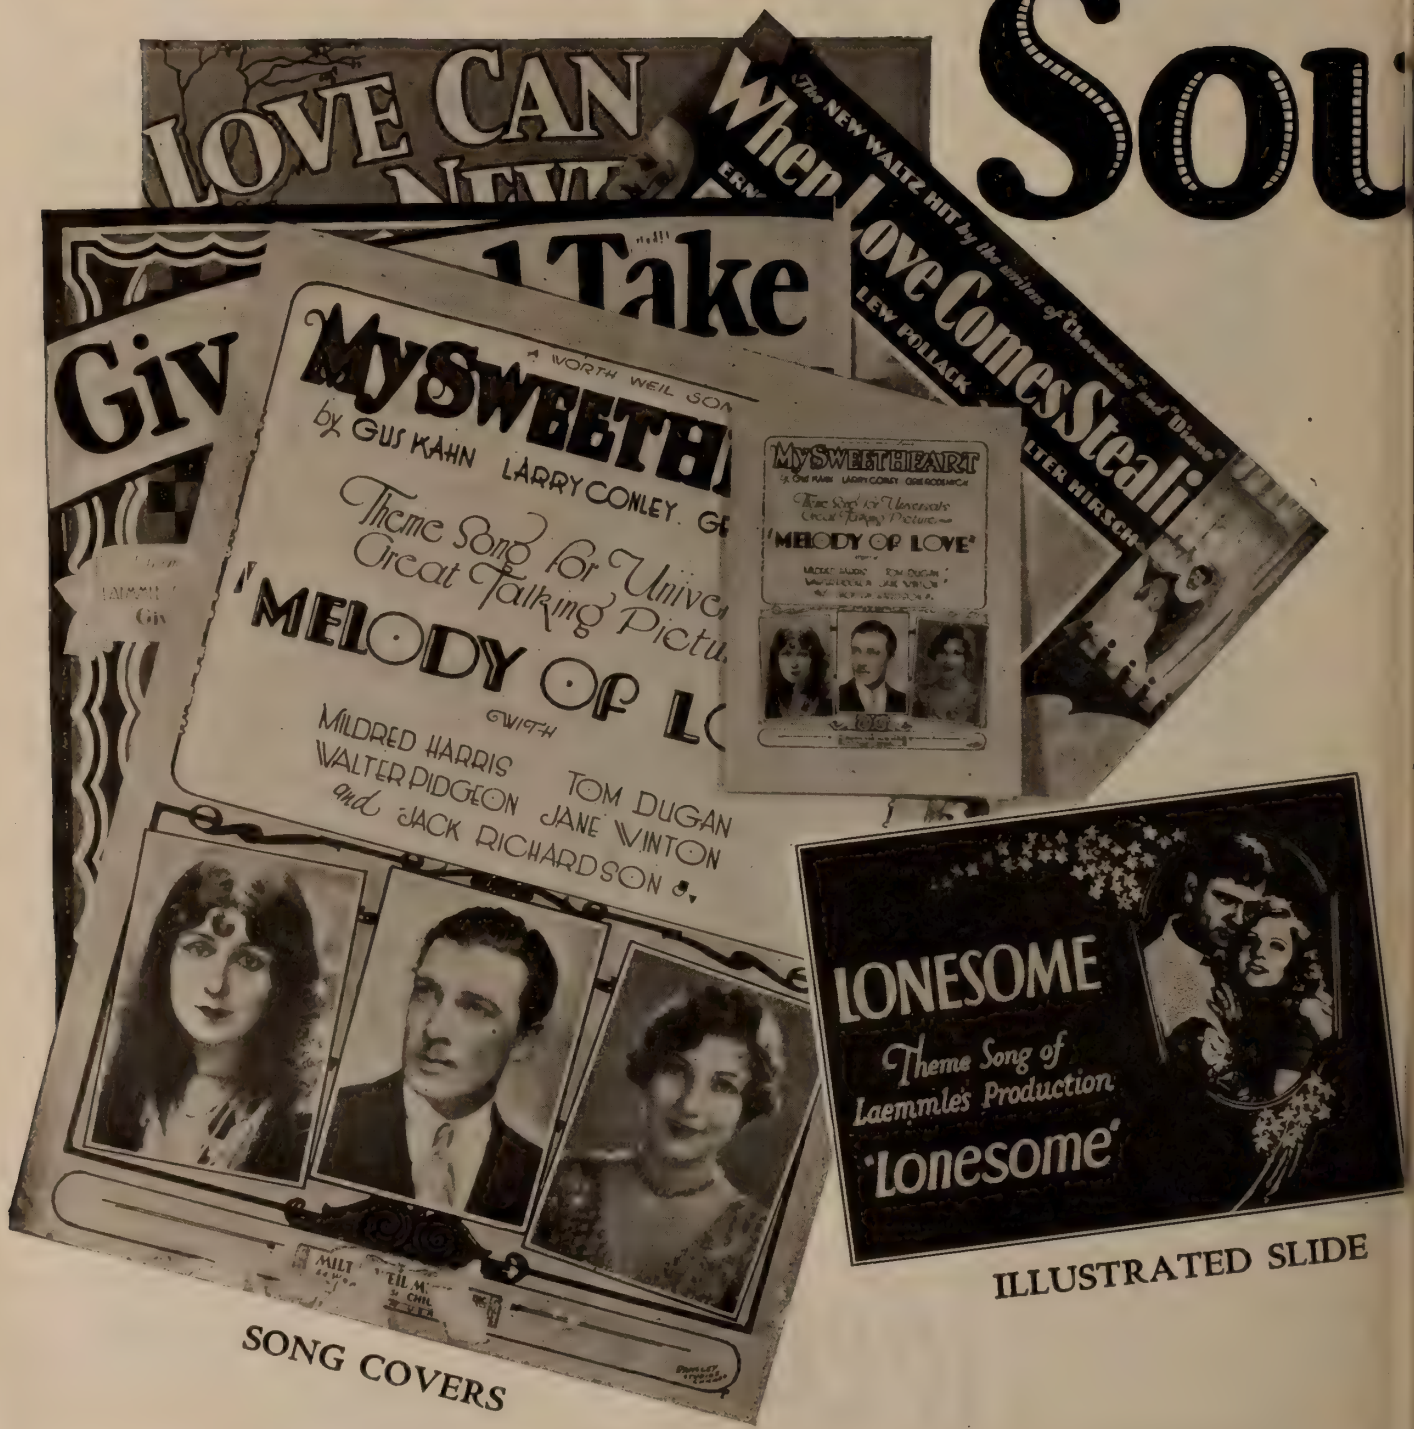
Red cloth binding. Gilt title.
Size: 9½" x 6".

Sound Show

Sou



SONG COVERS

ILLUSTRATED SLIDE

manship for nd Pictures!

Universal leads the field in theme songs too!

Theme Songs are Natural Tie-ups for Sound Pictures. They ballyhoo the picture day and night by radio and dance orchestras.

Here are the first 5 big ones: "Love Can Never Die," for "Man, Woman and Wife"; "When Love Comes Stealing," for "The Man Who Laughs"; "My Sweetheart," for "The Melody of Love"; "Lonesome" and "Give and Take."

Music Publishers Supply Special Material Free of Charge and the Local Music Dealer is eager to help you.

See the Universal Press Sheets for Complete Song Tie-up Campaigns.

THE SENSATIONAL SONG HIT

MY SWEETHEART

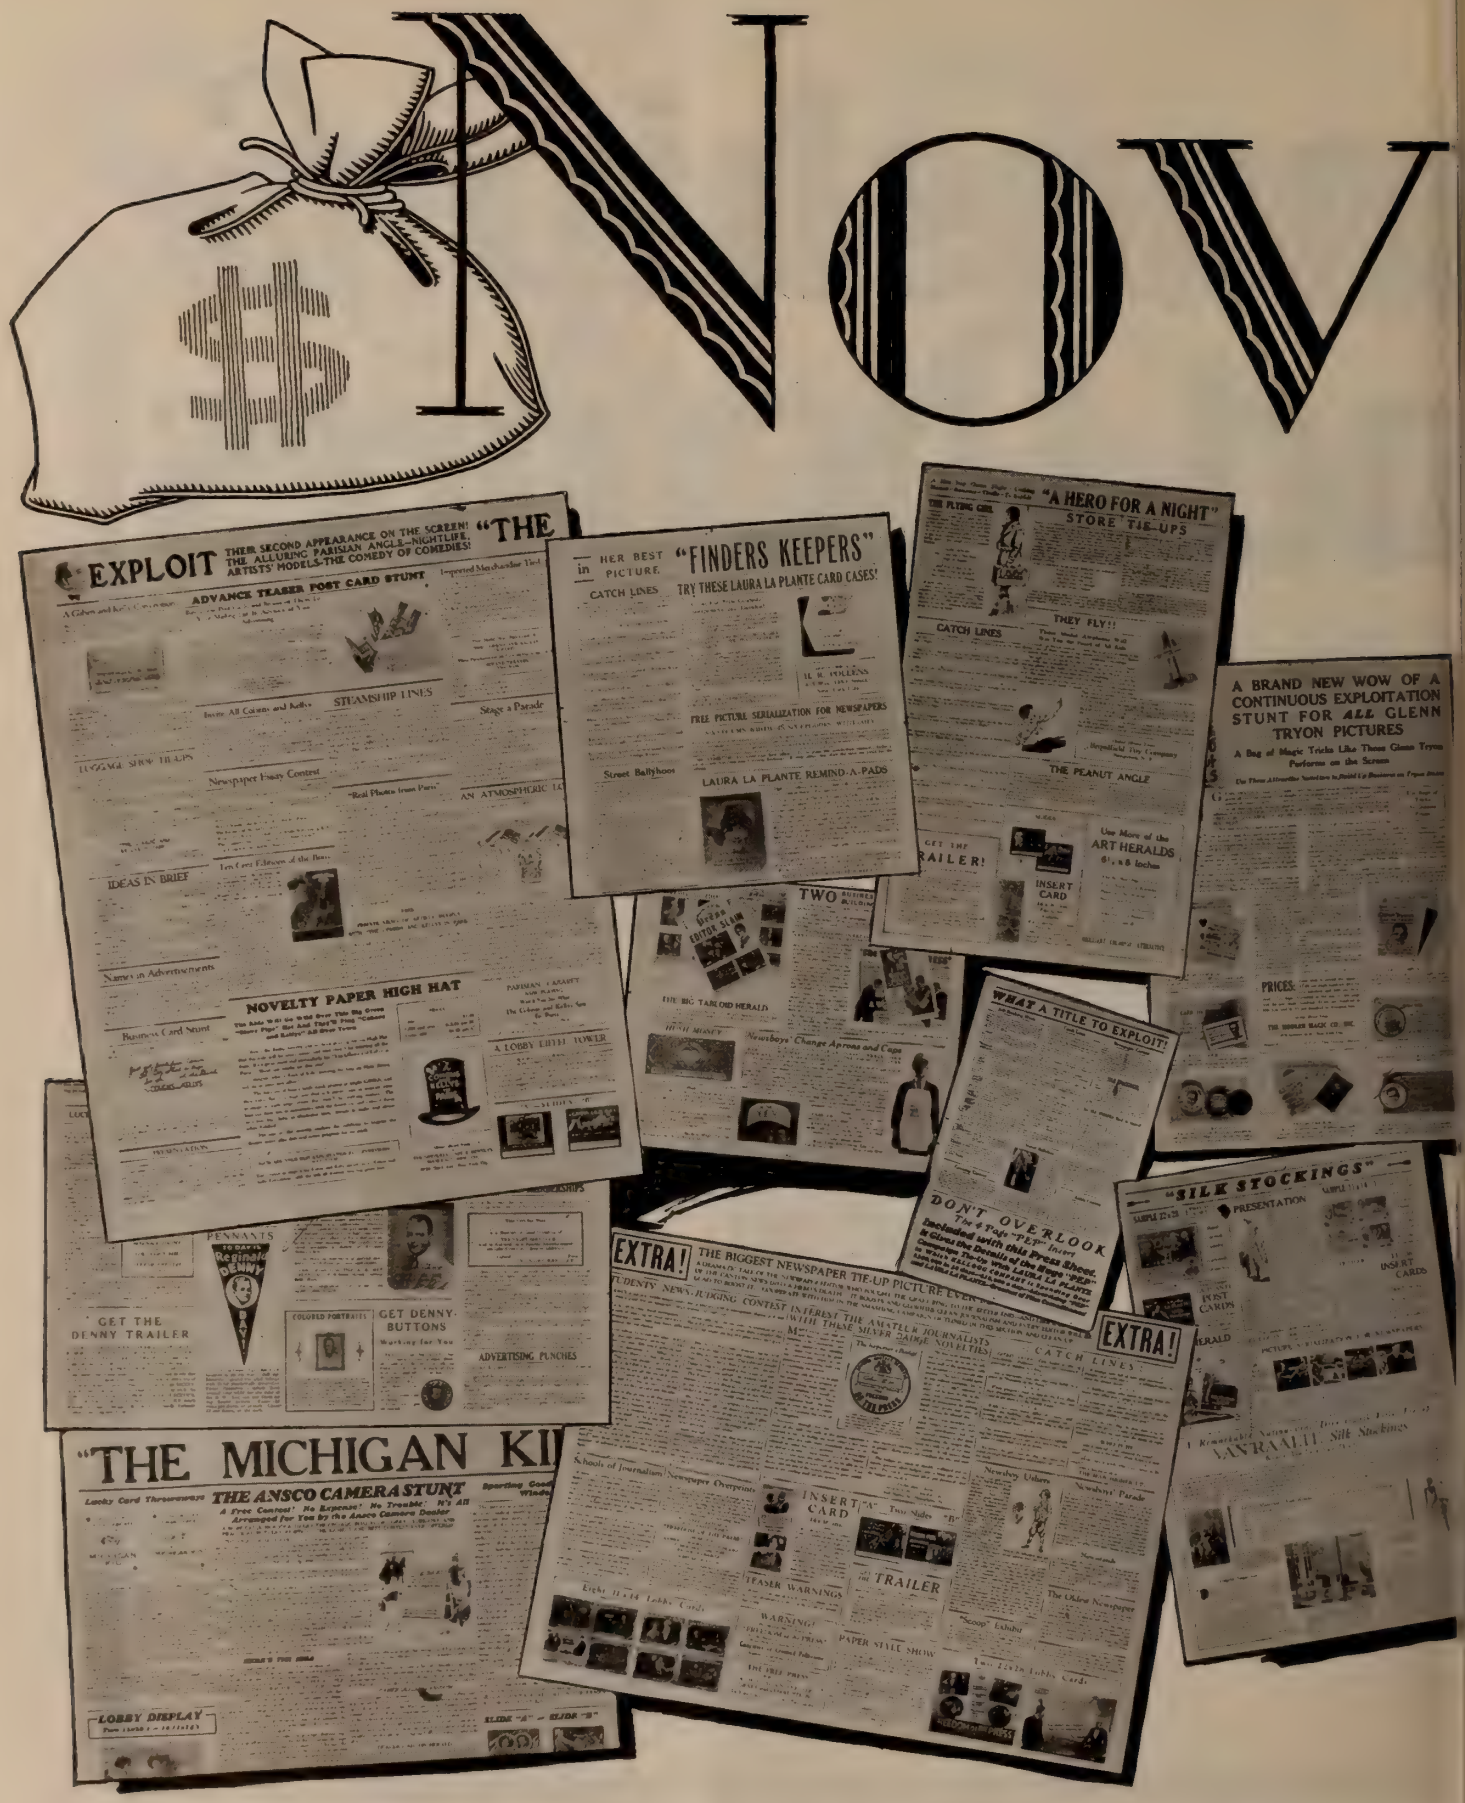
THEME SONG FOR

UNIVERSAL'S GREAT ALL TALKING PICTURE

"MELODY OF LOVE"

ON SALE HERE

Window Streamer—16 x 8 inches.



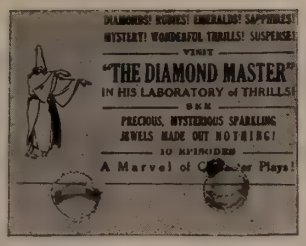
Novelties, Contests and Campaigns Galore—contained in the EXPLOITATION SECTIONS shown above

THE MOST COMPLETE PLAN SHEETS EVER PREPARED.

elties

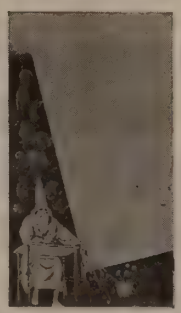
A few of the novelties described and pictured in the Exploitation Sheets to the left.

Snookums Button with cut-out

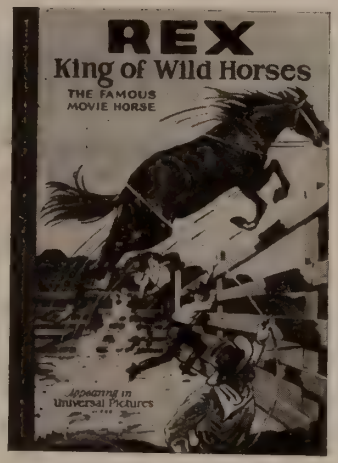


Children's rings in Envelope

Stage Money to carry Theatre Ad



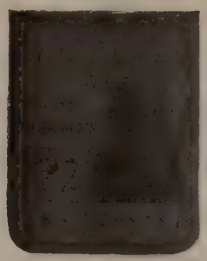
Magic message. Print appears when heated.



Profusely illustrated and colored book

Pocket Mirror
Star's photo on back

Cardboard mouth with device for holding in teeth



Memorandum Book

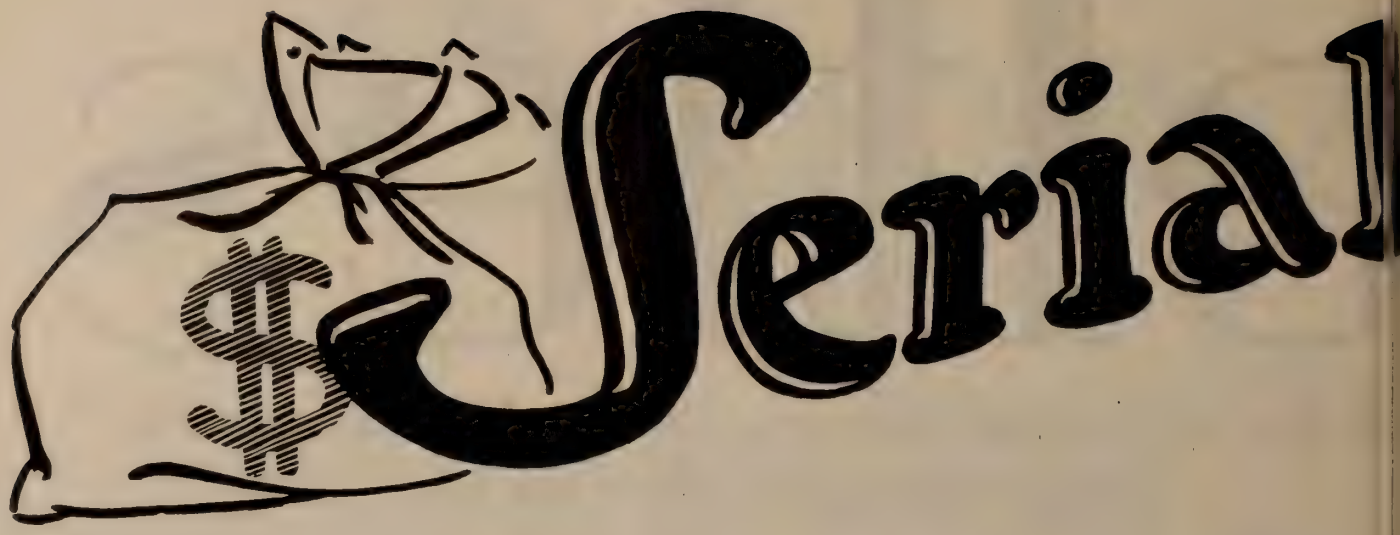
The Game of Lotto

Book of Bridge Scores

Toy Balloons—Extra large

Book of Golf Scores

Cloth Mask



Most Successful Newspaper Tie-ups ever Devised

Newspaper Serializations for

"THE MAN WHO LAUGHS"
"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" and
"TARZAN THE MIGHTY"

Brilliant condensations of great stories. Fascinating installments to run daily for two weeks before your opening. Actual size of "The Man Who Laughs" and "Uncle Tom's Cabin," six inches by six columns. Profusely illustrated. Each contains 12 installments. "Tarzan the Mighty" is in 15 installments. Each 12 inches by three columns. If you had to buy this same space it would cost you twenty times as much as by use of these mats, and besides, these stories appear as editorial matter, which is even more valuable than straight advertising. These cleverly worded and thrilling narratives pack them into your theatre.

IF IT'S WORTH DOIN

izations

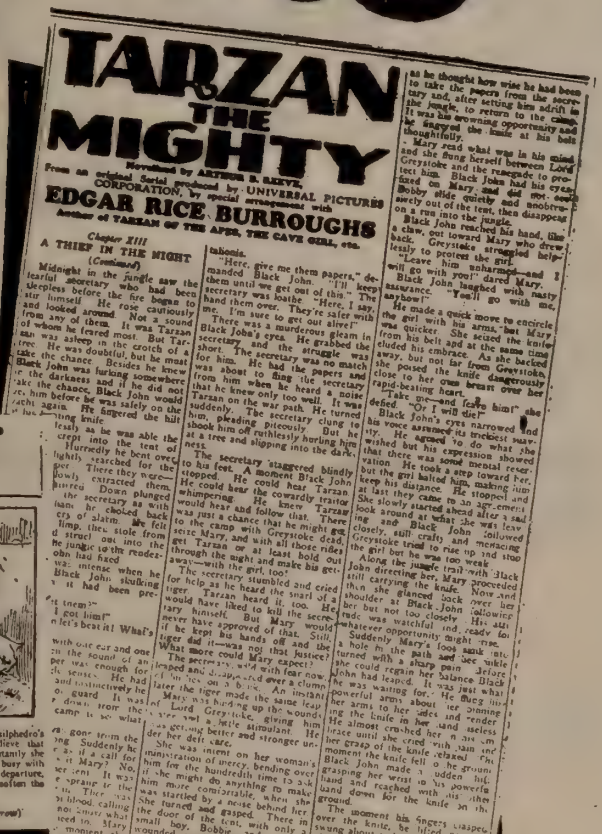
You get all these Mats free. Your local newspaper editor will be glad of the opportunity to run these big league serials. They've been run in many important newspapers all over the country.

Picture Story From the Immortal Novel by VICTOR HUGO

"The Man Who Laughs"

Scenes From the Universal Masterpiece

CHAPTER SEVEN



TARZAN THE MIGHTY

Novelized by ARTHUR S. HEYE, From an original Serial produced by UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION, by special arrangement with

EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

Author of TARZAN OF THE APES, THE CAVE GIRL, etc.

Chapter XIII

A THIEF IN THE NIGHT

(Continued)

Midnight in the jungle saw the tearful secretary who had been helpless before the fire began to stir himself. He rose cautiously and looked around. Not a sound from any of them. It was Tarzan of whom he feared most. But Tarzan was asleep in the crotch of a tree. He was doubtful, but he must take the chance. Besides he knew Black John was lurking somewhere in the darkness and if he did not take the chance, Black John would get him before he was safely on the yacht again. He fingered the hilt of his hunting knife.

Finally as he was able the secretary crept into the tent of Lord Greystoke. Hurriedly he bent over the sleeping figures, searched for the papers. There they were—in a pocket of the coat of Lord Greystoke. Slowly, contracted them. Down plunged the secretary as with a cheated back. Eyes of slaying. He felt limp, then stole from the tent and struck out into the jungle as the readers know had faced what was intense when he heard Black John stumbling on it had been pre-

"I got him!"

Let's beat it! What's with one ear and one to the sound of an enough for the scenes. He had and instinctively he to guard. It was down from the camp to be gone from the ng Suddenly he as if a call for of Mary? No, her cent. It was sprang to his Then was blood calling not aware what eed in. Mary nonient she too, and was efficient the first

I what faith. I fail man's him. Hoss, not ight! our only of the of Greystoke nd care of Mary his Grace had an ex- re again though sorely wounded he same token Black John's assurance n grace high. He smiled insultingly.

Black John reached his hand, like a claw, got toward Mary who drew back. Greystoke struggled desperately to protect the girl.

"I-cave him unharmed—and I will go with you!" dared Mary.

Black John laughed with nasty assurance. "You'll go with me, anyhow!"

He made a quick move to encircle the girl with his arms, but Mary was quicker. She seized the knife from his belt and at the same time eluded his embrace. As she backed away, but not far from Greystoke, she poised the knife dangerously close to her own breast over her rapid-beating heart.

"Take me—and leave him!" she defied. "Or I will die!"

Black John's eyes narrowed and his voice assumed its trickiest suavity. He seemed to do what she wished but his expression showed that there was some mental reservation. He took a step toward her, but the girl halted him, making him keep his distance. He stopped and at last they came to an agreement. She slowly started ahead after a sad look around at what she was leaving and Black John followed closely, still crafty and menacing. Greystoke tried to rise up and stop the girl but he was too weak.

Along the jungle trail with Black John directing her, Mary proceeded still carrying the knife. Once and then she glanced back over her shoulder at Black John following her but not too closely. He was watchful and ready for whatever opportunity might arise.

Suddenly Mary's foot sank into a hole in the path and she turned with a sharp pain. Before she could regain her balance Black John had leaped. It was just what he was waiting for. He flung his powerful arms about her pinning her arms to her sides and rendering the knife in her hand useless. He almost crushed her in an embrace until she cried with pain and moment the knife fell to the ground. Black John made a sudden grasping her wrist to his powerful hand and reached with his other hand down for the knife on the ground.

The moment his fingers grasped over the knife, he lifted her up swung about and carried her struggling back toward the camp. She fought like a young tigress to resist but the slender girl was no match for the hardened adventurer. She realized almost ready to faint, from her struggles and her high-pitched emotions. Black John noticed down eyes as she closed her and ceased the camp.

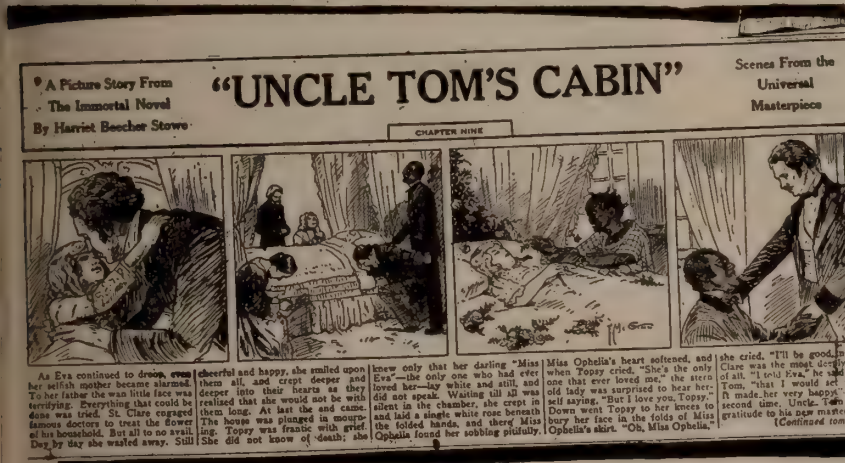
Mary was limp and infeste by on time Black John got his fair burden back to Greystoke's camp.

Fretting and worrying over the safety of the girl and wracked by the pain from his wound Greystoke tried to rise up and stop a noise outside hoping it was Tarzan. Instead it was Black John with Mary swooning in his arms. Greystoke fell back, closed his eyes in- felt that this was the end.

(To be continued)

As he thought how wise he had been to take the papers from the secretary and, after setting him adrift in the jungle, to return to the cabin. It was his crowning opportunity and he engaged the knife at his belt thoughtfully.

Mary read what was in his mind and she flung herself between Lord Greystoke and the renegade to protect him. Black John had his eyes fixed on Mary and did not see Bobby slide quietly and unobtrusively out of the tent, then disappear on a run into the jungle.

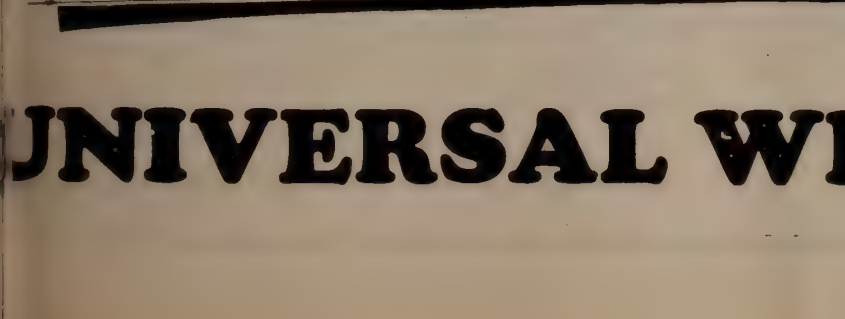


Picture Story From The Immortal Novel By Harriet Beecher Stowe

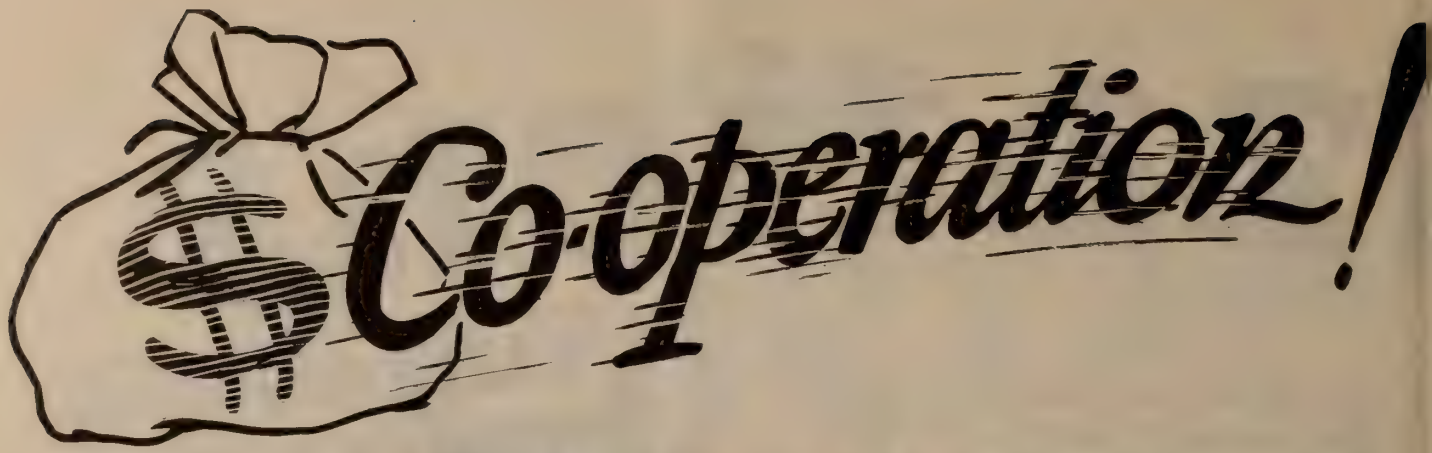
"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN"

Scenes From the Universal Masterpiece

CHAPTER NINE



UNIVERSAL WILL DO IT!



Before—During and After The Play Date

Mr. Carl Laemmle is having a letter sent to all Exhibitors after Universal Exploitation has been done. It and the typical reply tell their own stories.

UNIVERSAL PICTURE CORPORATION
730 FIFTH AVENUE
NEW YORK

Carl Laemmle
President

Mr. Blank,
Blanktown.

We trust that you received 100% UNIVERSAL CO-OPERATION in connection with the engagement of .....
Are you dissatisfied in any way with the service on this picture? Your welfare and your problems are a matter of Mr. Laemmle's deep concern, BEFORE, DURING and AFTER the playdate. It is his personal wish that you receive all the help that is due you on this engagement.

Were you satisfied with the work of the exploitation man. We shall consider it a co-operation if you will advise us of any complaint in the space below.

Sincerely yours,

EXPLOITATION DEPARTMENT,
UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORP.

NOTE: Address all complaints to;
Exploitation Department,
Universal Pictures Corp.,
730 Fifth Avenue,
New York City.

CAPITOL THEATRE
MIDDLETOWN, CONN.

October 20th, 1928.

Mr. Nat. Rothstein, Director,
Advertising & Exploitation,
Universal Film Company,
730 Fifth Avenue,
New York City.
Dear Sir:

Please take this letter as is: I, personally, wish to give credit where credit is due—to your Mr. Cooper for his valuable work in putting over one of the finest exploitation campaigns ever "pulled" in Middletown. His snappy go-get-it-tiveness and his punch in putting over his ideas have won my appreciation and respect.

I know his work will help greatly to put-over-the-top "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and the gross receipts.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) EDWIN LAIGHTON,
Managing Director.

The check-up thus obtained is of inestimable value in keeping Universal informed as to the actual results of its efforts to co-operate with the Exhibitor for maximum profits.

LET UNIVERSAL COMPLETE SERVICE

PULL YOU OUT ON TO THE SMOOTH ROAD

As it has for 12,500 others!

Complete Service has such a weight of evidence in its favor that wise Exhibitors to the number of 12,500 have seen the light and are reaping the benefits. Others—hundreds of them—are leaving the old, costly, troublesome way, for this modern smooth-running and profit-making Complete Service Contract. It's your turn to sign up!

Widen your circle of Patronage!

The fierce competition of today demands that you either widen your market or go out of business—you cannot stand still.

* * *

You've GOT to widen your circle of patronage, and the best way to do it is to play nationally-advertised pictures.

* * *

Universal Pictures, nationally advertised in Carl Laemmle's Satevepost Column for five years without missing a week, will bring you patrons you've never seen before!

This column appears in the Saturday Evening Post of Nov. 17, 1928.

Watch This Column
Our Weekly Chat

Send for your copy of Universal's booklet containing complete information on our new pictures. It's free.

UNIVERSAL has made its first 100% talking picture. I am pretty sure that when you hear and see it you will agree with me that it is the most unusual talking picture yet made. The story is a romance entitled "Melody of Love" by Robert Arch. Sound technicians, up to now, have found it difficult to record exteriors with their accompanying noises. Many said it couldn't be done. But Universal's slogan is "It can be done," so we went ahead and did it. The incidental sounds in this picture are extremely distinct—the crackling of paper, the cackling of geese, the clinking of glasses, the roar of city traffic, etc. I am determined to give the people of this country the benefit of every new departure in entertainment—and to give it to 100 per cent extent. You will judge the result for yourselves and perhaps you will write me your views.

—C. L.

* * *

Bear this in mind. Not one of Universal's pictures will depend upon the novelty of synchronization for its public appeals. Strip any Universal picture of its synchronized sound effects, and you will still have entertainment which will stand the acid test of public opinion.

Sally O'Neil in "The Girl on the Barge"

Some of our pictures do not honestly lend themselves to sound effects, and such pictures will go to the world in silence.

Can you imagine "The Last Warning" that ghostly mystery play, produced in movietone? Can you imagine all the queer noises of a haunted theatre being reproduced so accurately that you can easily believe you are there in the house? In "The Last Warning," starring LAURA LA PLANTE, Director Paul Leni has created a more fascinating mystery picture than "The Cat and The Canary." You will be interested and thrilled, just as I was.

Alma Rubens as "Julie" in "Show Boat"

Current Universal successes which you are advised to see, are "The Man Who Laughs," "Uncle Tom's Cabin," both produced in sound and silence; also "Lonesome" that remarkable combination of sound dialogue and silence which will be shown as an entirely silent picture as well; and "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City" with and without dialogue.

Joseph Schildkraut as "Ravenal" in "Show Boat"

Carl Laemmle, President

Do you want to be on our mailing list? Just say the word.

Autographed photographs (8 inches x 10 inches) of your favorite Universal Stars. Set of 5 different Stars 50c. (Name the Stars you wish.) 5 different poses of the same Star, 50c. (Give Star's Name.) Send remittance in stamps.

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

"The Home of the Great Stars"

730 Fifth Ave., New York

UNIVER

Vol. 28 No. 23

Jan. 12, 1929

Laura La Plante
and
John Boles
as they appear in Paul Leni's
"The Last Warning"

THERE IS ONLY ONE

BROADWAY

YES, sir. There is only one Broadway, the Gay White Way —and the whole world knows it. There is only one Broadway and the whole world flocks to it sometime or other in its life. Every woman—housewife or stenographer—factory girl or lady of leisure—every woman wants to see Broadway. And every man—banker, bricklayer, or gentleman of leisure—every man wants to see Broadway—wants to see it for himself. Because there is only one Broadway and New York has it.

AND there is only one "Broadway" in the whole world of show business and the whole world knows that Universal has it. Bought it from Jed Harris—the man who made and produced the greatest straight stage melodramatic money success in the memory of the oldest inhabitant. The stage play that went round the world and back again. And Universal has it, the picture rights—lock, stock and barrel—including the original dialogue. It's now in production at Universal City and Carl Laemmle is behind it—watching every move they make —keeping his ever-watchful eye on it. It's the darling of his heart and he's going to see that it gets the best in the picture shop—any picture shop. If "Broadway" isn't the greatest melodrama that ever came out of Hollywood—well, watch for it and see for yourself. Yes, sir. There's only one "Broadway" and Universal has it.

-- Silent or Sound - Carl Laemmle Leads the Way!!!

WHY

do alluring women love homely men?

See the great, big, money-making answer on the next four pages ⟶

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

VICTOR HUGO'S

The Man Who Laughs

$2000 IN TO

WOW! Two thousand dollars in cash prizes to be awarded possibly to YOUR PATRONS AND PROSPECTIVE PATRONS for the best answers to the question, "Why do alluring women love homely men?"

Two thousand dollars in cash prizes for the best answers to a question which applies to life in general, and which applies particularly to the tremendously dramatic sequences in "The Man Who Laughs," in which the daring Duchess commands the clandestine appearance of the homely clown.

There's drama in the question. There's money in the answer!

CARL LAEMMLE'S
Super Production

Starring

CONRAD VEIDT and
MARY PHILBIN

With Olga Baclanova, Brandon Hurst, Sam De Grasse, Cesare Gravina, Stuart Holmes, George Seigmann.
Two negatives—one silent, one with sound.

A PAUL LENI PRODUCTION

VICTOR HUGO'S "The MAN WHO

CASH PRIZES THE PUBLIC

for the best answers to the question:

Why do alluring women love homely men?

LAUGHS"

What this contest —and what it means

SHOWMEN! Here's your opportunity to take advantage of a big $2,000 prize contest at no cost to yourself! YOU can be the wise exhibitor who books "The Man Who Laughs," thereby giving everybody in your locality an opportunity to see the picture to help them answer the question: "Why do alluring women love homely men?"

UNIVERSAL is doing everything possible for you that will help you publicize this contest in your town. Accessories are in work that will be furnished you FREE upon request. These include a special trailer announcing the contest; a three-sheet, a one-sheet, a slide, and special press sheet.

WE ALSO have in preparation a complete six-day mat service for newspapers. With this mat service the newspaper in your town can hook up with the prize contest by offering special additional prizes (also paid by Universal) provided one or more of its readers is a national prize winner. (See complete details on opposite page.)

THIS IS the biggest thing in an exploitation sense that has come to you in years! Universal is taking care of the national angle. If you have already booked the picture, get your local newspaper to run the contest day and date with your showing or slightly in advance. If you have not yet booked the picture, by all means BOOK IT AT ONCE and arrange your date in conjunction with your local newspaper—or plug the contest by yourself, with the aids at your command.

BY ALL MEANS CLIMB ABOARD THIS CONTEST NOW. IT'S BIG! IT'S BOUND TO SWEEP THE COUNTRY! GET ABOARD—NOW!! NOW!!!

The MAN WHO

means to YOU!

to your local newspaper!

CONDITIONS OF CONTEST

Prizes to be awarded as follows: first award, $1,000; second award, $250; third award, $100; fourth award, thirty prizes of $5.00 each.

Additional prizes totaling $500 to be furnished newspapers in the U. S. and Canada by Universal Pictures Corporation to be awarded in the name of each newspaper to local winners in this contest (as a supplement to the regular prizes).

This additional $500 to be awarded as follows: To the winner of the 1st prize, $150 extra from a local newspaper; to the winner of the second prize, $125 extra from a local newspaper; to the winner of the third prize, $75 extra from a local newspaper; to the winners of the next thirty prizes, $5 extra each from a local newspaper.

Any prize winner in order to be eligible for the additional prize from his local newspaper must certify by records acceptable to that newspaper that he has been a legal resident of the community in which the newspaper is circulated for at least six months.

In instances where there is a winner in a town where no newspaper has carried this contest Universal will ask a local paper to present the extra prize. If no paper is available the extra prize will be presented through the local theatre, or direct from Universal Pictures Corporation.

Prizes to be awarded for the best letters ,not exceeding 200 words, answering the question, "Why do alluring women love homely men?"

Any resident of the United States or Canada, male or female, is eligible.

All letters must be submitted to "The Man Who Laughs" Contest Editor, Universal Pictures Corporation, 730 Fifth Avenue, N. Y. City, not later than July 1st, 1929.

It will be helpful for any entrant to see Universal's picture, "The Man Who Laughs," but it is not necesary in order to enter this contest.

In the event of a tie on any one of the awards the full amount of the award tied for will be given to each tied contestant.

Manuscripts will NOT be returned.

All letters submitted must be entrant's own opinions gathered from general observation, from discussing the subject with others and from reading. In other words, no other person may write the letter for you or tell entrant what to write.

Entrant should avoid long words and sentences, and strive to put his or her thoughts down clearly and neatly. General appearance of letters will also count in judging the winners.

Judgment of the letters will be based on (1) originality of thought; (2) clearness of expression; (3) general knowledge of the subject; (4) general neatness.

The judges in this contest will be Carl Laemmle, President, Universal Pictures Corp.; Dr. W. M. Marston, Director of Universal's Bureau of Public Service, and Edward Montagne, Universal scenario editor.

LAUGHS!

READ

No. 618—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Film Pictures Corporation.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" should be played in every city and town in America. Small town managers, it will help your house. We never received as many fine comments from our patrons on any picture. We played it only two days, but shall book a return engagement as soon as possible to arrange dates. It is a picture without a flaw.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" should be played in every city and town in America. Small town managers, it will help your house. We never received as many fine comments from our patrons on any picture. We played it only two days, but shall book a return engagement as soon as possible to arrange dates. It is a picture without a flaw.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich.

THIS!

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" should be played in every city and town in America. Small town managers, it will help your house. We never received as many fine comments from our patrons on any picture. We played it only two days, but shall book a return engagement as soon as possible to arrange dates. It is a picture without a flaw.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" should be played in every city and town in America. Small town managers, it will help your house. We never received as many fine comments from our patrons on any picture. We played it only two days, but shall book a return engagement as soon as possible to arrange dates. It is a picture without a flaw.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich.

The
UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick — Editor

PUBLISHED BY THE
— MOTION PICTURE WEEKLY PUBLISHING COMPANY — HECKSCHER BUILDING —
730-5TH AVE. — NEW YORK CITY
Copyright 1929 · UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION All Rights Reserved

Vol. XXVIII JANUARY 12, 1929 No. 23

UNIVERSAL MOVIEGRAMS

OSWALD the Lucky Rabbit is now synchronized. Starting with February 4th, every cartoon of this engaging and laughable little cartoon animal will be made with sound. Three of them are all ready for release, "Hen Fruit," "Sick Cylinders" and "Hold 'Em, Ozzy."

PAT ROONEY, Mrs. Pat Rooney (Marion Bent) and Pat Rooney, Jr., start for Universal City on January 3rd on the Twentieth Century. They are under a long time contract to Universal.

CARL LAEMMLE, Jr. will be best man at the wedding of his siser, Miss Rosabelle, to Stanley Bergerman. The wedding will take place at the Laemmle estate in Beverly Hills, California, on January 2nd.

THE world premiere of "The Last Warning," Paul Leni's annual mystery masterpiece, will take place at the Colony Theatre next Saturday. It is a dialogue production with startling and mysterious sound effects. Mr. and Mrs. Leni are in New York for the opening.

THE work of cutting and synchronizing "Show Boat" is being rushed twenty-four hours a day at Universal City in order to open the picture as early as possible in New York City, where it is expected to have a year's run.

CARL LAEMMLE SEES 1929 AS GREATEST MOVIE YEAR

President of Universal Pictures Corporation Makes a Few Observations

EVERY year at this time it has been the custom of the leaders of the moving picture industry to weigh the developments of the past year and to look into the possibilities of the year to come as far as the evidence at hand will permit.

The following is the comment which Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation, has to make as a New Year statement.

"The question of Sound and Talking pictures will continue to drown out all lesser problems in the motion picture industry for many months to come, and probably for all of 1929. I don't know what new invention 1929 will bring to the industry and neither does anybody else. Last year brought talking pictures.

"1928 saw the introduction of talking pictures. It was a sensation. 1929 may see progress along lines of television, of stereoscopic photography or a new practical and economical color process which will harmonize other elements so far unsuited to moving picture technique. I don't care to advance these as predictions, but no one at this time last year had the vision of talking pictures which developed within six months. There is no reason why another sensation should not be developed in 1929.

"Just what the ultimate outcome will be as regards Talking Pictures is hard to say yet. Certainly, it would be a brash man who would state, in the light of present developments, that dialogue in pictures has no future. Yet that future is still hazy.

"The overwhelming swing of the public fancy to Talking Pictures is a voice no showman can fail to heed. I am convinced that the public reaction is based on something far deeper than mere novelty. It is based on the warmth, the personality, the human quality which voice gives to motion pictures. This being so, we must accept the birth of a new amusement medium, for the talking picture in its ultimate construction will be far different from a screened stage play, or a present day motion picture with injected lines.

"Of course, there will continue to be silent pictures—as long as there are motion picture theatres unequipped for sound films. Many theatres are being equipped monthly. Eventually all will be able to get equipment if they desire it. Whether they will desire it, in the final analysis will depend upon the advancement of the art of talking pictures during the next year or so. The technique of conceiving and making talking pictures is making rapid strides, but there is much distance yet to be covered before the talking picture arrives at the same state of technical perfection that the current silent picture has reached.

"No industry ever faced such a complete change-over as has faced the motion picture industry during the last six months or more. 'Give us Talking Pictures!' was the public's demand. That demand had to be met quickly.

"The extent to which the various companies have met this demand is a remarkable tribute to enterprise. There is no parallel in the entire history of industry. It is even more remarkable than the change-over of industrial plants into munition plants in

(Continued on page 29)

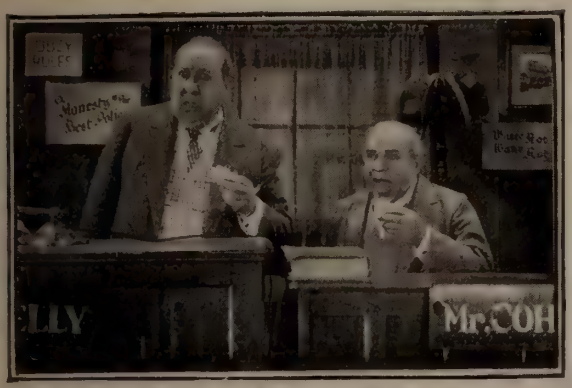
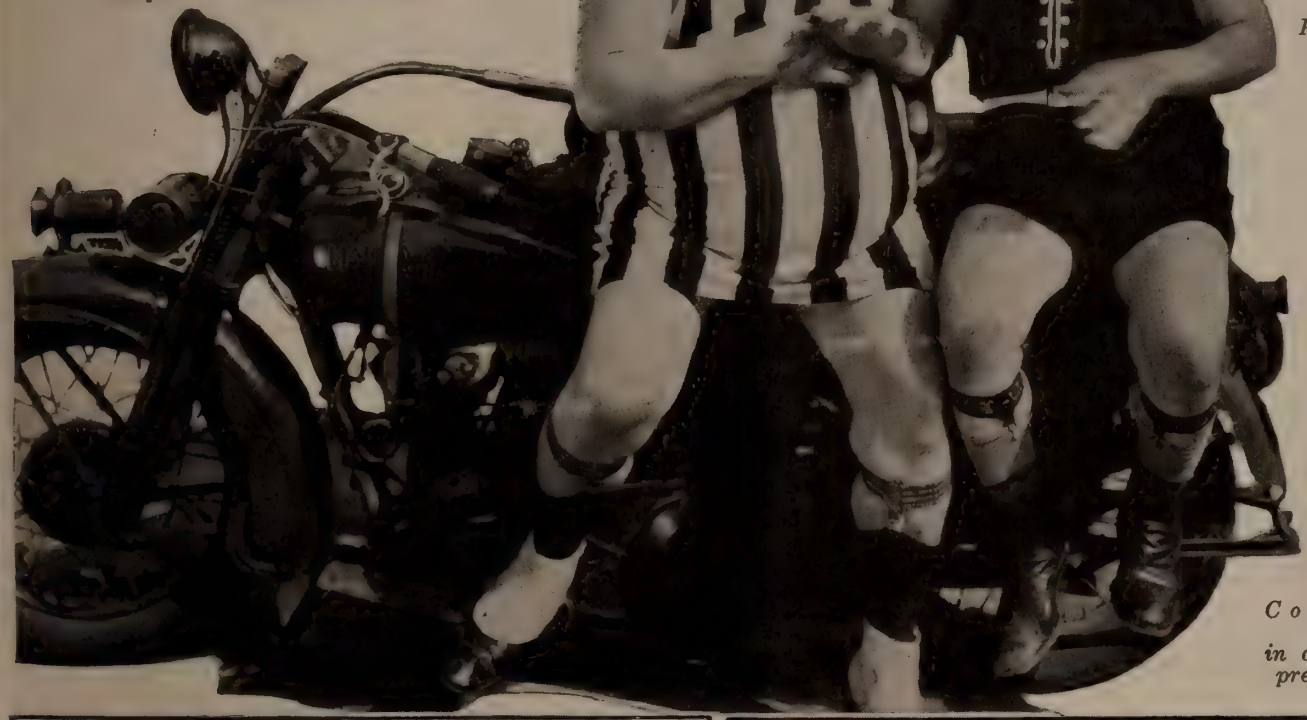
With "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City"



Mack Swain and George Sidney as the perennial comedy partners.

Vera Gordon and Kate Price.



Cohen and Kelly in a hilarious predicament.

WATCH PAUL LENI!

Universal Director's Past Productions Foreshadow Coming Events That Will Startle Moving Picture World

"The Last Warning" Emphasizes Leni's Flare For Mystery—Next Picture Will Be Departure From Previous Film

By GERTRUDE WARBURTON

PAUL LENI is in New York. He and his bewitchingly small wife are on vacation, a riotous, theatre-going, frivulous holiday. New Year festivities added to the gaiety. The Lenis are busy, but the big director is much too gracious to evade the inquiring reporter. An interview is sandwiched in between matinee and evening performances.

Paul Leni talks in his somewhat difficult but expansive English. He gesticulates with his huge hands. He clarifies his remarks with pencil sketches. His hearty laugh booms out; his good-natured wit intersperses very serious views on an art he respects and loves. Paul Leni talks of sound, dialogue, three-dimensional photography, light and shade, technical difficulties, actors, etc. He leaves us with many and varied impressions and a prophecy.

He bears watching, that man Leni! He has done fine things, but finer are to come. He has established a reputation for mastery of light and shade. He doesn't care a fig for that reputation. He has evoked warm praise for his direction of mystery films. He prefers other types of pictures. He is associated with the successful creation of atmosphere. He impishly asserts that he would like to direct a picture with no atmosphere and terrible settings.

The answer to these seeming contradictions is that Paul Leni's first picture for Universal happened to be "The Cat and the Canary," a mysterv film. He made the best mystery film he could—or anybody else could. That it involved erie shadows was incidental.

"Mysteries mean dark corners," Leni explained. "People don't know what happens in the dark, so it is filled with terror. I must put shadows in such pictures, but I did not put them in because they were pretty or artistic.

"In 'The Man Who Laughs' there had to be cold snow scenes, luxurious boudoirs. They fitted. They were the right background but, after all, only a background. It is the story that counts and the acting. Stroheim and Chaplin could act before a plain backdrop—it wouldn't matter. I don't want to be associated with lights and shadows and spooky corridors. They just happened. My next picture will be different. Whatever it is, the setting will be harmonious, not of major importance."

Paul Leni, whose latest Universal production is "The Last Warning."

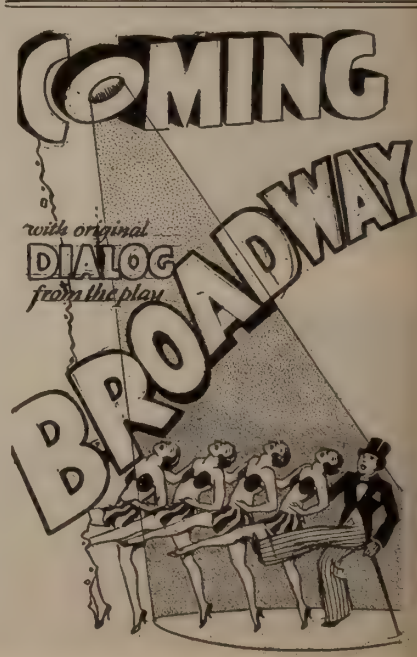
Again the prophecy. Whatever Leni's next picture is it will be the best of its type. He is a showman, a producer and an artist. The medium is unimportant. "The Man Who Laughs" set a new standard, George Gerhard pointed out, in the portrayal of boudoir scenes. The allure of Baclanova's mad love for the mountebank was depicted with such candor that it not only had tremendous box-office appeal but ushered in an epidemic of similar scenes in other pictures directed along the path which Leni blazed.

"The Cat and the Canary" was so successful that it quite naturally paved the way for another Universal mystery containing the same elements of interest. "The Last Warning" has packed these elements thick and fast to an exciting climax. It has the added appeal of sound. Leni is convinced that sound has made "The Last Warning" intensely more dramatic than it is in its silent version. Of sound in general, he says characteristically.

"Sound is like a baby now. Everyone is watching it, criticizing it, overconcerned with it. If an old man crossed a crowded street, no one would pay any attention to him. If a baby tried such a crossing, everyone would shout. Sound pictures are like that. They will grow up in time and be healthy adults. They will add dramatic value to certain types of films. They will not be suitable to others. I believe in time that people will take sound for granted. I do not agree with Max Reinhardt that dialogue is an artistic mistake. It helps immeasurably with films where the center of interest is furthered by speech."

Paul Leni hinted at the subject of his next picture. An intriguing subject and a fascinating prospect. But not a confirmation. Again, it doesn't matter. Leni knows his theatre. Years of stage experience in Europe as playwright and producer, and previous experience as an artist have given him the sure touch of well-rounded showmanship.

Watch Paul Leni!



LAEMMLE NUPTIALS JANUARY 2nd IN STATELY BEVERLY HILLS HOME

Rosabelle Laemmle Becomes Bride of Stanley Bergerman Before Group of Relatives—Several Hundred Hollywood Personages at Subsequent Reception

MISS ROSABELLE LAEMMLE, only daughter of Carl Laemmle, became the bride of Stanley Bergerman on Wednesday evening in the stately Laemmle home, "Dios Dorados," at Beverly Hills. The wedding was a quiet one, attended by a small group of relatives of the bride and groom. Rabbi E. F. Magnin performed the impressive ceremony. Miss Estelle Cohen was the maid of honor, and Carl Laemmle, Jr., the best man. Carl Laemmle gave his daughter away. Other attendants were Mrs. A. W. Berson, Mrs. Leo Keiler, Mrs. A. Stern, Blanche Keiler, flower girl; Thomas May, Leo Keiler, Ben Rosenheim and Jerome Daube.

The Laemmle home, over which Miss Rosabelle has presided so graciously for her own and her father's guests during the past year, was more charming than ever in its gala appearance. Mr. Laemmle returned from a business conference in New York only a few days before his daughter's marriage. It was the desire of the Laemmle family to make the wedding an intimate one, but the large reception which followed was attended by hundreds of friends. Miss Laemmle is one of the most popular members of Hollywood's younger set. Her close association with her father and her keen insight into the industry of which he is a magnate have given her an unusually wide acquaintance in motion picture circles. In addition to Hollywood celebrities, there were innumerable guests outside of the industry who are close friends of the bride and the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bergerman, whose marriage was solemnized at the Laemmle estate in Beverly Hills on Wednesday, January 2nd. The bride is Rosabelle Laemmle, only daughter of the Universal president.

Mr. Stanley Bergerman is an executive of the May Company, a large department store corporation of Chicago, Los Angeles, and other cities. Miss Laemmle's engagement to the young man was announced by her father early in December.

The bridal couple received an elaborate array of handsome gifts. One of the most conspicuous was a handsome silver service of fifty-five sterling pieces, in Florenz design, presented by Universal department heads all over the world. The service is a token of the high regard in which Carl Laemmle and his daughter are held by members of the Universal Picture Corporation.

Among the many handsome wedding presents received by Mr. and Mrs. Bergerman was this silver service presented by the Universal department heads all over the world.

Among the guests invited to the reception were: Mr. and Mrs. William Craft, Mr. Wesley Ruggles, Messrs. Nat Ross, Nat Goldstone and Sam Weisenthal, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Zukor, Mrs. Arthur Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. I. Levy, Miss Lillian Brandt, Sam Jacobson, Victor Nordlinger, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Klein, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Schildkraut, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Tryon, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sloman, Mr. and Mrs. Zion Myers, Mr. Jerry Horwin, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Freulich, Mr. and Mrs. J. Cherniavsky, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stern, Mr. and Mrs. A. Klinordlinger, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Anthony, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Montagne, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Neubauer, Miss Louella Parsons, Miss Grace Kingsley, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hall, Mr. Archie Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pollard, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Pivar, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Glazer, Mr.

(Continued on page 32)

Capacity Everywhere!

CARL LAEMMLE'S
100% Talking Picture

"The MELODY OF LOVE"

Featuring Walter Pidgeon, Mildred Harris, Tom Dugan, Jane Winton, Jack Richardson. Story by Robert Arch. An Arch Heath Production. Sound supervision by C. Roy Hunter.

CARL LAEMMLE
presents
The Only Talking Picture
With Color Sequences.

"LONESOME"

Starring GLENN TRYON and BARBARA KENT. Supervised by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Photography by Gilbert Warrenton. From an original story by Mann Page. Two negatives: one silent; one with dialog.

PAUL FEJOS' Masterpiece

Sensational Success!

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

SYNCHRONIZED OSWALD COMEDIES NOW AVAILABLE

Music and Sound Effects to Be in All Future Oswald, the Lucky Rabbit, Cartoon Comedies—First Three Now Being Shipped

THE first of the synchronized Oswald Comedies have arrived in the East and are being printed and rushed to all Universal Exchanges. They are hailed by the Universal home office executives as the last word in cartoon entertainment. Universal, in launching this comedies series with synchronized music and sound effects, is one of the first in the field with a sound cartoon series.

The first synchronized Oswald, the Lucky Rabbit, comedy set for release is "Hen Fruit," which will officially reach the screen every other week. Three synchronized comedies have been completed to date. The second and third are "Sick Cylinders," and "Hold 'Em, Ozzy!"

The Oswald Cartoon Comedies, according to the Universal sales reports, are one of the most popular cartoon series on the screen. The addition of sound effects greatly enhances their entertainment value, "U" executives state.

M. Van Praag is New Year Host To Universal Visitors from Coast

M. VAN PRAAG, general sales manager for Universal, was host New Year's Eve at the Motion Picture Club in New York, for the flying squadron of Universal Coast Executives now in the East for the "Cohens and Kellys"-"Abie's Irish Rose" trial. Other prominent Universal people, both from the Coast and from New York, were in the party.

Those from the Coast in connection with the trial were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pollard, Al Cohn, Edward Montagne and Curtis Benton. Others from the Coast were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leni. The New York members of Van Praag's party were Mr. and Mrs. Ted Schlanger.

Laemmle Christmas Parties In Universal Chain Theatres

CARL LAEMMLE played host to hundreds of thousands of kiddies and poor and lonely people on Christmas Eve. Practically every Universal Chain Theatre throughout the country extended Laemmle's invitation to the poor and lonely on this night to attend their show gratis. Newspapers joined in the celebration everywhere. Local merchants and organizations contributed gifts.

In a number of cases Universal houses ran special morning shows at which children were admitted upon payment of potatoes, apples, foodstuffs or clothing, which in turn were turned over to local charitable organizations for the poor.

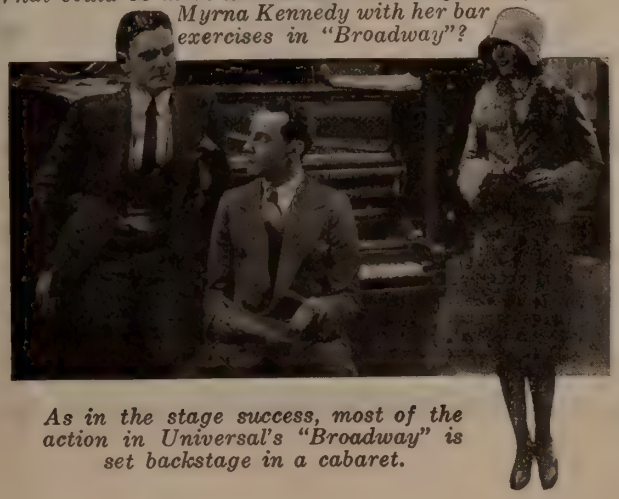
These parties have been the custom of the Universal Chain Theatres each year.

"MELODY OF LOVE" BREAKS ALL RECORDS

"THE MELODY OF LOVE" broke all records of all time at this house. JOE BURTON
Keith Theatre, North Platte, Nebr.

The first stills from "Broadway" show Glenn Tryon as the likeable hoofer.

What could be more nonchalant than Tryon helping Myrna Kennedy with her bar exercises in "Broadway"?



As in the stage success, most of the action in Universal's "Broadway" is set backstage in a cabaret.

Youth calls to Youth—

College yells
Glee Clubs
The Roar of Crowds
Laughter
Noise of Combat

and the Box Office Answers

in

Carl Laemmle Jr's

The Collegians

The great two-reelers with the quality and punch of supers!

4th Series with Sound and Dialogue —or Silent

Starring GEORGE LEWIS with Dorothy Gulliver, Hayden Stevenson, Churchill Ross and Eddie Phillips.
Directed by Nat Ross.

UNIVERSAL JUNIOR JEWELS

"Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City" gives Golden Chance to Movie Cinderella.

A bathing beauty parade in "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City" reveals varying ideas of sex appeal during the last sixty years.

Elsie Allen, Who Won Part in Universal Comedy Through Actual Summer Girl Contest Held in Atlantic City During Filming of Cohen and Kelly Comedy Adds Eye Appeal to Picture

THE door to possible movie fame opened to Elsie Allen last summer when the latest Cohens and Kellys comedy was filmed in Atlantic City. That uproarious picture included in addition to the laughable antics of the Irish-Jewish families certain situations which stressed bathing beauties. Eye-appeal played an important part in the plot of the picture.

Director William J. Craft decided on the ingenuous idea of incorporating an actual summer girl contest into the plot of the picture which surrounds the manufacturing efforts of a bathing suit house. Through Craft's efforts, aided by Bob Wood, Universal exploitation expert, such a contest was staged on the boardwalk in Atlantic City. To the humor of George Sidney, Vera Gordon, Kate Price and Mack Swain in the principal roles, was added the colorful spectacle of a bathing beauty contest.

That spelled the dawn of a new era to one Elsie Herman, late importer's model out of a job. She won the contest and along with it a six months' contract with Universal Pictures. A successful tryout sealed the bargain, and Elsie embarked for Universal City, under the screen name of Allen. She plays a role in "The Cohen and Kellys in Atlantic City" which displays her young charms to good advantage.

Nora Lane portrays the juvenile leading lady, the Cohen daughter, opposite young Kelly, played by Cornelius Keefe. The comedy abounds in amusing situations made even funnier by the introduction of dialogue. The Irish-Jewish accents are well reproduced by the veteran cast.

Elsie Allen, winner of the Summer Girl Contest in Atlantic City which won her a place in the latest Cohens and Kellys comedy.

"The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City" is filled with colorful style shows. Here Elsie Allen displays a bathing suit to advantage.

Get out the

Put on the PARADE!

UNCLE TO

Hundred's of Reports like t

BAND WAGON!

"Breaking All Records"
—Plaza Theatre, Ft. Dodge, Ia.

"Biggest B. O. of All"
—Keith Theatre, North Platte, Neb.

"Step On It"
—Rochester Theatre, Rochester, Tex.

"Phenomenal"
—Palace Theatre, Ft. Smith, Ark.

"In Front of the Best"
—Mojave Theatre, Alpine, Tex.

"Thousands Turned Away"
—Oriental Theatre, Portland, Ore.

"Shattered Our Records"
—Rivoli Theatre, Beatrice, Neb

"Five Times Average"
—Capitol Theatre, Dallas, Tex.

CARL LAEMMLE'S $2,000,000 Production

With Marguerita Fischer, Arthur Edmund Carew, Lucien Littlefield, James Lowe, Virginia Grey, Adolph Milar, Vivien Oakland, Lassie Lou Ahern, Mona Ray, Aileen Manning. Two negatives: 1 SILENT; 1 with SOUND.

A HARRY POLLARD Production

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

M'S CABIN

ese Leave no Room for Doubt

When

REGINALD

DENNY

Laughs, the World Laughs With Him!

You'll Know Why When You Book

4 BIG MONEY DENNYS

*Red Hot Speed, with Alice Day. A Joseph Henabery Production. The Night Bird, with Betsy Lee and Sam Hardy. A Fred Newmeyer Production. *Clear The Decks, with Olive Hasbrouck, Lucien Littlefield. A Joseph Henabery Production. *His Lucky Day, with Lorayne Duval. Directed by Edward Cline.

*Two negatives; 1 silent; 1 with dialog.

Presented by

CARL LAEMMLE

Universal Chain Theatres Conduct Anti-Flu Drive

Instructions to All Houses Deprecate Flu Scare and Advise Brightening Up Theatres to Off-Set Contagion Complex

A NOVEL method of combatting the Influenza Scare now supposed to be sweeping the country is being instituted in all Universal Chain theatres this week. It is a campaign of silence in which there will be no talk of "flu," no "flu" slides nor any action that might tend to make audiences think about the disease.

On the other hand, extra care is being taken to brighten up the theatres, to air them out more, to shine and polish the front and give an air of cleanliness and cheerfulness, so as to combat the "flu" scare with a counter-offensive based on health and sanitation.

The instructions concerning the anti-flu drive were contained in a letter to all Universal theatres sent out last week by Joe Weil, director of advertising and exploitation for the "U" chain. The letter is as follows:

UNIVERSAL CHAIN THEATRICAL ENTERPRISES, INC.

New York, N. Y.

TO ALL MANAGERS:

ABOUT "FLU"

While we cannot deny there is a bit of "flu" flying about the country, still we must not overlook the fact that a lot of so-called cases of "flu" are nothing more or less than ordinary colds.

The question has come up as to whether or not theatres should make some announcement regarding the "flu." To my way of thinking, any announcement about the "flu" would only tend to draw attention to it and the more attention you give such a proposition, the worse it appears to be. It is better to say nothing about it at all, but to take every possible action to prevent any criticism of the theatre in connection with the present talk.

Pay more attention to airing the theatre thoroughly daily. Instead of using dry mops or rags, dampen them a little bit so that only a minimum of dust is raised in the cleaning operation. Keep your front more bright and polished than ever before. Give your theatre the clean look and keep it that way and people will naturally not associate any "unhealthy" stories with it.

Do not run any "flu" slides on your screen. It is charged that certain fruit growers and drug interests are taking advantage of a slight spread of "flu" to scare the people into buying their wares, and that they are deliberately spreading "flu" talk.

Let cleanliness and cheerfulness permeate your theatre. If there are any corners where there is a musty smell, get rid of it by using a disinfectant at once.

Real Show Boat Uses Universal Complete Service

IT is extremely interesting, in view of Universal's picturization of Edna Ferber's "Show Boat" to know that Universal Complete Service Contract is being used on an actual show boat at the present time. Few of these floating theatres are still in existence. The following letter is from an exhibitor who operates a motion picture house and a show boat with equal success.

"I just thought I would write and tell you how successful we have been with the Universal Complete Service Contract.

"We are now in our fourth year under this contract and I believe more than anything else it has been helpful in our business. I expect it to be permanent as long as we are exhibitors. We use it in our theatre at Beverly, Ohio, and on our Show Boat, the Princess, at Lowell, Ohio. I heartily recommend it to all exhibitors everywhere."

Fraternally yours,
NORMAN F. THOM.

Show boats may be an old-fashioned type of theatre, but Mr. Thom is keeping step with the most up and coming exhibitors in using Universal product.

"MELODY OF LOVE" BRINGS IN MONEY

"THE MELODY OF LOVE" A GREAT PICTURE AND THE PATRONS WENT OUT OF THEIR WAY TO TELL ME SO. MADE PLENTY OF "GELT" HERE.

RAYMOND R. MILLER,
EMPRESS THEATRE
KEARNEY, NEBR.

"Man Who Laughs" A Rare Treat

(From Vindicator Review)

"Victor Hugo's great story of England, about 1705, 'The Man Who Laughs' opened a week's engagement at the Park Theatre yesterday and proved one of the biggest and strongest dramas the screen has disclosed here in many and many a day. It is a play for thinking people, for students of drama, of histrionic technique, it is a rare treat and for all classes it is a thrilling, glittering spectacle.

"The cast is superb. That word is often abused in the film world, but in this case it is not exaggeration. The company was evidently selected with deference to fitness rather than big names. The story grips from beginning to end and although tragic is entertaining in every phase. The effects are stupendous and startling. They must be seen to be appreciated.

"Hundreds and hundreds of people appear in the play. It crowds beggar description, especially of the period. A lesson in history as well as classy dramatic entertainment is here.

"The entire cast, from the stars to the supernumaries, seem to have been imbued with the qualities of this powerful drama of love and court intrigue, and to have enacted their roles with inspiration.

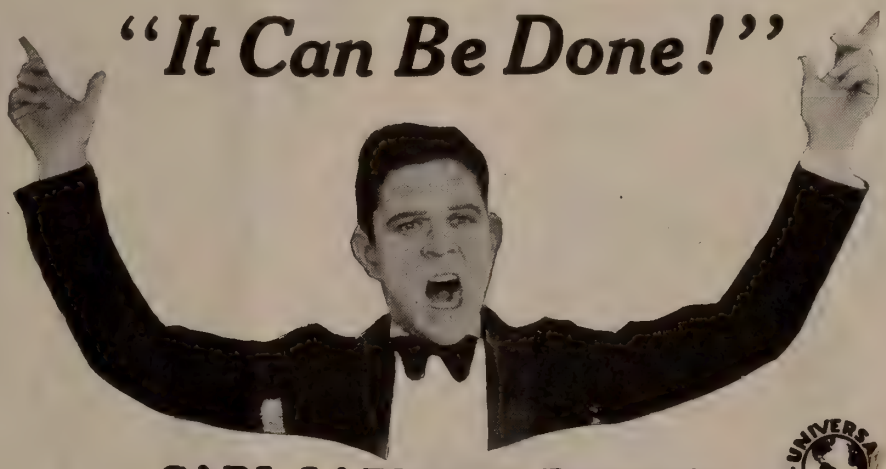
"Mary Philibin is fine as Dea the little blind maid.

"This most unusual of photoplays is featured by what will probably go down as two of the finest characterizations of 1928, Miss Philbin's is one of these, while Conrad Veidt's is the other. Veidt's role is that of Gwynplaine, whose face is carved into a permanent grin by a political surgeon, and who becomes a clown with a traveling circus. Veidt runs the gamut of emotions but always with his indelible grimace. The pathos of this is some of the finest that has come to the screen."

"FOLKS, I've been told by thousands that 'The Kid's Clever' is a riot of laughs, giving the world some new ideas on courtship and invention!"

"COUNTLESS folks also assure me that 'The Gate Crasher' is a knockout and that "How to Handle Women" is a certified scream. For myself I add the promise: watch for——

"It Can Be Done!"



CARL LAEMMLE Presents

GLENN TRYON

"HOW TO HANDLE WOMEN"
With Marion Nixon. A William J. Craft Production.

"IT CAN BE DONE"
With Sue Carol. A Fred Newmeyer Production.

"THE GATE CRASHER"
With Patsy Ruth Miller. A William J. Craft Production.

"THE KID'S CLEVER"
With Kathryn Crawford and Virginia Sale. A William J. Craft Production.

The LAST V

The MICHIGAN KID

Bigger than "The Storm," the great box-office winner. CONRAD NAGEL and RENEE ADOREE with Lloyd Whitlock, Adolph Milar, Virginia Grey. From the tremendously popular story by REX BEACH.

An IRVIN WILLAT Production

With LAURA LA PLANTE, Montagu Love, Roy D'Arcy, Margaret Livingston, John Boles, Bert Roach. Produced under the personal supervision of CARL LAEMMLE, Jr. From the novel by Wadsworth Camp and Thomas F. Fallon's Broadway stage hit. Two negatives: 1 Silent; 1 with Dialog.

A PAUL LENI Production

The BIG 6 LAEMMLE SPECIALS

VARNING

The Picture of 1,000 Thrills! Baffling! Startling! Beautiful! More sensational than "The Phantom of the Opera"—Greater in every way than "The Cat and the Canary"—One of the BIG 6

THE GIRL ON THE BARGE

With JEAN HERSHOLT, Sally O'Neil, Malcolm MacGregor. From the Cosmopolitan Magazine story by RUPERT HUGHES. Two negatives: 1 SILENT; 1 with DIALOG.

An EDWARD SLOMAN Production

The BIG 6

ALS LAEMMLE SPEC

The LAST V

TALKING or
SILENT,
the most amazing mystery picture of all —A box-office marvel that will be remembered for years.

The BIG 6 LAEMMLE SPECIALS

VARNING

The COHENS and KELLYS in ATLANTIC CITY

The world's funniest comedy team at their best. Starring GEORGE SIDNEY with Vera Gordon, Kate Price, Mack Swain. Two negatives: 1 SILENT; 1 with DIALOG.

A WILLIAM JAMES CRAFT Production

The BIG 6 LAEMMLE SPECIALS

"A Blues Chaser an

—said Irene Thirer in The New York Daily

GIVE AND T

GAVE the Colony Audience Gay Hysterics!

TOOK the New York Critics for a Row of Howls.

". . . You're going to have an hour of the giggles," whooped Regina Cannon in The New York American.

—and the hilarious thousands who flocked to the Colony Theatre last week to see and hear this rib-shaker proved that she was right. They laughed and hollered—lost their dignity and yelled—yelled themselves to shreds and limped out gasping.

GIVE AND TAKE will make any audience laugh—and it will make any box-office smile!

The BIG 6

ALS LAEMMLE SPEC

d Laugh Provoker!"

News.

AKE

Starring

GEORGE SIDNEY

and

JEAN HERSHOLT

With

George Lewis and Sharon Lynn

From the Broadway stage success by Aaron Hoffman

A WILLIAM BEAUDINE
Production

2 negatives—1 silent, 1 with dialog

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

The BIG 6

ALS LAEMMLE SPEC

Sound Version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Hailed By British Press As Milestone

Box-office Pull of Synchronized "Uncle Tom" Even Greater Than That of Record Breaking Silent Version

THE sound version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is declared to be 100% in advance of the silent film, runs the verdict of the press and public. The trade release at which twelve hundred showmen and press gathered at the New Oxford Theatre, Manchester, consisted of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "The Melody of Love," Universal's first all-talking picture production, and various talking, singing and sound shorts.

Scheduled to be a non-stop show, this programme had to be broken for several minutes after each item, so great and sustained was the applause of the distinguished and appreciative audience. The beauty, drama and pathos of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" with its exquisite sound accompaniment of singing, music and effects was much commented upon by those who had seen the former silent version.

Opening up on Monday afternoon with "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and a programme of variety shorts, W. Gordon Smith, manager of the New Oxford Theatre, packed the house within quarter of an hour.

It was the first time that talking pictures had been presented in the British provinces, and at the first show, a matinee, a record for the house was constituted, almost double the usual receipts being netted.

Even greater crowds stormed the house at night, and so great were the queues and crowds of people thronging the sidewalk, eager to hear moving pictures for the first time, that a bodyguard of police had to be called out to regulate them.

The presentation of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and the "talkies" is hailed by the Press as the most notable milestone in cinema history.

Commenting on the film, the Press said:

MANCHESTER EVENING NEWS:

It is worthy to rank with some of the best films ever made; its pathos and its comedy are well blended, and the march of the army to emancipate the slaves is an unforgettable scene.... whatever may be the future of talkies they are certainly worth hearing.

SUNDAY DISPATCH

The musical effects in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" clearly showed how synchronisation can come to the aid of a silent film and give life to a story.

MANCHESTER EVENING CHRONICLE

The programme demonstrates the immense possibilities of the talkies..... the audience last night was amazed. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" has been well done, and apart from the "music without" which accompanies it, the film is worth seeing for its dramatic value.

DAILY EXPRESS

The experiment was an unqualified success..... "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is a new film which has been particularly well produced and the musical effects were synchronised perfectly.

"Thanks for the Buggy Ride" Well Exploited At Nottingham's Motor Bycycle Races

Five thousand people saw the huge advertisement of "Thanks for the Buggy Ride" playing at the Victoria Picture House, managed by James Leyland. Another banner was displayed at the entrance and hand bills left in every vehicle. The cutouts of a petrol pump were used outside of the theatre entrance.

Silent Shorts that TALK MONEY!

BUSTER BROWN COMEDIES

With the canine cut-up "Tige." From R. F. Outcault's cartoons.

MIKE and IKE

Rube Goldberg's celebrated look-alike twins in the flesh.

SNOOKUMS

in "The Newlyweds and Their Baby."

From George McManus' gleeful cartoons.

LET GEORGE DO IT

Universal Junior Jewels.

Another from George McManus' cartoons.

Scores of short features, depending upon sound for their entertainment value, have been and will be foisted on unwired houses as silent features. Out!

Every Stern Brothers Comedy must stand on its own laughing legs as a silent seat filler. Popular in any house—wired or unwired—these great two reelers are made silent the same as ever—only better than ever.

Protect your profits with proven product.

Released by UNIVERSAL

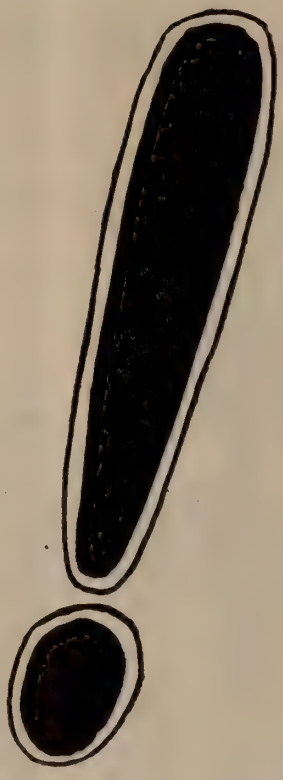
GIVE

A thought to Accessories

AND

Use plenty of Posters and other Advertising—and

TAKE



Profits which are rightfully yours!

—you can't properly put over your program without advertising, any more than you can run a car without gasoline or your radio without electricity. You may try, and sometimes you may succeed—but you're taking an unnecessary gamble. Get behind your Universal Pictures TODAY—NOW—like a real showman with Universal Accessories that are made to bring you business.

Universal Accessories Are Your Surest Box-Office Insurance

LAEMMLE SEES 1929 AS BEST MOVIE YEAR

(Continued from page 8)

war time. And the change-over is far from completion. Certainly the first half of 1929, perhaps the entire year, will be a continuation of the hectic present.

"The Voice of the Screen! It resounds from Broadway to Hollywood, but out of the babel of voices and opinions there rapidly is arising order and harmony. The elusive elements that make for good continuity and good theatre in talking pictures rapidly are taking form.

"The effect of this situation at present, is a growing necessity for the selection of stories that will make good silent pictures while at the same time being suitable for sound and dialogue treatment, since most talking pictures, for many months to come, also will be made in silent form as well. Thus, the stories must continue to be filled with action and other qualities demanded by the silent screen, so that they will offer first-rate entertainment, even when lacking their dialogue sequences. The selection of stories is becoming increasingly difficult, for this reason.

"There are other conjugate problems, such as the availability of present day motion picture stars for talking pictures. There is much being said on this subject these days. I, for one, am not taking it very seriously. With the exception of a few stars whose foreign accent might limit them to foreign roles, the average screen player's voice should register fair enough. I've heard some which register better than the voices of trained stage stars. At least they seemed more natural, and that is far more preferable to vibrancy of nuance or the other much mooted voice qualities.

"Whatever the minor problems, the motion picture industry will go forward. Talking pictures make for fuller, more diversified entertainment. The scope and possibilities of the industry are thereby widened. 1929 enters with greater promise than any year in the history of the screen."

"Tarzan" Interest Never Dies Out

"We have done more business with 'Tarzan the Mighty' than any serial we have ever used. I was dubious as its drawing power on account of the length, fifteen chapters. However, I am pleased to state that the interest never dies out.

"You have a wonderful serial in 'Tarzan the Mighty'—it's a big success."

—Chas. Lauve, Manager, Opera House Theatre, Franklin La.

"The Last Warning" Offers Wallop in Teaser Campaign

"THE LAST WARNING," Universal's mystery directed by Paul Leni and starring Laura La Plante, is a natural for exploitation. It is particularly well suited to effective teaser campaigns. In New York City the "Last Warning" was given to cheaters, gamblers and speeders in a huge and widespread billboard teaser campaign.

For a much less expensive stunt, and one which is just as productive of results, Exploiteer Ravenscroft has devised a throwaway card series. The cards are reproduced below, showing the very vague beginning gradually working up into the fact that "The Last Warning" is a picture. The cards can be used, one a day, in hotel guests' boxes, offices, stores, and house to house. They are suitable for a two weeks' campaign, teaser cards the first week and final picture tie-up the last week. It is, of course, important to keep the mystery sustained until the theater ads appear the last few days before the playdate.

Try this campaign in your town.

This is the FIRST WARNING Watch for the LAST WARNING!	Second Warning! THE LAST WARNING Is Coming
Be Ready for THE LAST WARNING!	THE LAST WARNING Will Thrill You
Don't Neglect THE LAST WARNING!	There's Mystery A-plenty in THE LAST WARNING!
HEED! The Last Warning's Coming Your Way!	"THE LAST WARNING" The Picture of a Thousand Thrills!

Universal Conducts Dancing Beauty Hunt

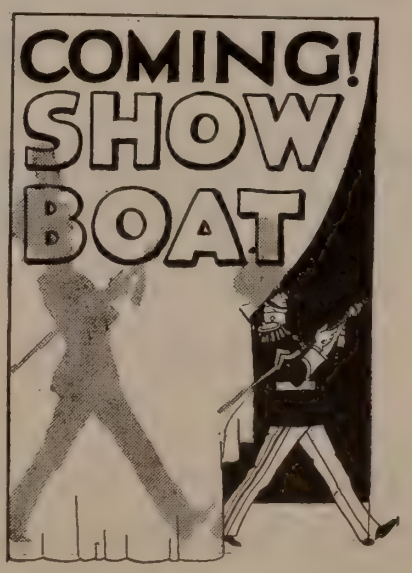
UNIVERSAL is making a thorough canvass of the motion picture industry and the local stage for the ten most beautiful dancers.

When found they will be used as the chorus girls in the night club scenes in Universal's million-dollar all-dialogue production, "Broadway," according to an announcement by Carl Laemmle, Jr., associate producer at Universal.

The parts will also include dialogue, it was said.

It is hoped to find ten good stage dancers so beautiful that they will be remembered henceforth as "The Broadway Chorus" just as the fame of the Floradora Sextette lingers on as having contained the most beauteous girls of a bygone era.

The cast of "Broadway" includes Glenn Tryon, Evelyn Brent, Merna Kennedy, Paul Porcasi, Thomas Jackson and Otis Harlan. Dr. Paul Fejos is directing.



A PAGE OF SYNOPSES

"THE MYSTERY RIDER"

Universal Chapterplay

No. 6—"The Fatal Shot"

AS Lane dashes into the cave to find Grace Wentworth, the bomb set by Bull Leonard explodes, burying them alive.

The posse realizes that the two are caught and force the outlaws to start digging to free them. Meanwhile, Lane and Grace, exploring the interior, discover a crevice in the roof. Lane starts a smoke signal which is seen by the posse, who go to their rescue.

Bull Leonard and his henchmen, watching their chance, make their getaway while the posse is freeing Grace and Lane. They are pursued by the posse, but succeed in giving them the slip.

The Claw, watching in ambush, sees Grace brought out of the cave, and realizing the ranch-house is deserted, seizes the opportunity to go there and search for the valuable formula.

Grace reaches home just as the Claw finds a secret hiding place in the wall. Fearing discovery he hides and sees Grace take the formula out of the secret cache. The Claw attempts to get it from her, but is interrupted by the arrival of Lane and Grace's uncle. Grace tells them what has happened, and the men dash out in time to see the Claw riding away.

The Claw plans a crafty game in his effort to get the formula. Grace receives a note from the Mystery Rider telling her that he has news of her father, but is watched, and so asks her to meet him. As Grace reaches the rendezvous, Leonard and his henchmen start a fake attack, causing Grace and the supposed Mystery Rider to flee.

The real Mystery Rider appears and sees the chase. His suspicions are aroused by the sight of the Claw in the Mystery Rider's disguise. He dashes to Grace's rescue. The Claw sees him and shoots. The Mystery Rider falls in the path of their oncoming horses and the Claw, forcing Grace's horse on with his own, tramples the prostrate Mystery Rider.

"THE MYSTERY RIDER"

Universal Chapterplay

No. 7—"Hurled Thru Space"

WHEN the Mystery Rider comes to the rescue of Grace Wentworth, who was tricked by the Claw, the villain shoots at him and the Mystery Rider falls from his horse. The Claw determines to trample him to death.

The Mystery Rider waits until they are almost upon him. Then leaps to his feet and pulls the Claw from his horse. The arrival of Leonard and the henchmen force him to make his escape before he can unmask the Claw. He is pursued, but gives them the slip and sends Grace on her way.

Grace's uncle asks Manning to help him finance the production of rubber, using the discovery of Grace's father. Lane advises caution, believing the Claw is awaiting some such move. Manning belittles Lane's fears and tells them he will raise the necessary cash.

Following their departure, Leonard appears from an adjoining room and Manning tells him to round up his men and steal the formula. Lane observes him leaving the office, and, becoming suspicious of him, decides to follow him.

He sees Leonard and his gang trying to overtake Grace and her uncle in their buckboard, and dashes to their rescue. A thrilling three-cornered chase ensues. Grace's uncle is roped from the buckboard by Leonard, while Lane dashes on to stop the team which has taken fright and run away. He overtakes them and, jumping from his horse to the buckboard, attempts to stop them.

Unfortunately, he is unsuccessful, and the buckboard is tumbled over the cliff.

"FARMYARD FOLLIES"

Oswald Cartoon Comedy

A SASSY young pullet was making the life of a worm miserable. She believed in the old adage of the "early bird." The worm was a "smart guy," however, and disappeared down a hole. The pullet mistook Oswald's tail, which happened to be in sight under the fence, for her quarry. Oswald resented this fiercely and trouble started right there!

As for the little pig who played in the mud-puddle, Oswald had to put him in the washtub a dozen times a morning.

Milking the cow certainly was a task, too! The flies put on their skates and used her back for a rink. Also Oswald's nose for a resting place.

The sassy pullet recovered from her first round with Oswald and appeared again, looking for more trouble. There was plenty of it. Oswald finally got her into the barn and applied an ax to her neck. But being a modern young thing, she refused to be a "dead one" and, although headless, challenged Oswald to a "free-for-all" in the barn yard.

"SLEEPING THROUGH"

Snappy Comedy

Horace in Hollywood Series

With ARTHUR LAKE

SITTING in the director's chair Horace forgot that he was really only the "assistant props." He became so interested in the racing sequences that he suddenly started "bawling out the actors." When the director got through with him Horace was so dazed that he accidentally took a sleeping powder which was to be used as a prop—in the next scene.

An unfortunate accident put one of the jockeys out of commission—with nobody on the set light enough to be used as a mount. The desperate director looked around for Horace—they found him passing out with sleep. Somehow they managed to get him on a horse and start him in the race, and somehow he won. No one was quite sure what happened, least of all Horace, for he was nine-tenths asleep. The laurels of the winner interested him not at all. His one idea was to stretch out under the nearest tree and sleep it off. As usual he was the unwitting hero of the day.

"SCRAPPIN RANGER"

Western Featurette

With EDMUND COBB

BETTY DAVIS found life on a ranch very dull after her years in college. Resting her horse one day, she was suddenly startled by a young man who rolled down an embankment almost to her feet. It was Dick Preston, whom Betty recognized as the Yale student who had rushed her during college days. Thinking he had followed her into the West she was much annoyed. When Dick explained that he was the new Ranger and had just been worsted in an effort to save her father's payroll from Black Pete, the menace of the county, Betty scoffed at him as a bluffer and left him.

Dick rode at top speed to headquarters for help while Betty rode leisurely toward home. Noticing a deserted cabin, her curiosity tempted her to investigate. Opening the door she found herself surrounded by Black Jack and his gang.

Nothing but Dick Preston's courage, fast riding and hard fighting saved Betty from her perilous position. She finally admitted that life on the range is not all monotony and that a Forest Ranger is a good bet for a husband.

"Drawing Power AMAZING!"

We booked this serial for what has always been one of our poorest nights and now is by far the best night of the week. Its drawing power is simply amazing.—Warren G. Geddes, Princess Theatre, Chelsea, Mich.

"Tremendous business! Every chapter better!"
—W. T. McIntyre, Princess Theatre, Enterprise, Ala.

"Patrons satisfied! B. O. satisfies me!"
—L. C. Taylor, Mentone Theatre, Mentone, Ind.

"Surprising increase each Saturday!"
—Frank W. Galvin, Alhambra Theatre, Sacramento, Calif.

"Worth its weight in gold!"
—A. Lehman, Canton Theate, Canton, Miss.

"Increased Saturday receipts 35%!"
—D. W. Marquis, Ernada Theatre, Bartow, Fla.

"I've got them coming!"
—G. E. Fuller, Playhouse, Fairhope, Ala.

"Can't go amiss on this serial!"
—T. J. Pekras, Dreamland Theatre, Columbus, Ga.

"Business increased 50%!"
—Morris Metz, Metz Arcade, Farriday, La.

TARZAN THE MIGHTY

With NATALIE KINGSTON and FRANK MERRILL

Produced by special arrangement with Edgar Rice Burroughs, author of "Tarzan of the Apes," "The Cave Girl," etc., etc. Directed by Jack Nelson

Universal's Super Serial

Manager Wm. A. Craig, of the Fairyland Theatre, Anaheim, Calif., dressed up his ushers and doorman in Legion uniforms for Universal's "Foreign Legion." It went over with a bang.

Pat Rooneys Leave For Universal City

PAT ROONEY, Mrs, Ronney (Marion Bent) and Pat Rooney, 3rd, left Thursday on the Twentieth Century for Universal City where they will commence production of movietone novelties under a long term contract to the Universal Pictures Corporation.

Edgar Allan Woolf, playright and producer of stage plays, has prepared the script for their first pictures, but will not accompany them to the coast. Production will be commenced about January 15th. No director has yet been announced.

The Rooneys have become famous to vaudeville fans throughout the country, having been on the stage for twenty-five years. His father, the original Pat Rooney, was the most popular vaudeville actor of his day.

The Rooneys completed their existing contracts for vaudeville with the first of the year and plan to devote themselves entirely to motion pictures.

"U" Sales Executive On Sales Trip

TED SCHLANGER, Assistant General Sales Manager for Universal, left New York recently for a short sales trip. Included in his itinerary will be the Buffalo and Pittsburgh exchange territories. Universal is just launching the second half of its 1928-1929 product, of which the majority of pictures are in both talking and silent versions.

Gibson Starts Film With Ruth Elder

HOOT GIBSON, Universal western star, has started production on his next Universal picture titled, "Birds of a Feather." Ruth Elder, Atlantic flight heroine, will play the leading role under the direction of Arthur Rosson.

Other members of the cast include Charles Schaeffer, Alan Forrest, Herbert Prior, Jack Knapp, Bill Gillis and Jack Herrick.

"Birds of a Feather" was written particularly for Gibson and Miss Elder. It combines aviation with a thrilling tale of the plains in which they will both appear at their best.

Keen Interest Shown In "Uncle Tom" Stunt

OUT in Bakersfield, California, the local youngsters are showing live interest in the Californian's coloring contest of Eliza Crossing the Ice, which is limited to children twelve years of age or under.

Many colored drawings were submitted to the Nile Theatre and considerable difficulty is being experienced in selecting the twelve best picutres.

Cash prizes totaling five dollars and ten tickets to see "Uncle Tom's Cabin" were the incentives for the children of Kern County to display their artistic talent. The attraction was especially effective occurring, as it did, during Christmas holidays when the children had more leisure than usual to devote to such competition.

LAEMMLE NUPTIALS

(Continued from page 11)

Henry E. Cassriel, Mr. and Mrs. Siegfried Hartman, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Hoffman, Dr. Stanley Immerman, Mr. Alvin Frank, Mr. Louis Friedlander, Mr. Max Laemmle, Miss Emily Hirsh, the Misses Edith and Irene Mayer, Mr. Herman Stern, Mrs. Charles Stern, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Colton, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holliday, Dr. Herman Sugerman, Dr. Dudley Fulton, Miss Geraldine Rosenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Morse, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Metzger, Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Manheim, Mr. Harold Fried, Mr. Willie Wyler, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Baum, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Dunhill, Mr. E. H. Goldstein, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cosman, Miss Carmel Myers, Dr. Harris and family, Mr. Ralph Bloom, Mrs. Estelle Friedlander, Mrs. L. B. Hirsh, Mrs. John Kahn, Mr. Walter Marks, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Colton, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Adler, Mr. Julius Jacoby, Mrs. Mattie Stern, Mr. Harry Granas, Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Cochrane, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gulick, Mr. Harry Zehner, Mr. Robert Wyler, Mr. Henry Hays, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Welsh, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Hellman, Mr. Mrs. Sam Van Ronkel, Mr. and and Mrs. Jack Hellman, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Lauter, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Baruch, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Cohn, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Frank, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Blumenthal, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lowenthal, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mayer, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leni, Mr. Wachtel, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Henshall, Mr. and Mrs. Fichtenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Behrendt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Baruch, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cole, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Buell, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Schulberg, Mr. and Mrs. Rod La Roque, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lewinson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewin, Mr. and Mrs. Klein, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Tippett, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Marshutz, Mrs. Jane Siegal, Mrs. Lena Moos, George and Katherine Behrendt, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Loeb, Mr. and Mrs. Gabe Levy, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Baruch, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Danziger, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Woelfe, Mr. and Mrs. Frankel, Mr. H. L. Ware, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lissner, Mr. and Mrs. Sol Lesser, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Denny, Mrs. E. Gerstle, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jaffe, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Platt, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Weingarter, Mr. and Mrs. John Colton, Jr., Mr. Mannie Lowenstein, Mrs. Bernard Mayer, Mr. and Mrs Harry Wiener, Mr. and Mrs. Max Frankel, Mr. Terry Cosgrove, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Erlanger, Mrs. Ogus, Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Moos, Mr. Witt K. Cochrane.

PREPARE FOR A RIOT!

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

You've seen youth in stitches and old age in the throes of merriment over the comicalities of SILENT Oswald . . . you've seen stern men break down and roar.

Possibly you have wondered how a cartoon movie feature COULD be funnier.

Here is the howling answer:

OSWALD in SOUND

Tighten the screws in your seats—order your smelling salts early—put in a stock of SPARE RIBS—in other words——

PREPARE FOR A RIOT!

Other one-reel shorts

LAEMMLE NOVELTIES
Something strikingly new under the sun. First-run short subjects.

Horace in Hollywood
Arthur Lake with shots of studio bigtimers in a zesty series.

—and these with singing and dialog:

BAILEY and BARNUM
Headliner blackface singing and entertaining act. Booking Big.

THE BROX SISTERS
Harmonizing Hawaiian trio extraordinary. Big house stuff.

ZIMMERMAN and GRANDVILLE
Unique, delightful Swiss yodlers. Exclusively Universal.

OSWALD the Lucky Rabbit in SOUND

(Two negatives—one silent, one with sound)

[Winkler Productions]

Universal Shorts are Super Shorts!

The always Dependable ADVANCE MAN

¶ Carl Laemmle's Saturday Evening Post column appearing in every issue of this great magazine - - - - read and enjoyed by more than 15,000,000 people every week - - - is YOUR ADVANCE MAN for the world's finest motion pictures.

¶ Thousands of letters received from movie fans weekly is absolute proof that this column is used by movie fans everywhere as their entertainment guide.

¶ YOU MUST PROFIT by it if you play UNIVERSAL!

The column at the left is from The Saturday Evening Post of December 29, 1929

UNIVE[illegible] WEEKLY
VOL. 28 NO. 24 JAN. 19, 1929

They All Talk!

MELODY OF LOVE
Carl Laemmle's 100% Talking Picture.

LONESOME
Paul Fejos' Masterpiece. Glenn Tryon, Barbara Kent.

THE LAST WARNING
Laura La Plante. Paul Leni Production.

GIVE AND TAKE
George Sidney, Jean Hersholt, Wm. Beaudine Production.

THE CHARLATAN
George Melford Production.

COHENS and KELLYS in ATLANTIC CITY
George Sidney, Vera Gordon, Kate Price, Mack Swain. Wm. J. Craft Production.

THE SHAKEDOWN
James Murray, Barbara Kent. Wm. Wyler Production.

COME ACROSS
Mary Nolan. Wm. Wyler Production.

RED HOT SPEED
Reginald Denny. Joseph Henabery Production.

HIS LUCKY DAY
Reginald Denny. Directed by Edward Cline.

IT CAN BE DONE
Glenn Tryon. Fred Newmeyer Production.

GIRL ON THE BARGE
By Rupert Hughes. Jean Hersholt, Sally O'Neil, Malcolm McGregor. Edward Sloman Production.

CLEAR THE DECKS
Reginald Denny. A Joseph Henabery Production.

THAT BLONDE
Laura La Plante.

ONE RAINY NIGHT
Laura La Plante.

DANGEROUS DIMPLES
Laura La Plante.

YOU CAN'T BUY LOVE
An Ernst Laemmle Production.

BROADWAY
Paul Fejos Production. Original play dialogue.

THE MINSTREL SHOW
Eddie Leonard.

THE KING OF JAZZ
Paul Whiteman.

SHANNONS OF BROADWAY
with James Gleason. Directed by Wesley Ruggles.

BARGAIN IN THE KREMLIN
By Sir Philip Gibbs. Joseph Schildkraut. Directed by Edward Sloman.

THE CLIMAX
From famous play by Edward Locke.

THE GREAT CINEMA MURDER
By Leonard Fields.

FLAMING DAUGHTERS
By Beatrice Van.

BARNUM WAS RIGHT
From play by Philip Bartholomae, John Meehan.

THE HAUNTED LADY
By Adela Rogers St. John.

THE BRAGGART
Jean Hersholt. Edward Sloman Production.

ERIC THE GREAT
Conrad Veidt, Mary Philbin. Paul Fejos Production.

SHORT SUBJECTS
BAILEY and BARNUM, THE THREE BROX SISTERS, ZIMMERMAN and GRANDVILLE. "THE COLLEGIANS"
—Fourth Series. Supervised by Carl Laemmle, Jr.

(Note: Two negatives, one silent, one with dialog, on all Universal talking pictures excepting "Melody of Love.")

-- Silent or Sound - Carl Laemmle Leads the Way!!!

"don't miss this one"

—advises
MOTION PICTURE MAGAZINE

THE SHAKEDOWN

HERE'S Carl Laemmle's surprise package of the year. Making a modest bow without any superlatives attached to it, one of the first big productions of a former director of westerns, it packs more suspense, wallop and entertainment into seven reels than anything in recent memory from the Universal academy. William Wyler, the young Swiss who directed it, establishes himself beyond question as one who is going to be heard from in a big way. He has injected a degree of intelligence into a fight picture which one would not have thought possible. Here, actually, is a new angle on the time-worn theme of the bad boy who makes good and wins his mate via the knockout-count-of-ten route. James Murray contributes a fine performance in the principal rôle, and the rest of the cast are every-thing that they should be. Don't miss this one, folks.

Story by
Chas. A. Logue

A
UNIVERSAL JEWEL

"The SHAKEDOWN"

A WILLIAM WYLER PRODUCTION with JAMES MURRAY and BARBARA KENT

-- Silent or Sound - Carl Laemmle Leads the Way!!!

DO NOT BE

No. 619—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

IF your theatre is not wired for sound pictures, do not be buffaloed. You still have your place in the sun.

Did you read the editorial William A. Johnston published the other day in The Motion Picture News? It contained some good stuff for you.

He said, among other things, "If I were an exhibitor and lacked a sound installation today, I would not be baffaloed. A great many people are going to like silent pictures, and maybe, with increased satisfaction. . . . We are going to have, unfortunately, a good many talkers put forth because they contain talk rather than entertainment. . . . from these there is going to be a rebound in favor of the house with good silent pictures."

Mr. Johnston continued, "The more we see of the situation, the more we believe that everywhere there will continue to be a place for the talker house and the silent picture house. . . . The question today, as always, is NOT: is it a talker? or, is it silent? . . . . The question is: is it ENTERTAINMENT?"

BUFFALOED!

Universal from the very beginning of the sound panic---for it has been a panic---adopted the policy of judging every story by its ENTERTAINMENT VALUE---not by its value as a talker. With only one single exception, every story we have bought has been judged by its entertainment value, and not whether it would make a good talkie alone.

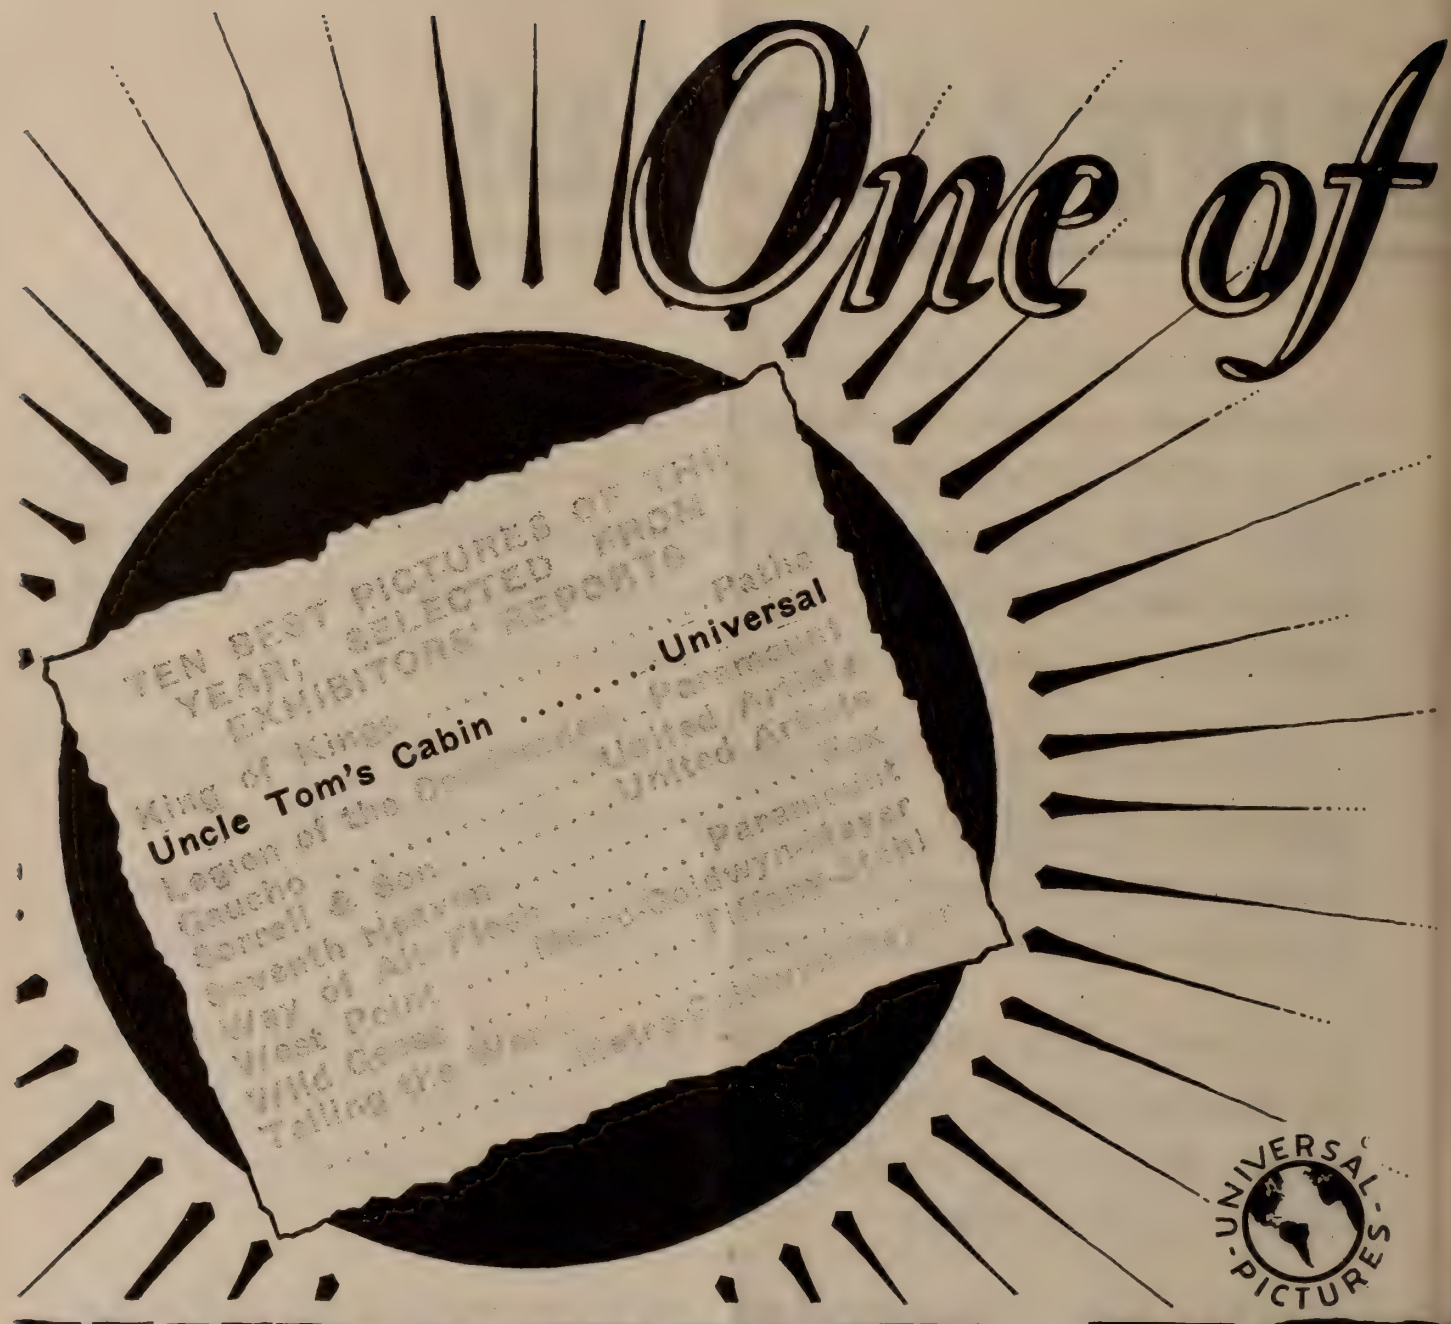
You have seen stars die out but you have never seen a good story fail to grip the people. So, our first test is: is it good entertainment and will it make a good silent picture? If it will do that, it is easy enough to make it a good talkie, too.

There still is and probably always will be a big audience for silent pictures. There are also a great many who like the talkies, as demonstrated by the fact that such pictures, too, are doing a good business.

Thus there is glory enough and profit enough for both classes of pictures.

And, as Mr. Johnston says, do not be buffaloed. Book the best silent pictures you can get, if your house is not wired, give them a good advertising campaign and you will get results.

Universal has more good pictures to insure these results than anyone else has. Look 'em over!



UNCLE TO

--Silent or Sound- Carl Lae

the ten best!

—according to exhibitors' box-office reports to GREATER AMUSEMENTS

PROVED
The Great American Picture!

—Proved by hundreds of exhibitors' box-office reports to trade papers; proved by more hundreds of exhibitor testimonials on file with Universal; proved by every known BOX-OFFICE TEST to be not only one of the year's ten best, but one of the biggest box-office certainties of all time. BOOK IT—NOW!

CARL LAEMMLE'S $2,000,000

Production. With Marguerita Fischer, Arthur Edmund Carewe, Lucien Littlefield, James Lowe, Virginia Grey, Adolph Milar, Vivien Oakland, Lassie Lou Ahearn, Mona Ray, Aileen Manning.
Two negatives: 1 SILENT; 1 with SOUND.

A Harry Pollard Production

M'S CABIN

nmle Leads the Way!!!

SWEET BOX
CARL LAEMMLE
The MELOD

OFFICE MUSIC!

"'The Melody of Love' broke all records of all time at this house"

—JOE BURTON, Keith Theatre, North Platte, Neb.

"Broke all records for a single day's business in this town!"

—W. C. Sears, Granada Theatre, Norfolk, Neb.

CARL LAEMMLE presents
The Only Talking Picture
With Color Sequences

"LONESOME"

Starring GLENN TRYON and BARBARA KENT. Supervised by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Photography by Gilbert Warrenton. From an original story by Mann Page. Two negatives: one silent; one with dialog.

PAUL FEJOS' Masterpiece

Featuring Walter Pidgeon, Mildred Harris, Tom Dugan, Jane Winton, Jack Richardson. Story by Robert Arch. An Arch Heath Production. Sound supervision by C. Roy Hunter.

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

FIRST 100% TALKING PICTURE

"OF LOVE"

The
UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick — Editor

PUBLISHED BY THE
— MOTION PICTURE WEEKLY PUBLISHING COMPANY — HECKSCHER BUILDING —
730-5TH AVE. — NEW YORK CITY
Copyright 1929 UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION All Rights Reserved

Vol. XXVIII JANUARY 19, 1929 No. 24

UNIVERSAL MOVIEGRAMS

TWO real honest-to-goodness surprises are wrapped up by the Universal in that astonishing package labeled "The Charlatan." "The Charlatan" is a play by Ernest Pascal and Leonard Praskins. It was produced in New York City by Adolph Klauber at the Times Square Theatre and is being produced in pictures by George Melford at Universal City. The two surprises are Margaret Livingston in a blonde wig, and Fritzi Fern, a California stage dancer, who has registered so strongly in the new talkie art that Universal has renewed her contract for five years.

JEAN HERSHOLT is busily engaged in making the talking sequences of "The Girl on the Barge" at Universal City. This picture was filmed almost entirely on the Erie Canal in New York State. It is a story of this inland waterway, by Rupert Hughes. Sally O'Neil and Malcolm MacGregor play the other important roles.

REGINALD DENNY is busy on the talking sequences of "His Lucky Day," directed by Eddie Cline, "Red Hot Speed" and "Clear the Decks," both directed by Joseph Henabery.

SPLENDID progress is being made on Laura La Plante's first talkie, "The Haunted Lady." Wesley Ruggles, the director, picked out an entire cast of "talkers." They include John Boles, Huntley Gordon, Jane Winton, Julia Swayne Gordon, Anita Garvin and Nancy Dover.

Why Do Alluring Women Love Homely Men?

Dr. William F. Marston of Columbia University Propounds This Question to All Who Have Worried About the Amazing Infatuation of the Duchess Josiana in "The Man Who Laughs" for the Hideous Gwymplaine

WHY do alluring women love homely men?

History has enough examples of beautiful women falling in love with strong but very homely men to justify the asking of such a question. Were it not for these examples and some unexplained psychology, the Beauty and the Beast legend would never have risen. Now comes Dr. William F. Marston, professor of psychology, who asks the moving picture-going public, some thirty million people, to tell him the answer. In fact, he is willing to pay for the best answer, and is on his way to Universal City to prepare an office in which to receive the flood of mail which is certain to be sent to him.

This momentous question—why do alluring women love homely men—all came about through someone saying that it was very unnatural of the Duchess Josiana in Victor Hugo's story, "The Man Who Laughs," to fall in love with Gwymplaine, the clown with a hideous and perpetual grin carved on his face by order of the king. Prof. Marston, as the consulting psychologist and Director of Universal's Public Service Bureau, did not think that this suggestion of a mere fan was at all out of place. In fact, he regarded it as opening a basic psychological phenomenon which might very well interest a large proportion of the moving-picture-going public. For that reason, he propounded the question to the country at large and gave them until July 1st to answer it. Two thousand dollars in prizes have been set aside as a reward for those who answer it best.

In citing examples of homely men who certainly had inspired the tender passion in the hearts of alluring women, he mentions Disraeli, Louis XI of France (and for that matter, almost all of the Louis who followed him), a man who exercised an irresistible fascination for women of the captivating type. Alfred Neumann in his book, "The Devil," speaks of him as "a man of medium height, about fifty years of age—his clean-shaven, somewhat bloated face was of terrifying ugliness. Above the sensual, brutal curves of his lips hung a huge crooked nose. The hard lines about the corners of his mouth betokened both irony and cruelty." Charlemagne, conqueror of Europe in the Middle Ages, was bearded, rough and noticeable for the coarseness of his features. Yet he was known for his indiscretions, and that with the most

(Continued on page 32)

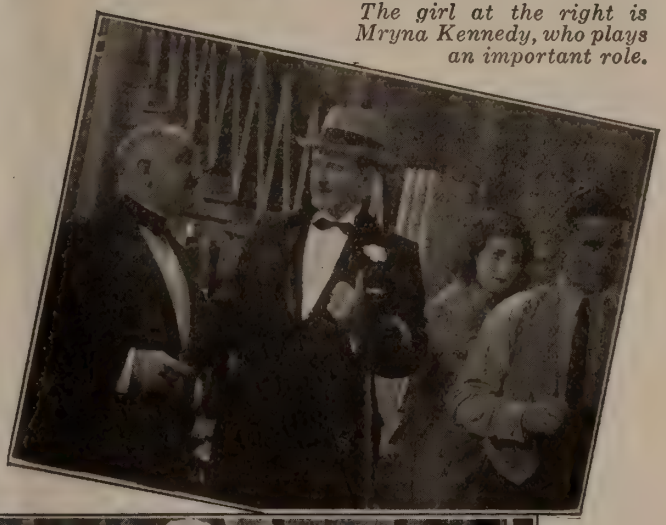
ANNOUNCEMENT was made of the last important role cast from Universal City this week in "Broadway." Leslie Fenton, well-known Hollywood player, has been cast for the role of Scar Edwards. Others in the cast selected by Paul Fejos and Carl Laemmle, Jr., are Glenn Tryon, Evelyn Brent, Thomas Jackson, Paul Porcasi, Myrna Kennedy, Robert Ellis, Otis Harlan, Betty Francisco, Ruby McCoy, Edith Flynn.

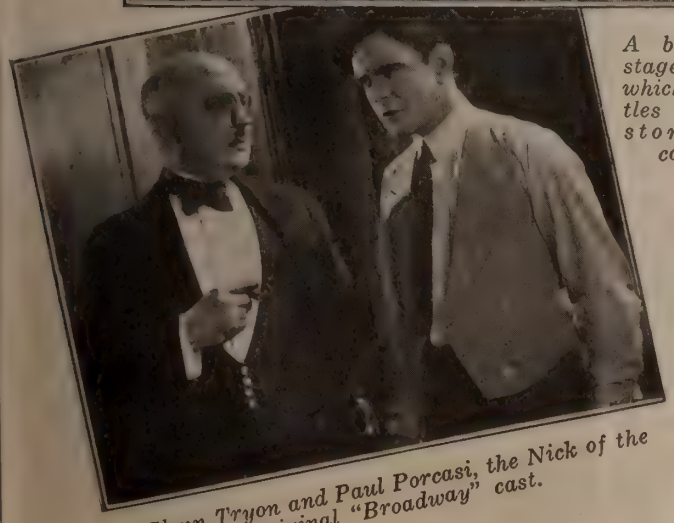
"BROADWAY"

Glenn Tryon and Evelyn Brent, who play the leads in "Broadway."

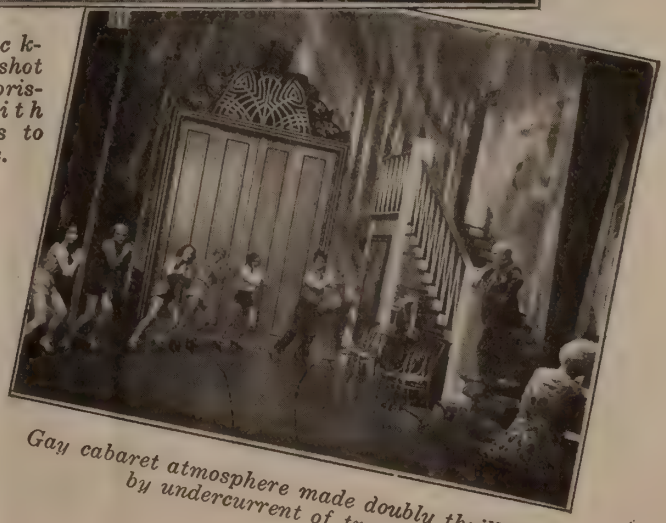
The girl at the right is Mryna Kennedy, who plays an important role.



A backstage shot which bristles with storms to come.



Glenn Tryon and Paul Porcasi, the Nick of the original "Broadway" cast.



Gay cabaret atmosphere made doubly thrilling by undercurrent of tragedy.

PAUL LENI, MASTER OF ATMOSPHERE, IS A GENIAL, ADVENTUROUS SOUL

By Marguerite Tazelaar

(Reprinted from N. Y. Herald Tribune)

PAUL LENI. The name conjured up a figure mysterious, faintly sinister. I recalled that he was described as "the master of settings and atmosphere." He was the creator of "Three Wax Works," "The Man Who Laughs" and the creepy "Cat and the Canary," and the director brought over here from Germany to spend his genius for effective light and shadow on the Universal lot. A man, no doubt, discriminating, lofty, academic, with an appearance like Whistler's and a restraint not easy to approach.

The elevator door opened to interrupt my train of thought. And out stepped a buccaneer. Not in the swashbuckling dress of a sea rover, to be sure, rather in the clothes of a promenader on the Champs Elysees. But he had, this fellow who I was presently to learn was Paul Leni, the unmistakable look of a gay, jovial spirit. One with a gusto for life, with adventure and laughter in him; a tryer of new things whether they be wise or mad.

He was a robust man of medium height, with thick shoulders and a large roundish head covered with closely clipped curly, black hair, with a streak of gray combed back from the forehead. He had a ruddy, fair skin, a blythe walk with curiosity in it for the world about him, and fat, soft hands with perfectly manicured nails. He belonged on Fifth Avenue with his smartly cut, light overcoat, his dark tailored suit, polkadot tie and soft hat. Yet he could readily have fitted into a waterfront speakeasy, or a German band.

* * *

When he was fifteen years old he went to the Lessing Theatre in Berlin to paint scenery. Without much technical training but with imagination, a feeling for color and strong individual tendencies he painted and designed as he wanted to rather than according to rules.

"I had nothing to lose," he said. "I was getting about five dollars a week and knew that I would probably be fired, no matter how the scenery turned out, so I just went ahead and carried out my ideas." But luck was with him, for some time later when he was asked to design an opening scene for "Faust" he succeeded far beyond his expectations. Always before, this set had shown conventional heaven with clouds, trees, flowers and white angels. Young Leni didn't care for this conception of heaven at all.

This breezy snapshot of Paul Leni on the Universal lot during the shooting of "The Man Who Laughs" reveals his geniality far better than formal photographs.

So he painted a back-drop of solid gold. Then he placed the angel characters against it in bright blue, red and green robes. At the base of the gold drop a little forward he slashed a black strip against which he put a red devil. The result was startling but very beautiful, and the public liked it. With this place he revolutionized the monotonous, conventional settings of the day and won his first recognition as an artist.

But fame was followed by defeat, for some time later a friend who was interested in the "movies" came to him and asked him to paint some posters which he could send out to his exhibitors. Leni painted several brilliantly hued bills and took them to his friend, who was loud in his praise and signed a contract to buy a number. A week later Leni received word to come immediately to his friend's house. He found the poor man forlorn and dejected. Before him lay a dozen telegrams from exhibitors saying that the new posters were driving away the customers and they threatened to cancel their orders unless the posters stopped coming.

"What will we do?" wailed the friend.

"Well, they don't like my posters," said Leni, "so I won't make any more."

"But what about your contract?" he was asked.

"I can't hold you to a contract if you have no money to pay me," Leni replied, "and one thing is certain, you will soon be bankrupt if you keep on sending out those posters." Thus ended his poster-painting career.

* * *

He now made connection with the film company that was later known as UFA and soon began directing pictures for them. In those early days he had to design and build all his sets as well as direct the actors. He had just begun when the war broke out, in which he served throughout its duration.

At its close he opened a little theatre in Berlin known as "Die Gondel," where he produced sketches, light satirical plays and short pieces, the staging and sets for which he designed himself. But he soon returned to pictures and now made settings for three films, each of which was a revelation. In "Partiance" he gave a true copy of the reserved and artificial atmosphere of Scotch nobles. In the second, a dramatization of one of Schiller's novels, he created an unforgettable illustration of the classic on the screen, using historic costumes and Italian architecture and landscape. In the third, "Three Wax Works," he plunged into bizarre effects that opened new and amazing possibilities for films. It was for this picture that he was so vigorously attacked by the critics as a stage manager and applauded by them as a painter.

(Continued on page 27)

"THE LAST WARNING" PREMIERE BREAKS COLONY HOUSE RECORD

Paul Leni's Latest Mystery Comedy, Starring Laura La Plante, Opens at Colony Theatre, New York, to Tremendous Business—Successor to "The Cat and the Canary

"THE LAST WARNING," Universal's latest talking picture, had its premiere last Saturday in the Colony Theatre, New York City, and proved to be one of the biggest drawing cards on Broadway. It broke all house records for the Colony Theatre over the week-end.

The picture is Paul Leni's most recent Universal production, and has Laura La Plante, Universal's popular blonde comedienne, as the star. It is a mystery comedy, adapted from the Broadway stage success by Thomas F. Fallon, and is slated for release this month as a Carl Laemmle Special Production, in both silent and talking versions. The Colony showing presents the talking version.

A strong cast supports Miss La Plante in this picture, including Montagu Love, John Boles, Margaret Livingston, Roy d'Arcy, Bert Roach, Mack Swain, Carry Daumery, Burr McIntosch, George Summerville, D'Arcy Corrigan, Bud Phelps, Fred Kelsey, Tom O'Brien and others.

Alfred A. Cohn prepared the scenario, and Tom Reed supplied the titles for the silent version, and adapted the dialogue for the talking version.

An indication of the extent to which the picture appealed to the New York critics may be had from the following excerpts:

N. Y. POST

By Creighton Peet

"THERE are very few people in America who can do the things with a camera that Paul Leni can do when he sets his mind to it—and in 'The Last Warning' he has had a lot of fun with double exposures, lap dissolves and all the other tricks of the director's trade. . . . One interesting thing he has done with sound in this picture—he has superimposed and dissolved his sounds just as in photography."

EVENING WORLD

By George Gerhard

"AS you probably know. The Last Warning' is Paul Leni's sequel to 'The Cat and Canary.' As was the case with the predecessor, he has devised a marvellous collection of settings for it and he introduced some superb photography to bring them out in their proper light. The picture is a gem for that reason. . . . Miss La Plante is excellent, as usual. She has a very nice speaking voice."

N. Y. HERALD TRIBUNE

By Richard Watts, Jr.

"THE distinguished talents of Mr. Paul Leni for the manufacture of cinema horror tales are being demonstrated once more this week at the Colony Theatre, where his latest production, 'The Last Warning,' is on display. Taken from the enormously successful stage work of several seasons ago, which set the vogue for mystery melodramas that wandered up and down the aisles and caused you to suspect the mild-mannered man sitting next to you of being the much-sought-after murderer of John Whoosis, the picture is, in most ways, one of the most successful examples of its school extant. . . . Mr. Leni's gift for macabre sets, menacing shadows, grewsome lighting and vague eerie passageways creates a perfect mood for the telling of mystery tales. . . . . 'The Last Warning' decidedly belongs among the better photoplays."

N. Y. DAILY NEWS

By Irene Thirer

"THE LAST WARNING' is corking mystery stuff. A certain proportion of this Colony production seems to us the most thrilling stuff of this sort ever brought to cinema. * * * Leni's sense of camera angles and spooky situations have made him the best mystery megaphoner of the movies. In the Colony film he keeps his audience tense at all times."

N. Y. AMERICAN

By Regina Cannon

"THE LAST WARNING' is a deep, dark mystery 'meller' with plenty of thrills, blood-curdling sequences and hair-raising episodes. The picture is an adaptation of the successful stage play of the same name, and we think it safe to state that the film version tops the 'speakie.' . . . Mr. Leni has done such an expert job at megaphone wielding that it is a positive joy to see his methods of translating spooky acts to the silver sheet. This man is adept at photography, too, and uses his camera angles to highlight a situation and not as a picture potpourri to confuse an audience."

MORNING TELEGRAPH

"THE LAST WARNING' is an intelligent story, skilfully directed, capably acted and adroitly photographed. In fact, we have nothing but laurels for everybody responsible for the film. . . . . Laura La Plante gave a very finished performance."

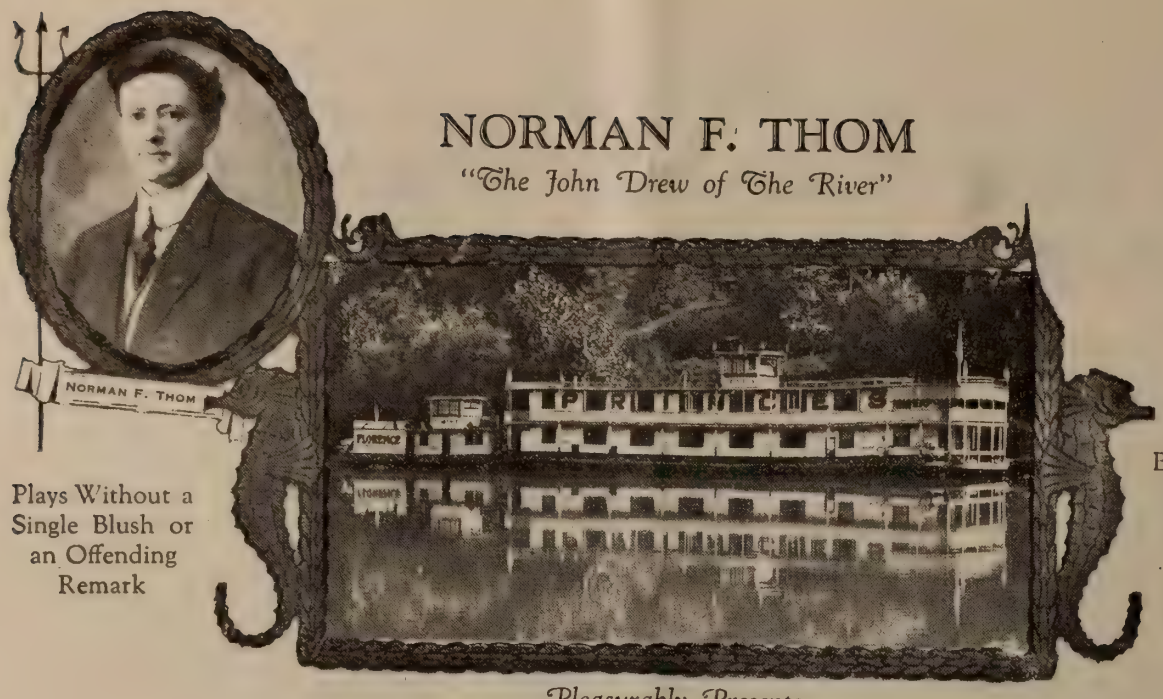
N. Y. TELEGRAM

"THE mechanics of the picture were excellent and interesting. The voices were clear and the camera work was praiseworthy."

N. Y. SUN

By S. Cohen, Jr.

"PAUL LENI * * * is an expert at fashioning fantastic sets, shadows and attractive mirages of cinema. In 'The Last Warning' his effects are stunning in their unusualness."



This unique letterhead shows both Norman F. Thom and his showboat "Princess."

Exhibitor Thom offers his patrons every assurance of comfort and entertainment.

Carl Laemmle Induces Showboat Company To Give a Repertoire at Belmont Theatre

Norman F. Thom and His Company of Players from Showboat "Princess" Will Open at Belmont Theatre for Four Weeks Engagement

"The Parson's Bride" Heads Program of Four Well-Known River Plays

SOPHISTICATED New Yorkers are in for a treat. For the first time in Broadway history an actual showboat company will present authentic river plays. Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures, whose screen version of "Show Boat" is now in production at the coast, has persuaded Norman F. Thom, known as "The John Drew of the River," to bring his whole company to New York for a four weeks' repertoire at the Belmont Theatre. Monday evening, January 21st, is scheduled for the premiere.

Norman Thom has been touring the various river towns along Mississippi on his floating theatre, "Princess," for twenty-five years. His bills, pleasantly pink, contain such reassuring phrases as "Shows without a single blush or an offending remark," "Weather foul or weather fine—positive dates, rain or shine," and "Listen for our melodious compressed air calliope overture every evening at eight!"

Included in the repertoire which Thom's distinguished company will present at the Belmont are "The Parson's Bride," "The Tenderfoot," "Shadow of the Rockies" and "My Jim," or "The Stroke of Ten." The first play to be presented, "The Parson's Bride," is said to form the background of the Edna Ferber's novel, "Show Boat," the musical dramatization of which has been a Ziegfeld hit in New York.

These typical old melodramas will give New Yorkers a chance to see the sort of show that has never before ventured away from the great rivers. Calliope overtures in the foyer of the Belmont each afternoon and evening performance will bring to city ears a noise that has delighted the river banks for countless years. The humorous highlights of showboat production, which forms so important an atmosphere in Universal's forthcoming "Show Boat," will be driven home to Belmont audiences. The "Princess" players are bringing along their own sets and properties, which are amusing enough in themselves to make the repertoire a hit. There will be the usual River specialties, known in showboat parlance as the olio, between the acts.

Some of the actors in Thom's company are veterans of the Princess Players company. Grace Neill, William King, Earle Williams and Bert Rinaldo have been with the showboats for over ten years. Sixteen other players will comprise the cast. The acting is of the swashbuckling "heavy" type that made "Ten Nights in a Barroom" an American classic. Here we have mellerdramer spelled with an R and portrayed with all the oaths and sobs and sighs that make rural audiences call out warnings and threats to the actors on the stage.

"Give and Take" Proclaimed Box-Office Top-notcher

(TELEGRAM)

"Give and Take" closed successful run tonight. This clever comedy was certainly laugh riot. George Sidney's funny dialogue kept house in continuous uproar. Nothing can stop this talkie from being top-notcher at box-office. Excellent Dialogue and lots of it. Good effects and synchronization.

—DICK GASTON,
Casino Theatre, Marshalltown, Iowa.

Pete Harrison Says Silent or Sound "Give and Take" is Excellent Fun

(From Harrison's Reports—January 5, 1929)

THIS is the second talking picture Universal has produced, and one can safely say that it is a vast improvement over the first, "Melody of Love." . . .

It is chiefly comedy, with Messrs. Hersholt and Sidney impersonating two Germans, lifelong friends. The voice of Mr. Hersholt registers very well. So does that of Mr. Sidney, as well as every member in the cast. . . . In some of the situations the comedy is almost of the side-splitting variety. It is caused by the situations, by the subtitles and by the acting.

The story revolves around a manufacturer who is induced by his young son, just out of college, to install in his plant social democracy, whereby the workers would have a voice in the management of the factory and would receive a part of the profits; and around the love affair of the young son with the lifelong friend's daughter.

In the scenes that show Sam Hardy as an escaped lunatic, with George Sidney at one time, and Jean Hersholt, at another, in mortal fear of him, until George Lewis arrives and informs them that Sam Hardy is sane, the comedy is "fast and furious."

Sharon Lynn and Charles Hill Mailes also are in the cast. Basil Dickey is the author, and William Beaudine the director.

"Give and Take" is a good entertainment not only as a talking picture but also as a silent picture.

Contracts of Mary Nolan, Fred Mackaye and Fritzi Fern Renewed

WITH the arrival of the new year the Universal Pictures Corporation announce the renewal of contracts with three players who have made outstanding successes in its films during the past year. Mary Nolan heads the list which also includes Fred Mackaye and Fritzi Fern.

Universal is preparing great plans for Mary Nolan, whose recent pictures include "The Foreign Legion," "Good Morning, Judge," with Reginald Denny and "Silks and Saddles." Her current picture on Broadway is with Lon Chaney in "West of Zanzibar."

Fred Mackaye was discovered in "The Collegians," and was given the leading role with Mary Philbin in "Port of Dreams." He then played with Conrad Veidt and Mary Philbin in "Erik the Great" and is now making "The Charlatan," under the direction of George Melford.

Fritzi Fern was discovered by Carl Laemmle, Jr., and is playing an important role in "The Charlatan."

Laura LA PLANTE

SEE her in that sparkling farce, "HOME, JAMES," with Charles Delaney, Aileen Manning and Joan Standing, a William Beaudine Production.

See and hear her in that ultra delightful comedy, "THAT BLONDE," and in those two scintillating Jewel Productions, "ONE RAINY NIGHT" and "DANGEROUS DIMPLES," all three with dialog.

UNIVERSAL JEWELS
Presented by Carl Laemmle

The SCREEN'S FAVORITE COMEDIENNE

"THE MICHIGAN KID"

Red-blooded thrills in the white wastes of the gold-crazed Yukon. A beautiful girl the central figure in a tale of love and titanic struggle. A greater melodrama than "The Storm."

RENEE ADOREE and CONRAD NAGEL with Lloyd Whitlock, Adolph Milar, Virginia Grey. From the tremendously popular story by REX BEACH.

An IRVIN WILLAT Production

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

The BIG 6 LAEMMLE SPECIALS

The COHENS and KELLYS in Atlantic City

The famously funny comedy team in their most uproarious film adventure . . . with a host of ravishing bathing beauties to bring joy to the eye. Howling hilarity in the best box-office sense of the term.

Starring
GEORGE SIDNEY with Vera Gordon, Kate Price,
Mack Swain.

Two negatives: 1 SILENT;
1 with DIALOG.

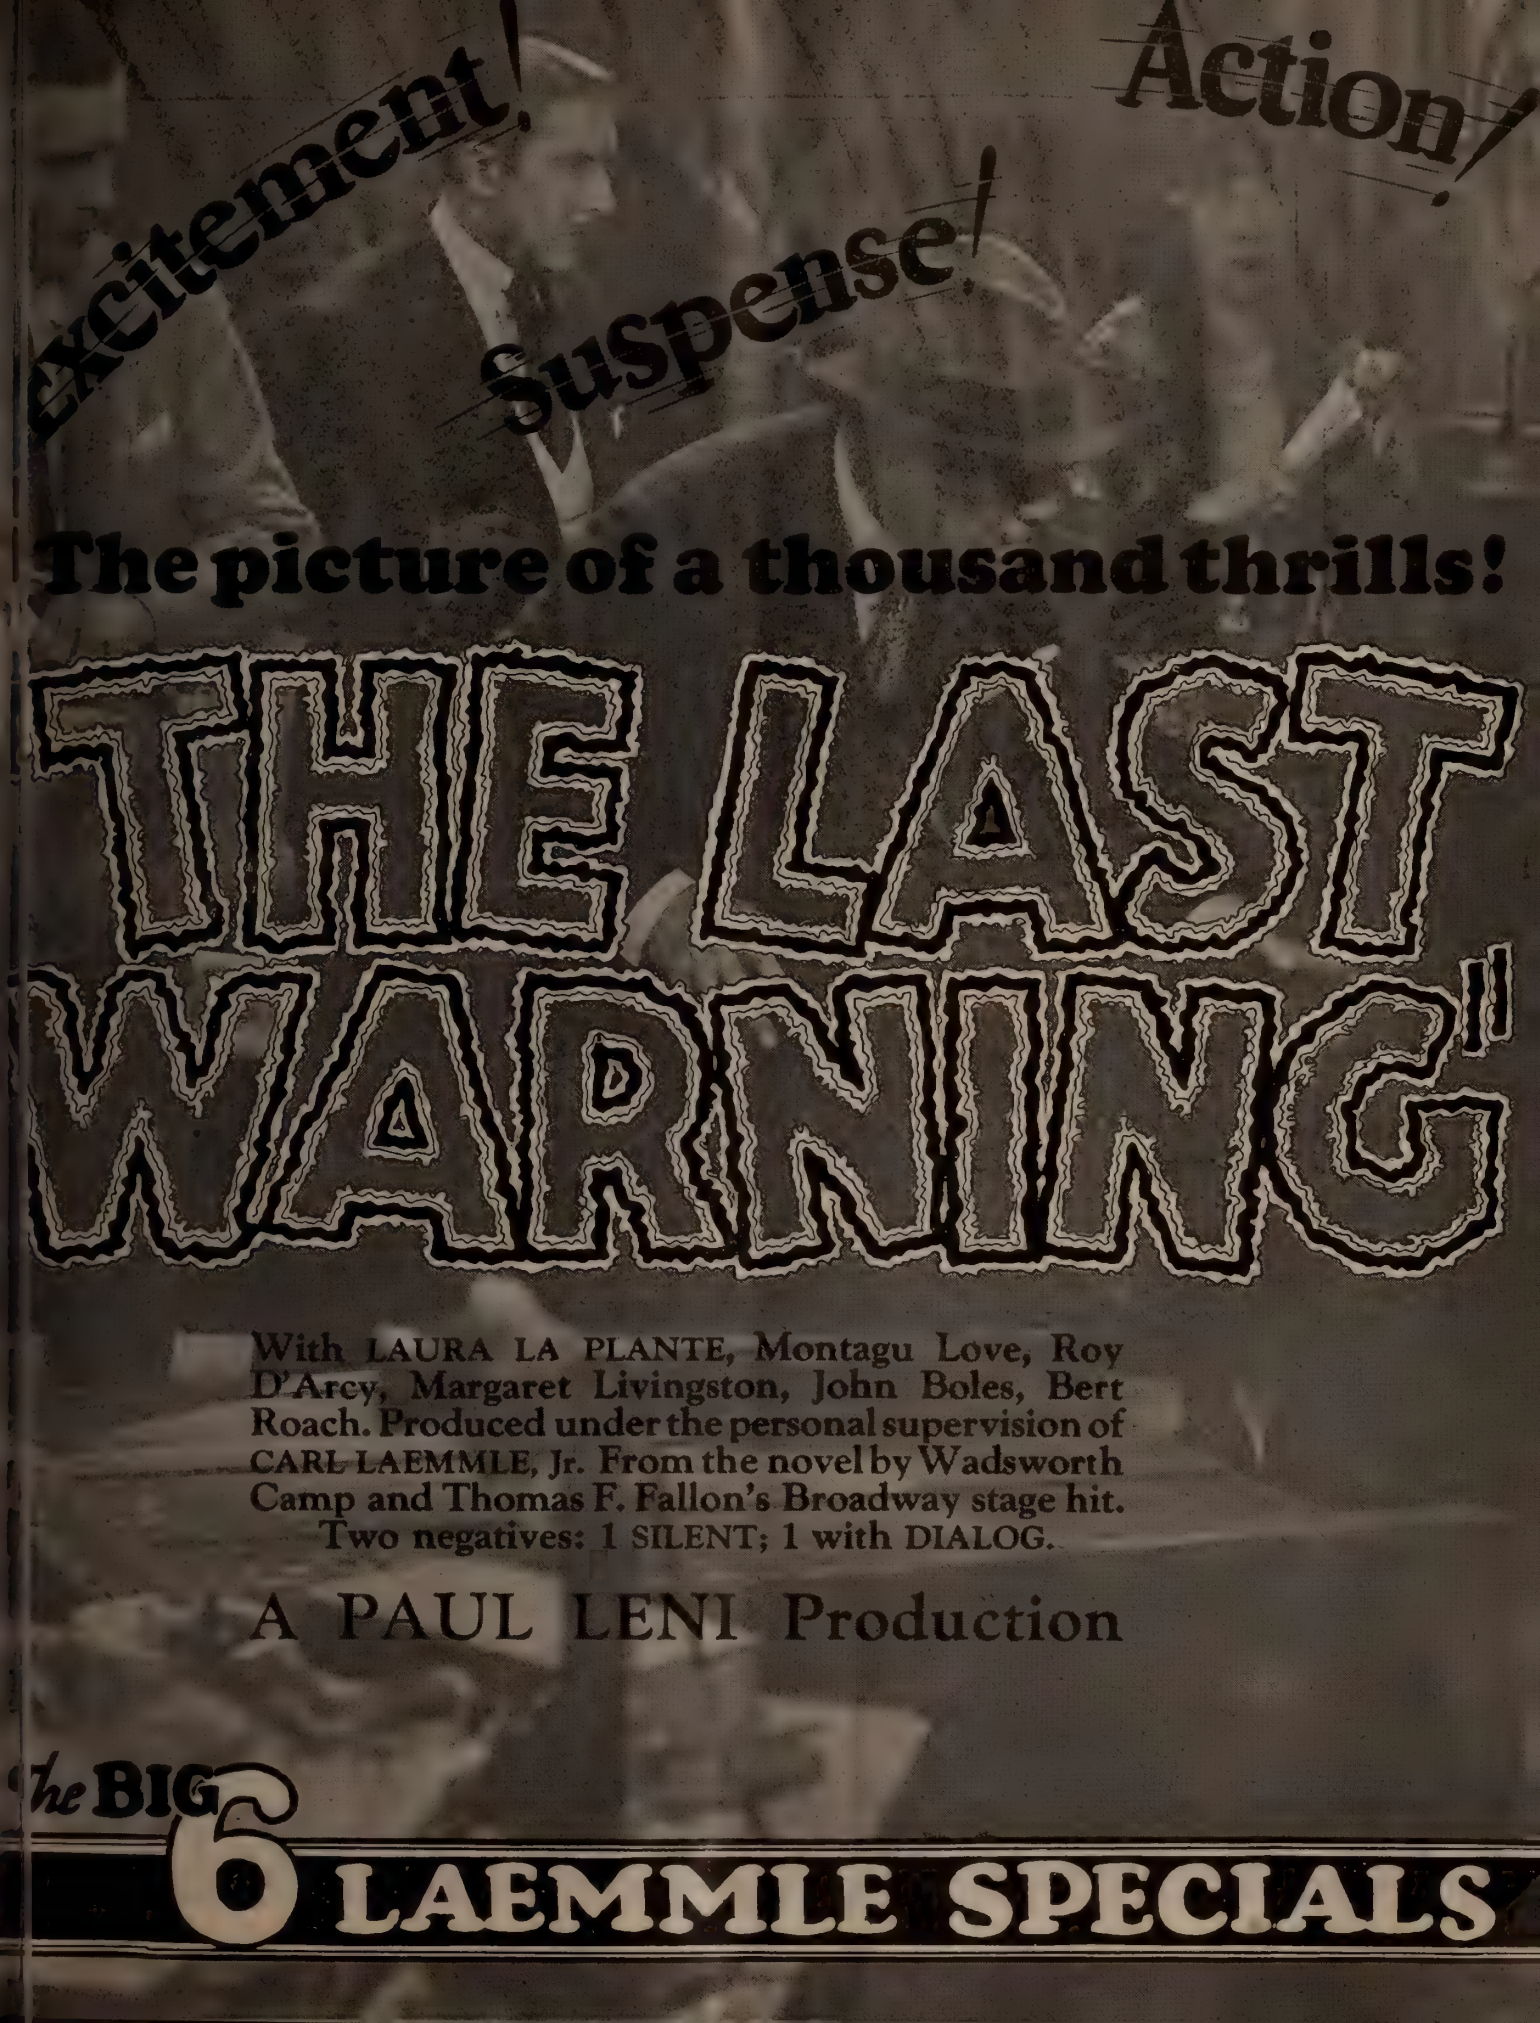
A WILLIAM JAMES CRAFT Production

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

The BIG 6

ALS LAEMMLE SPEC

Mystery!
Drama!
Chills!
UNIVERSAL PICTURES
The BIG 6
LAEMMLE SPECIALS



The picture of a thousand thrills!

THE LAST WARNING

With LAURA LA PLANTE, Montagu Love, Roy D'Arcy, Margaret Livingston, John Boles, Bert Roach. Produced under the personal supervision of CARL LAEMMLE, Jr. From the novel by Wadsworth Camp and Thomas F. Fallon's Broadway stage hit.
Two negatives: 1 SILENT; 1 with DIALOG.

A PAUL LENI Production

The BIG 6 LAEMMLE SPECIALS

GIVE AND TAKE

"At no time during my past two years with this theatre have I ever seen a talking comedy 'knock 'em dead' such as 'GIVE AND TAKE' is doing. This picture is unquestionably one of the greatest talking comedies that has ever been produced, and judging from the reaction of our patrons, there is nothing but high praise."—Emil M. Umann, Pantages Theatre, San Francisco.

Starring
GEORGE SIDNEY
and
JEAN HERSHOLT
With George Lewis and Sharon Lynn

From the Broadway stage success by Aaron Hoffman

A William Beaudine Production

2 negatives—
1 silent, 1 with dialog

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

The BIG 6 LAEMMLE SPE
IALS

The GIRL on the BARGE

With JEAN HERSHOLT, Sally O'Neill, Malcolm MacGregor. From the Cosmopolitan Magazine story by RUPERT HUGHES. Two negatives: 1 SILENT; 1 with DIALOG.

An EDWARD SLOMAN Production

A Laemmle golden Special.

Starring
NORMAN KERRY and
LEWIS STONE
with Mary Nolan, June Marlowe, others.

From the I. A. R. Wylie novel, "The Red Mirage."

An EDWARD SLOMAN Production

"The FOREIGN LEGION"

The BIG 6 LAEMMLE SPECIALS

Universal Has Friends All Over the World

Raymond B. Geist

THE above photograph is that of Raymond B. Geist, American Consul in Alexandria, Egypt. Mr. Geist has been a firm friend of the moving picture industry as it relates to Egypt. He has taken a great interest in popularizing American films in a land where they met with unusual difficulties of presentation and transportation. He has been particularly friendly toward our exchange manager in Egypt, Mr. Schlatermund, and we are very glad, indeed, to acknowledge our gratitude to Mr. Geist.

Leslie Fenton is Cast in "Broadway"

LESLIE FENTON has been added to the cast of the Universal special production of the popular stage play, "Broadway." He will play the role of Scar Edwards, the bootlegger. Arthur Houseman will play Dolph. These additions bring the total members of the cast to seventeen.

Production has already commenced under the direction of Paul Fejos on a sound stage constructed for this picture at Universal City. Many innovations are promised in the technical presentation of the picture .

Glenn Tryon plays the role of "the hoofer." Other members of the cast include Evelyn Brent, Myrna Kennedy, Margaret Livingston, Thomas Jackson, Paul Porcasi, Otis Harlan, Robert Ellis, Fritz Held, George Ovey, Betty Francisco, George Davis, Edythe Flynn, Florence Dudley and Ruby McCoy.

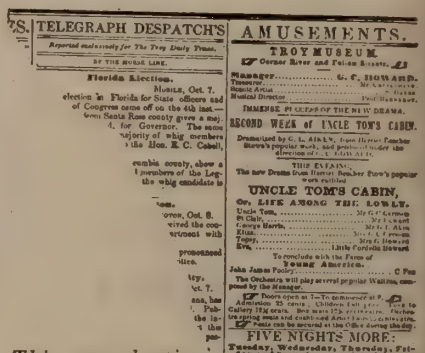
Carl Laemmle, Jr., associate producer of Universal Pictures, has been placed in entire charge of the production.

Troy Run of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Brings Back the Memories of 1852

Universal Film Recalls First Authentic Stage Production at Troy Museum 77 Years Ago

SEVENTY-FIVE years have come and gone since Harriet Beecher Stowe wrote her famous story of slavery, which was to become probably the most widely read book in the world's history—next to the Holy Bible. Seventy-five years have come and gone since the play was first produced, yet "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is still being played by more companies than any other play.

The Universal screen version brought to light many interesting facts about the early stage history of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Director Harry Pollard dug up the information that the first stage performance occurred in 1852 in Troy, N. Y. There, at the Troy Museum, the first Little Eva, who is still alive, went to Heaven and the Howard family carried off the stellar honors of the occasion. The run of Universal's film at the Lincoln Theatre in Troy brings to mind the city's distinction of having produced the first stage version. Hence the following editorial.



TELEGRAPH DESPATCH'S

Florida Election.

AMUSEMENTS.

TROY MUSEUM.

Manager..... C. C. HOWARD.

SECOND WEEK of UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN,
Or, LIFE AMONG THE LOWLY.

FIVE NIGHTS MORE.

Concert Hall—Morris Place.

BRILLIANT FESTIVAL

This reproduction of the first advertisement of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the Troy Museum appeared in the "Troy Daily Times" in 1852. The play ran for ten weeks, a record for Troy.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" Perennial

(Reprinted from "The Troy Times," Issue of Dec. 27, 1928)

IT was particularly appropriate that 500 of the orphan children from the city and vicinity institutions should have become guests yesterday of the Lincoln Theatre at the presentation of the first complete film production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," for less than three blocks away the first authentic stage production of Harriet Beecher Stowe's famous novel of slavery days was presented September 27, 1852, in Peale's Troy Museum, then located on the site of the present Boardman Building. George C. Howard, manager of the museum, prevailed upon his nephew, George Aitken, to dramatize the book which was then becoming widely read, as a vehicle to display the dramatic ability to his little daughter, Cordelia Howard, aged four, who was the first Little Eva. Mrs. Howard was the first Topsy, Mr. Howard himself essayed the role of St. Clair and Mrs. Howard's mother, Mrs. Emily Fox, was Aunt Ophelia. The author, Mrs. Stowe, had religious convictions against the stage and never reserved dramatic rights to the production, so that she never derived any income from the play that has been presented more times than any other dramatic prodution in history.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" continued at the Troy Museum for ten weeks at that time, which is probably the longest "run" of any play in this city's annals, and then was taken to New York and Boston, and soon theatrical companies sprang up playing it all over the Northern States and beyond. Since that time there probably never has been a time when this famous play was not being produced in some form somewhere. It has been given in almost every land and clime, in elaborate stage presentation and in roadside tents and as accompaniments of circuses under the "big top," and in every conceivable variety of forms. Every succeeding generation enjoys its dramatic appeal, although the conditions which gave rise to the writing of the novel have long since passed into oblivion, and children still laugh at Topsy, love patient old Uncle Tom and cry over the death of Little Eva just as their parents and grandparents did years ago.

And now "Uncle Tom's Cabin" has reached the movies in an elaborate production that presents all those settings and accompaniments which the original stage productions could not show.

Universal's Public Service Director Asks Question With Box-Office Wallop

"Why Do Alluring Women Love Ugly Men?" Contest Proposed By Dr. WM. F. Marston, Expert Psychologist, Proves Value Of Exploitation Based on Knowledge of Movie Fan Reaction.

UNIVERSAL startled the motion picture industry a couple of weeks ago when Carl Lammle announced the appointment of Dr. William F. Marston as an expert psychologist who would apply his knowledge to the solving of picture problems. Dr. Marston's activities were to cover both the production and selling problems at Universal City. The innovation was so unusual that its exact bearing was uncvertain. Now Dr. Marston's contest in connection with "The Man Who Laughs" on "Why Do Alluding Women Love Ugly Men?" gives a definite clue to his practical ability and applied showmanship. The contest is a veritable gold mine to exhibitors as well as a fascinating problem to motion picture fans.

The appeal of the contest is threefold omitting for the time being the pulling power of the cash prizes offered, which amount to $2,000. First, it is excellent ballyhoo for any exhibitor playing "The Man Who Laughs." Baclanova and Conrad Veidt provide the principal heart throbs in the Hugo film and have excited countrywide interest in the boudoir scenes which Paul Leni directed with so much splendor and daring. Exhibitors have already found that the best means of advertising "The Man Who Laughs" is through emphasis on the sex interest in the picture. This contest gives fresh point and zest to that angle. Fans will heartily respond to the problem of analyzing the strange appeal of the mutilated and hideous Gwynplaine for the fascinating Duchess.

The second selling point of the Alluring Women-Ugly Men Contest is the general and intense interest at the present time in psycho-analysis. Everyone is reading popular articles and books on human behavior, child psychology and the scientific basis of sex attraction. Popular psychology has become a fad. Young people, particularly, get a tremendous kick, along with their older and married sisters, out of delving into their feelings and bring forth wise and so-called scientific conclusions. The fact that the contest is based on the psychology of sex and love doubles the general appeal of Dr. Marston's query . In addition, the statement that this "Man Who Laughs" contest is the first suggestion of Universal's practical psychologist has amazing box-office and exploitation value.

The mysterious attraction of the mutilated mountebank for the Duchess in "The Man Who Laughs" prompted Dr. Marston's interesting contest.

The third strong point of the "Why Do Alluring Women Love Ugly Men?" contest is the personal and universal angle. There are so many thousands of women who are—or think they are—alluring, and such countless ugly men. That immediately assures widespread response to the contest. Every ugly man will want to tell the world about his supposed magnetism for women. Every lovely girl and woman will jump at the chance to air her views on the lure of the man who is not conventionally handsome. Students of history will welcome the opportunity of displaying their knowledge of the world's most grotesque and astounding love affairs. Modern gargoyles con point with pride to their Bluebeard predecessors. The contest is a wow insofar as the personal angle is concerned.

Naturally, the cash prizes involved are alone enough to stimulate rising box-office receipts on "The Man Who Laughs." The first award of $1,000 is a velvet lure, well followed up by the second prizes of $250, and the third award of $100. The thirty additional prizes of five dollar seach will attract the rank and file of movie patrons.

As an aid to the contest Dr. Marston gives the following hints:

"The fact of the matter seems to be that homely men have a better chance of being loved by captivating women than have handsome ones. There is something—what is it?—in the very ugliness of the male animal that stirs the soul of a true captivatress. The appeal of beauty—that's an easy matter to explain, but how about the appeal of homeliness?

"I'll give you just one more little hint. I'll tell you about a case which was brought to me recently. Two girls were in love with the same boy. He was a dark, handsome youth, a 'sheiky' type in the popular usage of the word 'sheik.' One girl was a brunette, and the other was a blonde. The girls were close friends, and they wanted to know what to do about their feeling for this boy. Should they draw lots for him, or what? I sent for the boy, and he told me frankly that he really loved Miss Blonde, whereas Miss Brunette merely infatuated him while he was with her. Still, she excited him so that he couldn't break away. I then discovered that Miss Brunette considered the boy, Jack, very easy prey for her captivating charms. So I suggested to Jack that he find a big rough, dominant boy, a 'woman hater,' and introduce him to Miss Brunette. Jack's most intimate friend happened to be this type. He was very homely, Jack said, and he didn't think Miss Brunette would care for him at all. But he introduced them just the same. Pretty soon Miss Brunette ignored Jack completely. 'Run along, Jack,' she told him. 'I can't be bothered with you.' The homely dominant boy quickly absorbed all Miss Brunette's attention. Gradually she tamed him, and brought him to heel. Eventually she made him marry her. Jack and Miss Blonde are not married yet."

"Man Who Laughs" Should Be Included Among the Ten Best Pictures of Last Year

Says Chester Bahn

(Dramatic Critic of Syracuse Herald)

HAD the Messrs. Kaufman, Buckland and Silverman been permitted to present Universal's elaborate visualization of Victor Hugo's "The Man Who Laughs" prior to December 1, there is a fair chance that the result of the Syracuse "Ten Best Pictures" poll would have showed one change.

Certainly, this Paul Leni-directed super-production touches a higher artistic and histrionic level than "The Phantom of the Opera," while from the standpoint of pure spectacle, it may safely be said to rank with Universal's memorable film version of another Victor Hugo classic, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

Accepting Paul Gulick's press data as unvarnished fact, Uncle Carl Laemmle's Corporation spent a cold million and a half on the Empire's feature. That, needless to say, is a pretty figure. Yet even the most casual appraisal of the picture must result in the finding that it was money well spent.

Magnificent, glamorous, majestic, brilliant, lavish, beautiful—these are among the descriptive words which may, with perfect honesty and candor, be applied to "The Man Who Laughs." The settings alone would recommend the cinema to the discriminating fan.

The England of Queen Anne is strikingly re-created. Scenic designer, craftsmen, electricians, cameraman and director have united to weave a well nigh perfect illusion. London's great Southwark Fair in 1705, the House of Lords (built from the original plans found in the papers of Sir Christopher Wren), Queen Anne's music room, the more-than-ornate chambers of Duchess Josiana the voluptuous—these are among the best remembered of the 56 sets required to pictorially tell the Hugo story.

To the student of history, I would also recommend an earnest study of the re-created London dock and the English coastal scenes. Indeed, there is not a replica in this picture which fails to grip and stir the imagination.

This startling ballyhoo on "The Man Who Laughs" was used by Manager Burstein of Universal's Warsaw branch when the film had its first run in that city.

The car with the giant figure and modernistic decoration was brilliantly illuminated and attracted much attention on the boulevards of Warsaw.

While I have stressed the purely production qualities of "The Man Who Laughs," and while I consider that the picture's greater appeal is in them, do not labor under the misapprehension that it is lacking in those other elements which must be present if a cinema is to be generously entertaining.

As a matter of fact, the Empire offering is rich in both romance and drama, while its large and admirably chosen cast provide a histrionic revel of no mean proportions. Naturally, under the circumstances (including the Hon. Will Hays and the various State censorship boards), the adaptor-scenarist, J. Grubb Alexander, has taken liberties with the French novelist's original.

Summarizing the more important alterations, let me mention that the Duchess Josiana becomes a half-sister of Queen Anne, Lord David Dirry-Moir is transformed from roue into fop, Dr. Hardquanonne emerges as a Southwark Fair showman, a rival of Ursus, and the finale is revised to insure the typical Hollywood happy ending.

Of these changes, I believe that the Victor Hugo fans will take the greater umbrage at the latter; the confirmed Hugo addict is apt to be literally minded, demanding that his hero and heroine die, with the villain, in this instance Barkilphedro, presumably continuing to live wickedly ever after.

From the box office standpoint, and especially allowing for the fact that the masses these days are more concerned with ultra-modern fiction than they are the classics, I am inclined to absolve Universal for the liberties taken with M. Hugo's brain-child. If the earmark of the intelligentsia is a liking for a tragic ending, I fear that I am hopelessly low-brow.

And in the case at hand, I am doubly firm in my stand. The least that the scenarist could do for the blind Dea and the hopelessly maimed Gwynplaine was to give them life and each other.

Conrad Veidt, European star, brought over primarily for this picture, makes an excellent and convincing Gwynplaine. Olga Baclanova, another importation, turns in an outstanding performance. Mary Philbin is the beautiful Dea, and adequate, although the role is essentially vapid.

(Continued on page 32)

Varied and Successful Campaign on "Man Who Laughs" in Syracuse

ALBERT KAUFMAN, managing director of the Empire Theatre, in Syracuse, N. Y., again chalks up a winning score with a full week's run of "The Man Who Laughs." The Empire, only recently wired for sound pictures, presented the synchronized print which was played up in all advertising. Starting more than a week ahead of the opening, Kaufman posted litho paper in every direction and a tie-up with the Syracuse Herald featured an identification contest lasting a week. The picture, which opened to a sell out for the first four days, had taken such a firm hold on the public interest that the last three days showed to a capacity. The campaign in detail gives a good idea of what Kaufman did to command public attention.

Newspapers

The newspaper selling point used was the sex angle. Such lines as "What a beautiful woman wants—she gets," and "Why do voluptuous women love homely men?" attracted attention. The identification contest in the Syracuse Herald entailed the naming of the six leading characters in the film. A slogan was thrown in to make the contest harder. Cash prizes were offered and the winners were entertained by Chester Bahn, the movie critic of the newspaper, at a special performance of "The Man Who Laughs" at the Empire.

Outdoor Display

Starting with 200 special block one-sheets on the Army recruiting boards in a tie-up for recruits, Kaufman got the picture right into prize locations in the business section.

Fifty big pictorial stands were posted on boards well scattered throughout Syracuse. More than 2,000 electric bulbs were used in the special marquee display. The front around the box-office was made to resemble an old English castle.

Theme Song Exploited

The theme song, "When Love Comes Stealing," was used for several stunts and tie-ups. The Clark Music Store furnished a Panatrope with a R C A loud speaker over the box-office. The Victor record was played during the afternoon and evening. Woolworth's placed the song and the Hugo novel on sale and made a front window drape for a sale plug, including a card for the theatre. The five music stores in the city gave window displays for the song and record tie-up. The Clark store gave a pass to each person who brought in a broken record—the Empire furnished the tickets in exchange for the store running a newspaper ad. about the broken records.

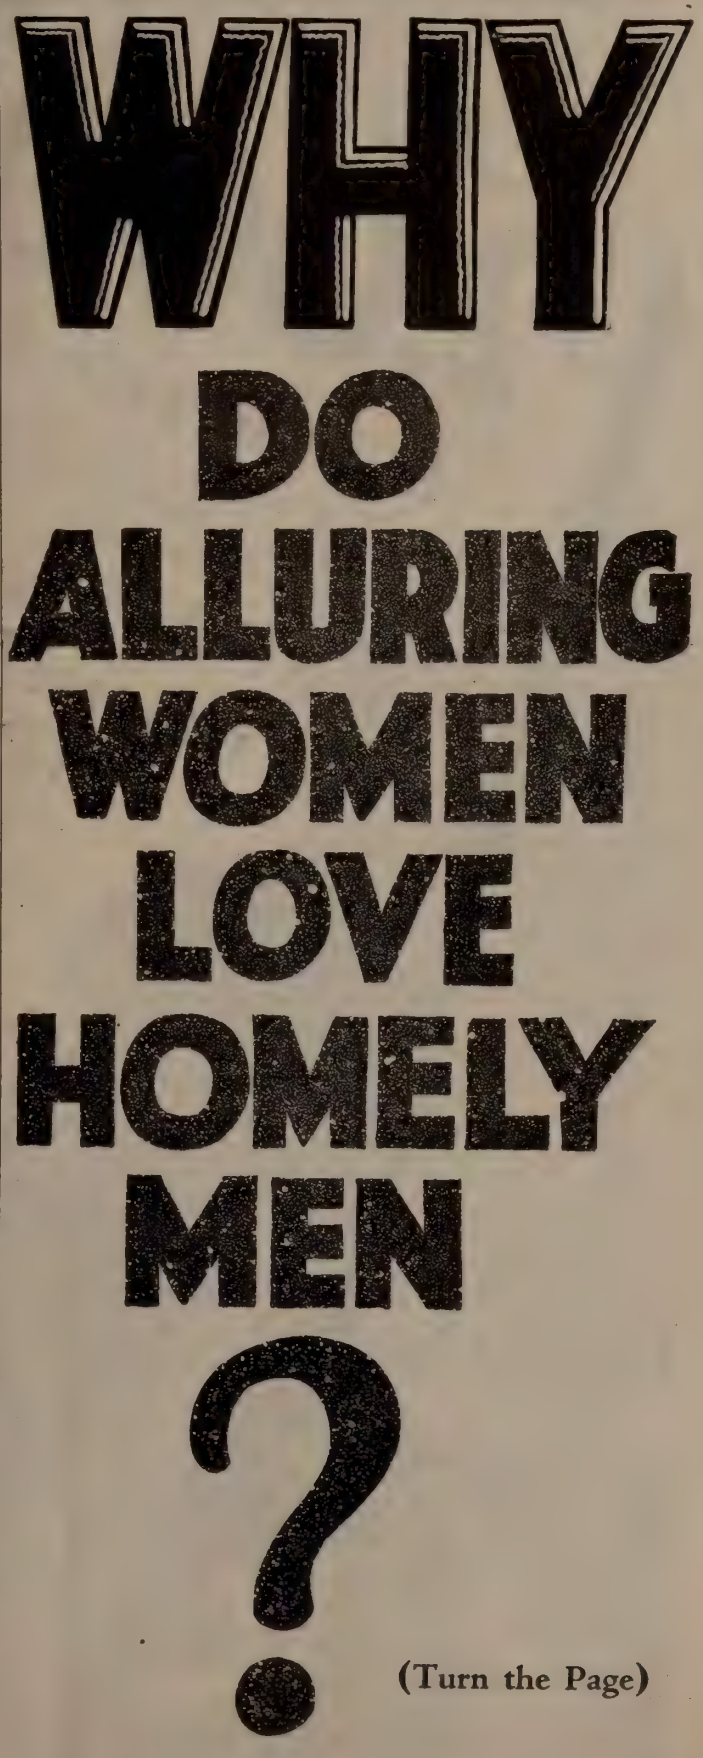
Phantom Red-Philbin Tie-up

The Hunter Store carried a Phantom Red cosmetic tie-up with Mary Philbin. This is a national tie-up which is always successful with Philbin films.

Patrons Go Miles To See "Uncle Tom"

"We were one of the towns to play 'UNCLE TOM'S CABIN' early after release. We were surprised at the business and at the distance that people came to see the picture. We consider 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' the best box-office attraction of the year."

—H. H. Daniels, Mgr.,
Reel Theatre,
Oswego, Kansas.



(Turn the Page)

CLIMB

$2,000

in cash prizes are being offered to the general public by Universal for the best answers to the question:

Why do alluring women love homely men?

With Olga Baclanova, Brandon Hurst, Sam De Grasse, Cesare Gravina, Stuart Holmes, George Seigmann.

2 negatives—1 silent, one with sound.

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

VICTOR HUGO'S

The Man W

Conrad Veidt and Mary Ph

ABOARD NOW!

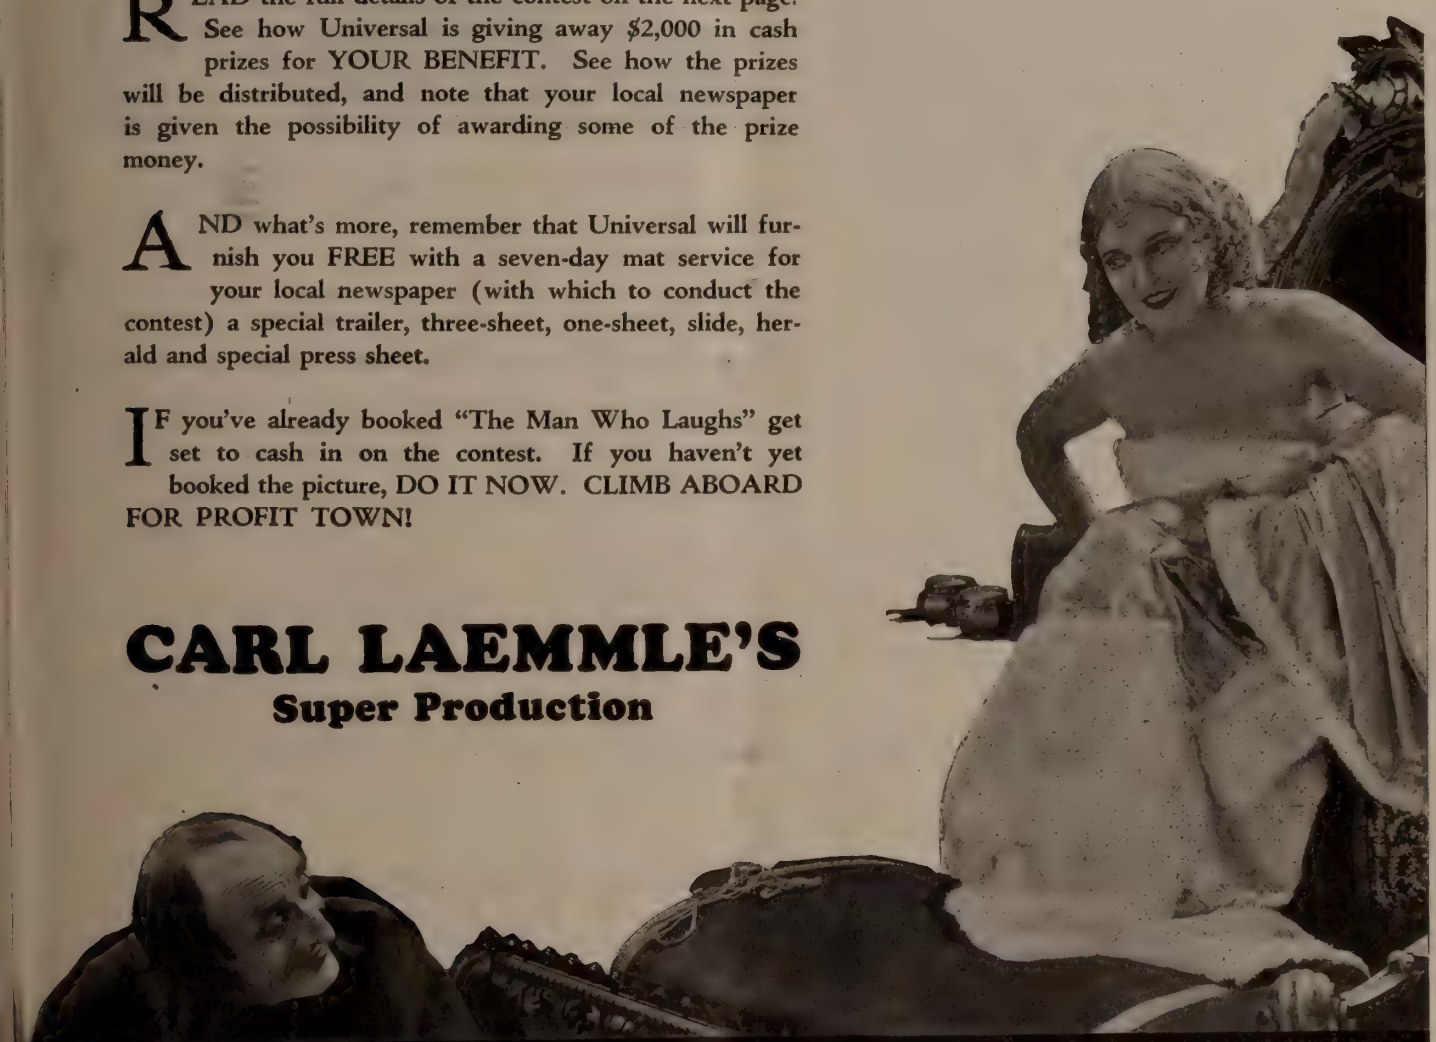
HERE'S one right in your lap! The greatest exploitation idea in years YOURS FOR THE TAKING! Climb aboard this big national contest now! It doesn't cost you one penny and gives you the biggest profit edge you've ever had on any picture.

READ the full details of the contest on the next page. See how Universal is giving away $2,000 in cash prizes for YOUR BENEFIT. See how the prizes will be distributed, and note that your local newspaper is given the possibility of awarding some of the prize money.

AND what's more, remember that Universal will furnish you FREE with a seven-day mat service for your local newspaper (with which to conduct the contest) a special trailer, three-sheet, one-sheet, slide, herald and special press sheet.

IF you've already booked "The Man Who Laughs" get set to cash in on the contest. If you haven't yet booked the picture, DO IT NOW. CLIMB ABOARD FOR PROFIT TOWN!

CARL LAEMMLE'S
Super Production



ho Laughs

ilbin -- A Paul Leni Production!

Conditions of Contest

for the best answers to the question:

Why Do Alluring Women Love Homely Men?

PRIZES to be awarded as follows: first award, $1,000; second award, $250; third award, $100; fourth award, thirty prizes of $5.00 each.

Additional prizes totaling $500 to be furnished newspapers in the U. S. and Canada by Universal Picture Corporation to be awarded in the name of each newspaper to local winners in this contest (as a supplement to the regular prizes).

This additional $500 to be awarded as follows: To the winner of the 1st prize, $150 extra from a local newspaper; to the winner of the second prize, $125 extra from a local newspaper; to the winner of the third prize, $75 extra from a local newspaper; to the winner of the next thirty prizes, $5 extra each from a local newspaper.

Any prize winner in order to be eligible for the additional prize from his local newspaper must certify by records acceptable to that newspaper that he has been a legal resident of the community in which the newspaper is circulated for at least six months.

In instances where there is a winner in a town where no newspaper has carried this contest Universal will ask a local paper to present the extra prize. If no paper is available the extra prize will be presented through the local theatre, or direct from Universal Pictures Corporation.

Prizes to be awarded for the best letters, not exceeding 200 words, answering the question, "Why do alluring women love homely men?"

Any resident of the United States or Canada, male or female, is eligible.

All letters must be submitted to "The Man Who Laughs" Contest Editor, Universal Pictures Corporation, 730 Fifth Avenue, N. Y. City, not later than July 1st, 1929.

It will be helpful for any entrant to see Universal's picture, "The Man Who Laughs," but it is not necessary in order to enter this contest.

In the event of a tie on any one of the awards the full amount of the award tied for will be given to each tied contestant.

Manuscripts will NOT be returned.

All letters submitted must be entrant's own opinions gathered from general observation, from discussing the subject with others and from reading. In other words, no other person may write the letter for entrant or tell entrant what to write.

Entrant should avoid long words and sentences, and strive to put his or her thoughts down clearly and neatly. General appearance of letters will also count in judging the winners.

Judgment of the letters will be based on (1) originality of thought; (2) clearness of expression; (3) general knowledge of the subject; (4) general neatness.

The judges in this contest will be Carl Laemmle, President, Universal Pictures Corp.; Dr. W. M. Marston, Director of Universal's Bureau of Public Service, and Edward Montagne, Universal scenario editor.

The managers and staffs of Universal Chain Theatres in Seattle, Wash., gathered in the Gowman Hotel to inaugurate a pre-holiday "Pep" Drive. The names of the theatres are on the tables

"Melody of Love" is First Talkie Ever Shown in Far East or Asia

THE Far Eastern Manager of the Universal Pictures Corporation cables that Universal is the first company to show a sound and talking picture in the East and Asia.

"The Melody of Love" opened at the Elphinstone Theatre in Calcutta on December 29th, and is running to capacity now. The picture has received remarkable reviews in the local press there, also.

"The Melody of Love" is Universal's first talking motion picture. It was adapted from a story by Robert Arch and directed by A. B. Heath, with C. Roy Hunter as technical supervisor. Walter Pidgeon, Mildred Harris, Jane Winton, Tommy Dugan and Jack Richardson play the principal roles. It is of interest in connection with the showing of "The Melody of Love" that its reception in London as Universal's first all-talking film was most enthusiastic.

William Worthington Cast For Universal's "Climax"

WILLIAM WORTHINGTON, an actor as well as a director of many Universal pictures, will play an important role in the production of "The Climax." It has already been announced that Jean Hersholt will play the leading role under the direction of Renaud Hoffman and the supervision of Carl Laemmle, Jr.

"The Climax" is the story of a beautiful opera singer who loses her voice, but later regains it with the singing of the song which will be the theme of the production. The title of the song will be "I Adore You," and has been written by Victor Schertzinger, director of motion pictures and composer of music.

Tests for voice and the screen are being made for the feminine role, but no announcement is yet forthcoming as to the player for this important role. Production is scheduled to commence in a few weeks.

"Lonesome" as Near Perfect As Fans Could Wish to See

ACCORDING to E. H. G. in the "Toledo Blade," Universal's first film with dialogue is as near perfect as any mortal could expect. Every element, from plot, character development and direction to acting and voice reproduction in "Lonesome" meets with the reviewer's complete approval as the following reprint will prove.

* * *

"It might be a page torn from the book of life itself, this film 'Lonesome,' current in the State. Without fuss or frill, it tells the story of two lonesome youngsters in a big city—any youngsters, any big city. It is as near the perfect movie as one expects to see.

"Produced by Paul Fejos for Universal, the picture has Movietone accompaniment throughout, with dialogue sequences where they are most effective. Plot and character development both are built up with such care that the resultant action is inevitable— the direction apparently was more or less inspired, the principals, Glenn Tryon and Barbara Kent, are unusually well cast, and the photoplay is uniformly excellent.

"The boy, Jim, is a punch-presser in a machine shop; the girl, Mary, a telephone operator. Both are haunted by loneliness—neither has a friend with whom to while away leisure hours. Both are drawn to the beach by the same impulse when a band goes by, playing brisk music to advertise the seaside playground.

"They meet casually, as the best people sometimes do in the crowded life of a modern big city. They spend a happy day together at the resort. Then they become separated, neither knowing the other's last name. It seems their brief respite of joy is at an end—then comes a denouement that may or may not be unexpected, but is as natural, when you consider the locale, as is the rest of the picture.

"Impressionistic treatment of the theme is forceful throughout; altogether, a wholly worthwhile and admirable piece of workmanship. Besides the principals, the cast includes Fay Holderness, Gustave Partos and Eddie Phillips."

Paul Leni, Master of Atmosphere, Is a Genial, Adventurous Soul

(Continued from page 10)

He is an enthusiastic believer in the "movies," and thinks that as an art they have only just got a foothold. He is not sure of the consequences of the talking picture upon them, but he seems to think that sound and certain voice sequences will heighten their effect.

"Potemkin," he says, is one of the greatest, if not the greatest, film so far produced. The most important thing for him in making a picture is to get the emotion of a scene as he conceives it across to the audience. If a scene in which he has planned to get a laugh doesn't get it he feels he has failed; if it doesn't get from the audience a reaction of sadness where he has placed sadness he thinks it should all be done over again. He believes that film making is like a game of tennis. The ball must be tossed from the screen to the audience, which must toss it back again, keeping up a constant flow of feeling between the minds of the people out front and the screen as a medium.

The pictures he has made since his arrival in this country have been "The Cat and the Canary," "The Chinese Parrot," "The Man Who Laughs" and "The Last Warning."

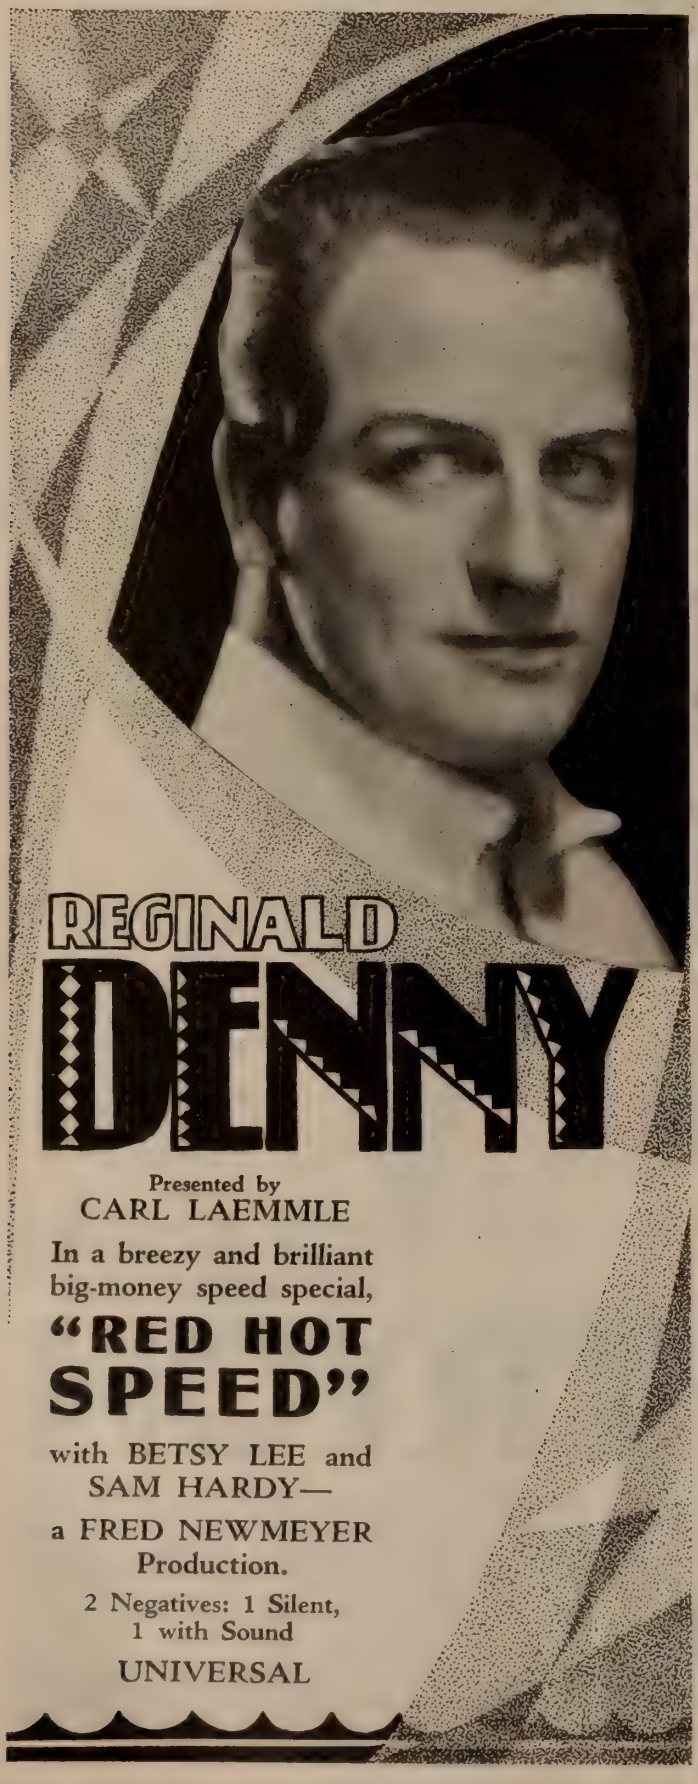
Carl Laemmle Presents

GLENN TRYON

in "How to Handle Women," with Marion Nixon; "*It Can Be Done," with Sue Carol; "The Gate Crasher," with Patsy Ruth Miller; "The Kid's Clever," with Kathryn Crawford and Virginia Sale. Universal Jewels.

* 2 negatives—1 silent, 1 with dialog.

The Star of TODAY



Laemmle Appoints Reichenbach To Publicize "Show Boat"

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made at the Universal offices that Carl Laemmle has appointed Harry Reichenbach, peerless publicist and exploiteer, to supervise the presentation of "Show Boat."

Plans are now in work under the personal supervision of Mr. Reichenbach looking to the presentation of "Show Boat" on a lavish and colorful scale. These plans, though they embrace every phase of showmanship, will be marshaled together efficiently and effectively so that they coordinate with the huge selling plans which General Manager Lou Metzger and his sales executives are devising for the presentation of "Show Boat" in the leading theatres throughout the world.

Al Feinman, formerly with Mr. Reichenbach in the handling of a number of Broadway successes, will once again be associated with him in publicizing "Show Boat."

Mr. Reichenbach's reputation in the motion picture industry is well brought out by the following which Arthur James published as an editorial in the "Exhibitors Daily Review" at the time of the signing of Reichenbach's contract with Universal:

YOKING THE STAG

By ARTHUR JAMES

Harry Reichenbach is the greatest publicist now active in pictures and the greatest—with one exception—that the pictures have ever known. This exception is known to Harry and we believe he will keep the secret.

* * *

In this appraisal we are not including at all his spectacular stunts which some of his rivals have been inclined to regard as his only box of tricks, but rather we refer to his less showy but far more important selling campaigns that have had the more practical cash results for his principals.

* * *

He has mental courage, business daring and a certain verve in action, that carries the issue to success. He has imagination and never runs away from a battle. His frankness has commanded respect from those who have felt its penalties but the blessing of an alive sense of humor has taken the sting out of his combats and he numbers his friends in hosts.

* * *

We believe that Harry and Carl Laemmle will both be happy in this term o' years arrangement, but it does seem to us that it is like Solomon deciding to stick to one wife. Our best wishes go to him in this permanent relation.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" Again Breaks Record

"Congratulations on 'UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.' This picture went over big both with our patrons and at the box-office. Gave universal satisfaction. In fact, it is the most satisfactory picture we have ever shown.

"You will note by the reports that we played this picture four days. As you know, our usual engagements have been for two days only, and this is the first time we have ever extended our run on any picture to four days."

Sincerely yours,

—G. M. Fox,
Cameo Theatre,
Weyburn, Sash.

BEWARE of SOUND SHORTS with SOUND SUBTRACTED!

SNOOKUMS
in "The Newlyeds and Their Baby."
From George McManus' gleeful cartoons.

BUSTER BROWN COMEDIES
With the canine cut-up "Tige." From R. F. Outcault's cartoons.

MIKE and IKE
Rube Goldberg's celebrated look-alike twins in the flesh.

ET GEORGE DO IT
her from George Manus' cartoons.

Comedies depending upon sound for their entertainment value fall flat in the unwired house. Yet scores of soundies with the kick removed have been palmed off as silent features. Don't be fooled.

To Protect Your Profit

STERN BROTHERS COMEDIES

are 100 Percent SILENT

They are made with the famous box-office kick which makes audiences happy and exhibitors wealthy. No matter where they are played, that kick stays in!—and that's what keeps getting the dollars for YOU!

Released by UNIVERSAL

UNIVERSAL SYNOPSES

"THE LAST WARNING"

Laemmle Special
With LAURA LA PLANTE

DURING a performance at the Woodford theatre the Woodford leading man is killed and his body mysteriously disappears.

The theatre is immediately closed. The finger of suspicion is directed toward two members of the cast but nothing definite can be proved.

LAURA LA PLANTE

After five years a producer decides to stage the original fatal play with the entire original cast. Rehearsals start, and with them strange happenings, calculated to frighten the company into disbandment. There are fallen scenery and erie voices. But the opening night comes, and with it a LAST WARNING, which is unheeded.

During a vital scene the stage is suddenly plunged in darkness. When the lights go up the leading man cannot be found. Confusion reigns. The excitement is intense. Finally the guilty parties are disclosed. The leading lady and the understudy are exonerated from the cloud of suspicion surrounding them and the mystery is cleared up.

"SHADOWS"

A Laemmle Novelty

TWO lovers, sitting on a bench, were suddenly held horror-stricken by the tragedy unfolded in shadow on the shade of a nearby window. A group of men stealthily appeared. Money was involved, an altercation took place, a gun was drawn. Then darkness until a light appeared in a second-story window. Another shadow. This time a woman screaming.

Again a light downstairs. And again the shadows revealing a fight. the fleeing of men and one still figure.

The terrified young people summon the police. The moral is "be not deceived by apearances." Investigation proved that Bill took his friends home for a surrepetitious card game, went upstairs and filched some change from his sleeping wife's purse and got caught in the act. Wife broke up the party and gave friend husband "what's what."

"THE MYSTERY RIDER"

Universal Chapterplay

No. 8—"Unmasked"

FOLLOWING their fall over the cliff, Lane recovers and is alarmed when he sees Grace still and lifeless. Just as she is returning to consciousness the outlaws reach them and attempt to take Lane prisoner. But after a terrible fight he escapes for help, while Grace and her uncle are carried off to Leonard's hide-out.

Leonard phones to the Claw that they have Grace and her uncle prisoners. The Claw replies that he will come at once.

A little later the Claw arrives, saying that Lane has phoned the sheriff for help. They are ordered to watch for his arrival. The Claw makes his getaway with the prisoners.

After their departure Leonard discovers that one of his henchmen has picked up the wallet containing the formula, on the hillside near the overturned buckboard.

Brought to a halt some distance from the cabin, Grace and her uncle discover they have been rescued by the Mystery Rider masquerading as the Claw. Grace tells him they have lost the wallet and that she has seen it in the possession of one of the outlaws. The Mystery Rider convinces them that the Claw will try to recapture them and they dash off to escape, while he returns to the cabin and confronts the Claw.

During their struggle for possession of the precious wallet the Claw is unmasked and discovered to be David Manning. He tells the Mystery Rider his word will convince the sheriff that the Mystery Rider is the Claw and murderer of Grace's father.

"CALFORD ON HORSEBACK"

Universal Junior Jewel

Third Collegian Series—No. 8

THE Juniors were blue, for they realized they had little chance to win in the Derby with Don Trent and his marvelous horse entered against them.

They were wildly elated when a groom from Ed Benson's Uncle's stable arrived with one of his best racers and a note saying he wanted the Juniors to enter Lady Bess.

When Trent discovered the new entry, he saw his chance for victory fading and put one over on Doc Webster, who was acting as groom, that resulted in the Juniors having a very sick horse on their hands.

Ed and Doc had an old fire horse to pull their wagon over the milk route they ran to defray their college expenses. When a fire engine passed them they discovered that the old fire horse still had some steam left.

Helped by their classmates, and using an ingeniously contrived fire engine to fool their substitute entry, the Juniors unexpectedly came off winners in the Derby.

"THE FIGHTING TENDERFOOT"

Western Featurette

With GEORGE CHANDLER

FORTUNATELY George Van Tine was not as dumb as he looked. He was not as disturbed as he appeared to be by the fake hold-up staged for his benefit on the way to Jim Adam's ranch.

George was an expert accountant but didn't mind taking a little time off to give Jim's sister "the once over." When Adams went to town the foreman, who had been gypping him, lured George to the corral and started him off on Dynamite, a most unruly horse. George disappeared in a cloud of dust as the horse bolted with him. The foreman seized the opportunity to rush to the office and doctor the books.

Emily, who saw George disappear and feared for his safety, followed him on her horse. She was horrified when she found him sprawled limply on the ground with a couple of cowboys standing over him. When they went for help, George leaped to his feet, sent Emily for her brother, and went back to the ranch on the run, determined to catch the crooks red handed.

"Phenomenal!"

declares W. T. McIntyre of the Princess Theatre, Enterprise, Ala.

"BIGGEST MONEY-MAKER I EVER PLAYED!"
—D. Barney, Idle Hour, St. Petersburg, Fla.

"BEST BOX-OFFICE SERIAL EVER!"
—Roy E. Garee, Arcade Pioneer Theatre, Morgantown, W. Va.

"WONDERFUL SERIAL! BIG SUCCESS!"
Chas. Lauve, Franklin, La.

TARZAN THE MIGHTY

With NATALIE KINGSTON and FRANK MERRILL

Produced by special arrangement with Edgar Rice Burroughs, author of "Tarzan of the Apes," "The Cave Girl," etc., etc. Directed by Jack Nelson.

"RECORD BUSINESS!"
—George Chatmas, Hearne, Texas.

"A BUSINESS GETTER!"
—L. C. Taylor, Mentone Theatre, Mentone, Ind.

"GREAT DRAWING CARD!"
—H. Solomon, McComb, Miss.

"A GREAT BOX-OFFICE TONIC!"
—George Chatmas, Dallas, Texas

"THANKS FOR SELLING ME TARZAN!"
—R. P. Boyd, Liberty Theatre, Jonesville, La.

"WONDERFUL B.-O. ATTRACTION!"
—John B. Dumestre, Lutcher, La.

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

Universal's Super Serial

WHY DO ALLURING WOMEN LOVE HOMELY MEN?

(Continued from page 8)

beautiful women of his time. King Henry VIII of England was a huge, bloated, rheumatic fellow with a perpetual case of the gout and a most unpleasant habit of beheading his wives. Yet eight alluring wives loved the homely Henry in rapid succession.

"All the girls, nowadays," said Dr. Marston, "refer to a particularly handsome and fascinating man as a 'sheik.' Why, I wonder? Possibly because they think a real sheik looks and acts like the late Rudolph Valentino. Or because the sheiks of fiction are all young and handsome; courteous, too, toward their women captives, and only intent on loving them in a graceful way. Nothing could be further from the truth! The real sheik of the desert is usually an undeniably ugly man. He has leathery, dark skin, sometimes nearly black; a hawk nose, a thin-lipped, cruel mouth, and a bristly, dirty beard. He is usually a man of forty-five or fifty before he inherits the right to become a sheik, or the leader of his tribe.

"Yet it is true that real sheiks are greatly loved by captivating women. The sheik may begin by knocking a captive girl down with his fist. He may whip her—torture her. He may mock her and threaten to sell her to a still more cruel master. His disposition as well as his face is thoroughly ugly. Now, if the girl is the love-slave type, this rough treatment will prove too much for her—it will kill her excitement and her joy in being loved. But if she is the captivating type of woman it only stimulates her to care more and more for the sheik. Finally, if we visit a harem a year or two later (which we couldn't do and live to tell the tale!) we find the roles of master and captive reversed. The captivating girl holds the whip hand over her sheik. She makes him grovel at her feet, and bring her gorgeous silks and jewels in return for her favors. And she cares for him tenderly, bears him children proudly, and simply adores him. Can you guess why his ugliness of face and his ugliness of disposition made the girl love him in the first place?"

If you know, better tell Prof. Marston and see if you can't win one of these "Man Who Laughs" prizes.

'MAN WHO LAUGHS' AMONG 10 BEST FILMS FOR 1928

(Continued from page 22)

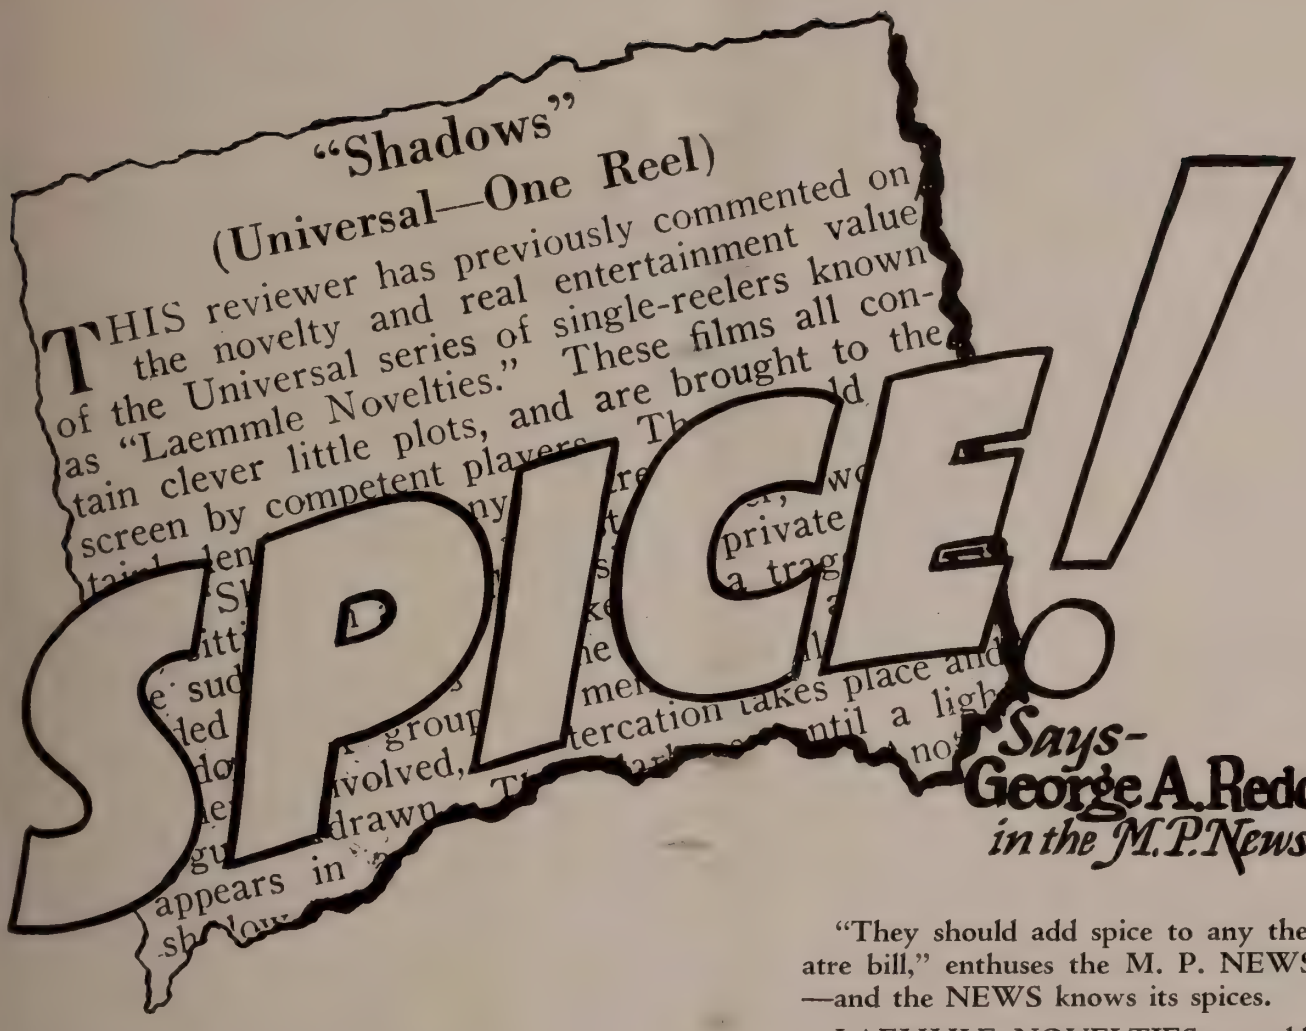
Of the others, you will likely best remember Cesare Gravina as Ursus, George Siegmann as Hardquanonne, Brandon Hurst as Barkilphedro, Stuart Holmes as Lord Dirry-Moir and Josephine Crowell as Queen Anne.



"They should add spice to any theatre bill," enthuses the M. P. NEWS —and the NEWS knows its spices.

LAEMMLE NOVELTIES are adding delightful spice to thousands of theatre bills.

Exhibitors who play them regularly know that these tremendously popular shorts are adding hosts of steady patrons.

Give your box-office the PROFIT HABIT with these one-reel gems.

Other one-reel supers:

OSWALD
The Lucky Rabbit. 26 subjects, 15 with two negatives, sound and silent.

HORACE IN HOLLYWOOD
Arthur Lake, with shots of studio big-timers in a zesty series of 13.

—and these with singing and dialog:

BAILEY and BARNUM
Headliner blackface singing and entertaining act.

THE BROX SISTERS
Harmonizing Hawaiian trio extraordinary.

Zimmerman and Grandville
Unique, delightful Swiss yodelers.

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

LAEMMLE NOVELTIES

Universal Shorts are Super Shorts!

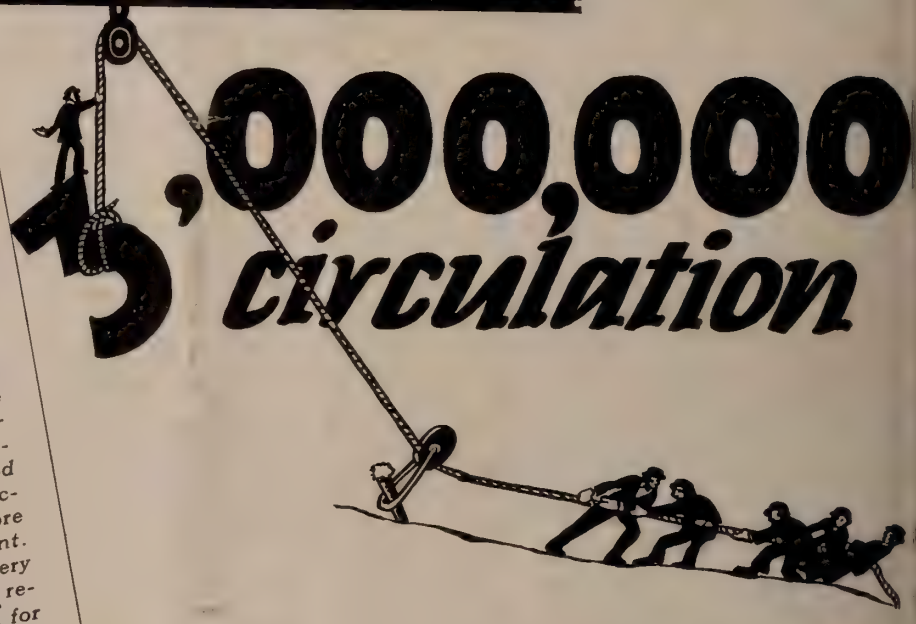
NOW more than 3,000,000 circulation



Watch This Column
Our Weekly Chat

Send for your copy of Universal's booklet containing complete information on our new pictures. It's free.

WHEN you see a UNIVERSAL picture that pleases you, will you write and tell me why you like it? If, on the contrary, you think I have a brickbat coming, empty your hod and let me have it. A constructive brickbat is often more valuable than a compliment. In the past, I have had very few brickbats. Those I have received have been deserved, for the public makes few mistakes in judging its entertainment. I have thanked the persons who threw them. So, that, a letter from you, whether it contains a compliment or a brickbat, will be welcome.

—C. L.

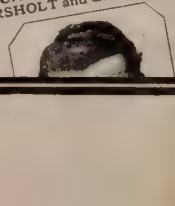
P. S.—If I were given to sensationalism in advertising, I would like to cry from the housetops, 'See 'The Last Warning', that mysterious ghostly play starring LAURA LA PLANTE". Likewise I would say, "Above all things don't forget to see 'The Girl On The Barge' starring JEAN HERSHOLT with SALLY O'NEIL and MALCOLM MACGREGOR—Rupert Hughes wrote the story which has a beautiful love theme set in the entirely new atmosphere of the Erie Canal with scenes made in the actual location; and I would urge you to see "The Shakedown", a dramatic expose of the inside workings of a crooked gang in a traveling carnival. In this picture JAMES MURRAY and BARBARA KENT give exceptional performances. But I won't—I will go on being conservative and let you judge for yourselves.

Evelyn Brent in "Broadway"

Nora Lane in "Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City"

MOREOVER—I would enthusiastically charge you to see that beautiful spectacle, "Uncle Tom's Cabin", whose message went round the world: HOOT GIBSON in "King of the Rodeo"; GLENN TRYON in "The Gate Crasher"; "Give and Take", with JEAN HERSHOLT and GEORGE SIDNEY.

ALSO—watch



Three million circulation—

Fifteen million readers!

Think what this means to you. . . .

No matter where you live, one out of five of your possible patrons follows this intimate column in the Saturday Evening Post. When you advertise a Universal Picture your local announcement is received by a pre-sold multitude. Play to this immense audience and enjoy increased receipts.

The column on the left appears in "The Saturday Evening Post" of January 5th, 1929.

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

Vol. 29 No. 7 March 23, 1929

Helen Morgan

Who will be seen and heard singing her Ziegfeld "Show Boat" Songs in the Universal Super Talking Production

Carl Laemmle's Million Candle
The greatest melodramatic stage success in history — NOW the most amazing melodrama ever produced in motion pictures.
with
Glenn Tryon Evelyn Brent
Merna Kennedy, *T. E. Jackson, Otis Harlan, Robert Ellis, *Paul Porcasi, Leslie Fenton, George Ovey.
from
JED HARRIS' STAGE PRODUCTION of the play by
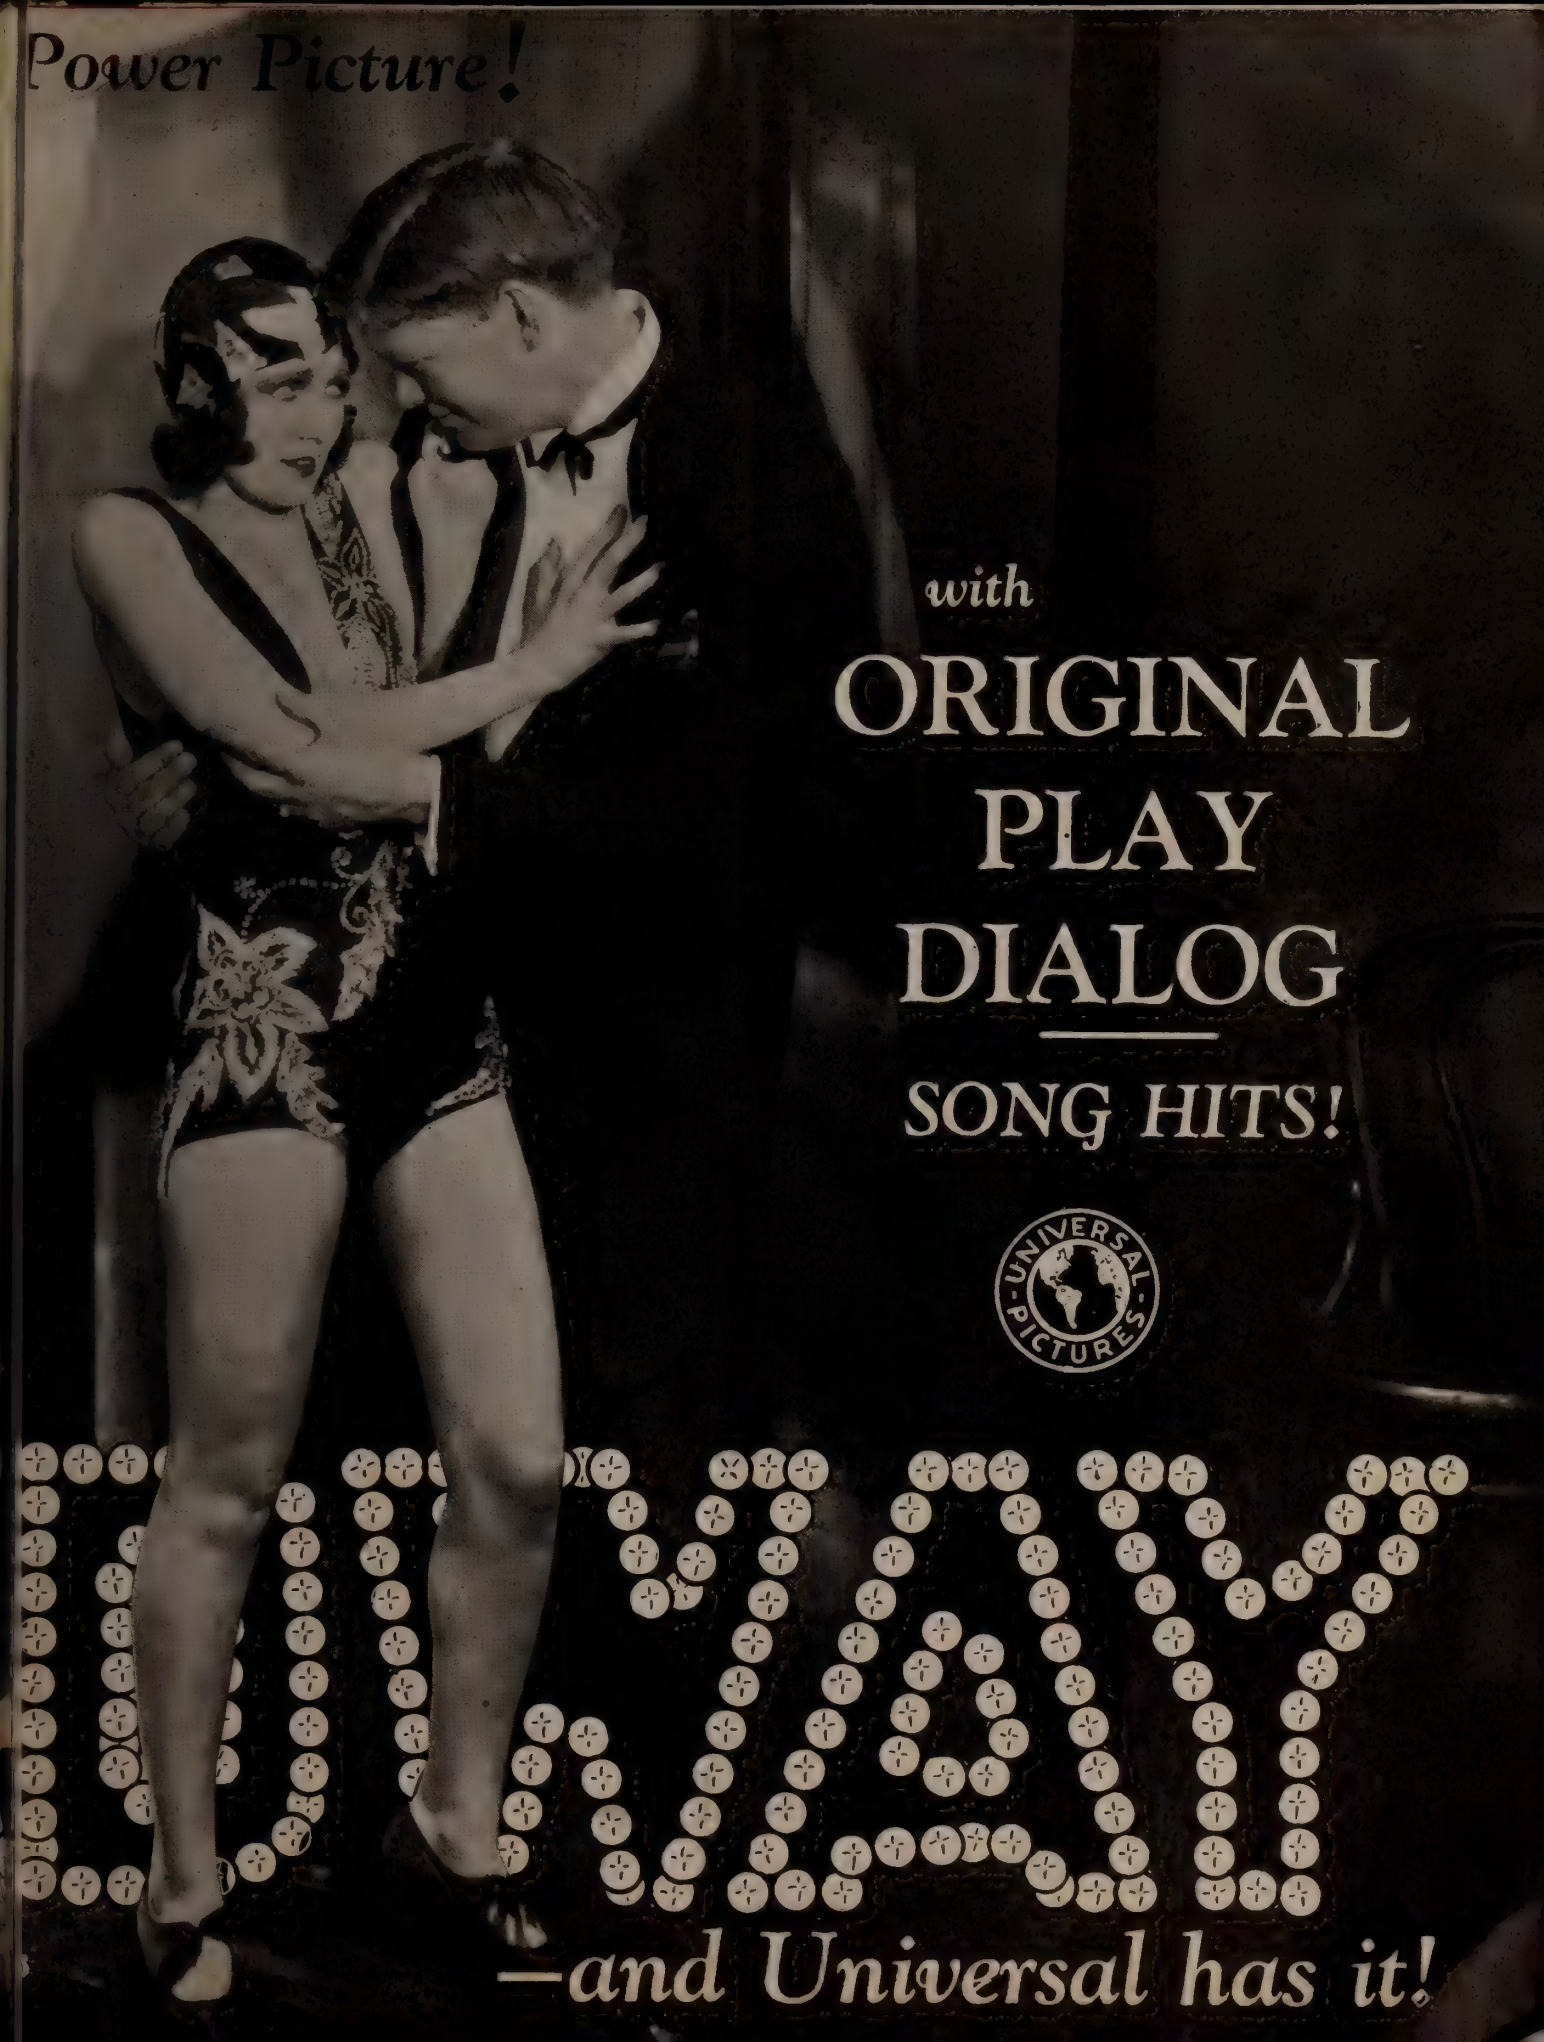
GEO. ABBOT and PHILIP DUNNING
Personally supervised by
CARL LAEMMLE Jr.
A PAUL FEJOS Production
Two Negatives
One SILENT, one with DIALOG
Color Scenes Photographed by "Technicolor Process"
*of the original play cast
There is only one
BIRD

Power Picture!



with

ORIGINAL PLAY DIALOG

SONG HITS!

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

BIG!

—and Universal has it!

IRELAND

No. 628—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

One hundred and thirty-three first-class theatres featured "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City" during the week opening on the "sivinteenth o' Maaaarch"—otherwise known as St. Patrick's Day.

One hundred and thirty-three simultaneous openings on a picture that will rock the world with laughter!

You had the "Cohens and Kellys" and then you had "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris"—and you mopped up.

This year, in addition to the reputation of the first two pictures, you're going to have the funniest picture of the famous series.

This one, by the way, is not only packed with laughs, but it is much more "dressed up" than the previous ones. The settings are lavish and the effects are the very last word in cleverness and modernity.

The director—William James Craft—has made easily the best audience picture of his highly successful career. He knows audiences inside and out, upside and down, backward and forward—and he plays on their risibilities as skillfully as a great pianist tickles the ivories.

FOREVER!

Now please note:

In this picture Cohens and Kelly are manufacturers of bathing suits for girls. This means that the director had to have great lots of beau-u-u-tiful girls to wear the bathing suits. Will your audiences like beautiful girls in beautiful bathing suits? Does a duck swim?

And George Sidney, who has made millions laugh, is at his very funniest in "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City." Never was any story so made to order for this inimitable comedian. Never did he have such opportunity to show his stuff.

Youth, beauty and comedy!

Gorgeousness, cleverness and skill!

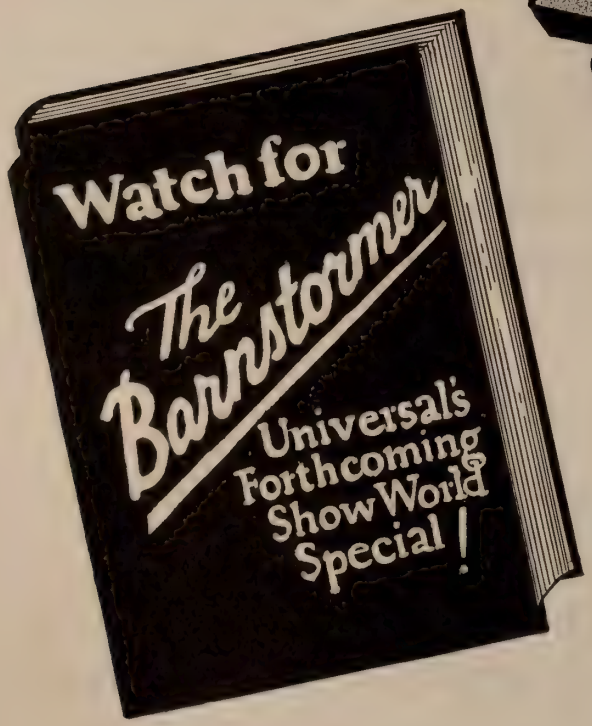
All these are combined in "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City"—and commencing with the day of St. Patrick, the world will be a funnier place to live in!

wired houses!

Here's a talking pictur

The SHAKE

NOW you'll know why dialog makes greater entertainment!



with

BARBARA KENT and JAMES MURRAY

Story by Chas. A. Logue

A William Wyler Production

Two Negatives: 1 with dialog; 1 silent

Presented by CARL

Little Jack Hanlon, the freckle faced he-boy, will scamper into every heart!

e that shouts profits!

DOWN

LAEMMLE

HILARITY COHENS
in ATLANTIC
Presented by
CARL LAEMMLE

WAVE HITS 133 CITIES!

nd KELLYS CITY

Starring

GEORGE SIDNEY

with VERA GORDON, Mack Swain, Kate Price

Two negatives: one silent, one with dialog

A WILLIAM JAMES CRAFT Production

One of the Big 6 Laemmle Specials

133 first run houses opened on St. Patrick's Day with the prize laugher of the year!—Think of it! The whole United States in the agony of hysterics! From Maine to Oregon they giggled —they laughed—they yelled! From Florida to California (and back) they felt sorry for their aching sides! The seven days beginning March 17th will go down in comedy history as one of the biggest laugh weeks ever known—for the newest "COHEN-KELLY!" The sooner you grab it for yourself, the sooner the golden tidal wave will swamp your box office!

The
UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick — Editor

PUBLISHED BY THE
— MOTION PICTURE WEEKLY PUBLISHING COMPANY — HECKSCHER BUILDING —
730-5th AVE. — NEW YORK CITY
Copyright 1929 UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION All Rights Reserved

Vol. XXIX MARCH 23, 1929 No. 7

UNIVERSAL MOVIEGRAMS

FOR the first time in its pleasure-seeking existence, Palm Beach is to climax its social season with a moving picture. All Florida is excited because the greatest production of the year, Edna Ferber's, Carl Laemmle's, and Florenz Ziegfeld's "Show Boat," combined into one offering, is being premiered at the Paramount Theatre in Palm Beach. Simultaneously, it will be offered at the Capitol in Miami. Both openings will be at $5 top, on March 17th.

* * *

EDITH ROBERTS, who grew up on the Universal lot, will return to her first love. She has been chosen as leading woman in Ken Maynard's first Universal picture, "The Wagon Master."

* * *

LAURA LA PLANTE has had her voice insured for $200,000. Or, rather, Universal Pictures has insured it for her. One of the pleasurable surprises of the big film of the year, "Show Boat," has been the singing and talking of Laura La Plante. It has increased her stature in the film world immeasurably and Universal is taking no chances on this unearned increment, so to speak. A Movietone test has been made and deposited with the insurance company as a standard of measurement in the event of a loss being claimed under the policy.

* * *

DR. WILLIAM F. MARSTON, psychologist, has made a discovery in Hollywood, the greatest unexplored region in the world today. Her name is Helen Ruth Mann, sixteen and blonde. She is being given a try-out in the Pat Rooney two-reel Universal talkie, "The Royal Pair."

FILM FOLLOWS FASHION FOR PALM BEACH OPENING

Neither Hollywood Nor Broadway Will See "Show Boat" First —Society Leaders in Palm Beach and Miami Will Have First Florida $5 Premiere of Their Lives—Innovation by Universal Pictures Expected to Set Precedent.

NEITHER New York nor Hollywood will have the first sight of "Show Boat." And this seems to have a special significance. In the case of the admittedly biggest picture of the year, and with a theatre of its own in each city, everyone expected that Carl Laemmle would show this combination of Edna Ferber novel, Ziegfeld musical comedy and Universal super talking picture would be shown at either or both of these strategic points before it was seen anywhere else.

In choosing Palm Beach, Universal is the first of the picture companies to recognize the social hierarchy of the fashionable set which makes Florida the capital of the smart world in February and March. The $5 opening, with Mr. Florenz Ziegfeld personally sponsoring the production in which Helen Morgan sings her famous songs as she does in his Broadway production, will undoubtedly be followed by others next year. "Show Boat" will climax the Florida social season. Many picture people, also, are going to Florida especially for this opening.

The significance of premieres would not be likely to occur to one who is merely interested in the entertainment possibilities of a picture, but it is of primary importance to the producer of the picture. If Universal's plans had gone through for its premiere of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," it would have been shown in Troy, N. Y., in a hall occupying the site of the original theatre in which the Howards had presented the first "Uncle Tom's Cabin." It would have been presented on the seventy-fifth anniversary of this first premiere of a play which has had more performances and in more different languages and countries than any other play ever written. Mrs. Cordelia Howard McDonald, who was the little Eva of this production, was to have been the guest of the management at this premiere in Troy, N. Y. But events were ordered otherwise, and New York got the premiere instead.

It seemed the logical thing to do for the producers of "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City" to open this production in Atlantic City, but another significance obtruded itself. The production seemed like an eminently proper one for St. Patrick's Day. A lot of theatre men thought so, too. As a result of this thought, 133 first-run theatres in various cities throughout the United States, including Atlantic City, will play "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City" during the week of March 17th.

As a compliment to the sturdy little town of Whitehall, N. Y., Universal opened "The Girl on the Barge" there a week before its New York premiere at the Colony Theatre. "The Girl on

(Continued on page 32)

WHEN it came to selecting the star for Sir Philip Gibbs' story, "The Bargain in the Kremlin," Paul Leni discovered that there was no problem about it whatsoever. Joseph Schildkraut not only could play the violin, which is the first requisite of this story, but he also had the violin. It is a $40,000 Jacobus.

"BROADWAY" In The Making

"Broadway" boasts a chorus of unusual beauty. They can step, too!

RIGHT: Merna Kennedy at the piano in a spectacular night club costume.

LEFT: Carl Laemmle, Jr., associate producer, on the huge "Broadway" camera crane.

Director Paul Fejos takes an unusual shot of Thomas Jackson in the modernistic Paradise Club set.

Merna Kennedy, who plays the role of "Billie" in Universal's super production of "Broadway."

World Premiere of "Cohens and Kellys In Atlantic City" Advanced To March 14th

Atlantic City Claims Honor of Releasing Universal Comedy Prior to Its Day and Date Opening by 133 Prominent Theatres

Strand Theatre, Atlantic City, Steals Three Day March on Long List of Day and Date Openings, Headed by Colony Theatre, New York; Aztec, San Antonio; Pantages Circuit; Capitol, Atlanta; Stanley, Pittsburgh and Lafayette, Buffalo

ATLANTIC CITY refuses to be deprived of the honor of the world premiere of "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City," the Universal comedy which was made last summer in the famous seaside resort. The fact that one hundred and thirty-three houses throughout the country are according a day and date opening of the picture stole the actual world premiere from Atlantic City. Consequently, the Strand Theatre is setting the comedy in on Thursday, March 14th, three days in advance of the long list of theatres who have booked the film for St. Patrick's Day release.

The fact that P. M. Lewis is breaking the week's program at the Strand for the premiere of "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City" indicates the importance he attaches to stealing a march on the simultaneous showings on the seventeenth.

The idea of releasing Cohens and Kellys pictures on March 17th was started by Carl Laemmle on the release of the first of the series, "The Cohens and Kellys," two years ago. The move met with such favorable response by exhibitors and the public that it now is a set policy with Universal. Next year will see a fourth Cohens and Kellys picture with a March 17th day and date release.

The St. Patrick's Day release of the current Cohens and Kellys comedy will be observed this year by over a hundred first-run theatres. From the Colony Theatre, New York City, down through a long list of important houses including in their number such influential playhouses as the Aztec in San Antonio, the Capitol in Atlanta, the Stanley in Pittsburgh, and the entire Pantages Circuit, the new comedy feature of the Cohens and Kellys series will serve as the opportune drawing card for the holiday crowds.

The theatres showing "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City," on its national release day are about equally divided between sound equipped theatres and unwired houses. In addition to the aforementioned situations, following are some of the leading houses which will celebrate National Cohens and Kellys Week:

The Lafayette, Buffalo; the Rochester, Rochester; the Orpheum, Des Moines, the Strand, Birmingham; the Knickerbocker, Nashville; Palace, Jacksonville; Alhambra, Milwaukee; Parkway, Madison, Wis.; Liberty, Wheeling; Lincoln, Springfield, Ill.; Proctor's in Albany, Schenectady, and Troy; Cambridge in Cambridge; Allen, Akron; State, Toledo; Strand, Lexington, Ky.; Palace, Cincinnati; Grand, Columbus; Keith-Albee, Boston; Victory, Providence; Bijou, Springfield, Mass.; Palm, Pueblo; Rialto, Denver; Royal, Kansas City, Mo.; Liberty, Oklahoma City; Byrd, Richmond; Palace, Newport News; Earle, Washington; Keith, Baltimore; Capitol, Dallas; Metropolitan, Houston; Palace, Ft. Worth, Alhambra, Sacramento; Clemmer, Spokane, and the Golden State, Riverside, Cal.

The latest Cohens and Kellys picture stars George Sidney and a featured cast headed by Vera Gordon, Kate Price, Mack Swain, Nora Lane and Cornelius Keefe. It is a talking picture, in which Sidney's inimitable Yiddish dialect comes through with the same flavor as of old, when he, as Busy Izzy, was one of the most popular low comedians on the American stage. Vera Gordon, another stage veteran, also shows up to excellent advantage in the dialogue sequences. William J. Craft directed the production, which also is being released in silent form.

George Sidney joins the Rooneys—Pat, Marian Bent and Pat III—in making whoopee, doubtless in celebration of St. Patrick's Day and "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City" premiere.

King Baggot To Direct Denny

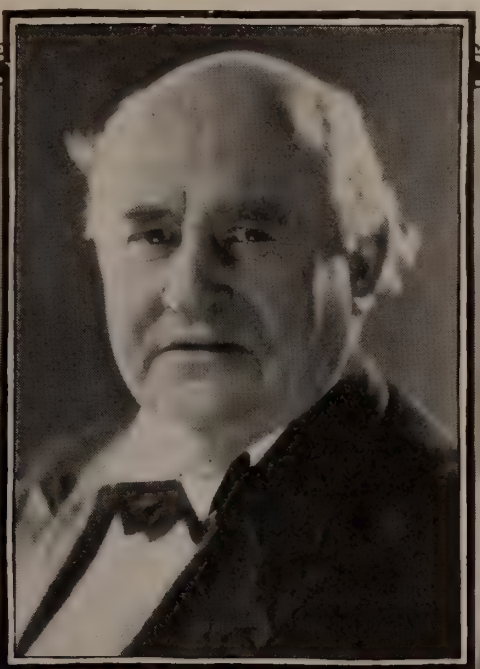
KING BAGGOT, veteran director and the maker of many Universal successes in the past, has returned to the Universal fold and will direct Reginald Denny's next picture, "Let Me Explain."

Baggot has not been with Universal for a season or so. His most recent Universal hits were "The Home Maker" and "Down the Stretch." In returning to Universal City, Baggot is renewing affiliations begun in the pioneer days of the screen, when he was a popular leading man and star.

"Let Me Explain" is also known under another working title, "Believe It Or Not." Shooting will start within a few days. It will be a talking comedy feature for release during the 1929-1930 season.

Denny's excellence as a sound comedian has already been well established in this season's releases, "Clear the Decks" and "Red Hot Speed."

In "Show Boat," Otis Harlan portrays the irrascible Captain Andy Hawks, owner of the floating theatre.



Harlan as "Porky," one of the gangsters in "Broadway." At right: A different sort of captain is Otis Harlan's role in "Port of Dreams."

OTIS HARLAN'S BIG YEAR

Veteran Character Actor Has Prominent Roles in Both "Broadway" and "Show Boat"

Is Also Comedy Support to Denny in "Clear the Decks" and "His Lucky Day"—Featured in "Port of Dreams."

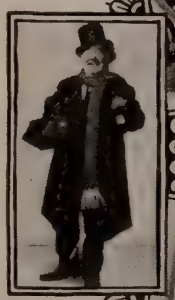
OTIS HARLAN has been rolling up records as a character actor for lo! these many years, but 1929 promises to eclipse his previous achievements. What with playing prominent roles in both of Universal's super-productions for the season, "Show Boat" and "Broadway," supporting Denny in "Clear the Decks" and "His Lucky Day" it is most undoubtedly a big year for Harlan. In addition, he is cast as the kindly captain in "Port of Dreams," the San Francisco waterfront drama starring Mary Philbin.

Harlan drew the juicy role at Universal City of Cap'n Andy Hawks in "Show Boat." It is a character portrayal well suited to his talents, and one strongly limned by Edna Ferber. In "Broadway" Harlan is a very different sort of a fellow, turned gangster, who wears his gun as easily as his dinner clothes.

Ever since Reginald Denny's laugh riot, "What Happened to Jones," Otis Harlan has been chief assistant funmaker to the English comedian. It will be remembered that he supported Denny in "The Cheerful Fraud" and "Good Morning, Judge," and now he is cast in similar roles in Denny's current films, "Clear the Decks" and "His Lucky Day."

The talkies have no terrors for Otis Harlan as his career in the theatre began on the legitimate stage forty

Harlan as chief counselor to Laura La Plante in "Silk Stockings."



As the mining town doctor in "Grip of the Yukon."

Harlan does some excellent work in "Silks and Saddles" as a horse trainer.

In "Clear the Decks" Harlan adds much hilarity to the whoopee made by Denny.

Helen Morgan and First Billion Dollar Audience To See Palm Beach Premiere of "Show Boat"

Helen Morgan Leaves New York to Make Personal Appearance At Palm Beach and Miami Openings of "Show Boat."

THE Palm Beach premiere of "Show Boat" will be signalized by the presence of Helen Morgan and the first billion dollar audience ever to witness an opening. Helen Morgan left New York and her two Broadway shows on the Palm Beach Special on March 13, just in time to catch her last minute enthusiasm before the Universal Weekly went to press.

While Miss Morgan was "crazy to go" to the world premiere of "Show Boat," she was bitterly disappointed that she could not go in the way she had originally planned—by airplane. All arrangements had been made for her to leave New York on Thursday night and arrive at Miami on Friday afternoon. However, a peremptory telegram came from Mr. Ziegfeld forbidding her to make the trip in that way.

"That would have been something like," said Miss Morgan to reporters who were equally perturbed at the early morning assignment. "I could have played another night in 'Show Boat' here and another matinee, and besides, I needn't have gotten up so early in the morning as this. I'm just terribly disappointed. After all of my plans had been so beautifully made! But Mr. Ziegfeld just won't let me fly. This is the second time he has prevented it. He says it is enough for him to have let me out of the two shows for a week, without taking any more chances. Probably he's right."

Miss Morgan will be present and make a personal appearance at the first showing of "Show Boat" at the Capitol Theater in Miami on Friday night, and will then go to Palm Beach where she will also appear at the premier in the Paramount Theatre. Miss Morgan is also to be the hostess at several social gatherings which have been planned especially in her honor.

Helen Morgan, about to board the Palm Beach special for the "Show Boat" premiere.

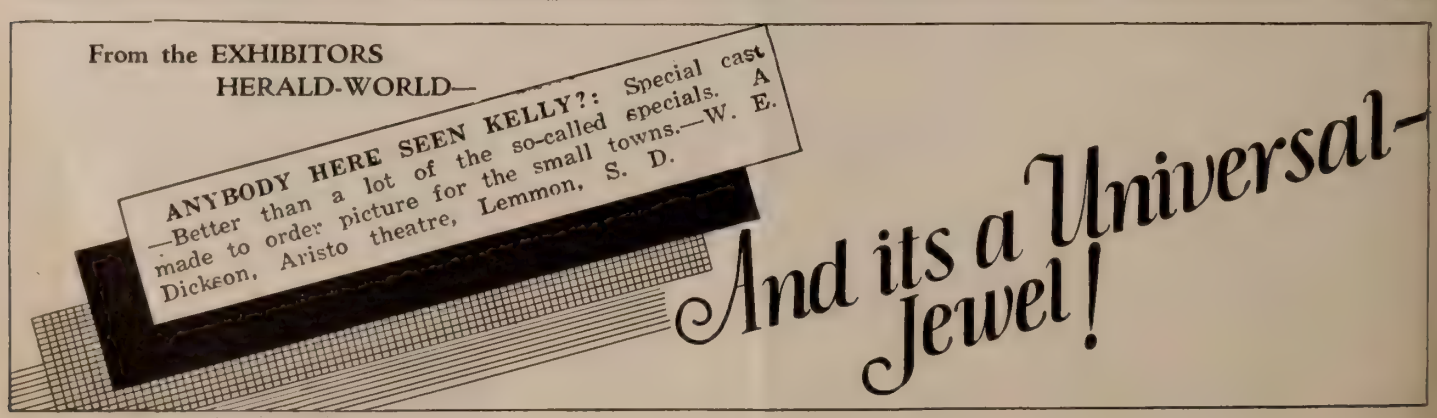
The Palm Beach opening of a famous picture promises to give the moving picture people another interesting place from which to launch productions, and Palm Beach and Miami are reacting enthusiastically to the idea. Three hours after the seats had been put on sale at the Paramount Theatre, every loge was sold and the entire first-night capacity subscribed at $5 a seat. The audience is literally the first billion dollar audience ever to witness a moving picture premiere. Among the box-holders are E. T. Stotesbury, J. Leonard Replogels, E. F. Hutton, J. S. Phipps, H. C. Phipps, Jules Bache, Cornelius Whitney Vanderbilt, Barclay Warburton, John C. Kings, Mayor of Palm Beach, Jerome Kern and Florenz Ziegfeld.

The Palm Beach opening of "Show Boat" is important not only in itself, but as an indication of what Carl Laemmle's innovation will mean to future premieres.

Laemmle Builds Signs On Hollywood Corner

THE busiest corner in Hollywood and the centre of the theatre district has been chosen by Carl Lammle for the location of five electrically illuminated signs advertising Universal pictures.

Each sign will measure 10 by 26 feet and is large enough for approximately 32 sheets. They will face the intersection of Hollywood Boulevard and Vine Street, and will be located on the northwest corner, which is owned by Mr. Laemmle. The cost is estimated to be $5,000. Universal has contracted with scenic artists to paint the signs in the modernistic trend. Among the first picture sto be exploited are "Show Boat" and "Broadway."



"SHOW BOAT" PREMIERE BREAKS RECORDS AND DRAWS BRILLIANT RESORT AUDIENCE

Last Minute News of Smashing Opening to Billion Dollar Audience Catches Universal Weekly as It Goes to Press

CLASS OF SERVICE
This is a full-rate Telegram or Cablegram unless its character is indicated by a symbol in the check or in the address.

WESTERN UNION

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT — A. C. WILLEVER, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

SYMBOLS
DL = Day Letter
NM = Night Message
NL = Night Letter
LCO = Deferred
CLT = Cable Letter
WLT = Week End Letter

Received at

PALM BEACH, FLA., March 13th, 1929

Paul Gulick, Universal Pictures, N. Y. C.

Money received during first hour of sale here exceeded any full day's receipts in Paramount Theatre records. Box-holders include J. J. Raskob, Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, E. P. Stotesbury, J. Replogle, Drexel Biddle, J. T. King, H. C. Phipps, J. S. Phipps, Zeigfeld, Satterthwaite, E. R. Bradley, Jules Bache, E. F. Hutton, Frank Hutton, Gerald Dahl, etc., representing the first billion-dollar audience in theatrical history. Colony Club, smartest here, doing entire rooms over into Show Boat. Patio La Maze, just as swell, holding special "Show Boat" dance Saturday. Zeigfeld having "Show Boat" tea for 200 at his ocean-front home tomorrow. Huttons having "Show Boat" dinner Saturday night, hundred guests. Jerome Kern entertaining on his yacht named "Show Boat" for ninety guests. Helen Morgan to be specially feted. Six-hundred orchestra seat-holders represent foremost family names in America. People motoring from as far away as Tampa for opening. Others coming from Daytona, more than 200 miles distance. The setting is in tropical garden with the greatest banking, industrial, commercial geniuses all dressed full evening dress with smartest women in the world at the first $5.00 engagement any motion picture ever had in the South. One party of 60, another of 30, another 19, many 10 and 12.

HARRY REICHENBACH

Howard Jackson to Score "Broadway"

Noted Musical Composer, Conductor and Arranger to Synchronize and Score Paul Fejos' Production—Six DeSylva, Brown and Henderson Songs Especially Written by Con Conrad, Archie Gottler and Sidney Mitchell.

THE noted musical authority, Howard Jackson, has been engaged by Carl Laemmle, Jr., associate producer of "Broadway," to arrange the score and to direct the synchronization of this super talking and singing production. In addition to his work in the sound version, Mr. Jackson will also write a complete score for the silent version of the photoplay. This latter work is of a much more intricate and important nature than the writing of most scores.

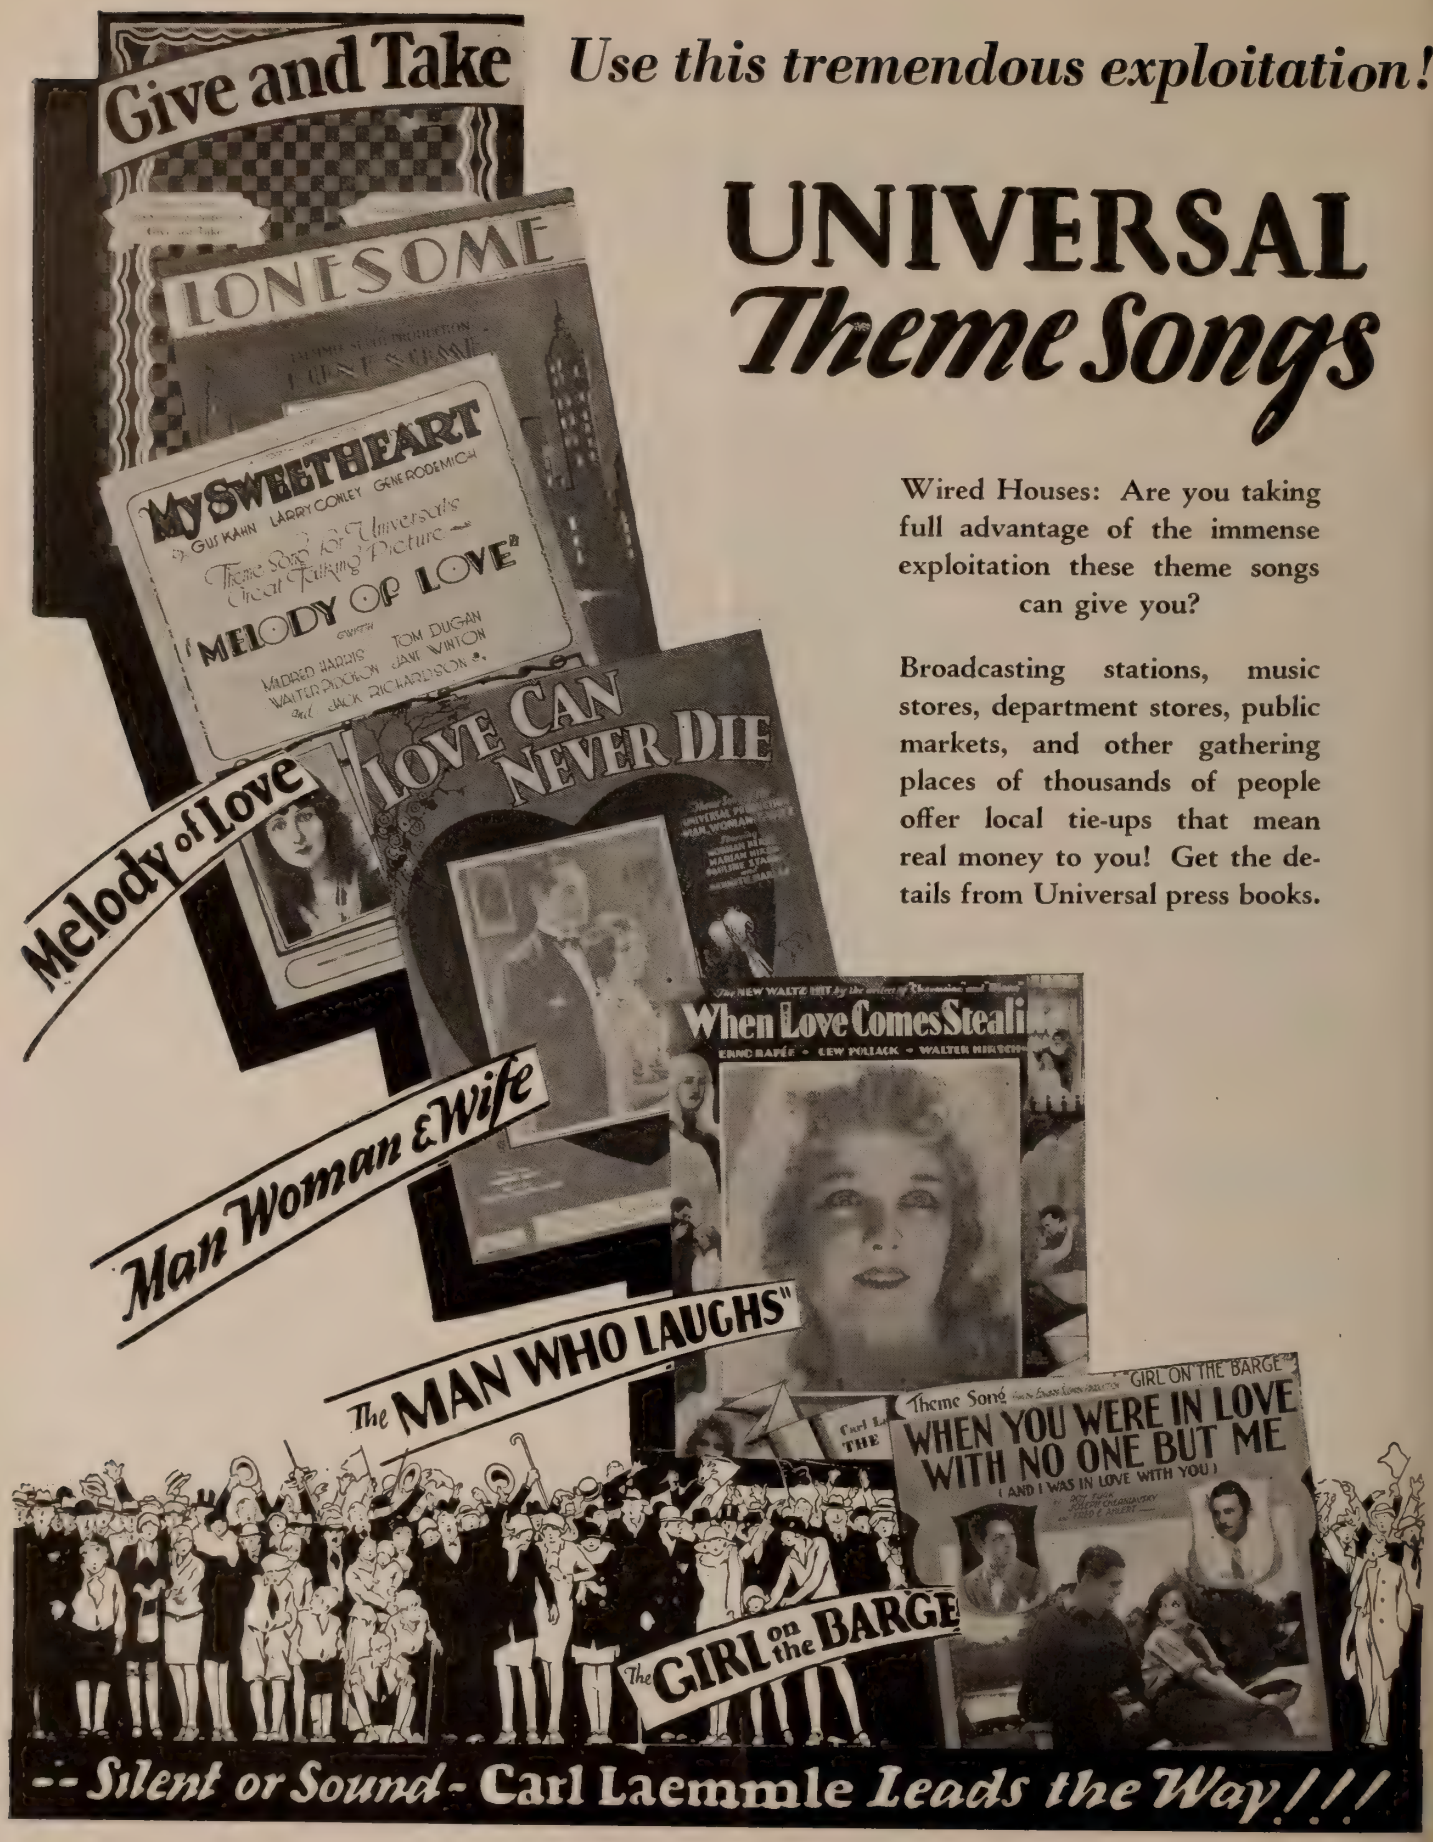
In a number of its aspects, "Broadway" is virtually a musical comedy. The score has to be written in such a way as to utilize the song and dance numbers which have been written for this production by the writers of DeSylva, Brown & Henderson Music Publishing Company. Con Conrad, Archie Gottler and Sidney Mitchell made a special trip to Universal City for the purpose of fitting the characteristic and catchy songs to the situations in "Broadway." There are six of these songs completed and accepted by the DeSylva, Brown & Henderson Company. They are being recorded by the Gus Arnheim Cocoanut Grove Orchestra, and will be published within a few weeks. They will be popularized on the radio long before the opening of "Broadway" on Broadway.

"With Gus Arnheim's Cocoanut Grove Orchestra playing in the Paradise Night Club and recording the music of these typically Broadway song writers, the musical success of 'Broadway' is assured," says Carl Laemmle, Jr., associate producer.

"Sing a Little Love Song," the theme tune, is being recorded with Glenn Tryon and Merna Kennedy. Whoopee dance numbers for the ensemble include "Hittin' the Ceilin'," "Bounce a Little Ball at Your Baby," "Which Comes First, the Chicken or the Egg?" and "Broadway's Got Rhythm."

All of the tunes are being prepared for national sheet music sales as well as being recorded on phonograph records by Arnheim.

Conrad has composed several Ziegfeld shows in the past. He recently worked on "Kitty's Kisses" and "Americana." Gottler is the only song writer ever to receive the Congressional award, having won it for his war-time song, "America, I Love You." Mitchell wrote practically all of the special song numbers for the late Nora Bayes.



Use this tremendous exploitation!

UNIVERSAL Theme Songs

Wired Houses: Are you taking full advantage of the immense exploitation these theme songs can give you?

Broadcasting stations, music stores, department stores, public markets, and other gathering places of thousands of people offer local tie-ups that mean real money to you! Get the details from Universal press books.

Mr. Exhibitor Says:

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" Is 100% Box-Office Picture

"Regarding 'UNCLE TOM'S CABIN,' I am glad to class it as 100% as regards entertainment and box-office value."

—V. Haidin,
Boulevard Theatre,
Kenmore, Ohio.

* * *

"It is a pleasure to advise you that I played 'UNCLE TOM'S CABIN' during the hot weather to exceptional business. It is an absolute 100% box-office attraction."

—G. R. Didsbury,
Didsbury Theatre,
Walden, N. Y.

* * *

"One of the best pictures I ever ran. All theatres should run your wonder, 'UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.' It is a money-getter. By all means, play it."

—C. J. McKenny,
Majestic Theatre,
Iona, Minn.

* * *

(TELEGRAM)

POINT MARION, PENN.

MY FIRST CONGRATULATORY BUT MUST TELL YOU UNCLE TOMS CABIN JUST ESTABLISHED A RECORD FOR EIGHTEEN MONTHS PAST IT PLEASED BEYOND ALL CONCEPTION.

BARNEYS THEATRE.

* * *

"Personally I consider 'UNCLE TOM'S CABIN' as good as the best picture ever shown in my house.

" 'UNCLE TOM'S CABIN' was well cast, well directed and with a drawing power that reached out and brought in non-theatre goers, particularly the older people."

—C. B. Kelly,
Garden Theatre,
Wakeeney, Kansas.

* * *

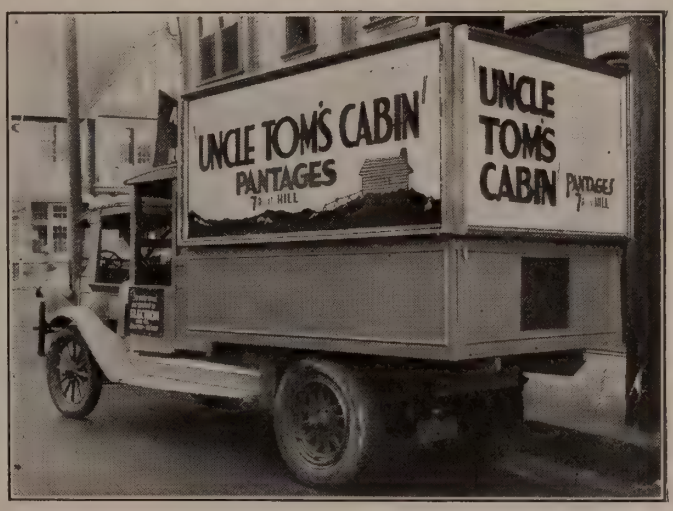
"As a small town exhibitor, you can't beat 'UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.' It gets both classes of people."

—P. P. Rumph,
Queen Theatre,
Quitaque, Texas.

* * *

"I think 'UNCLE TOM'S CABIN' is a 100% picture with a marvelous cast of players and some wonderful acting. Pleased everyone, big and small. Did a good business for three days."

—P. J. La Via, Mgr.,
Carroll Theatre,
Brooklyn, N. Y.



The Pantages Theatre in Los Angeles used this street stunt in connection with "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The unusually striking sign was made by the Electron Mfg. Co., and illustrates the display wallop in high contrasts and little printed matter.

"We played the picture 'UNCLE TOM'S CABIN' to three days of exceptional business, and can say that it is the only picture we have ever played that has built itself up every day we played it. It drew a good many people in to see our show that don't usually come, and pleased all. The letters sent out helped to put the picture over."

—Wilcox Miller,
Lake View Theatre.

* * *

"We have just completed a week's engagement of 'UNCLE TOM'S CABIN' at the Virginian Theatre. If ever there was a showman's picture made—here it is.

"Aside from the well-known title and novel the picture represents real entertainment, a perfect blending of laughs, tears and thrills.

"A PICTURE which will respond to extra advertising efforts.

"A PICTURE which will carry advanced admission prices.

"A PICTURE which will bring out the non-regulars and please the regulars.

"A PICTURE which if handled properly should establish new gross records.

"What I say this picture will do, it has done for us. It gives me sincere pleasure to address this letter to you and at the same time offer my congratulations to you for having produced a real business stimulator for the motion picture exhibitor."

—Lee Richmond, Mgr.
Virginian Theatre.
Charleston, W. Va.

Associate Editor of Exhibitors Daily Review and Motion Pictures Today Hails "Show Boat"

(Reprinted from March 6th Issue)

OPINIONS

By W. R. WILKERSON

"SHOWBOAT"

We were given the opportunity of looking at quite a bit of the big Universal production of "Showboat" and if what we were shown by Bob Welsh is the average for the whole picture it is our guess that Universal has the greatest attraction in the history of their organization.

* * *

GREAT SOUND

We saw, among other things, the entire prologue for the picture that runs, easily, three reels. This prologue is made up of songs from the great Ziegfeld production now running at the Ziegfeld theatre in New York and sung by Helen Morgan, Aunt Jemima and Jules Bledsoe.

We saw the stage production of "Showboat" twice, but in so far as REAL entertainment goes, the songs of these three great artists as done by Universal is head and shoulders above the stage show. Never have we been so thrilled with the running of a picture, sound or silent, as during the few moments of this film. Helen Morgan, Aunt Jemima and Jules Bledsoe, after the opening of this picture on Broadway in New York and other towns, will reach heights they never dreamed of.

* * *

LA PLANTE

Exhibitors and picture patrons have a great surprise coming to them in the work of Laura La Plante, who before this production has been given light material by Universal. This little girl will duplicate the success of Bessie Love in "Broadway Melody." She is great. There is hardly a doubt but what Universal will give her material in the future to conform with her great talents.

* * *

GREAT SPIRIT

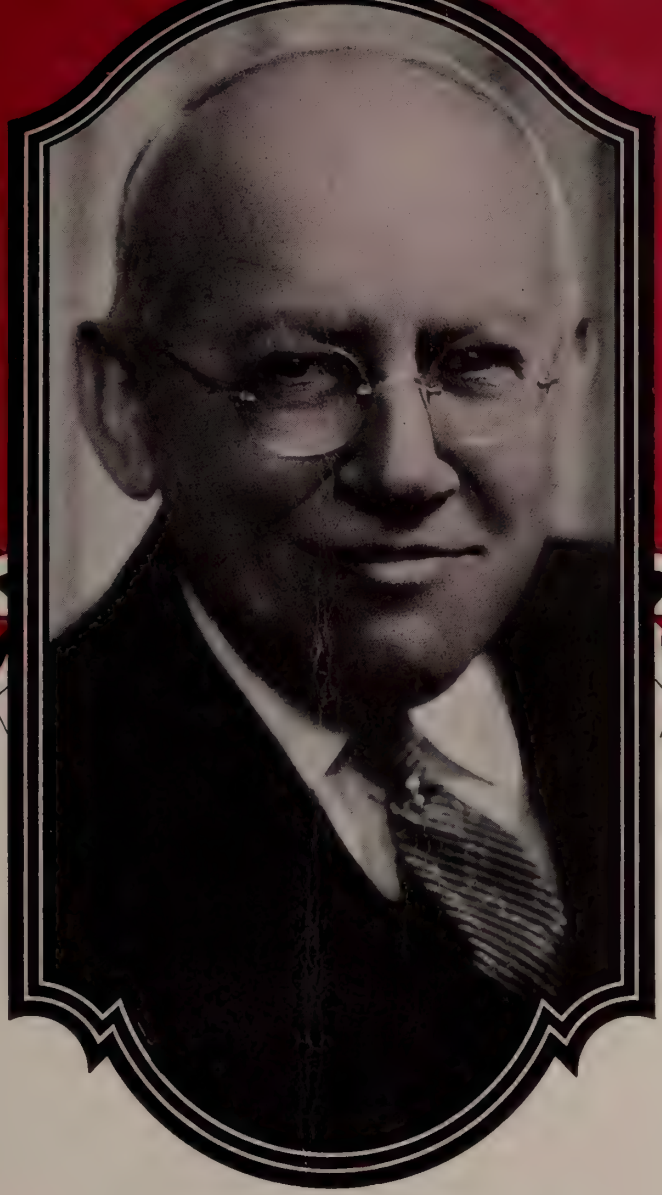
For years we have been around studios in one capacity or the other, but never have we seen such spirit as is in instant evidence as that on the Universal lot at present. Under the guidance of Robert E. Welsh, with Carl Laemmle, Jr., right at his elbow, a "do-or-die" spirit is manifest in the bearing of every individual. And it is mostly "do" and extremely little "die".

For the first time in the history of Universal City, everyone seems to be working in one direction. There are no cross purposes, there are no cliques. It is a big healthy producing body and there is hardly a question but what great attractions are going to find their way out of this studio from now on.

* * *

FRIENDLY RIVALRY

There is a spirit of friendly rivalry between Bob Welsh and Carl Laemmle, Jr., in their respective productions of "Showboat" and "Broadway." Both of these boys is trying to outdo the other in turning out a superior picture. And from what we have seen of one and heard of the other Universal is going to have two major attractions. And this is no guess work.



Carl Laemmle

THE man who made SHOW BOAT—the picture which marks a new era in entertainment.

The man who, for the first time in show business history, combines a best-selling novel with a tremendous musical comedy success and blends the two into the most gigantic screen entertainment ever dreamed of—

The man who gives every theatre in the land the opportunity of presenting, at popular prices, the cream of a $7.70-per-seat stage production plus a romantic drama that has swayed the nation's millions.

Truly—Carl Laemmle Shows the Way!

CARL LAEMMLE'S
SHOW BOAT

Edna Ferber

THE gifted woman who wrote the novel from which the picture was made.

She is one of the greatest of living authors. Every book she writes is a best seller. For months and months SHOW BOAT headed the list of best sellers and still is away up on top of the list. The royalties from it still pour in on Miss Ferber.

A New Era in

THREE great forms of expression merged by master showmen into the one giant entertainment that will establish new high grosses for theatres throughout the land. Think of it! As a novel SHOW BOAT topped all others in sales . . . as a Ziegfeld Musical Comedy it was a sensation . . . now—as Carl Laemmle's talking and singing Triumph, Universal gives you the biggest thing that ever happened in motion pictures.

SHOW

The picture

A Harry Pollard

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

Entertainment!

YOU will HEAR as well as SEE the famous Ziegfeld stars... HELEN MORGAN singing "Bill," and "Can't Help Loving That Man"... JULES BLEDSOE singing "Old Man River"... AUNT JEMIMA and the celebrated ZIEGFELD PLANTATION SINGERS singing "Hey Feller" and "Come On Folks." The brilliant Universal cast of screen stars including Laura La Plante, Joseph Schildkraut, Otis Harlan, Alma Rubens, Emily Fitzroy, Jane La Verne and hundreds of others.

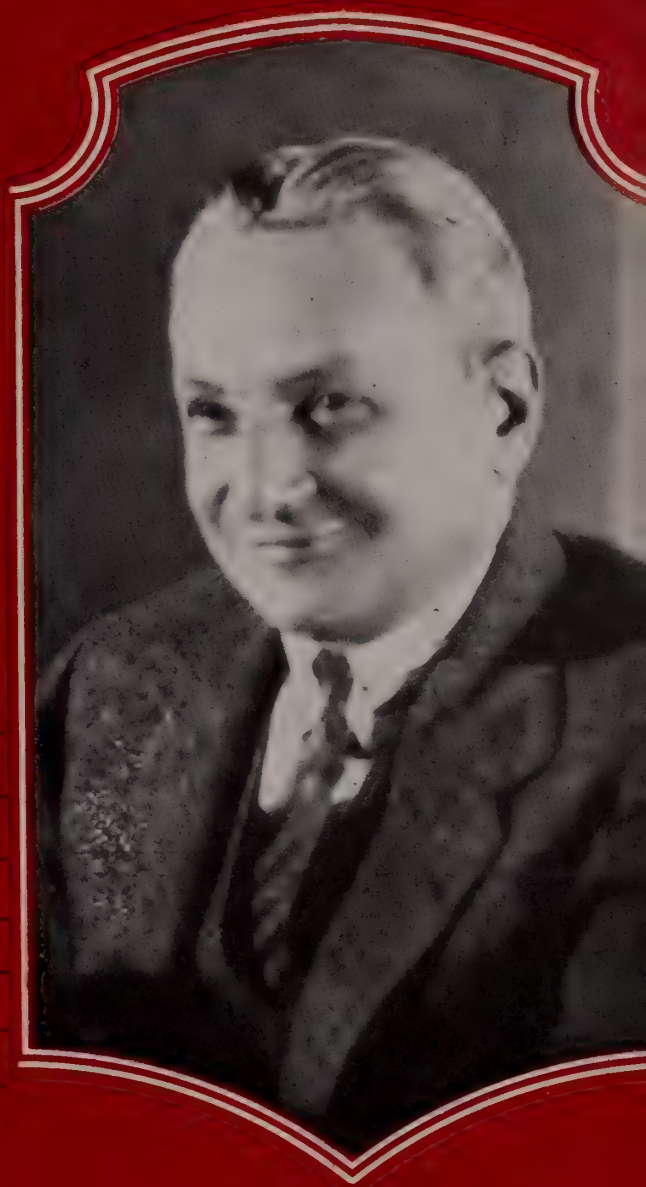
BOAT

magnificent!

CARL LAEMMLE'S
SHOW BOAT

Production



Florenz Ziegfeld

THE celebrated showman who produced the record-breaking Broadway musical comedy version of SHOW BOAT. He is known far and wide as the world's greatest producer of brilliant musical hits. New York paid as high as $25 per seat to see his SHOW BOAT, and now for the first time the cream of his best is available to YOU.

The Grandest Show

SHOW

—with the greatest array of stage and screen celebrities ever identified with one picture. Names, names, names—BOX-OFFICE NAMES! Carl Laemmle, for 20 years the industry's leader; Florenz Ziegfeld, world-known producer of stage hits; Edna Ferber, one of the greatest living writers. Think of it!—the exquisite music of Jerome Kern, the most successful composer of music for musical comedies; the heart-touching lyrics of Oscar Hammerstein, 2nd, one of the most illustrious names in show business; the direction of Harry Pollard, whose every picture fattens your bank account; the brilliant Universal cast headed by Laura La Plante, Joseph Schildkraut, Otis Harlan, Alma Rubens, Emily Fitzroy, Jane Laverne and hundreds of others; the singing of Helen Morgan, who has "it" and puts it into her work; the singing of Jules Bledsoe, greatest living singer of negro spirituals; the singing of Aunt Jemima and the Ziegfeld Plantation Singers. ALL IN ONE PICTURE! ALL IN SHOW BOAT!

Ever Put On!

BOAT

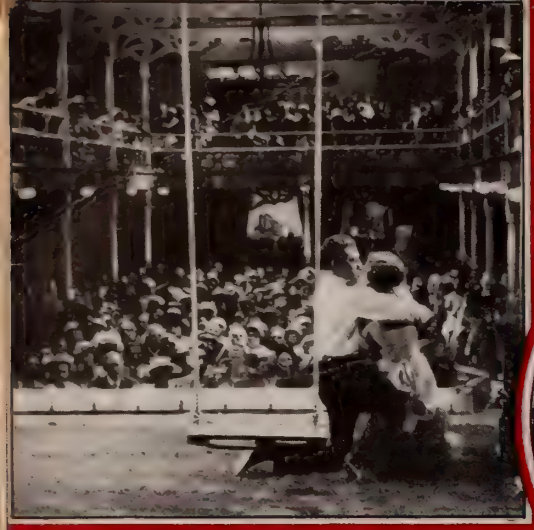
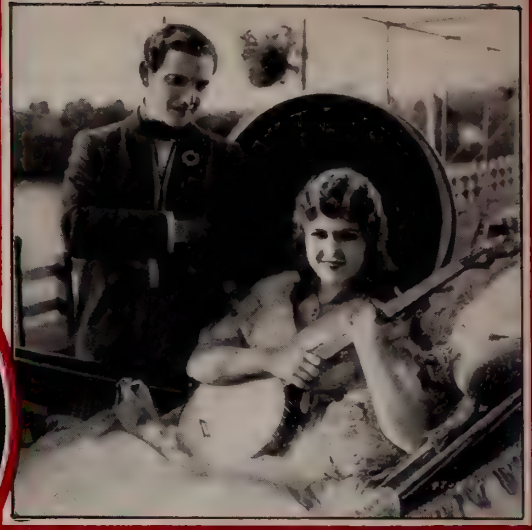
RSAL-
IRES





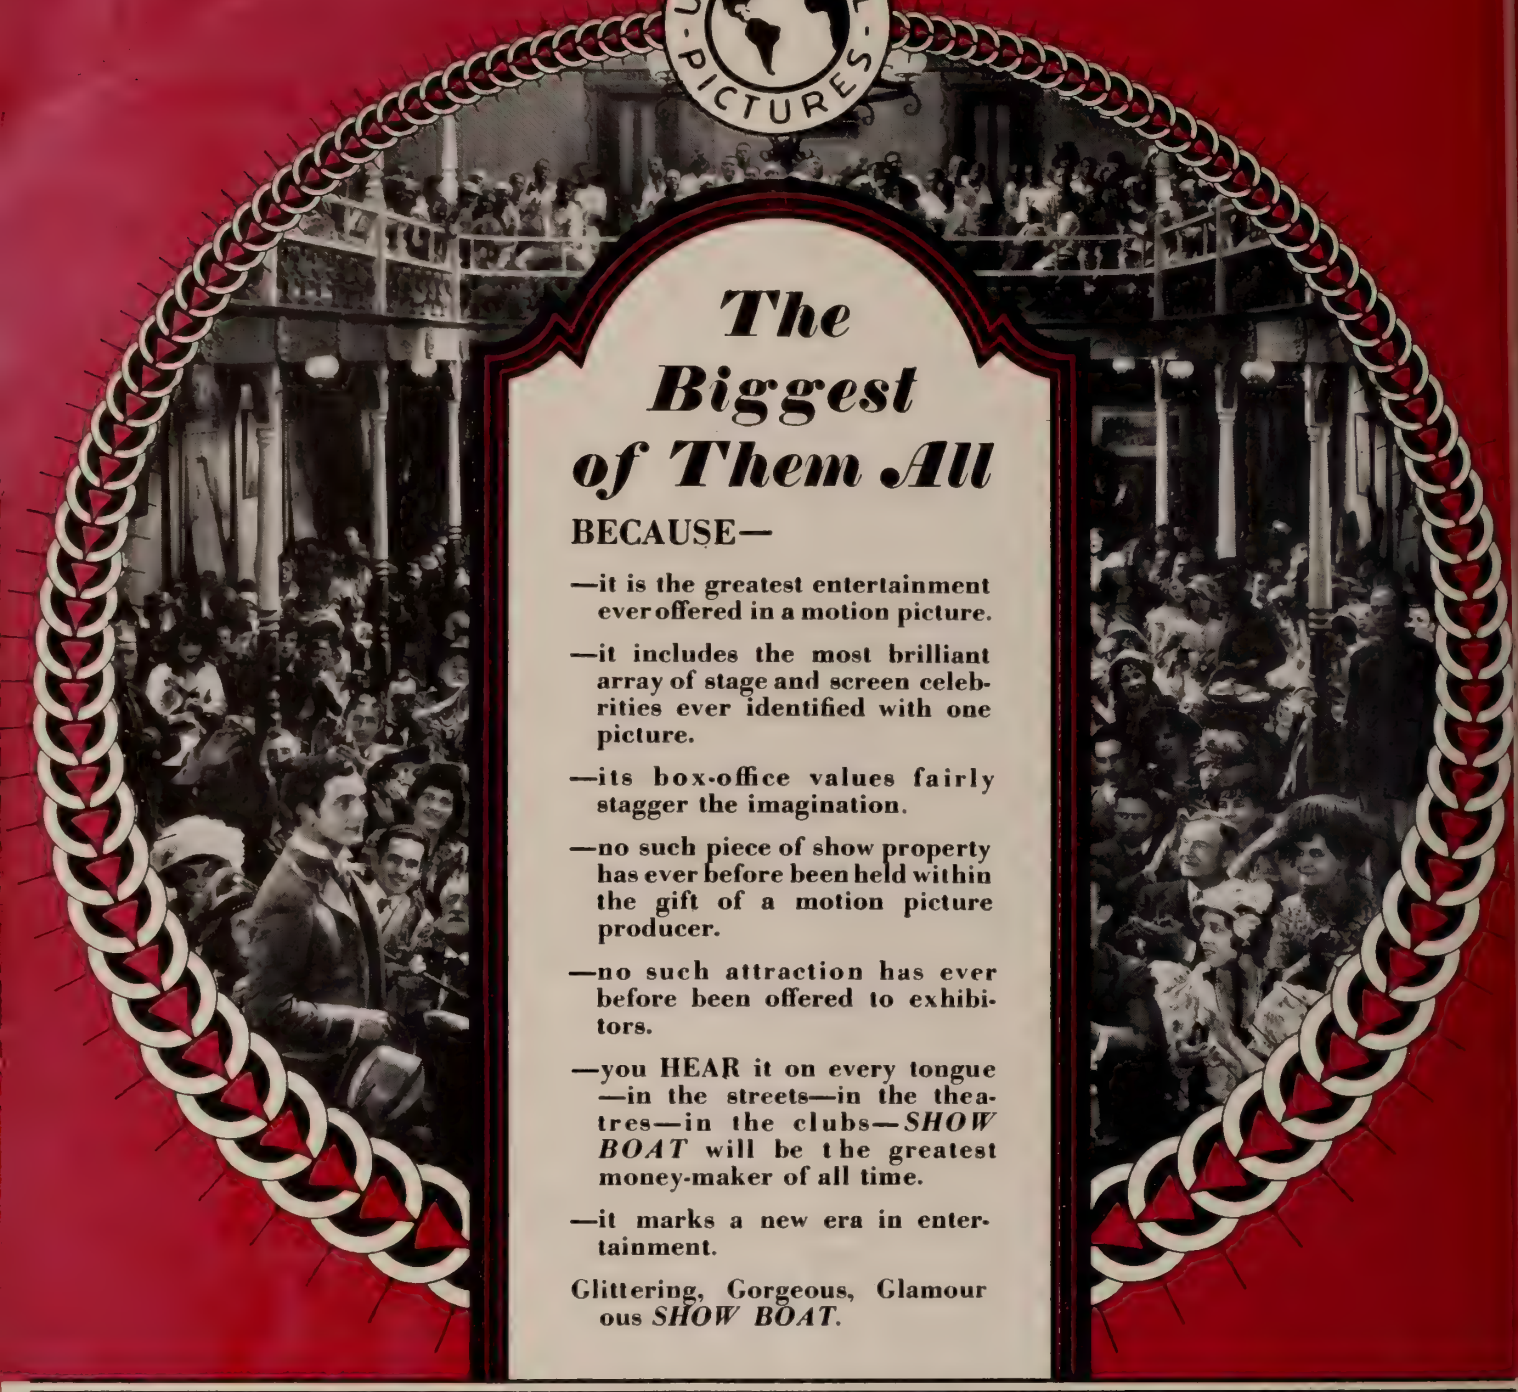
Glittering, Gorgeous, Glamorous!

AS a novel it was the TALK of the reading public of the nation! As a stage production it was the TALK of the show world the country over! As a SINGING, TALKING, motion picture it is already the TALK of the industry wherever showmen foregather. Glittering, gorgeous, glamorous SHOW BOAT—the romance of the ages!—what a story; what a picture; what an attraction! Edna Ferber's characters to the life—singing, dancing, talking, LIVING before your eyes on the screen. Living for you—with you—the tremendously compelling dramatic episodes of a novel that took the country by storm—a novel with a scope as broad, as deep, as sweeping and as resistless as life itself! Scenes to plumb the depths and reach the heights of human experience; sounds to vibrate on the heart-strings of a nation held spell-bound—that is SHOW BOAT!

SHOW

BOAT

UNIVERSAL PICTURES



The Biggest of Them All

BECAUSE—

—it is the greatest entertainment ever offered in a motion picture.

—it includes the most brilliant array of stage and screen celebrities ever identified with one picture.

—its box-office values fairly stagger the imagination.

—no such piece of show property has ever before been held within the gift of a motion picture producer.

—no such attraction has ever before been offered to exhibitors.

—you HEAR it on every tongue—in the streets—in the theatres—in the clubs—SHOW BOAT will be the greatest money-maker of all time.

—it marks a new era in entertainment.

Glittering, Gorgeous, Glamourous SHOW BOAT.

SHOW BOAT

Directed, silent and Movietone, by Harry Pollard

The Biggest of Them All!

Synchronized score by Joseph Cherniavsky

"Tarzan the Mighty" Boosts Saturday Business

"Tarzan is great and going over good. I credit a good part of our Saturday business to this serial as every one is very interested in it and anxious to follow up the episodes weekly."

—Maynard Madden
New Virginia Theatre,
Harrisonburg, Va.

Laura La Plante's Next Film For Universal To Be "Evidence"

Willam Wyler Will Direct

LAURA LA PLANTE'S next picture for the Universal Pictures Corporation will be "Evidence." This is an adaptation of a play recently purchased from Edward Montagne. The adaptatilon has been prepared by Charles Kenyon and John Clymer. William Wyler will direct both the dialogue and silent versions.

Laura La Plante recently completed "Scandal," an adaptation of a magazine story by Adele Rogers St Johns titled "The Haunted Lady." It was made under the direction of Wesley Ruggles with John Boles and Huntley Gordon in the principal roles. Wyler has received much praise for the excellence of his two most recent Universal productions. They are "The Shakedown" and "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?"

Edith Roberts To Play Lead With Ken Maynard

EDITH ROBERTS, who grew up on the Universal lot, will return to it again after an absence of many years. She has been selected for the leadng role in Ken Maynard's first picture under his new contract with th Universal Pictures Corporation, titled "The Wagon Master," an adaptation of the novel by Marian Jackson which will be directed by Harry J. Brown.

One of the last pictures made by Miss Roberts for Universal was "The Mystery Club" which proved to be highly successful. It was an adaptation of that popular story by Arthur Somers Roche, 'The Crimes of the Arm-chair Club."

"The Wagon Master" is an historical novel of the early days of the West and will be made in the locations described by the author. Production will be commenced in two weeks

Universal To Make "Hollywood Melody"

IT was announced at Universal City this week that Universal plans to make a new big talking, singing picture, to be entitled "The Hollywood Melody." It is an original story,, written by Arthur Howard, and deals with a colorful side of life in Hollywood under the new sound regime. It is promised as an appealing human interest story of gripping and dramatic theme, set against the background of Hollywood's glamor and its new world of dialogue and melody. It is ideally suited to sound production.

Now you'll like sea stories!

Reginald DENNY

in the Leviathan of Laughs—

"CLEAR the DECKS"

with OLIVE HASBROUCK and OTIS HARLAN

Story by E. J. RATH

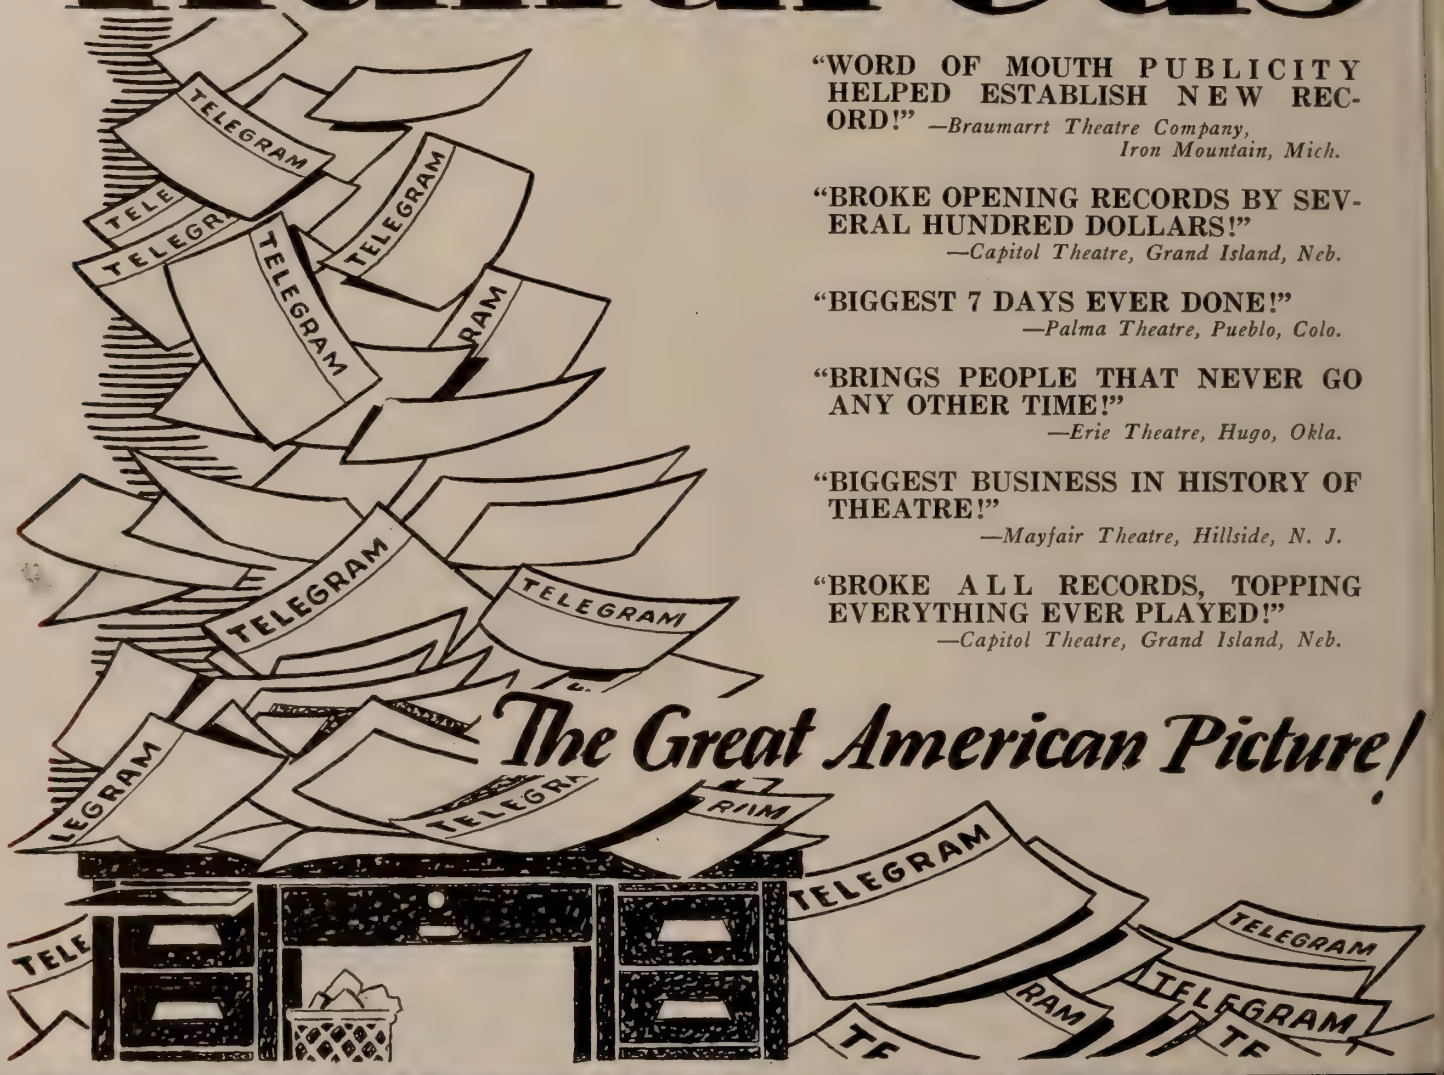
A JOSEPH HENABERY Production

Two Negatives: One silent, one with dialog

Presented by

CARL LAEMMLE

Hundreds



"WORD OF MOUTH PUBLICITY HELPED ESTABLISH NEW RECORD!" —Braumarrt Theatre Company, Iron Mountain, Mich.

"BROKE OPENING RECORDS BY SEVERAL HUNDRED DOLLARS!" —Capitol Theatre, Grand Island, Neb.

"BIGGEST 7 DAYS EVER DONE!" —Palma Theatre, Pueblo, Colo.

"BRINGS PEOPLE THAT NEVER GO ANY OTHER TIME!" —Erie Theatre, Hugo, Okla.

"BIGGEST BUSINESS IN HISTORY OF THEATRE!" —Mayfair Theatre, Hillside, N. J.

"BROKE ALL RECORDS, TOPPING EVERYTHING EVER PLAYED!" —Capitol Theatre, Grand Island, Neb.

The Great American Picture!

UNCLE TO

--Silent or Sound- Carl Lae

of them!

"WE DID RECORD BUSINESS WITH IT!" —Rex Theatre, Panhandle, Tex.

"BUSINESS TREMENDOUS—TOM BEST NEWS OF YEAR!"
—State Georgia Pearce, Cedartown, Ga.

"BIGGEST CROWDS IN OMAHA'S THEATRICAL HISTORY!"
—World Theatre, Omaha, Neb.

"PATRONS BOOSTED IT! NEEDED NO OTHER ADVERTISING!"
—Amusu Theatre, Fernandina, Fla.

"THIS PRODUCTION HOLDS RECORD IN OUR HOUSE!"" —Temple Theatre, Perry, Florida.

"MADE US MORE MONEY THAN ANY OTHER PICTURE THIS YEAR!"
—Scenic and Strand Theatre, Whittier, Calif.

"RECORD BREAKING BUSINESS DESPITE HEAVY OPPOSITION!"
—Chase St. Theatre, Kane, Pa.

"WENT OVER BIG!"
—Princess Theatre, Medina, Ohio.

"BROKE ALL RECORDS ON CIRCUIT BY WIDE MARGIN!"
—Bowen and Charles Circuit, Tenino, Wash.

"BEST BUSINESS IN TEN YEARS!"
—Griffin Theatre, Chatham, Ont.

"SUCCESS DESPITE UNFAVORABLE WEATHER!"
—Lyric Theatre, Mt. Edward, Neb.

"RECORD BREAKING BUSINESS!"
U. I. Theatre Circuit, Indianapolis, Ind.

"BROKE ALL DAIL YHOUSE RECORDS! —Plaza Theatre, Fort Dodge, Iowa.

"BIGGEST GROSS BUSINESS IN HISTORY OF THEATRE!"
—Swan Theatre, Columbus, Neb.

"BROKE ALL HOUSE RECORDS!"
—Granada Theatre, Norfolk, Neb.

CARL LAEMMLE'S

Super-Production. With Marguerita Fischer, Arthur Edmund Carewe, Lucien Littlefield, James Lowe, Virginia Grey, George Siegmann, Adolph Milar, Vivien Oakland, Lassie Lou Ahern, Mona Ray, Aileen Manning.

Two Negatives: 1 Silent, 1 with Sound.

A HARRY POLLARD Production

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

TELEGRAM TELEGRAM TELEGRAM

M'S CABIN

mmle Leads the Way!!!

UNIVERSAL MAKING RAPID STRIDES IN SOUND SHORT SUBJECTS FIELD

Carl Laemmle Striving to Clinch Lead as Industry's Foremost Maker of Movietone Shorts—Several Outstanding Series of Two Reel Talkies Now Ready at Universal Studios—Important Announcements Coming UNIVERSAL, according to reports from Universal City, the big studio plant of the Carl Laemmle organization, is making rapid strides in the Sound Short Subjects field. Laemmle long basked in the reputation of being the leader in the Short Subject field, and has announced his intention of clinching that title in the Sound Short field.

Since full sound recording equipment was installed at Universal City last Fall, the Laemmle forces have worked on a day and night schedule to gain precedence in the talking picture business. Carrying out Universal's long established policy, a goodly portion of this time and effort has gone into the making of shorts.

Three all-talking series of shorts and one synchronized series already well under way, with some of the pictures now on the market and showing. In addition there are various individual talking shorts being put out. Within the next two weeks, several new talking short novelties will go into production, both series and individual. The Universal production officials indicate that they have some distinct sound shot novelties up their sleeve that will set a new pace in dialogue two-reelers.

The most important short sound series on the way from the Universal sound stages is the fourth series of "The Collegians," which will include ten two-reelers with dialogue, sound and incidental music. "The Collegians" series has been one of the outstanding two-reel release for several seasons. The advent of this popular brand with sound and dialogue will mark a turning point in Universal's status in the sound field, it is believed. Advance demand for these comedy dramas is exceptionally heavy, Universal sales officials state. The series, as usual, has George Lewis, Dorothy Gulliver, Eddie Phillips and Hayden Stevenson in the leading roles. New additions to the cast of campus flappers include Edna Marian and several other popular screen blondes.

The first dialogue "Collegian" two-reelers is now on the way East. It is "King of the Campus." It will be released April 1st, with subsequent releases at two weeks intervals. Nat Ross directed the series under the supervision of Carl Laemmle, Jr. In keeping with the new trend in sound pictures, several popular and college songs have been written especially for this series. Two of them will be marketed generally in sheet music and phonograph record form. They are "Oh, How We Love Our College," a marching song by Dave Silverstein and Lee Zahler, and "June, Will You Be Mine in June?" by Sidney Clare, composer of "I'd Climb the Highest Mountain." The third song is "The Calford Battle Song," written by Mort Clopson as the foot-ball "fighting song" of Calford College, the mythical alma mater of the "Collegians" students.

Another important series about ready for the screen is the Rooney series, made with Pat Rooney, Marion Bent and Pat Rooney III, the famous vaudeville headliners. The stories for this series are being written by Edgar Allen Woolf, prominent Broadway stage constructionist. Each is complete in itself and all are built around the dancing and singing ability of the Rooney trio. Ben Holmes is the director. The first, "Sweethearts," already has arrived in New York. The second, "Love Birds," has been completed and is ready for shipment East. The third, "The Tree of Love," is nearing completion. Dorothy Mathews and Kay Bryant, two popular Broadway stage favorites, are also in the cast of this one. Next, the Rooneys will make "The Royal Pair." Helen Ruth Mann, sixteen and blonde, and the first "find" of Dr. William F. Marston, Universal psychologist, will have a role in this talkie. The fifth Rooney two-reelers will be "Three Diamonds." Leslie Bates, Elinor Leslie and Kay Bryant will be in the cast.

Another important dialogue series is Benny Rubin's "High and Low Lifes of History." The famous night club and theatre master of ceremonies, until recently a favorite at the Colony Theatre, New York City, is being starred in this series, under the direction of Jack Foley. The first of the series, "The Pilgrim Papas," already has been completed. Eddie Kane, of vaudeville fame, and Vivian Bay are from the EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

(Continued on page 32)

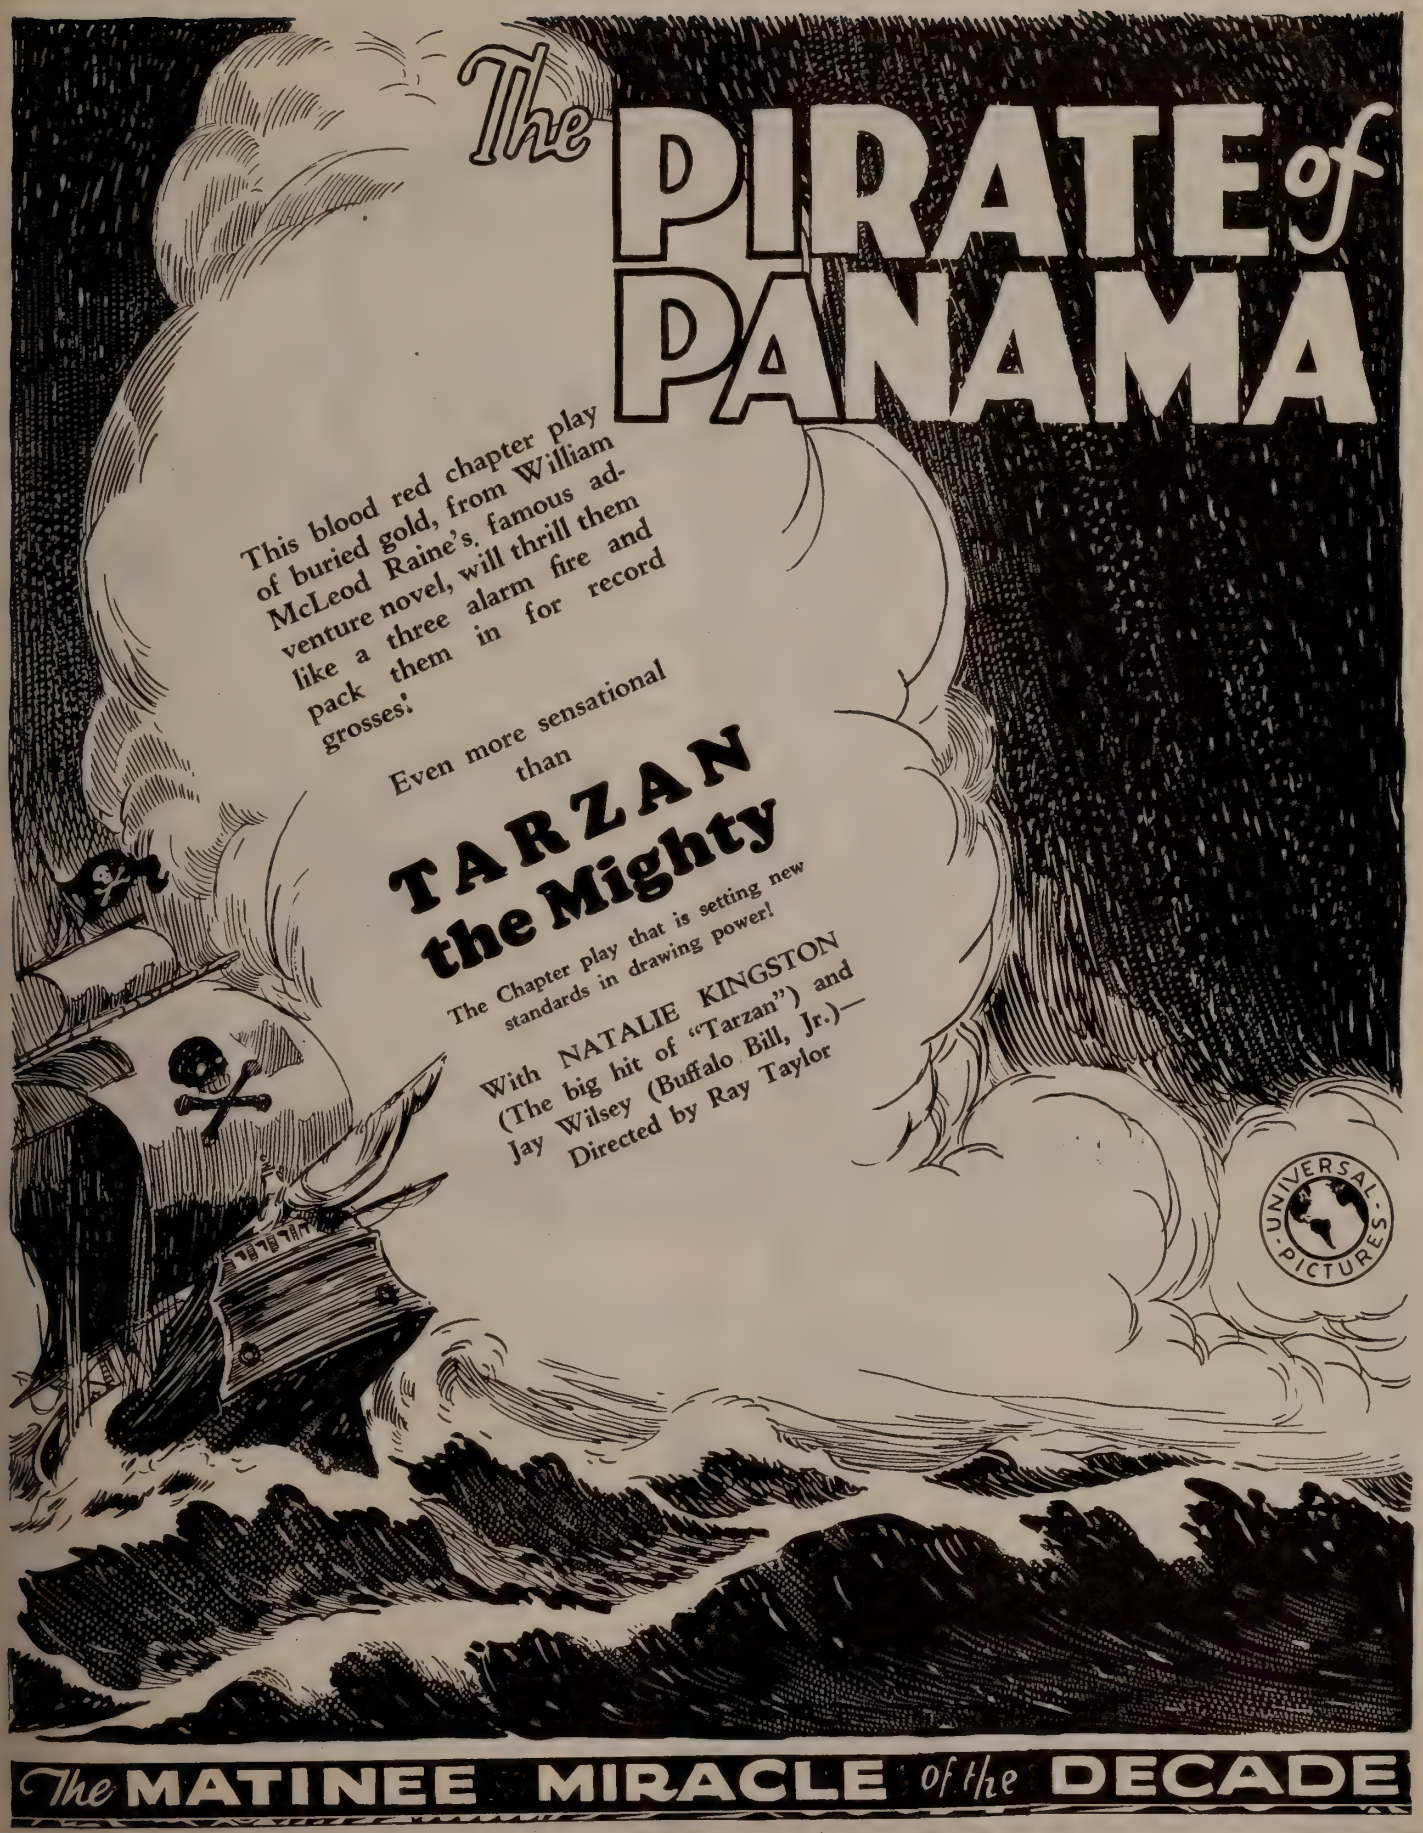
KING OF THE RODEO: Hoot Gibson—70%. February 9. Well, well, here's a Western without any shooting, smut or sex appeal stuff and what's the result—bang-up good entertainment. They ought to present Hoot with a medal for making such an entertaining picture for the theatre of any size. Many good comments. Six reels.—E. B. Conant, Charkarohen Hall theatre, Lincoln, N. H.—Small town patronage.

BURNING THE WIND: Hoot Gibson—50%. February 2. Another good one by about the best Western actor in the game. He has gone forward where some of the big boys have slipped. Some one told them they were good, and they quit acting. Not the kind about whom people say, "What is the matter with so and so? He is no good nowadays?"—Bert Silver, Silver Family theatre, Greenville, Mich.

THE FLYIN' COWBOY: Hoot Gibson—Went over O. K.—Philip Rand, Rex theatre, Salmon, Ida.—

CLEARING THE TRAIL: Hoot Gibson—Drew well and pleased.—Philip Rand, Rex theatre, Salmon, Ida.

GIBSON ..... that's all



The PIRATE of PANAMA
This blood red chapter play of buried gold, from William McLeod Raine's famous adventure novel, will thrill them like a three alarm fire and pack them in for record grosses!
Even more sensational than
TARZAN the Mighty
The Chapter play that is setting new standards in drawing power!
With NATALIE KINGSTON (The big hit of "Tarzan") and Jay Wilsey (Buffalo Bill, Jr.)—
Directed by Ray Taylor
UNIVERSAL PICTURES
The MATINEE MIRACLE of the DECADE

Frank Cook wires from Milwaukee—

Give us more like these!!

"'The LAST WARNING' holds the record of the house and 'The FOREIGN LEGION' is second. More power to Universal and give us more like them!"

—Frank Cook,
Juneau Theatre
Milwaukee, Wis.

The LAST WARNING

With LAURA LA PLANTE, Montague Love, Roy D'Arcy, Margaret Livingston, John Boles, Bert Roach. Produced under the personal supervision of CARL LAEMMLE, Jr. From the novel by Wadsworth Camp and Thomas F. Fallon's Broadway stage hit. 2 Negatives: 1 silent, 1 with dialog.

A PAUL LENI Production

The FOREIGN LEGION

Starring NORMAN KERRY and LEWIS STONE with Mary Nolan, June Marlowe, and others. From the I. A. R. Wylie novel, "The Red Mirage."

An EDWARD SLOMAN Production

Here they are Mr. Cook

ALL THESE LAEMMLE SPECIALS WERE BUILT TO GET SPECIAL MONEY AT ANY BOX-OFFICE !

THE MICHIGAN KID

Bigger than "The Storm," the great box-office winner. CONRAD NAGEL and RENEE ADOREE with Lloyd Whitlock, Adolph Milar, Virginia Grey. From the popular story by REX BEACH.

An IRVIN WILLAT Production

GIVE and TAKE

Starring GEORGE SIDNEY and JEAN HERSHOLT with George Lewis and Sharon Lynn. From the Broadway stage success by Aaron Hoffman. 2 Negatives—1 silent, 1 dialog.

A WILLIAM BAUDINE Production

The COHENS and KELLYS

Starring

GEORGE SIDNEY

with VERA GORDON, Mack Swain, Kate Price Two negatives: one silent, one with dialog.

A WILLIAM JAMES CRAFT Production

The GIRL on the BARGE

With JEAN HERSHOLT, Sally O'Neil, Malcolm MacGregor. From the Cosmopolitan Magazine story by RUPERT HUGHES Two negatives: 1 Silent; 1 with Dialog.

An EDWARD SLOMAN Production

Cutting Talkies Changes Former Editing Methods

Cutter of "Show Boat" Prologue Explains Movietone Problems—Now Editors Read Lips

METHODS of editing motion pictures since the advent of talking picture have changed as much as have the pictures themselves.

No longer does the film editor cut into a scene with his scissors any place to trim down the length of a sequence or to take out an unnecessary bit of action.

If he does, in the movietone method, which Universal uses, he is more than likely to cut off the end of a sentence or a word, and cause a break in the continuity of the picture. The series of gray lines that represent the sound waves in the sound track cannot be read with any certainty.

According to B. W. Burton, who is editing the synchronized prologue of "Show Boat," which was made in New York using music and principals of the Florenz Ziegfeld stage hit, the work of the sound film editor has greatly changed from that of the silent film editor.

"It is not only where to cut," said Burton, "but how to cut."

Movietone Action and Sound Shot on Separate Strips

In the movietone process the action is photographed on one strip of film leaving the sound track blank. The sound is "photographed" on another strip leaving the space for the action blank. Later, when both have been edited, they are brought together on the same film.

"When talkies first struck Hollywood," continued Burton, "the sound and action were edited on the one film. Now they are edited separately.

"By doing this, sound effects can be placed in any scene at the discretion of the editor, and even words, when the players' lips are not clearly visible, may be moved about to suit the best telling of the story.

"The sound that belongs to a scene has been placed on the film a distance of nineteen and one-half frames (a frame being one single picture) in advance of that scene. In going through the projection machine the device that brings about the sound is placed that distance ahead of the device that projects the picture on the screen. Thus, the sound and the scene are projected simultaneously.

"In making the double print later in the laboratory, this exact distance must be maintained or the action and dialogue will not be timed together.

Sound Film Editor Reads Characters' Lips

"To find the exact place to cut into the film the editor will sometimes read the lips of the characters. Frequently he will run off the picture in the sound theatre, stopping the machine and marking the frame he wants cut. The usual method is to memorize the lines while watching the picture. Then the film is edited from memory by lip reading.

"It is also the task of the sound editor to eliminate outside noises that crept in through the microphone, stuttering or hesitation on the part of the players, mistakes in giving the lines, and the like."

The sound editor cuts only for sound, leaving the action to be fitted into the trimmed down sound effects and dialogue. An exacting part of the work is to keep action and sound in perfect synchronization, so that lips will match words.

Musical Score Added

When the picture is finally edited the musical score is added, the orchestra playing where there is no sound or dialogue. This, of course, does not apply to the "Show Boat" prologue in which the music is an inherent part of the action. By making another double print, the musical score is placed into the picture and it is ready for release.

Burton was the first sound film editor at Universal City, and cut "The Melody of Love," the studio's first talkie production. Later he instructed a number of the other editors in cutting sound film.

Newspapers want

NEWSPAPER editors and business managers who know how to spot the value of a natural circulation building feature WANT this contest . . . and don't you forget it! Here comes a letter from the Terre Haute Post, a member of the Scripps-Howard Chain, one of the most powerful and influential newspaper combines in existence. Read the merchandise director's letter — and then shoot right over to your local paper, before you lose the inspiration, and make arrangements to head your show with the pull-'em-in tie-up of the year! — Super exploitation on the super picture —

VICTOR HUGO'S

"The MAN WHO

Conditions Governing Awards

Prizes to be awarded by Universal Pictures Corp., producers of "The Man Who Laughs," as follows: first award, $1,000; second award, $250; third award, $100; and thirty prizes of $5 each.

NEWSPAPERS OFFER $500

Awards totaling $500 in gold are offered by newspapers throughout the country as additional prizes. If any resident of your locality wins the national first prize of $1,000, your newspaper or local exhibitor will add $150, thus bringing the total to $1,150.

If a local resident wins the national second prize of $250, your newspaper or exhibitor will pay the winner an additional sum of $125. To the winner of the third prize (if won locally), an additional prize of $75, and to any or all local winners of the next thirty prizes an additional award of $5.00.

Prizes to be awarded for the best letters not exceeding 200 words, answering the question, Why do alluring women love homely men?"

Any resident of the United States or Canada, male or female, is eligible.

All letters must be submitted to "The Man Who Laughs" Contest Editor, Universal Pictures Corporation, 730 Fifth Avenue, New York City, not later than July 1st, 1929.

It will be helpful for any entrant to see Universal's picture, "The Man Who Laughs," but it is not necessary in order to enter the contest.

In the event of a tie on any one of the awards, the full amount of the award tied for will be given to each tied contestant.

Manuscripts will NOT be returned.

Judgment of the letters will be based on (1) originality of thought; (2) clarness of expression: (3) general knowledge of the subject: (4) general neatness.

The judges in this contest will be Carl Laemmle, President, Universal pictures Corporation, Dr. W. M. Marston, Director of Universal Bureau of Public Service, and Edward Montagne, Universal scenario editor.

--Silent or Sound- Carl La

this great contest!

$2000 in cash prizes to the public

Universal Pictures Corp.
New York, New York.

Attention: Exploitation Manager.

Dear Sir:

I have just been informed by the EVANSVILLE PRESS of a contest of "A Man Who Laughs." We are desirous of receiving this contest for the Terre Haute Post.

Will you please communicate with Mr. Earl D. Baker, business manager of the TERRE HAUTE POST, and advise him of what arrangement we can make for this.

Very truly yours,
THE TERRE HAUTE POST
(Signed)—W. C. Bussing,
Merchandise Director.

LAUGHS"

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

2 negatives:
1 SILENT,
1 with SOUND

Starring
CONRAD VEIDT
and
MARY PHILBIN

With Olga Baclanova, Brandon Hurst, Sam De Grasse, Cesare Gravina, Stuart Holmes, George Siegmann.

A PAUL LENI Production

mle Leads the Way!!!

UNIVERSAL SYNOPSES

"THE COHENS AND KELLYS IN ATLANTIC CITY"

Carl Laemmle Special

Starring GEORGE SIDNEY

With VERA GORDON, MACK SWAIN and KATE PRICE

George Sidney

COHEN and Kelly are in the bathing suit business in New York, but their line has become so old-fashioned that dealers will not buy from them. Pat and Rosie, their children, manage to get the fathers away on a selling trip. While they are gone the kids revamp the business, bringing it up to date and arranging for a bathing girl contest at Atlantic City, with $10,000.00 to be awarded the winner. Cohen and Kelly return ahead of time and hardly recognize the place. The kids have spent all the money except the $10,000.00 for the prize, which their secretary has forgotten to put in the bank. Cohen takes this money from the safe and puts it in his pocket. Cohen learns Pat and Rosie have gone to Atlantic City and, thinking they have eloped, gets Mrs. Kelly and follows. Kelly thinks Cohen has eloped with his wife and wires the police to stop them, following with Mrs. Cohen. Both families are thrown into jail. Cohen begins to argue, is handcuffed to a desperate criminal and put in a different cell. That night the criminal escapes, carrying Cohen with him in a sack. They elude the police and Cohen finally breaks the handcuffs and gets away. Kelly finds him, and then the two are forced to escape from the crook who is after Cohen's $10,000.00. In a runaway motorcycle they arrive at the finish of the beauty contest just in time for Cohen to hand over the money to Rosie, who has been proclaimed winner. As everyone leaves Pat takes Rosie in his arms.

"THE NEWLYWEDS' HOLIDAY"

Stern Brothers Comedy

SNOOKUMS can always be counted on to keep things moving. When the sewing circle met with Mrs. Newlywed little Percival came along with his mother. Snookums lured Percival into an adjoining room and suggested that they put on "The Gloves." Oatmeal, who had just arrived with the wash, volunteered to referee. Before "the bout" was over they had discarded gloves and taken to pillows. Some of them leaked a little and some of them a lot. The sewing circle broke up in a feather snow-storm. Just as Mrs. Newlywed was applying a slipper to Snookums Mr. Newlywed arrived and suggested a picnic. And that is just what it was from start to finish. Snookums smuggled Oatmeal into the lunch-basket and between them they furnished plenty of diversion for the Newlyweds and every one else they met.

"TELEVISION GEORGE"

Stern Brothers Comedy

"LET GEORGE DO IT" SERIES

GEORGE got off on the wrong foot when he got married. Mrs. George was a good looker, but a bad actor. She was a television fan and insisted that George do the housework while she enjoyed hearing and seeing her favorite concert singer.

Meanwhile George's pal lurked about the premises trying to catch sight of George and give him the high sign for a party he had arranged.

Pal finally masqueraded as a policeman and arrested George. They hurried to the Television Station where Pal had a date with a couple of cuties who were doing a song and dance turn before the "mike." Some one turned on the juice when the boys weren't looking. Mrs. George was sitting at home sad and lonesome. She turned on the television and saw George, whom she thought was in the lock-up. Then she got busy. She wrecked the "mike," exceeded the speed limit getting to the television station, beat up the girls and finally chased George home as a sadder but wiser man.

"THE DIAMOND MASTER"

Universal Chapterplay

No. 7—"The Death Trap"

VAN grabs a sword and engages his enemies in a duel to the death. Tug, coming to aid him, is waylaid in a dark hallway.

Van attempts to reach Doris, but is overseen by Latham's men and captured. He is imprisoned in a small room, where he finds the unconscious form of Latham, stunned by his fall through the trap.

Van disguises himself as Latham and takes the latter's place, hoping to get back the paper stolen from Kellner. By posing as Latham, he learns who has the paper, but when he finds the man he discovers that he has been killed and the paper taken from him.

Van calls a meeting of the gang, at which he attempts to find who has the paper. Latham taps an alarm on the floor of his prison and is freed by one of his men. He lays plans to trap Van. These are put into effect and Van is unmasked at the meeting and finds himself in a desperate situation. The timely arrival of Doris with the police saves him from certain death. In the confusion Latham gets away with the precious paper still in his possession.

"BORN TO THE SADDLE"

Thrill Feature

With TED WELLS

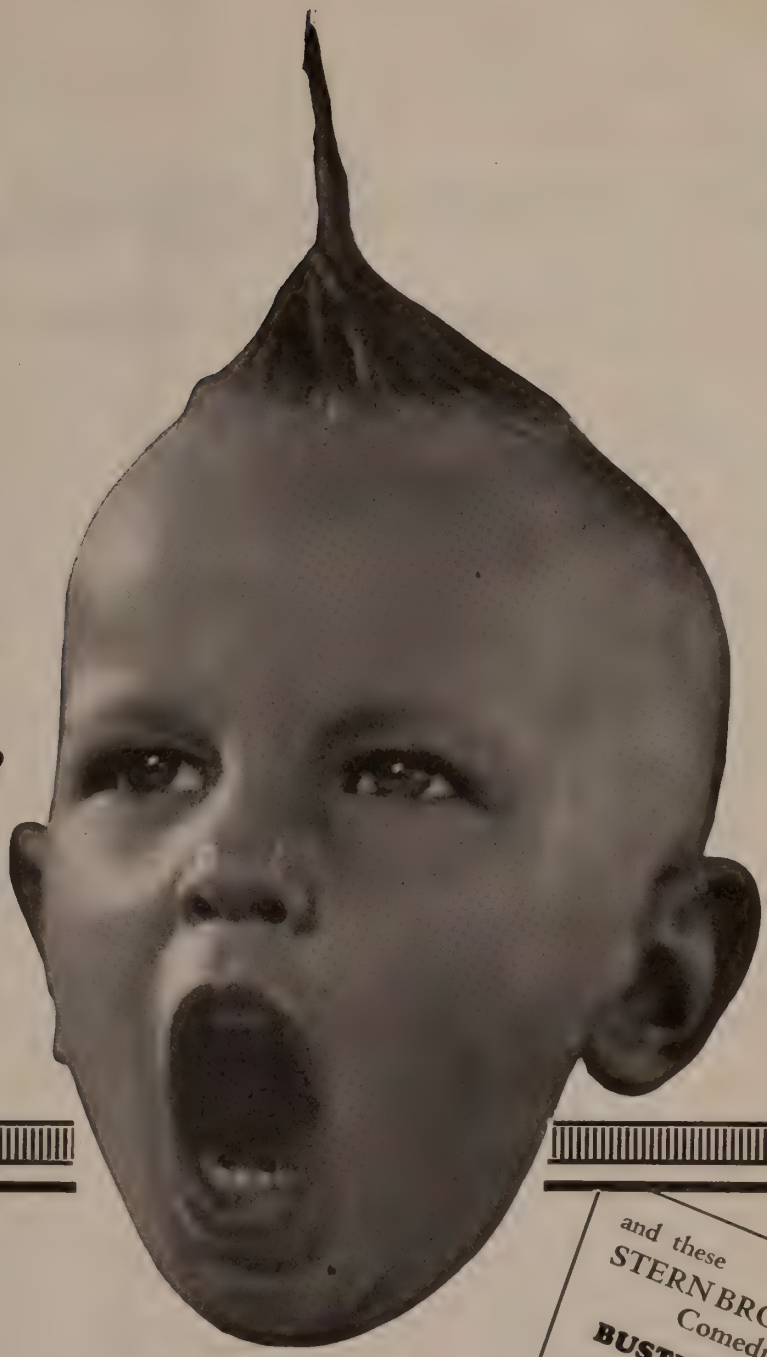
JOHN PEARSON, an Eastern millionaire, and his daughter, Helen, in company with Clyde Montmorency Winpenny, a weak scion of wealth, are on their way to Pop Healy's Dude Ranch, when they are held up by Amos Judd and his men. Judd tries to kiss Helen. She starts the car and Clyde is lassoed and dragged out by Judd, who jumps into the car as it starts.

The Pearson party leaves on a camping trip with Ted in charge. Pearson is kidnapped by Judd and his men, but Ted rescues him after a stiff fight. Helen and Ted fall in love. Clyde, jealous, warns Pearson against Ted, saying he is just an ignorant coward.

A party is arranged at Cedar Pine Lodge and Ted is invited by Pearson, who hopes he will appear ridiculous among people of fashion. Ted appears in faultless evening clothes. While the party is progressing Judd and his men hold up the place. They steal the contents of a safe, but Ted pursues Judd and captures him. Then Ted takes Helen in his arms.

BIG BOY PROFIT!



No other personality in short subjects has anywhere near the drawing power of

Snookums

The BOX OFFICE BABY

in

"The NEWLYWEDS and their BABY"

adapted from the famous cartoon series by George McManus

JUNIOR JEWEL Productions

and these
STERN BROTHERS
Comedies

BUSTER BROWN COMEDIES
from the celebrated cartoon series by R. F. Outcalt

MIKE and IKE
Rube Goldberg's funny look alike lads in the flesh

LET GEORGE DO IT
Another famous comic from the pen of George McManus

Released by UNIVERSAL

Honor Roll

Thousands of Exhibitors add their names to CAR

CALIFORNIA

Exhibitor	Theatre	Town
Sam Pouros	Rex	Bakersfield
Earl Sinks	Iris	Hollywood
J. W. Finkler	Lyric	Monrovia
Wm. A. Craig	Red Lantern	Brea
Jed Buell, Div. Mgr.	Universal Chain Theatres	Fullerton
W. H. Lusher	Mission	Fullerton
Ben Mohi	Link	Belvedere Gardens
Jos. C. Gonyea	Garfield	Alhambra
Claude G. Davis	Dreamland	Los Angeles
Nick Turner	West Coast Theatres	San Francisco
R. L. Marks	Acme	San Francisco
Harry C. Seipel	Arkush Circuit	San Francisco
H. V. Harvey	Pajaro Theatre	Watsonville
C. V. Taylor	California & Mystic	Petaluma
F. L. Pratt	Cameo	San Francisco
A. C. Karski	Grand Lake	Oakland
L. G. Beckman	Maritime Film Service	San Francisco & Seattle
R. O. Schmidtt	U. S. Army Motion Picture Service	Seattle
Irwin C. Levy	Century Theatre	Oakland
G. Papas	Vernon Theatre	Los Angeles
John G. Tully	Elite Theatre	Los Angeles
Carl W. Young	California & Cosmo	Glendale
Manuel Stanton	Lomita	Lomita
R. J. Goldberg	Brentwood	Brentwood Hgts.
L. R. Matthews	La Paloma	Encinitas
Geo. A. Harrison	Ambassador	Los Angeles
William Martin	Hemet	Hemet
Foster Jackson	California	Corona
J. W. Bace	Ford City	Taft

CONNECTICUT

Mr. Herschel, Gen. Mgr. of Fox New England Theatres	Fox Poli	Bridgeport
	Fox Majestic	Bridgeport
	Fox Glove	Bridgeport
	Fox Poli	New Haven
	Fox Bijou	New Haven
	Fox Palace	Meriden
	Fox Palace	Waterbury
	Fox Poli	Hartford
	Fox Palace	Hartford
	Fox Palace	Springfield
E. D. Raffile	Globe	New Haven

GEORGIA

Geo. M. Coleman	Lyric	Ft. Gaines
Frank Harris	West End-Palace	Atlanta
Frank Harris	DeKalb-Tenth St.	Atlanta
T. F. Thompson	Palace	Cedartown
J. M. Young	Lakewood Heights	Atlanta
M. W. Smith, Jr.	Mildred	Barnesville
Paul Stancil	Lyric	Jackson
A. P. Warrenfells	Palace	LaFayette
R. C. Shields	Liberty	Chickamauga
Chas. E. Bell	Trion	Trion
W. E. Griffin	Y. M. C. A.	Manchester
I. P. Allen	Alamo No. 1	Atlanta
J. C. H. Wink	Crescent	Dalton
A. C. Rudd	Fairfax	East Point
J. G. Wells	Roxy	Anniston
J. A. Jeffers	Roxy	Anniston
W. D. Swint	Ponce de Leon	Atlanta
Willis J. Davis	Ponce de Leon	Atlanta

ILLINOIS

E. G. Klie	Columbia	E. St. Louis
Herman Steinberg	Madison	Madison
F. L. O'Neill	QQuincy	Quincy
J. C. Miller	Colonial	Quincy
T. W. Vollmer	Family and Princess	Quincy
Mrs. Ross Denney	Bijou	Carrollton
E. B. Rea	Palace	Valier
P. L. Curran	Star	Coella
P. L. Curran	Cozy	Buckner
John Marlow	Hippodrome	Herrin
John Marlow	Hippodrome	Murphysboro
John Marlow	Lyric	Carterville
Sam Inger	Royal	Royalton
H. C. Henderson	Nox	Carrier Mills
Ivy Marberry	Cozy	Vienna
N. W. Wilson	Karnak	Karnak
E. E. Morris	Riverside	Brookport
Horton & Mitchell	Majestic	Albion
Sheldon E. Kempton	E. A. R.	Chicago
Vincent T. Lynch	Lynch Theatre	Chicago

INDIANA

Exhibitor	Theatre	Town
W. L. Snapp	Realart	Oaktown
Wm. Tongate	Star	Carlisle
Jas. C. Gabbert	Grandview	Grandview
L. N. Savage	Alhambra	Rockport
H. J. Smith	Star	Dale
Victor J. Hayes	Grand	Union City
T. T. Briscoe	Princess	Elwood
Robert Hudson	Hudson	Richmond
Irving Tamler	Tuxedo	Indianapolis
C. A. Kelso	Kelso	Orland
G. G. Shavar	Premier	Valparaiso
Julis Fador	Indiana	So. Bend
Wm. Cash	Broadway	Indiana Hbr.
M. Hankinson	Palace	Gary

IOWA

H. S. Corder	Union Opera House	Cincinnati
F. G. Stearns	Auditorium	Corydon
Michael & Waller	Strand	Leon
John Waller	Lyric	Osceola
E. P. Hossack	Lyric	Pella
C. R. Coons	Strand	Seymour
J. H. Whitley	Home	Allerton
Lowman & Parr	Pastime	Weldon
J. F. Cass	Cass Opera House	Sumner
W. A. Dutton	Plaza	Manchester
A. V. Lippert	Plaza	Dyersville
B. G. Tyler	Pastime	La Porte City
L. A. McCallum	New Strand	Edgewood
John Elman	Amuzu	Des Moines
L. F. Walcott	Grand	Eldora

KANSAS

Ernest E. Sprague	Sherman	Goodland
C. M. Patee	Patee	Lawrence
W. B. Koch	Crooks	Howard
E. A. Morris	DeLuxe	Moline
C. R. Gregg	Liberty	Caney
Geo. H. Koch	Gem	Lyndon
M. D. Frazier	Empress	Arma
H. H. Daniels	Reel	Oswego

LOUISIANA

G. S. Whiteman	Palace	Farmerville
T. Newell	Gaiety	Monroe
Sam Piro	Liberty	Mangham
W. A. Gilpin	Richelieu	Tallulah
Gasper Bruno	Blackman	St. Joseph
Morris Meltz	Melz-Arcade	Ferriday
S. Y. Pipes,	Jackson	Jackson
Mrs. F. Bourque	Bourque	Gonzales
T. T. Castleman	Castleman	Waterproof
W. Thomas	Caldwell Amuse. Co.	Clarks
E. A. Antony	Ideal	Ponchatoula
W. B. Fordyce	Little	Selma
J. Paternostro	Fordoche	Fordoche
E. M. Gordon	Gem	West wego
A. J. Bethancourt	Grand	Houma
E. J. Thomassie	Beverly	Kenner
C. Thomassie	Victory	Harvey
E. M. Thomassie	Hollywood	Gretna
J. J. Rebstock	Golden Meadow	Golden Meadow

MICHIGAN

John Tatu	Hazel Park	Detroit
Joe Miskinis	Fort Grand	Detroit
E. A. Thurman	La Veeda	Detroit
Frank Yoshonis	Mt. Elliott	Detroit
B. Jaffee	Odeon	Detroit
George Flucksa	Cameo	Detroit
Andrew Bzovi	Ecorse	Ecorse
Joseph Stoia	Fordson	Detroit
Joe Cosco	Harper	Detroit
	also Jefferson	Detroit
J. C. Sellers	Willis	Detroit
	also Dunbar & Arcade	Detroit
Louis A. Chapotan	Empress	Detroit
A. Ruttenberg	Oliver	Detroit
	also Iris	Detroit
Chas. A. Komer	Home	Detroit
Carl & Nat Kaufman	Cozy	Detroit
Harry Oppenheim	Baker	Detroit
	also Theatorium	Detroit
Louis Kimmell	Royal	Detroit
	Royal Oak	Detroit
	also Ferndale	Ferndale
	West End	Detroit

Honor Roll

AEMMLE'S Twenty-Third Anniversary Testimonials

MINNESOTA

Exhibitor	Theatre	Town
Guy D. Thonne	New	Sandstone
Trio Amusement Co.	....
P. M. Paulson	....	White Hall
Harry A. Rolbiecki	Broadway	Winona
E. T. McCarthy	Orpheum	Pergus Falls
V. S. McCarthy	New Eagle	Montvideo
Frederick & Schrieber	Grand	Breckenridge
H. D. Townsend	Hippodrome	Choko
B. J. Benfield	Strand & Orpheum	Morris
John DeMarce	Viking	Benson
John C. McNellis	Grand	DeGraff
M. H. Carey	Dreamland	Willmar
V. E. Shofer	Community Hall	Finleyson

MISSOURI

Louis Charninsky	Pantages	Kansas City
Hugh Finnegan	Kings	St. Louis
Geo. Bowser	Capitol	St. Louis
L. Schlesinger	St. Louis Amuse. Co.	St. Louis
Geo. Nichols	Granada	St. Louis
Bess Schulter	Columbia	St. Louis
W. J. Walsh	Shenandoah	St. Louis
Messrs. Connaughton & Whalen	Liberty	Old Monroe
J. Dozier Stone	Missouri	Columbia
W. DeFrenne	Liberty	Mexico
Jesse C. Huckstep	Huckstep	Bowling Green

NEW YORK

Lew Fischer	New	Hoosick Falls
Felix Perry	Cambridge	Cambridge
Mrs. M. Fischer	Bradley O. H.	Fort Edward
Dayton LaPoint	Crandell	Chatham
E. H. McIntyre	Grange	Copake
W. D. Cheney	Newton Falls	Newton Falls
Max Fogel	Webster	Rochester
W. Calihan	Eastman	Rochester
A. A. Fennyvessy	Strand & Family	Rochester
Thomas D. Soriero	Rochester	Rochester

OHIO

Michael Hudack	Iris	Cleveland
Henry Greenberger	Commodore	Cleveland
Leo Greenberger	Strand	Cleveland
L. P. Stinchcomb	Ridge	Cleveland
Dave Polster	Lyric	Cleveland
J. E. Scoville	Ezella	Cleveland
Chas. Pelcnik	Maple Hghts.	Maple Hghts.
Frank Mattox	Kitz	Mansfield
Wilbus S. Eikard	Opera House	Ashland
T. Simmons	Allen	Akron
Chas. Menches	Liberty	Akron
Andrew J. Masters	Columbus	Lowellville
Stanley Kartisek	Washington Park	Cleveland
Simon Silverman	Windemeer	Cleveland

OREGON

Art Lodahl	Beaver	Beaverton
J. D. Meyers	LaGrande Thea., Inc.	LaGrande
N. G. Olson	Bungalow	North Powder
N. G. Olson	Twilight	Haines
Mrs. Myrtle Buckmiller	Baker Theatres, Inc.	Baker
T. C. McElroy	Rex	Vale
Geo. W. Gould	Majestic	Dallas
W. B. Kenworthy	Kenworthy Thea. Co.	Albany
R. Kuhn	Kuhn	Lebanon
Partridge & Gilham	Coliseum	Tillamook

PENNSYLVANIA

Joseph Gellman	Liberty	Duquesne
	Merlin	Duquesne
	Washington	Swissvale
Al Weiss	Liberty	McKeesport
H. L. Barnhart	Palace	Charleroi
Geo. W. Laskey	Plaza	Brownsville
C. A. Wagner	Paramount	Connellsville
	Soisson	Connellsville
Joseph Bell	Bell	Fayette City
Theo. Mikalowsky	Rex	Masontown
E. O. Davis Sr.	Davis	Greensboro
Chas. Johns	Grand	Republic
Beedle Bros.	Alhambra	Cannonsburg
Henry Mankinen	Home	Daisytown
John Oghietti	Cosmorama	Leechburg

SOUTH DAKOTA

Exhibitor	Theatre	Town
Philip L. March	Coyote	Vermillion
H. G. Gerber	Rialto	Worthing
Cora E. Arnold	Star	Flandreau
K. S. Cummings	Opera House	White
James Leslie	Idle Hour	Clark
D. Geise	Movie	Doland
E. W. McFarlane	Cosy	Groton
Gjerde & Olson	Akron	Langford
W. A. Peterson	Scenic	Mt. Vernon
M. L. Marshall	Strand	Bridgewater
E. H. Halverson	Strand	Bridgewater
J. J. Nelson	Bentley-Grand	Milbank

TEXAS

B. P. Clark	Clark's	Mankins
G. W Belcher	Pickwick	Iowa Park
Geo. P. Simmons	Bellevue	Bellevue
P. S. Stallings	Majestic	Bowie
E. W. Blythe	Majestic	Decatur
Mrs. J. W. Curley	National	Bridgeport
Pete Blackshear	Queen	Aspermont
C .A. Worthington	Opera House	Jacksboro
R. A. Greenwade	Rochester	Rochester
Burt King	Stamford Amus. Co.	Stamford
M. W. Laramour	National	Graham
B. S. Ferguson	Mutual	Hamlin
Lance Davis	Majestic-Ritz	Rottan
Hal C. Farley	Roby	Roby
J. R. Bailey	Millstone	Nocona

UTAH

Earl Smith	Tower	Salt Lake City
Ernst Pappas	Diana	Salt Lake City

WISCONSIN

Morgan C. Ames	Venetian	Milwaukee
S. A. Gross	Downer	Milwaukee
L. L. Netzer	American Legion	Lena
W. F. Albers	Community	Coleman
W. J. Luth	Alamo	Pembine
James J. Boden	Grand	So. Milwaukee
Earl Rice	Egyptian	Milwaukee
Dan Kelliher	Sprague	Elkhorn
Walter A. Schoen	Arcade	Milwaukee
Fred. C. Seegert	Regent	Milwaukee
W. Krusienski	Douglas	Racine
Steve Dorece	Crown	Racine
George Beyer	Comet	Milwaukee
Edw. P. Zimmerman	Rainbow	Milwaukee
Clarence Eschenberg	Capitol & Allis	West Allis

QUEBEC (CANADA)

T. Walton	National	Toronto, Ont.
Hammont & Tuppling	Elgin	Port Elgin, Ont.
A .L. Maxwell	Model	Goderich, Ont.
J. C. McKenzie	Princess	Seaforth, Ont.
W. S. Anderson	U-Kum	Kincardine, Ont.
R. H. McLean	Columbia	St. Thomas, Ont.
C. Hirsch	Princess	St. Thomas, Ont.
Samuel Collis	Dreamland	Barrie, Ont.
Arthur Bugg	Model	Midland, Ont.
Arthur Winn	Palace	Newmarket, Ont.
Capt. T. E. Hyland	Regent	Campbellford, Ont.
F. A. Sprentall	Stirling	Stirling, Ont.
J. C. McCarthy	Belle	Belleville, Ont.
H. B. We ler	House of Hits	Trenton, Ont.
C. T. Ross	Royal	Bowmanville, Ont.
E. Marks	New Martin	Oshawa, Ont.
S. A. Morros	King's Theatre	(St. James) Winnipeg, Man.
C. V. Lee	Memorial Bldg.	Keewatin, Ont.
Hugh Colish	Beausejour Theatre	Beausejour, Man.
I. Singerman	Passe Temps	Joliette
J. A. Lapolince	Auditorium	Shawinigan Falls
P. Mercier	Electra	Montreal
Peter Viotti	Rex	Montreal
A. Capandrites	Cameo	Montreal
Louis Boisvert	Capitol	St. Johns
A. Bourget	Bourget	Montreal
A. Berardo	Broadway	Montreal
Harry Heller	Majectic	Montreal
Geo. Gladianos	Midway	Montreal
Miss Jeanette Pohlam	Royal	East Angus

Universal Posters Talk for Themselves—and YOU!

Universal accessories need no salesmen, other than to convince you that it pays big dividends to advertise! Take a look at the showman's press book on COHENS AND KELLYS IN ATLANTIC CITY. You'll admit it's there, a thousand and one ways. Written by showmen for showmen, it contains everything.

Notice the marvelous array of advertising accessories. See for yourself what Universal is doing to help you advertise, WHETHER YOU ARE A "SILENT" THEATRE OR EQUIPPED FOR "SOUND."

The 24 Sheet on the bottom is an example of what you can expect from Universal. One style is devoted to advertising "sound" runs—and, man, it speaks your language with gusto.

ORDER YOUR ACCESSORIES EARLY—AND DON'T STINT! THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN STINTING AND SPENDING MAY MEAN THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN TURNAWAY BUSINESS AND JUST REGULAR BUSINESS

This is one of the two styles of twenty-four sheets

Legitimate 'Broadway' Star Sees Play Being Filmed

ELIZABETH ALLEN, the actress who played the legitimate stage role of "Billie," the leading woman in "Broadway," during the latter part of its run in New York, was a visitor this week to the huge Paradise Club set which forms one of the scenes in the motion picture adaptation of the play now being filmed by Universal. Miss Allen was the guest of Merna Kennedy who is playing "Billie" opposite Glenn Tryon in the film. Thomas Jackson and Paul Porcasi, who are playing their original parts in the picture, were delighted to see their former stage companion in California, and by way of celebrating, took her for a ride on the ingenious "camera crane" which was devised by Dr. Paul Fejos, the director, to "cover" the big set in film.

Elizabeth Allen who played the role of "Billie" in New York and Merna Kennedy who plays the same role in Universal's "Broadway"

Laura La Plante Has Talkie Voice Insured

BECAUSE the voice of Laura La Plante has proved one of the outstanding talking picture voices in Hollywood, Universal Pictures Corporation has contracted for a $200,000 policy insuring it against injury.

If the star should suffer a total and permanent loss of the ability to "talk clearly and distinctly as now," Universal would receive $200,000, according to the policy, to offset expenditures on whatever starring vehicle might be in production.

A movietone test was made of Miss La Plante's voice in order to preserve the evidence of its present quality. In case of injury the test would show to what degree her voice had changed.

The policy covers loss of voice either through accident or through conditions developing from illness. It will be in effect as long as the star is under contract.

Miss La Plante is now working on the singing and dialogue sequences of "Show Boat" under direction of Harry Pollard.

Following the completion of "Show Boat" she will do talking scenes for "Scandal," a Wesley Ruggles production.

CARL LAEMMLE

Presents

GLENN TRYON

in his newest

GLOOM-SLAYING JEWEL—

IT CAN BE DONE

with

SUE CAROL

story by Mann Page

Two Negatives: 1 silent; 1 with dialog

A FRED NEWMEYER Production

[TELEGRAM]

Man Who Laughs Enthusiastically Received Berlin Opening Sold Out House Three Days Advance.

KOHNER

OTIS HARLAN'S BIG YEAR

(Continued from page 11)

years ago. In those days, Harlan was a romantic leading man. It was shortly after he had left Kenyon College in Gambier, Ohio, his home state, that Harlan met Charles H. Hoyt who induced him to enter his company. So successful did he prove as an actor that at the end of the first year Hoyt wrote a special play for him.

Then followed years of trouping—five times abroad. When Harlan's figure made him unsuitable for juvenile roles and his talents ripened, he became a character actor, playing with Weber and Fields, Anna Held and Elsie Janis. He began his screen career in 1920 and has played much of that time on the Universal lot.

So successful have his screen characterizations been that Universal has just renewed Harlan's contract for an indefinitely long term.

FILM FOLLOWS FASHION FOR PALM BEACH OPENING

(Continued from page 8)

the Barge" is a story of the Erie Canal and was made by Edward Sloman almost entirely in and around the Champlain Canal city of Whitehall. There, in spite of twenty days of rain, Mayor Woodard and citizens of this town gave such earnest assistance that the picture is truly an epic of barge canal life.

Years ago, New York was startled by a national opening on the Bowery. This was for a picture called "Fools Highway," an adaptation of Owen Kildare's "My Mamie Rose," and was held in Atlantic Gardens, the moving picture successor to the street's most famous place of entertainment, with Mayor Walker making the address of welcome. It gave just the proper zest to the launching of this Mary Philbin picture.

UNIVERSAL MAKING RAPID STRIDES IN SOUND SHORT SUBJECTS FIELD

(Continued from page 20)

in the cast with Rubin. "Little Red Riding Hood" is another of the series soon to be shipped East. The first series will consist of six two-reelers.

The famous Oswald the Lucky Rabbit cartoon comics now are being released in synchronized form and are very popular with audiences, according to reports reaching the Universal sales executives. They are released every other week. "Sick Cylinders," "Hen Fruit," "Hold 'Em, Ozzie," and "Suicide Sheiks" already have been released. "Alpine Antics" and "Lumberjacks" will reach the screen early in April. There will be fifteen synchronized Oswald Comedies this season.

These Oswald the Lucky Rabbit cartoons have proven peculiarly well suited to synchronization as they infuse a hilarious element of utterly inconsequential noise into an already laugh provoking and popular short subject. This type of screen fare makes an excellent antidote for heavy photodrama, and will prove a boon to the exhibitor who needs a light and bright spot on his program.

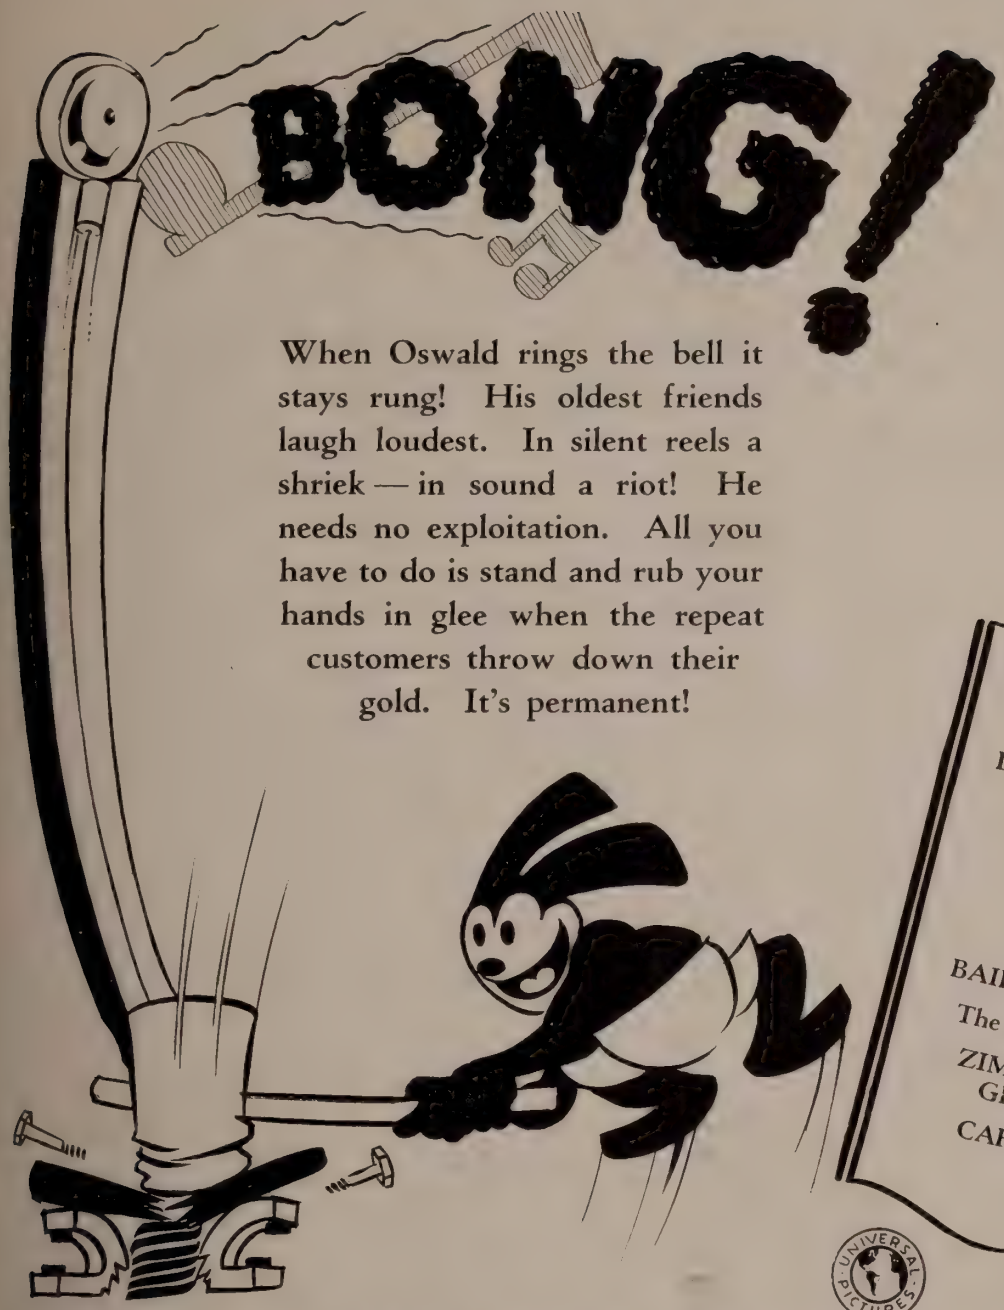
Youth! PeP! Thrills! Laughter!

Carl Laemmle Jr's., two-reel Junior Jewels attract new friends —and keep the old ones coming!!!

THE COLLEGIANS

Starring GEORGE LEWIS with Dorothy Gulliver, Hayden Stevenson, Churchill Ross and Eddie Philips. Directed by Nat Ross.

Fourth Series with Sound and Dialogue—with yells—songs—laughter!



When Oswald rings the bell it stays rung! His oldest friends laugh loudest. In silent reels a shriek — in sound a riot! He needs no exploitation. All you have to do is stand and rub your hands in glee when the repeat customers throw down their gold. It's permanent!

Other one-reel subjects:

LAEMMLE NOVELTIES

HORACE IN HOLLYWOOD

These with singing and dialog

BAILEY and BARNUM

The BROX SISTERS

ZIMMERMAN and GRANDVILLE

CAFE ROYALE

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

OSWALD

The Lucky Rabbit

WINKLER PRODUCTIONS

Universal Shorts are Super Shorts!

NOW more than 3,000,000 circulation

Watch This Column Our Weekly Chat

Send for your copy of Universal's booklet containing complete information on our new pictures. It's free.

I BEG to present to the moving-picture world the Universal movie-tone "Show Boat," adapted from Edna Ferber's novel of the lower Mississippi, combining the musical hits of Florenz Ziegfeld's incomparable stage-production by Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein 2nd, as well as original stars of the stage version and the Ziegfeld plantation singers. This, I consider to be the most important coalition of screen and stage geniuses ever effected, led by Laura La Plante as "Magnolia," Joseph Schildkraut as "Ravenal," Alma Rubens as "Julie" and Otis Harlan as "Captain Hawks." In all sincerity I recommend this picture as one of the most absorbing of many years. Please take my word for it.

—C. L.

* * *

The story of "Show Boat" is unique and rich in unusual characters, in drama and in bizarre settings. It deals with the great legend of the Mississippi River in all of its colorful aspects during the days when show boats, great floating theatres, peopled with men and women as picturesque as the river itself, steamed up and down the great waterway, bringing romance to the barren lives of those who lived in the quaint river towns along the banks.

Florenz Ziegfeld
World's Greatest Stage Producer

The combined entertainment resources of Florenz Ziegfeld and Universal are thrown together in a way to stagger the imagination of showmen all over the world.

Edna Ferber's master-story, one of the best sellers of modern times, is the basis of this glittering production. The vital forces which throbbed in her book are made to throb in the picture.

Edna Ferber
Author of "Show Boat"

Jerome Kern's delicious music—the same music which has tickled the appreciative ear of the world since Ziegfeld produced his stage version of "Show Boat"—is fully as delicious in the picture.

The fetching lyrics of Oscar Hammerstein 2nd, on the lips of everybody the world over—are just as catchy in the picture as on the stage.

Helen Morgan's singing—that [illegible] unique and breath-taking delivery [illegible] all this is in the picture and fully

Three million circulation—

Fifteen million readers!

Think what this means to you. . . .

No matter where you live, one out of five of your possible patrons follows this intimate column in the Saturday Evening Post. When you advertise a Universal Picture your local announcement is received by a pre-sold multitude. Play to this immense audience and enjoy increased receipts.

The column on the left appears in "The Saturday Evening Post" of March 16, 1929.

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

Vol. 29. No. 10 April 13, 1929

Laura La Plante and Joseph Schildkraut

AS

THE MAGNOLIA AND THE RAVENAL IN

THE GREATEST SHOW IN THE WORLD TODAY, UNIVERSAL'S

"SHOW BOAT"

SUPER-SHORTS in SOUND

Carl Laemmle Jr.'s

The Collegians

At last they're here! "The Collegians" in DIALOG and SONG! Soft voices of love—crisp college chatter bubbling with whoopee! The shrill whistle—the mad rush for the ball—the grandstand ringing with cheers! At last they're here—LIVING on your screen—the greatest audience REPEATERS in the world!

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

Other Sound Shorts:

OSWALD

The Lucky Rabbit

has them LAUGHING IN ADVANCE every time his name is flashed on the screen. They JUST KNOW he's going to be a riot!

2 Negatives: 1 silent, 1 with sound.

CAFE ROYALE

A night club bursts forth in song. Some great girlie numbers and plenty of laughter.

The BROX SISTERS

Harmonizing trio extraordinary. Big house stuff.

BAILEY and BARNUM

Headliner blackface singing and entertaining act. Booking big.

ZIMMERMAN and GRANDVILLE

Unique, delightful Swiss yodlers. Exclusively Universal.

IT'S IN THE AIR!-
IT'S EVERYWHERE!

SHOW BOAT

HOT!!!

No. 631—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

THE talkies have hit "The Collegians."

And oh, what a hit, my countrymen!

Youth—and everything that goes with it—red hot youth—bubbling, witty, silly, funny, wise-cracking, noisy, heedless, rollicking, boisterous youth of the sort that will turn back your mental clock to your own kidhood days!

Beauty—gobs of it! The flaming beauty of youth!

The first picture of the fourth series of "The Collegians" is packed with the things which keep the movies on the move, and it doesn't matter much what feature you are playing, this two-reeler will take the play right away from it on any program you happen to show.

Supervised under the youthful but show-wise eyes of Carl Laemmle, Jr., and directed by the ardent and youthful Nat Ross, with a cast headed by the youthful George Lewis, Eddie Phillips, Dorothy Gulliver and Churchill Ross—you can see that this production is aimed frankly and squarely at the youth of the world—the folks who keep movie theatres alive and prosperous.

If you have had some of the previous pictures of "The Collegians" in their silent versions, just imagine what additional kick your audiences will get from a talkie version—with smart, fast, snappy dialogue and all the other ungodly noises which are continually breaking forth from the lips of college boys and girls.

The talkie version of "The Collegians" is the freshest, crispest and hottest stuff you have ever had on your screen.

It starts with a bang and never lets down for an instant. There is enough action crammed into it to make a feature of it, but it is all condensed into two reels.

If you want something that will lift your show and your audience right up to the very height of pure entertainment, get the talkie versions of "The Collegians" and cut loose with your advance advertising.

Did I say "HOT"? I'll say I did!

The newest Cohen-Kelly is the funniest Cohen-Kelly

The COHENS

IN ATLANTIC CIT

Starring

GEORGE SIDNEY

with VERA GORDON, Mack Swain, Kate Price

A WILLIAM JAMES CRAFT Production

One of the BIG 6 Laemmle Sp

Breaking Laugh Records and Cash Records from Coast to Coast!

Variety reports:

Pittsburgh—Stanley Theatre: "COHENS AND KELLYS A STAND-OUT!"

Baltimore—Keith's Theatre: "BUSINESS WAY UP!"

Tacoma—Pantages Theatre: "DID A BIG $7,700!"

Buffalo—Lafayette Theatre: "$25,000. WOW FOR THIS HOUSE!"

Portland (Ore.)—Pantages Theatre: "SENT PANTAGES WAY OUT IN FRONT WITH $17,000!"

Seattle—Pantages Theatre: "LAUGH MAKER AND GOOD DRAW!"

Washington, D. C.—Earl Theatre: "TIED THE CAN TO THE EVERY-WEEK $14,000 AND GARNERED CLOSE TO $18,000!"

TALKING (Two distinct versions) or SILENT

nd KELLYS

and these other Laemmle Specials—

The LAST WARNING

With LAURA LA PLANTE, Montague Love, Roy D'Arcy, Margaret Livingston, John Boles, Bert Roach. Produced under the personal supervision of CARL LAEMMLE, Jr. From the novel by Wadsworth Camp and Thomas F. Fallon's Broadway stage hit.

2 Negatives: 1 silent, 1 with dialog.

A PAUL LENI Production

THE MICHIGAN KID

Bigger than "The Storm," the great box-office winner. CONRAD NAGEL and RENEE ADOREE with Lloyd Whitlock, Adolph Milar, Virginia Grey. From the popular story by Rex Beach.

An IRVIN VILLAT Production

The FOREIGN LEGION

Starring NORMAN KERRY and LEWIS STONE with Mary Nolan, June Marlowe and others

From the I. A. R. Wylie novel, "The Red Mirage."

An EDWARD SLOMAN Production

GIVE and TAKE

Starring GEORGE SIDNEY and JEAN HERSHOLT with George Lewis and Sharon Lynn. From the Broadway stage success by Aaron Hoffman.

2 Negatives: 1 silent, 1 with dialog.

A WILLIAM BEAUDINE Production

The GIRL on the BARGE

With JEAN HERSHOLT, Sally O'Neil, Malcolm MacGregor. From the Cosmolitan Magazine story by Rupert Hughes.

2 Negatives: 1 silent, 1 with dialog.

An EDWARD SLOMAN Production

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

cials!

Carl Laemmle presents

COLLEG

Carl Laemmle Jr.'s first college talking feature...with the original "Collegians" cast in all their glory... Sporting—speedy—jazz-excited youth... dialog jingling with laughs... ringing songs of the campus (by the University of California Glee Club). The boys and girls are all there—George Lewis, Dorothy Gulliver, Eddie Phillips, Churchill Ross. Directed by Nat Ross.

100 percent talking and singing

E LOVE

UNIVERSAL'S SURPRISE
SPECIAL

. . . a million percent box=office!

The
UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick — Editor

PUBLISHED BY THE
— MOTION PICTURE WEEKLY PUBLISHING COMPANY — HECKSCHER BUILDING —
730-5TH AVE. — NEW YORK CITY
Copyright 1929 · UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION All Rights Reserved

Vol. XXIX APRIL 13, 1929 No. 10

UNIVERSAL MOVIEGRAMS

MARY NOLAN returns to Universal City at the end of this week to play with Eddie Leonard in his first Universal production, "Harmony Lane." The only other player so far announced is little Jane La Verne, whose work in "Show Boat" is of a sensational nature. Robert F. Hill will direct "Harmony Lane," which is adapted by J. G. Hawks from Jo Swirling's story, "The Understander."

AS soon as she finishes in her role in "You Can't Buy Love," with Jean Hersholt, Charlie Chase and Edwin Martindale, under the direction of A. B. Heath, Kathryn Crawford will begin the greatly coveted role in "The Climax" by Edward Locke. This famous stage play, so peculiarly adapted to modern Movietoning treatment, will start this week under the direction of Renaud Hoffman. Others in the cast beside Miss Crawford are Jean Hersholt, Henry Armatti and John Reinhart.

FROM all over the United States are coming orders for tickets at the gala opening of "Show Boat" at the Globe Theatre, New York, on April 17th. In the parlance of the moving picture industry, the "wise" amusement seekers have agreed that "Show Boat" is the film of 1929.

TWO Universal City directors are this week receiving the reward of their meritorious services to Universal. They are William Wyler and William James Craft. Mr. Wyler's conspicuous work in "Anybody Here Seen Kelly" and "The Shakedown" has earned him the appointment as director for Laura La Plante in "Evidence" by E. J. Montagne; Craft's clever handling of Glenn Tryon and "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City" has resulted in his handling the megaphone for Reginald Denny in "Companionate Troubles."

"Show Boat" Musical Score Sets New Movietone Standard

Though the Haunting, Descriptive Melodies of Jerome Kern, as Popularized for a Year at the Famous Florenz Ziegfeld Theatre, in New York, Form the Principal Musical Background in Joseph Cherniavsky's Remarkable Score for Carl Laemmle's Greatest Production, the Music He Has Compiled and Arranged Forms Remarkable Cross Section of American Music for Last Fifty Years—Use of "Lonesome Road" by Director Harry Pollard Regarded as One of the Most Striking Dramatic Accomplishments Ever Achieved by a Musical Theme in Moving Pictures.

TALKING pictures have forged the final link between the screen, with its vast realm of popular entertainment, and the world of song and music. Now, for the first time, the nation's music is being dramatized. The humor, the pathos, the inspiration and the human interest in popular and standard songs are being visualized in action and in the emotions of real persons portrayed in motion picture stories.

The most striking example of this blending of story and music, of plot and song, is "Show Boat," the talking and singing super screen production made from the widely read novel of that name. The picture, in addition to its dramatic and romantic appeal, provides a veritable anthology of popular American music of the past half-century.

The "Show Boat" music of Jerome Kern is undoubtedly the most characteristic music ever written for a dramatic musical stage entertainment. In most respects it was just as well fitted for the screen production as for the stage production. Joseph Cherniavsky, who wrote this remarkable score, made no mistake therefore in utilizing the Jerome Kern music at every possible opportunity. "Ol' Man River," "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man," "Why Do I Love You?" "Bill," "Make Believe" and "You Are Love" are all used in the corresponding action in the picture.

Helen Morgan, Jules Bledsoe and Aunt Jemima also sing the compositions which made them famous in the moving picture.

Laura La Plante, who, to the astonishment of Universal City officials, disclosed a voice of beautiful timbre and remarkable power, sings "Ol' Man River" and "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man," and all through the picture the soul-filling background of this Ziegfeld music lifts "Show Boat" musically into a class entirely by itself and sets a new standard for screen accompaniment.

One of the most remarkable demands which Director Harry Pollard ever made upon a musical composition is that which is required of the modernly adapted negro spiritual, "Lonesome Road." This is used as the finale of "Show Boat" and actually to bring about a dramatic situation in the picture which plays an astonishingly important part in the film itself. It was Movietoned by Jules Bledsoe.

Another song used as a dramatic element in the action of the moving picture is "Here Comes the Show Boat," which is employed to connect the Ziegfeld part of "Show Boat" with the Universal-Pollard part of it.

(Continued on page 32)

"BROADWAY" LEADS

Thomas Jackson as the detective, Paul Porcasi as Nick Verdi, and Evelyn Brent as Pearl

Leslie Fentor as "Scar" Edwards

Merna Kennedy in the role of Billie resisting the wiles of Steve Crandall, played by Robert Ellis

Glenn Tryon as the hoofer

BELOW: Marian Lord as Lil and Otis Harlan as Porky add high comedy

BELOW: Arthur Hausman makes a convincing rum king's henchman

Can't Get in to See "Show Boat" At Miami, Reports Exhibitor Scout

CLASS OF SERVICE
This is a full-rate Telegram or Cablegram unless its character is indicated by a symbol in the check or in the address.

WESTERN UNION

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT — J. C. WILLEVER, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

SYMBOLS
DLR	Day Letter
NITE	Night Message
NL	Night Letter
LCO	Deferred
CLT	Cable Letter
WLT	Week End Letter

Received at

TELEGRAM

MR EMILE PARENT
3172 CENTRE ST
COCOANUT GROVE
FLORIDA

MARCH 25/29

PLEASE SEE SHOWBOAT NOW PLAYING MIAMI WIRE ME YOUR OPINION REGARDS

M A SHEA

M A SHEA
1540 BROADWAY
NEW YORK CITY

MIAMI FLO
MARCH 25/29

IMPOSSIBLE TO GET IN TO SEE SHOWBOAT BUT EVERYONE SAYS MARVELOUS PICTURE REGARDS

EMILE PARENT

THE experience of Mort Shea, prominent New York State and Ohio exhibitor, and his friend in Miami was duplicated by W. C. Quimby, leading exhibitor of Fort Wayne, Ind., who was in Miami during the first week of the "Show Boat" run and who gave up after several attempts to gain admission to the theatre.

"Show Boat" is still going strong in Miami, with a third week practically assured, despite the fact that all tourists have forsaken the Florida resort city. Sydney Singerman, head of Universal's program department, who has just returned from Miami, reports that the box-office line forms shortly after nine o'clock in the morning, in the glaring sun, awaiting advanced box-office opening at ten. A majority of the patrons, he reports, are from outlying towns, who come in by automobile. The word-of-mouth publicity is spreading like wildfire throughout southern Florida.

BROADWAY

OLD MAN LAEMMLE, DAT OLD MAN LAEMMLE

He don't say nothin' (except in the Saturday Evening Post), but he must know sumpin', and it is reported that the knowledge gained from his twenty years' experience in the picture business has gone into the making of "Show Boat," soon to have its world premiere in Florida. Center shot is Helen Morgan, as Julie, singing "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man" for Movietone inclusion in the picture. On the right is one of Glenn Tryon in a scene from "Broadway," the super-talkie which will be released at an early date, and on the left are George Sidney, Mack Swain and a chorus of bathing beauties as they will be seen in "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City."

The above pictorial strip appeared originally in THE NATIONAL EXHIBITOR. Since its publication the smashing premieres of "Show Boat" and "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City" have proved that "Old Man Laemmle" certainly did know sumpin!

"MOVIE'S GRAND OLD MAN"

Thus the Idaho State Journal Heads Carl Laemmle Editorial

MAKING motion pictures for the world's audiences for twenty-three years and winning praise and admiration for the work is the unequalled record which Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Pictures Corporation, has hung up for the other producers to shoot at. It is an enviable record for that little grand old man of the movie industry. He started in producing pictures in 1906. He has plugged right along. He has seen other great concerns rise and fall as the tide. He has seen the stars twinkle and pass into oblivion. But the same high class of entertainment for the Universal's millions of friends has never fallen.

Carl Laemmle has seen the industry grow from its experimental stage of one reel features to light real productions. He has seen the film talk with the synchronization of music and sound from the same picture. He is abreast of the times and is doing his part toward making the Universal pictures talk. "Uncle Carl," as he is affectionately referred to by his employees and associates as well as rivals in the industry, has done much for the motion picture industry in keeping it on the high plane of morality.

While complaint has been registered against plays of the spoken drama as to the lines, declared to be immoral and wicked and not fit for the ears of public decency, Uncle Carl has observed the strictest moral censorship over pictures that bore the "Universal" stamp and the public saw only pictures that were fit to be seen by the family, from the grown-ups to the kiddies. It is a record we admire.

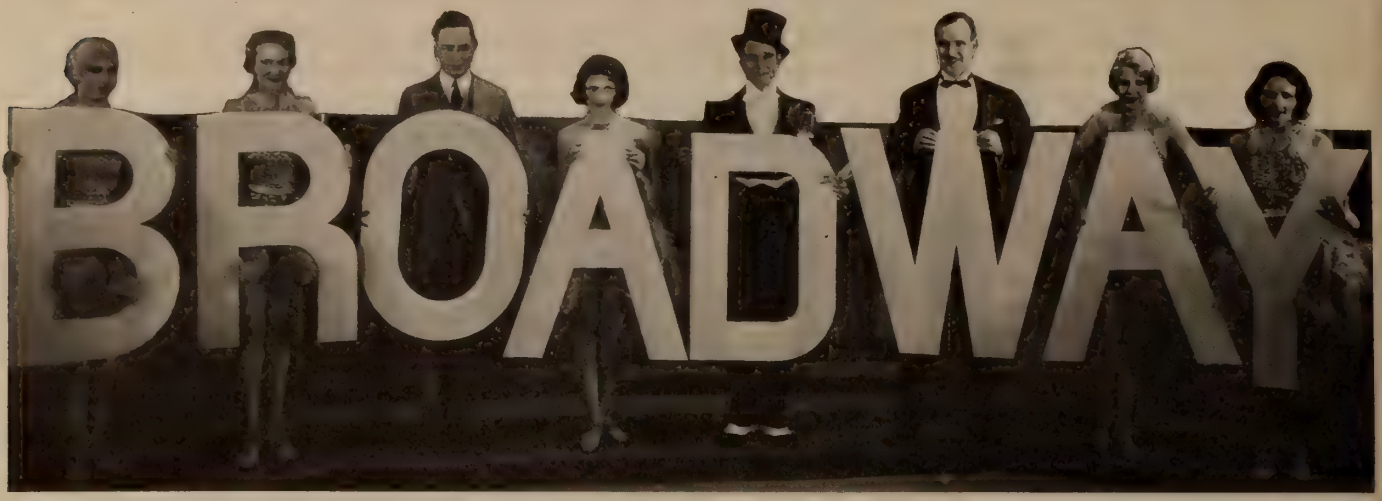
We believe Carl Laemmle is entitled to the praise he is receiving for the record of accomplishments his company is receiving or the twenty-three years of catering to the public in the amusement line.

The Hollywood Picture News Service broadcasts this friendly greeting between Carl Laemmle and Mary Pickford. They are talking over old times when Laemmle gave little Mary a helping hand to success.

Rooney Features Now Completed

COMPLETION of the series of Rooney family features was announced recently by Universal Studios.

The series consists of six-two reel pictures with dialogue. They are comedies of home life of the type made famous by the Sidney Drews.



There aren't enough letters in "Broadway" for all the important members of the cast, but here are Merna Kennedy and Glenn Tryon in the center, with Robert Ellis on the left of Tryon and Thomas Jackson holding the "O." The important players missing are Evelyn Brent, Paul Porcasi, Otis Harlan and Marian Lord.

DR. PAUL FEJOS, WITH "BROADWAY" COMPLETED EN ROUTE TO NEW YORK TO CONFER WITH WHITEMAN IN PREPARATION FOR DIRECTING "KING OF JAZZ"

Edward T. Lowe, Jr., Scenario Expert of "Broadway," Coming With Fejos to Handle Scenario for Paul Whiteman Picture

DR. PAUL FEJOS, Universal directorial wizard, caught a train for New York this week just as soon as he had put the finishing touches on Universal's big new talking super "Broadway," and will arrive East on Friday, for a series of conferences with Paul Whiteman in preparation for "The King of Jazz," Universal's super-jazz and dialogue picture starring the noted orchestra and band leader, which Fejos will direct.

Edward T. Lowe, Jr., who prepared the scenario for "Broadway" and will act in a similar capacity on "The King of Jazz," is coming East with Fejos. The two will be in New York until about the middle of April.

While visiting the Universal home office, Fejos will confer with Universal officials on the forthcoming opening of "Broadway" on Broadway. This premiere will be a sensation, it is promised. Carl Laemmle, Jr., who supervised the production, is ambitious to make it the most spectacular opening Broadway ever had, and in keeping with the great success of the play and the magnitude of the picture, which is rated at slightly under $1,500,000. The drama of the original stage version is just as thrilling in the screen version, and the settings are immeasurably more elaborate. An excellent cast, two members of which played in the legitimate show, assures strong acting. Glenn Tryon plays the hoofer.

"The King of Jazz" will be of epic proportions, it is announced, including in its plot and development a comprehensive pageant of the growth of jazz music in this country, from the cornfield to the classical-jazz age of which Paul Whiteman is the high priest. Ideally suited for sound-film treatment, the production is expected to be the outstanding picture next fall. Added to Whiteman's artistry in melodies and tuneful harmony, will be the exceptional flare Fejos has for bizarre settings, modernistic conceptions and kaleidoscopic camera work. In the "Broadway" settings and scene handling, he has proven himself an unusual interpreter of the jazz age, Universal production heads assert, and is regarded as the perfect choice for the Whiteman picture.

THE KING OF JAZZ

GET YOUR SHARE OF THIS WILDFIRE EXPLOITATION!

The most enterprising newspapers in the country are taking advantage of this big reader interest contest, which means bigger circulation for the paper and PATRON INTEREST for the exhibitor. If your local paper has not yet announced this contest, see the publisher today. He WANTS it!

Super exploitation on the super picture

$2,000 in cash prizes to the public!

Conditions of awards, as approved by the U. S. Post Office, may be obtained upon request — or see previous issues of Universal Weekly.

The MAN WHO LAUGHS

Carl Laemmle's super production from Victor Hugo's famous novel.

Starring

CONRAD VEIDT and MARY PHILBIN

with Olga Baclanova, Brandon Hurst, Sam DeGrasse, Cesare Gravina, Stuart Holmes, George Siegmann.

A PAUL LENI Production

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

SEND FOR THE BIG CAMPAIGN SHEET NOW!

Sound "Collegians" Series Much Snappier Than Silent Says Motion Picture News

THIS "Collegians" is different from and far in advance of the hitherto silent comedies of the same name for it has sound.

Sound demonstrates clearly in this instance how a series can be considerably pepped up, even rejuvenated. Certainly, this subject, togged out as it is with effects and snappy music, possesses more appealing characteristics than its silent predecessors. This one exhibits a snappier tempo, a breezier stride. If the series of new "Collegians," the fourth by the way, holds up to the calibre of this, its first release, then Universal salesmen have a fine line of product to sell exhibitors.

One of the new Collegians series, "Junior Luck," was shot with the Magnificent Half Dome in Yosemite National Park as the background. Snow sports are featured in the film.

With the reopening of school there is resumed that friendly feud between Don (Eddie Phillips) and Ed (George Lewis) over June (Dorothy Gulliver) at the coeducational college of Calford. It doesn't take long before the seniors led by Don, and the juniors led by Ed, are clashing and they bury the hatchet temporarily at the suggestion of the coach (Hayden Stevenson) who asks them to let the push-ball game on the following day decide which of the two classes shall have the privilege of sleeping in the dormitory, the losers to sleep on the roof. When the time for the contest comes around, the juniors are losing as their leader, Ed, and others have been spirited away by the seniors during the night. But they arrive back in time to defeat the seniors and all ends happily for Ed and his friends. Nat Ross directed. The Movietone system is employed and on the occasion of its showing at the Universal projection room the voices were recorded well. The synchronized score is fine.

Raymond Ganly

Collegians Talk in First Feature

CAMPUS life among the beauteous co-eds is going to be heard as well as seen upon the screen, for according to an announcement by Carl Laemmle, Jr., the first feature-length, all-talking college picture has been started at Universal.

The picture, "College Love," is a thrilling story of the gridiron, and will feature an entire football game in which the famous Trojan team defends the honor of old Calford. The yelling of the fans, the rooting of the grandstand, the game itself complete with bands and alumni songs, all are to be in full sound.

The cast is made up of the same screen favorites who have made the "Collegian" two-reelers so popular.

New Administration Building For Universal Studios

CONSTRUCTION of a new administration building was begun today at Universal Studios.

The building, as it is being constructed now, will consist of one story, but it is so planned as to permit of the addition of three more stories when desired.

The building will make for greater centralization of offices at Universal Studios. It is planned to have all offices of directors located in the building eventually.

The administration building will be of the Spanish type of architecture. It will house the offices of Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, Robert Welsh, general manager, and Carl Laemmle, Jr., associate producer.

Mary Nolan Returns To Universal City

MARY NOLAN, called the screen's most exotic blonde, is being brought "home" by Universal to play the lead in "Harmony Lane," now about to go into production with Robert Hill directing.

For the past few weeks Miss Nolan has been making a picture for another studio, but when Carl Laemmle bought the screen rights to "The Understander," upon which "Harmony Lane" is based, he sent out a hurry call for Miss Nolan to come back.

"The Understander" was a play written by Joe Swerling, whose successor to it, "Kibitzer," now is playing to capacity houses on Broadway, New York.

SHOW BOAT days are happy days—

SHOW BOAT days are thrilling days—

SHOW BOAT days are prosperous days—

SHOW BOAT days are here!

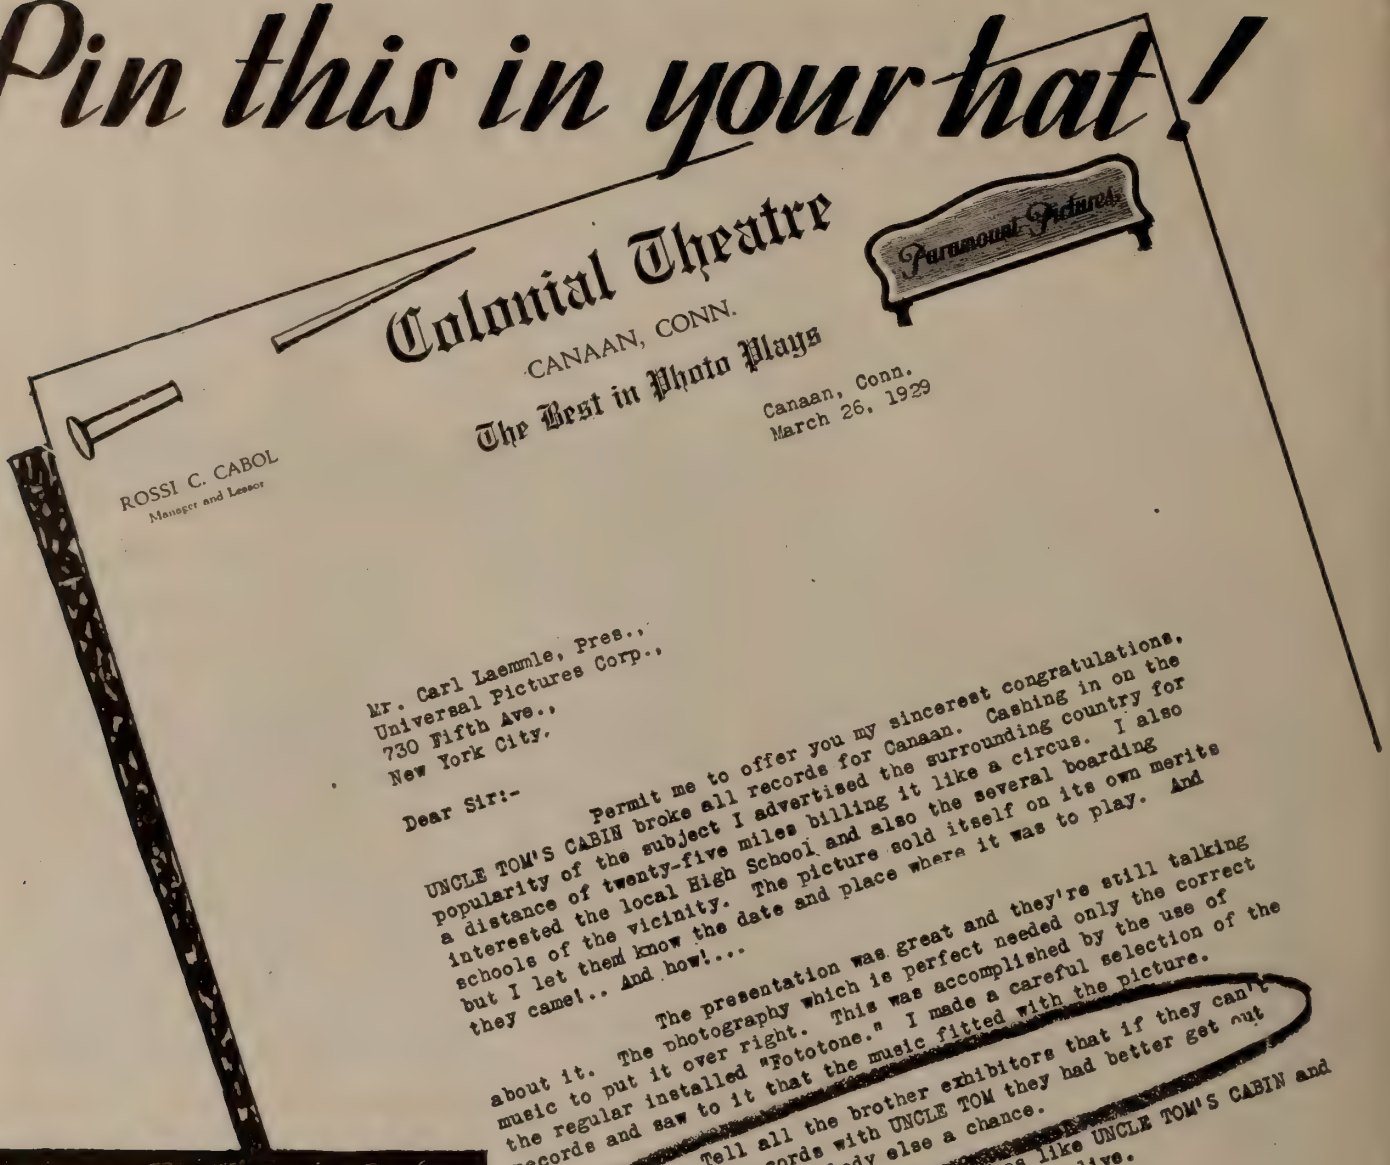
IT'S IN THE AIR!
IT'S EVERYWHERE!

UNIVERSAL

Carl Laemmle's millio
UNIVERSAL PICTURES
There is only ONE
BROA

candle-power picture!
100% Talking and Singing—with original play dialog . .
with
Glenn Tryon, Evelyn Brent,
Merna Kennedy, *T. E. Jackson, Otis Harlan, Robert Ellis, *Paul Porcasi, Leslie Fenton, George Ovey.
from
JED HARRIS' Stage Production of the play by GEO. ABBOT and PHILIP DUNNING
A PAUL FEJOS Production
Associate Producer
CARL LAEMMLE, Jr.
Two Negatives: one SILENT, one with DIALOG
Color Scenes Photographed by Technicolor Process
*of the original play cast
NOTE: The use of the name "Broadway" in association with other film productions is unauthorized and has no connection with this, the original play by that name.
—and UNIVERSAL has it!

Pin this in your hat!



UNCLE TOM'S CABIN

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

CARL LAEMMLE'S

Super-Production. With Marguerita Fischer, Arthur Edmund Carewe, Lucien Littlefield, James Lowe, Virginia Grey, George Siegmann, Adolph Milar, Vivien Oakland, Lassie Lou Ahern, Mona Ray, Aileen Manning.

Two Negatives: 1 Silent, 1 with Sound.

A HARRY POLLARD Production

-- Silent or Sound - Carl Laemmle Leads the Way!!!

CARL LAEMMLE WILL CONTINUE TO PROTECT SILENT EXHIBITORS

Universal's Policy Has Always Been To Give the Exhibitor What He Wants

A RECENT blast in the daily and trade papers about the discontinuance of silent pictures altogether and concentration on sound pictures exclusively has been the occasion for a number of companies to declare themselves again on their stand on this matter.

Universal's stand hasn't changed at all from the one originally adopted by Carl Laemmle, which is, that as long as theatres need silent pictures, Universal will make them.

When exhibitors themselves decide that they don't want any more silent pictures, Universal will stop making them. Universal is in business to give the exhibitor what he wants.

Appreciating that this matter was one in which patrons of moving pictures were just as much interested as exhibitors, Mr. Laemmle, in his Saturday Evening Post advertisement of April 20th, the famous "Watch This Column" advertisement which has appeared in the Post every week for the past five years, will say:

Watch This Column

{ Send for your copy of Universal's booklet containing complete information on our new pictures. It's free. }

A RECENT issue of Film Daily, a leading motion picture Trade Paper, contained an editorial from which I quote the following paragraph:

"Of the approximately 20,000 theaters in the United States, about 1,500 are wired for sound pictures. The industry, riding high on the hysteria wave otherwise known as sound pictures is, of course, reflecting the public demand for this type of entertainment. Against that, there can be no argument. One serious consequence, however, has been the gross neglect facing unwired houses, which total thousands in number and which represent the bread and butter accounts from which distributors will tell you they eke their profits."

Thomas Jackson in "Broadway"

While most of the above statement is true, it is exactly the opposite of true with regard to gross neglect, at least as far as Universal is concerned. We have announced on several occasions that every story we buy is bought with the idea that it will make a good silent picture first of all. After that it is tested as to its qualities as a sound picture. We have followed this policy faithfully and we intend to continue doing so.

Evelyn Brent in "Broadway"

Our leading pictures, "Show Boat" and "Broadway," were produced both as silent and sound pictures. The silent version of each was made complete from start to finish. Afterward a sound version of "Show Boat" was made including the Ziegfeld hits from the stage production of the same story. The same is true of "Broadway" with the original play dialogue and songs and music written especially for this great production.

And right on down the line, the same thing is true of our whole program. Since the sound hysteria hit the industry, we have made only one picture which has no silent version and that was produced in a hurry to help satisfy the crying need of wired houses for talking pictures.

So you see there is no gross neglect, and there will not be any, as far as Universal is concerned.

Paul Porcasi in "Broadway"

This is the Twenty-Third Anniversary of my start in the moving-picture industry and I have received hundreds of letters from exhibitors congratulating me and assuring me that this month they will show more Universal pictures than ever. It is needless to say I am profoundly grateful. Inasmuch as I can't answer all these fine letters I am taking this means to acknowledge them. Thank you—thank you—thank you.

Carl Laemmle, President

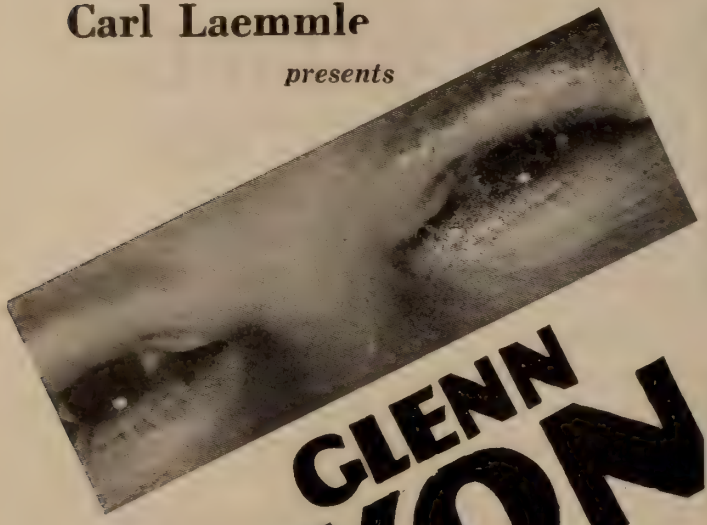
UNIVERSAL PICTURES

"The Home of the Good Film"

730 Fifth Ave., New York City

Carl Laemmle

presents



GLENN TRYON

his gloom slaying Jewel

IT CAN BE DONE

with

SUE CAROL

Story by Mann Page

A FRED NEWMEYER PRODUCTION

TALKING (2 Distinct Versions) SILENT

Universal Now Equipped To Put Sound on Discs

Latest Laemmle Move Does Not Effect Universal's Sound-on-Film Program or the Company's Belief in Sound-on-Film Supremacy

THE Universal sound film plant at Universal City has just been equipped to put Universal's talking picture on discs as well as on film, it is announced at the Universal home office. Carl Laemmle made the decision to put in the disc reproduction installation as the result of an expected demand by disc wired houses for Universal talking pictures. Included in the large number of houses possessing disc installation only are many theatres which long have been loyal Universal accounts. Most of them are owned by theatre men who long have been personal friends and staunch supporters of Laemmle and the Universal organization. The fact he was faced with denying these houses Universal talking pictures had much to do with Laemmle's decision to install for disc reproduction.

In this connection, it is interesting to note that Universal has released eight feature talking pictures since January 1st, and one picture synchronized with music and sound effects. Two talking pictures and two synchronized pictures were released before January 1st. The remainder of the current film season will see the launching of nine more talking pictures in addition to Universal's two super talking productions, "Show Boat" and "Broadway." Also, there are a number of Sound Short Subjects coming out of Universal City, including the synchronized Oswald Cartoon Comedies, the Fourth Collegians series, with dialogue, and a number of individual shorts, all being put out this Spring.

Beginning with the next talking picture release "The Charlatan," due April 14 in sound form, Universal's forthcoming talking pictures are to be "Scandal," "You Can't Buy Love," "One Rainy Night" and "College Love." The actual release dates for "Show Boat" and "Broadway" will not be set for several months to come, although those two pictures will be shown in many situations after their Broadway runs.

Included in the recent Universal talking picture releases, which can also be made available in disc form are "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "The Man Who Laughs," both synchronized for music and sound effects, "The Last Warning," "Man, Woman and Wife," "Lonesome," "Red Hot Speed," "The Girl on the Barge," "Clear the Decks," "The Kid's Clever," "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City" and "It Can Be Done."

It is made plain at the Universal home office that the new Laemmle move does not imply that Universal has receded an iota from its enthusiasm for the sound-on-film method of sound reproduction. Universal believes, it is stated, that sound-on-film is the superior method and that in all probability it will eventually be the only method.

Kathryn Crawford Picked To Star In "The Climax"

KATHRYN CRAWFORD, one of Universal's latest junior stars, is to get a chance at stardom in one of Universal's outstanding pictures for next year. It is "The Climax," from the famous stage success by Edward Locke. The story is built around the dramatic adventures of a young opera singer, and Miss Crawford will play that role.

Jean Hersholt also will be in the cast. Both Miss Crawford and Hersholt are now appearing in another Universal feature, "You Can't Buy Love," under the direction of A. B. Heath, with Charlie Chase and Edwin Martindale in the cast.

If you like crowds--

Drama! Thrills! Mystery!

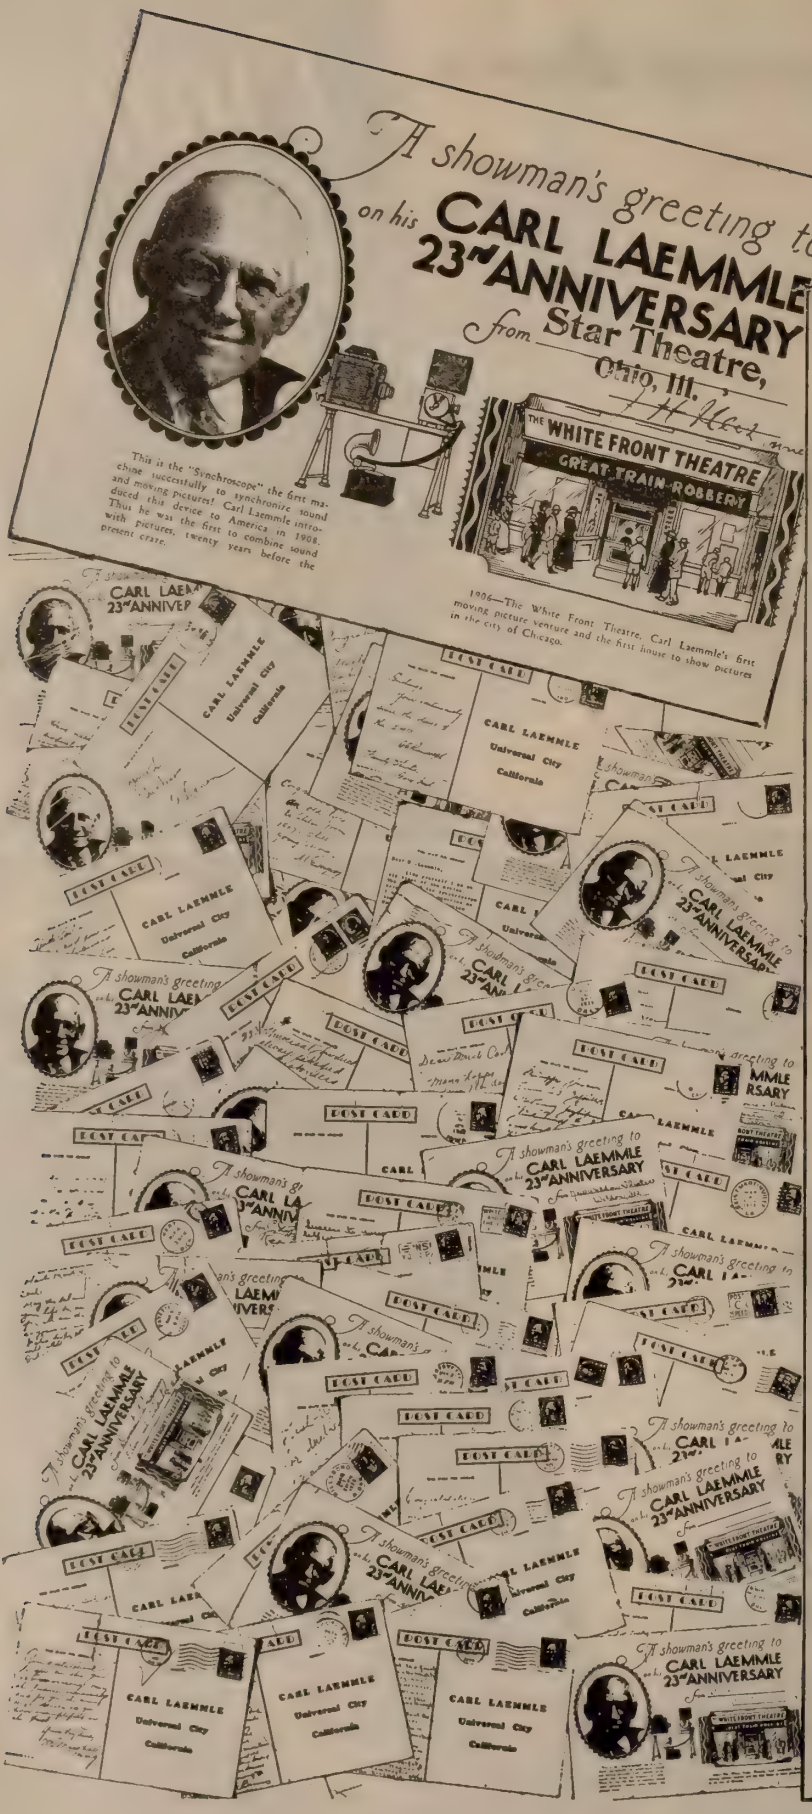
Carl Laemmle presents

George Melford's remarkable movietone picturization of the famous Broadway play by Ernest Pascal and Leonard Praskins . . . with Holmes Herbert, Rockcliffe Fellowes, Margaret Livingston, Fred MacKaye. Supervised by Carl Laemmle, Jr.

The CHARLATAN

TALKING or SILENT
(2 distinct versions)

GR



For what he has done for them and for what he stands for, thousands of exhibitors are thanking Carl Laemmle and congratulating him on his twenty-third Anniversary in the motion picture business.

Have just given your representative nine play dates for your anniversary!—H. C. Dreueg, Hemingford, Neb.

Best wishes for your future productions!—G. Page, St. Raymond, Que., Can.

Keep them coming!—C.W. Smith, Dolores, Col.

Best wishes! Have been using Universal service for sixteen years.—J. L. Anderson, Plankington, S. D.

May your future in the industry be as successful as your past!—W. E. Lees, Jr., Ont., Can.

Have been using your product for years and expect to use them as long as you remain in pictures!—N. E. Leigh, Parnia, Idaho.

May the coming season be the best yet!—A. C. Gordon, Weiser, Idaho.

Congratulations! May your success continue! —M. Buckmiller, Baker, Ore.

Treat the exhibitor as you have in the last twenty-three years and your name will live forever!—T. C. Bishop, Terrace, B. C., Can.

Congratulations from a constant user of Universal pictures!—L. A. Burnstine, Springfield, Ill.

Best wishes for your continued success!—F. J. Deuirk, Sagola, Mich.

I have been using your Complete Service since its inception, and I think it great!—J. H. Neis, Ohio, Ill.

Best wishes for your continued good health and success!—Schindlers Theatre, Chicago, Ill.

Gave your representative six extra dates for your anniversary drive!—F. Laing, Buffalo, Wyo.

Your entertainment has made life happier for millions!—F. Ponton, Kenosha, Wis.

ATITUDE

Good luck and best wishes!—J. Patterson, Lebanon, Ohio.

Best wishes for your twenty-third year in the moving picture business!—S. Parker, Portland, Ore.

Greetings from a 100% Universalite!—J. B. Washtok, Portland, Ore.

Universal is bigger and better every year!—E. Marks, Oshawa, Can.

Greetings to the world's greatest showman!—Capt. G. E. Hyland, Toronto, Can.

Have run Universal films in this house for 13 years!—E. Gruenan, Davenport, Iowa.

We wish you many more years of continued success!—C. T. Bobo. Scottsboro, Ala.

Universal pictures come to us every week and we like them. In variety and price they are unexceled!—F. B. Porter, Downey, Idaho.

Very much pleased with Universal service!—Carl Gritch, Everson, Wash.

It's a pleasure to add my mite to the many good wishes from your friends on this happy occasion!—L. J. Gardner, Frankford, Mo.

A satisfied account for fifteen years sends its congratulations!—Jules Goodman, Balto, Md.

Hearty congratulations!—D. W. Geire, Doland, S. D.

Greetings!—J. H. W. Fenyvessy, Lyndy Theatre, Rochester, N. Y.

ADDRESS

Am forwarding seven dates for your twenty-third anniversary drive!—J.T. Morgan, Gillette, Wyo.

Universal product always satisfies our customers! Keep up the good work!—Regent Theatre, Gahnear Pt., Que., Can.

Universal pictures were the first on my screen and I hope to be always able to see them there!—C. Stafford Carey, Can.

Twenty years and still a Universalite! Best wishes!—D. Paquin, Hull, Can.

Here's hoping you go over the top with your Universal product!—W. L. Couture, Temiskaming, Quebec.

May you enjoy many more years as a producer!—P. Russell, Somerset, L. I.

Wishing you another twenty-three years of prosperity!—L. C. Young, Timberlake, S. D.

Your complete service is great!—O. H. Leary, Ollie, Iowa.

We need you in the business!—keep up the good work—we're for you—T. N. Morris, Am. Falls, Ida.

Wish you many more prosperous years!—C. B. Davis, Norwood, Ohio.

Congratulations and best wishes on your twenty-third anniversary!—C. F. Pfister, Tuoy, Ohio.

Hope you will continue to give the small silent houses your good pictures!—F. N. Harris, Hart, Mich.

Best wishes always!—H. Abram, Lancaster, Ohio.

Have been in show business for fourteen years! Believe "Tarzan the Mighty" and "Collegians" best Saturday program we have shown!—W. Wagner, Nashville, Ill.

Good luck and good wishes!—C. M. Young, Bowling Green, Ohio.

Greatly enjoy your product!—A. Mortensen, Homedale, Idaho.

Congratulations to a real showman!—Geo. O. Laun, St. James, Mo.

Wishing Universal pictures continued prosperity!—Cozy Theatre, Union, Ore.

On my second year of your complete service contract and am greatly pleased!—A. J. Alsuf, Hey worth, Ill.

Kindest regards to the veteran of the industry!—Maginson & Goethke Barberton, Ohio.

Universal first last and always! Best of luck!—O. E. Fontaine, La Tuque, Que.

Keep up the good work you are doing for the small exhibitor!—E. T. Kautz, Moline, Ill.

Universal pictures exemplify your character—always first class!—W. W. Jobson, Cinn, Ohio.

Seven extra dates for your anniversary period have been forwarded to your Denver office!—J. Hughes, Alliance, Neb.

Carl Laemmle presents

HOOT GIBSON in The LARIAT KID

with Blanche Mehaffy

Story by Shannon Fife

Directed by Henry MacRae

A UNIVERSAL GIBSON JEWEL

Detective in "Broadway" Was Once Successful N. Y. Producer

THOMAS JACKSON, now playing in "Broadway" at Universal, was once a successful producer of plays in New York. Among his productions were "Ten Per Cent" and "Gentlemen of the Press."

But it was inevitable that Jackson should return in person to the footlights, for he comes from a distinguished theatrical family. His father, Thomas E. Jackson, Sr., made his debut as far back as 1855.

Jackson, the elder, played with such stars as Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, Edwin Forrest, Ezra Kendall, Nate Salisbury, Maggie Mitchell, Mojeska, and a host of others famous throughout the world in their generation.

Thomas Jackson, the detective in the stage version of "Broadway" who plays the same role in Universal's sound production

In 1910 the elder Jackson retired from the stage, and two years later his son became one of the original members of the cast of "Yellow Jacket" which, at one time, was playing not only in many theatres of the United States, but in at least one theatre in every European country as well.

Jackson's part in the film version of "Broadway" is the same role which he created with the original New York Company, and which he played there for ninety consecutive weeks.

Laura La Plante Chosen To Star in "Evidence"

PRODUCTION plans for Laura La Plante's next starring vehicle have just been announced by Universal Pictures Corporation. The picture is entitled "Evidence" and production is scheduled to start in about two weeks.

William Wyler will direct the picture. This will be the first time he has directed Miss La Plante. The assignment is in the nature of recognition of Wyler's rapid rise in the directorial field. He recently directed "The Shakedown," one of the outstanding pictures of the Universal program.

Laura La Plante scored a remarkable triumph in "Show Boat," Universal's singing and talking hit based on Edna Ferber's best seller and the Ziegfeld musical show. Universal is making every effort to give the blonde star pictures worthy of her ability and unusual care will be lavished upon "Evidence."

The production will have dialogue. It is an original story by E. J. Montagne.

Now you'll know why dialog makes greater entertainment!

The SHAKEDOWN

with BARBARA KENT
and
JAMES MURRAY
Story by
Chas. A. Logue
A
WILLIAM WYLER
Production
Two Negatives:
1 with dialog; 1 silent
Presented by
CARL LAEMMLE

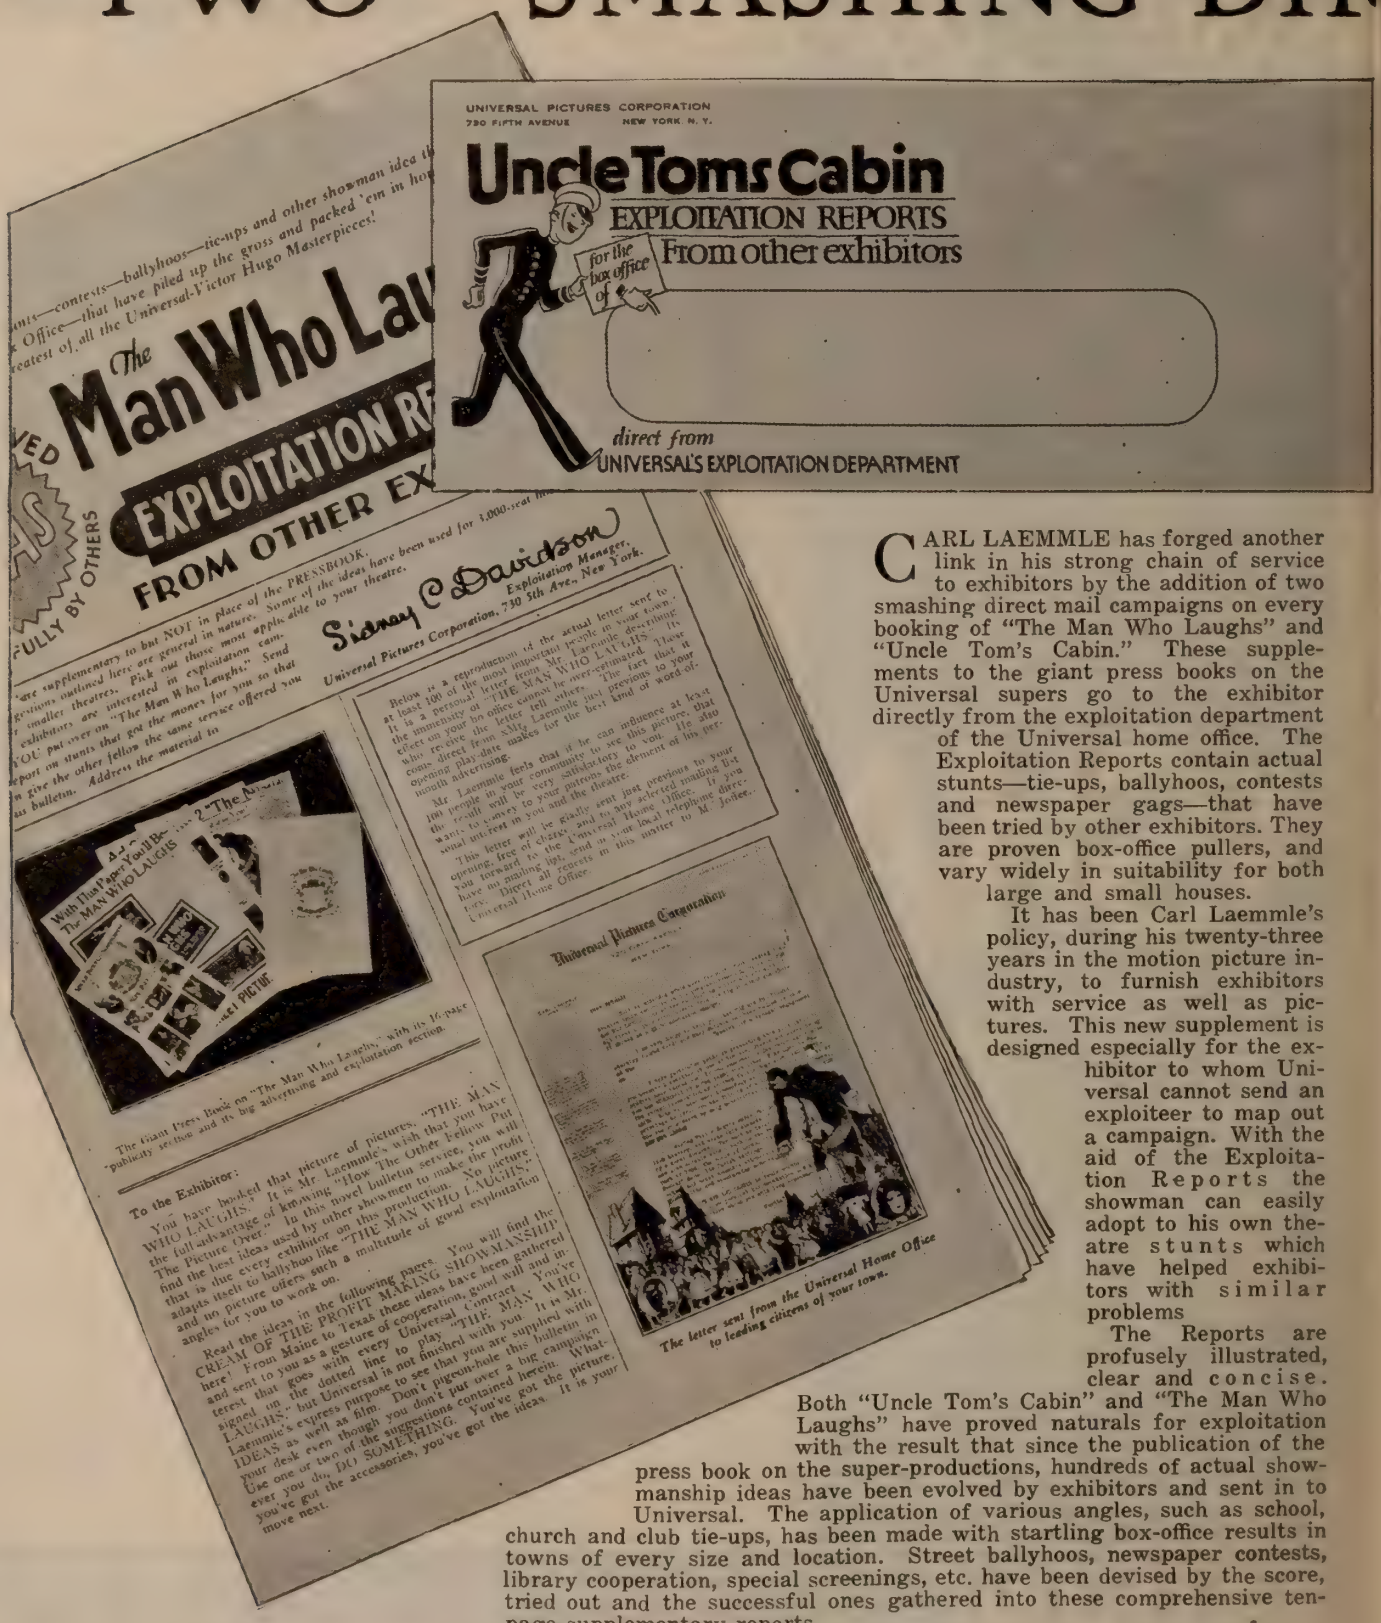
A talking picture that shouts profits!!

The performance of little freckle-faced Jack Hanlon is an audience REVELATION!

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

TALKING (2 Distinct Versions) SILENT

TWO SMASHING DIR



CARL LAEMMLE has forged another link in his strong chain of service to exhibitors by the addition of two smashing direct mail campaigns on every booking of "The Man Who Laughs" and "Uncle Tom's Cabin." These supplements to the giant press books on the Universal supers go to the exhibitor directly from the exploitation department of the Universal home office. The Exploitation Reports contain actual stunts—tie-ups, ballyhoos, contests and newspaper gags—that have been tried by other exhibitors. They are proven box-office pullers, and vary widely in suitability for both large and small houses.

It has been Carl Laemmle's policy, during his twenty-three years in the motion picture industry, to furnish exhibitors with service as well as pictures. This new supplement is designed especially for the exhibitor to whom Universal cannot send an exploiteer to map out a campaign. With the aid of the Exploitation Reports the showman can easily adopt to his own theatre stunts which have helped exhibitors with similar problems

The Reports are profusely illustrated, clear and concise. Both "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "The Man Who Laughs" have proved naturals for exploitation with the result that since the publication of the press book on the super-productions, hundreds of actual showmanship ideas have been evolved by exhibitors and sent in to Universal. The application of various angles, such as school, church and club tie-ups, has been made with startling box-office results in towns of every size and location. Street ballyhoos, newspaper contests, library cooperation, special screenings, etc. have been devised by the score, tried out and the successful ones gathered into these comprehensive ten-page supplementary reports.

ECT MAIL CAMPAIGNS

on

"Man Who Laughs" and "Uncle Tom's Cabin"

Universal Offers Every Exhibitor Booking "Man Who Laughs" and "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Mail Campaign Direct from Universal Home Office—Exploitation Helps Supplement Giant Press Books

Among the valuable tie-ups in these Exploitation Reports are book campaigns on "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "The Man Who Laughs." Both these books are so well known and so popular that tie-ups with book stores have been easy to obtain and fruitful of results. Grosset and Dunlap have put out special inexpensive editions of the books, well illustrated with scenes from the Universal pictures. Book stores have been lavish with window displays of thee classic, and exhibitor have given the books away in various newspaper contests.

Another exhibitor help suggested in the Exploitation Reports is the ever popular star identification contest. The casts of both "The Man Who Laughs" and "Uncle Tom's Cabin" are composed of outstanding screen stars, so that identification is fairly simple, but has a tremendous fan appeal. The Liberty Theatre in Wheeling, West Virginia, used such a contest in connection with a full page co-operative advertisement in the Register. The photos of the twenty stars of the picture were printed in the page ad—one photo by each merchant—and the photograph was also displayed in the window of the dealer who advertised. To limit the contestants, they had to send in their answers in some novel form as in art work or on hard-boiled eggs. The first prize was a Helbros watch, and theatre tickets were given to the runners-up. The whole town was identifying stars and seeing the picture.

A fortune hunt may be used to advantage in exploiting either of the two Universal superproductions. At Lafayette, Ind., fourteen merchants were promoted into participating in an UNCLE TOM'S CABIN FORTUNE HUNT. These merchants displayed a special serial number in their window which was also decorated with stills. Ten thousand serially numbered coupons were distributed from house to house by the theatre. On each coupon was printed a different serial number. It also advised those who received it to compare the serial number with the various numbers exhibited in the fourteen windows. If the number they held was similar to a number in one of the windows, they received a special prize. This plan not only netted the theatre fourteen good window displays and covered practically every home with a special coupon, but also resulted in a cooperative page smash of advertisements from the fourteen merchants who participated in the "hunt."

The Street Railway Company in one town was sold on the idea that they would get extra fares by aiding the publicity of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." They used 150 street car hangers, covering the entire city.

In hundreds of cities some sort of rolling cabin ballyhooed for "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The Exploitation Reports give concrete help on this effective stunt.

Another fertile suggestion contained in the service bulletins is connected with hook-ups with the local telegraph company. One live wire showman sent a Western Union to the houses of thirteen Weslyn fraternities two days before the showing and around dinner time. It gave the play dates and said, "Bring Your College Sweethearts—Theatre Parties Arranged." This was also sent to college dormitories where the independent college men lived.

A stunt that netted plenty of space during the run of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the Wold Theatre, Omaha, was the projection of the film in an airplane two thousand feet above the city. This was arranged in conjunction with a municipal airport. The picture was projected before an invited audience of notables on a screen situated at the end of a big tri-motored plane.

The above suggestions are indicative of the varied showmanship ideas that Universal's Exploitation Department is sharing with each and every exhibitor who books either "The Man Who Laughs" and "Uncle Tom's Cabin." All the exploiteer has to do is to book these box-office bets, spend a few minutes readingthe Exploitation Reports and then go to it.

Rodeo Performers See Themselves On Screen in "King of the Rodeo"

THE picturesque gentlemen and girl in the wide sombreros in the photograph above are all members of the Tex Austin Rodeo Company who took an actual part in Hoot Gibson's great riding picture, "King of the Rodeo." While they were in San Antonio recently, Universal's branch manager, R. I. Pyne, arranged for a special screening so that they could witness their first screen appearance. John C. Fanning, exhibitor of Brownsville, Texas, and George M. Jacoby, Universal home office auditor, are also in the group pictured above.

Gibson Completes "Points West" at 'U'

UNIVERSAL STUDIOS today announced the completion of "Points West," Hoot Gibson's latest starring vehicle. The picture is now in the cutting room.

"Points West" is said to be one of the star's most thrilling pictures of the West. The story was written by B. M. Bower. Most of the scenes were photographed in the High Sierras.

Alberta Vaughn is leading woman, with Frank Campeau, Jack Raymond, Martha Franklin, Milt Brown and Jim Corey in the supporting cast. Arthur Rosson directed the picture.

Gordon and Stone In "Harmony Lane"

HUNTLEY GORDON and George Stone have been cast for important parts in "Harmony Lane," which will go into production at Universal City in about a week, it was announced today.

Eddie Leonard will be featured in "Harmony Lane," which will be directed by Robert F. Hill. The story is by Joseph Swerling.

CARL LAEMMLE
presents

Reginald DENNY

IN

HIS LUCKY DAY

TALKING or SILENT

with Lorayne Duval.

Directed by Edward Cline.

(2 distinct negatives)

GOLDEN DIMPLES!

Will any man step up and say that this star is not the greatest audience personality in two-reelers today?

SNOOKUMS

The BOX-OFFICE BABY

in

"The NEWLYWEDS and their BABY"

adapted from the famous cartoon series by George McManus

JUNIOR JEWEL Productions

and these STERN BROTHERS Comedies:

BUSTER BROWN COMEDIES
from the celebrated cartoon series by R. F. Outcault

LET GEORGE DO IT
Another famous comic from the pen of George McManus

MIKE and IKE
Rube Goldberg's funny look-like lads in the flesh

Distributed through UNIVERSAL

UNIVERSAL SYNOPSES

"SHE'S A PIPPIN"

IKE and MIKE COMEDY

MIKE and Ike got shore leave and looked very fetching in their sailor suits and smart caps. Since they were unsuccessful in making a date they started down the street to look for one. It didn't seem to be sailors' day for various "pippins" turned them down cold. However, they finally saw two likely dames breezing by and it didn't take long for the boys to pull up alongside. As they reached the girls' home they saw a man crawling through the window. It wasn't until some very unpleasant things had happened that they discovered they were chasing father, who had forgotten his keys. Things got so hot that the boys leaned out of the window to cool off. They glimpsed two girls coming down the street. In a minute they had stepped out of the window leaving father and the girls to finish their violent discussion.

"THE DIAMOND MASTER"

Universal Chapterplay

No. 10—"The Reckoning"

FOR the sake of Doris' safety Van regretfully releases Latham.

At dawn Doris and her father are prisoners of Latham's men in a mountain fastness. Latham comes to them and gives orders that they are all to move that night.

Tug, speeding back from an errand, sees a lone man in a mountain pass and his curiosity is aroused. He investigates, and discovers the hiding-place of Latham, also the fact that Doris is a prisoner there. He dashes away for help.

Meanwhile Van and the state troopers have been conducting a desperate but fruitless search. Tug finally finds Van and they set out to aid Doris.

They arrive just as Latham and his men are departing. Van descends a narrow trail and rescues Doris. Latham misses Doris and follows, while the others are searching for Kellner, who has disappeared.

Doris and Van find their way blocked by a landslide, where they are overtaken by Latham. Knowing that he himself is trapped and his career finished, for he has seen the state troopers coming, Latham prepares to shoot them down. Old Kellner appears and falls upon him from the canyon above. They fight on the edge of a tremendous chasm. Van tries to stop them, but they fall over the precipice. Kellner has given his life to save theirs, and has taken with him the enemy who had fought him all his days.

"TIGE'S GIRL FRIEND"

Stern Brothers Comedy

BUSTER BROWN SERIES

LITTLE FLUFFY, Mary Jane's dog, was terribly ill. Tige, Buster and Mary Jane were all worried. When Fluffy told Tige how that brute of an English bulldog had nearly killed her in order to get her bone, Tige saw red and went out to shadow that brute until he caught him in a vacant lot. When Tige returned he told Fluffy a vivid tale of the encounter.

Troubles never come singly. Grandpa was sick and the children had to visit him at the hospital. Rastus arrived just as they were leaving, so they took him along to keep track of Tige while they were in the hospital.

Rastus and Tige didn't like being left out, so they watched their chance and soon arrived in the ward. The doctor caught sight of them and made it very plain that dogs were not welcome. Not until it landed on Grandpa's nose did they discover a fly had arrived with the children. By the time Buster got through trying to swat the unwelcome pest and Rastus had upset a bottle of ether that ward was a busy place.

"HEN FRUIT"

Oswald Cartoon

OSWALD was foreman of the egg factory, but even with every modern device in the way of alarm clocks, it was difficult for him to get on the job. The time clock, however, never missed a trick and didn't let any late pullets get by. A young cockerel managed to sneak in, and certainly disrupted the business of egg laying! Oswald was so long pulling his basket that before he got out to his tin lizzie a goat roaming around had swallowed it. Oswald had a terrible time with that goat, but finally made him disgorge his lizzie. Of course, it was chewed to bits, but Oswald collected it in a couple of tin cans and soon shook it together again.

"WILD BLOOD"

Western Thrill Series

With* Rex, supported by Jack Perrin

REX, the wild stallion, has evaded capture by Luke Conner, leader of a gang of rustlers. Conner plans to take his beautiful white mare and colt. While pursuing the mare he sees a prairie schooner in the distance, with a beautiful girl on the driver's seat. His men capture the colt while he watches the girl. Her father and another man take possession of a cabin near his hangout. Pretending to be a friendly neighbor he calls and discovers that Jack Crosby, an erstwhile cowpuncher, is helping Mary's father, Old Man Ellis, to work the nearby mine.

Mary is discontented and lonesome and Conner persuades her that her beauty and youth are being wasted.

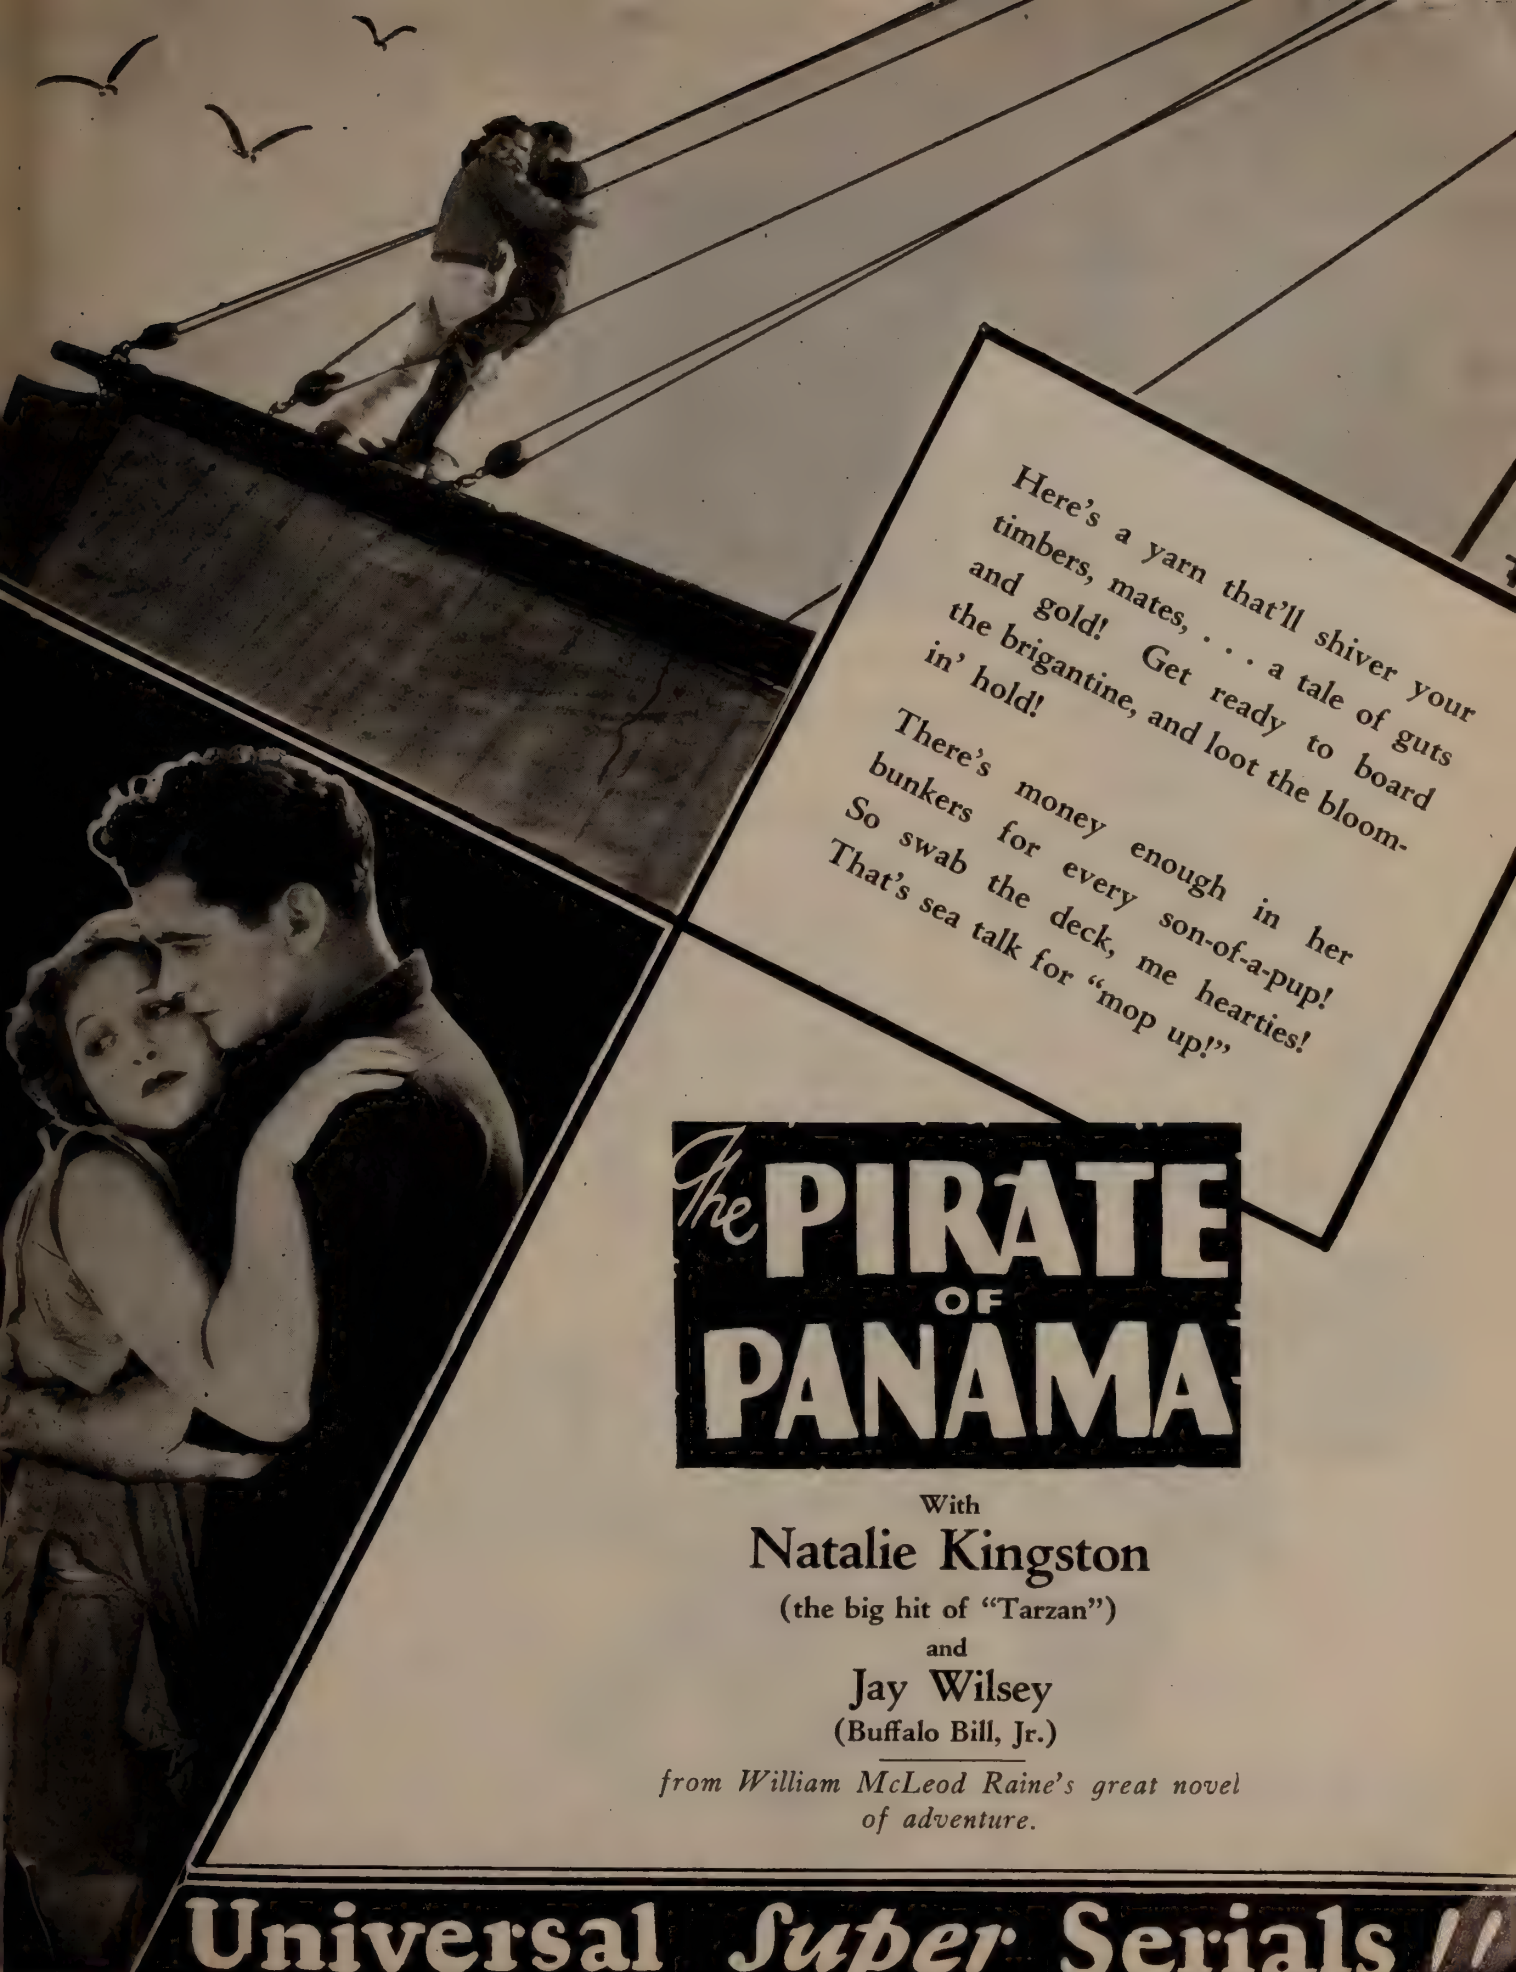
After much effort Ellis finally strikes a rich vein. He hides his gold planning to accumulate a good stake with which to surprise Mary and Jack.

One day while the men are working in the mine, Conner comes and persuades Mary to leave with him for the city. Starlight, Jack Crosby's clever mare, sees them and sensing danger takes Mary's sun-bonnet to the mine shaft and drops it down to attract the attention of the men. Racing to the cabin they find that Conner has taken Mary and Old Man Ellis' gold.

Rex, who has wandered the plains disconsolately since the capture of the colt, catches sight of Conner and Mary driving away. As Jack, who has overtaken the runaway couple, struggles with Conner and knocks him from his wagon, Rex leads a stampede of wild horses in pursuit of the fleeing Conner.

The penitent Mary is glad to have been saved from her folly and returns with her father and Jack, who has long been in love with her.

SHOW BOAT



Here's a yarn that'll shiver your timbers, mates, . . . a tale of guts and gold! Get ready to board the brigantine, and loot the bloomin' hold!

There's money enough in her bunkers for every son-of-a-pup! So swab the deck, me hearties! That's sea talk for "mop up!"

The PIRATE OF PANAMA

With

Natalie Kingston

(the big hit of "Tarzan")

and

Jay Wilsey

(Buffalo Bill, Jr.)

from William McLeod Raine's great novel of adventure.

Universal Super Serials!!

Veteran Press Agent Returns to Universal

AL FEINMAN, well-known press agent and former Universalite, has returned to the Universal fold.

He started last Monday as first mate to Cap'n Harry Reichenbach in piloting "Show Boat" on its new York run. He will assist Reichenbach in the advertising, publicity and exploitation of "Show Boat" which comes to the Globe Theatre, Wednesday evening, April 17th, for an indefinite engagement.

Feinman, together with Reichenbach, handled the New York engagements of such Universal productions as "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "Lonesome," "Man Who Laughs," etc. He has also served as Director of Publicity for Universal's Colony Theatre.

Sid Saylor Starts New Comedy Series

SAM NEWFIELD, who rose from errand boy for Carl Laemmle in New York twelve years ago, and Gus Meins will direct a series of two-reel comedies starring Sid Saylor for Universal Pictures. The productions will be under the supervision of Sig Newfield. Newfield and Meins recently completed three comedies featuring "Snookums."

Another striking one-sheet on "Show-Boat."

Dialect Mixup At Universal

JEAN HERSHOLT declares he is about to start his fifth sound picture and in each picture he has spoken a different dialect. The first one, "Give and Take," he used a German accent. The second picture, "Abie's Irish Rose," he used a Jewish accent. The third one, "Girl on the Barge," he spoke with a decided Scottish burr. In "You Can't Buy Love," he has to speak with a French accent and in his next picture, "The Climax," he will be an American.

"SHOW BOAT" MUSICAL SCORE SETS NEW MOVIE-TONE STANDARD

(Continued from page 8)

The calliope music which opens the "Show Boat" picture is also used in a dramatic way. Before the show boat appears on the screen, the audience hears the characteristic music of the calliope and Cherniavsky went to great lengths to discover and score music which has been played on show boat calliopes for untold years, but which has very seldom been committed to moving pictures. Most of this he found in the New York Public Library.

Mr. Cherniavsky has added a love song of his own, entitled "Love Sings a Song In My Heart," which is used as a love theme where the tempo of the Kern music was not adapted to the screen action.

Since Edna Ferber's "Show Boat" story develops over a period of fifty years, every effort was made on the part of the musical adapter to find characteristic music of the periods covered by the action to use characteristically. Among the songs made famous in the musical history of the United States which are included are "Ta Ra Ra Ra Boom Teay," "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight." Old Kentucky Home" "Swanee River," "Old Black Joe," "Deep River," "I Got Shoes," and "Coon, Coon, Coon."

Carl Laemmle

presents

SCANDAL

with

Laura La Plante

Directed by
WESLEY RUGGLES

TALKING (2 Distinct Versions) SILENT

Strengthen your program with BANK NOTE SHORTS
for automatic profit!

Oswald
the lucky rabbit with SOUND

Every exhibitor who plays Oswald knows that it pays to give the customers real cream in their coffee. The Lucky Rabbit never fails to deliver laughs . . . and YOU never fail to collect on delivery!

WINKLER PRODUCTIONS
Two negatives: 1 silent; 1 with sound

Other one-reel shorts

LAEMMLE NOVELTIES
Something strikingly new under the sun. First-run short subjects.

Horace in Hollywood
Arthur Lake with shots of studio bigtimers in a zesty series.

—and these with singing and dialog:

BAILEY and BARNUM
Headliner blackface singing and entertaining act. Booking Big.

THE BROX SISTERS
Harmonizing Hawaiian trio extraordinary. Big house stuff.

ZIMMERMAN and GRANDVILLE
Unique, delightful Swiss yodlers. Exclusively Universal.

CAFE ROYALE
Red-hot cabaret entertainment

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

UNIVERSAL Shorts are Super Shorts

LARRY EDMUNDS, INC.
CINEMA BOOKSHOP
HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.

INCREASED PATRONAGE!

15 million readers follow Carl Laemmle's chats in the Saturday Evening Post. More than an advertisement—it is one of the most popular fan columns in existence. If you play Universal Pictures, the tremendous influence of this column is bringing you increased patronage and added profits.

Watch This Column
Our Weekly Chat

Send for your copy of Universal's booklet containing complete information on our new pictures. It's free.

"SHOW BOAT" probably has more elements of drawing power than any moving-picture ever produced. It is a Super-production and a combination of Universal Stars and the music and singing stars of Florenz Ziegfeld's Stage Show, which has already played to crowded houses in New York for more than 500 consecutive performances a year. It may interest you to know that the most prominent men in dramatic and moving-picture circles are just as keenly interested in this picture as you will be as soon as it is shown. —C.L.

Carl Laemmle

Florenz Ziegfeld

Edna Ferber

The Reasons Why:

"SHOW BOAT" is the great novel of the floating theatres along the lower Ohio and the Mississippi rivers, written by Edna Ferber.

Laura La Plante

Joseph Schildkraut

"SHOW BOAT" on Ziegfeld's Stage in New York has proved such a popular sensation during its entire run seats sold at from $10 to $20 each

Otis Harlan

"SHOW BOAT" in Universal's picturized and movietone version will have LAURA LA PLANTE, JOSEPH SCHILDKRAUT and OTIS HARLAN as the principal characters as well as the wonderful Jerome Kern music with Oscar Hammerstein's intriguing lyrics and singing stars of Ziegfeld's Stage Show.

Emily Fitzroy

"SHOWBOAT" in Universal's production will have the beautiful background of nature's own scenery, because it was made down on the river on an actual show-boat.

Helen Morgan

Oscar Hammerstein 2nd

"SHOW BOAT" is intensely dramatic, emotional and picturesque, and the love-story running through it has a most romantic and powerful appeal.

"SHOWBOAT" has likewise been produced as a silent picture for those theatres which have no movietone apparatus, and is positively just as interesting as the sound picture.

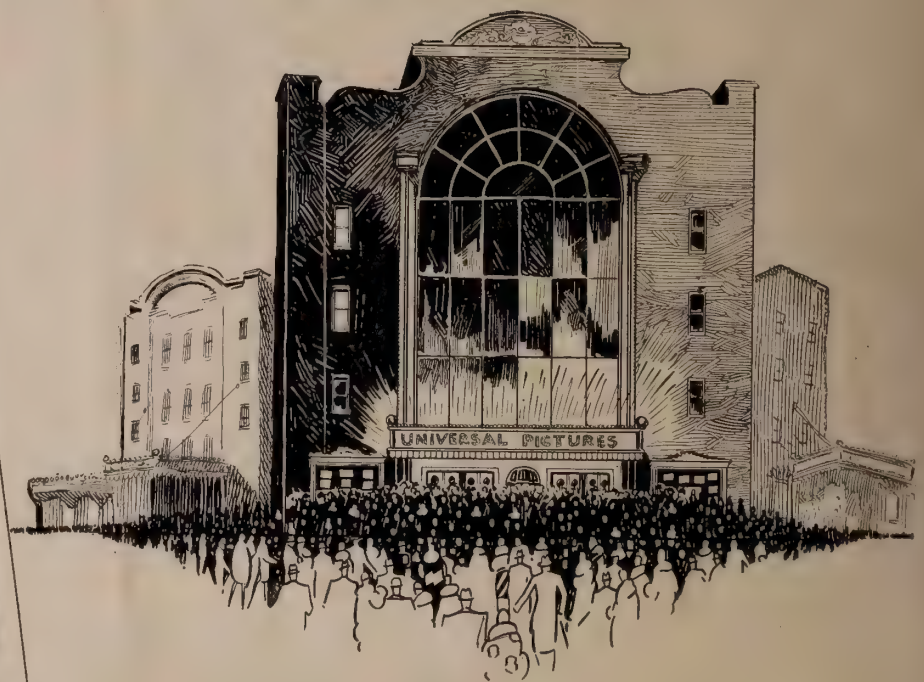
Jerome Kern

Harry Pollard

"SHOW BOAT" in Mr. Ziegfeld's opinion and mine should prove probably the greatest picture-attraction of the age.

Carl Laemmle, President

UNIVERSAL PICTURES
"The Home of the Good Film"
730 Fifth Ave., New York City



This column appears in the Saturday Evening Post of April 13, 1929.

UNIVER VEEKLY
Vol. 29 No. 13
May 4, 1929

Carl Laemmle presents "SHOW BOAT" by Edna Ferber with Laura La Plante, Joseph Schildkraut, Otis Harlan, Emily Fitzroy and Alma Rubens.....
A Harry Pollard Production

Synchronized score by JOSEPH CHERNIAVSKY Directed Silent and Movietone by HARRY POLLARD

Music for the stage production by JEROME KERN Lyrics by OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN 2nd —the greatest array of stage and screen celebrities ever identified with one picture...

CARL LAEMMLE presents

SHOWBOAT

A HARRY POLLARD Production

The
UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick ~ Editor
PUBLISHED BY THE
— MOTION PICTURE WEEKLY PUBLISHING COMPANY — HECKSCHER BUILDING —
730-5TH AVE. — NEW YORK CITY
Copyright 1929 UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION All Rights Reserved

Vol. XXIX MAY 4, 1929 No. 13

EXPERTS ENDOW "SHOW BOAT" WITH FOURTEEN EXPLOITATION POINTS

Agree This Harry Pollard Production Has Greater Advertising Appeal Than Any Other Picture in History of Moving Pictures

EVER since the opening of "Show Boat" in Miami, Palm Beach, New York, Washington, Omaha, Salt Lake City, Seattle and Dallas, all with capacity audiences and extended runs, the moving picture critics and industry philosophers are at odds over the reason. The critics claim that it is the excellence of the picturization itself. Their claim is that the reviews and the consequent reaction of audiences are responsible for the remarkable showing of this picture. Probably they are responsible, to a certain extent, as the reviews have been truly remarkable.

Nevertheless, the success of "Show Boat" was predicted by so many prominent showmen in the moving picture industry that a number of circuit houses bought the picture long before they had an opportunity to see it. They base their judgment on the exploitation angles of the picture. They are unanimous in the opinion that no other moving picture ever had so many advertising and box-office advantages as "Show Boat" has. For the purpose of recapitulating these, they have been set down here as Fourteen Points. Here they are:

1. The novel, "Show Boat," has established itself, on its own merit, as an epic of American literature, because of its colorful gripping presentation of a romantic and unusual phase of American life.

2. The story is from the pen of Edna Ferber, one of the country's most popular writers.

3. "Show Boat" became the best seller of all best consecutive seasons. It has been translated into four foreign languages and has become popular all over the globe.

4. Florenz Ziegfeld, the most famous impresario of musical extravaganzas, adapted it for the stage.

5. As a Ziegfeld musical show, "Show Boat" is the most successful musical comedy ever offered in New York. It has played two full seasons.

6. The music and songs of the Ziegfeld "Show Boat," written by Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein II, are known from Coast to Coast. These songs and music are sung and heard in the picture.

7. Ziegfeld's cast included such stage favorites as Helen Morgan and Jules Bledsoe. These two and others from the show render their song hits by movietone.

8. Carl Laemmle, the astute creator of big pictures, outbid the entire industry for the rights to this novel and produced it as a million dollar super talking picture.

9. The production was directed by Harry Pollard, Universal directorial ace of such big successes as "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

10. Popular Laura La Plante and the inimitable Joseph Schildkraut are featured as the idyllic young lovers.

11. The sterling cast of the picture includes such favorites as Otis Harlan, Emily Fitzroy, Alma Rubens, Little Jane La Verne, Jack McDonald and Neely Edwards.

12. The picture is a musical feast, with bands, calliopes, banjos, choruses, songs, the beautiful Ziegfeld music and dozens of old favorites and negro folk songs.

13. Among the high-lights of the picture are the songs sung by Laura La Plante, beautifully sung and clearly reproduced.

14. The production is outstanding for its pictorial beauty—the picturesque river scenes, the steaming Show Boat, the moonlit waters—and for its exciting moments—the storm, the elopement, the trotting race and other emotional climaxes.

The Sensation

No. 634—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

THE excitement over "Show Boat" is spreading like wildfire.

It is the big subject of the times! The predictions which are being made by experienced showmen are something staggering.

For instance, one highly successful showman who owns a string of de luxe houses made the following very pointed remarks—which are all the more significant in view of the fact that he has virtually told me to write my own ticket on his contracts for "Show Boat."

"You have got the biggest thing in the history of the show business. You are going to gross at least a third more than any other picture has ever grossed in all moving picture experience. You ought to do ten million dollars' worth of business with this one picture alone. You have got more box-office wallop in this one picture than I ordinarily see in half a dozen pictures combined. And I am glad it is Universal which has achieved this triumph, because Universal deserves more than any other company in the industry."

That's quite a mouthful.

of the Trade!

But it is based on facts. It is based on box-office value and entertainment possibilities.

Edna Ferber is the first fact. She wrote the book which took the world by storm. I bought the picture rights at what was then a record price.

The picture itself is fact number two. It is faithful to the story told by Edna Ferber. It is the crowning achievement of Harry Pollard's career as a director. Add to all this the fact that Laura La Plante and Joseph Schildkraut and Otis Harlan head a remarkable cast and you have a combination of box office values never before dreamed of.

The great Ziegfeld is another fact. He produced the musical show version of the book. The history of musical shows contains a record of no success like this one. And, mind you, under the terms of my deal with Mr. Ziegfeld, I have been able to use the cream of all the best songs and musical scores in the Ziegfeld hit.

All the exquisite music which Jerome Kern wrote for "Show Boat" and all the lyrics prepared by Oscar Hammerstein are mine to use.

Helen Morgan, whose singing of "Bill" and "Can't Help Lovin' That Man" set the show world afire, appears and sings in Universal's version of "Show Boat." So does Jules Bledsoe, whose interpretation of "Ol' Man River" is beyond description. So does Aunt Jemima, the famous ballyhoo singer. So does the large group of Plantation Singers.

And this, my friends, is but one of the mighty attractions Universal is about ready to spring. Do you wonder it is the sensation of the trade?

Laura La Plante and Joseph Schildkraut as the Magnolia and Ravenal of Universal's "Show Boat" with the menacing Emily Fitzroy as Parthy hovering in the background

UNIVERSAL'S NEW YORK

Broadway Opening of Carl Laemmle's "Show Boat" Draws Brilliant Premiere Audience and Proves Box-Office Hit

NO MORE convincing and impartial account of the remarkable New York opening of "Show Boat" at the Globe Theatre on April 17th could be reprinted in these pages than that which appeared in the Exhibitors Daily Review and Motion Pictures Today. It needs no editorial comment, no deletion and no enlargement. Here it is, in all its enthusiastic tribute:

"Showboat's in town."

"It opened at the Globe Theatre last night, and what an opening! And what a picture! If we were permitted a guess we would say that last night was the happiest night Carl Laemmle ever had. He had the realization of many dreams come true. He saw presented before him (and one of the swankiest audiences ever assembled for the opening of a picture) a production that seemed perfect in every detail, a production that had, at many times, caused him a lot of worry and a production that will lift Universal right up in the race for premier honors in the production of the talkies.

BIG HIT

"To say that 'Show Boat' is a hit does not give it half the credit it deserves. It is more than that, it is by far the greatest attraction that organization has ever had and one of the real big pictures in the history of motion pictures, both silent and talkie.

"The word was around last night that the picture cost $1,700,000. Either that or more, it was well spent. And this amount has already started to come back to the exchequer of 'U' from the several openings it has had out in key-centers throughout the country and with the addition of other play dates already on the books, whatever the amount spent on its making will be returned and a good healthy profit should be shown.

Excellent Entertainment

" 'Show Boat' has everything that goes to make a successful entertainment. It is masterfully directed, capably acted and photographed by a master hand. The recording is as good as any we have heard and the musical score written by Cherniavsky was a treat and had a lot to do with the success of the picture.

"Carl Laemmle should be congratulated by the entire industry. Robert E. Welsh, who had charge of the entire production, deserves all the praise that 'Uncle Carl' and Universal can heap on him.

"Every one who had anything to do with the making of the picture did his job well—can we say more?"

* * *

The newspaper comments the day after the opening confirmed the general conviction that Universal's "Showboat" sets a standard among the year's big pictures that will be well nigh impossible to reach, much less excel.

N. Y. WORLD

BEAUTY there is in the motion picture "Show Boat," and the glamour of moonlit nights on the old Mississippi. It is this rich, romantic flavor of the silent river, this melancholy, haunting breath from out the deep, mysterious waters, which makes Carl Laemmle's annual superfilm at the Globe a noteworthy and, for the greater part, a superbly managed picture play.

At the opening on Wednesday night, which started, incidentally, at 8:45 and reached its conclusion toward midnight, a large audience followed it with evident relish through all its devious loops and turns, breaking in upon it now and again to register its general approval by handclapping. Indeed, in the lobby betwen the acts I came upon a friend of mine named Morris Gest, and from him I learned that not since David Belasco's opening night of "The Darling of the Gods" had Mr. Gest seen anything so exquisite, so charming and in such fine taste as this Movietone version of "Show Boat."

"SHOW BOAT" THRILLS FIRST NIGHT AUDIENCE

The director, Harry Pollard, has taken his company to the spots where the action is supposed to have taken place, and he has photographed these exterior atmospheric episodes with great fluidity and feeling. Certainly there has been no film story dealing with the lonely life on the river which has caught to such a marked degree the darkly forbidding nature of the country.

The performance of Miss Laura La Plante as Magnolia, of Joseph Schildkraut as Ravenal, of Alma Rubens as Julie, and of Emily Fitzroy as Parthy Hawks are all nicely effected and are deserving of felicitations, which are hereby given. Of these, it appeared to me that Miss La Plante was easily the most expert, the most believable. The truth is that she gave a magnificent portrayal as Magnolia.

Harry Pollard, the director of "Show Boat," is being lavishly praised for his brilliant atmospheric shots of the lazy Mississippi and the show boat

"Show Boat," for the reasons I have stated, is in many ways a notable motion picture, and it is what I would consider one of the items to place high up on the list of New York musts.

QUINN MARTIN.

N. Y. SUN

"Show Boat" glides into the movies — at the Globe—and, tricked out with movietone melodies from Jerome Kern's entrancing score, dialogue sequences and Miss Ferber's talent for heartbreak and sentiment, it must assuredly repeat its successes.

George Gerhard of the Evening World says that Alma Rubens, pictured above, plays the role of Julie superbly

If "Show Boat," the Ziegfeld production, was a close approach to an ideal American opera, then Show Boat," the movie, is a close approach to an ideal American saga of a family and a place. The tragedies of partings, of birth and death, and finally of old age are unfolded, and through them all run the Mississippi and the show boat that first brings them to view.

It is this quality of sentiment, of poignancy, that the film projects in such an amazing degree. And the actors do help a great deal. Laura La Plante, as Magnolia, aged gracefully, nobly, and often touched top peaks of emotion. Joseph Schildkraut, as Ravenal, gambler and wastrel, was exceptionally effective. Emil Fitzroy, as Parthenia, the mother, was on first sight a caricature, but before long she projected a very real person, and Alma Rubens, as Julie, was a forlorn figure.

JOHN S. COHEN, JR.

* * *

N. Y. TELEGRAM

"Show Boat" is, beyond doubt, a very handsomely mounted and impressive production.

Crowds surging around the World Theatre in Omaha, Neb., at the midnight premiere of "Show Boat." Over two thousand people turned out to the gala event.

Midnight Premiere of "Show Boat" Scores Tremendous Hit in Omaha

THE midnight opening of "Show Boat" at the World Theatre in Omaha adds another brilliant premiere to the long list which the Universal super production is rolling up. This western premiere was a gala Saturday night preview attended by some two thousand prominent citizens of Omaha, with the regular run of the picture at popular prices not following until the next Friday. The theatre was packed in spite of heavy opposition in the form of another opening across the street at a Publix house. The reception given "Show Boat" can be estimated by the following review from the Omaha News Bee:

"'SHOW BOAT!' What a story! What a picture!

"Hailed as an epic in the talkies field, it won its way into the hearts of the audience in its premiere western showing at the World theater Saturday night.

"From the moment Capt. Andy Hawks' old Mississippi show boat, 'Cotton Palace,' steams 'round the bend with its calliope going full blast, the audience lives again the happy days when river towns looked forward to those nomad troupers in good old-fashioned 'mellerdrama.'"

* * *

"Laura La Plante as Magnolia has an artistic sincerity which stands the test of a series of close photographic studies.

"As Gay Ravenal, the debonair husband, Joseph Schildkraut gives an admirable portrayal.

"In the role of Parthenia Hawks, Emily Fitzroy gives perhaps the finest work of her many years upon the screen. A better actor could not have played the role of Captain Hawks than Otis Harlan. Another character furnishing an unusual portrayal is Alma Rubens as Julie." RENO.

From the Omaha World Herald comes the praise:

"It is a perfect story for film purposes, and the cast is equally flawless."

EXPLOITATION CAMPAIGN.

Among the outstanding features of the Omaha exploitation campaign on "Show Boat" was a strong display of the Borden Fabrics national dressmaking conetst tie-up. The Edna Ferber novel was conspicuously displayed in Kilpatrick's book department and windows four days before the opening. The "Show Boat" toy was given excellent display in the Orchard Wilhelm store. A perfume tie-up was effected with store and window displays starting two days before premiere. Magnolia perfume was sprayed throughout the theatre for the opening.

Reprinted from the Exhibitors Daily Review and Motion Pictures today.

"Show Boat" a Show Triumph

By

Arthur James

BEGINNING with sprightliness, proceeding with poignant human drama shot through with the shining threads of humor, "Show Boat", the Show of the Season, ends with a haunting melody, sung by a negro with a voice like a cello.

* * *

THIS much heralded and much expected sound and dialogue entertainment will duplicate internationally the New York success of Florenz Ziegfeld's stage production and there's no doubt in the world about that.

* * *

AT the Globe Theatre last night, Carl Laemmle who presents the picture on behalf of Universal shared his honors with Mr. Ziegfeld and both were in screen evidence.

* * *

BEAUTIFULLY contrived by the superb direction of Harry Pollard, triumphantly scored by that rising musical genius, Joseph Cherniavsky, acted with power, sincerity and feeling by Laura LaPlante, Joseph Schildkraut, Emily Fitzroy, Alma Rubens and Otis Harlan, as principals in an amazing cast, this supreme drama of the Mississippi and its show world rises as high as the sky itself and goes as deep as the utter depths of the swirling surges of human emotions.

* * *

IT is embellished with music, ornamented with song and its tempo is in rhythm with the heart beats of the world.

* * *

UNIVERSAL has in "Show Boat" a box office achievement that is likely to break all previous picture records and is an entertainment. It is a decoration for picture history.

FILM NOTABLES -:- AT OPENING -:- OF 'SHOW BOAT'

Photos by Evening Journal Staff Photographer.

FLORENZ ZIEGFELD. The maestro himself sees the million dollar "talkie" version of his "Show Boat."

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH SANTLY Were among the notable first-nighters at the premiere of "Show Boat," at the Globe Theatre.

ALL DOLLED UP. A blaze of lights announced "Show Boat" at the Globe. Rose Pelswick reviews the film today on Page 24.

MR. AND MRS. MORRIS GEST. The famous showman and his wife were targets for the camera as they entered the Globe to attend the premiere.

CARL LAEMMLE President of the Universal, was one of the film kings at the "Show Boat" opening.

The Evening Journal photographer directed his camera toward these people of importance on the night of the New York premiere of "Show Boat." The Journal caption neglects to mention that President Laemmle is the producer of the film.

"Show Boat" Gets National Broadcast

Bourjois Hour Over WEAF Network Spreads Universal Publicity Weekly

EXHIBITORS who are abreast of the "Show Boat" tide will get in on a big national broadcasting tie-up between Universal Pictures Corporation and Bourjois, perfumers of Paris. The Bourjois program, under the title of "An Evening in Paris," occurs every Friday between 9:00 and 9:30 P. M. Eastern Standard Time over the following network: WEAF, WEEI, WTIC, WJAR, WGR, WTAG, WCSH, WLIT, WRC, WGY, WCAE, WWJ, WGN, KSD, WDAF, WOW and WOC. A generous part of this weekly entertainment will be announcements concerning Universal stars and pictures which will take place directly in the middle of the Bourjois program.

At the present time, "Show Boat" and "Broadway" are being broadcast as the two biggest Universal offerings of the season. Theme songs from these productions are going over the air. "Ol' Man River" and a colorful account of Helen Morgan took up the Universal part of the program rectntly.

Motion Picture News Says "Show Boat" Is "Straight from the Shoulder" Hit

(Reprinted from April 20th Issue)

CARL LAEMMLE and the Universal producing staff used the brains God gave them in making this one. It is undoubtedly the biggest box-office value Universal has made in its long history.

Here is a production to which the conventional reviewing formula does not apply. It has so many box-office angles, of smashing dominance, that nothing else matters.

The story, in novel form, is easily one of the biggest sellers ever written by Edna Ferber, famous as a writer of best sellers.

It has the value of the accumulation of thousands, perhaps millions, of words of legitimate publicity, about Florenz Ziegfeld's stage version of the novel.

In screen form it has a cast value that uses every ace in Universal's player deck. It has splendid direction by Harry Pollard, who handled a big and difficult subject, in the new medium of sound, with sure-fire box-office skill.

Perhaps Mr. Pollard could have been a bit more artistic in certain sequences, but he might easily have sacrificed box-office value in doing so.

It has a surprisingly fine dramatic performance by Laura La Plante as Magnolia.

Joseph Schildkraut portrays Gaylord Ravenal with unquestioned audience registration.

Otis Harlan manages Captain Andy Hawk's whiskers and his wife, Parthy Ann, played by Emily Fitzroy in the best Fitzroyian mood.

Add to these items a sound prologue that presents the musical knockouts—not just "hits"—of the Ziegfeld stage show, sung by the Ziegfeld cast, including Helen Morgan singing "I Can't Help Lovin' That Man," and "Bill"; with Jim Bledsoe topping the preliminaries by singing "Ol' Man River."

It's show business and "Show Boat" was produced by Carl Laemmle, directed by Harry Pollard, and played by its cast with that thought uppermost.

San Antonio "Show Boat" Campaign Packed With Showmanship Pointers

STAGING a successful premiere, particularly at an odd hour in a city unused to midnight performances, is no mean feat of showmanship. It was accomplished in San Antonio with excellent results when the Aztec Theatre presented "Show Boat" a week prior to its regular run at a special midnight preview. San Antonio does not indulge too often in late hours so that the question offered a real problem. Universal Exploiteer A. J. Sharick realized the difficulties and concentrated on the younger people and clubs and organizations most likely to take advantage of the preview.

Premiere Contacts

Among these bodies Sharick solicited the Kelly and Brooks Air Fields, getting in touch with the social contact man for five air fields. Fort Sam Houston was also informed of the premiere and officers and their wives urged to attend. Through the president of the Federated Women's Clubs, who is admitted leader of social circles, Sharick telephoned heads of various city clubs and distributed roto heralds of the premiere.

A popular member of the Chamber of Commerce was persuaded to phone for five hours informing people to get their "Show Boat" tickets early. The seven leading hotels were called on and all gave permission to have roto heralds posted.

The personnel departments of eight leading stores were sold on the idea of getting up theatre parties after the stores closed on Saturday night.

Notices were posted on the bulletin boards of the Elks and Eagles Clubs and the San Antonio Sport Club arranging for blocks of tickets.

In this manner, the Aztec Theatre was not dependent on the older and more conservative San Antonians for a premiere audience.

Transportation Tie-up

Because of the fact that transportation facilties in San Antonio are none too active after midnight, Sharick got the Yellow Cab Company to take an ad in the paper telling folks that they need not worry about getting home from the premiere as the Yellow cabs would be on the job.

Radio Publicity

The premiere news was broadcast over three big stations well in advance of the playdate. "Show Boat" music was used and a colorful outline of the Universal super sent over the air.

Paper Campaign

Fifty-eight 24-sheets and thirty 3's with a one-sheet date strip reading, "Aztec —Midnite show— April 6th," were posted in good locations. These postings were newly date striped for the next week's regular engagement and fifty 24-sheet billings added.

The premiere turned out to be a distinct hit and gave a tremendous word-of-mouth impetus to the regular run of "Show Boat."

The co-operative ad shown on this page played a prominent part in the exploitation of the regular run of "Show Boat." The star guessing contest reaped big box-office returns and the dressmaking contest is a wow.

This full page co-operative ad in "Show Boat" combines every element of showmanship in such a tie-up, namely, a star contest of popular appeal, the big national Borden dressmaking contest and record tie-ups on the song hits from "Show Boat."

"SHOW BOAT

really lives up to all superlatives

—George Gerhard
in the New York Evening World.

now at the
GLOBE THEATRE
New York
PACKING THEM IN
AT $2 TOP

It just keeps rolling alon

Universal's Talking and Singing Triumph

HOW

n picture, and it is what I one of the items to place high on w York musts!"

—Quinn Martin in N. Y. World.

proach to the ideal American Saga! It must repeat its successes!"

—John S. Cohen, Jr., in N. Y. Sun

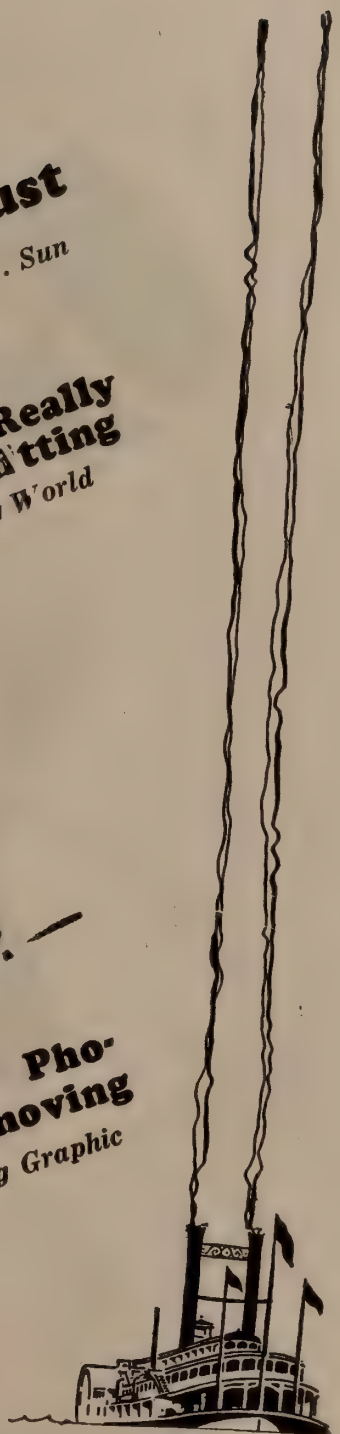
y the best thing ever turned out by Carl Laemmle. Really p to all those superlatives Uncle Carl has been emitting bout it!"

—George Gerhard in N. Y. Evening World

It just keeps rolling along.—

"'Show Boat' arrived in all its glory! Photography magnificent! A fine, swift moving drama!

—Lois Bull in N. Y. Evening Graphic



BOAT

Universal's Talking and Singing Triumph

HOW

eat awaiting you at
'Boat' should have a vast and ence. The production rates ace high!"
—Regina Cannon in N. Y. American

d the tremendous advantage of Jerome Kern's nd genuinely beautiful musical score!"
—Richard Watts in N. Y. Herald Tribune his column wishes to go on record as saying that Bledsoe's n is about the most effective ever recorded on the singing creen!"

—Rose Pelswick in N. Y. Evening Journal

It just keeps rolling along!

"'Show Boat' floated with a good deal of majesty into the Globe Theatre last evening!"
—Irene Thirer in N. Y. Daily News

BOAT

Complete Wire Reports of UNITED PRESS, The Greatest World-Wide News Service
The New York Telegram HOME
11 15 WALL ST. TABLES
NEW YORK, MONDAY, APRIL
PRICE THREE CENTS
WARDER QUITS STATE BANK POST
Two Bankers Balked at Taking Over
Despite Warder's Assurances SENATORS BOW
"A very handsom pressive produc
taking shots!
HOME EDITION
New York Evening Post
MONDAY APRIL
THREE 3 CENTS
HOOVER'S A
SOUNDS D
FARM BO
PLAN
Criticizes Bounty
$200,000 FIRE ON BOARDWALK AT ROCKAWAY
Second Five-Alarm Blaze in West Destroys Hotel, Cabaret and Concessions
BLOCK OF PROMENADE EATEN AWAY BY FLAMES
300 Firemen Battle for Three Hours, Using All Apparatus in Queens
F. H. WARDER QUITS STATE BANK POST
Says $3,000,000 Cash Is Ready for City Trust
Depositors
STEINHARDT PROBE HUNTS MEN IN FEAR
EXPERTS DELAY 'SHOWDOWN' ON REPARATIONS
Adjourn Till Tomorrow Best of Late Arrival of Schacht
From Berlin
HOW TO PHRASE FAILURE IS SOLE QUESTION NOW
GIBSON
TO
"Show Boat night's audi
The MORNING TELEGRAPH
American's Oldest Authoritative Newspaper of Racing, Theatre and Sports
TEN CENTS in Greater New York, 15c elsewhere
MONDAY, APRIL
FINAL
Complete
WEATHER FORECAST
Rain Costs Yanks
7-4 Beating by A's
Called at Beginning of Sixth Inning
Talent Is Cheap
For Coast Stage
Actors Eager for Chance Hawk Their Dialogue 8c
a Line Talk
"Miss
excell
"All the News That's Fit to Print."
The New York Time
NEW YORK, MONDAY, APRIL
OPENS DRIVE
KRUPTCY RING
STEINHARDT
Gov. Roosevelt Goes South
For a Rest Until July
SCHACHT RETURNS WITH ORIGINAL OFFER AFTER BERLIN TALK
He Insists He Can Raise the Annuity Figure Only if Reich Productivity Is Increased.
HE STILL HAS A FREE HAND
But Cannot Be Expected to Avoid All Political Issues at Paris Meeting Today
LITTLE HOPE IS SEEN THERE
Ingalls Plane Wrecked on Fog;
Navy Flyers Officiate Unhurt
TORNADOES KILL 22 IN THE SOUTHWEST; FLOODS TAKE TOL
Twisters at Tiller, Ar.
Dahomey, Miss., End La.
of 16 in Day.
13 KILLED ON PLANTATION
Huge Hailstones Fall at Louisville—Farm Property Loss Heavy on Storms in Area.
LEVEE OUT AT CANTON, MO.
REV. STURGIS ALLEN
AIR COLLISION KILLS
SIX IN CALIFORNIA
Universal's
Talking and Singing
Triumph
HOW

y mounted and im-
on—packed with breath
—Katharine Zimmerman in N. Y. Evening Telegram has many fine sequences—excellent singing! Last nce was cordially appreciative!"

—Creighton Peet in N. Y. Evening Post a Plante never appeared to such nt advantage!"

—N. Y. Morning Telegraph

essed with a wealth of splendidly orded songs!"
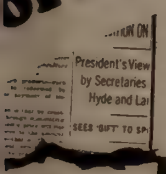
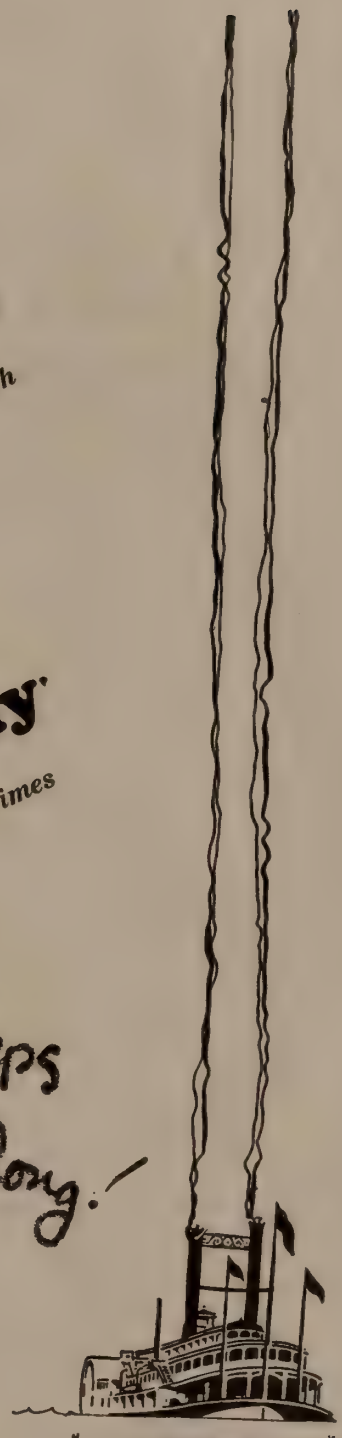
—Mordaunt Hall in N. Y. Times

It just keeps rolling along.





BOAT

Arthur James says

EMINENT CRITIC and publisher.....
EXHIBITORS' DAILY REVIEW

"Show Boat" a Show Triumph

By

Arthur James

BEGINNING with sprightliness, proceeding with poignant human drama shot through with the shining threads of humor, "Show Boat", the Show of the Season, ends with a haunting melody, sung by a negro with a voice like a cello.

• • •

THIS much heralded and much expected sound and dialogue entertainment will duplicate internationally the New York success of Florenz Ziegfeld's stage production and there's no doubt in the world about that.

• • •

AT the Globe Theatre last night, Carl Laemmle who presents the picture on behalf of Universal shared his honors with Mr. Ziegfeld and both were in screen evidence.

• • •

BEAUTIFULLY contrived by the superb direction of Harry Pollard, triumphantly scored by that rising musical genius, Joseph Cherniavsky, acted with power, sincerity and feeling by Laura LaPlante, Joseph Schildkraut, Emily Fitzroy, Alma Rubens and Otis Harlan, as principals in an amazing cast, this supreme drama of the Mississippi and its show world rises as high as the sky itself and goes as deep as the utter depths of the swirling surges of human emotions.

• • •

IT is embellished with music, ornamented with song and its tempo is in rhythm with the heart beats of the world.

• • •

UNIVERSAL has in "Show Boat" a box office achievement that is likely to break all previous picture records and is an entertainment It is a decoration for picture history.

If you want
"BROADWAY"
you must get it from Universal because—
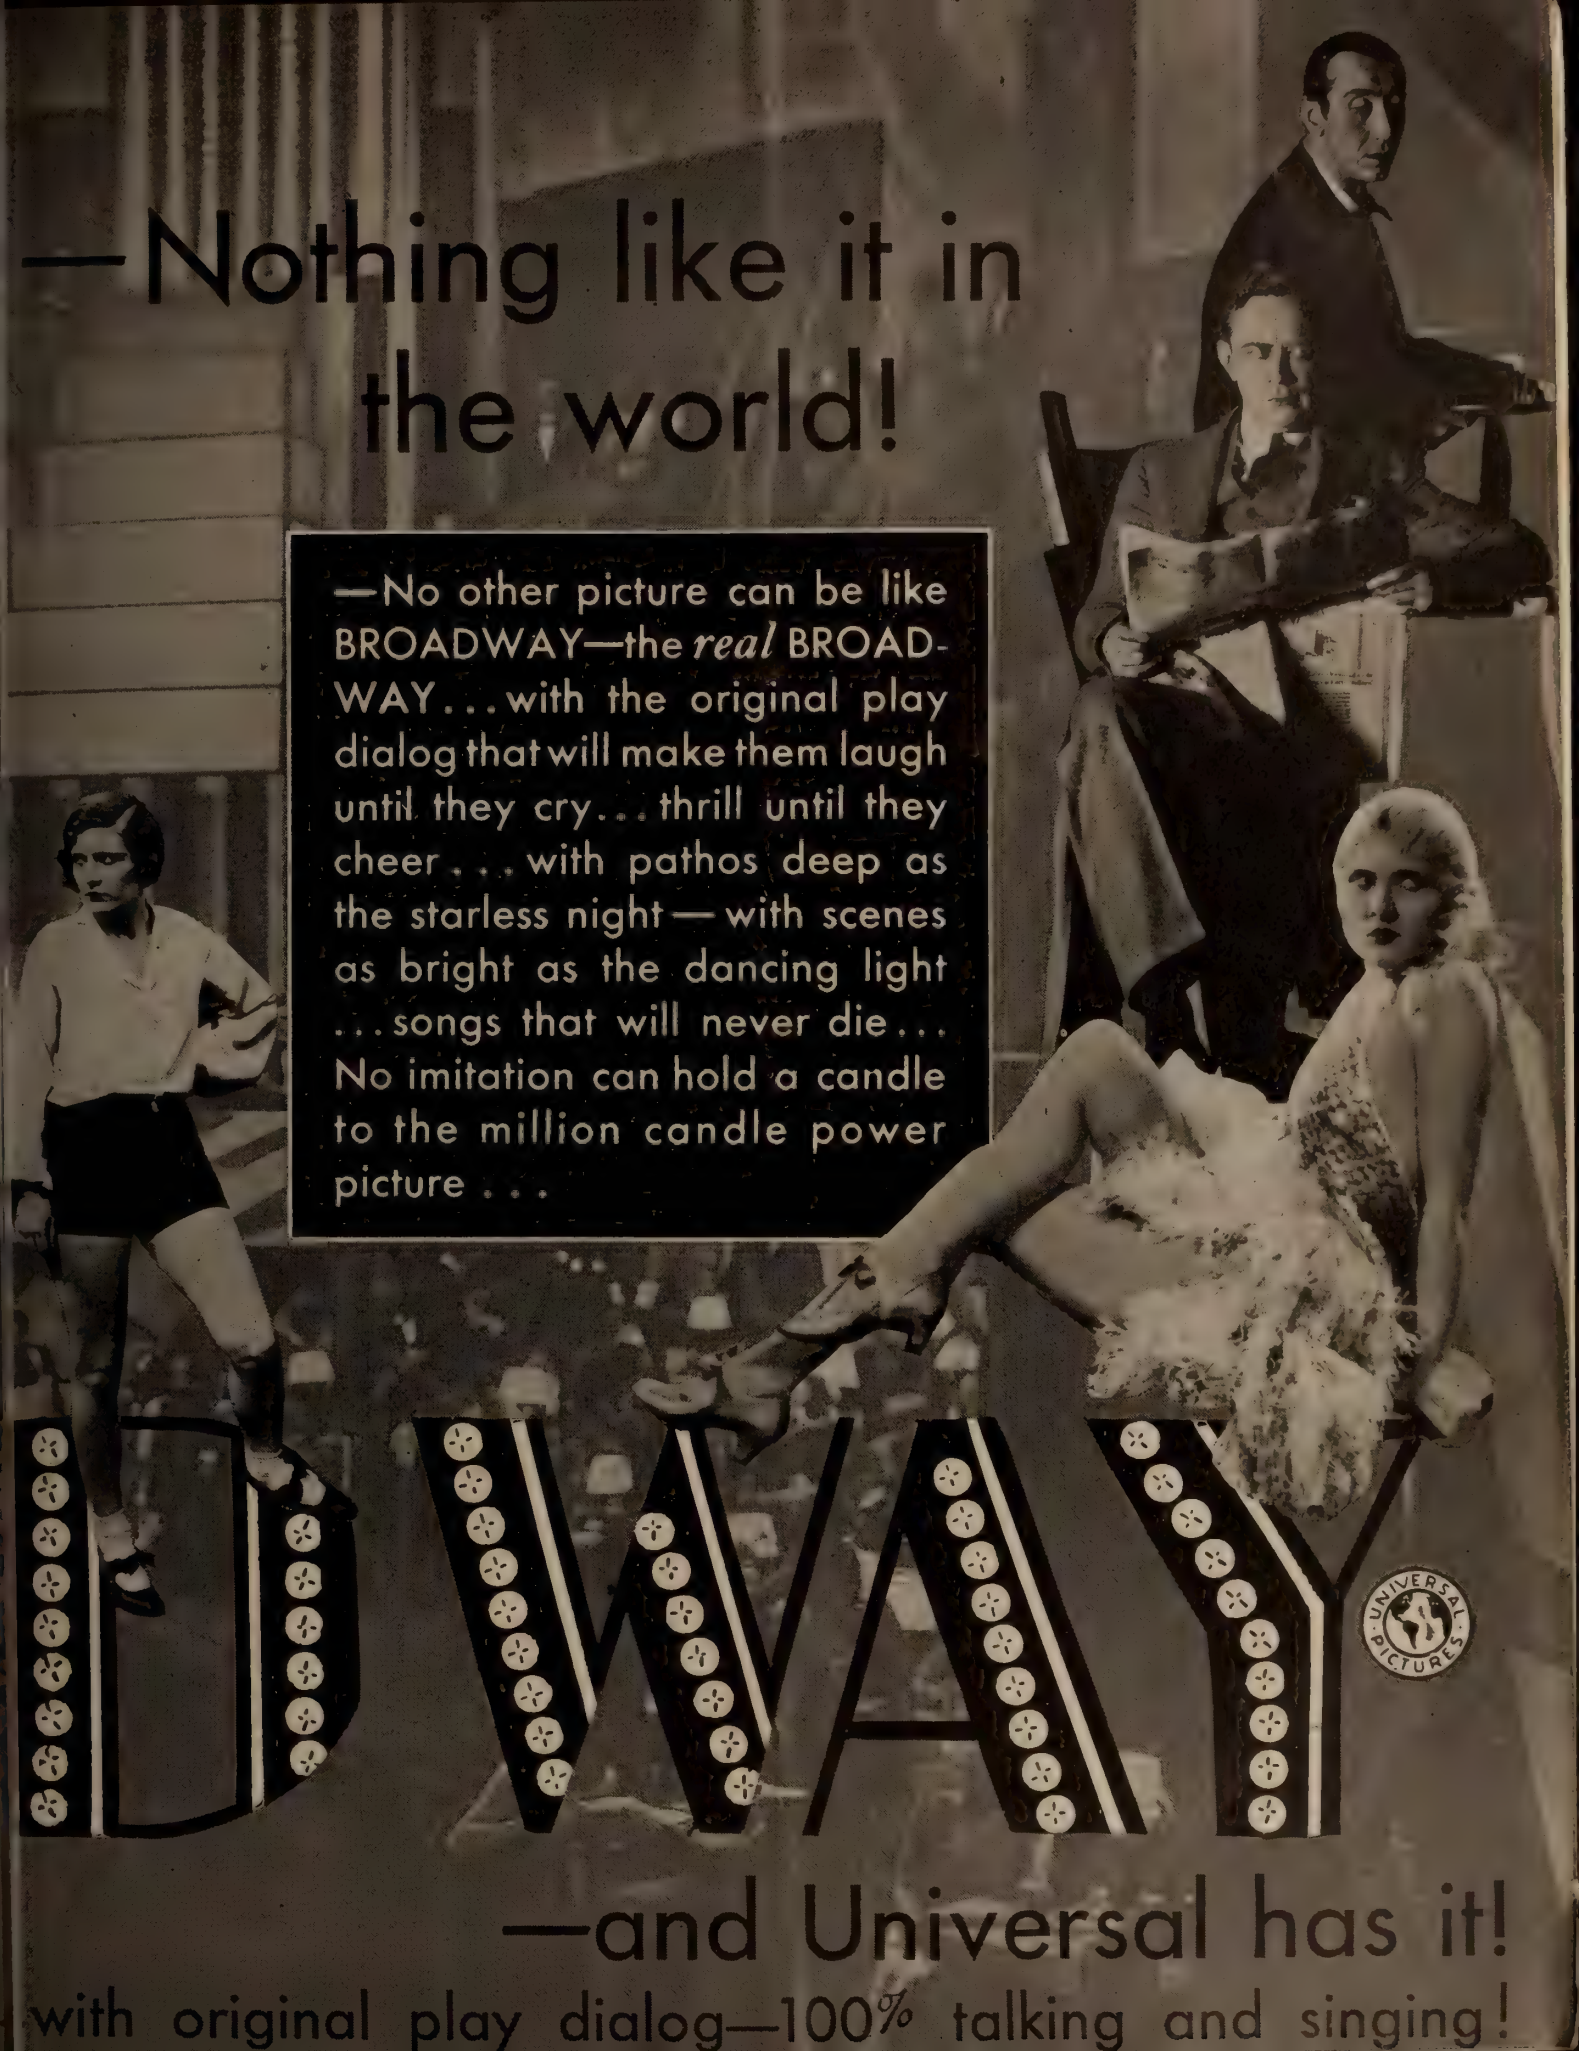
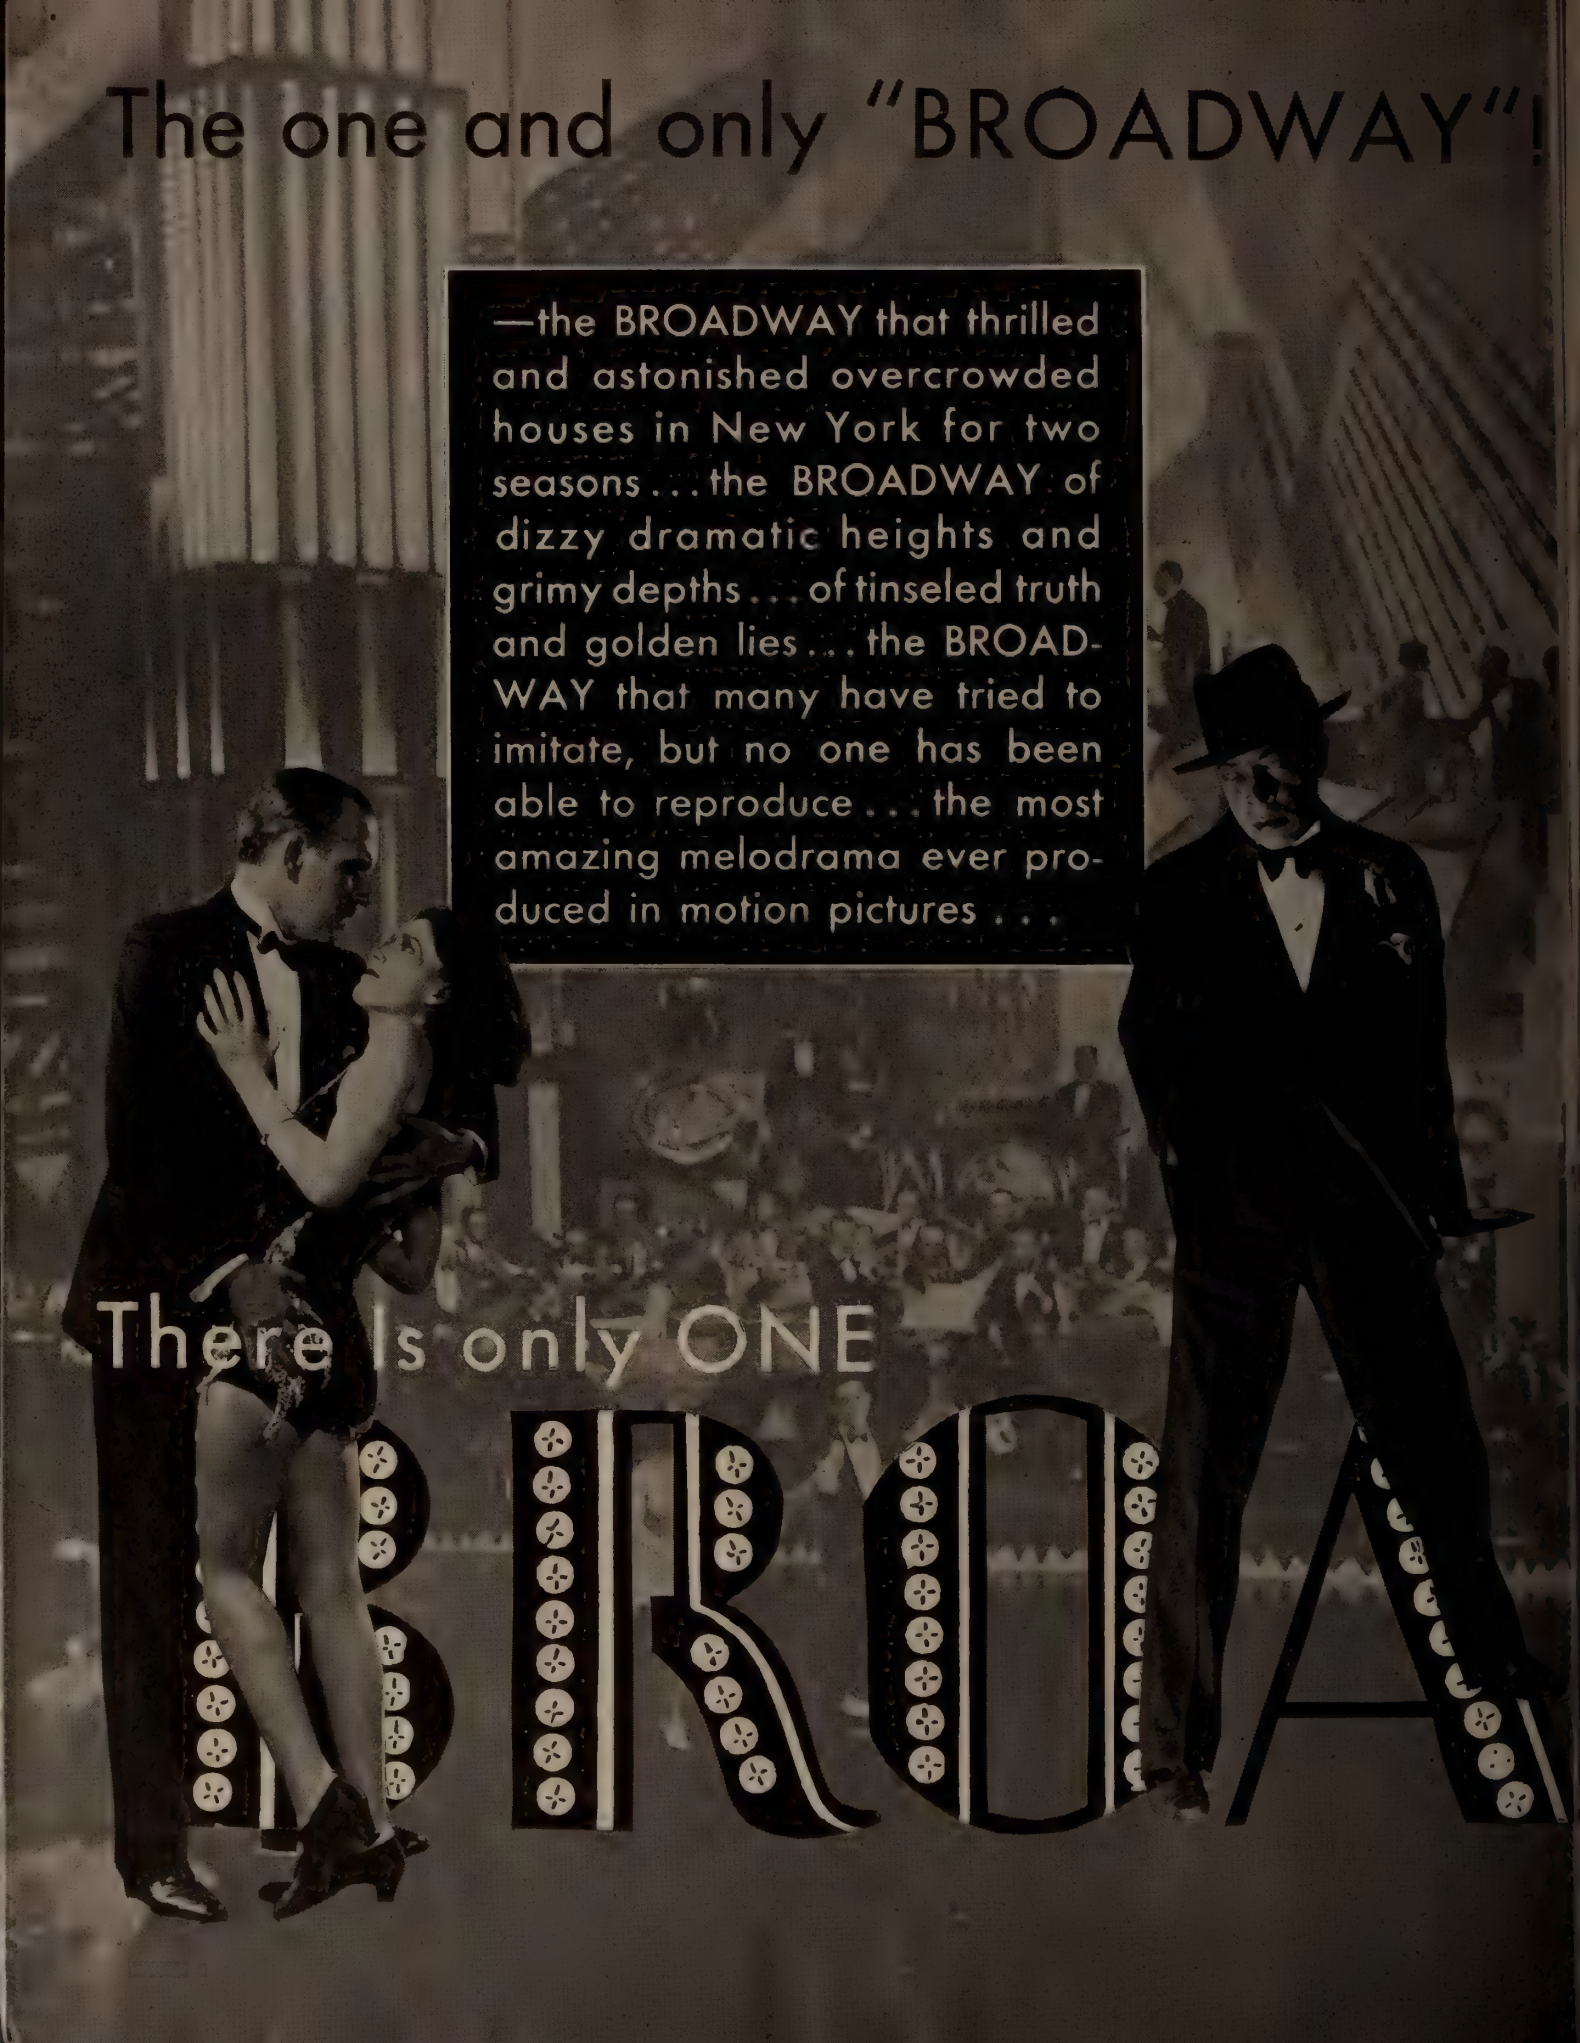
with
Glenn Tryon, Evelyn Brent,
Merna Kennedy, *T. E. Jackson, Otis Harlan,
Robert Ellis, *Paul Porcasi, Leslie Fenton,
George Ovey.
from
JED HARRIS' Stage Production of the play
GEO. ABBOT and PHILIP DUNNING
A PAUL FEJOS Production
Associate Producer
CARL LAEMMLE, Jr.
Two Negatives: one SILENT, one with DIALOG
Color Scenes Photographed by Technicolor Process
*of the original play cast
NOTE: The use of the name "Broadway" in association with other film productions is unauthorized and has no connection with this, the original play by that name.
There Is only ONE
BROADWAY
—and Universal has it!



—Nothing like it in the world!
—No other picture can be like BROADWAY—the real BROADWAY... with the original play dialog that will make them laugh until they cry... thrill until they cheer... with pathos deep as the starless night — with scenes as bright as the dancing light ...songs that will never die... No imitation can hold a candle to the million candle power picture...
BROADWAY
UNIVERSAL PICTURES
—and Universal has it!
with original play dialog—100% talking and singing!



The one and only "BROADWAY"!
—the BROADWAY that thrilled and astonished overcrowded houses in New York for two seasons . . . the BROADWAY of dizzy dramatic heights and grimy depths . . . of tinseled truth and golden lies . . . the BROADWAY that many have tried to imitate, but no one has been able to reproduce . . . the most amazing melodrama ever produced in motion pictures . . .
There is only ONE
RKO

Candle Power Picture!

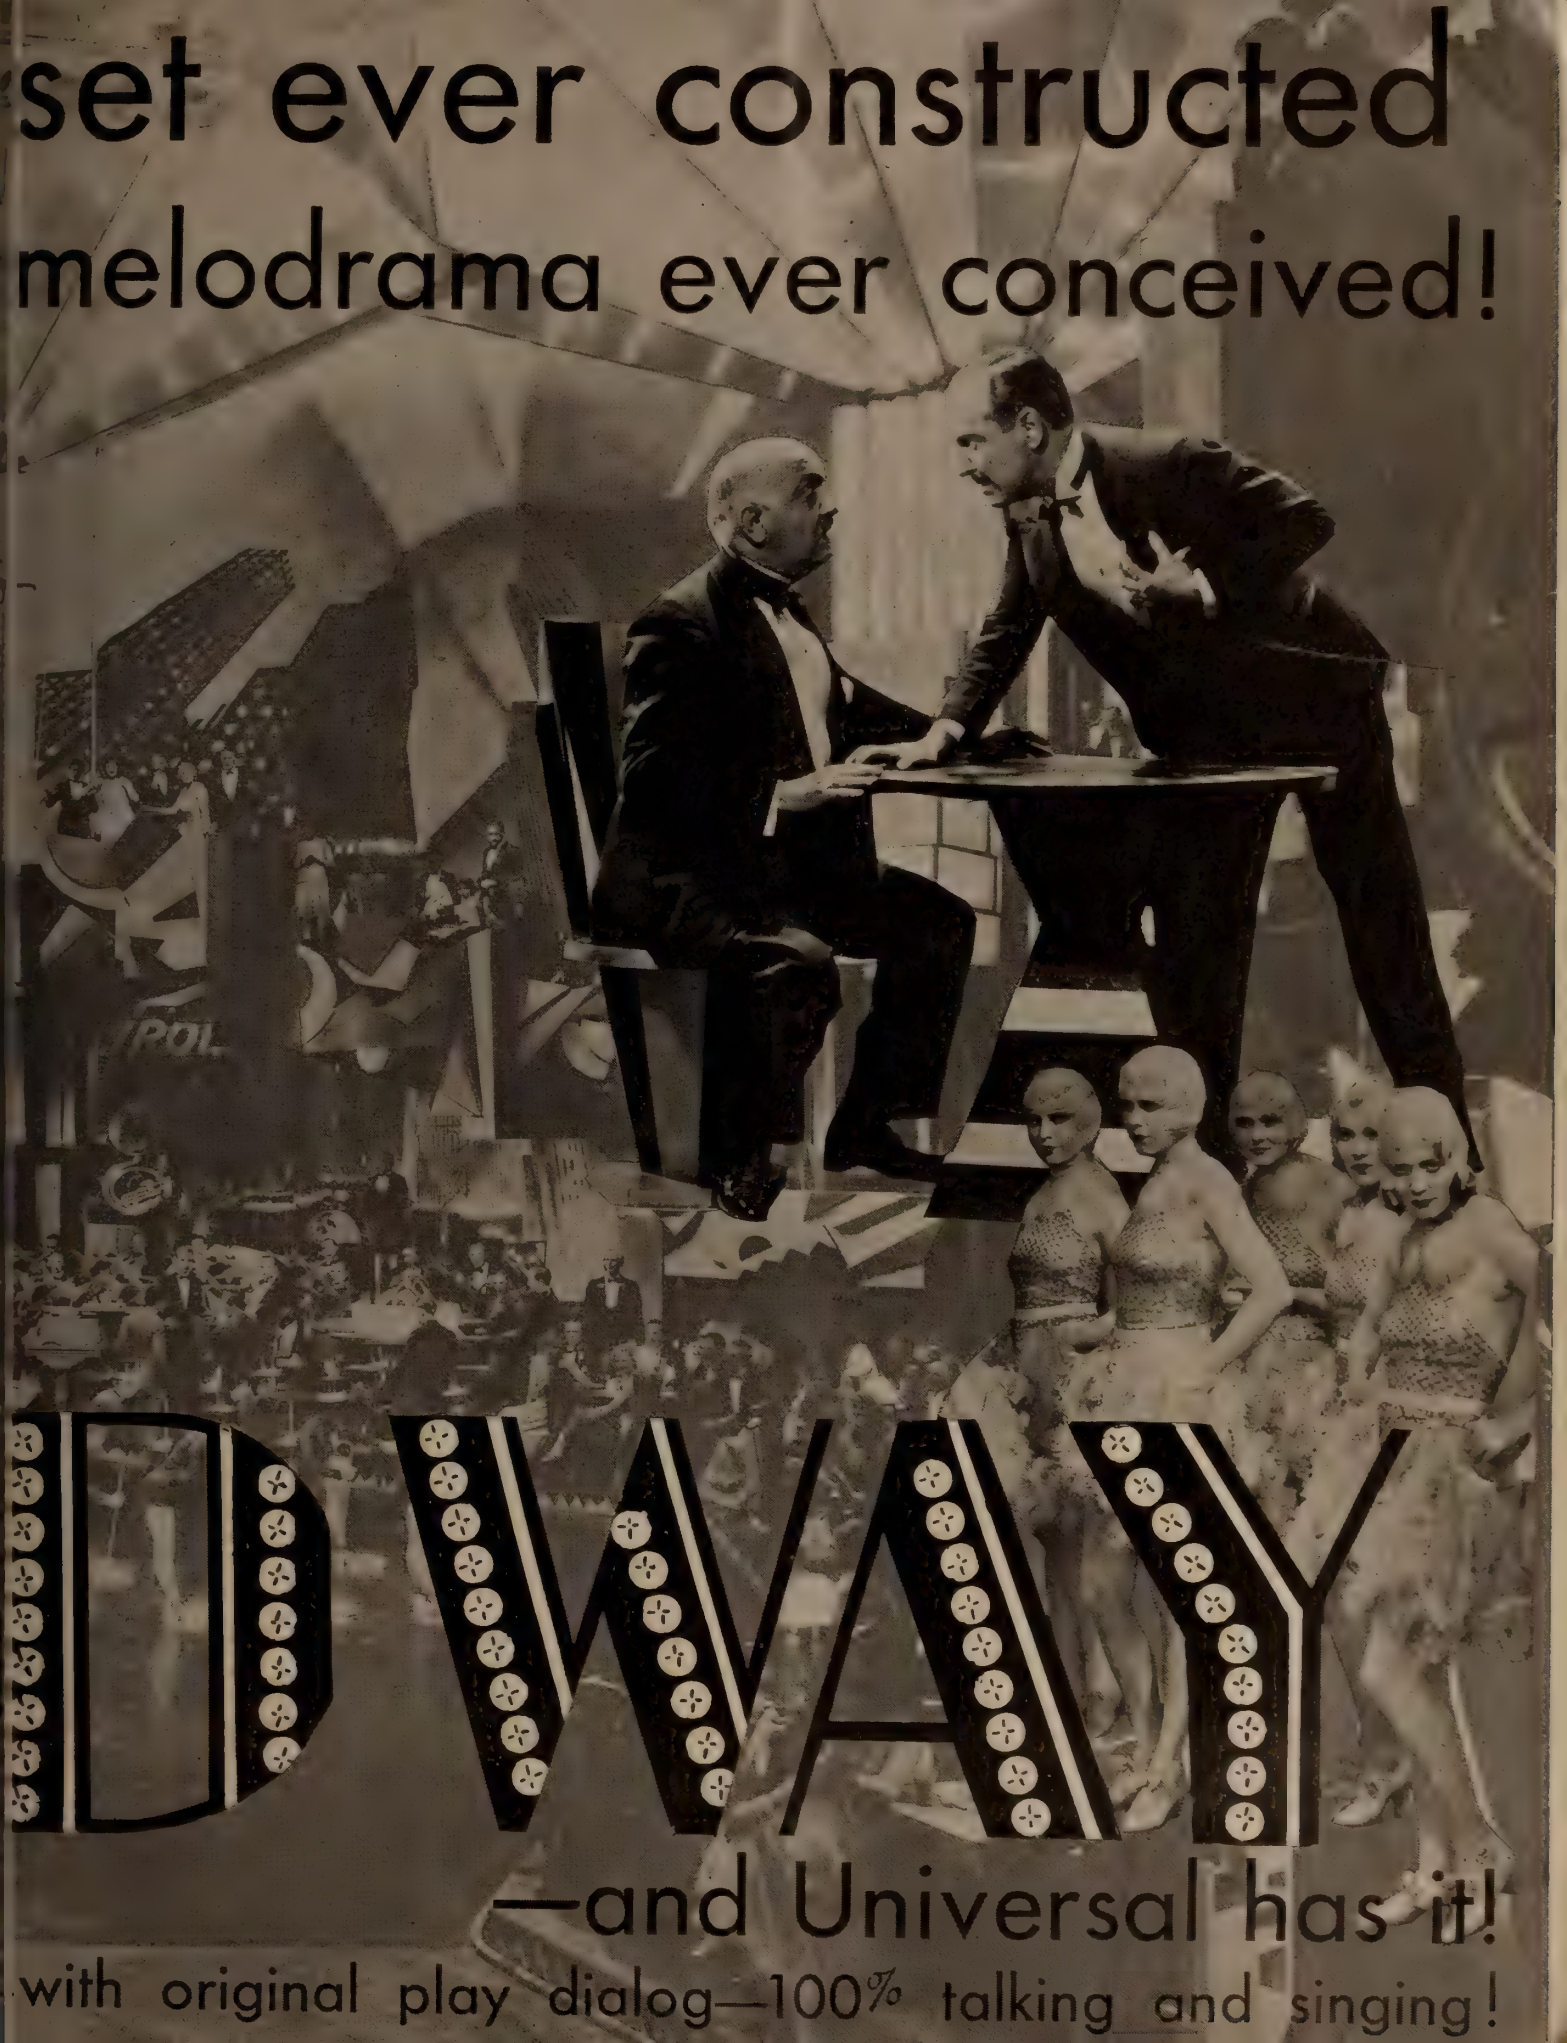
—100% talking and singing!

YOU'LL SEE THINGS YOU NEVER SAW BEFORE!

—and Universal has it!

Carl Laemmle's Million
—with original play dialog
YOU'LL HEAR SONGS YOU CAN NEVER FORGET!
There Is only ONE
BIRDA

set ever constructed melodrama ever conceived!



BROADWAY

—and Universal has it!

with original play dialog—100% talking and singing!

The larges for the greates
There Is only ONE
BIRKIA

The most widely imitated play ever pictured!
There is only ONE
BROADWAY
the most astonishing stage success in history!

"BROADWAY" HAS VARIED PSYCHOLOGICAL APPEALS

(Continued from page 1)

There is another angle to this captivation appeal which is recognized but not clearly understood by many of those who will see the picture. When a beautiful girl is seen draped on the stage, it is simply a lovely spectacle and does contain some degree of emotional appeal. But the absolute fascination of back-stage life, particularly in musical shows where the chorus girls wear very little, indeed, behind the scenes, holds even greater captivation appeal for this reason.

The casual acts of every woman in everyday life become enhanced when they are performed by chorus girls wearing their stage costumes behind the scenes. The spectators feel that they are being permitted to peek behind the veil of mystery with which every woman shelters herself. And this is extremely exciting to people of both sexes.

In "Broadway" we see the girls walking about, very casually, in their chorus girl costumes behind the scenes in the night club. We see them talking with one another, arguing with the night club owner, making love, and being made love to, and going through all the other natural actions of any woman, as unconscious of their costumes as you and I are of ours. In fact, the entire dramatic action of "Broadway" takes place with the girls in these costumes. That in itself is sufficient to captivate any public in the world, while at the same time it is healthy and normal because the girls are acting naturally, unconscious of their costumes.

Next, there is the dominance appeal of "Broadway." This is the play that first acquainted civilization with the modern underworld of de luxe bootleggers, racketeers, and liquor dispensing night clubs. Broadway showed the world that night clubs and organized gangsters are inseparable parts of modern pleasure-seeking in the big cities.

Every playwright knows that a successful drama must always hold a dangerous threat to the leading characters. Psychologically, there must be a great danger of some sort to be dominated by the leading players of the story. The dominance emotion of the audience is then aroused sympathically with that of the hero and heroine. When the girl and the hero overcome the villain, the audience gets a thrill of dominance in this story. "Broadway" is replete with this type of dominance appeal.

There is another appeal, known to psychologists as aesthetic emotion. The gorgeous sets, the beautifully gowned women in the night club, the sparkling and colorful chorus, all harmonize into a spectacle to find the equal of which you would travel in vain to Broadway itself. This aesthetic emotion is aroused by a perception of harmonious, yet new sights and sounds in the world about you. Scenes in the Paradise Night Club offer spectacles harmonious in every detail, yet wholly new even to the most experienced night club habitue.

One other item in this artistic emotion appeal is a new continuity between scenes which is made possible by the camera crane. For the first time in motion pictures we find no break whatsoever between camera shots which pick up the leading characters at close range and recede to show the entire night club spectacle in which the leading characters are participating. This gives new harmonious blending to the whole story which is not possible in any other form of art and has never previously appeared even in pictures.

Finally we have the love appeal of the whole-hearted devotion of the "hoofer" for Billie, the chorus girl, played by Merna Kennedy. The "hoofer" is alternately pathetic, wisecracky, and humorous. But through it all his love for the girl shines steadfast and true and with complete self-sacrifice when put to the test. Without a central love appeal, a story seems somehow barren and meaningless to everyone. In "Broadway," in the midst of all its color, sophistication, and desperate dominance of the underworld, we find one of the most delicate and realistic love appeals tying the entire story together and raising it to great emotional heights.

The result of these numerous appeals of the screen version of "Broadway" is an unending audience stimulation that changes in character but mounts steadily to a climax. The picture satisfies the natural desires of typical motion picture fans because it satisfactorily offers the elements they seek vicariously within the romantic portals of entertainment houses.

The beauty of the Paradise Night Club set satisfies the esthetic appeal, while the romance between the hoofer and his partner fills the love element.

One of the exciting backstage brawls that give ample vent to the audience demand for dominance.

Strong Masculine Support For Stars In "Broadway"

Otis Harlan, Veteran Character Actor, Plays "Porky" Thomas Jackson and Paul Porcasi Play Same Roles They Portrayed In Stage Hit—Robert Ellis Makes Stunning "Menace" as Steve Crandall

UNIVERSAL'S screen version of "Broadway" depends on its strength in no less degree than the stage hit did on an excellent supporting cast. It is by no means a one-man or woman play. The characters are all vigorously drawn and the tensity and pitch of the underworld drama is built upon complications that involve the entire cast of principals.

Carl Laemmle, Jr., realized this element to the full extent and surrounded Glenn Tryon, Merna Kennedy and Evelyn Brent with a quartette of hemen that bring out the grim implications of the night-club drama.

Otis Harlan, whose effective role of Captain Andy Hawks in "Show Boat" caused so much praise, will portray "Porky" in "Broadway." The character is that of a humorous gangster—hard-boiled, worldly, but infectious in his belated romance with Lil, the night-club hostess. Harlan has played in numerous Universal comedies, notably as Reginald Denny's side kick. He is also seen to good advantage in "Port of Dreams" with Mary Philbin, and recently in "Silks and Saddles."

* * *

Thomas Jackson's terse portrayal of the white detective, Dan McCorn, in the stage "Broadway" will be remembered as one of the best characterizations of that excellent cast. Jackson comes from a theatrical family, and refused to be made into a business man by his actor father. He made his first appearance on the stage in 1914 in the sensational "Yellow Jacket." Six years as a member of a stock company in Toronto followed a barnstorming Shakespearean tour, and then role followed role in such theatrical record breakers as "The Vagabond," "Shipwrecked," "Shore Leave," "For Goodness Sake," and many others. Then he became the original Dan McCorn of "BROADWAY" in the New York stage production, carrying the role throughout the entire run of ninety-one consecutive weeks.

Carl Laemmle, Jr., producer of "Broadway," induced Jackson to come to Los Angeles to play the same part in the picture. It was the actor's first appearance before the camera.

* * *

Paul Porcasi is the second member of Universal's "Broadway" cast who also played in the original stage hit. He created the role of Nick Verdis, the Greek cabaret owner in whose night club the action of the melodrama occurs.

An opera singer of distinction before he entered upon his career on the legitimate stage, Porcasi was born in Palermo, Italy. He came to America at the age of twenty, singing with the Italian Grand Opera Company and with the Les Durand Opera Trio over the Keith and Orpheum circuits.

In 1910 Porcasi played his first role on the legitimate stage in "Country Boy," produced by H. B. Harris. He appeared in no less than eighteen successive hits before being cast as Nick Verdis in "Broadway," which he played throughout the two years New York run. Porcasi appeared in three feature pictures before re-creating this role in the Carl Laemmle super-production of "Broadway," his other films being made between his stage appearances in the East. His favorite recreation is playing the piano.

* * *

Robert Ellis, who gives a magnificent performance as the bootlegger in Universal's "Broadway," has had a long and varied career on both the legitimate stage and screen. He has been prominent on the screen for the past ten years, prior to which he played with the Shuberts and Klaw and Erlanger on the stage. Ellis has also been a director during his career. His most recent Universal picture was "The Freedom of the Press."

Ellis, who in private life is the quite recent groom of lovely Vera Reynolds, gives to his characterization of Steve Crandall a sinister suavity that is one of the dramatic achievements of the super-talkie. Naturally, his long years of stage experience have equipped him with an excellent voice and sure technique.

LEFT TO RIGHT: Thomas Jackson, Paul Porcasi and Robert Ellis as the detective, cabaret proprietor and bootlegger king respectively in "Broadway."

Otis Harlan adds to his wonderful performance as Cap'n Andy Hawks in "Show Boat" a fine characterization as Porky in "Broadway."

NEW YORK NIGHT LIFE CAPTURED IN UNIVERSAL'S EPIC "BROADWAY"

Brilliance of Night Club and Backstage Intrigues Reflected in Screen Version of Sensational Stage Hit

UNIVERSAL'S "Broadway" has captured the restless, pleasure-seeking spirit of the Great White Way as it has never been presented before. Life flows too swiftly in the canyons of Broadway for the legitimate stage to catch its rhythm. Its moods are too shifting, its manifestations too varied for the solid dimensions of the stage. The curious blending of brillance with the sordid, the contrast of glitter and grimness, find a perfect medium in Universal's talking screen version of "Broadway."

Broadway at its best is the brilliancy of its night life—its myriad pleasure palaces which, combined, form the world's most colorful primrose path. And "Broadway," as produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr., presents in all-sound photography not only the enthralling action of the play which held New York itself breathless for almost two years, but, in addition, all the color and fascination which so essentially belong to Broadway alone.

In the play as it was presented on the New York stage, all the action occurred in only one scene —Nick Verdis' office in the Paradise Night Club. The occurrences in the night club itself were described, but not shown. In the picturization of the play this situation offered the greatest opportunity to the producer to enhance materially the entertainment value of the film.

Mr. Laemmle, together with Dr. Paul Fejos, the director, Edward T. Lowe, Jr., the 'script and dialogue writer, and Danny Hall of the Studio technical staff, seized this opportunity to the full. They envisioned a night club which should be symbolic not only of one of Broadway's glittering pleasure palaces, not only of Broadway itself, but of New York as a whole.

The first step in the building of this structure was the construction of the largest sound stage in the world—340 feet long, 150 feet wide, and 70 feet high, the size of a city block. More than half of this entire stage was used to build the Paradise Night Club itself as the largest set ever constructed on any stage in the history of motion pictures industry.

Although the size of this set was a remarkable achievement in itself, more remarkable still was the "atmosphere" attained by the effects built into it. A perfect example of ultra-modern cubistic art as a whole, each of the six 50-foot columns was a separate skyscraper, graduated in size toward the top, and illuminated with thousands of lights representing windows.

On the walls of the set were painted other skyscrapers, sloping futuristically outward into space from huge bases to the sky-line, where began the inverted pyramids supporting the roof. Inside of these pyramids and shining through them were other thousands of lights, a kaleidoscope of color flashing downward upon the black marble floor and the hundreds of tables and chairs, all especially made in dazzling color combinations and cubistic shapes, seating the gay crowd of revelers below.

Against the striking curtains forming the entertainers' entrance to the cafe a lighted, painted elevated roared upon a huge trellised arc. It disappeared behind one of the tiers of twenty-odd boxes bracketed upon the walls halfway between the floor and roof; boxes constructed in every conceivable shape, painted in every known color, and lighted by scores of table lamps with both shades and bases done in conformance with the entire design.

Gigantic human figures in cubistic form and color decorated the walls. In the elaborate main entrance hall, beyond and at the side side of the six black morble columns surmounted by opaqued lanterns, stood the Princess of Pleasure—a female figure carved in black onyx, greeting her subjects as they entered the cafe.

Here gleamed an omnipresent, all-seeing eye, fantastically lighted; there appeared an ocean liner, ablaze with lights, making her way seaward from the merry whirl. Everywhere were splashes and suggestions of some particular phase of New York. And into this blaze of color, beneath the 4,000,000 watts of light banked above, whirled the revue of thirty girls in six changes of costumes, singing and dancing numbers especially written for the production.

All this pageantry of color and motion was photographed in both sound and technicolor by Chief Cameraman Hal Mohr and three assistant cameras. The result, as seen upon the screen, embodies all the "atmosphere" of the Great White Way in a single setting.

Thomas E. Jackson, the Dan McCorn of the New York stage production, and Paul Porcasi, who plays the night club proprietor throughout the entire run of almost two years, both appear in the roles which they created. In the film they are actually shown in the dazzling Paradise Club of which they could only speak in the play, because such a setting as is shown in the picture would be utterly beyond the limits of any stage.

Glenn Tryon plays the role of Roy Lane, the hoofer, and leads the chorus through some exceedingly clever dance numbers. Tryon's experience as a song and dance man before he entered motion pictures gives his performance in "Broadway" an authentic ring and an easy grace.

A group of chorus girls in "Broadway" that is true to backstage life. In real life they are not at all hard-boiled, as their pictures indicate.
LEFT TO RIGHT: Edith Flynn, Florence Dudley and Betty Francisco.

Carl Laemmle, Jr., Associate Producer of "Broadway" Celebrates His 21st Birthday On April 28th

Youthful Son of Universal President Reaches Majority With Production of Super-Talking Picture to His Credit

Carl Laemmle, Sr., Curtails Trip East Where He Has Attended New York and Washington Premieres of "Show Boat" to Return to Universal City in Time for His Son's Coming of Age

CARL LAEMMLE, Jr., is incredibly young. Young, that is, to have accomplished the production of one of Universal's outstanding pictures of the year. "Broadway" is almost completed. Laemmle, Jr., is almost twenty-one years old. On April 28th there will be a double celebration at Universal City to fittingly mark Laemmle's coming of age and "Broadway's" completion.

Carl Laemmle, Senior, is hurrying back to Universal City for the occasion. He is returning to the Coast under the happiest circumstances. The Universal chief came east to attend the premieres of "Show Boat" in New York and Washington. It is difficult to say which of these events was the more brilliant. Both of them drew first night audiences of unusual distinction; both of them elicited praise such as is seldon accorded screen openings. Both of them were followed by box-office records that have steadily upheld the first burst of enthusiasm on the part of the public. The press and trade have been emphatic in according to Carl Laemmle the greatest achievement of his career in the production of "Show Boat."

So it is with a deep sense of satisfaction that Carl Laemmle is hurrying across the continent to celebrate his son's twenty-first birthday, and to mark the completion of "Show Boat's" companion picture. For "Broadway" has been made with the keenest sense of trying to make a better film than "Show Boat." "Show Boat" boasts the reputation of Edna Ferber's best seller, the songs and music from Florenz Ziegfeld's extravaganza, Harry Pollard's masterful direction and a superb cast. "Broadway" pits against all these assets the sensational success of the Jed Harris stage production, the genius of Paul Fejos, and an equally brilliant cast. Both pictures are made on a tremendous scale. Carl Laemmle paid Edna Ferber $65,000 for the screen rights to "Show Boat," which with the tidy sum given to Florenz Ziegfeld for the incorporation of the musical hits of his show, brought the cost of "Show Boat" well toward the two million mark. For the screen rights to "Broadway" Laemmle paid George Abbot and Philip Dunning $265,000. The production cost of the sound version alone is estimated at $1,500,000, bringing the total amount very close to the staggering "Show Boat" sum.

The very success of "Show Boat" gives a keener edge to Laemmle, Jr's high hopes for "Broadway." It is, in the first place, his first effort since his appointment as associate producer. This distinction was conferred upon him last December by Robert E. Welsh, general manager of the Universal studio, both as a reward and a challenge. Welsh would never have entrusted the production of one of Universal's best bets for the coming season to young Laemmle had he not already evinced an outstanding sense of showmanship. Junior supervised "The Last Warning" and "Erik the Great" so creditably that his talent, whether inherited or hardily acquired through years of work on the lot, was ready for bigger material. Welsh could not conceive of anything much bigger than "Broadway."

Carl Laemmle, Jr., on the camara crane invented by Paul Fejos, (in the insert) which Laemmle, Jr., sponsored for "Broadway"

From Hungary to "Broadway"

Paul Fejos, Bacteriologist from Budapest, Creates Typical American Night Club Atmosphere in "Broadway"

CARL LAEMMLE, Jr., might have chosen a typical American director to make a typical American picture of Broadway life. Instead he selected Paul Fejos, the Hungarian bacteriologist who had proven, in "The Last Moment" and "Lonesome," that he has directorial genius. Laemmle, Jr., knew it would be a simple matter for Fejos to go through a concentrated study of gangster and cafe life. Which is exactly what Fejos did in a fly-by-night trip to New York. Fejos' direction of "Lonesome" reflected his eager receptivity and translation of New York sights and sounds. In "Broadway" he has caught those sights and sounds quickened by liquor, underworld intrigue, backstage love, laughter and lyrics.

In order to translate these throbbing elements of "Broadway" more effectively and dramatically, Fejos invented a camera crane which is capable of dramatizing the "personality" of the huge Paradise Night Club set built for the picture. Fejos made the Paradise Night Club more dazzling, more modernistic and more elaborate than any actual cabaret now in existence. The crane enabled him to "shoot" the Paradise Club from every angle.

A TRIO OF 'BROADWAY' STARS

Glenn Tryon, Who Plays Role of Roy Lane, Was a Hoofer Himself Before His Screen Career

Myrna Kennedy Has Always Been a Leading Lady

Evelyn Brent, "The Crook Lady" Again Goes Criminal in "Broadway"

WHEN Carl Laemmle, Jr., selected Glenn Tryon as Roy Lane, the cabaret hoofer of the screen version of the sensationally successful New York stage play, Tryon just naturally fell into the characterization even before he put on his make-up. For him, it was simplicity itself.

"All I had to do," he said, "was merely to forget the few years I have been in pictures and go back, mentally, to the days of 'Baby Mine' and 'La La Lucille,' in both of which musical productions I played parts much the same as my role in 'Broadway.' Those days I was trying to make my bread and butter while I made myself known—just as does Roy Lane in the picture."

Several of the costumes which Tryon wears in his scenes as an entertainer in the elaborate Paradise Night Club, the largest and most lavish set ever built for a motion picture, also were the result of the star's earlier stage life.

"Of course," he said, "I sing and dance with Merna Kennedy numbers which were especially written for 'Broadway' by Con Conrad, Archie Gottler and Sidney Mitchell, three of the most celebrated song-writers in America, but I wear in several of the cabaret acts clothes very similar to those which I used to wear when I was before the footlights."

Glenn Tryon

Never in his stage career, however, Tryon says, did he ever work with a revue chorus as strikingly beautiful or as sumptuously costumed as the "Broadway Beauties" in the picture. These girls, recruited from the cream of Hollywood cafes and especially trained from the production, form gorgeously animated spectacles in their six "pony" numbers.

Tryon has played many comedy roles for Universal, of which the most recent are in "It Can Be Done" and "The Gate Crasher." In "Lonesome" Tryon proved that he was capable of deeper roles than farcical ones.

* * *

MERNA KENNEDY, who will portray the lovable team-mate of Roy Lane in "Broadway" has always been a leading lady in the motion pictures. Her first bow to picture fame was as Charlie Chaplin's leading lady in "The Circus." She was appearing in a musical comedy called "All for You" at the Mason Opera House in Los Angeles when Chaplin was looking for a feminine lead. Merna was the lucky lady. She retired from the screen for two years to be brought back to her thousands of admirers by Carl Laemmle, Jr., who signed her to a long-term contract preparatory to casting her as Billie Moore in "Broadway."

Merna Kennedy.

Merna was born in Kankakee, Illinois. She made her first stage debut at the tender age of seven, and mixed school and vaudeville engagements in pleasant proportions before Chaplin discovered her.

Miss Kennedy has gorgeous Titian hair, which has been hailed by internationally known artists as the most perfect example of the classic shade which they have seen.

* * *

EVELYN BRENT is a sterling example of what the movies will do to a young lady who started out to be a school teacher. Saved from that stern profession by a chance visit to the old Fort Lee studio of Universal, Miss Brent became an extra. After a year or two in this country, she went to England where she played on the stage and screen for four years.

Returning to America, she became known as "the crook lady" because of her successive parts in a series of crook melodramas, which led to featured parts in many box-office hits. Universal needed just such a crook lady for the role of "Pearl" in "Broadway," so Evelyn Brent got the part of the murdered gangster's show girl lover.

Evelyn Brent's beauty responds brilliantly to the sulky hauteur of the "Broadway" role.

Evelyn Brent

WAY!!"

moving picture and sound rights—and the fact that our record bid was justified is now demonstrated by the completed picture.

Forget everything you ever fixed in your mind as the ideal picture of this type. Throw away all your former standards of comparison. Before you see "Broadway" prepare your mind for a brand new forward step in the world of entertainment.

As great as the stage play was, its physical limitations are narrow compared with the breadth and the scope of the picture. You are going to see breath-taking scenes such as you never dreamed of in the wildest flights of fancy. I am absolutely at a loss for words when I attempt to describe the bigness, the vastness and the glory of "Broadway."

Don't forget that the cast which is headed by Glenn Tryon, Evelyn Brent, Myrna Kennedy, Otis Harlan and Robert Ellis, also numbers in its super-excellent list two members of the original stage cast---Thomas Jackson, who played the detective role on Broadway, and Paul Porcasi, who enacted the role of the cabaret proprietor.

The music is exquisite, tuneful, catchy. The choruses and dancing numbers are, to my mind, better than anything heretofore done on either stage or screen.

Universal, as usual, will have both sound and silent prints.

Remember, there is only one "Broadway"—and Universal has it!

"BROAD

No. 635—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

THERE is only one "Broadway"---and Universal has it. There is nothing like it in the history of entertainment.

You think you have seen pictures of the glitter, glamor and romance of metropolitan life—but you haven't seen anything yet, nor will you until you see "Broadway."

You think you have heard good singing and great music of the ultra-modern type—but you haven't heard anything yet, nor will you until you have heard "Broadway."

Starting with the play of the same name, which turned New York upside down and later was sent throughout the world in road companies, Director Paul Fejos with Carl Laemmle, Jr., as associate producer, has built a masterpiece of the screen which will be hailed by public and press as the standard of perfection.

The play was produced originally by Jed Harris, who also produced "The Front Page" and "Coquette" and "The Royal Family." It was and is an absolutely original picture of New York night life, with a swift-moving plot which throbs and pulsates from the first moment to the very last.

Universal outbid the whole producing world to get the

The
UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick — Editor

PUBLISHED BY THE
— MOTION PICTURE WEEKLY PUBLISHING COMPANY — HECKSCHER BUILDING —
730-5TH AVE. — NEW YORK CITY
Copyright 1929 · UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION All Rights Reserved

Vol. XXIX MAY 4, 1929 No. 13

UNIVERSAL MOVIEGRAMS

CARL LAEMMLE, who attended the international opening of "Show Boat" at the Rialto Theatre in Washington, boarded a train immediately thereafter for California. He is rushing back to Dios Dorados, his home in Beverly Hills, to be present at a big studio party to be given to Carl Laemmle, Jr. The occasion is the young associate producer's twenty-first birthday.

ONE of the pictures in which Glenn Tryon will star next year for Universal is to be entitled "Down Went McGinty." This is an original story by Paul Sydney which was especially written as a singing and dancing picture along the lines of Tryon's role in "Broadway."

MARY NOLAN, Universal's blonde musical comedy star, who has been playing for a lot of other companies, has been thwarted in her latest attempt to appear in a Universal picture. She was cast in the role of Dolores Dupre in Eddie Leonard's dialogue and music picture, "Harmony Lane." Then all of a sudden she became too ill to play, so Josephine Dunn, one of the 1929 Wampas Baby Stars, has taken her place. Robert Hill will direct this picture, probably starting next week.

EXIT Snookums and enter Sunny Jim. When Universal signed up Lawrence McKeen, four-year-old star, it didn't acquire his screen name of Snookums. So he is starting out on a new career under the direction of Gus Meins in two-reel talking comedies as Sunny Jim.

"BROADWAY" HAS VARIED PSYCHOLOGICAL APPEALS

Universal Psychology Expert Points Out Captivation Appeal of Chorus Girls, Dominance Emotion Caused by Underworld Racket, And Love Appeal Which Combine to Create Audience Reaction

By Dr. William M. Marston

LIKE the street it is named for, "Broadway" has a greater variety of emotional appeals than any other story which has been before the public in the last few years.

This can be said without boastfulness on behalf of Universal Pictures because "Broadway" is not an original story for which Universal is responsible, but rather the most successful stage play of recent years. It has had record runs before capacity houses all over the world. Universal can boast, however, that the original play has been kept just as it was in the stage presentation, only with the added scope and range of the motion picture camera.

In thinking of "Broadway," you should think first of the tense, exciting underworld and back-stage drama which took the world by storm, and which has been followed by any number of imitations, none of them in any wise as successful as the original.

To present this magnificent emotional story in pictures has been a colossal task, but under the producing genius of Carl Laemmle, Jr., and the able and artistic direction of Dr. Paul Fejos, it has been accomplished in a manner to preserve the original emotional appeals of the stage play and to enhance and intensify them by pictorial effects. The gorgeous and exotic Paradise Night Club set, for instance, has to be imagined by the audience at the stage presentation of "Broadway," but for pictures the world's most marvelous night club could be, and was constructed by Carl Laemmle, Jr., regardless of expense.

And as for emotional appeals—they abound in "Broadway":

First of all, there is the captivation appeal of hundreds of beautiful girls dressed in the scanty and erotically stimulating costumes of the modern New York night clubs. There is nothing in the least suggestive or vulgar about these costumes or about the dancing acts shown at the night club. There is, however, some delightful and highly entertaining dancing by the entire chorus, trained to move as one girl. The numbers which are actually shown on the night club floor are as snappy and captivating as an entire New York show seen from the front rows.

The new mechanical camera crane has made possible swift and unbroken transitions from closeups of dancing legs to long shots of the entire spectacle. This is something which the ordinary play cannot give, and which has enhanced the captivation appeal tremendously.

(Continued on page 8.)

SO successful was the Universal chapterplay, "Blake of Scotland Yard," that Universal is going to make a similar picture this year. It will be called "The Return of Blake of Scotland Yard." Craufurd Kent will play Blake, Florence Allen, Chicago beauty, will play Lady Diana. Others in the cast, which will be directed by Ray Taylor, are Grace Cunard, Herbert Prior, Monte Montague and Albert Priscoe.

CARL LAEMMLE

Presents

WITH

GLENN TRYON
EVELYN BRENT

MERNA KENNEDY · T. E. JACKSON
OTIS HARLAN · ROBERT ELLIS
*PAUL PORCASI · LESLIE FENTON
GEORGE OVEY

FROM JED HARRIS' STAGE PRODUCTION
OF THE PLAY BY
GEO. ABBOT AND PHILIP DUNNING

A
PAUL FEJOS
PRODUCTION

ASSOCIATE PRODUCER
CARL LAEMMLE, Jr.

TWO NEGATIVES
ONE SILENT · ONE WITH DIALOG

COLOR SCENES PHOTOGRAPHED
BY TECHNICOLOR PROCESS

*Of the original play cast.

NOTE: The use of the name "Broadway" in association with other film productions is unauthorized and has no connection with this, the original play by that name.

BROADWAY

UNIVER VEEKLY

Vol. 29 No. 13 May 4, 1929

Carl Laemmle
presents
"BROADWAY"
with Glenn Tryon,
Evelyn Brent and Merna
Kennedy. Directed by Paul Fejos.
Carl Laemmle, Jr.
Associate Producer

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

VOL. 29 JULY 6, 1929 NO. 22

....Kathryn Crawford, supporting Charles Chase and Jean Hersholt in "Modern Love". A Universal Jewel

Laura LA PLA

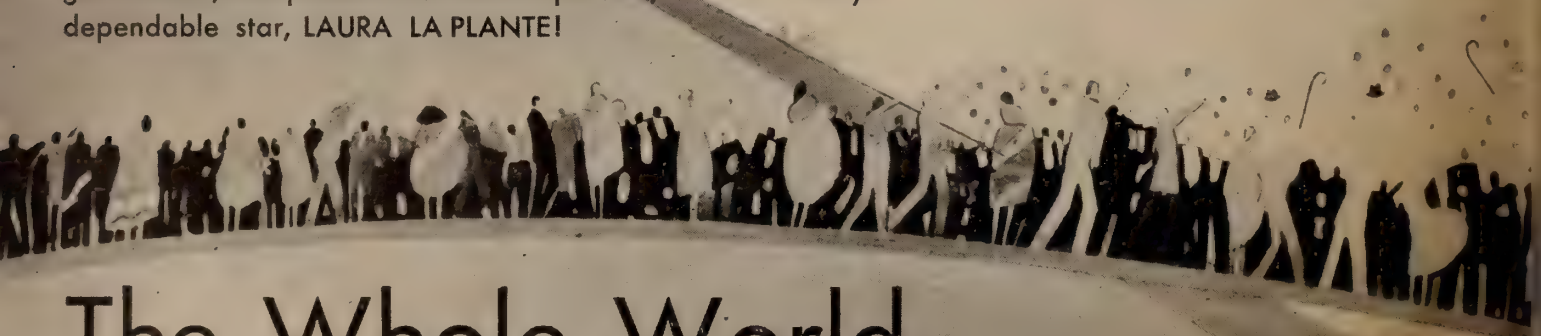
—The Magnolia of "Show Boat"

STRAIGHT to you from the most widely circulated picture in years — and this on top of a starring record that shows a trail of profits in every country on the globe! Straight to you at the height of her popularity, in four pictures that lift her to limitless box-office power. THAT'S the Laura La Plante you get for 1930! The same Laura LaPlante that always has made money for you — multiplied a thousand-fold! The nation's multitude knows how she talks—sings—laughs in the talking pictures; and in the silent version she's the same magnificent star as always. This year you get interest, compounded a million percent, on that always dependable star, LAURA LA PLANTE!

in

3 Pictures Only

"HOLD YOUR MAN"
"SOFT SHOULDERS"
"KISS PROOF"



The Whole World Is At Her Feet!

UNIVERSAL—LA PLANTE PRODUCTIONS

Two Versions

TALKING——SILENT

NTE
Forward MARCH with Universal

Forward MARCH with Univers

He

JOHN BO

's Got Everything

INCLUDING THE BEST MALE VOICE ON THE SCREEN

He's got sex appeal for the women — strength and virility for the men—sparkling personality and growing popularity for the box-office. He's the one male star who's wanted by every producing company in the field—they borrowed him for the lead in "DESERT SONG"—they borrowed him for the lead in "RIO RITA" —but you'll get him only in UNIVERSAL pictures in 1929-30 in

"MOONLIGHT MADNESS"

"THE SONG OF PASSION"

TALKING AND SINGING

Watch him hit the top in every popularity contest in the land

Watch him pull the crowds in all kinds of weather—in any size town

2 VERSIONS—TALKING and SILENT

LES

The
or Forward MARCH with Universal
SCHLDK
2 VERSIONS

Most Romantic Figure the Screen Today

IDOL of the ladies—despair of the men—a rambling, roving, alluring, devil-may-care man's man with a ready smile and a dashing, free-handed manner in any set of circumstances—the RAVENAL of SHOW BOAT—he has the confident air of the man who knows his women and is able to take care of his men.

JOSEPH SCHILDKRAUT—no better actor ever strutted his stuff on the legitimate stage of Broadway—no more graceful charmer ever flashed across the screen . . . his name and face will stand for romance every time you place it on your marquee and ROMANCE GETS THE WOMEN and WOMEN GET THE DOLLARS to every box-office in the land . . . He's got the stories too, in

"MISSISSIPPI GAMBLER" "THE BACHELOR HUSBAND" "THE MAN ABOUT TOWN"

You can't do without him if you want the women's vote—You can't do without him if you want to fill your house.

Joseph RAUT

-TALKING and SILENT

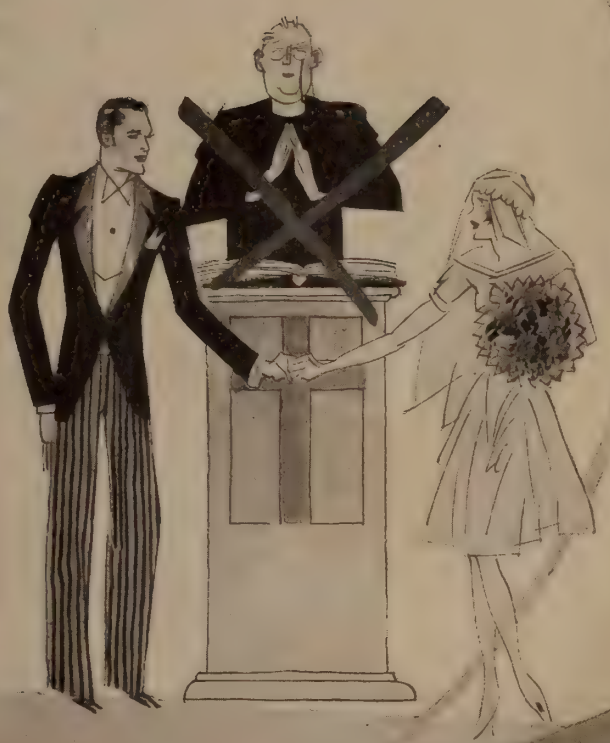
The Denny Dollars

The Star They Want in Roles You've Asked for

REGINALD

DENNY

NOW you can get Big-Money Denny in the two biggest pictures of his seat-filling career!—Two tremendously powerful pictures built from the ground up on the foundation of YOUR OWN REQUESTS!—Two pictures with Denny in roles that demand of him—and get—all the smashing, he-man vigor of which he is capable!—Two marvelous productions in which the comedy element vies with the speed, the punch, the drama for supremacy—and all win!—Two pictures that will prove irresistible to the men and raise your Denny grosses to figures you've never even hoped for—"EMBARRASSING MOMENTS" and "NO, NO, NAPOLEON."



Two Versions

TALKING — SILENT

UNIVERSAL-DENNY PRODUCTIONS

Forward MARCH with Universal

Are Waiting For You!

She's got what you have to have!

Mary NOLAN

BEWITCHINGLY beautiful, gloriously alluring, delightfully daring—the BOX-OFFICE girl of the year in four pep-per-seasoned productions—"MADEMOISELLE CAYENNE," "THE COME-ON GIRL," "LIPSTICK" and "LADIES IN LOVE" —Look at those BOX-OFFICE titles!—For those BOX-OFFICE stories!—With that BOX-OFFICE personality!—What a proposition for profits! You know what you have to have in your pictures to drag 'em into your theatre these days, Mr. Exhibitor . . . AND HERE IT IS—handed to you in such generous measure as never before!

The Gorgeous Girl of Your Dreams orward MARCH with Universal

Two Versions

TALKING — SILENT

2 VERSIONS
TALKING - - SILENT

Forward MARCH with Universal

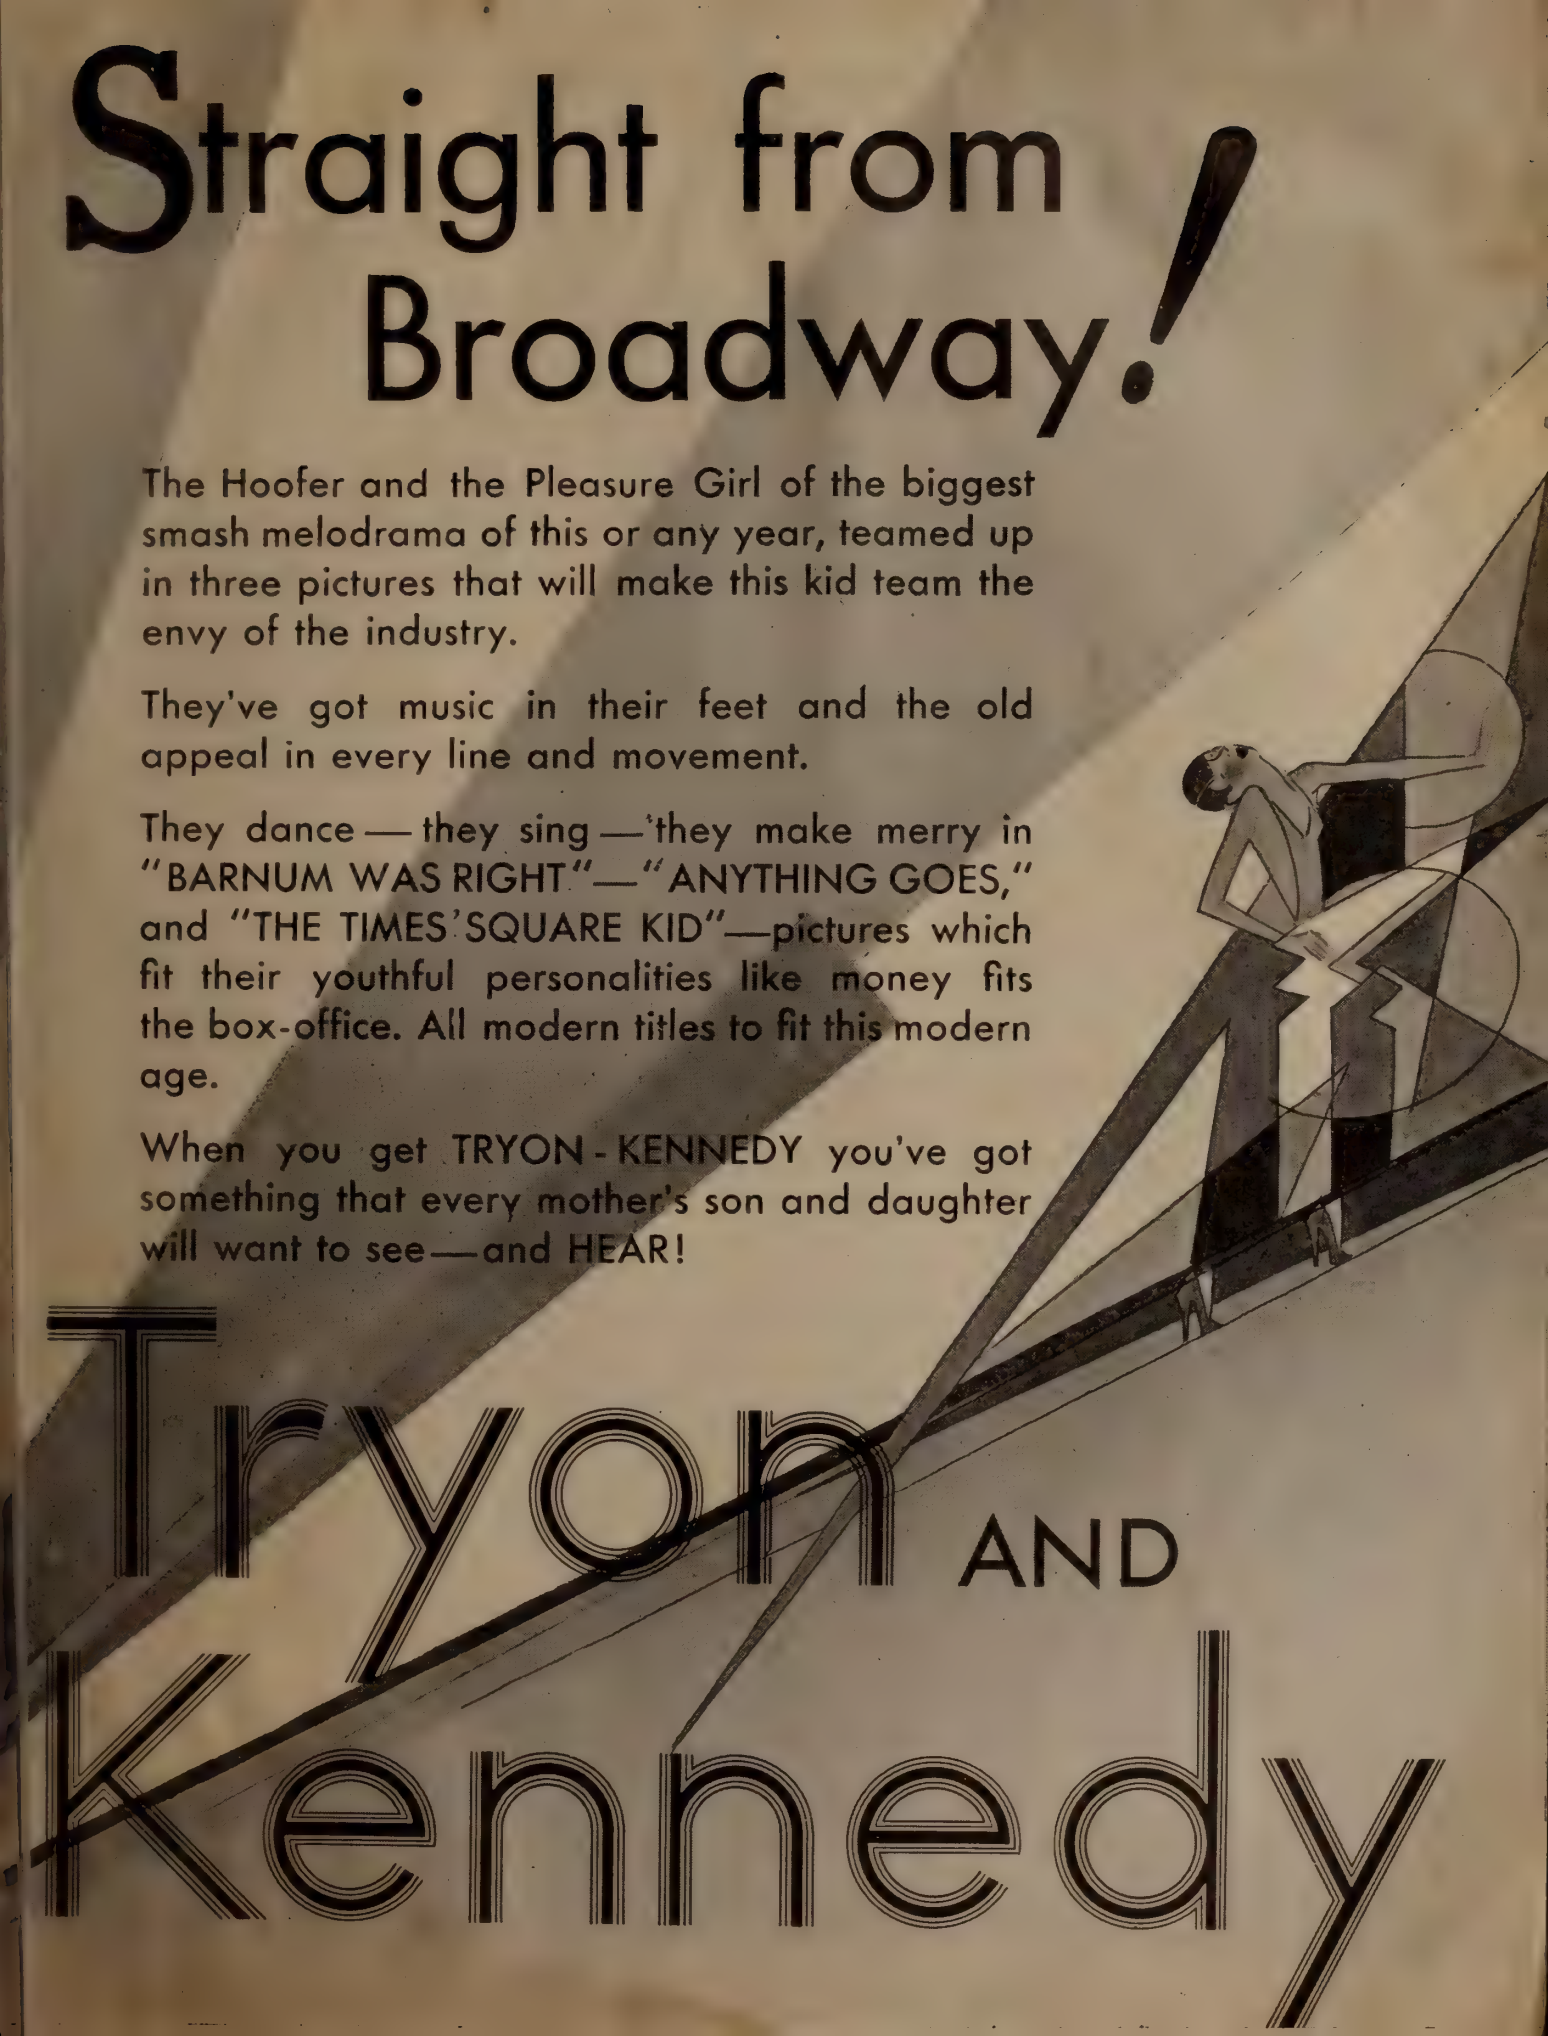
Straight from Broadway!

The Hoofer and the Pleasure Girl of the biggest smash melodrama of this or any year, teamed up in three pictures that will make this kid team the envy of the industry.

They've got music in their feet and the old appeal in every line and movement.

They dance — they sing — they make merry in "BARNUM WAS RIGHT" — "ANYTHING GOES," and "THE TIMES' SQUARE KID" — pictures which fit their youthful personalities like money fits the box-office. All modern titles to fit this modern age.

When you get TRYON - KENNEDY you've got something that every mother's son and daughter will want to see — and HEAR!



Tryon AND Kennedy

BARBARA GEORGE

YOUTH . . . Beauty . . . Pep . . . Jazz . . . Speedy Romance! — Trust Universal to stay just one step ahead of the procession when it comes to giving you TIMELY pictures — pictures with the snap and go and kick demanded by the younger crowd of today — and by their "ma's" and "pa's." — Pictures like "FLAMING DAUGHTERS" and "KEEP ON DANCING." — Pictures presenting George Lewis and Barbara Kent, the two stars who above all others can put across that wonderful spirit of reckless youth — the spirit which you know means big money in your till!

Youth. Beauty. The Spirit

Two

TALKING

KENT LEWIS

Forward MARCH with Universal

. Pep... Jazz of Today!

Versions
– SILENT

A SMASHINGLY dramatic, swiftly-moving and colorful waterfront picture—the tremendous story of a beautiful girl adrift among the dock rats and of a youth who loved her and a man who hated her. Revealing a new Mary Philbin—a Mary Philbin with a golden voice and a new box-office manner. With Fred MacKaye, Otis Harlan, Francis McDonald, Edmund Breese, Mary Alden. Story by John B. Clymer. A Wesley Ruggles Production.

TO MEET the howling demand for mystery stories on the screen, Universal selected this one from hundreds of others. It has more chills, thrills, and legitimately dramatic surprises squeezed into it than you would believe possible—including a courtroom sequence that will hold you spellbound. Every inch of it fairly shouts "BOX-OFFICE"—and echo answers "PROFITS!" Story by Charles A. Logue.

A Miracle of Love and Emotion

Two Versions
ALL TALKING and SILENT

Yet not without its delicious light moments.

One of the great romantic stage dramas of all time now brought to the screen in all its glory.

The classic story of a glorious girl—with a marvelous singing voice. She meets a young pianist—their association ripens into an equally wonderful love. Tenderness, pathos, sacrifice and love all mixed together to make a picture as unforgettable as life itself.

Starring JEAN HERSHOLT and KATHRYN CRAWFORD
by the world famous author Edward Locke Directed by Renaud Hoffman

A Laemmle Universal Special

The old man loved her with the frenzy of lost youth; the youth loved her with the passion of a soul on fire. Father against son—in a silent, tremendous conflict for the love of an orphan girl! Young love—jealous love—stirring emotional moments and sweeping drama in this poignant story, told in straight-forward language that all will understand.

Two Versions—Talking and Silent

Two Versions
TALKING
and
SILENT

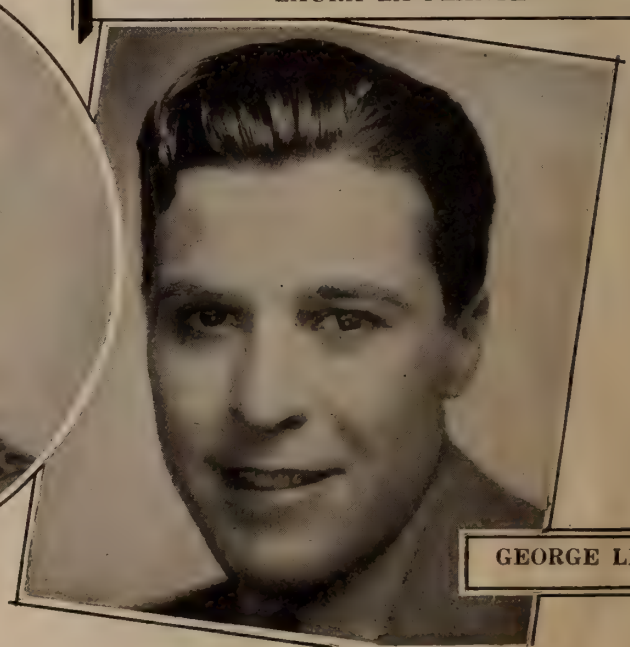
Here's the most thrilling sea story yet put on the screen—with a brand new twist to it! Imagine an embittered old sea captain, the son he hated, and a beautiful girl thrown together on shipboard; sailing tempestuous seas . . . a blazing ship . . . thrilling rescues . . . fights . . . DRAMA EVERY MINUTE! That's what you get in this picture, starring the new, golden-voiced Mary Philbin.

UNIVERSAL STARS WHO WILL A

JOHN BOLES

LAURA LA PLANTE

BARBARA KENT



GEORGE LEWIS

PPEAR IN 1929-30 STAR SERIES

REGINALD DENNY

GLENN TRYON
and MERNA KENNEDY

MARY NOLAN

JOSEPH SCHILDKRAUT

The
UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick — Editor
PUBLISHED BY THE
— MOTION PICTURE WEEKLY PUBLISHING COMPANY — HECKSCHER BUILDING —
730-5th AVE. — NEW YORK CITY
Copyright 1929 · UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION All Rights Reserved

Vol. XXIX JULY 6, 1929 No. 22

George Sidney and Charlie Murray Again Paired in Cohen-Kelly Roles

Charlie Murray

Noted Screen Comedy Team to Be Seen Next Season in "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland"—Fourth of Popular "Cohens and Kellys" Series.

To Reach the Screen on St. Patrick's Day as Usual

George Sidney

THE man who created the role of Kelly in the perennial "Cohens and Kellys" series of screen comedy features, is again to be seen as Kelly, according to an announcement just made by Carl Lammle, president of the Universal Pictures Corporation. Charlie Murray, popular screen comedian, who played the lovable Irish role in the original "Cohens and Kellys" picture, has been engaged by Universal to play in the forthcoming feature of this series, "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland." George Sidney, as usual, will play Cohen. His interpretation has long been popular.

This announcement means the reuniting of a comedy team that rose to great heights of popularity several years ago. The first "Cohens and Kellys" started an unusual vogue for Irish-Jewish screen comedies. The two comedians had to rush from studio to studio to satisfy demands for their peculiar talents. When Universal prepared to make the second "Cohens and Kellys" picture, Murray was tied up at another studio. As a result, J. Farrell MacDonald played the role of Kelly in "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris." In the current year's release, "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City," a similar situation prevailed, and Mack Swain played Kelly.

"The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland" will be an all-talking picture. George Sidney's Yiddish dialect and Murray's foine Oirish brogue will have full sway. It is promised as the funniest of the series to date. As usual the roles of Mrs. Cohen and Mrs. Kelly will be taken by Vera Gordon and Kate Price, thus assuring the original featured cast that made the first "Cohens and Kellys" such a surprising hit with the movie public.

Photo by White

The forest fire which was such a sensation in the stage version of "The Storm." Langdon McCormick, author of the play, also arranged the spectacular stage effects for the play and the Universal silent picture hit.

LANGDON McCORMICK TALKS OF "THE STORM" IN SOUND

Author of Famous Stage Play Which Was Universal Hit in 1922 Predicts Even Greater Success for Sound Version of "The Storm"

By GERTRUDE WARBURTON

LANGDON McCORMICK is not the sort of man to discuss banal topics like the weather. Not even a June day, 1929 model, is hot enough to make that a pardonable subject for lament. So we waived the heat surging into his rangy studio on West Fourteenth Street and talked about "The Storm."

Of course, you remember the famous stage hit and the equally famous Universal picture that smashed box-office records back in 1922. And naturally you cannot have forgotten that Langdon McCormick wrote the play. Nor that Langdon McCormick enhanced the film version with those brilliant atmospheric effects that made the forest fire climax a landmark in picture history. Soon the author will see his dynamic melodrama in yet another guise — a Laemmle Special Production in Sound next season.

Mr. McCormick answered with alacrity my rather obvious inquiry about the superiority of this new version.

"Everything that was thrilling in the silent picture will be doubly so in sound," he began. "Take, for instance, the forest fire. Instead of offstage noises and orchestral effects, the actual roar of the flames, the crackle of brittle branches, the crash of falling trees, the terrified howls of panic-stricken animals, can all be heard.

"Another great advantage of sound over the old picture will be the contrast in the voices and accents of the various characters. Any play is monotonous in which all the actors talk exactly alike. In 'The Storm' you remember there is a wide variety of speech — the French-Canadian of little Manette, the deeper patois of her father, the western burr of the trapper, the more cultivated accents of his rival and the clipped English of the Canadian police sergeant. If these roles are well cast, the result will be unusually interesting and effective. The little French-Canadian girl must be chosen very carefuly. She should be small and dark and vivid. She must know how to act and how to put over that particular accent. It's very different, you know, from Parisian French. No 'zee's and zat's' and a more resonant, nasal twang."

That brought up the ever-present question of talkies and their effect on movie and stage folk. Mr. McCormick holds the sane and conservative view that talkies will not force movie stars off the screen any more than

(Continued on page 24)

THEY'RE COMING

No. 645—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

WITH the happiest hearts which ever throbbed in their manly buzzums, the gentlemen of the Universal sales force are all set for you.

Their conventions are over. They have seen with their own eyes and heard with their own ears some of the pictures from Universal's master line-up for 1929-1930.

Now they want you to see and hear them.

They know they have the most salable product any one company ever turned out and if there's anything which gives a salesman a joyous kick it is the knowledge that you want what he's got!

Universalites are always peppy, but this year we have built a bonfire under them in the form of quality product which has fired their enthusiasm to the highest point.

To know that you are going to make fat profits from what they sell you—to know that you are going to get more joy and more success from your Universal connection than you ever got before—these are the things which this year bring the light of victory to the eyes of the Universal salesmen.

TO VISIT YOU!

Their message to you is, "Forward March with Universal."

As far as sound pictures are concerned, there is not the least shadow of a doubt that Universal technicians have stepped out in front. If you want the finest improvements in a fast-improving technique, you'll simply have to have Universal's sound pictures.

As for the silent pictures, Universal has kept the faith with those thousands of exhibitors who have not yet wired their houses—and some of whom have no intention of wiring them.

It would be much simpler and much less expensive for Universal to make sound pictures only, but this would mean the sacrifice of those small exhibitors I have just mentioned.

It is a great mental uplift for Universal salesmen to know that Universal is not turning its back on anybody, but that it is pursuing its age-old policy of live-and-let-live—of considering a proper mixture of sentiment and business, instead of the ice-cold business of business alone!

The army of Universal salesmen—a small one but all regulars—will now make a friendly advance on your front line trenches. Greet them with open arms, for they've got what you want—and join them in that irresistible——

"Forward March With Universal."

1929-30 LAEMMLE SPECIALS BU

Six Laemmle Specials Include Three Broadway Hits—"The Storm," "The Shannons of Broadway," and "Tonight at Twelve;" Another Cohens and Kellys Comedy; An Original Story for Mary Nolan, and "The Last Performance" with Conrad Veidt and Mary Philbin.

IF ever a group of pictures was designed for the box-office, that group is the Six Laemmle Special Productions for the season of 1929-30. Each of the six releases is based on proven drawing power; each is built on the wide popularity of the play, the stars or the author. Once again Universal is offering exhibitors product that is half sold before it is ever completed. It is rich in entertainment value, racy with humor and replete with drama.

THREE STAGE HITS
"The Storm"

Three of the offerings for next season are adaptations of stage successes. One of them, "The Storm," has already appeared on the silent screen in that memorable Universal version that knocked box-office records sky high in 1922. A Variety comment at the time headed "'The Storm' Lifts Business as Other Houses Fall Off" is typical of the healthy reception given Langdon McCormick's thrilling melodrama. "The Storm" was, in fact, one of the most successful pictures in the Universal category, ranking in importance with "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." Now Universal is going to produce it in sound, thus enhancing the audience value immeasurably by heightening the intensity and excitement of the melodrama. The forest fire in both the original stage hit and the Universal silent film created a furore among theatre fans and exhibitor and critics. It has come down in motion picture history as one of the high spots of film production. Carl Laemmle, Jr., new production head of Universal City, is ambitious to spare no expense in making the forest fire in sound an even more spectacular and breath-taking event.

Photo by White.

James Gleason and Mrs. Gleason in the stage play, "The Shannons of Broadway." In the Universal sound special their saxophone ability will be equally prominent.

"The Shannons of Broadway"

Another of the Laemmle Specials which scored a triumph on Broadway is "The Shannons of Broadway," by James Gleason, who is also the illustrious author of "Is Zat So?" and "The Fall Guy." Agnes Christine Johnston is adapting the play, and James Gleason and his wife, Lucille Webster, are enacting their famous original roles. The Gleasons make an inimitable comedy team. In "The Shannons of Broadway" the synchronization will give free scope to the saxophone talents of the Gleasons, who are cast as a vaudeville team who flopped in big time and make a comeback as owners of an old-fashioned country hotel. The troupers who congregate around the once famous team contribute colorful background to an amusing and fast-stepping comedy. The run at the Martin Beck Theatre in New York was phenomenal.

"To-night at Twelve"

"To-night at Twelve" also played on Broadway. It is a sophisticated society comedy based on the intrigues of a young married set on Long Island. Owen Davis, the author, infused his brilliant lines into a play that skirts pathos and tragedy with the light touch of the satirist. "To-night at Twelve" is highly modern. A charming dilettante carries on harmless enough but incriminating flirtations with every woman, married or single, in his set. His machinations involve the mother of the hero and come near to wrecking the lad's hapiness. The dialogue is brisk and salty. Harry Pollard will direct the cast, which has not yet been selected.

"The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland"

When Universal offers among its Laemmle Specials another Cohens and Kellys comedy, exhibitors are immediately assured of one more box-office picture. The further announcement, only recently issued by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation, that George Sidney and Charlie Murray are to be re-united in their famous comedy team means still firmer assurance of success. It will be remembered that it was Charlie Murray who created the role of Kelly in the first comedy, "The Cohens and Kellys." That lovable role has been played by J. Farrell MacDonald and Mack Swain in the two succeeding comedies because of the demands of Murray's time during the filming of "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris" and "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City." Now for "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland," Sidney's Yiddish dialect and Murray's rich Irish brogue will be made vocal. As usual the roles of Mrs. Cohen and Mrs. Kelly will be enacted by Vera Gordon and Kate Price, thus reuniting the entire featured cast that made "The Cohens and Kellys" such a surprising hit with the motion picture fans. According to a precedent established by Carl Laemmle, "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland" will be released on St. Patrick's Day all over the country. The March 17th release of the Atlantic City opus last season was signalized by day and date showings in over one hundred and thirty theatres. When the Irish-

ILT FOR BOX-OFFICE VALUES

Jewish families cross the Atlantic Ocean for the second time to play in Scotland, the result will be as laughably incongruous as their Paris adventure.

"Men in Her Life"

Universal believes so firmly in the drawing power of the blonde and seductive Mary Nolan that one of the six Laemmle Specials is an original story written especially for the star. The author is Warner Fabian, who wrote "The Wild Party," "Flaming Youth" and "Summer Bachelors." The story, called "The Men in Her Life," will first appear in the September issue of Romance Magazine in serial form. Subsequently, it will be published by Boni and Liveright. It will probably appear in book form some time in November. Warner Fabian has not only written an appealing and sophisticated love story for serial publication, but in addition, a vehicle particularly designed to do justice to the histrionic talents of Mary Nolan. Miss Nolan has more than her share of "It," which, coupled with a fragile and blonde beauty, spells box-office. Mary Nolan's charm is not the typical movie "vamp" sort; it is infinitely more finished and subtle. Fans will remember her remarkable performance in "The Foreign Legion" as a blending of unconscious magnetism and deliberate yet well bred seduction. She wears clothes divinely (a factor not to be overlooked from an audience angle) and has built-up fan appeal that is growing by leaps and bounds.

"The Last Performance"

"The Last Performance" is at once a powerful play and an excellent vehicle for Conrad Veidt and Mary Philbin. The picture is an adaptation of a play by James Creelman who ranks among the younger brilliant playwrights. As in "The Man Who Laughs" Veidt is cast in a role that evokes sympathy. This time he is an exponent of black magic who falls desperately in love with his young assistant. Mary Philbin as the assistant is as lovely and fragile and young as she was in the Hugo film. Her very youth is the stumbling block to Conrad Veidt's happiness, for though he woos her successfully he cannot retain her love against the importunities of a much younger man. Jealousy, the baseness of an enemy of Veidt's, a mysterious murder and a thrilling courtroom scene are some of the tangled threads of the plot. Veidt, more stunning than ever with graying temples, makes a tragic figure as the middle-aged man who renounces his fiancee. Fred MacKaye as the more fortunate rival, Leslie Fenton as the sulky, vicious enemy, Gustave Partos, William H. Turner, Anders Randolph, Sam De Grasse and George Irving complete the cast. In addition to the powerful drama, "The Last Performance" is interesting in its revelation of "black magic." The climax of the picture involves the construction of the box which Mary Philbin disappears in the sword trick. Showmen do not need to be told of the ever-present appeal of the mysterious and uncanny.

Photo by White.

One of the tense moments in "To-night at Twelve," Owen Davis' sophisticated society comedy which Universal is transferring to the talkies for next season.

Owen Davis, the genial playwright who is responsible for "To-night at Twelve."

Paul Whiteman Is Insured for Million by Universal

ONE million dollars insurance has been placed on Paul Whiteman, jazz king, by Universal for protection during the production of Universal's super production "The King of Jazz" starring Whiteman and his orchestra.

E. Walter Mayer, of the firm of Behrendt and Levy, Hollywood insurance agents, flew to San Francisco by Maddux air line to meet Whiteman there and arrange for the insurance before Whiteman returns to Los Angeles for the picture.

Five hundred thousand dollars of the insurance is on Whiteman's life while the other five hundred thousand is with Lloyd's, of London, for protection against injury or other mishaps to Whiteman during the production of the picture.

"The Shannons of Broadway" to Go into Production Shortly with James Gleason and Wife

WITH the announcement that Agnes Christine Johnston is now at work on the adaptation of the hilarious comedy "The Shannons of Broadway," recently purchased by the Universal Pictures Corporation, it is understood that the picture will shortly be placed in production. Both James and Lucille Webster Gleason, the playwrights, will play the same roles in the movietone version that they played upon the stage of the Martin Beck Theatre where it enjoyed a long and successful run.

"The Shannons of Broadway" is one of the special productions that Universal will release during the coming season. No director has as yet been selected.

Langdon McCormick Talks of "THE STORM" in Sound

(Continued from page 19)

they will effect the fate of legitimate stage stars. It will be a survival of the fittest. The veteran actor undoubtedly has the edge on the untrained movie star, Mr. McCormick asserts. The matter of pauses, inflection and rhythm that comes naturally to the legitimate actor is still an unplumbed quantity to the average screen star. The result is that the latter speak in spasms, as it were, with the effort to catch his breath all too apparent.

Langdon McCormick knows whereof he speaks. Years ago he was on the stage with Otis Skinner for several seasons, and later touring in his own plays. But that, he assured me, was before he knew better.

"In the old days a man was engaged because he could act," he went on, "not because he was a type. He was expected to make up for the part, no matter what it was, and play it adequately. Then came the time when theatrical agents and producers hired an actor because he was 'just the type.' For a sensitive person it was rather dreadful to be scanned from head to foot and turned down because you were too tall or too thin, too shrewd or too kind-looking. I didn't want to play detectives roles all my life. I became a playwright. Much freer and more stimulating."

A very prolific playwright was Langdon McCormick. Not content to score one success a year, he has to his credit for one season "Wanted by the Police," "Our Friend Fritz," "The Woman Who Dared," "The Life of an Actress" and "Jessie Left the Village." That was back in 1907, three years before "The Storm" made its notable appearance. "The Pace" and "The Gulf" followed before the versatile actor-playwright turned to theatre effects.

The black magic of the theatre has been occupying his talents ever since. It was a natural outcome of a lifelong association with the theatre and its problems. When he was a cub involved in amateur performances, necessity turned McCormick's attention to scenery, decor and all the tricks of the trade that are called theatre effects. A native versatility plus a very practical urge to learn more about are sent McCormick over to Paris.

"People have a queer notion," he

(Continued on page 27)

Photo by Bachrach

Langdon McCormick, author of "The Storm," has the keen blue eye, the sensitive mouth and the concentrated brow of the practical artist.

Mary Philbin, Conrad Veidt and Fred MacKaye in scenes from the Laemmle Special.

UNIVERSAL MOVIEGRAMS

EMMETT FLYNN has been signed by Universal to direct Laura La Plante in "One Rainy Night." The adaptation of this Laura Hess story is being written by Harold Shumate.

INDICATION of the vast commercial possibilities of talking pictures may be had from the fact that the assembled sales managers and salesmen of the Universal Pictures Corporation, in convention at Atlantic City early this week, listened to a rousing and comprehensive sales talk on the 1929-30 product by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, by Carl Laemmle, Jr., studio head of the organization, and by various Universal stars, all made in Movietone in Universal City especially for the convention.

KEN MAYNARD is starting this week his third production for the series of eight features in which he is to be starred by Universal on its 1929-30 program. The picture, tentatively titled "The Golden Bridle," is being directed by Harry J. Brown.

WORD has just been received from Universal City that George Sidney and Charlie Murray have been signed for the roles of Cohen and Kelly in Universal's next feature of the adventures of this famous pair, which will be entitled "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland." This successor to "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City" is the fourth in this series of Irish-Jewish stories. Vera Gordon and Kate Price will again enact their famous roles of Mrs. Cohen and Mrs. Kelly, respectively.

"BROADWAY," which had its western premiere at the Biltmore Theatre in Los Angeles, is duplicating there the success of its current New York run at the Globe Theatre. Enthusiastic newspaper reviews and new box-office records greeted the first showing of this Carl Laemmle, Jr. production, which was directed by Paul Fejos.

"Broadway" Opening in Los Angeles Scores Triumph for Laemmle Junior

LOS ANGELES EXPRESS

By Monroe Lathrop

THE HUZZAS in this city of incessant cinema excitement last evening swung over to Fifth and Grand to give "three cheers and one cheer more" for the doughty Carl Laemmle and his namesake and chip off the old block, who is now the junior manager of the oldest movie plant.

Universal's chief brought forward his latest prodigality "Broadway," and as most of the old favorites of the films, at one time or another, have marched under his banner, they were present in a phalanx to demonstrate their interest and good will.

* * *

The Biltmore Theatre was brilliant with fame and fashion, which were rewarded with a show that revealed the best work, weighed as a whole, yet to come from the Universal studio. "Broadway" is no anti-climax to "Show Boat." It is even better entertainment, much more stirring.

Laemmle is reported to have paid the record price of $350,000 in the bidding for the stage play. To that sum has manifestly been added an even larger one in its cinema elaboration.

Its whole effect is of the kind that will bring joy to the exhibitors of the country. What was merely a melodrama is now that plus spectacle, partly in color. The story of the original, from which much pilfering has been done by plagiaristic producers in the making of night-life films, is retained. It remains better than its counterfeits.

* * *

The spectacle is provided by the addition of a wondrous cabaret which looks as large as the interior of the Shrine Auditorium. Its immensity is nothing, however, to its bizarre character. The vast interior is done in expressionistic angles and colors. It is a veritable cathedral of jazz.

Over and around the spectacular area swings the movable camera catching a trail of shots such as the inventive German pioneers in this stunt never dreamed of. . . .

EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

LOS ANGELES, June 18.—"Broadway" opened at the Biltmore Theatre last night to a packed house. Its opening was a Western triumph. Carl Laemmle, Jr., deserves the majority of the laurels for it, but the cast won tribute last night as the audience indicated its approval of each individual. Paul Fejos directed the picture.

The story is a repetition of the stage play story with the addition of music at not infrequent intervals. That "Broadway" story is a gripping thing that has been the basis for more than one story, play and scenario. Incident has been lifted from it in almost wholesale manner to build up various pieces of late. And oddly enough, the pieces that have inherited it have all been successful. It has been one of the most original stories that we have had this decade.

Excellent Music Offered

The music is excellent. Glenn Tryon and Merna Kennedy are the song and dance team that work themselves into the limelight by their toes and talents.

Voices Suitable to Role

Tryon's voice is easily suitable to the role.

His support in unwinding the story is a chorus of five girls—all of whom are good actresses. They are Merna Kennedy, Edith Flynn, Betty Francisco, Ruby McCoy and Evelyn Brent. With Merna Kennedy an able heroine, Flynn, Francisco and McCoy 100 percent character chorines, and Brent a good "heavy," Fejos could not have missed.

—Douglas Hodges.

There may be some to carp that the spacious palace of revelry is not the Manhattan sweat-box cabaret of reality. But what of it? Pictures are made for entertainment purposes. And why should "Broadway," the play, be too sacrosanct for liberties with its stage limitations?

The colossal conception of this night club is a mixture of extravaganza with realism. It represents the spirit rather than the facts of the Great White Way, the concentrated glitter and false glamor that draw and singe the human moths from all over the country.

* * *

The plot and (with necessary editing) the dialogue of the stage play are retained. Important episodes, like the vendetta of the bootleggers, and the killing of "Scar" Edwards and the tragic fate of Steve Crandall, gang chief, at the hands of "Scar's" girl, are fully as effective as in the original; they are even heightened by the contrast of the revelry in front and the tragedy back stage, which the play couldn't show.

Glenn Tryon plays the conceited but likable youth remarkably well, and the role has the value of his natural magnetism. Two distinct assets of the picture are Thomas Jackson and Paul Porcasi, who played Dan McCoon, the detective, and Nick Verdis, the cabaret proprietor, in the original and are now vivid characters in the excitin moments.

* * *

Robert Ellis gives a memorable performance of the swaggering brutality of Steve Crandall. The qualities that have made Evelyn Brent popular seldom have a chance to shine as the bitter Pearl, but she is faithful to the characterization. Merna Kennedy is the "good" girl Billie Moore, and as such has a tepid part. Otis Harlan stands out as "Porky."

The direction of Paul Fejos is intelligent and of large, capable grasp on the whole. With an excellent adaptation by Edward T. Lowe, Jr., and superior photography by Hal Mohr, he has made one of the pictures of the times.

LOS ANGELES DAILY NEWS

By Eleanor Barnes

PERHAPS it was natural that "Broadway," the celebrated stage sensation with its wicked, witty and wise lines, should be translated to the silver screen in its entirety—especially as an audible, for its exciting, compelling plot, known to almost every theatre-goer, makes admirable movies. The film closely follows the play in most particulars, especially as to dialogue and situations, but in screen form it becomes more elaborate, more graphically related than the stage could even touch.

Universal's picturization will prompt the "oh's" and "ah's" of many a movie fan.

* * *

The settings are unbelievably gorgeous. Gigantic, colossal, magnificent, amazing are but a few of the adjectives strong enough to describe them. And when the color sequence is presented at the final reel, the many bright hues of the backgrounds are a

(Continued on page 32)

UNIVERSAL'S STA

THE back-bone of the progressive showman's week in and week out program for the coming year will be the comprehensive line-up of Star features now being made at Universal City for 1929-30 release. Twenty-four pictures made with stars of proven box-office drawing power, plus a series of westerns and out-of-doors dramas made by the pick of the industry's Western stars, mean the assurance of a steady run of audience-bait month after month during the Fall, Winter and Spring to come.

Universal's Star Series, several of which already have been completed and are ready to prove their high angle box-office possibilities, embrace productions with stars of great current popularity, many of whom have been seen in leading roles in the most important pictures of the current year.

Pretty, winsome Laura La Plante, dimpled heroine of many Reginald Denny comedies, dramatic lead in Paul Leni mystery dramas, and most recently of all, the lovable Magnolia of "Show Boat," heads the list. Then comes John Boles, hailed as the outstanding star of talking and singing pictures. Boles was a popular matinee idol in musical comedy before he became the great screen lover in the "Desert Song," "Rio Rita" and other current pictures.

Then comes Joseph Schildkraut, idol of the stage and screen, who so recently glorified the suave, handsome heart-breaker type of lover as Ravenal in "Show Boat." Next, Reginald Denny, the amusing comedy star of a score or more of successful Universal farce-comedy features.

Bewitching, alluring Mary Nolan, the blonde sensation who played opposite John Gilbert in "Desert Nights," is another fancy feather in Universal's cap. She not only has "it," she is IT, itself.

Glenn Tryon and Merna Kennedy, the delightful pair of sweethearts in "Broadway," will be seen together again in a group of features included in the Universal Star Series.

Another popular pair of romantic young lovers scheduled to make a group of box-office winners are George Lewis and Barbara Kent, long popular among Universal's juvenile leads. The excellence of Lewis in the "Collegians" and "College Love," and Barbara's wistful appeal as cited by audiences who saw her in "Lonesome," and her recent work opposite Harold Lloyd, won this co-starring team assignment from Carl Laemmle.

The all-star features will present such well known favorites as Mary Philbin, Jean Hersholt, Kathryn Crawford, and similar experienced players.

The Western and Out-of-door features will be made by the ever-popular Hoot Gibson and Ken Maynard. With the exception of several of the western features, all of the aforementioned Star Series will be in both talking and silent form.

Laura La Plante's three pictures for next year are "Hold Your Man," "Soft Shoulders" and "Kiss Proof." All of the stories are of the sophisticated type designed to portray the star's emotional range and appealing charm. "Hold Your Man" will be adapted from a story by Harry Segall entitled "The Behavior of Mrs. Crane." The exact nature of the other releases has not as yet been disclosed.

Universal is going to give John Boles every opportunity during the coming season to display his musical talents as well as his matinee idol personality. Both "Moonlight Madness" and "The Song of Passion" are the same type production that made "The Desert Song" such a hit.

The popularity of Schildkraut's portrayal of Ravenal in "Show Boat" has been kept in mind in planning his star productions for 1929-30. In each of his three releases the romantic keynote is emphasized. "The Mississippi Gambler" has been adapted by Leonard Fields from an original story by Karl Brown, called "The Devil's Prayerbook." Fields also wrote the dialogue which is decidedly sparkling according to reports from Universal City. "The Bachelor Husband" and "The Man About Town" feature the beloved vagabond Schildkraut at his nonchalant best.

Reginald Denny has himself written the story for "No, No, Napoleon," which assures a vehicle providing the happiest material for the comedian's breezy type of humor. Denny's speaking voice with its slightly English accent has already won him many

LAURA LA PLANTE	in	"Hold Your Man" "Soft Shoulders" "Kiss Proof"
MARY NOLAN	in	"Madamoiselle Cayenne" "The Come-On Girl" "Lipstick" "Ladies in Love"
GLENN TRYON and MERNA KENNEDY	in	"Barnum Was Right" "Anything Goes" "The Times Square Kid"

R SERIES for 1929-30

Popular Stars Who Will Make Universal Series

JOSEPH SCHILDKRAUT	in	"Mississippi Gambler" "The Bachelor Husband" "The Man About Town"
REGINALD DENNY	in	"Embarrassing Moments" "No, No, Napoleon"
JOHN BOLES	in	"Moonlight Madness" "The Song of Passion"
BARBARA KENT and GEORGE LEWIS	in	"Flaming Daughters" "Keep on Dancing" sound fans. "Embarrassing Moments" affords a laughable background for Denny's mishaps and snappy come-backs.

As exotic as the star herself is the material selected by Universal for Mary Nolan's forthcoming pictures. "Madamoiselle Cayenne" is a red hot tale of which the locale is Devil's Island, that infamous French Penal Colony. As in "The Foreign Legion," Mary Nolan plays against a scene of insufferable heat, misery and cruelty. Stephen Alden Reynolds wrote the story, which has been given a skillful adaptation by Harold Shumate. The titles of Mary Nolan's other vehicles indicate their strength—"The Come-on Girl," "Lipstick" and "Ladies in Love."

One of the releases in which Glenn Tryon and Merna Kennedy are co-starred is already in production at the Universal studios. It is "Barnum Was Right," from the stage play by Philip Bartholmae, which had such a smashing run at the George Cohan Theatre in New York. Donald Brian, popular juvenile lead, played the stellar role in the Broadway success. The role, as entertainer in a summer hotel, is ideally suited to Tryon's type, as his performance as the hoofer in "Broadway" proves. The story was rewritten from "It Might Happen to You," by Hutchinson Boyd, and is an amusing farce built around Barnum's famous slogan that "a sucker is born every minute." Arthur Ripley and Everett Adams wrote the dialogue and adaptation. Del Lord is wielding the megaphone. Besides Glenn Tryon and Merna Kennedy the cast includes Lew Kelly, Basil Radford, Clarence Burton, J. Hunt and Isabelle Keith. Rushes from the coast give every indication of a picture rich in entertainment value and humorous incidents.

"Anything Goes" and "The Times Square Kid" provide excellent material for the combined talents of Glenn Tryon and Merna Kennedy. Merna's appealing innocence and sweetness makes a neat contrast to the likable arrogance of Tryon.

The first story selected for the Barbara Kent-George Lewis team is "Flaming Daughters," a story by Warner Fabian. Fabian is also responsible for one of Mary Nolan's stories for next season, "Men in Her Life," which will appear serially in Romance Magazine, starting in the September issue. "Flaming Daughters" gives a vivid picture of modern youth. George Lewis and Barbara Kent have been wisely chosen to portray the young things, because they have the faculty of blending recklessness with an undercurrent freshness and simplicity that gives the laugh to the hue and cry over the depravity of the present generation.

Langdon McCormick Tells of "The Storm"

(Continued from page 24)

told me, "that young men go to Paris to study art under one particular master. Nothing of the sort really happens. They simply live in the Latin Quarter with a lot of other young men, who are interested in art. They all work and play and talk a great deal. They paint. Very simple and informal. I learned one invaluable thing over there—that you don't have to be exclusively a painter in oils or watercolors or charcoal. The medium doesn't make any difference. Ever since I've used whatever seemed best suited to the purpose in hand."

Which accounts for the fact that Langdon McCormick's models for stage effects have a singularly moving quality. A clear summer sky will be done in analine dye, a heavy surf crested with whitecaps will be treated in oils.

But that's another story. . . . The fascinating tale of Langdon McCormick as the wizard who first made moons sail across back-drops and who has been responsible for many of the most ingenious theatre effects on record. It is McCormick who injected "Noah's Ark" with the powerful sound effects of which it boasts. One of the most amazing things about "The Storm" when it first appeared as a stage and screen success was the effectiveness of the accompanying fanfare of sound and mechanical devices. In the forthcoming sound version Universal will avail itself of the unfaltering theatre sense of Langdon McCormick, actor, playwright, and black magician.

UNIVERSAL'S ALL-STAR PRODUCTIONS PACKED WITH VARIED AUDIENCE APPEAL

Wide Range of Love, Adventure, and Mystery Contained in 1929-30 All-Star Productions—"The Drake Case," "The Climax," "Girl Overboard" "Brawn of the Sea" and "She Belongs to Me"

Kathryn Crawford and John Reinhardt in "The Climax" Reinhardt is the son of the great composer, Heinrich Reinhardt

As the reluctant bride of the man she does not love, Kathryn Crawford looks particularly appealing in the all-star picture "The Climax"

UNIVERSAL has packed a box-office wallop into its schedule of five all-star productions for the coming season. The stars themselves assure casts that pull patrons into theatres. The variety of appeal included in the offerings makes the quintet unusually well-balanced. Mystery mounting to a tense trial scene characterizes "The Drake Case." In "The Climax" the heart interest is uppermost, while the theme of an ambitious opera singer's struggle to win recognition gives scope for a musical score of unusual beauty. "Girl Overboard" is a story of the San Francisco waterfront replete with romance and local atmosphere. The lure of the sea, its fury, thrilling rescues and tempestuous fights forms a fine adventurous tale in "Brawn of the Sea." The fifth all-star production, "She Belongs to Me," is a poignant drama with jealousy between son and father as its keynote.

The first picture on the schedule has already been completed at Universal City under the direction of Edward Laemmle. "The Drake Case" is a murder mystery with a tremendous emotional appeal. The courtroom scene is a particularly vivid example of the power of talking pictures. Gladys Brockwell as the defendant accused of the murder of Mrs. Drake, portrayed by Doree Lloyd, gives a tense and vibrant characterization of a woman fighting for her life. Forrest Stanley as the prosecuting attorney draws every drop of suspense and excitement from the drama of studio life by Charles A. Logue. Robert Frazer plays the defense attorney and Barbara Leonard is attractive as the young step-daughter of the slain Mrs. Drake. Eddie Hearn and Tom Dugan contribute minor roles effectively. Many of the scenes are in the cell of the accused woman, where pathos and impending tragedy struggle with courage and innocence. "The Drake Case" is a timely showmanship picture which answers the present craze for mystery films. It challenges the intelligence of the audience and keeps it guessing until the final sequence.

"The Climax" is based on the famous stage play by Edward Locke. It is a gripping romance of a young girl with a glorious voice who almost loses her lover and her career through the jealousy of a young physician. After a slight operation the doctor sprays Adella's throat with a medicine that causes her to lose her voice entirely, as he had planned. With her career gone, she succombs to the surgeon's love-making and agrees to marry him. Attired in her bridal finery, the girl miraculously recovers her voice when she hears her real sweetheart singing the love song he composed for her. Kathryn Crawford is charming as the aspiring opera singer, and Jean Hersholt is magnificent as the devoted maestro who see her through countless difficulties. Le Roy Mason plays the surgeon who performs the operation on Adella. Henry Armetta is excellent as the girl's grandfather. The lover is enacted by John Reinhardt, an extremely attractive young man who has the distinction of being the son of the great composer, Heinrich Reinhardt. Renaud Hoffman directed the picture. Its sound version contains some fine melodies, deep organ music and brilliant bits from opera scores.

Jean Hersholt's characterization as the Italian maestro who leads the heroine to fame is a powerful one.

Mary Philbin, Fred MacKaye and Otis Harlan are the principals in "Girl Overboard" for next season. Harlan lends his whimsical wit to a waterfront romance of young love.

Mary Philbin has a sympathetic vehicle in "Girl Overboard," a story of the San Francisco waterfront by John B. Clymer. Fred MacKaye and Otis Harlan are in the cast, which was directed by Wesley Ruggles.

Denton, played by MacKaye, serves his father's term as a forger to save his mother's heartaches. When released on parole, he is forbidden to marry on penalty of serving the rest of his term. Denton saves a young girl, Mary Philbin, from the river and takes her to the schooner where he lives with Cappy Evans, portrayed whimsically by Otis Harlan. The parole officer learns the girl is abroad and threatens to send Denton back to prison unless she leaves. She is again bothered by a bully and returns to the ship. Denton marries her in defiance of the parole officer. Through a fluke the girl is arrested in a skirmish with the bully, but dismissed when the judge learns she is Denton's wife. Keefe threatens return to jail, but relents when he sees the girl's little garden in a corner of the boat. The harbor scenes and the life on the old schooner are colorful and authentic.

Mary Philbin has also been selected to star in "Brawn of the Sea." The action is much faster than in "Girl Overboard" and the dramatic values more sharply drawn. Garret Ford wrote the story and infused it with the hatred of an old sea captain for his son pictured against a background of wild sailing adventures, a blazing ship, a miraculous rescue and a gripping fight. The girl whose lot is cast in these desperate surroundings forms a strong contrast to the brutality of setting.

In "She Belongs to Me," Paul Sydney has painted a strong drama of jealousy and bitterness between a father and son who both love the same woman. The old man's love is a desperate eleventh-hour passion, the son's a clean blade of young idealism. The result is one of the most poignant and powerful dramas yet to reach the sound screen. No cast has as yet been announced for "She Belongs to Me," but an all-star company of outstanding popularity is being assembled at Universal City.

The reputation of the actors in these all-star productions, plus strong dramas, both in silent and sound versions, assures tremendous box-office appeal.

The big trial scene in "The Drake Case." Gladys Brockwell as the defendant cowers at the inquisition of the prosecuting attorney, played by Forrest Stanley.

Universal Will Not Merge, Says R. H.

Laemmle Organization, Turning a Deaf Ear to Merger Offers, Will Stick To Its Guns and Do Some Big Shooting On Its Own Account, He States.

"Mr. Laemmle and I have turned down every offer that has been made to buy our company," R. H. Cochrane, vice-president of the Universal Pictures Corporation, announced to the assembled Universal salesmen and sales managers at Universal's Eastern Sales Convention at Atlantic City last week-end. His words brought the "U" field force to their feet with a cheer.

"We have turned down every offer to merge, and they were darn good offers, too," he continued. "But Universal is now in such a beautiful position that we intend to stick to our guns and do some big shooting ourselves.

"The merging of other companies, instead of hurting us, has been a godsend to us in more ways than one. The more they merge, the more they need Universal, not alone on account of our pictures, but because they want to be able to say to the authorities in Washington, 'We are not a monopoly. Look at Universal, a thoroughly independent company which is one of the of the most successful in the industry.'

"When you deal with independent theatres I think it is perfectly legitimate and honest to make capital out of the fact that they cannot sell mergers at their box-office. More and more they are looking to Universal to protect them."

UNIVERSAL'S ACE EXCHANGE MANAGER

S. Wittman of the Philadelphia Exchange was awarded the Carl Laemmle Medal of Honor as Universal's most valuble manager for the selling season of 1928-29.

The Universal vice-president paid a glowing tribute to Carl Laemmle, Jr., the new studio head; to Lou B. Metzger, general manager of Universal, and to M. Van Praag, general sales manager, and his assistant, Ted Schlanger.

"There is one thing I would like to get over to you with a bang," Cochrane continued. "For the first time in the history of Universal we have a studio manager at Universal City who not only is qualified to give us quality pictures, but who has the determination and authority to see that we get them. This fact should give you the same anticipation of victory that we, in the New York office, have. From the very first day that Junior Laemmle took the job, we have had such intelligent and sympathetic cooperation on sales problems as we never had from any manager in our whole career. This young man has dreamed, breathed and lived among pictures since the very day he was born. So, while he is young in years, and thank God for that, he is old in showmanship wisdom. He knows what you need as well as you do. His very first act an assuming charge of the studio was to scrap half a dozen stories that he did not consider good box office stuff,—stuff that would have been mighty hard for you to sell. He wants nothing but red hot sales material, and he knows what that is better than any studio executive in California, barring none. His father knows that the son has something on the ball and is going to let the son do the pitching while dad coaches from the side-lines.

Cochrane at "U" Sales Convention

Sales Convention, at Atlantic City, Most Enthusiastic of "U" History. Eastern Salesmen Thrilled Over 1929-30 Universal Product.

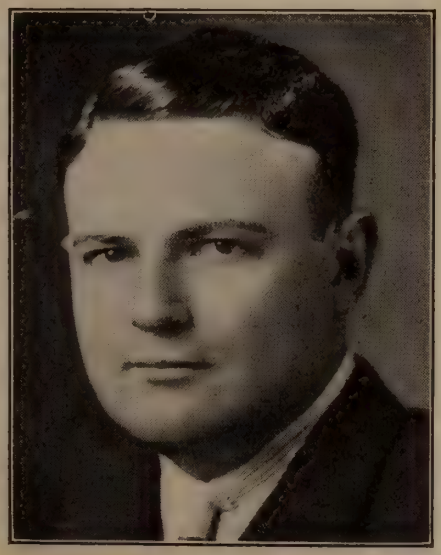
"So much for the studio. Now then, we have in Lou Metzger, the first general manager we ever had who graduated from the job of salesman, exchange manager and sales manager, and who therefore has the most thorough knowledge and understanding of sales needs. He not only has shown an amazing grasp of our world problems but he has personally put through some of the most important deals Universal ever made. He has blasted all politics out of the organization and has shown qualities of leadership which have delighted me from the very first day he took the job. Moreover, he has won the confidence and esteem not only of the Universal force but of the high executives of other companies. As for Mr. Van Praag and Mr. Schlanger, they will show you themselves that our confidence in them was fully justified.

"We can't go wrong. You're going to see a new Universal as sure as you're born—exactly the right mixture of young blood and old. Take it from me, Universal right now is entering a new and remarkable era."

UNIVERSAL'S MOST VALUABLE SALESMAN



L. Lutzer of the Dallas Exchange won the Medal of Honor as Universal's leading salesman and a loving cup for highest selling standing.

The Atlantic City convention was attended by salesmen and sales managers from all exchanges east of the Mississippi River, and from Eastern Canadian territories. It lasted four days, June 22-25 in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. Among the interesting events of the sales meet was the announcement of the winning exchanges in the Carl Laemmle 23rd Anniversary drive, Los Angeles winning first and $1500 in cash; Jacksonville winning second and $1000; Vancouver, third, $700; Cleveland, fourth, $500, and Toronto, fifth, $500.

Lou B. Metzger received a handsome scroll testimonial of appreciation from the Universal sales force.

S. Witman, manager of the Philadelphia Exchange, received a gold medal as Universal's most valuable sales manager. L. Lutzer, a salesman of the Dallas Exchange, received a silver cup as the most valuable salesman in the organization. Nine other salesmen received smaller cups as a reward for their standing in salesman ratings. In the order of rank they were: L. Carlow of Kansas City, M. Tritch of Oklahoma City, B. Taylor of Kansas City, W. Craig of Indianapolis, A. Zacherl of Minneapolis, H. Cass of Des Moines, M. Brodsky of Omaha, J. Jacobson of Des Moines and D. Simril of Atlanta.

We've Got What You Have To Have!

Watch Next Week's Universal Weekly

For Announcement of Universal's Short Product for 1929–1930

Forward March with UNIVERSAL!

"Broadway" Opening Is Triumph for Laemmle, Jr.

(Continued from page 25)

pleasing eyeful, but are sure to make even the most astute movie fan take an extra gulp.

* * * * * *

REDEMPTION

Paul Fejos has done a splendid job of directing. Dr. Fejos' groupings are impressive and he has built up personalities of the players and the scenes to a great extent. Unusual camera shots, through use of a gigantic crane many feet in the air, give an odd but bizarre touch to the film. Maurice Kussell has directed the dances and arranged some original routines with his company of gorgeous and graceful ladies of the ensemble. And, by the way, there are several live tunes, including "Hittin' the Ceiling" and "Sing a Little Love Song," rendered by the principals which probably will be whistled and sung by the fans.

THE CAST

The performances are of high standard. Several of the players have been chosen from the original stage play and make their talking debuts in their original roles.

Evelyn Brent creates a striking study of the life-wearied chorus girl, Pearl, whose fiance is killed by the unscrupulous gangster. Miss Brent's scenes are finely touched with restraint and quiet force. Particularly in her denouncement scene, where she shoots the gang leader, is Miss Brent vivid.

Thomas Jackson plays his original characterization of detective Dan McCorn and makes it a thoroughly likable, human and calm figure. His characterization is strong and real. Paul Porcasi is another stage recruit and plays the cafe owner excellently.

Glenn Tryon as Roy Lane is thoroughly likable and handles his dialogue realistically. Merna Kennedy as the girl plays it for all its worth, and even though the characterization is that of a dumb chorus girl, she makes quite an impression. An old friend is welcomed back in the appearance of Robert Ellis, whose strong study of the gangster is perfectly handled. And Betty Francisco makes a big impression as a hard-boiled chorus lady.

LOS ANGELES EXAMINER

By Louella O. Parsons

THE ADVENTURES of Carl Laemmle, Jr., with his million dollar plaything, "Broadway," have been related with various highly colored versions. Probably it is the first time in the history of filmland that a twenty-one-year-old boy has been intrusted with so pretentious a production. Last night at the Biltmore Theatre, filmland's best and bravest gathered to see how the son and heir of Carl Laemmle, Sr., has accounted to his parent for his exceptional trust.

Looking at "Broadway" with the cold, critical eye of a reviewer, and eliminating all personal sympathy and sentiment, I do not see how the boy's worst enemy could accuse him of failing his father. I should like to congratulate Carl, Jr., on his debut as a producer. "Broadway", in many ways, is the best picture Universal has ever presented, and certainly a talkie that ranks with the best of the recent output made by any other companies.

The stage play by Philip Dunning and George Abbott created a sensation when it was produced in New York. Dealing with those hectic phases of our modern life, bootlegging, hijacking and a convenient night club that acted as a shield for the lawbreakers, "Broadway was the first play of its kind to offer entertainment that was daringly real. It presented a certain side of Broadway life heretofore unexploited.

This year — more than ever — the strongest safety wedge of the small exhibitor is Universal's COMPLETE SERVICE. There has never been a year when the little fellow has been so hard put to find good programs at live-and-let-live prices. And there is no other contract under the sun that gives him so much for his money.

THE PICTURES YOU WANT WHEN YOU WANT THEM—AT A PRICE YOU CAN AFFORD TO PAY!

Sixteen thousand signed contracts and thousands of letters from exhibitors in every part of the country stand as proof of the fact that Universal's Complete Service is a boon to the big city theatre . . . a life saver for the small town. Features, 2-Reel Comedies, 1-Reel Comedies, Westerns, Cartoons, Serials, Features—Everything

ALL ON ONE CONTRACT!

UNIVERSAL'S COMPLETE SERVICE

A World in your Grasp!

Watch This Column

Universal's Weekly Chat

{"Send for copy of our pamphlet describing some of Universal's biggest pictures . . . It is free."}

IN THIS country and Canada, there are many young and hopeful authors who have doubtless written good stories only to have them turned down by the publications to which they were submitted. Undoubtedly there are some good ideas and plots in these rejected offerings which could be developed into excellent pictures. I would like to see them, and these aspiring authors may accept this as an invitation to send them to me for examination. Periodicals are not infallible. Rejections by them does not prove that the ideas are not good. I don't doubt that many of the ideas will lead to good things in the picture line. So, send them on.

—C. L.

The great success of "Broadway" at the Globe Theatre, New York, has acted as a spur to the theatres all over America, and I know now that it will prove one of the most successful productions of the year. It is not difficult to enthuse over it. Remarkable acting is done by GLENN TRYON, THOMAS JACKSON, MYRNA KENNEDY, ROBERT ELLIS and others of the notable cast. The scenery and action are dazzling and magnificent. You'll never forget it, and you are apt to see it more than once.

Thomas E. Jackson in "Broadway"

"College Love" seems like a weak title to me, but the picture is amazingly life-like and attractive. It is the first all-talking college production, illustrating the romance of the average university, the excitement of college contests, the singing and wise-cracking of the students, the dare and color of the campus, the dormitory and the field. It is a lovable production and the cast consists of your favorites of the "College Humans," GEORGE LEWIS, DOROTHY GULLIVER, EDDIE PHILLIPS, CHURCHILL ROSS and HAYDEN STEVENSON as the coach.

Laura La Plante and Joseph Schildkraut in "Show Boat"

Watch this column for forthcoming announcements of the Universal's Fall and Winter line. It will prove that this is another Universal year, "Show Boat" and "Broadway" will lead, and many surprises are on the way.

I don't want to be the judge of Universal Pictures. That's your prerogative because you are unprejudiced and are the ones to be considered. Your comments will be valuable. Will you write them to me now, together with any suggestions that may occur to you for their betterment?

Jane La Verne Universal Child Star

Carl Laemmle,
President

UNIVERSAL PICTURES
"The Home of the Good Film"
730 Fifth Ave., New York City

No matter where you live, Carl Laemmle's famous Saturday Evening Post column is a guide to thousands of your theatre-going population in the selection of their entertainment. Beginning with the September issues, all these national "fan" magazines will carry a full page message on Universal Pictures.

The Column on the left will appear in The Saturday Evening Post issue of July 20, 1929.

UNIVERS WEEKLY
Vol. 30 No. 8
Sept. 28, 1929

JOSEPH SCHILDKRAUT
in
"The MISSISSIPPI GAMBLER"
His First Universal Starring Production
Directed by Reginald Barker

GLANCE OVER THIS REMARKABLE GROUP OF ONE AND TWO REEL TALKERS! EVERY ONE A DEPENDABLE MONEY GETTER AT ANY BOX-OFFICE . . . GENUINE HEADLINERS!

Headliners!!

COHEN ON THE TELEPHONE
Famously funny monolog with GEORGE SIDNEY doing his stuff as Cohen
ONE REEL

12 SPORTING YOUTH
TWO REELS—Bright as a sunbeam and bubbling with young love — TALKING—SILENT— JUNIOR JEWELS

10 ALL STAR COMEDIES
Ten of the biggest comedy names in motion pictures will head these stellar novelties. TALKING ——— SILENT

10 SUNNY JIMS
The box-office joy bringer himself in ten talking pictures.—2 Versions; 2-Reels TALKING ——— SILENT

26 OSWALD, the Lucky Rabbit
Silent, a riot—in sound a shriek. It's permanent! ONE - REEL —SOUND or SILENT

6 PAT ROONEYS
The big money headliners in the brightest skits ever made— 2 REELS — ALL-TALKING and SINGING.

7 BENNY RUBINS
He comes to panic your audiences with laughter. He wisecracks—he sings—he dances. ALL - TALKING and SINGING—ONE REEL

Built for Electric Lights and steady Money!

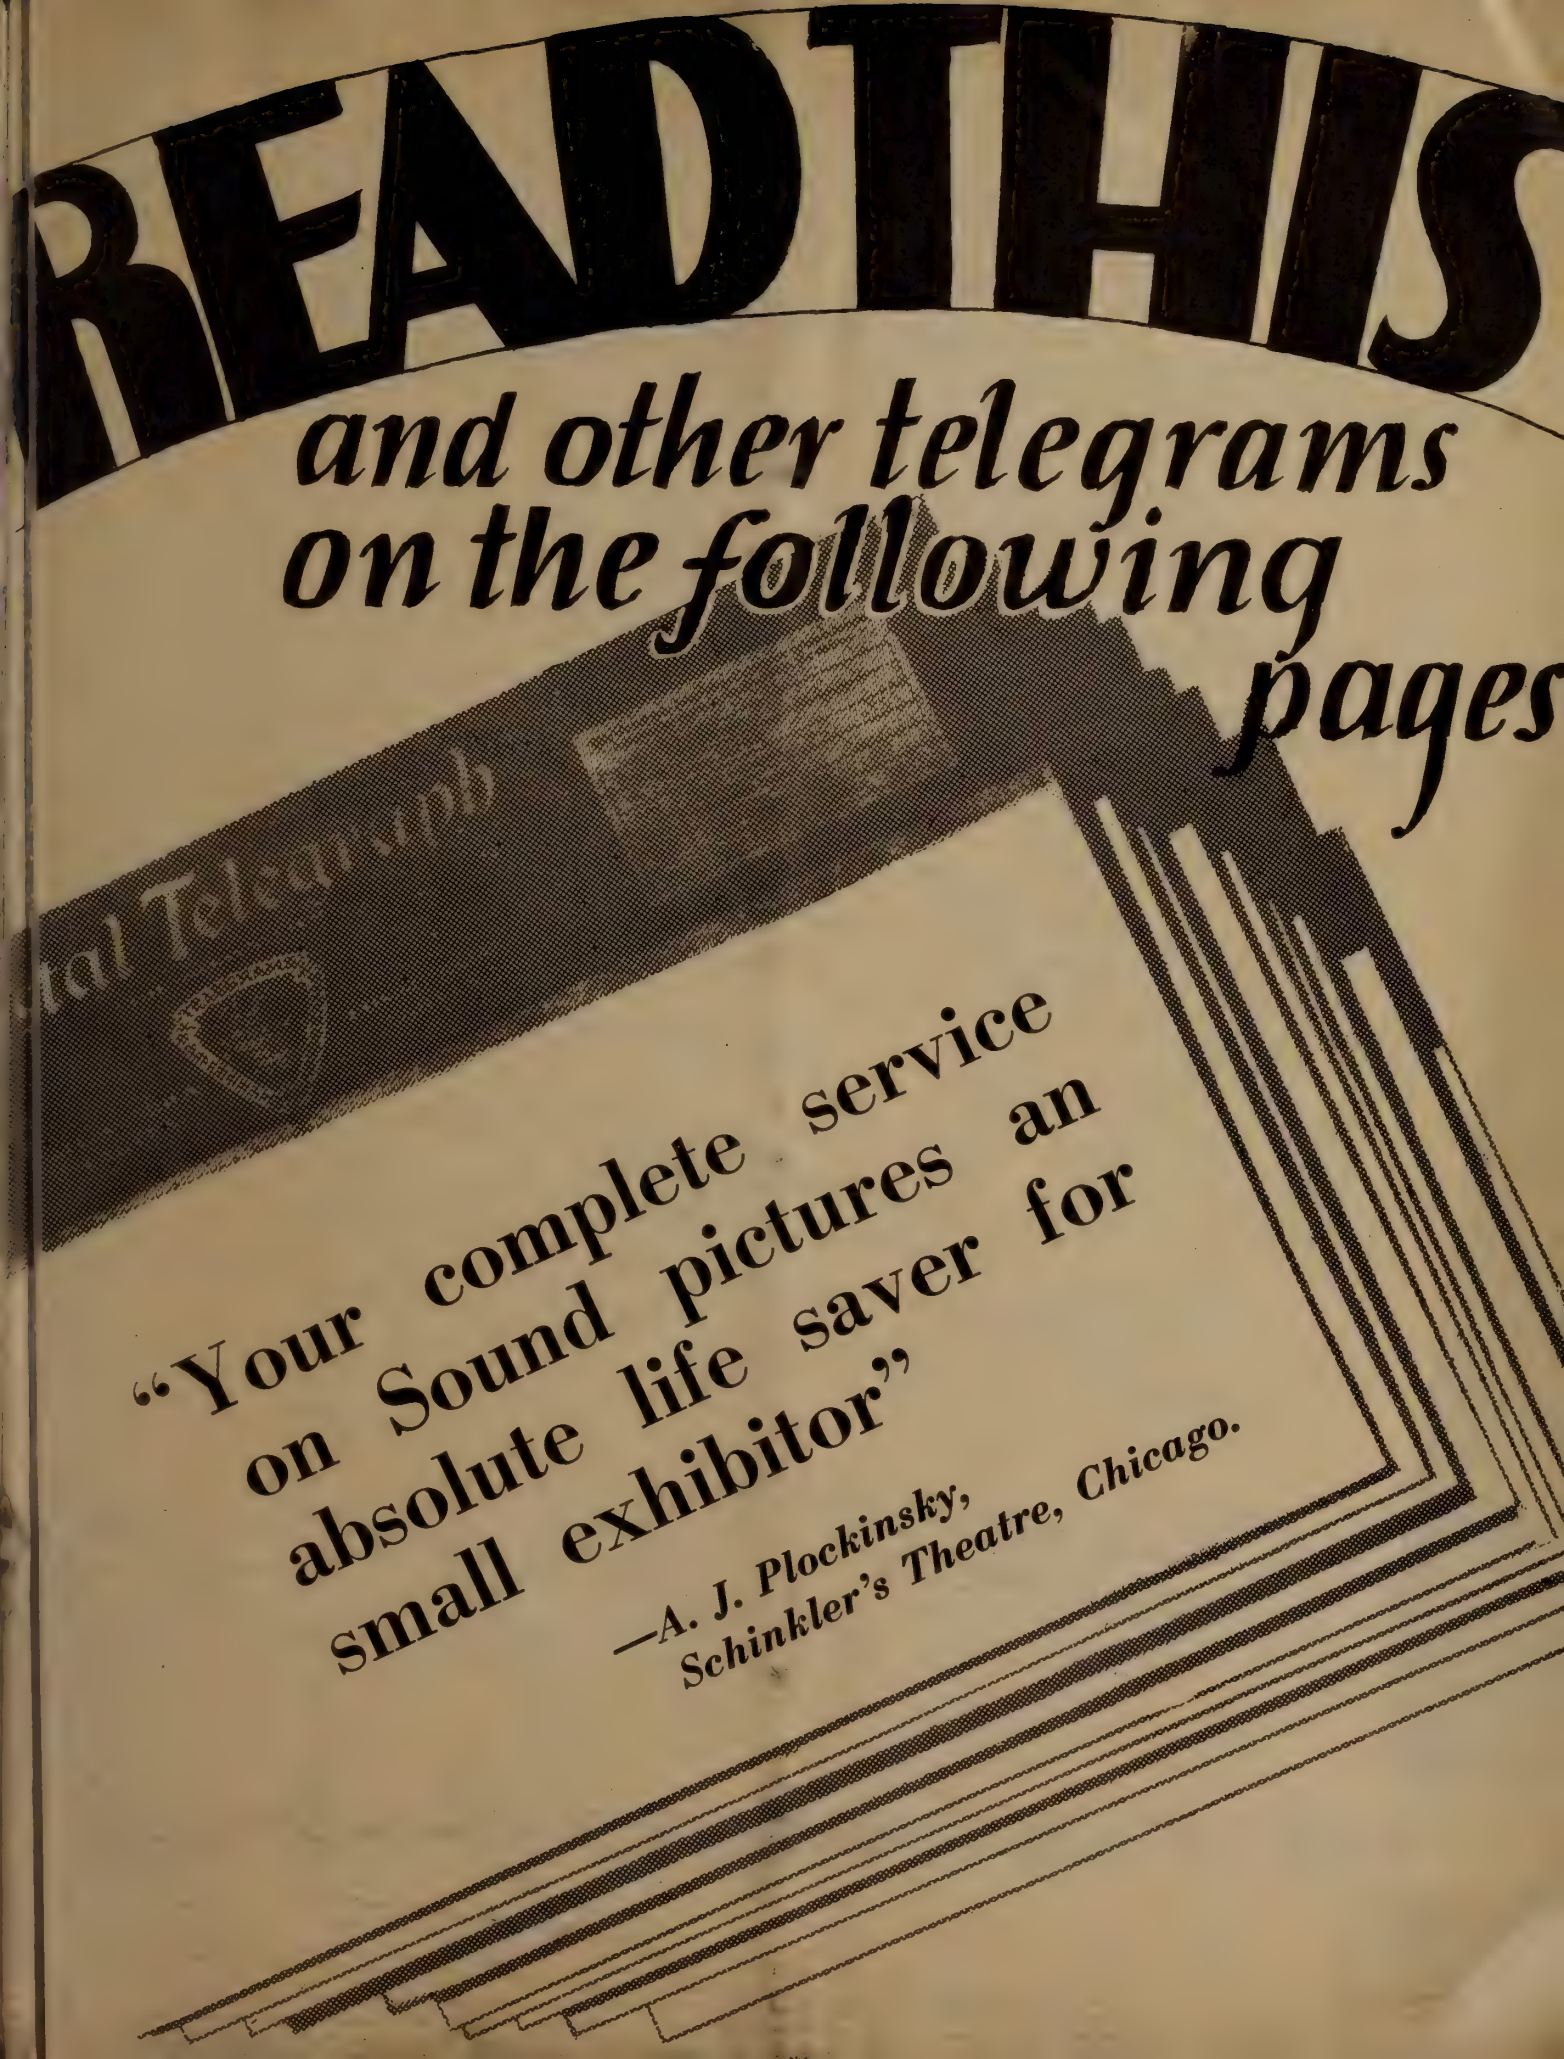
UNIVERSAL'S TALKING SHORTS

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

READ THIS

and other telegrams on the following pages



"Your complete service on Sound pictures an absolute life saver for small exhibitor"

—A. J. Plockinsky, Schinkler's Theatre, Chicago.

PATRONS ARE REQUESTED TO FAVOR THE COMPANY BY CRITICISM AND SUGGESTION CONCERNING ITS SERVICE 1201 S

CLASS OF SERVICE

This is a full-rate Telegram or Cablegram unless its deferred character is indicated by a suitable sign above or preceding the address.

WESTERN UNION

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT J. C. WILLEVER, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

SIGNS

DL = Day Letter
NM = Night Message
NL = Night Letter
LCO = Deferred Cable
NLT = Cable Letter
WLT = Week-End Letter

The filing time as shown in the date line on full-rate telegrams and day letters, and the time of receipt at destination as shown on all messages, is STANDARD TIME.

Received at

"Your Complete Service on Sound comes at a time when the industry needs it most!"

—M. S. White, Peak, Dalsec and Forrest Theatres, Dallas, Tex.

"Accept my best wishes for your success with new Complete Service with Sound Pictures Plan for the small exhibitors. Believe this will be great benefit and help to thousands of smaller theatres!"

—Charles Porter, Majestic Theatre, Detroit, Mich.

"Back to the good old times when an exhibitor will be able to know just how much his service will cost him for the week. A very constructive and beneficial move for the benefit of the exhibitor!"

—Dave L. Schumann, Cleveland, Ohio.

"Consider this greatest help given to small theatres since introduction of talking pictures!"

—H. T. Hall, Russell Theatre, Detroit, Mich.

FORWARD MARCH WITH UNIVERSAL!

"Complete Service Contract including Sound will keep many theatres open next year! Congratulations!"

—Ross Dixon, Palace and Ritz, Colorado, Texas.

"We extend heartiest congratulations to Universal in extending Complete Service Contract to cover Sound pictures!"

—E. M. Loew Theatres, E. M. Loew, Pres., Boston, Mass.

"Your plan for extending Complete Service Contract System to Universal Talking pictures program for small exhibitors is, in my opinion, finest thing possible for industry and deserves greatest success imaginable!"

—A. Rutenberg, Iris Theatre, Detroit, Mich.

"Your Extension Service Contract to cover Sound a welcome opportunity for the Independents!"

—Joe Blumenfeld, Blumenfeld Theatres, Inc., San Francisco, Cal.

WE'VE GOT WHAT YOU HAVE TO HAVE!

PATRONS ARE REQUESTED TO FAVOR THE COMPANY BY CRITICISM AND SUGGESTION CONCERNING ITS SERVICE 1201 S

CLASS OF SERVICE

This is a full-rate Telegram or Cablegram unless its deferred character is indicated by a suitable sign above or preceding the address.

WESTERN UNION

SIGNS

DL = Day Letter
NM = Night Message
NL = Night Letter
LCO = Deferred Cable
NLT = Cable Letter
WLT = Week-End Letter

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT J. C. WILLEVER, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

The filing time as shown in the date line on full-rate telegrams and day letters, and the time of receipt at destination as shown on all messages, is STANDARD TIME.

Received at

"My honest belief Universal Complete Service Contract Plan best thing that ever happened to small exhibitors! I bought it and how!"

—Ben Nathan, Ideal Theatre, Chicago, Ill.

"I bought Universal product one hundred percent and am proud of it! Congratulations on your Complete Service Contract Plan. No small exhibitor should do without it!"

—Abe Halper, Clearing Theatre, Chicago, Ill.

"I heartily endorse your Complete Service Plan on Sound pictures for the small independent theatre!"

—Max Leplowitz, Cleveland, Ohio.

"Congratulations upon your flat rental Sound policy!"

—Geo. Schenker, Cleveland, Ohio.

STICK CLOSE TO UNIVERSAL AND THE

"Great benefit to independent exhibitors! Congratulations!"

—Robert A. McNeil, Vice-President, Golden State Theatres, San Francisco, Cal.

"Congratulations on Service Contract Extension covering Sound! Exhibitors will welcome this move!"

—John de Stasio, Liberty Theatre, Sacramento, Calif.

"Congratulations on extension of Complete Service Contract to cover Sound pictures!"

—Charles Morse, Owner, Atlas Theatre, Adams, Mass.

"A great step forward for small exhibitor!"

—Phil. Markel, Plaza Theatre, Fall River, Mass.

"A life saver! My heartiest congratulations for its success!"

—Harry Dickerman, Alhambra Theatre, Minneapolis, Minn.

PROFITS WILL TAKE CARE OF THEMSELVES!

PATRONS ARE REQUESTED TO FAVOR THE COMPANY BY CRITICISM AND SUGGESTION CONCERNING ITS SERVICE 1201 S

CLASS OF SERVICE

This is a full-rate Telegram or Cablegram unless its deferred character is indicated by a suitable sign above or preceding the address.

WESTERN UNION

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT J. C. WILLEVER, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

SIGNS
DL = Day Letter
NM = Night Message
NL = Night Letter
LCO = Deferred Cable
NLT = Cable Letter
WLT = Week-End Letter

The filing time as shown in the date line on full-rate telegrams and day letters, and the time of receipt at destination as shown on all messages, is STANDARD TIME.

Received at

"Your Complete Service Contract announcement is a revelation! More co-operation like this and the industry will be at the heights again.

W. J. Block, Glenwood Palace Theatre, Minneapolis, Minn.

"Universal certainly deserves greatest success possible with their new plan, announced by Mr. Lacmmle, to give small exhibitors a Complete Service Contract with Talking pictures. This will be real boon to small theatres!"

—J. Niebes, Dawn Theatre, Detroit, Mich.

"Universal again comes to the front first, with plan to help the small exhibitors! Consider your offer of Complete Service with Talking pictures wonderful!"

—N. E. Ritter, Rivola Theatre, Detroit, Mich.

"Congratulations on your Sound Service Plan!"

B. B. Levine, Cleveland, Ohio.

FORWARD MARCH WITH UNIVERSAL!

"Believe Universal's Complete Service on Sound pictures to be one of most important announcements of all times!"

—M. E. Montgomery, Reno Theatre, Reno, Nev.

"Allow us to congratulate Universal on step taken extending Complete Service Contract to cover Sound pictures!"

—Charles King, Old Colony Theatre, Plymouth, Mass.

"Am using your Complete Service Plan on Sound pictures. Am very well satisfied. Believe it to be of tremendous value to all exhibitors!"

—Glen W. Dickinson Enterprises, Kansas City, Mo.

"Just read announcement of Mr. Laemmle's plan to extend wonderful Complete Service Plan to Sound pictures of Universal program for next season to small theatres. Think this marks greatest advance since introduction of original Complete Service Plan. Success and regards."

—Jess Sellers, Dunbar Theatres, Detroit, Mich.

WE'VE GOT WHAT YOU HAVE TO HAVE!

— no strings — no ifs — no ands — no buts — You can buy UNIVERSAL'S COMPLETE SOUND SERVICE for 1 year or 2 years or 3 years or 4 years—or as many years as you want. The door is wide open — WALK IN!

HERE'S WHAT YOU GET!

LAURA LA PLANTE in 3
Hold Your Man
Soft Shoulders
Kiss Proof

JOHN BOLES in 2
Moonlight Madness
The Song of Passion

JOSEPH SCHILDKRAUT in 3
The Mississippi Gambler
The Man About Town
The Bachelor Husband

GLENN TRYON and MERNA KENNEDY in 3
Barnum Was Right
Anything Goes
Skinner Steps Out

MARY NOLAN in 4
Shanghai Lady
Mademoiselle Cayenne
The Come-On Girl
Ladies in Love

GEORGE LEWIS and BARBARA KENT in 2
Flaming Daughters
Keep On Dancing

REGINALD DENNY in 2
One Hysterical Night
Embarrassing Moments

THE DRAKE CASE

GIRL OVERBOARD

THE LAST PERFORMANCE

THE HOMICIDE SQUAD

THE DEVIL'S PIT

PHANTOM OF THE OPERA
(Reissued in Sound)

KEN MAYNARD in 8
The Wagon Master
Lucky Larkin
Parade of the West
The Golden Bridle
Songs of the Saddle
Hidden Valley
Tall Timber
Crimson Courage

HOOT GIBSON in 8
The Long, Long Trail
Howdy Cowboy
Galloping Winds
The Mounted Stranger
The Ace Rider
Montana Kid
Hand 'Em Over
Rodeo Days

Short Subjects

JUNIOR JEWELS (2-Reels)
12 Sporting Youth
12 Fourth Collegians

2-REEL SPECIALS
6 Pat Rooneys

2-REEL COMEDIES
10 Sunny Jim
10 All Star

SINGLE REELS
7 Benny Rubins
26 Oswald, The Lucky Rabbit Cartoons

SERIALS
10 Ace of Scotland Yard
15 Tarzan the Tiger
10 The Jade Box
10 The Lightning Express
10 Terry of the Times

Silent

5-REEL WESTERNS
Jack Hoxie in 3
William Desmond in 3

2-REEL COMEDIES
10 Sid Saylors
10 Arthur Lakes

2-Reel Featurettes
13 Northwest Mounted Police; Ted Carson
13 Pioneer Kid; Bob Nelson
26 Reissues: Morrison, Sullivan, Daugherty, Cobb, Sedgwick

SINGLE REELS
26 Cream of the Comedies
(Reissues)

Features—Westerns—Serials—Comedies

Tonight at twelve

OWEN DAVIS!
UNIVERSAL!
BIG MONEY!
—That's all!

100% TALKING

— or Silent

From Owen Davis' Broadway stage sensation

With Madge Bellamy, Hallam Cooley, Margaret Livingston, Robert Ellis, Vera Reynolds, George Lewis, Norman Trevor. 100% Talking and Silent.

A HARRY POLLARD Production

A LAEMMLE SPECIAL

Universal Complete Sound Are Now Swa

No. 657—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

THE whole industry was electrified by my announcement that you can now have Universal Complete Service Contracts in Sound for one, two, three, four or five years!

It was good news — exciting news — to exhibitors in the smaller territories who either had wired their houses and could not get sound pictures at live and let live prices, or exhibitors who were afraid to go to the expense of wiring their houses!

And now the contracts are simply pouring in from every section of the country—pouring in at such a rate that it is an actual source of embarrassment because we cannot handle them as promptly as we would like to.

But don't let that worry you. We'll catch up and we'll give you the quick action you need.

Think of it! All the fears and uncertainties of sound are blasted out of existence by one sweeping announcement on the part of Universal.

Service Contracts in nping Headquarters!

Amazing as it is, it would have been far more amazing to you if any other company had so simply solved the problems of small exhibitors.

And the plan is simplicity itself!

You'll not need a Philadelphia lawyer to sit at your side and steer you through the mazes of legal problems. We will submit to you a contract as easily understood as our regular Complete Service Contract which hitherto has affected silent pictures only. We will submit a contract with which you are perfectly familiar. As for its fairness, I am willing to let it be judged by any moving picture man or any moving picture editor who knows the business.

It is such a godsend to the others who are signing it that they don't even care what the contract says—they know Universal has made good in the past and that it will make good on this.

Universal has solved the sound problem. It isn't half as hard as we all thought it was. In solving this problem for itself, it has solved it for you—and I now pass on to you without delay all the benefits of our experience, our experiments, our organization and our equipment.

There is nothing like it in the whole world—nothing like this new proposition. I advise you to get it while it is still available to your house!

The
UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick ~ Editor

PUBLISHED BY THE
— MOTION PICTURE WEEKLY PUBLISHING COMPANY — HECKSCHER BUILDING —
730-5TH AVE. — NEW YORK CITY
Copyright 1929 · UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION All Rights Reserved

Vol. XXX SEPTEMBER 28, 1929 No. 8

UNIVERSAL MOVIEGRAMS

UNIVERSAL has just purchased for the use of Joseph Schildkraut a magazine story by Henry La Cossett entitled "Deadline." It is being put into continuity form by Edward Lowe and will be directed by John Robertson. Barbara Kent, Scott Kolk and Harry Stubbs have already been assigned to important roles.

THE racketeer role of "The College Racketeer" has just been assigned by Universal to Frank De Voe, whom Reginald Barker, the director, saw at the Orpheum Theatre in Los Angeles. James Murray and Kathryn Crawford are playing the featured roles and De Voe will start upon completion of his vaudeville contract next week.

CHURCHILL ROSS, that eminent collegian, and Buddy Roosevelt have been added to the cast of Mary Nolan's second starring vehicle for Universal, "The Come-On Girl." It will go into production at Universal City under the direction of Harry Pollard next week. Don Douglas and Robert Ellis are the other featured players.

EMMETT FLYNN has finished his second picture for Universal. The last scene in "The Shannons of Broadway," with James and Lucille Gleason, was shot on the big stage at Universal City on Saturday night.

WILLIAM KENT IS SIGNED FOR "KING OF JAZZ REVUE"

Russell Markert and His Internationally Famous Russell Markert Dancers Also Engaged by John Murray Anderson for Paul Whiteman's Universal Revue Production—Cast Will Also Include John Boles, Laura La Plante, Joseph Schildkraut, Mary Nolan, Hoot Gibson and Ken Maynard

William Kent.

WILLIAM KENT has been engaged for "The King of Jazz Revue," starring Paul Whiteman. John Murray Anderson has also engaged the Russell Markert Dancers for this revue.

UNDER the guiding hand of John Murray Anderson, the list of talent for "The King of Jazz Revue," starring Paul Whiteman, is rapidly developing. This week announcement is made of the signing of William Kent, musical comedy star. This inimitable comedian will be remembered for his roles in "Rose Marie," "Funny Face" and "Battling Butler."

The ensemble numbers will be managed by Russell Markert and his internationally famous Russell Markert Dancers.

The Russell Markert Dancers have been seen to advantage in "Americana," "New Americana," "Animal Crackers," Earl Carroll's "Vanities," George White's "Scandals," "Rain or Shine." They have been for the last two years on first-class vaudeville bills, and form the mainstay of the Roxy presentations under the designation of the Roxyettes.

Anderson is angling for a famous European dancing act, which at the present moment is holding Germany spellbound.

Part of Carl Laemmle, Jr.'s, plan in presenting this Paul Whiteman Revue was to include as many of the Universal stars as possible. Already John Murray Anderson has evolved situations which require the services of John Boles, Laura La Plante, Joseph Schildkraut, Mary Nolan, Hoot Gibson and Ken Maynard.

This is William Kent's debut in

(Continued on page 20)

"THE MISSISSIPPI GAMBLER"

Schildkraut's First Starring Vehicle

A fateful meeting. Left to right: Joan Bennett, Alec Francis and Schildkraut

Joseph Schildkraut, the romantic Ravenal of "Show Boat," plays an even more glamorous role in "The Mississippi Gambler."

Joan Bennett, as gentle a heroine as ever had to resort to a gun.

Joan Bennett and Alec Francis.

Carmelita Geraghty makes a dark and dangerous foil to the blonde charms of Joan Bennett.

A THRILL THAT COMES ONLY ONCE IN A LIFETIME

By Carl Laemmle

The Universal President Describes Thrilling Return of the Graf Zeppelin to Friedrichshafen Where He Was Honored Guest of the Government of Wuerttemberg

---

THE Government of Wuerttemberg, that picturesque part of Germany, in which Friederichshafen is situated, made me a happy man indeed, when it invited me to be one of a selected handful to witness the return of the Graf Zeppelin into its hangar.

The positive hour of its arrival was not known, so from Laupheim, my birthplace, where I am spending a portion of my summer vacation abroad, we motored early Wednesday morning—4:45 A. M. to be exact! The dawn of an epochal day was showing its silver in the skies as we sped toward Friedrichshafen. The road, sparsely used generally, was one long line of autos—and farmer carts, too—for everyone seemed to be enroute to witness the sensational climax of a remarkable adventure and venture.

We reached the great expanse of landing field, and in a few moments my party and I were within the enclosure for guests of the German Government. France, Switzerland, England, Japan—every country was represented there. I had the pleasure of meeting the charming daughter of Count Zeppelin, Graefina von Brandenstein, who seemed happy with a wistful intermingling of sorrow—perhaps thinking how complete everything would be if her dear father could be there with her. A few moments later I was pleased to meet the American Ambassador to Germany, Schurmann, and we chatted firstly about the wonderful trip around the world and then of things American. A little later, I joined a group of men who are doing, and have done much, for Germany, namely President Boltz, Finance Minister Dehlinger and Former Minister Heymann, all of Wuerttemberg. All eyes were nailed toward the sky, and conversation was little of anything but THE Zeppelin.

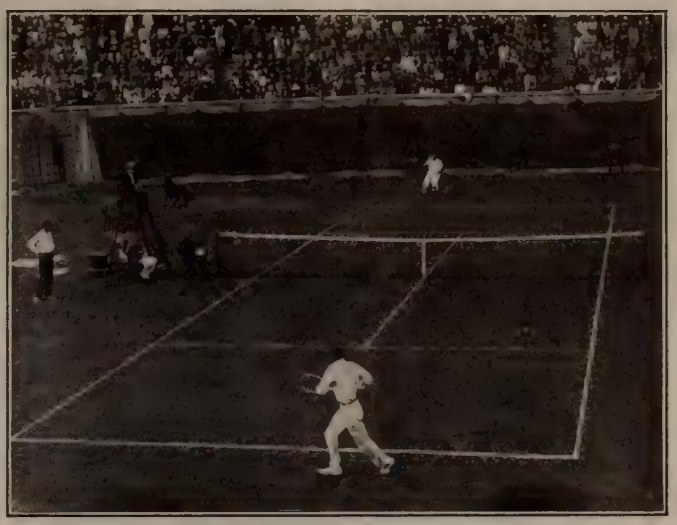
Ten minutes before the Graf Zeppelin showed itself to us, I had the good fortune of being introduced to Dr. Claudius Dornier, that brilliant inventor of the twelve-motored sea-and-air plane which can carry one hundred persons with baggage comfortably. Great things are yet to be heard of this tremendous plane, and Dornier will soon become a world-wide name. I am almost sure that one day the name Dornier will be written down in history with that of Zeppelin, Lindbergh and others.

It was now eight-thirty! There was a tenseness in the air—everyone was on edge—eagerness and enthusiasm were rife—everywhere eyes were strained upward and upward. The sun was shining with a fury that made turning one's face in its direction not an easy task—yet for minutes and minutes every face in that field, and tens of thousands outside, was toward the scorching sun. And then it floated in sight! A picture to remember always—inspiring—stirring—beautiful! It came over a patch of trees in the distance, and lazily, haughtily, proudly it drifted toward us. Hearts must have pounded as mine did, and for a moment not a cheer was heard. Excitement must have tied every man's tongue. A moment later, deafening cheers pierced the air—as the beautiful ship touched Mother Earth. Hundreds of willing, trembling hands gently maneuvered the Zeppelin around the massive field and brought her into the hangar. As Captain Flamming stepped out of the cabin, I shook him, madly I thought later, by the hand—as others surged close to him to do likewise. Just then Passenger Bogen grasped me by the arm and escorted me into the cabin of the Zeppelin.

The inside of the tremendous "bird" was to me the finishing touch of a day of days. I could visualize the whole trip from start to finish and how comfortable and happy they all must have been. I'm no youngster—as you all know, of course,—but from invitation to culmination the "home-coming" of the Graf Zeppelin was a thrill that comes only once to any man! I have experienced many thrills—but this one went right straight into the heart and there it shall remain, locked tight with those memories I shall always treasure.

Universal Newspaper Newsreel No. 75

Cadet P. G. Miller, of the 1928 U. S. Military Academy, West Point, squad, pictured as he tackled the dummy. Miller plays center and is a member of the 1931 class.



Bill Tilden (foreground) and his old rival Frank Hunter in the finals of the Men's National Singles Tennis Tournament at Forest Hills, N. Y. Tilden won, three sets to two.

Pearl Cramer, winner of the first prize at Detroit hairdressing convention.

Walter Hagen, famous golfer who recently qualified in the Metropolitan Professional Golfers Ass'n, White Plains, N. Y.

The beauties of Nippon are wearing their bobs long and wild.

Army blimp at the President's Cup Regatta held at Washington, D. C.

The blimp doing its best to keep apace with the tiny water speedsters.

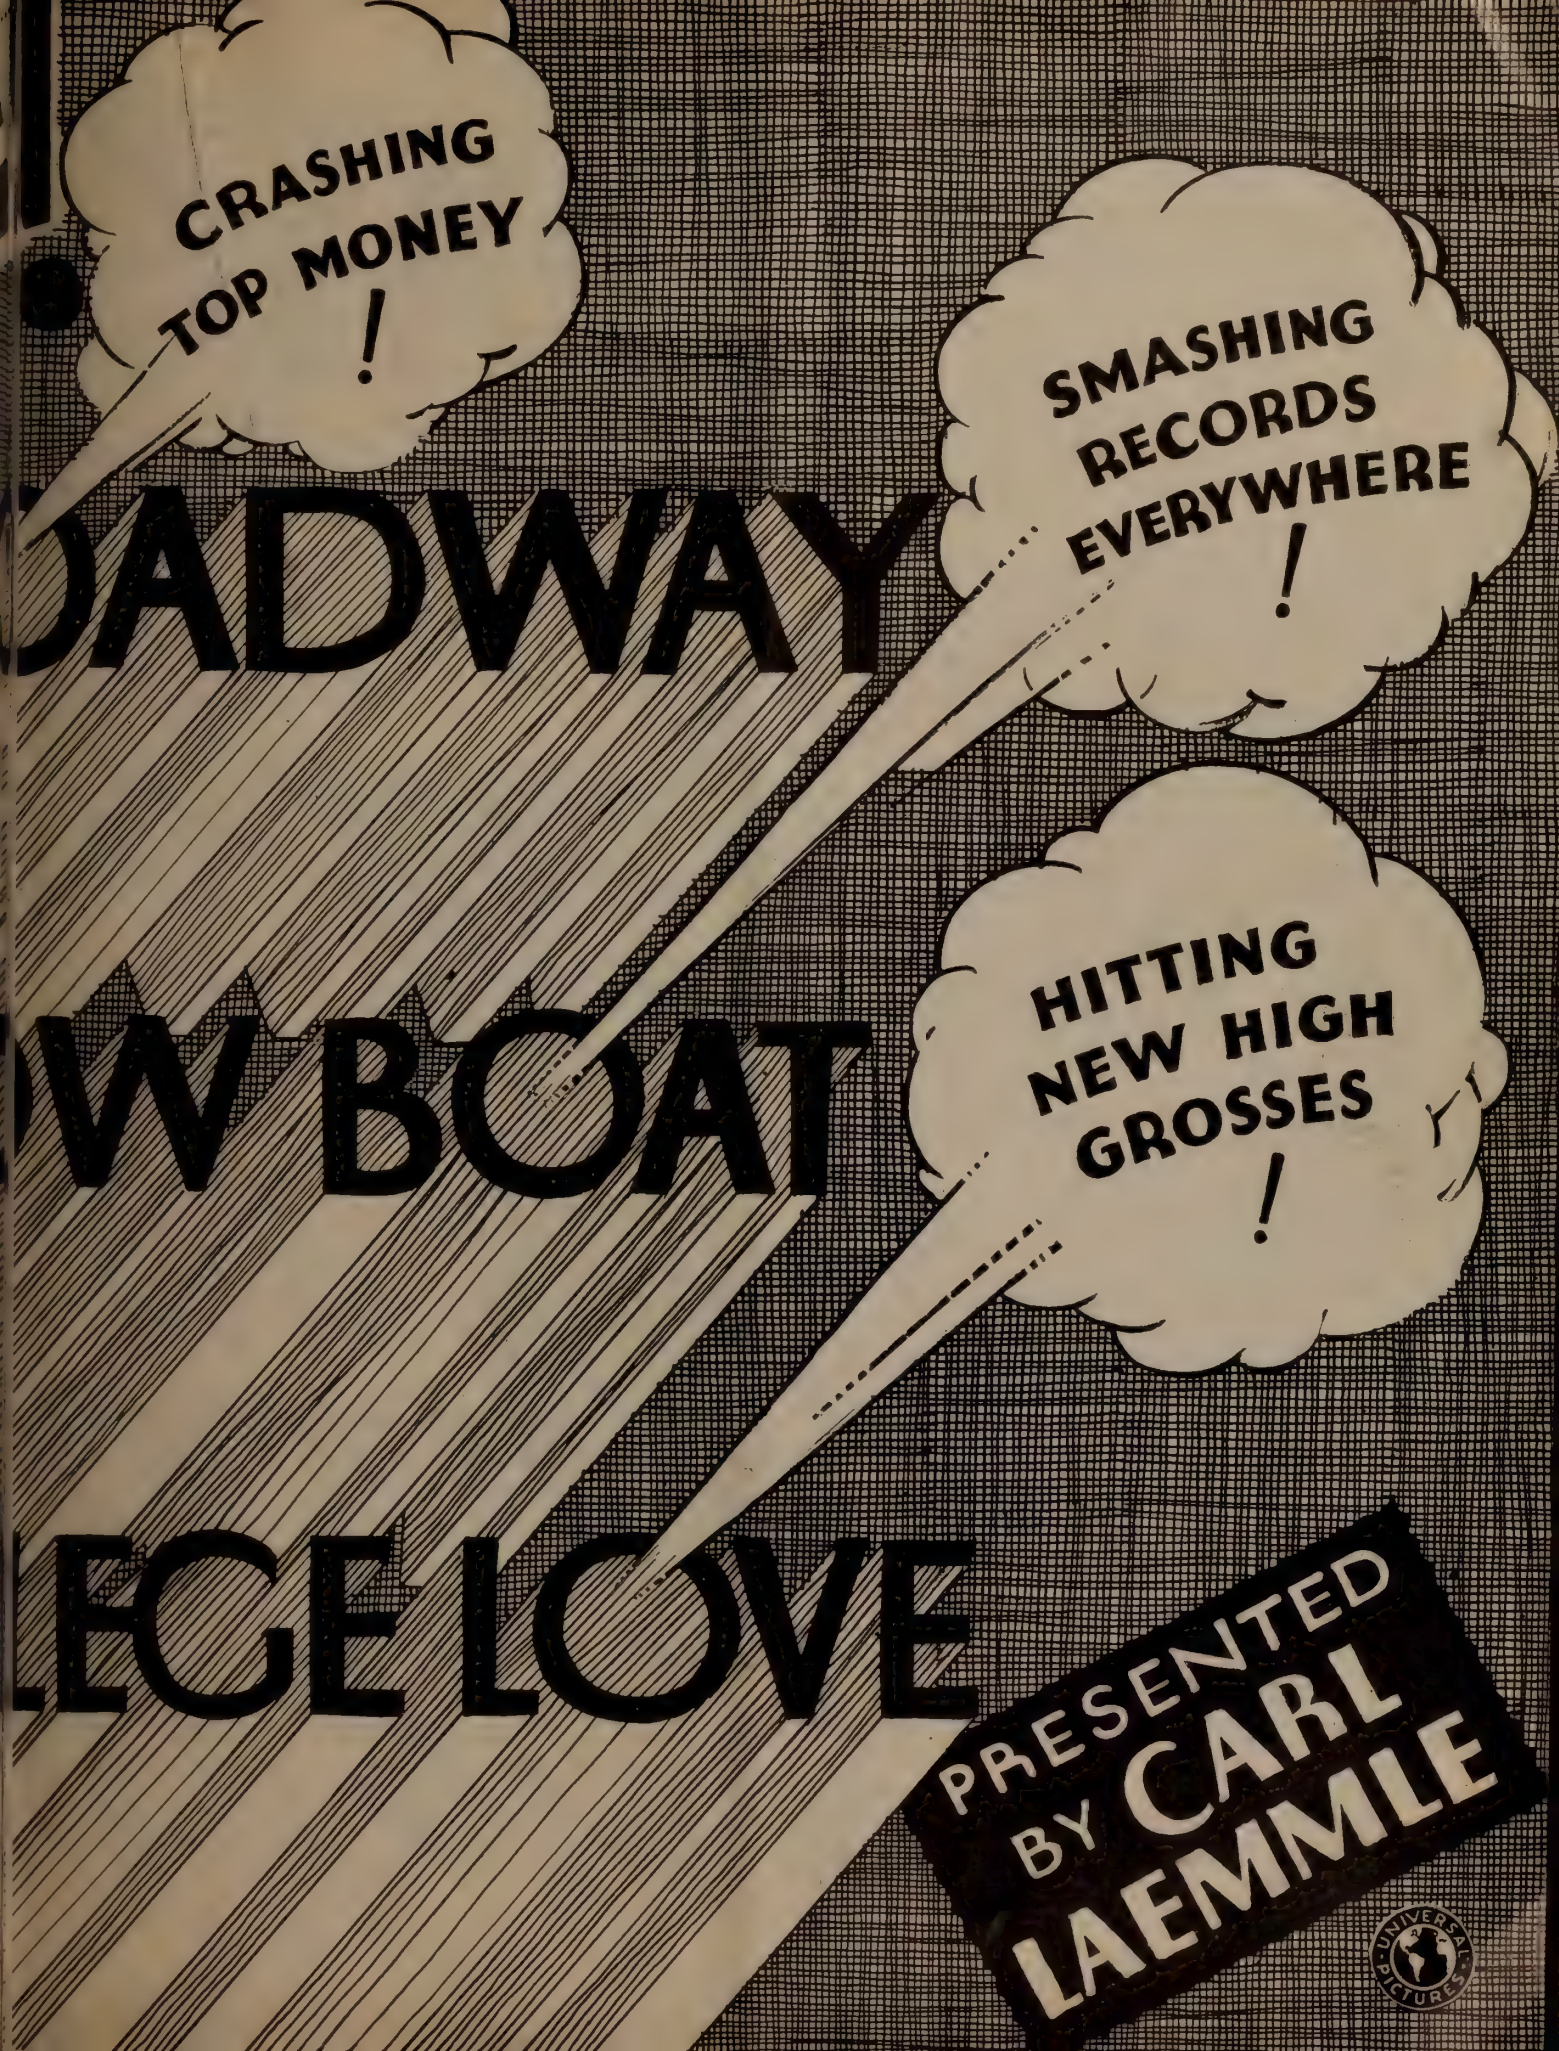
Get behind this battery of hits!

BOOM!

BOOM!

BOOM!

It's the battleship Universal! Boys, we are saved!



CRASHING TOP MONEY !
SMASHING RECORDS EVERYWHERE !
HITTING NEW HIGH GROSSES !
ADWAY
W BOAT
EGE LOVE
PRESENTED BY CARL LAEMMLE
UNIVERSAL PICTURES

"Broadway" Distinct Hit At Reopening of Park

Boston Critics Lavish with Praise

THE Park Theatre on Washington Street in Boston reopened last week, after several months of redecoration, with Universal's super-production of "Broadway." The audience was equally enthusiastic over the beauty of Boston's finest intimate house and the tense drama on the screen. The critics showered praise on young Laemmle's master-piece. The high spots of their reviews follow:

BOSTON TRAVELER

By Helen Eager

The massive night club set (said to be the largest ever made), the startling camera work made possible by Paul Fejos's invention— the moving "crane"— the stunning colored finale and the gripping plot—all leave you gasping with admiration.

* * * *

. . . despite all the dozens of imitations, this first melodramatic insight into Broadway's night-life, high-life and low-life continues to be the best of them all.

* * * *

Dr. Paul Fejos has directed "Broadway" with interesting touches filling it with fascinating camera work.

BOSTON POST

When "Broadway," the play, opened in New York two seasons ago, it was a smashing hit, and the film cannot help but carry on in the same way. It has everything, —romance, drama, thrills, color, comedy, music and dancing. In short, it's a grand show.

The whole thing is remarkably well done from the standpoint of direction, atmosphere, photography and acting. And it had a high mark to shoot at because the play itself was so well conceived and so well executed. But the film has not fallen short of its mark. In fact, it would not be exaggerating to say that in many respects it surpasses the stage version.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

By Harleigh Schultz

Not many feet of "Broadway" have passed before you know that Universal has landed in our midst with a bang. "Broadway" is something to be seen and heard and enjoyed, a screen production with a real story to entertain you. If one likes extravagance in effects, it is here. If one likes to know that a tremendous amount of money was spent in the making of the feature, that fact is apparent in this case. If one likes to feel the grip of a strong melodrama, replete with thrills, then that joy, too, is in store in the seeing of "Broadway."

* * * *

. . . the film is a triumph. It is superb entertainment; it satisfies both the eye and the ear; it satisfies the inner being. Somehow the other crook plays and the night club pictures seem to take a back seat when "Broadway" comes around. Mr. Laemmle calls it his super-film. He did his best to make it so, he and Director Paul Fejos. We will all agree with him.

BOSTON DAILY RECORD

By Gordon Hillman

"Broadway" in film, as unreeled at the Park Theatre, still remains the best of its kind. It has been imitated much, it has been equalled never as a sharp melodrama of a certain kind of American life.

Another attraction at the Park is the singing of "Lonesome Road" by Jules Bledsoe. It is by far the best and most artistic work any singing film has so far offered.

BOSTON GLOBE

"Broadway," which is all-talkie and ends with a color sequence, is a fitting vehicle for the opening of a theatre. . . . The picture has all the drama and thrills of the original, and into the bargain, is produced with a broadness of scope which could not have been possible on the speaking stage.

Universal's Talking Reporter Hailed as Sensation of the Day

Editor of Exhibitors Daily Review Finds Talking Reporter Greatest Continual Attraction Available

By Arthur James

(Reprinted from Sept. 18th issue)

THE most interesting thing in the world is news. It is as essential to the people of today as the milk of the morning. Up to now, the most dramatic and appealing presentation of news has been the pictured news of the big or picturesque events as shown in the newsreels. But the new sensation of the day and hour, the human presentation of news is the newsreel that talks as well as shows pictures.

* * * *

WE HAVE seen and heard Universal's Talking Reporter, a clever use of sound facilities that provides the news in pictures accompanied by a spoken description that is so real, so vivid and so natural that even in this day of wonders and human magic, we feel as if we had stumbled upon the greatest continuing attraction that a theatre could provide for its patrons.

* * * *

IF Carl Laemmle had never done anything before in motion pictures, his presentation of this new phase of informing entertainment would entitle him to full recognition as a showman supreme.

* * * *

ONCE UPON A TIME we used to write advertising copy and we found we could do our work best when we had something to yell about. As we sat, and saw and listened to this Talking Reporter we almost wished that by some magic process we might find ourselves framing the things we felt, and saw in this brand new twice-a-week attraction to convince exhibitors that herein was a show bet they could get hot over and through the newspapers booked up with it, shout to their public to come in and take a look and listen.

* * * *

BUT THIS doesn't happen to be an advertisement. It is a home spun expression of the way we feel about the Talking Reporter and Carl Laemmle and Universal won't know a thing about it until they read it here.

"Splendid!"

——said Bland Johaneson in N. Y. Mirror

by BLAND JOHANESON: "The Drake Case at the Colony. Another all-talking courtroom drama. It's a mighty good picture."

And that's what the audience at the Colony Theatre, N. Y. thought about it! They'll say it with money at YOUR box-office!

With Gladys Brockwell, Forrest Stanley, Robert Frazer, Barbara Leonard, James Crane. Story by Charles Logue.
100% Talking and Silent

An EDWARD LAEMMLE Production
Presented by CARL LAEMMLE

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

The DRAKE CASE

WILLIAM KENT SIGNED FOR WHITEMAN REVUE

(Continued from page 12)

pictures. He has appeared in almost every other form of amusement. He is a headliner in vaudeville, a musical comedy comedian, a straight comedian, and is able to portray characters of every age and nationality. He has just returned from an extensive Australian tour.

Russell Markert who will arrange the ensemble numbers in "The King of Jazz Revue."

The Universal City lot offered remarkable opportunities for revue numbers. Anderson has been occupied the last four days in looking at "Show Boat," in which Laura La Plante and Joseph Schildkraut appeared, and a number of the Mary Nolan and John Boles pictures. He is satisfied that he has devised numbers which will thoroughly suit their entertainment possibilities. A unique extravaganza number has been devised to present the western stars, Hoot Gibson and Ken Maynard.

As each new number is developed, Herman Rosse devises the scenic and costume effects. Elaborate plans for musical numbers are also being developed, and within a few days Mr. Anderson will be in a position to announce an impressive list of composers, song writers and lyricists.

"The King of Jazz Revue" will be the most elaborate production on Universal's schedule for the coming year, surpassing "Broadway" in spectacular effects.

Trade Papers Praise Laemmle As Friend of Small Exhibitor

Film Daily, Daily Review and Herald-World Commend Universal Complete Service Contract in Sound

CARL LAEMMLE'S announcement of a Universal Complete Service in Sound on a live and let live basis for the small exhibitor is being greeted with an avalanche of approval. In addition to the telegrams and letters pouring in from exhibitors themselves, recognition from the trade papers has been accorded the Universal chief's innovation, as the following reprints indicate.

Film Daily

A Salute

WHEN Carl Laemmle extended the complete service contract to small exhibitors, he did two things. First from the industry angle, he aided considerably in preserving the national state of health by keeping many little men in business. Secondly, he removed from the shoulders of the small fry the bugaboo of too much expense and not enough income and, in many cases, sustained minds and commercial bodies as going institutions.

The constructive program has now been broadened to embrace sound pictures. Distributors have acknowledged that a plan of succor must be constantly operative to preserve small town trade. Laemmle goes further by arranging his sales so that all and sundry may benefit thereby. They call him "the exhibitor's friend." Certainly Laemmle goes far to prove it.

Kann

Exhibitors Herald-World

UNVERSAL'S Complete Service in Sound, which follows the precedent which has been in vogue by this company for several years under which it offers to exhibitors programs for complete shows at a flat rental figure, will be hailed with considerable satisfaction by a large number of exhibitors.

The original silent program has been frequently referred to by many operators of smaller houses as a life-saver for their businesses. The new sound service, adapted to current requirements, should do much toward relieving many pressing exhibition situations.

Martin Quigley.

Exhibitors Daily Review

UNIVERSAL'S practical service to the small exhibitor with its complete service contract at a price within the little fellow's reach has been continued with a sound service along the same lines and this is as fine a piece of business judgment as the industry presents today.

* * *

THE little fellow cannot be helped by the soap box agitators nor the yelpers. The help must come in a practical business way from the very men the yelpers so continually seek to discredit. Arthur James.

Universal Signs Youthful Beauty

MISS JOAN MARSH, blonde, blue-eyed and fifteen years of age, whose features are said to be a composite of those of three of the most beautiful screen stars, has been signed to a Universal contract by Carl Laemmle, Jr., general manager, following a test made by Tom Reed.

Miss Marsh, the daughter of Mrs. Lolita Rosher, of Hollywood, was in pictures from the tender age of nine months until she was eight, when she was taken out of the work for her education. She appeared in "Daddy Long Legs" and "Pollyanna" with Mary Pickford, "The Young Mrs. Winthrope," with Ethel Clayton, and other pictures with Charles Chaplin, Zasu Pitts, Wesley Barry and Lila Lee. Now, at fifteen, she is back again with stardom as her goal.

Photographers say that her beauty combines that of Dolores Costello, Anita Page and Esther Ralston and her test at Universal showed she has an unusual screen personality and a remarkable singing and talking voice.

GREAT!

An amazing story of one of the most audacious crimes ever conceived.

Here's drama geared to the box-office!

with MARY PHILBIN, CONRAD VEIDT, LESLIE FENTON, Fred MacKaye, Sam De-Grasse. Story by James A. Creelman. A Paul Fejos Production. Associate Producer, Carl Laemmle, Jr.
Presented by
CARL LAEMMLE

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

TALKING
2 negatives
SILENT

The LAST PERFORMANCE

"Shannons of Broadway" To Have Theme Song

"THE SHANNONS OF BROADWAY," James Gleason's comedy hit, being made into an all talking picture by Universal, is to have a theme song on the screen.

In fact, it is to have three songs, all originals, and written especially for the production by Ray Klages and Jess Greer, of the Universal musical department.

The theme song is "Someone to Love Me," which is sung by John Breeden, the juvenile, to Mary Philbin, his sweetheart in the picture, and played on the piano by Gleason, who, with Lucille Webster Gleason, have the title roles.

The two other numbers are "Get Happy," which will be sung by a chorus of 30 girls in the theatre finale, and "Living the Life of Riley," played by the Gleasons in the opening theatre sequences.

"U" Signs Cooley For 3 Pictures

HALLAM COOLEY, popular comedian and juvenile, so impressed Universal studio executives by his good work in "Tonight at Twelve," a Carl Laemmle Special soon to reach the screen, that he was signed for two more pictures.

His second will be in an important role in "The College Racketeer," about to go into production under the direction of Reginald Barker. James Murray, Kathryn Crawford, Sarah Padden, Frank Campeau, Robert Elliott and little Jackie Hanlon also are in the cast. Lambert Hillyer wrote the story. It will be a college picture of a new and distinct type, with full dialogue and sound.

Cooley's third role in Universal's current lineup has not yet been announced.

ERICH MARIA REMARQUE

The first picture taken of the author of "All Quiet on the Western Front" since the publication of his world famous war novel

"Sunny Jim" Registered As Trade-Mark by "U"

"SUNNY JIM," the new name for Lawrence McKeen Comedies, played by the screen youngster made popular as Snookums in the "Newlyweds" comedies, has been registered as a trade mark by the Universal Pictures Corporation.

Sunny Jim, as he is now called, is making a series of ten two-reel talking comedies for current Universal release. Several of them already have been completed and are said to be top-notch entertainment.

The baby has good command of English now and has a perfect screen voice. His quaint sayings add much humor to the comedies.

"Deadline" Bought For Schildkraut

"DEADLINE," a magazine story written by Henry La Cossett, has been purchased by the Universal Pictures Corporation as a starring vehicle for Joseph Schildkraut. John S. Robertson, who recently completed "Shanghai Lady," with Mary Nolan, will direct. The adaptation and dialogue are being prepared by Edward T. Lowe, Jr.

Barbara Kent will play the leading feminine role. Scott Kolk and Harry Stubbs have been assigned to important roles.

"Deadline" is a newspaper story in which Schildkraut will play the role of star reporter who is also a fastidious dresser. He marries and leaves his bride two minutes after the ceremony to spend his honeymoon alone working at his hobby, a murder mystery assigned to him by the city editor.

Schildkraut recently completed "The Mississippi Gambler" under the direction of Reginald Barker from the story by Leonard Fields and Karl Brown.

McIntosh Celebrates 44 Years as an Actor

BURR McINTOSH, veteran actor, also well known as author and lecturer, celebrated his forty-fourth anniversary as an actor on the night he finished his part in "Skinner Steps Out" at Universal City.

When the company quit work at 3 a. m. McIntosh was tendered an impromptu party on the set, the sponsors being William J. Craft, director, Glenn Tryon and Merna Kennedy.

McIntosh began his stage career in New York. In his forty-four years before the footlights and the camera he has taken important parts in hundreds of productions.

Exhibitor Enthusiastic Over Universal Newsreel

"THE replacing of International Newsreel with Universal Newsreel I consider an asset to my business.

"Universal Newsreel is by far more educational and entertaining. On various occasions, since commencing Universal Newsreel, patrons have commented on this part of the program and have expressed their appreciation.

"It is indeed a pleasure to have this most interesting feature on my program." —C. W. Young, California Theatre. Glendale, Calif.

"BROADWAY" GOES TO PHILLY

Packard Phaeton and Wise Crack Contest Feature Big Campaign

WHEN "Broadway" opened at the Shanley Theatre in Philadelphia it literally took the town by storm. E. S. Callow, manager of the theatre, with Bob Wood and Duke Hickey, Universal exploiteers, are responsible for the big campaign.

The exploitation features were a tie-up with the local Packard distributor and a wise crack contest sponsored by the Philadelphia Daily News. These were augmented by a thorough coverage of the record dealers, one hundred per cent. co-operation from the Murad cigarette tie-up and a batch of telegrams from Carl Laemmle, Jr., Paul Fejos, and the stars of "Broadway," to the citizens of Philadelphia.

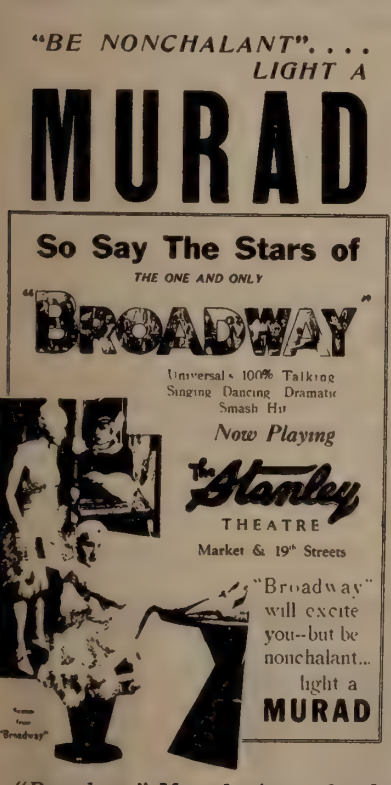
The "Broadway Wise Crack" contest started two days before the opening and ran throughout the engagement. It commanded considerable space every day in the Daily News and created no small amount of public interest in the picture. Hundreds of people entered and submitted wise cracks which were published from day to day along with a new scene from the production. The paper offered tickets to "Broadway" at the Stanley Theatre as prizes. The tickets were furnished by the theatre.

In tieing-up with the local Packard agency, Callow arranged for the use of one of the new Packard phaetons for seven days. Signs reading: "GO TO SEE 'BROADWAY' AT THE STANLEY THEATRE—THEN SEE THE NEW PACKARD, 'BROADWAY'S' CHOICE," were bannered on both sides and the back of the car. Manned by a liveried chauffeur and carrying three Beau Brummels as passengers, the shining new Packard was driven about the city for an entire week. Three ushers dressed in proper morning attire, from their bespatted feet to their silk-hatted crowns, acted as the passengers and supplied the necessary swanky atmosphere for the stunt. The Packard agency furnished the car at no cost to the theatre and even defrayed the cost of the banners. Callow says that this same stunt can be readily worked in any city where there is a Packard agency.

Six hundred Victor record dealers displayed the "BROADWAY" window streamer in and around Philadelphia as did three hundred dealers of Brunswick records. The P. V. D. and the Weimer companies each devoted a large window exclusively to "BROADWAY" music displays.

Practically every cigar store, or store where cigars and cigarets are sold, displayed the special "BROADWAY"—Murad Cigaret tie-up window paster, with the theatre name and play dates.

The telegrams from Carl Laemmle, Jr., the director and the stars were neatly mounted on a special display board in the lobby and attracted plenty of attention during the entire run of the picture.



"Broadway"-Murad tie-up localized for the Philadelphia showing at the Stanley

Handsome Packard with liveried chauffeur and three Beau Brummels used for a week during run

DAILY NEWS

30

What Wise Crack Did Pretty Myrna Make to Glenn Tyron? Ticket for Answer

What do you suppose the wise-king Myrna Kennedy said to Tyron that made him wrinkle in this manner that is ridiculous as his cosa flip-remarker in which opens at the w, so you can be a nifty that she to be eaves-ient, so your e next fel-crack and k Editor, NEWS, winners ats for e pic-next each t 25 ple fa-e. s

Glenn Tyron Myrna Kennedy

The "Broadway Wise Crack" contest in the Philadelphia News found its way to the top of the page during the run of the film

AN INSTAN SE

NEWSPAPERS PUBLICIZING NEWSREEL TO YOUR PATRONS

The Evening World
(New York, N. Y.)
The Philadelphia Inquirer
The Chicago Daily News
San Francisco Chronicle
Los Angeles Times
The Indianapolis News
The Seattle Star
The Dallas Dispatch
The Commercial Appeal
(Memphis, Tenn.)
The Houston Chronicle
The Portland News
Pittsburgh Post-Gazette
The World-Herald
(Omaha, Neb.)
The Montana Standard
(Butte, Mont.)
The Salt Lake Tribune
The Daily Missoulian
The Billings Gazette
Charlotte News
The Oklahoma News
Kansas City Journal-Post
The Evening Star
(Washington, D. C.)
Minneapolis Morning Tribune
The Cleveland News
The Detroit News
The Atlanta Journal
San Antonio Express
The San Antonio News
Arkansas Democrat
(Little Rock, Ark.)
Ft. Worth Star-Telegram
The Toronto Star
El Paso Evening Post
The Spokane Press
Boston Traveler
The Knickerbocker Press
(Albany, N. Y.)
Albany Evening News
New Haven Eve. Register
Buffalo Evening News
Rochester Times-Union
The San Diego Sun
Phoenix Evening Gazette
The St. Louis Post Dispatch
The Times-Star
(Cincinnati, Ohio)
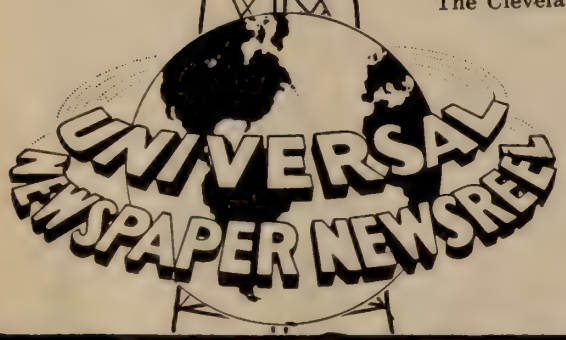
The Milwaukee Journal
The Vancouver Sun
The Toledo Blade
Jacksonville Journal
The Richmond News Leader



BOOST TO BOX OFFICE

"We wish to congratulate Universal on its new, outstanding newsreel. This tie-up with the newspaper has resulted in a lot of free advertising and publicity which has reacted favorably to our box office."

—R. M. Clark, Griffith Amusement Co., Oklahoma City, Okla.

UNIVERSAL TALK

TANEOUS NSATION!

UNIVERSAL'S New Talking Newsreel hit the country like a flash from the sky.

We knew it would!

AND NOW YOU KNOW IT!

Universal's Talking Reporter is a success right from the word GO!

His talk on the latest news of the day made patrons in First Run Houses sit up with surprise and amazement.

BECAUSE—For the FIRST time they heard a TALKING NEWSREEL that gave them UP-TO-THE-MINUTE NEWS.

News fresh and new, of all the world, told in running-fire sequences, just as the pictorial events are flashed on the screen.

IF YOU HAVEN'T ALREADY GOT IT, HOT-FOOT IT TO THE NEAREST UNIVERSAL EXCHANGE.

Presented by
Carl Laemmle

Produced under the supervision of Sam B. Jacobson

TWO A WEEK——ON DISC

NG NEWSREEL

Milwaukee Critics Like "Drake Case"

IF "The Drake Case" were just another murder mystery its release at the present time would leave the movie world cold. It is, however, a "different" murder mystery. It has, like several of its contemporaries, a courtroom scene. But what a courtroom scene! Peggy Patton, popular motion picture critic on the Wisconsin News, went to the Alhambra last week prepared to say, "thumbs down!" Here is what she actually wrote:

> "Well, I spoke out of turn in this column last week. I vowed if they ran another court trial down my neck on the silver sheet, it would be just too bad. But I hadn't figured on 'The Drake Murder Case,' Alhambra. Court trial or no court trial, if it is a good picture one is going to like it and the present photoplay is one decidedly worth seeing. For what is more interesting than mystery and intrigue, a thing that keeps you guessing and baffled. 'The Drake Murder Case' does all that.

"The story opens with promising ingredients. There is a servant who has a most unusual hold on her mistress; a child who vows she hates her own mother; and a murder that seems to be utterly without motive. You know that the two women hate each other, but you are at loss to understand why, considering their different stations in life. When one is arrested for the death of the other, she refuses to talk in her own defense, stating only that she did not kill the woman, but was glad she was dead."

It Really Could Happen Says Milwaukee Leader

"The Who Did It?" film at the Alhambra this week, featuring the late Gladys Brockwell, is one of those unusual mysteries which might really have happened.

"If you are one of those annoying individuals who insists on taking your mystery tales with analysis, you are safe with the Alhambra story, called 'The Drake Case.' It has no leaks through which to admit the waters of unreality which often flood mystery stories.

"Mrs. Drake, all set for a trip to Europe with her stepdaughter, is interrupted by a determined and sinister woman servant who first insists that she will not sail and then undertakes to prove it by taking the things out of her mistress' suitcase.

> "Then comes an amazing unwinding of episodes which culminate in a courtroom, to the satisfaction as well as surprise of everyone.

"Beside Miss Brockwell, whose acting is excellent, Forrest Stanley stands out in his portrayal of a sarcastic district attorney such as you love to hate. Robert Frazier is all that the lawyer for the defense should be. The defendant is, of course, Miss Brockwell, the woman servant."

Universal Pictorial News

Kansas City's Latest Murder Mystery!

Principals in "The Drake Case"

(Left) District Attorney Caldwell, young Prosecutor who is conducting the case for the state. (Center) Scene in Judge Morris's court where Lulu Marks is on trial for her life. (Right) Lulu Marks accused of the murder of Doris Blake, as she hears the State's demand for her life.

(All photos courtesy Globe Theatre where "The Drake Case" Universal's 100% Talking Picture is now showing)

These window placards were displayed all over Kansas City and attracted wide attention on account of a sensational local murder.

"THE DRAKE CASE" PROVES SENSATION IN KANSAS CITY

Exploitation Plays Up Murder Mystery

THE unflagging popular interest in mystery films gave the keynote to the exploitation campaign on Universal's "Drake Case" in Kansas City. Manage William Flynn of the Globe Theatre and Exploiteer Ravenscroft took advantage of a sensational murder case occupying attention locally by issuing a Universal Pictorial News captioned "Kansas City's Latest Murder Mystery!" Unnerneath, as the accompanying illustration shows, was a scene from Universal's thrilling all-talking picture and pictures of the prosecuting attorney and the defendant. These News Bulletins were used lavishly in windows throughout the city.

Another bid for the patronage of the legal profession consisted in announcements to a special mailing list of 1,300 lawyers. Publicity was printed in Legal News, the local daily legal paper. Ten thousand throwaways were distributed as a tie-up with the Commercial Fingerprint Identification Bureau on the value of fingerprints as evidence and identification. This was especially apropos in view of the prominent part fingerprints played in "The Drake Case."

A heavily veiled woman in mourning proved a striking walk-around for street exploitation. She carried a sandwich board on which appeared:

> "I am heart-broken.
> Mother accused of Murder
> "DRAKE CASE"
> Help me absolve her!
> Now on trial at the > Globe Theatre."

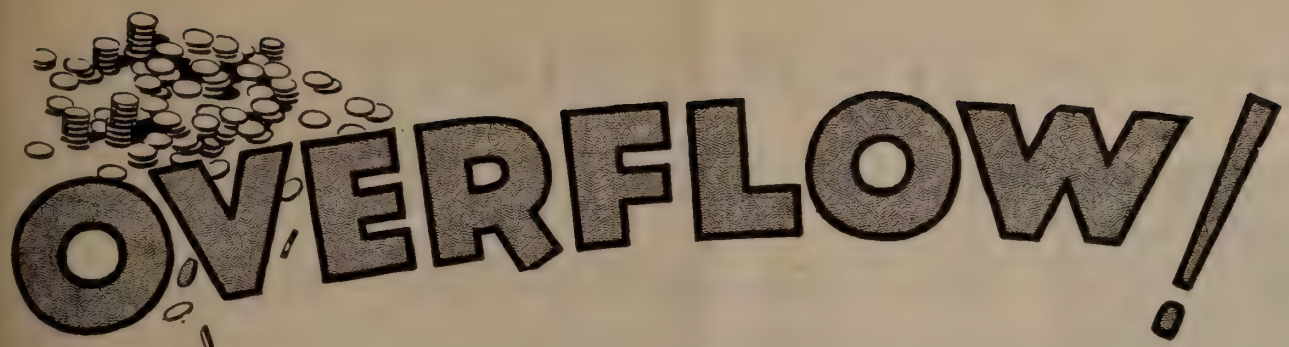
The outdoor advertising consisted of twenty-five 24-sheets and three hundred 1-sheets. In addition, 150 window cards were displayed and the Pictorial News described above.

Publicity was given the film through radio, movie reviews and newspaper columns.

The picture packed them in at the Globe for a solid week. "The Drake Case" has one of the most tense courtrooms yet to reach the talking screen. It is an Edward Laemmle production, with Gladys Brockwell, Forrest Stanley, Robert Frazer, Barbara Leonard and James Crane cast in the principal roles.



OVERFLOW!

"Broke all records at the box-office! If I had only bought the picture for five nights instead of three!"
—Mrs. E. Neuman, Tonasket, Wash.

OVERFLOW!

"Broke all house records!"
—J. Adarno, Savoia Theatre, Columbus, Ohio.

OVERFLOW!

"Business big and it rained torrents!"
—Mrs. J. O. Holland Dixie Theatre, Mariana, Fla.

OVERFLOW!

"Old, young, big, little—and, in fact, the family dog—tried to get into the theatre! My greatest money maker since 1920."
—V. F. Grubb, Mount Vernon, Ind.

OVERFLOW!

"Jammed!"
—R. D. Jones, Frankford, Del.

OVERFLOW!

"Broke all records, including such pictures as 'Ben Hur,' 'The Big Parade' and 'King of Kings!'"
—W. M. LeCompte, Fireman's New Thea., Hurlock, Md.

OVERFLOW!

"We took over the Martin Theatre when it was a dead one—played Uncle Tom two nights to SRO! Record for five years!"
—S. J. Richardson, Oregon, Mo.

OVERFLOW!

"Better business than any other specials, including 'Ben Hur' and 'Big Parade.' I didn't have seats enough!
—S. R. Alexander, Pawnee, Ill.

OVERFLOW!

"Biggest crowd in a year!"
—E. D. Richwine, Urbanna, Va.

OVERFLOW!

"Impossible to handle crowd at final showing!"
—W. A. Popham, Winnipeg, Man.

OVERFLOW!

"Doors opened at 7:15 and the house was packed at eight. I was rushing around trying to make the people standing comfortable. The second show was practically the same. Had it been possible to keep the picture for the following night, I could have packed the house again!"
—W. S. Bowen, Sherwood Theatre, Sherwood, Ore.

OVERFLOW!

"Had our house crowded both nights. We could have played it again to a good crowd."
—Clifford B. Smith, Union, Nebr.

OVERFLOW!

"I brought 'Uncle Tom' back for a second engagement within thirty days! My reaction speaks for itself!"
—Wm. S. Wieder, Newport Theatre, Norfolk, Va.

OVERFLOW!

"Three days to capacity. It would have held out with big receipts the week out!"
—Mrs. B. Gordon, Palace Theatre, Newport News, Va.

OVERFLOW!

"Broke all previous records. We want to re-book it!"
—L. W. Lea, Schoolfield, Va.

OVERFLOW!

"Had to rent chairs to seat all the people. Largest amount ever taken by a picture in this town!"
—H. A. Page, Edisonia Theatre, Pruden, Tenn.

OVERFLOW!

"Trebled box-office receipts and brought new patrons from miles away!"
—Oxel R. Lawson, Moscow, Pa.

OVERFLOW!

"Terrible weather but wonderful business!"
—R. B. Law, Orpheum Theatre, Savannah, Ga.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN

CARL LAEMMLE'S SUPER PRODUCTION

With Marguerita Fischer, Arthur Edmund Carewe, Lucian Littlefield, James Lowe, Virginia Grey, George Siegmann, Adolph Milar, Vivian Oakland, Lassie Lou Ahearn, Mona Ray, Aileen Manning.

Two Negatives—1 Silent, 1 with Sound.

A HARRY POLLARD Production

FORWARD MARCH WITH UNIVERSAL!

THIS IS YOUR PROFIT YEAR

Business is Good When You Campaign with Universal Advertising Accessories

A slide. Indispensible in small theatres.

A complete stock of advertising materials are ready for quick delivery from Universal Film Exchanges.

A window card. A very necessary medium for publicizing in town and city.

A novelty cut-out head (life size 9x12 inches), available for John Boles, Reginald Denny, Laura La Plante, Mary Nolan, Ken Maynard, Hoot Gibson, Glenn Tryon, Barbara Kent, Joseph Schildkraut

A twenty-four sheet stand that has cut-out possibilities for marquee. Can be animated by making clock hands revolve and still improved with trick lighting effects.

McKivett Wages Fine Campaign On "Broadway" in Racine, Wis.

WHEN Owen McKivett, managing director of the Venetian Theatre, Racine's (Wisconsin) million dollar house, booked "Broadway" for its first Middle West showing he lost no time in letting the city know about it.

Twenty-four sheets, six sheets, one sheets, roto heralds, telegrams, window cards, streamers, radio, merchants' windows, restaurants, ice-cream parlors, front page stories in the newspapers, and a double truck co-operative ad page were a few of the methods employed in spreading the glad news.

McKivett arranged for a special midnight premiere showing on Sunday night and issued special invitations for the event. He invited the leading business men, merchants, and professional men of the city. He induced the electric light company to install five 1,000 watt flood lights on the canopy for the special showing, without cost.

200 telegrams were posted on store windows telling of the engagement in a tie-up with the local telegraph office. 7,000 rotogravure heralds, with the Reader Furniture Company's ad on the back, were distributed over a wide territory not confined to the city of Racine. The furniture company's ad paid for the theatre's imprint and the distribution, which is nice business for all concerned.

Three front page stories congratulated McKivett for bringing the Mid-West premier of so important a production to Racine. As did two telegrams from the Downtown Business and Professional Association and from the Association of Commerce.

These wires were reproduced in a half page newspaper ad which the newspaper gave gratis as their appreciation of the honor bestowed on Racine. A double truck co-operative newspaper spread featuring the most important business houses in the city was another feature of McKivett's unusually fine campaign.

Throngs of business and professional men attending the premiere of "Broadway" at the Venetian Theatre in Racine.

Forty-one special window displays using 11x14s, 22x28s, 14x17s and 8x10 stills, added their bit to the story McKivett had to tell Racine about "Broadway," while 250 special "This Way To 'Broadway'" snipes directed the populace to the Venetian Theatre.

Not content with all this, McKivett attended the meetings of every civic club in the city and made a special announcement of the big attraction coming to Racine. He had radio announcements of the show for seven days before the opening. He had a special front built and used 250 balloons and 100 of the special "Broadway" hangers.

Practically every hotel and restaurant served "Broadway" dinners and all the ice-cream parlors and fountains made specialties of "Broadway" drinks. 150 red flare rockets indicated to the people of Racine and surrounding territory where they could find "Broadway." 5,000 cards reading: "If You Talk In Your Sleep, Don't Forget to Mention 'Broadway'," and "There's a Main Street in Every Town, But There's Only One 'Broadway'" were given a wide distribution.

So thoroughly did McKivett impress Racine with the importance of his engagement of "Broadway," the street car company and the taxi companies put on special late service to carry the crowds home from the midnight premiere.

Result? Capacity house for the Venetian the entire week, despite very warm weather and one rainy night.

Double truck cooperative advertisement in the Racine Times-Call.

$500.00 IN CASH FOR SCOTCH LAUGHS

Universal Pictures Seeks 'Em for "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland"

HEY, hey, youthies! Pull yourselves together, unbutton your ears and, like a water-logged schooner, list! Stick with us while we broadcast the news of the contest that's to call for your concentrated concentration for the next month or so. Five hundred smooth smackers (count 'em!) for your original Scotch gags or jokes! (Pass Sandy MacTavish the smelling salts—he's in a swoon!) Givvа lissen to the low-down: Universal Pictures, all pep and palpitations about their forthcoming production of "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland," have agreed to include in this latest Charlie Murray-George Sydney mirth-maker the best Scotch gags submitted by readers of FILM FUN. Think of it, not only do you drag in the doubloons for a winning funny-bone tickler about Scotchmen, but you also get a chance to hear and see your masterpiece enacted on the screen by two of the snappiest film comedians in one of the goldarndest, funniest, rib-wrecking comedies that ever turned a deserted aisle into a traffic jam.

The luckiest winner (why not you?) pockets every cent of the 250 berries for the best and funniest Scotch gag to be used in the production of "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland." For the second best entry, me hardies, $100 will be awarded, while $50 goes to the lad or lassie submitting the third best. What's more, there'll be five fourth prizes of $10 apiece and ten fifth prizes of $5 each. Besides, Universal Pictures reserves the right to buy any other jokes submitted. So everybody has a swell chance to drag in the dough—and not only bakers knead it, you know (pome!). Like the Scots themselves, it's bound to be a close race!

CHARLES MURRAY AND GEORGE SYDNEY

CHARLIE—And with all that money will you retire for a while?

GEORGE—As if you didn't know a handful of dough will make one loaf!

JACK DUFFY AND RAQUEL TORRES

JACK — Give me a good example of rigid economy.

RAQUEL — Er—er a dead Scotchman.

Page 12

PRIZES

Of course you're not dreaming! The following actually are the prizes in the Scotch Joke Contest, sponsored by Universal Pictures and FILM FUN.

First Prize	$250
Second Prize	$100
Third Prize	$50
Five Fourth Prizes	$10 each
Ten Fifth Prizes	$5 each

The judges in this contest are: Carl Laemmle, Jr., Supervising Production Manager of the Universal Studios in Culver City, Charles Murray and George Sydney, stars of Cohens and Kellys series, and Ye Editor of FILM FUN.

Now, folks, this being a Scotch contest, you may write on both sides of the paper. But make it neat and pretty, pals. Hurry and take your lively sense of peppy humor into conference and whip out an original Scotch joke or two or three, remembering that they should sound funny as well as look funny. Make up as many as you can and as fast as you do, send 'em to the Film Fun-Universal Joke Contest, 100 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Got the idea? Fine! Then read the rules over carefully and, yea bo, let's go! Whoopee!

RULES

Anyone may enter the contest except the staff or employees of FILM FUN, the Universal Pictures Corporation, or members of their families. The contestant who, in the opinion of the judges, submits the best and funniest original Scotch joke or gag wins $250 as first prize. There will be a second prize of $100; a third prize of $50; five fourth prizes of $10 each; and ten fifth prizes of $5 each. In case of ties each tying contestant will be awarded the prize tied for. Contest closes midnight November 1, 1929. Entries should be addressed to the Film Fun-Universal Joke Contest, 100 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

The most popular after-dinner speakers in Scotland, claims Neal, are those who speak for the check.

CHARLES MURRAY AND GEORGE SYDNEY

CHARLIE—Sure and what kind of a cut do you suppose MacTavish wanted on his new suit of clothes?

GEORGE—About seventy-five per cent!

Page 13

Film Fun Cooperates With Universal In Cohens and Kellys Joke Contest

Readers of Popular Fan Magazine Have Chance to Win Fat Cash Prizes for Original Scotch Jokes to Be Used in Forthcoming "Cohens and Kelly in Scotland," Starring Sidney and Murray

UNIVERSAL'S search for original Scotch jokes for its newest Cohens and Kellys talking comedy is being sponsored, aided and abetted by Film Fun, live fan magazine, with a circulation reaching close to forty thousand. The reproduction of the double page spread is Film Fun's announcement of the contest in the October issue. The prizes, offered by Universal and Film Fun, aggregate $500 in cash for the best Scotch gags and jokes which can be actually incorporated in Universal's forthcoming talkie, starring the well-loved comedy team of George Sidney and Charlie Murray, who were the original pair in the first Cohen and Kelly hit, called "The Cohens and Kellys."

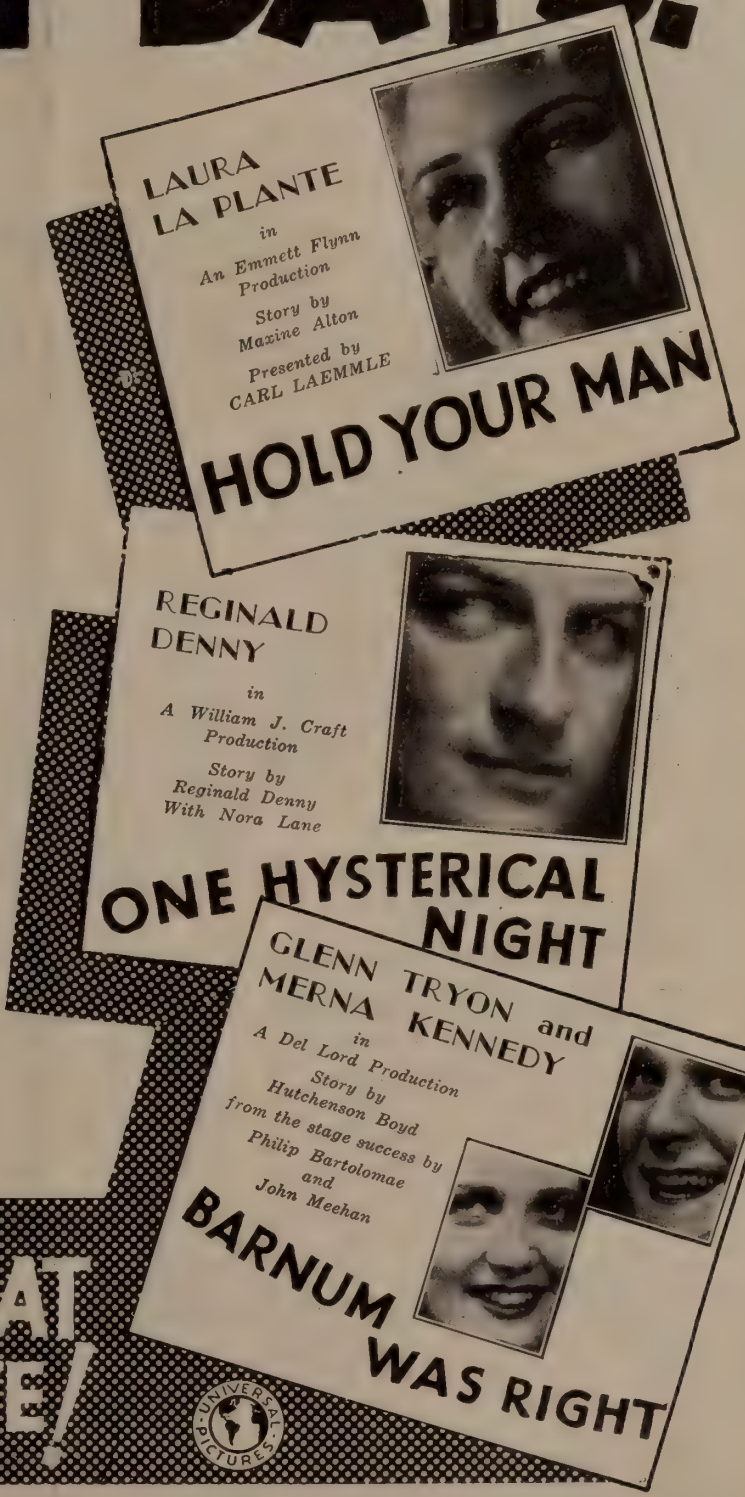
The readers of Film Fun have the velvet lure of seeing and hearing their jokes on the screen as well as the cash rewards. The first prize consists of $250. One hundred dollars is offered for the second award, while $50 for the third, is followed up with five fourth prizes of $10 each, and ten fifth prizes of $5 each. The judges consist of Carl Laemmle, Jr., Supervising Production Manager of Universal; Charles Murray and George Sidney, the stars who will use the jokes; and the editor of Film Fun, Ernest Heyn. The contest closes at midnight November 1, 1929.

"The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland" will include the original cast that made the first of the series so hilarious a success. Opposite George Sidney and Charles Murray, Vera Gordon and Kate Price will again play their respective wives. The supporting cast and director have been announced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. In accordance with custom, "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland" will be released on St. Patrick's Day next spring.

These are the

HAPPY DAYS!

When you can get the happy pictures that will get the money BECAUSE they've got the stars they want and the stories they want and EVERYTHING they want!



THEY'VE GOT WHAT YOU HAVE TO HAVE!

TALKING — Two Versions — SILENT

"THE WAGONMASTER"

Universal Production

With Ken Maynard

BILL HOLLISTER organizes a wagon-train to break the freighting monopoly acquired by Jake Lynch through unfair tactics. The high food prices charged as a result of Lynch's monopoly are threatening the life of the mining communities served.

The Rambler joins Hollister's outfit when it sets out for Gold Hill, a mining camp. Lynch schemes to prevent Hollister's wagon-train from reaching its destination.

The Rambler rescues Sue Smith, a pretty girl, in a runaway. He takes command of the wagon-train when Hollister is killed from ambush by Lynch's henchmen.

Jacques Frazelle, who was Hollister's second in command, schemes to displace the Rambler as wagonmaster and to win Sue.

At a desert water-hole the Rambler outwits Lynch's men to try to keep him from getting water for his outfit. Frazelle enters into a plot with Lynch to disrupt the Rambler's wagon-train.

Bad blood develops between the Rambler and Frazelle as the result of their rivalry over Sue.

The Rambler vanquishes Frazelle in a whip fight in a dance hall at Devil's Dive. He and his men fight their way back to their wagons, and make their way into Gold Hill in time to keep the miners from signing an exorbitant contract with Lynch. The Rambler and Sue share the triumph together.

"USE YOUR FEET"

"Collegian"—Fourth Series

DON TRENT'S uncle created an interest in cycling at Calford, first by opening a bicycle shop that sold his Whirlwind model exclusively and then by offering a year's tuition and all vacation expenses to the winner of a race called between the Seniors and Juniors.

It appears that June is about to leave school, as her family has lost money. Ed persuades her to let him enter the race to win for her.

When Ed goes to buy a Whirlwind he finds them all sold out. A long-distance call gets one for him, but when the revolver is shot off at the starting line, Ed is far behind the others, for the cycle arrives late. He soon catches up with the others. When Don sees his keenest opponent catching up to him, he tricks Ed by changing a detour sign. Ed's bike is wrecked but a woman lends him hers. He finishes first after all, and turns the prize money over to June.

"THE ACTOR"

With

Benny Rubin

LUCKY for Benny he struck a good-hearted stage manager who gave him a chance to prove that he could entertain a cash audience. Benny danced, sang and joked and was about ready to substitute for any actor on the bill, but when a pretty lion-tamer told Benny that her partner was ill and she wished he'd substitute, he gave up the theatre.

UNIVERSAL SYNOPSES

"STOP BARKING"

A Stern Brothers Comedy

With Buster Brown

TIGE had a toothache, but when Buster and Mary Jane got him to the dentist's he couldn't be persuaded to have it out. Twice he got out of the place and once just missed the "dog catcher." When the children finally got him back to the dentist's office the doctor had gone out to lunch so they decided to do the job themselves. Tige objected strenuously to the ether and was soon dashing toward home.

Mr. Brown had warned the children that dogs were not allowed in the hotel, so it was no wonder after the commotion Tige made when he entered that Mr. Brown said the limit had been reached.

"THE LOVE TREE"

With The Rooneys

YOUNG Pat startles his parents by telling them he is engaged and he has brought his fiance home for the weekend. The young lady is a slangy, "rough" flapper. Pat, senior, tries to tell his son that the girl really does not love junior and offers to prove his contention. Young Pat agrees to Senior's plans.

At the Gold Club Dance that night, Pat invites the fiance up to a private dining-room, knowing that the Third will listen in on his supposed tete-a-tete. Just as Pat kisses the girl, Marian sees the "current event" (she had been advised by the boy to get a view of the proceedings by watching over a transom) and she goes off in a huff.

Young Pat convinced that the girl was not the right one for him, "fixes" the strained situation between his parents. Pat sings a love song to Marion under the love-tree.

"THE RED RIDER"

Western Featurette

With Ted Carson

BOB HARRIS, of the Northwest Mounted, captures one of a gang of notorious cattle thieves but before he can learn the name of the leader, his prisoner is shot down from ambush.

Breed Dent, leader of the outlaws, changes his quarters to avoid the Government men, taking forceful possession of the homestead of Eve Adams and her blind mother. Harris rides up and under the threat of Dent, Eve says that Dent is her brother. Harris, knowing she has no brother, makes an excuse to leave—then 'phones his fellow officers from a wayside 'phone. Dent orders the women out of the cabin with their possessions. After the blind mother is taken away in the buckboard, Dent detains Eve. Bob rides back to the cabin, attacks Dent. Meanwhile Dent's men having seen Bob head toward the cabin, go back to aid their chief.

The girl makes a getaway but not before Dent has jumped on her horse. Bob follows them. There is a fight. Just as things look hopeless for Bob and he is getting a terrific beating, the Government men ride up and the outlaws are arrested.

"THE PIRATES OF PANAMA"

No. 3—"The Treasure Ship"

WITH Boris in possession of the ship and Jack Sedgwick gone, Evelyn was distracted. Jimmie leaning against the gunwale spied Sedgwick swimming about in the sea and threw him a rope. As soon as Sedgwick climbed on deck he gave Jimmie the map and told him to hide it. Boris caught sight of them and immediately put the half-conscious Sedgwick into irons, while members of the crew pursued Jimmie and knocked him overboard. Jimmie, both agile and resourceful was soon aboard again and waiting his opportunity released Sedgwick and the mate. He crept to Evelyn's cabin, assured her of Sedgwick's safety and hurried her and her aunt to the life-boat in which they planned to escape. When the little party reached shore they immediately started search for the treasure. They came upon the hulk of the pirate ship of ancient times and charted their course to locate the treasure. Their joy was unbounded when their digging was rewarded with the sight of a chest. With much effort they lugged it back to the old ship and put it in the hold. Then in breathless suspense they pried the lid open. On top of a pile of useless odds and ends lay a faded note which read "Sold you Devil Buck."

THE BIG NOISE
for Silent Houses

52 ACTION WESTERNS

Pep—Punch—Profit—23 new ones featuring Ted Carson; 13 featuring Bobby Nelson, and 26 reissues embracing the best pictures of Jack Hoxie, Edmund Cobb, Pete Morrison, Billy Sullivan, Jack Daugherty, Josie Sedgwick.

Two Reels.

26 CREAM OF THE ONE-REEL COMEDIES

The best one-reel comedies Universal ever made, selected for laughs and profits. Proven mirthmakers—sure-fire patronage builders. Reissues.

10 SID SAYLORS

(2-Reels)

The versatile comedian in the screamingest films of his hilarious career.

10 ARTHUR LAKES

(2-Reels)

You can depend upon the star of such successes as "Harold Teen" and "On with the Show" to keep on delivering hits.

and SILENT NEGATIVES on the following talking, singing and sound shorts:

26 OSWALD

the Lucky Rabbit

These great laughters are helping thousands of showmen to roll up heavy grosses.

12 SPORTING YOUTH

(2-Reels)

Young love, speed and excitement. Upholding the traditions of a great brand name:

JUNIOR JEWEL
Productions

10 SUNNY JIMS

(2-Reels)

"The box-office baby' 'in audience pictures that build business.

UNIVERSAL SHORTS ARE SUPER SHORTS!

GO

THEATRE-GOING traffic inclines toward the house that plays the pictures they are waiting for. Carl Laemmle's interesting column in The Saturday Evening Post is a constant amusement guide to thousands in your neighborhood.

SIX great national picture "fan" magazines are carrying regularly Universal's full page message for your profit.

The above column will appear in The Saturday Evening Post issue of October 12, 1929.

Universal Weekly
No. 19
DEC. 14, 1929

The biggest book in the world!

In America and Europe the biggest seller of all time. . . . It is reaching more than 15,000,000

additional readers in 63 great newspapers served by King Features.

YOUR patrons are reading it. . . . YOUR patrons are talking about it. . . . YOUR patrons are waiting to see it on the screen . . . the greatest war epic of all time.

Adapted by

MAXWELL ANDERSON and GEORGE ABBOTT

Directed by

LEWIS MILESTONE

Associate Producer

CARL LAEMMLE, Jr.

Presented by

CARL LAEMMLE

Featuring
Louis Wolheim
with John Wray

Universal Signs Graham McNamee

The Famous Radio Announcer Signing His Contract to Newscast as Universal's Newsreel Reporter

DO YE KEN

No. 668—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

DO YOU know John Boles?

Do you know this talkie star of the very first magnitude?

Do you know the man with the richest voice on the screen?

Do you know this man whom the women love and the men like?

Do you know that hereafter you can see and hear John Boles in Universal pictures—and only in Universal pictures?

Do you know that your customers will be asking for him and that he will give you sensational results such as you have not had for many a day?

I do not call John Boles anybody's successor. He is a star in his own right. He apes no one. He has the youth, the good looks, the acting ability and the magnificent voice which form such a rare combination in this era of talking and singing pictures. He would have been a star in the days of silent pictures, but the talkies give him another avenue down which to make his march of triumph.

Practically every producer in California has wanted to borrow John Boles from Universal. While we were looking for proper stories for him, we let one company have his services in "The Desert Song" and in "Song of the West" and another company in "Rio Rita."

JOHN BOLES?

Then we found the stories and John became thenceforth strictly a Universal luminary. He is coming with Laura La Plante in "La Marseillaise," under the direction of Paul Fejos. Charles Wakefield Cadman has written four songs especially for him.

Two more of his great pictures during the coming Universal year will be "Moonlight Madness" and "The Song of Passion."

John Boles is a part and parcel of the most powerful line-up of pictures any company has ever succeeded in bringing together.

Here are just a few of the high spots.

"Shannons of Broadway," the Broadway play with James and Lucille Gleason; "Hell's Heroes" by Peter B. Kyne, featuring Charles Bickford, Raymond Hatton and Fred Kohler; Langdon McCormack's Broadway stage hit, "The Storm;" Warner Fabian's novel, "What Men Want," with Mary Nolan; "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland," the fourth of this box-office series; Joseph Schildkraut in "Then Night Ride"; Mary Nolan in two more beside "Shanghai Lady,"---"Undertow" by Wilbur Daniel Steele and "Barbary Coast" by Winifred Reeve.

And if you'll study the Universal announcement, you'll be able to map out the biggest year of your business life.

FEATURES

"SENOR AMERICANO"

A KEN MAYNARD Production

A scorching adventure drama of rampant passion and clashing steel. Maynard will hand you the money-thrill of your life if you're fast enough to grab this lightning special. TALKING or SILENT.

"SMILIN' GUNS"

Starring HOOT GIBSON

The sure money star in a smashing Western drama with a thousand laughs and a thrill for every laugh. SILENT ONLY.

"ONE HYSTERICAL NIGHT"

Starring REGINALD DENNY

The star they want in a picture they'll go crazy about. An all-talking farce with an all-screaming box-office wallop. TALKING or SILENT.

"THE LOVE TRAP"

Starring LAURA LA PLANTE

Drama! Romance! Comedy!—a delightfully daring story of a beautiful chorus girl who knew her millionaires. TALKING or SILENT.

"SKINNER STEPS OUT"

Starring
GLENN TRYON and MERNA KENNEDY

The hoofer and the pleasure girl of "Broadway" will make you laugh on the money side of your face in this comedy of clothes. TALKING or SILENT.

"BARNUM WAS RIGHT"

Starring
GLENN TRYON and MERNA KENNEDY

No elephants—no peanuts—no red lemonade . . . but it's a CIRCUS! Rapid-fire and sure-fire at the B. O.

"The SHANNONS of BROADWAY"

Starring the inimitable GLEASONS (James & Lucille)

The same GLEASONS in the same screaming comedy that kept packed houses in throes of laughter and tears for 39 weeks in the Broadway stage success written by Jimmie Gleason. TALKING or SILENT.

"The LONG LONG TRAIL"

Starring HOOT GIBSON

"SURE FIRE!" shouted the New York American. And Hoot's first talking picture—crammed with thrills and laughs—is burning them up with joy all over the country! TALKING or SILENT.

"HOLD YOUR MAN"

Starring LAURA LA PLANTE

America's Favorite comedienne, direct from a tremendously successful role in "Show Boat," in a farce that is ringing the box-office gong. TALKING or SILENT.

"COLLEGE LOVE"

Starring GEORGE LEWIS

Blazing with youth and speed and color, bristling with student wisecracks and ringing high with songs of the campus. One of the big joy pictures of the year! TALKING or SILENT.

"TONIGHT AT TWELVE"

With MADGE BELLAMY

The sensational stage success by Owen Davis is outthrilled by Universal's all-star mystery comedy. It packs excitement, laughs—and theatres! TALKING or SILENT.

WEEK

SHORTS

'OSWALD the Lucky Rabbit'

A panic in the silent film; in sound a riot. He's rolling up steady money! 26 of these. SOUND or SILENT.

'COHEN on the TELEPHONE'

ONE REEL

The most popular monologue in the world, with

GEORGE SIDNEY

doing his stuff as Cohen

The Brooklyn Paramount and other big theatres are giving this one electric lights because it's a box-office hoorah! TALKING ONLY.

BENNY RUBIN

As a Broadway headliner he kept them laughing for months at the Colony Theatre, New York. He'll throw gobs of joy into your program. Six of these TALKING ONLY—ONE REEL.

PAT ROONEY

Marian Bent, Patsy and all the pretty girls. The big timers of vaudeville in six all-talking—singing—dancing audience getters. NO SILENT VERSION.

"The COLLEGIANS"

(Fourth Series)

The greatest series of two reel audience specials ever made, these breezy Junior Jewels of student life will build patronage for you. Two Reels. TALKING or SILENT.

ALL-STAR COMEDIES

Some of the biggest comedy names in motion pictures give these howling one reel talkers real drawing power. TALKING or SILENT.

ARTHUR LAKE

You can depend upon the star of such successes as "Harold Teen" and "On with the Show" to keep on delivering hits. TWO REELS—SILENT ONLY.

SID SAYLOR

The versatile comedian in the screamingest comedies of his hilarious career. TWO REELS—SILENT ONLY.

"CHRISTMAS CHEER"

The "SUNNY JIM" Joy Week Special

One of the ten lively, joyous two-reelers starring the box-office joy bringer himself. TALKING or SILENT.

Re-issues — "Snookums' Merry Christmas," and "Snookums' Christmas Party."

UNIVERSAL JUNIOR JEWELS

Twelve in all—Two Reels Each

Bubbling with young love, bursting at the seams with speed and ringing to the skies with song. Patronage builders of the highest order. Book them all! TALKING or SILENT.

SIGN
-and swell the total of 11,782
Signers to date-
UNIVERSAL'S C
NOW OFFERED BY CARL LAEMMLE in

NOW!

There is more sure profit in Universal's Complete Service contract than in any booking contract under the sun. That's why thousands and thousands of showmen have signed and re-signed for Carl Laemmle's square deal service. You're sitting pretty when you've got the cream of Universal's product—the talking pictures you want when you want them, at a price you can afford to pay.

OMPLETE SERVICE SOUND

The
UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick — Editor

PUBLISHED BY THE
— MOTION PICTURE WEEKLY PUBLISHING COMPANY — HECKSCHER BUILDING —
730 5TH AVE. — NEW YORK CITY
Copyright 1929 UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION All Rights Reserved

Vol. XXX DECEMBER 14, 1929 No. 19

UNIVERSAL MOVIEGRAMS

WILLIAM WYLER, who has just completed "Hell's Heroes," has been chosen by Universal to direct "The Storm." Langdon McCormack's well-known stage play has been adapted to the talking screen by Hugh Hoffman and Tom Reed. It will go into production around the first of the year.

THE difficulty of selecting a title for the Henry La Cossitt story founded on a famous Cleveland murder mystery will be apparent to all those who see this second Joseph Schildkraut starring vehicle under the Universal auspices. Universal has decided to release it on December 29th under the title of "The Night Ride." With Schildkraut appear E. G. Robinson and Barbara Kent.

HOUSTON BRANCH, who wrote "La Marseillaise" starring Laura La Plante and John Boles, has completed a story for the use of Boles, provisionally entitled "The Land of Song." Universal has also renewed its long-term contract with Boles.

CAPTAIN I. R. McLENDON, of the Sixth Field Artillery, First Division, A. E. F., the man who reputed to have fired the first American shell in the World War, has responded to Universal's call for volunteers for its German army, in "All Quiet on the Western Front." He has gone to the Irvine ranch, near Newport Beach, California, where a huge construction gang is engaged in building trenches, an army base and a German village.

FERDE GROFE, whose original score of "The Rhapsody in Blue" is still being used by Paul Whiteman in his Old Gold Hour concerts, and who is scoring the entire "King of Jazz Revue," has also been commissioned by Universal to write several original compositions for this same picture.

AL NORMAN left New York on Sunday to appear with Paul Whiteman in "The King of Jazz Revue." Norman is a remarkable eccentric dancer.

Laemmle Celebrates Anniversary Of Twenty Years of Production

William A. Johnston, Publisher of Motion Picture News, with Fifty Page Section in That Magazine, Accords Unique Place to Only Pioneer of 1909, Who Is Still an Active Producer

DECEMBER 8th is the day chosen by the moving picture industry to honor Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation, who is just completing twenty years of activity as a producer of moving pictures. In 1909, Laemmle started the Imp Company, the initials standing for "independent moving pictures." He is still the big and almost the only independent in this season of mergers and combines. Laemmle's first production, released in 1909, was "Hiawatha," an eight-hundred foot film made at the Falls of Minnehaha and in the cellar of a reconstructed brewery on Third Avenue, near 14th Street.

The first tribute to be paid to this twenty years and to the figure, who alone of all the producers of 1909, survives and keeps an active hand on production, is by William A. Johnston, publisher of the Motion Picture News. Heading a fifty page section of this magazine is the following editorial by Mr. Johnston.

"A few weeks ago the writer sat with Carl Laemmle in a diminutive nook at the far end of a massive set and saw the filming of the largest scene perhaps that motion picture—sound or silent—have boasted of to date.

"It was the storming of the Tuilleries in "La Marseillaise."

"Twenty-five hundred individuals milled over an acre of ground amid clouds of smoke and the roar of cannons and musketry. The gay blue colors of Royalist ranks and the scarlet clad Swiss Guard flashed like a grand kaleidoscope in the brilliant sunshine. Steadily and remorselessly the scythes and pitchforks of the Revolutionists swept on against the sky line.

"High on a tower over the palace front Director Paul Fejos boomed his voice through an electric loud speaker. Fifty lieutenants here and there over the broad expanse repeated his orders. Screaming sirens gave the signals to start and stop. Fourteen cameras were in action.

"It was a tremendous motion picture spectacle.

"My mind went back to the opening of Universal City in 1915.

"Universal City looked pretty big then, and so it was. A good many

(Continued on page 26)

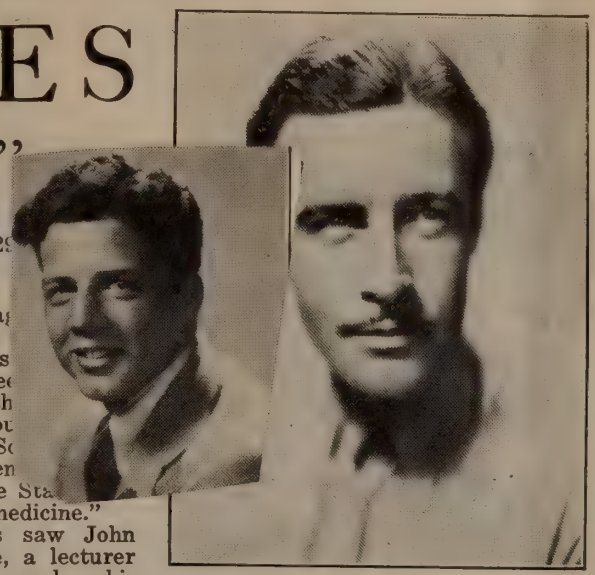
JOHN BOLES

"He Belongs to Universal"

(Reprinted from Motion Picture Classic—December, 192



John Boles, whom Universal loaned to other companies for "The Desert Song" and "Rio Rita" will now be seen and heard only in Universal pictures. "La Marseillaise" will be his first starring vehicle for Universal

By DOROTHY MANNERS

SOME people radiate sex-appeal. Valentino danced it. Garbo slinks it. Babies cry for it. But John Boles sings it.

On the strength of one release, "The Desert Song"; and the pre-view rumors of "Rio Rita," he has leaped to the front as probably the most inquired-about young man of the season.

He has sounded his wow, and the sheba hearts are responding with meme. His fan mail echoes like an Indian love call.

What I mean to say is that Mr. Boles, of Greenville, Texas, is sitting very, very pretty. Scaling the heights, so to speak; and the quaint part is that twelve months ago he was just another actor. Not good. Not bad.

He was and is handsome in a romantic way. But weren't they all? He had a nice smile, an ingratiating personality, a tongue that called a spade a spade and he was good to his folks. But what of it? He made his appearance regularly in nice, but unimportant pictures. And that was all right, too. He might have gone on like all the other excellent young men making movies, but little excitement, if the Warners hadn't thrown the fear of the mike into the industry.

It was the beginning of John's day.

They Meant Only Money

"I'll tell you a little secret, honey," he said languidly, that being his favorite form of speech. The Southern consonant sticks to his off-screen enunciation like a burr. Terms of personal endearment are dropped as casually as a preposition. "I wasn't any mo' interested in the movies before the sound and vocal pictures came along than I was in the horse an' buggy business. I figured they were all right because they paid good money. But beyond the check-banking they didn't mean a dog-gone thing in my life." You get the idea?

"I wasn't doing anything a hundred other actors couldn't have done. Sometimes I'd get so discouraged I'd threaten to pack up my bag an' get back on the stage, singin', where I belonged. But just about that time my ol' salary check would roll in and I'd think better of it. A lot better, believe me, sweet.

"The only thing in the world that interests me outside of my family (he has two adorable children), is singin'. I knew that a long time a[go] far back as when I was cows home, down in Texas of my folks had ever be[en] much less singers. Of th[e] fessions I guess they thou[ght] singer was the sissiest. S[o] any ideas I may have been for music and entered the St[ate] versity for the study of medicine."

The next eight years saw John graduated from medicine, a lecturer and a soldier before his vocal ambitions again appeared on the horizon of his career.

He Found Time to Marry

"Soon after I returned from the war—you remember we had a war, honey?—I had a chance to sing before Oscar Seagle and he encouraged me tremendously about my voice. He wanted me to spend a summer near his home in New York so he could instruct me personally when he was not on tour. I borrowed some money from my dad to make the trip and also helped myself out financially by teaching French and music in a nearby high school. As though I wasn't busy enough with my teaching, my singing and my studies, I decided to get married."

He had now become so engrossed with the study of music that he organized a students' tour and, with Seagle's help, took a group abroad for a year, where its members studied under the finest of European masters.

"For the best part of a year we lived an honest-to-goodness Bohemian life. No cares. No worries. Marcelite and I had no money, but neither did anybody else we knew. It was just one long song of an existence."

Don't you just know it was the berries, sweet?

"Like all good things it had to come to an end. The school broke up. Our friends, one by one, began to trek back to the States. The glamour of loafing wore off. Pretty soon we, too, were back on Broadway, with the memory of a grand holiday, a brand-new baby and no better off on the bank statement than we had been before. It wasn't so good, honey. I didn't particularly mind bein' broke myself, but it was hard on Marcelite and the baby. I finally got her to go back to Texas and eat—while I waited around for a break."

There was only one thing he was sure of. He wasn't going on the road. If he couldn't hit in New York—he wasn't going to hit at all. The funny part of it is—he did.

Gloria Finds Him

Thanks to fate and an agent he obtained a job as an understudy in a show called "Little Jesse James." Two weeks later he was singing the lead roles. Well, why not? With John's looks, and John's voice he was a cinch.

The next show he opened was "Kitty's Kisses" and who should come along but Gloria Swanson and sign him for "The loves of Sunya." That meant Hollywood. It would make a swell story to record that he was an immediate hit and lived happily ever after. But he wasn't. He was merely a fairly good leading man. As I have said several times before, he didn't come to life until the Vitaphone.

Now, they're fighting over him. Not only the ladies—but the producers, honey, which is much more important.

They tell the story about B. P. Schulberg and one of the Warners meeting at a Hollywood party with the ensuing conversation:

Mr. Schulberg of Paramount: "I'm afraid I am going to have to confess that my daughter's favorite actor is one of your contracted players."

Mr. Warner: "Yes? Which one?"

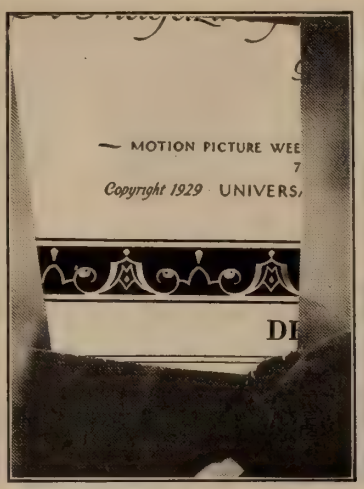
Mr. Schulberg: "John Boles."

Mr. Warner: "Don't make me cry. He belongs to Universal."

When I told John that story he looked appropriately modest and said he hadn't heard it before. But then he doesn't go to Hollywood parties. Not lately, anyway. It's too much work. They always want him to sing.

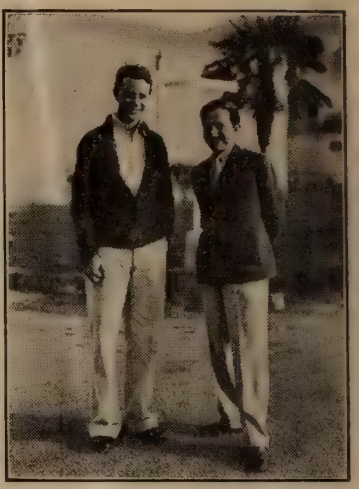
Comrades in "All Quiet on Western Front"

LEWIS MILESTONE



WILLIAM BAKEWELL

SCOTT KOLK



LEWIS AYRES & CARL LAEMMLE, JR.

LEWIS MILESTONE is well qualified to direct the comrades in Universal's picturization of Erich Maria Remarque's sensational war novel. A Russian, who received his education in his own country and Germany, Milestone served in the Great War. He knows the war, therefore, at first hand.

Milestone studied mechanical engineering, only to desert his career for motion pictures in 1920. Among the important pictures he has directed are "Two Arabian Nights," "The Racket," "New Klondike" and "Garden of Eden."

WILLIAM BAKEWELL is to play the role of Muller, the boy who carried his text books into the trenches with him and muttered propositions in physics under shell fire. Bakewell was born in Hollywood and entered pictures upon graduation from high school. He played the twin princes in "The Iron Mask," a feature part in "Mother," "The Gold Diggers of Broadway" and "On With the Show." His most recent work was opposite Alice White in a picture called "Playing Around." Billy Bakewell is one of the most popular of the younger set.

SCOTT KOLK will take the part of Leer in "All Quiet on the Western Front" Leer was one of the seven German school boys who went to the front and shared their experiences in Remarque's moving novel. Kolk was born in Baltimore and went to a military academy and the University of Maine. He taught dancing and was an orchestra and club entertainer before he began his stage career. He played in stock and musical comedy. His first moving picture was "Marianne," with Marion Davies. His second picture was Universal's "Hold Your Man."

LEWIS AYRES received the distinction of being selected to play the role of Paul Baumer, the central figure and narrator of "All Quiet." Carl Laemmle, Jr., general manager of Universal, and Lewis Milestone, the director, chose Ayres for the leading role with complete confidence that the practically unknown actor would give a magnificent portrayal of the sensitive, courageous Paul. Ayres made Hollywood via Arizona by way of a banjo and soft southern voice. Chance and his good looks got him a small part with Greta Garbo in "The Kiss."

"Broadway" Wins Praise of Minneapolis Critic

MERLE POTTER, amusement editor and critic of the Minneapolis Journal, is one of the severest critics in the United States. Praise from Potter is praise, indeed. After seeing "Broadway" at the Minnesota Theatre, Mr. Potter declared that it was a triumph of the screen over the stage. That wasn't all he said. Here is his comment as printed in the Minneapolis Journal.

> "Broadway," the screen event of the week at the Minnesota, is another triumph of screen over stage play. This observer already has seen the Philip Dunning-George Abbott story of New York night clubs done completely by legitimate players on a three dimension stage, but he confesses he got more thrill, more enjoyment out of the picture than he did on either of the other occasions.
>
> All of the dramatic value, all the tenseness of a great story, has been preserved in the picture version and the entertainment has been vastly increased by the introduction of cabaret scenes done against a titanic set that is more pretentious than anything of the sort previously done in talking pictures.

Where the stage play is limited to one scene, the film adaptation has dozens. On the stage, Roy Lane, the smalltime hoofer with the big time complex, dances off with half a dozen ladies of the chorus. In the picture he dances out into a mighty cabaret room, accompanied by a chorus of 20 or more, where they do a regular dance routine, while a big orchestra plays the music. The picture has been so cunningly directed these interruptions of the main story detract nothing from its intensity.

The story of "Broadway" is generally known. It concerns Roy Lane, his dancing partner, Billie Moore; Steve Crandall, master bootlegger; "Scarface" Edwards and Pearl, his "woman"; Dan McCorn, the quiet-mannered sleuth, and others more or less intimately associated with the life of the Paradise Night Club. "Scar" is killed by Steve and is eventually avenged by Pearl. Steve tries to "do wrong" by Billie and Roy is her earnest but ineffectual protector.

Glenn Tryon is splendid as Roy, giving a truly understanding performance, adding much to its worth by his singing and dancing; Evelyn is excellent as Pearl and Thomas E. Jackson does a studied finished job as McCorn.

We rate it as one of the four or five best entertainments yet made in the talking field. It has an engrossing story, music, dance, lavish production, resourceful direction and a great company of actors.

Comrades in "All Quiet on Western Front"

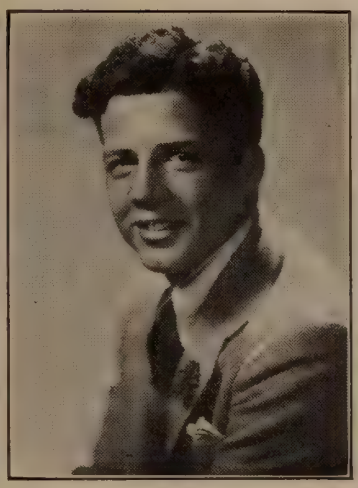
SLIM SUMMERVILLE

THIS well-known comedian has been selected to portray the role of Tjaden in "All Quiet on the Western Front." "Slim" is a perfect type for the part of the skinny locksmith who was the best eater in the company made famous by Remarque's graphic pen.

Summerville has long been a popular star in two-reel comedies. Later he took to directing, and now divides his time between the two occupations. His latest Universal pictures are "The Shannons of Broadway," "One Histerical Night." He appeared in "The Cat and the Canary" and the "Last Warning" in comedy roles.

BEN ALEXANDER

BEN ALEXANDER was a high school youngster of eighteen, preparing for the University of California when Universal signed him for the role of Kimmerich in "All Quiet." It was not, however, young Alexander's debut in pictures as he won fame in "Hearts of the World" at the tender age of five. He became the best known boy in pictures, playing in "Penrod and Sam," "Boy of Mine" and a number of serials. He left pictures to complete high school, but the screen lured him back again. Kemmerich was the lad who died early in the book, leaving his fine boots to his comrade Muller.



OWEN DAVIS, JR.

OWEN DAVIS, JR., son of the famous author, will enact the role of Peter, the mere boy who struggled valiantly and triumphantly against death in the Cologne hospital. Although only twenty-one, young Davis has had considerable stage and screen experience. He appeared on the stage in "The Barker," "Carry On," which his father wrote for him; "Babes in the Woods," "The Cradle Snatchers" and "Tonight at Twelve," also written by Owen Davis and produced as an all-talking picture by Universal. In pictures his principal role has been the juvenile role in "They Had to See Paris."

WALTER BROWN ROGERS

FOR the appealing role of Behn, the lad who didn't want to enlist and who was the first of the comrades to fall. Universal has chosen Walter Browne Rogers. Rogers is only twenty-three but has an enviable reputation as an actor, playwright and stage director. He was known as the youngest producer in America when he produced "Loose Angles" and "The Devil's Den" on the stage. He played in stock, and won a nation-wide contest as one of ten college boys best suited for motion picture playing. His first feature part in pictures was in "Seven Faces." He is the author of two plays.

Chicago Critics Rave Over "Shanghai Lady"

CHICAGO EVENING AMERICAN

By Bob Reel

"Shanghai Lady" Is Grand Melle With Punch

THE Castle, having earned a reputation for picking unusual pictures by booking "The Mysterious Island," now furthers its title by proffering "The Shanghai Lady."

Not since Chaney's "Mr. Wu" has there been a film of the Orient that entertained as much as this one.

Done by John Robertson, the director of "Tess of the Storm Country," "Sentimental Tommy," "Classmates," "The Enchanted Cottage," "The Bright Shawl," "Captain Salvadore" and other screen hits, "The Shanghai Lady" moves in shipshape fashion as a dialogue film drama should move—not as a photographed stage play.

It introduces Mary Nolan in her first (so far as we know) cinema speaking part—also James Murray, who disappeared shortly after Vidor's "The Crowd," which marked his screen debut. He is a sincere actor and does well in this talkie, so here's hoping we see and hear more of him. As for Nolan, she is not only stunning from any angle that the camera man chooses to employ, but mighty clever vocally also. She plays this role to a fare you well!

Another in the cast who is excellent is Wheeler Oakman in the role of a half-caste. Then there's Lydia Yeamans Titus, Anders Randolph, Yola D'Avvril, and Mona Rico—all good. It is, in fact, a platinum array of performers!

CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE

By Mae Tinee

MARY NOLAN, with no help at all from the director, establishes herself as a real actress in this picture. She will make you think of Jeanne Eagels in "Sadie Thompson," for Cassie of the former is reminiscent of the storm-swept lady of the latter and Miss Nolan portrays her character with a sympathy and discrimination that spell artistry.

* * *

"Shanghai Lady" boasts some exciting sequences and excellent supporting cast and good photography

"Shanghai Lady," boasts some exciting sequences and excellent supporting cast and good photography and synchronization. Miss Nolan's performance makes the picture important, and it's pleasant to see her score. . . .

Universal Pictures Signs Gra Reporter of Ur

WITH prominent officials of the National Broadcasting Company and of Universal Pictures Corporation present, Graham McNamee, world's premier radio broadcaster, on Wednesday signed a long-term contract to announce the story of the events of the day for the Universal Newsreel.

M. H. Aylesworth, President of the N.B.C., who witnessed the signing of the contract in the office of Lou B. Metzger, general manager of Universal Pictures Corporation, was just on his way to catch a train for Washington to keep an appointment with President Hoover at the White House.

Motion pictures were made of the ceremony in Mr. Metzger's office as McNamee affixed his name to the document by which he becomes the Talking Reporter of Universal's newsreel. The pictures will be used as an introduction to the first of the Talking Reporter series in which the famous broadcaster will appear.

Other officials of N.B.C. who witnessed this unique event in film history were G. F. McClelland, vice-president and general manager of N.B.C., and S. L. Ross, assistant managing director of the N.B.C. Artists Bureau. Besides Mr. Metzger, Universal officials who participated in the ceremony were: Charles B. Paine, treasurer; P. D. Cochrane, M. Van Praag, general sales manager; Sam B. Jacobson, editor of Universal Newsreel; Ted Schlanger, assistant general sales manager; Paul Gulick, director of publicity; Joe Weil, director, expoitation; Milton Silver, director, advertising; Sydney Singerman, assistant to Mr. Metzger, and Oscar Cooper, assistant director, publicity.

Universal has added immeasurably to the value of its newsreel by securing the services of Mr. McNamee as the announcer. The Talking Reporter has already made a tremendous hit with exhibitors and public alike. His terse, rapid-fire talk on the topics of the day added color and fire to the scenes as they were flashed on the screen. He became so popular with the public that exhibitors clamored for new contracts with the talking feature and Universal has sold many additional first-run houses on the strength of it.

But with Mr. McNamee announcing, the feature has been increased in value one hundred per cent. This premier announcer is known to every person in the country and his name carries real box-office value.

Long associated with National Broadcasting company, his name is linked with the romance of radio. He has been everywhere and seen everything, not only in the United States, but abroad. He is the real verbal reporter of events, having covered every kind of news imaginable, political con-

iam McNamee as Talking versal Newsreel ventions, prize fights, football games, world series, in fact every kind of event of importance.

He is assigned to cover world events just as the star reporter of the biggest newspapers, and trains and steamers and airplanes are at his command to rush to the spot where an event of general interest takes place. In the last few years he has flown more than 10,000 miles to reach his destination in the quickest time.

His magnetic personality and rich baritone voice enables him to hold the attention of his audiences as no other broadcaster. He is one of the very few individuals who is able to catch the spirit of the occasion himself and convey that spirit through his voice over the air to the public.

He actually feels the enthusiasm of the event he is reporting and is carried away with the excitement just as the veriest fan.

Through the Universal Newsreel Mr. McNamee will be heard in 10,000 theatres daily and reaching an audience of more than 10,000,000 persons.

He will be the official Talking Reporter, also, for fifty-one of the largest newspapers of the country, which are combined with Universal in the issuance of the newsreel. Besides hearing his voice in the theatre, the millions of readers of these publications will read all about Mr. McNamee's announcements through the columns of these papers every day.

Mr. McNamee was born in Washington in 1889, where his father was a lawyer. His mother was an accomplished musician and he inherited her talents. He started his musical education with the piano at the age of seven and has carried it on ever since. He began his vocal studies at the age of seventeen, and proved to have an excellent baritone voice. He began his broadcasting with Station WEAF, in 1923, and immediately leaped to the forefront of broadcasters. His unusual personality and pleasing voice at once stamped him as a genius.

Heywood Broun, in speaking of him in his column in the Telegram, declares, "he is the kingpin of radio announcers and is in a class by himself. I heard McNamee describe the touchdown which Southern California made after receiving a kickoff from Notre Dame, and it seemed to me I had never listened to a more vivid piece of verbal reporting. The announcer ran down that field shoulder to shoulder with the quarterback who carried the ball.

"McNamee has done his part to remove much of the fear of the machine age into which our generation is moving. He has shown that no matter what the gadget, human personality can come through. McNamee has been able to take a new medium of expression and through it transmit himself — to give out vividly a sense of move-

(Continued on page 18)

Universal Pictures Available fo

Universal Offers Line-up of Features and Short Subjects Guaranteed To Take The Holiday Slump Out of Week of Dec. 22nd to Jan. 4th

CARL LAEMMLE'S holiday boon to exhibitors is rolling along once again this year, gathering momentum as the week of December 22nd to January 4th approaches. Universal is offering for Joy Week release a group of feature productions and short subjects that is especially designed to attract holiday patronage and make of a period that used to be a blank an actual box-office asset. Exhibitors who have taken advantage of previous Universal Joy Weeks realize the advantages of wide publicity and exploitation during the Christmas festivities when other diversions are clambering for attention.

Naturally, comedies head the bill in holiday fare. Universal has provided plenty of light amusing stuff with stars that pull in the movie-goers. Action pictures are also welcome as a lure to the younger set home for their vacations. The following productions will give exhibitors an indication of what they can do with Universal's Joy Week bookings.

"Shannons of Broadway"

James and Lucile Gleason are the very epitome of comedy entertainment. Starred in the Universal picturization of their Broadway stage hit, written by Jimmie Gleason himself, they bring to the talking screen all the sparkling dialogue of the original. Emmett Flynn has directed the production simply and effectively. The mingling of a strong comedy vein with an undercurrent of pathos makes the picture extremely human. In the supporting cast are Charles Grapewin, Mary Philbin and John Breedon. "The Shannons of Broadway" is a tale of a comedy team who buy a country inn, almost fail in their venture, and finally pull through all set to stage a new and costlier act on big time.

"Skinner Steps Out"

Glenn Tryon and Merna Kennedy, that attractive young team in "Broadway," are co-starred in this brisk comedy of clothes. Young married love, in which a go-getting husband and an adoring wife take a few leaps up the ladder of success forms the basis of this farce, adapted from the story by Henry Irving Dodge. William Craft, whose megaphone has reigned over many a comedy hit, directed the picture. Lloyd Whitlock, Burr McIntosh and E. J. Ratcliffe are in the supporting cast. Tryon and Merna Kennedy will delight the pleasure seekers on vacation.

James and Lucile Gleason in "The Shannons of Broadway" are two of the brightest spots in Joy Week.

"Barnum Was Right"

The same appealing team are co-starred in this saga of the circus gag that a sucker is born every minute. The stage success by Philip Bartholmae and John Meehan has been cleverly adopted to the talking screen by Hutchenson Boyd and as cleverly directed by Del Lord. Otis Harlan, veteran comedian of "Show Boat," "Broadway" and scores of other hits, has a supporting role in this. To quote Motion Picture News:

> "A gay affair, it will give most audiences an enjoyable hour. . . . There is a load of humor. . . . The picture ripples along merrily. Only the ultra-sophisticated will sit frigidly through its display of hilarity."

The story concerns a treasure hunt in and under and around an old hotel. The picture is packed with laughs—sure enough holiday fare.

"One Hysterical Night"

Reginald Denny has enough followers to make the sun shine on rainy afternoons for exhibitors whose marquees herald "One Hysterical Night." It has all the Denny gusto and Denny charm of that comedian's best pictures. The plot, written by Denny himself, is a mad affair about a young man whose relatives pretend he is crazy. A costume ball gives point to the "I'm Napoleon" theme, and Nora Lane adds love interest. William Craft directs this all-talking farce.

"Hold Your Man"

What's a holiday without Laura La-Plante? She stars in this smart comedy of wandering husbands, Paris impostors, and averted divorces with her usual infectious humor. Scott Kolk, who has just been given a role in "All Quiet on the Western Front," is the leading man. Emmett Flynn directed from the story by Maxine Alton. The New York papers were warm in praise of the comedy:

> " . . . plot that is speedy and farcical . . . thoroughly entertaining. Throughout the picture bits of action have been filled in with imagination and wisdom." — The World.

This is a New Year's natural with so many opportunities for exploitation and advertising that exhibitors are already hot on its trail. Taken from Owen

Laura La Plante and Scott Kolk doing a little housekeeping in their sprightly comedy, "Hold Your Man"

Joy Week That Spell Box-Office

Davis' sensational stage comedy, "Tonight at Twelve" is packed with mystery, excitement and laughter. It is the sophisticated type of comedy that appeals to young and old moderns. A distinguished cast directed by Harry Pollard consists of Madge Bellamy, Hallam Cooley, Margaret Livingston, Robert Ellis, Vera Reynolds, George Lewis, and Norman Trevor.

"The Long, Long Trail"

Hoot Gibson's first talking picture is an event worth celebrating on Xmas or any other gala day. It boasts Hoot's pleasing voice, wonderful riding and screen personality; a thrilling horse-race on an enlarged screen; scenery that is breath-taking; and a humorous Western plot. If you don't believe us, read this rave from Motion Picture News:

> "The picture is a Hoot Gibson western and it's a corker. When you play it, put a punch behind your advertising and tell the world that here is an honest-to-goodness western in sound. It will get money and won't disappoint audiences."

Sally Eilers plays opposite Hoot with Arthur Rosson at the megaphone.

"Smilin' Guns"

Another Gibson that carries on the Hoot tradition for thrills and drama and laughs. In this western, Blanche Mehaffey has the feminine lead. Henry MacRae directed from a story by Shannon Fife. "Smilin' Guns" is issued in silent form only and is a tempting box-office morsel for houses as yet unwired.

"College Love"

Particularly adapted to holiday release is this first feature length, all-talking picture starring George Lewis and including the cast that made the "Collegians" Series so justly popular. Dorothy Gulliver, Eddie Phillips, Churchill Ross, Hayden Stevenson and Sumner Getchell are all there, talking and singing and wisecracking in one of the biggest joy pictures of the season. Leonard Fields has written an exciting story from which Nat Ross has made a colorful college comedy, bristling with campus atmosphere. The football game is unusually tense. A telegram from the Capital Theatre in Madison, Wisconsin, ran:

> "We have often been kidded into believing an audience cheered a picture. Maybe they did. Maybe they didn't. But that actually happened tonight with solid capacity crowd who laughed, yelled and cheered at your picture 'College Love.' Football game in picture sure-fire for audience."

One of those old human situations which Arthur Lake can make new and fresh in his series of two-reel comedies.

"Senor Americano"

Action and more action is crammed into this talking western with the dynamic Ken Maynard. Pretty Kathryn Crawford plays opposite him in an adventure drama that is replete with atmosphere and romance. Helmer Bergman and Henry McCarty wrote the story which exploits the glamorous days before California joined the union. Harry J. Brown has done a neat job of direction.

"The Love Trap"

A snappy comedy for sophisticates. Laura La Plante gets into one of those breezy complications which husbands can't understand. Robert Ellis is the suave would-be seducer; Neil Hamilton, the charming husband; and Norman Trevor, the stern relative who discovers that circumstantial evidence may be very embarrassing. Jocelyn Lee is attractive in a supporting role. William Wyler directed the comedy from the daring story by E. J. Montagne.

Sunny Jim with his 1929 trophies in "Christmas Cheer," the baby's Special for Joy Week.

Sporting Youth Series

These sparkling comedies are Junior Jewels of the same high entertainment value as their predecessors, the Collegians Series. Youth and adventure and song built up a steady patronage for this series of twelve two-reelers.

Oswald the Lucky Rabbit

No holiday program is really complete without an Oswald cartoon. In silent form, Oswald is a riot; in sound, he is a panic.

"Cohen on the Telephone"

This country-wide monologue by George Sidney has unusual box-office drawing power. Sidney is side-splitting no matter what the vehicle; in this hilarious one-reeler, he is calculated to bring down the house.

"Christmas Cheer"

"Christmas Cheer" is the Sunny Jim Special for Joy Week. Kiddies all over the land remember Sunny's Xmas film for last year and the year before. These comedies are being reissued and in addition, a brand new one offered to bring joy to the hearts of youngsters and grown-ups alike. Santa is there, the stockings hung by the chimney and all the other heart-warming traditions. This year Sunny talks and his

(Continued on page 32)

"A TREMENDOU
Co-starring the "Magnolia" of "Show Boat" and the distinguished baritone of the screen Laura
LA PLANTE
and
John BOLES
Music and Songs by
CHARLES WAKEFIELD CADMAN
Story by Huston W. Branch. With Lucian Littlefield and a singing chorus numbering hundreds.
A Paul Fejos Production.
LA MARSE
UNIVERSAL PICTURES

S SPECTACLE!"
William A. Johnston
in Motion Picture News
"A FEW weeks ago the writer sat with Carl Laemmle in a diminutive nook at the far end of a massive set and saw the filming of the largest scene perhaps that motion pictures—sound or silent—have boasted to date.
"It was the storming of the Tuilleries in 'La Marseillaise.'
"Twenty-five hundred individuals milled over an acre of ground amid clouds of smoke and the roar of cannons and musketry. The gay blue colors of the Royalist ranks and the scarlet-clad Swiss Guards flashed like a grand kalaidoscope in the brilliant sunshine. Steadily and remorselessly the scythes and pitchforks of the Revolutionists swept on against the sky line.
"High on a tower over the palace front, Director Paul Fejos boomed his voice through an electric loud speaker. Fifty lieutenants, here and there over the broad expanse, repeated his orders. Screaming sirens gave the signals to start and stop. Fourteen cameras were in action.
"It was a tremendous motion picture spectacle."
—M. P. News.
LA MARSEILLAISE

UNIVERSAL SIGNS GRAHAM McNAMEE FOR NEWSREEL

(Continued from page 13)

ment and of feeling. Of such is the kingdom of art."

Mr. MacNamee will assume his new duties as soon as possible after the new year, when he will have fitted his new duties into his radio schedule.

LEFT TO RIGHT, SEATED:—Aylesworth, President, National Broadcasting Company; Graham McNamee, Universal reporter; L. B. Metzger, General Manager, Universal Pictures Corporation. STANDING:—S. L. Ross, Manager Artists' Bureau; Sidney Singerman, assistant to Mr. Metzger; C. F. McClellan, Vice-President and General Manager, National Broadcasting; Fred McConnell, Short Subject Sales nell, Short Subject Sales Manager; M. Van Praag, General Sales Manager Universal; Ted Schlanger, Assistant General Sales Manager; C. B. Paine, Treasurer, Universal.

The World's Greatest REPEAT Special

"Impossible to handle crowd at final showing!"—W. A. Popham, Starland Theatre, Winnipeg, Man. "Played it in a storm for three days and came very near my record!"—E. L. Delano, Electric Theatre, Agra, Kans. "We have shown the picture four times within the last eighteen months and business fine each time!"—Mrs. I. G. Lilough, Mgr., McSwain Theatre, Ada, Okla. "Three days to crowded houses. My patrons now asking for return engagement!"—W. S. Scales, Lincoln Theatre, Winston Salem, N. C. "Had to rent chairs to seat all the people. Largest amount ever made on one picture!"—H. A. Page, Edisonia Theatre, Pruden, Tenn. "I bought the picture back for a second engagement within thirty days!"— Wm. S. Weider, Newport Theatre, Norfolk, Va. "Did nice business despite cold and bad roads. Could have done capacity if weather had been favorable!"—I. W. Maple, Cozy Theatre, Bethany, Mo. "Went over big—each night bringing better attendance!"—George Conover, Maroa Theatre, Maroa, Ill. "Broke all records at the box-office with pouring rain every night. If I had only bought the show for five nights instead of three!"—Mrs. E. Neuman, Liberty Theatre, Tonasket, Wash. "A truly wonderful picture. All my patrons enjoyed it and many came back to see it again!"—David Straszer, Lyceum Theatre, Manchester, Mo. "Three days to capacity. Am sure it would have held up with big receipts the week out!"—Mrs. B. Gordon, Palace Theatre, Newport News, Va.

Carl Laemmle's Super Production

With Marquerita Fischer, Arthur Edmund Carewe, Lucian Littlefield, James Lowe, Virginia Grey, George Siegmann, Adolph Milar, Vivian Oakland, Lassie Lou Ahearn, Mona Ray, Aileen Manning.

2 Negatives—1 Silent, 1 with Sound.

A HARRY POLLARD Production.

PLAY IT AGAIN!

The SCOOP of SCOOPS!

Universal signs GRAHAM McNAMEE

Man With Best Known Voice In World To Newcast for Universal Newsreel

As the Talking Reporter, the Premiere Broadcaster will animate the latest news pictures with that life and fire and pep for which he is famous in all his talks

His Name Alone Means Money at the Box Office!

Get in on the Money!

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL

Presented by Carl Laemmle

Produced under the supervision of Sam B. Jacobson

UNIVERSAL'S TALKING NEWSREEL

SMASH! SMA

HELL'S HEROES

PETER B. KYNE'S First Story in Sound. With CHARLES BICKFORD, RAYMOND HATTON, FRED KOHLER, Leyla Georgie. Directed by William Wyler.

THE SHANNONS OF BROADWAY

Starring

THE GLEASONS James and Lucille

With Charles Grapewin, Mary Philbin, John Breeden. An Emmett Flynn Production.

THE STORM

From Langdon McCormick's smashing stage play.

MARY NOLAN in UNDERTOW

With John Mack Brown. Story by Wilbur D. Steele. A Harry Pollard Production.

Laura La Plante and John Boles in LA MARSEILLAISE

With Lucien Littlefield. Story by Houston W. Branch. A Paul Fejos Production. Charles Wakefield Cadman's music.

The COHENS and KELLYS in SCOTLAND

GEORGE SIDNEY
CHARLIE MURRAY

Joseph Schildkraut in THE NIGHT RIDE

With EDWARD G. ROBINSON and BARBARA KENT. Story by Henry La Cossitt. A John Robertson Production.

Universal Leads the Parad

SH! SMASH!

MARY NOLAN in SHANGHAI LADY

With James Murray, Wheeler Oakman. From the play by John Colton, author of "Rain." A John Robertson Production.

The College Racketeer

With James Murray, Kathryn Crawford, Jackie Hanlon, George Hackthorne. Story by Lambert Hillyer. A Reginald Barker Production.

Joseph Schildkraut Mississippi Gambler

With JOAN BENNETT. Story by Leonard Fields and Karl Brown. A Reginald Barker Production.

The Greater Talking Pictures are here!

. . . and you have CARL LAEMMLE'S word for it that a greater group of money pictures does not exist! BIG ONES of every type . . . Drama . . . Comedy . . . Sex Appeal . . . Outdoor . . . EVERYTHING . . . each a BOX-OFFICE CERTAINTY in its own field . . . each with a different appeal to get you ONE kind of money . . . BIG MONEY. . . . Yes, sir, Universal gives you what you have to have . . . the greater talking pictures . . . and a smashing silent verson on each.

of Greater Talking Hits ! ! !

In snappy white uniforms the Girl's Drum Corps of thirty-two pieces and the High School Band of fifty pieces paraded through the streets of Parsons, Kansas, to ballyhoo "Broadway" at the Uptown Theatre

Girls' Drum Corps and School Band Ballyhoo "Broadway" in Parsons

MANAGER FLOYD G. WARD of the Uptown Theatre, Parsons, Kansas, showed a stroke of master showmanship when he exploited Universal's "Broadway" for its run at the Dickinson House.

Ward is active in local civic affairs and is well liked in Parsons, so he had little or no difficulty in securing the services of the local drum corps, composed of thirty-two girls, and the fifty-piece high school boys' band, for a parade.

The parade was headed by boy scouts carrying a nifty cut-out made from the three-sheet and a large banner announcing the picture and the play dates. Then followed the girls of the drum corps in natty white uniforms, and led by a regular drum major. Behind the girls came the high school band also in white uniforms. While the drum corps was not performing, the band played selections from "Broadway." Practically all of Parsons turned out to witness the spectacle.

Ward also put a calliope on the streets for two days, managed two radio announcements of the engagement, and put over a newspaper tie-up that not only netted some good publicity but got him several fine windows in local stores.

The newspaper tie-up consisted of a full page co-operative ad with the sentence: "Shop on Broadway where there is plenty of parking space and see 'Briadway,' the 100% talking, singing, dancing dramatic hit at the Uptown," cut up and distributed through the ads. Free tickets were given to the first twenty-five persons putting the sentence together correctly. Nine hundred answers were received.

Kaiser's Aide In "All Quiet"

HE was an attache of the headquarters staff the night the Kaiser wrapped himself in his gray cape and fled to exile in Holland.

And now——

In the uniform of a German captain and mounted on a horse, he is leading a troop of dusty soldiers to war again—in "All Quiet On the Western Front," Universal's production of Erich Maria Remarque's book.

He is Lieut. Hans Fuerberg, of Potsdam. As a Potsdam cadet, he carried the most confidential communications from the Kaiser to Hindenberg, Ludendorf and other German leaders.

Joan Marsh Cast In "All Quiet"

JOAN MARSH, Universal's recent "discovery," is playing the part of a French girl in the opening sequence of "All Quiet On the Western Front."

Miss Marsh has the role of the "dream girl" of "Leer," the Lothario of Erich Maria Remarque's schoolboy soldiers, a part played by Scott Kolk, Universal contract player. It is Miss Marsh's first appearance in a super picture.

Although but fifteen years old, Miss Marsh is regarded at Universial as a "find," possessing an unusual blonde beauty, talent as an actress before the sound camera, and a remarkable singing voice.

Warren Excited Over "Broadway"

"CHUCK COPPERMAN of Cleveland had just taken over the management of the Ohio Theatre in Warren, under direction of Dan Robins, who also owns the Robin's Theatre of that city.

Chuck wanted to get away under a full sail, so the very first thing he did was to book in Universal's "Broadway." Then he called on Universal's exploitation department and launched a campaign which let everyone in Warren and vicinity know that one of the biggest pictures of the year was on its way to the Ohio.

The high point of the campaign was the insertion of a big ad in the daily newspaper to the effect that "Market Street, being Warren's leading thoroughfare, should be changed to BROADWAY, thus classing it with the world's greatest thoroughfare, BROADWAY." This ad was signed, "The Broadway Merchants' Association."

The following day another ad appeared. It was headed: "Taxpayers and citizens attention! So that it may be properly classed with the leading street of the world, Market Street, this city, is to be changed to BROADWAY." This ad was also signed by the Broadway Ass'n. The next day a larger ad carried the same copy as outlined above with this addition: THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, THAT; on and after November 23, Market Street, Warren, O., shall be known as

BROADWAY

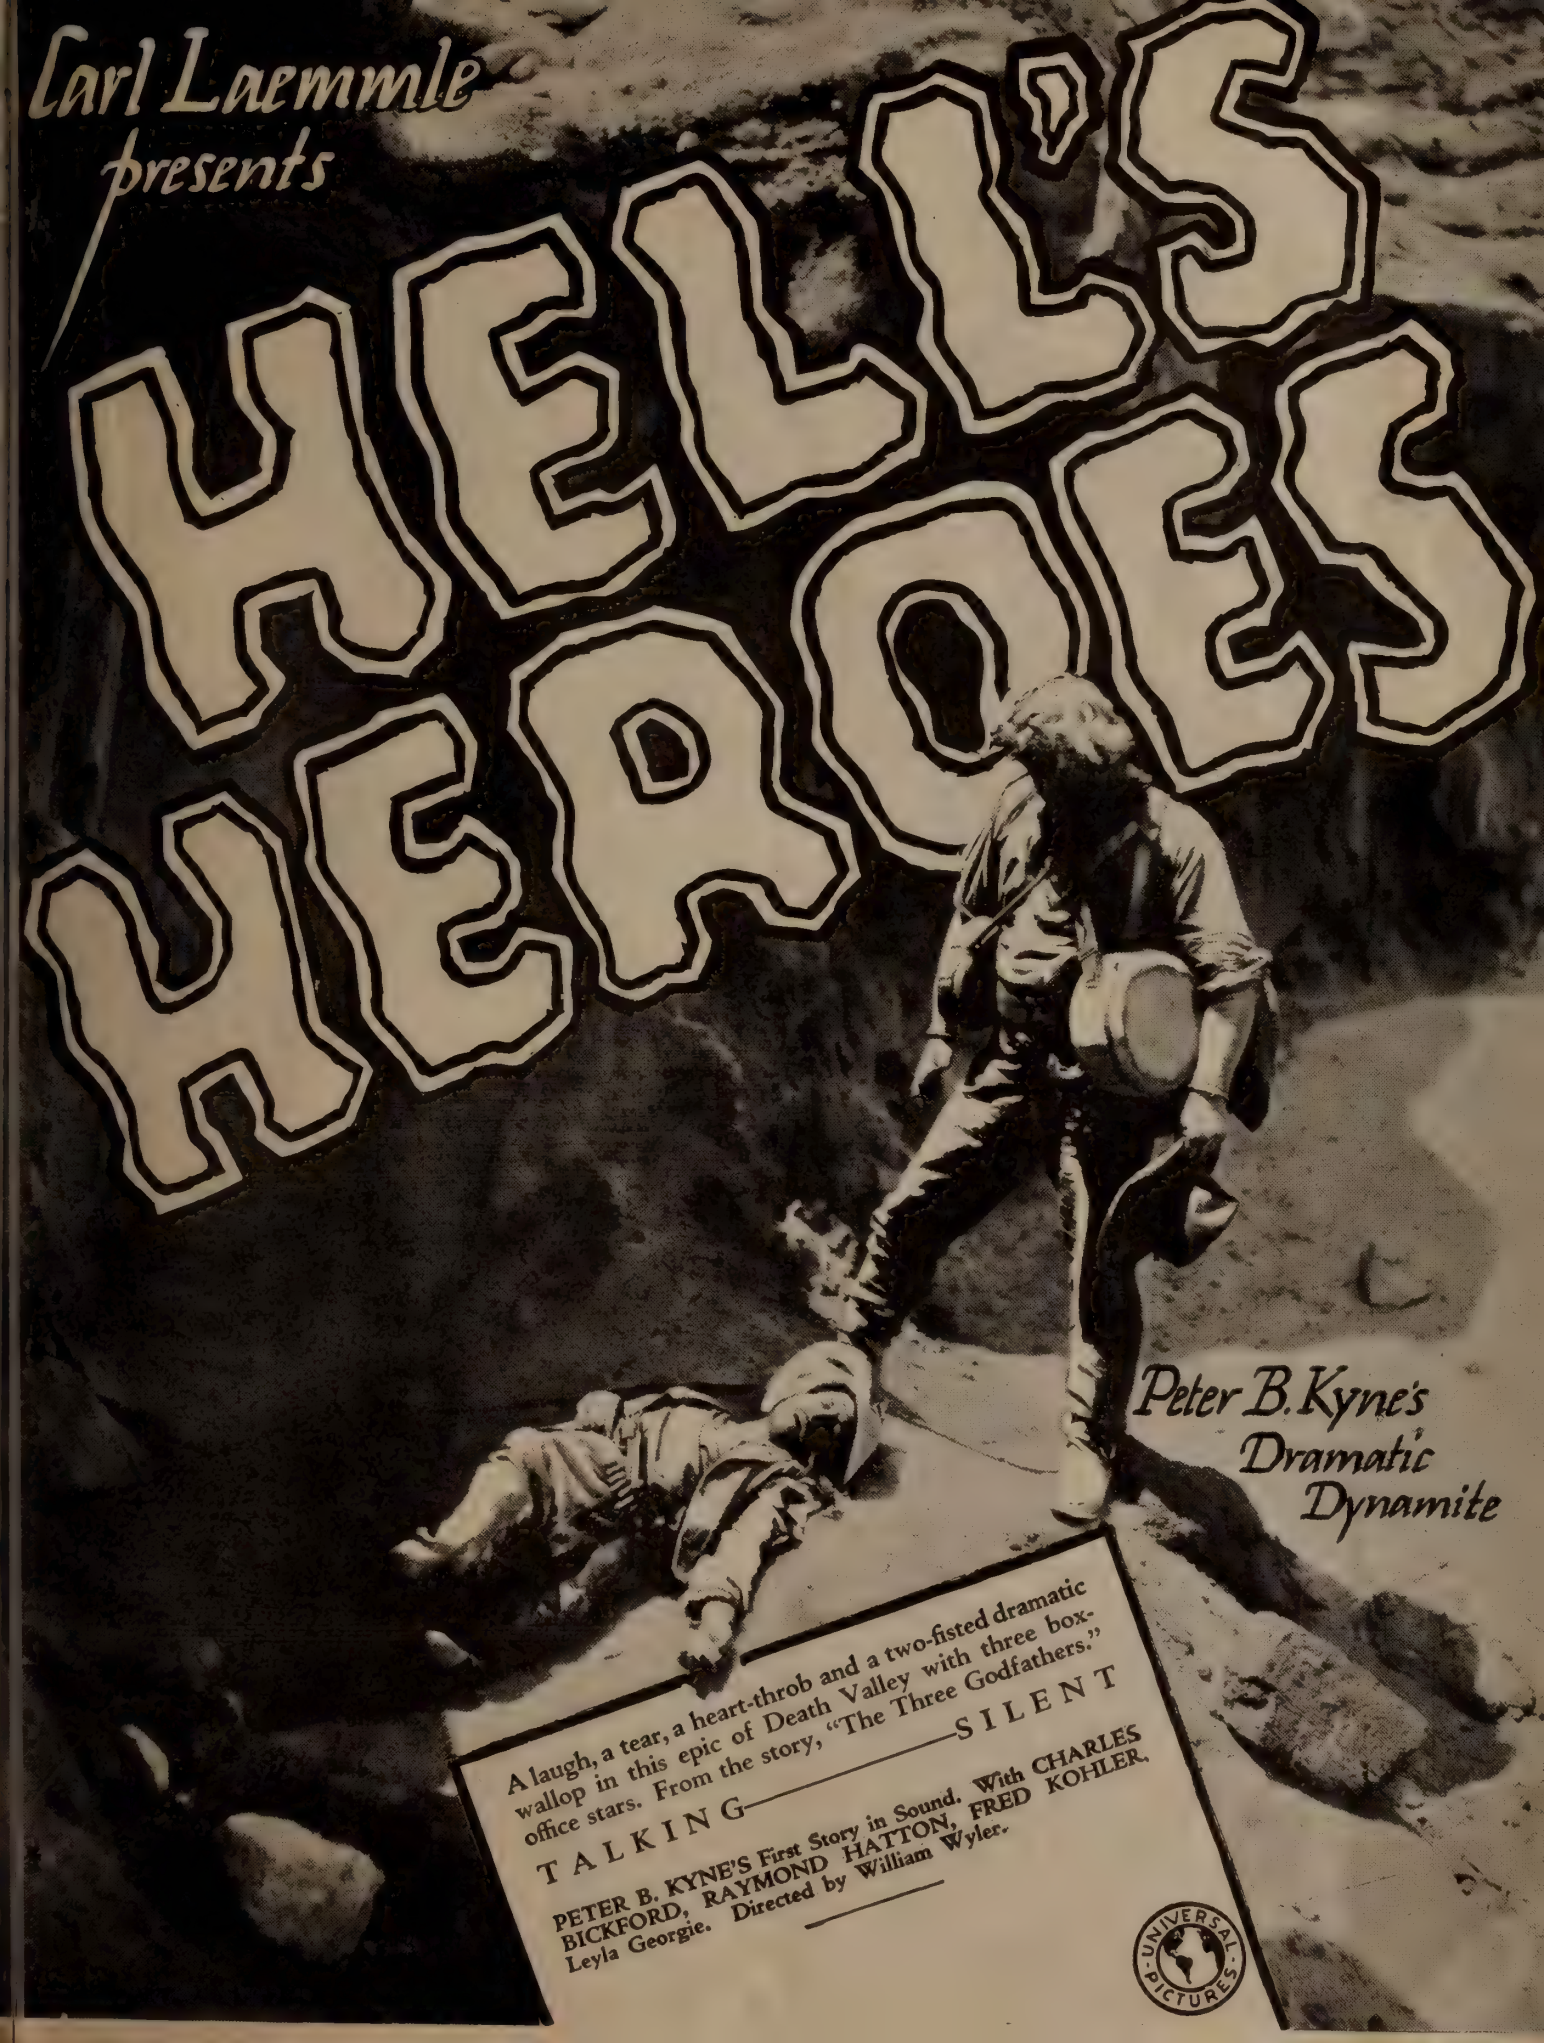
The Broadway Ass'n.

By this time the citizens and taxpayers of Warren, Ohio, were doing a whole lot of talking. The Broadway merchants, who should have been the most excited were the coolest because they had been tipped off to the joke beforehand, so there would be no hard feelings. But they reported plenty of interrogations by taxpayers who were very anxious to find out just who constituted the Broadway Ass'n. Mr. Copperman then decided the plot was thick enough for all practical purposes and pulled his prize ad, which was a big scarehead and read as follows:

TAXPAYERS AND CITIZENS of WARREN!

It having been decided that Market Street is a pretty good old name after all, action has been taken and it is duly decided that Market Street will not be changed to BROADWAY after all; but you can see BROADWAY on Market Street at the OHIO THEATRE starting Nov. 23, where this great singing and talking picture will be shown with all the glory and glamour of the great White Way itself.

The result was that "Broadway" opened with a bang and packed them in all week.



Carl Laemmle
presents
HELL'S HEROES
Peter B. Kyne's Dramatic Dynamite
A laugh, a tear, a heart-throb and a two-fisted dramatic wallop in this epic of Death Valley with three box-office stars. From the story, "The Three Godfathers."
TALKING—SILENT
PETER B. KYNE'S First Story in Sound. With CHARLES BICKFORD, RAYMOND HATTON, FRED KOHLER, Leyla Georgie. Directed by William Wyler.
UNIVERSAL PICTURES

17 Theatres
Couldn't h
She's the w
the 'SHANGH

old Crowds!

With sixteen other theatres in and around New York playing "Shanghai Lady" day and date with the Colony, the third week at the Colony was as big as the second! These theatres included Loew's New York, a stone's throw from the Colony, where "Shanghai Lady was shown at lower prices. Yet the Colony kept packing them in! No opposition can hurt "Shanghai Lady"—not even the opposition of "Shanghai Lady!"

MARY NOLAN

With James Murray, Wheeler Oakman, Anders Randolph, Lydia Yeamans Titus. A John Robertson Production from the stage hit by John Colton, author of "Rain." 100% Talking; also Silent. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE.

AI LADY!

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

Views of these giant billboard erected in Hollywood to advertise "All Quiet on the Western Front," Paul Whiteman's "King of Jazz Revue," and other Universal pictures.

Laemmle Celebrates Anniversary Of Twenty Years of Production

(Continued from page 8)

people wagged their heads and said Carl Laemmle had gone too far—too far out in the hills and from real estate values, and too far in the size of his plant.

"Yet the plant of those early days was not as big as the single set of the single picture I was now viewing. And Los Angeles has built right up to the formerly wild hillsides of Universal City.

"A vast change. And yet the man beside me is president of Universal today, was president when Universal City was born, and president of Universal many years before that.

"And all the time and as every one knows, he has been doing big things—each just as big in their day as 'La Marseillaise' is big today.

"It is a genuine pleasure to devote this section of Motion Picture News to Carl Laemmle—to the recognition of his long and prominent career in this industry.

"He is a remarkable man.

"I was one of those who came out on the train from New York to the opening of Universal City. One day, as we chugged across the desert, Carl Laemmle dropped in a seat beside me and asked me about the publishing business. In no time at all his keen mind was several steps ahead of me and suddenly he began to tell me things about my own business that surprised me, so keen was his grasp of publishing and its manifold problems.

"I acquired that day a respect for his business ability which has only increased over the years of an acquaintance that I greatly prize. I got the impression that day that Carl Laemmle would have been a great merchant had he followed his earlier occupation. He would have been a leading figure in any field of business, because with exceptional ability he has also steadiness, straightforward courage, honesty and singleness of purpose.

"The years, I say, have given me an increasing respect for his acumen. But also they have added the affection you cannot help but feel for a man of large affairs who is also distinguished for his gentleness, charity and cleanliness of life.

"Universal is today the sole remaining company of the big three upon which our industrial structure first rested. Since then, and to date, large alignments have come and gone. Leading figures have arisen and declined. Pictures have changed from shorts to multiple reels and from silent to sound. Theatres have passed from individual ownership to national chains. World-wide organizations have been built to an extent that film manufacture and export make one of the brightest jewels in the crown of American business enterprises.

"Amid this vast and rapid, and often critical, evolution of one of the greatest of modern industries one sturdy figure, that of Carl Laemmle, has stood steadfast and to the forefront. There is reason for Carl Laemmle to be proud of his record and for the industry to be proud of him."

Universal's
JOY WEEK
December 22—January 4

Man Who Fired First American Shell Cast In "All Quiet" Film

THE man who fired the first American shell in the world war joined the German army today!

He is Captain I. R. McLendon, of the sixth field artillery, first division, A. E. F., and the German army he joined was that of Universal's super picture, "All Quiet On the Western Front."

Captain McLendon was among the 2,000 ex-service men who responded to the call for men who have seen action to report at Universal for the "All Quiet" picture and he was the first selected by Director Lewis Milestone.

McLendon's claim to have fired the first artillery shot for the Americans has been thoroughly established by the Hollywood Post of the American Legion, of which he is a member.

It was on October 23, 1917, in the Luneville sector. McLendon's battery was racing another to within firing distance of the front for the honor of firing the first shell. The other battery forged ahead, but McLendon, as soon as he knew he was within range, stopped his battery and fired from the road, over the heads of his rivals.

McLendon was wounded in the Argonne fighting, wears the Croix de Guerre with palms and has two citations.

Margaret Quimby To Play with Gibson

MARGARET QUIMBY has been signed to play the feminine lead in Hoot Gibson's "Fool's Luck," now in production at Universal City.

Included in the cast are Olive Young, Pete Morrison and William McCall. Arthur Rosson is directing.

65 FOX THEATRES

in Metropolitan area book the Colossus of Serials for hundred days of glorious profit!

TARZAN THE TIGER

With FRANK MERRIL and NATALIE KINGSTON. From the story "TARZAN" and the Jewels of Opar," by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

MIGHTIER THAN "TARZAN THE MIGHTY"

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

EXPLOIT

A SPECIAL 1 SHEET FOR JOY WEEK

UNIVERSAL has prepared a special JOY WEEK one sheet, lithographed in three colors, for your use in celebrating this big event. It is FREE to you for theatre use. You may have an extra supply to give to merchants cooperating with you in your celebration, at small cost. Get these one sheets up all over town. They will help to make UNIVERSAL JOY WEEK an extra profit pulling week for you.

You can get UNIVERSAL JOY WEEK posters at your local Universal Exchange.

Here is the one sheet poster for the Sunny Jim comedy, "Christmas Cheer." Note how well it ties in with the Joy Week Celebration.

"CHRISTMAS CHEER" WITH SUNNY JIM

A JOY WEEK SPECIAL : IN 2 REELS

HERE is a two reel comedy of unusual merit and appeal. It is a perfect Christmas subject, all talking or silent, and was made for the sole purpose of showing during JOY WEEK. It's a good, big extra attraction for your special JOY WEEK program. There is a one sheet and a set of eight lobby cards, to help you boost "Christmas Cheer," nicely decorated with holly leaves. Use them in your lobby and in the windows of merchants who tie-up with you on this big event.

USE THESE LOBBY CARDS — 8 — 11 x 14's

PLAY UP "CHRISTMAS CHEER" with Sunny Jim and UNIVERSAL JOY WEEK IN YOUR MARQEE LIGHTS.

JOY WEEK!

IT IS A NATIONAL CELEBRATION

YOUR LOCAL MERCHANTS WILL HELP TO PUT IT OVER

GET your local merchants to join you in celebrating JOY WEEK. It presents a great opportunity for them to put on special JOY WEEK sales. Get them to advertise these sales in their regular ads, put in special window displays, and use the special three-color one-sheet poster for their window dress.

While it is not practical to give away passes during the theatres' big holiday week, you can make some arrangements to sell merchants blocks of tickets to give to all purchasers who buy $5.00 or more of merchandise, at the special JOY WEEK sales. Get them to play this up in the ads.

Suggest this special JOY WEEK sales idea to the advertising manager of the local paper. He will, no doubt, see in it a wonderful opportunity to sell some extra advertising space and will get the editor to work with him on it.

UNIVERSAL'S NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL MEANS BIG NEWSPAPER COOPERATION

DON'T overlook the cooperation of the newspaper that is tied up with the UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL. Here is ready-made assistance for you in putting JOY WEEK over in your city. The newspaper is interested in Universal through the newsreel tie-up and will, therefore, be interested in Universal's Joy Week. You will find it ready and willing to do everything it can to make Joy Week a success. Arrange to offer through the paper to entertain a certain number of the city's orphans at each matinee during Joy Week. You will find the newspapers ready to give you their co-operation for the charitable purpose.

Use LOCAL BOYS' BAND to BALLYHOO JOY WEEK!

IF there is a boys' or girls' band, or drum corps, in your city get them to help you celebrate JOY WEEK. You can arrange for them to parade through the city with a squad of Boy Scouts at the head carrying a large JOY WEEK banner. Invite them to be your guests at a JOY WEEK performance.

UTILIZE these IDEAS for a BIG JOY WEEK!

Tie-up with Christmas Charity Organization—

IF there is a Christmas Tree Fund or a Christmas Cheer organization in your city, giving the poor a Merry Christmas, you have an excellent tie-up for your JOY WEEK. Arrange to give a portion of the receipts, of a certain performance, to the worthy cause and get the organization to help you boost your JOY WEEK in return. The charity organization can arrange to put out some of the special Joy Week posters and get up a special matinee for your Joy Week program.

Put Joy in Your Lobby—

PUT plenty of "joy" in your lobby. Decorate it with the JOY WEEK posters and with cut-outs from the special "CHRISTMAS CHEER" one sheet. Cutouts of large laughing faces will add materially to the atmosphere. The use of a quantity of large varicolored balloons, holly wreaths, paper bells, etc., gives the proper carnival and holiday spirit that is always associated with joy.

Set up a christmas tree in the lobby with a Joy Week sign and small cards hanging from the branches giving the numbers of your special Joy Week program.

Distribute a Throwaway—

ONE of the following throwaway suggestions will go a long way to make your JOY WEEK celebration a big success. Joy Tickets, printed up with numbers, and offering free admission to those holding tickets with numbers that match those posted in your lobby on certain days. Imitation checks drawn to the order of your patrons for unlimited joy during the celebration of JOY WEEK, etc. A Christmas on New Year design herald stressing JOY WEEK and the special programs arranged.

"TARZAN THE TIGER" A Real JOY WEEK Chapter-Play

GET this big chapter-play started during JOY WEEK and give your patrons fifteen weeks of unadulterated joy. A great exploitation picture for this celebration. The animal angle ties in very well with toy stores at this particular time. You will find it easy to get window displays for the picture and for JOY WEEK.

"TONIGHT AT TWELVE" Great for the Magic Hour on New Year's Eve! A JOY WEEK Feature

THIS picture is particularly well adapted to showing during JOY WEEK, especially if you can so arrange it to have the opening on New Year's Eve. The title lends itself to many JOY WEEK tie-ups and the picture is a merry comedy of errors that will bring joy to the hearts of your patrons.

"SKINNER STEPS OUT" Built for Exploitation with JOY WEEK

ANOTHER Universal feature that should not be overlooked for playing during JOY WEEK. Particularly because of the great tie-up possibilities it has for getting local merchants to work with you. The story is of a young man who achieves success through fine clothes, and it is filled with hearty laughs.

"THE TAKE OFF"

Sporting Youth Series

JUDY manages without being seen to slip into an airplane that is all set to make a trans-Pacific hop. The bunch at the Club house is listening in on the radio reports which are coming over the air and when the news is heralded that a stowaway has been found aboard there is great excitement. Bert learns with dismay that the stowaway is Judy.

In anger the two airmen put Judy to work pumping gas and when the work proves a little heavy for her, she cuts a wire in anger. The plane goes into a nose dive and they are thrown into the Pacific.

Bert gets the news over the radio and rushes out in a speedboat and rescues Judy and the two men.

A penitent but still curious Judy begs Bert not to scold her.

UNIVERSAL PICTURES AVAILABLE FOR JOY WEEK THAT SPELL BOX OFFICE

(Continued from page 15)

conversations with old Saint Nick will bring greater glory to your box-office.

Benny Rubin

This Broadway headliner is bound to please holiday crowds. Six of these one-reel talking comedies are offered for the joy of your patrons.

Pat Rooney

Every pleasure-bent audience likes a bit of vaudeville, dancing, singing and pretty girls. Pat Rooney, Marian Bent and young Pat offer splendid entertainment in their all-talking series.

The Collegians
(4th Series)

The pull of the Collegians is as strong as ever. They are the classic of the campus shorts, and destined to build up patronage long after the bayberry candles have burned low.

All-Star Comedies

Recruited from the comedy and vaudeville stage, the stars of this series of one-reel talkers have an amusement value and a box-office appeal that makes the pictures of unusual merit.

Arthur Lake

The likeable young star of "Harold Teen" and "On With the Show" is as intriguing as ever in Universal's series of two-reel comedies. Lake's name over your marquee means bigger and happier holiday attendance.

Sid Saylor

Sid Saylor has a mighty horde of enthusiasts who will never stop laughing at his droll dumbness (intentional, we assure you). His series of two-reel comedies for this year are packed with new situations and the old wallop.

UNIVERSAL SYNOPSES

"CHRISTMAS CHEER"

A Sunny-Jim Comedy-Talkie

SUNNY tried so hard to make a good impression on his family as Christmas was only a short way off and there were lots of presents he just had to have. In trying to clean up his mother's house he removed all the nice fluff from the pet poodle by using a vacuum on the poor little puppy, and that didn't pull up his stock any.

His mummy took him to see a department store Santa and he was so excited he couldn't remember his name or what he wanted, so he said he would write a letter.

On Christmas Eve, he discovered that his daddy had not mailed his letter to Santa and he was really quite upset. But daddy compromised by saying that he would go out looking for Santa, and he did. It was a hard job to come down the chimney, but daddy dressed as Santa finally made it and all was well all through the house.

"OUTDOOR SPORTS"

Sid Saylor comedy,

WHEN a chap would rather be out with a pal instead of posing as dress model for his wife, who is sewing a new gown for her aunt, he has to figure some method of making a quick getaway. And he does—by stealing Auntie's dress. He and the pal, after oodles of trouble disposing of the feminine attire, pick up two girls and they all go to an amusement park. The wife decides to do a little husband-hunting and she arrives at the park and sees her husband.

What a splashing in the park fountain he got!

"TRAIL OF THE PACK"

Western Featurette
With* Ted Carson

SERGEANT McLEAN, of the Mounted, is on the trail of a bandit pack wanted by the law. The leader stops Nancy O'Day and forces her to give him a hitch. When the sergeant rides up, Simmons hides under some pelts and at the point of a gun forces the girl to say he has ridden in another direction. The sergeant rides on. He finds the horse which the bandit has deserted and suspects foul play.

The bandit, fearing the girl will reveal his whereabouts, kidnaps her and takes her to his den. The sergeant writes a note, ties it to his horse and sends the animal back for help. McLean then follows the wagon tracks on the hunt for the man pack. Coming upon the woody den, he attacks but is out-numbered by the thieves. They tie him up and leave. After they are gone, McLean manages to cut his fetters wih the aid of a kitchen knife. He pursues them.

The whole bandit crowd is captured and the sergeant tells Nancy that he is glad of the trouble because it enabled him to meet her.

"ACE OF SCOTLAND YARD"

"No. 3—"The Dungeon of Doom"

AWAKENED bv the falling of the black- jacked Blake, Lord Blanton comes upon the scene as the Ace is recovering from the stunning blow. Just at that moment Jarvis enters the museum as Darius is about to blanket Lady Diana. The Prince claims he was going to cover Diana's shoulders. Lord Blanton and Blake enter to find Lady Diana awake and still in possession of the Love Ring. It is given to Blake for safekeeping.

Next morning Darius again attempts to purchase the ring, saying he fears the curse on his family will not be removed until the ring and mummy are back in Egypt. Blake demands that the mummy case be opened. It is found to be empty but for a card,—the Queen of Diamonds! Diana thinks it best to return the ring to Darius, but Blake says the law must have its way—to reveal the Queen of Thieves—therefore he does not relinquish it. Lady Diana, in fear and in anger at Blake, goes to her room, and she is locked in by the housekeeper who signals to her gangmen—a revolver shot is fired.

Meanwhile Jarvis has been captured by thugs on the grounds.

Blake, rushing up the stairs to locate the shot, is dropped through a trap at the first landing, as the Queen of Diamonds pulls a lever. The thugs advance on him to destroy him and . . . .

QUICK MONEY

Carl Laemmle's
Super Money-Maker

The PHANTOM of the OPERA

now in

SOUND

starring LON CHANEY

With Mary Philbin, Norman Kerry and a cast of 500. From the novel by Gaston Leroux. Directed by Rupert Julian Ken Maynard breaks his own record!

WAGON MASTER: Ken Maynard—October 26. Now, this is an example of a silent print from a silent negative, even though it is made in sound also. Last Saturday we broke the house record and had to put out the S R O sign for Ken Maynard in "Phantom City." This Saturday we broke the record of one week ago. Had to run an extra show. Any theatre in the United States that is not using Maynard's pictures is losing money. They are worth more than any two of any other star. Six reels.—G. H. Wright, Jr., Star theatre, Wendell, N. C.—Small town patronage.

— EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

—and here he comes to break it again!

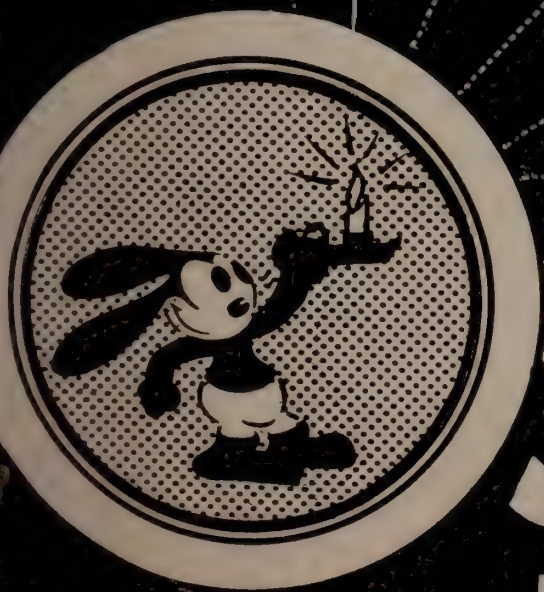
A Ken Maynard Production with Kathryn Crawford. Story by Helmer Bergman and Henry McCarthy. Directed by Harry J. Brown. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

SENOR AMERICANO

The LIGHT that NEVER FAILS

from HERALD-WORLD



Oswald

OSWALD THE RABBIT, ½.—These are good little cartoons, and the public seems to like them yet, although we have been running them for some time. (Clarke Green, Lake theatre, Upper Lake, Cal.—Small town patronage.) The best cartoon subject we've ever used, and we've used plenty. (Glen Jennings, Globe theatre, Buena Vista, Va.—Small town patronage.) Only decent number on the bill for this night, but one can't build a program around a cartoon. (O. B. Wolfe, Screenland theatre, Nevada, O.—Small town patronage.) "Bull Only." Oswald always satisfies. Is something different for a change. (Avard J. Sloat, Roseland theatre, Pleasant View, R. I.—Summer resort patronage.) "Fishing Fool." Why comment? You ought to know by this time that all Oswalds are good. (O. B. Wolfe, Screenland theatre, Nevada, O.—Small town patronage.) "Fiery Fireman." Good. Kids go wild for Oswald. (Avard J. Sloat, Roseland theatre, Pleasant View, R. I.—Summer resort patronage.) "Hold 'Em, Ozzie." Another good one. This is one series we can depend on. (O. B. Wolfe, Screenland theatre, Nevada, O.—Small town patronage.) "Mississippi Mud." The kids all ask when another Oswald will be shown. (Avard J. Sloat, Roseland theatre, Pleasant View, R. I.—Summer resort patronage.) "Sky Scraper." Good for an entertaining ten minutes any time. (Avard J. Sloat. Roseland theatre, Pleasant View, R. I.—Summer resort patronage.) "Panicky Pancakes." Ran comedy and feature and this cartoon. This wasn't expected and seemed to be something extra. Brought laughs and pleased the crowd. (Avard J. Sloat, Roseland theatre, Pleasant View, R. I.—Summer resort patronage.) Each Oswald is better than the last. Hope they don't spoil him with smut. I expect they'll show him laying a flock of Easter eggs. When they do they'll miss the kiddies' little hero. (Carl Veseth, Palace theatre, Malta, Mont.—General patronage.) "Farmyard Follies." Good—all of these cartoons have been good. (C. E. Eastman, Parkside theatre, Lyons, Ia.—General patronage.) "Suicide Sheiks." Fair filler, but didn't seem to have the usual Oswald punch. (O. B. Wolfe, Screenland theatre, Nevada, O.—Small town patronage.) "Fishing Fools." These cartoons are always good for a few laughs. (Parkside theatre, Lyons, Ia.—General patronage.) "Hen Fruit." As usual, Oswald brings down the house. These are always good, and this one is better yet. (O. B. Wolfe, Screeland theatre, Nevada, O.—Small town patronage.) "Ice Man's Luck." Just dandy. (Walter C. Schultz, Walt's theatre, Kenesaw, Neb.—General patronage.) "Alpine Antics." The best thing that Universal puts out in the short line. (Parkside theatre, Lyons, Ia.—General patronage.) "Farmyard Follies." An extra good one. Much fun.

(O. B. Wolfe, Screenland theatre, Nevada, O.—Small town patronage.) "The Fiery Fireman." These cartoons are all good. (G. W. Rothrock, Campbell theatre, Macksville, Kan.—General patronage.) Ho! Ho! Another good Oswald cartoon. Lots of laughs. (O. B. Wolfe, Screenland theatre, Nevada, O.—Small town patronage.) "Hold 'Em, Ozzie." Good as are most of the cartoon comedies. (Ray W. Musselman, Princess theatre, Lincoln, Kan.—General patronage.) "Homeless Homer." As usual, a funny and snappy performance by Oswald. (O. B. Wolfe, Screenland theatre, Nevada, O.—Small town patronage.) "Lumber Jacks." Very good. (Parkside theatre, Lyons, Ia.—General patronage.) Very good. (A. Legnon, Smyles theatre, Weeks, La.—Small town patronage.) "Suicide Sheiks." Good Oswald cartoon. (Parkside theatre, Lyons, Ia.—General patronage.) Excellent. Never fail to draw the plaudits and laughter. Don't fail to book these, boys. Buy 'em all! They come in half reels. Fine to fill in your specials, etc. (Philip Rand, Rex theatre, Salmon, Idaho.—General patronage.) "Sick Cylinders." Just average. Not as snappy as most Oswalds. (O. B. Wolfe, Screenland theatre, Nevada, O.—Small town patronage.) "Sick Cylinders." Best cartoons we have ever used. They really laugh at them. (H. E. Drew, Orpheum theatre, Ionia, Mich.—Working class patronage.) "South Pole Flight." Good. The kids cheer whenever we show a cartoon [illegible] kind. Since that is the only part of the a [illegible] they enjoy, we al[illegible] try to [illegible] one. T[illegible] ge feature is hard [illegible] em to [illegible] gh, [illegible] only fair to give [illegible] tle fe[illegible] of [illegible] gram. (Dinsmore [illegible] on, [illegible] e, [illegible] r, Ark [illegible] nage.) [illegible] ht." Oswalds and [illegible] all N. Miles, E[illegible] t [illegible] Usual [illegible] print [illegible] e, Ne- [illegible] OLL, [illegible] ! tush [illegible] tempt [illegible] s! (O [illegible] lfe, [illegible] Small t[illegible] onage.)

RED [illegible] 1.—Good. (S. B. Kennedy, Central theatre, Selkirk, Man., Canada.—General pat-

THE LUCKY RABBIT

RESULTS!

TENS of thousands of letters from readers of The Saturday Evening Post prove that Carl Laemmle's famous column is bringing added patronage to your theatre if you play Universal Pictures!

Watch This Column

Universal's Weekly Chat

★
★
★
★

Kathryn Crawford

The powerful force of love sweeps aside all obstacles, levels ranks erases the memory and effect of past errors and sweetens characters.

You will realize the full significance of all this when you see the charming KATHRYN CRAWFORD with JAMES MURRAY in "The College Racketeer" The story is clever

Briefly—Morley Wallace is a famous stroke-oar at Crane University. He spends his vacation hi-jacking rum runners in Canada He is caught, but escapes and returns to college where he falls in love with a girl and poses as an inspiration to others. When his criminal tendencies are revealed, the girl is disillusioned Then love steps in and works a revolution The author is Lambert Hillyer—the director Reginald Barker

Be on the qui vive for "Hell's Heroes," that great story by Peter B. Kyne and laid in the West wherein three tough characters discover an abandoned baby in the Arizona desert and undertake to care for it The influence that baby has on the lives of the three drifters will give you an unusual thrill The four principal characters are taken by RAYMOND HATTON, CHARLES BICKFORD, FRED KOHLER and FRITZI RIDGEWAY.

James Murray in "The College Racketeer"

Universal has the full rights to Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" and you will hear this magnificent world of melody in PAUL WHITEMAN'S picture, "The King of Jazz."

Have you become one of my volunteer correspondents in your town? I am looking for a letter from you When I do, you will hear from me

Sincerely yours,

Carl Laemmle

President

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

"The Home of the Good Film"

730 Fifth Ave New York City

The column on the left will appear in The Saturday Evening Post issue of December 21, 1929

OK

Universal Weekly
Vol. 30 No. 25
Jan. 25, 1930

WE OPENED WITH PHANTOM OF THE OPERA YESTERDAY TO CAPACITY BUSINESS LOBBY WAS PACKED BEFORE FIRST SHOW OVER AND PEOPLE STANDING UNTIL NINE THIRTY TURNED AWAY THOUSANDS EXCELLENT REVIEWS DALLAS NEWS SAYS NEW SOUND TREATMENT MAKES IT ONE OF IMPORTANT RELEASES OF SEASON

R J STINNETT
CAPITOL THEATRE
DALLAS TEXAS

Directed by LEWIS MILESTONE. Adapted by MAXWELL ANDERSON. Continuity by DEL ANDREWS. Titles by GEORGE ABBOTT. Associate Producer, CARL LAEMMLE, Jr. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE.

With

Louis Wolheim, Lewis Ayres, John Wray, Slim Summerville, William Bakewell, Scott Kolk, Walter Brown Rogers, Ben Alexander, Owen Davis, Jr.

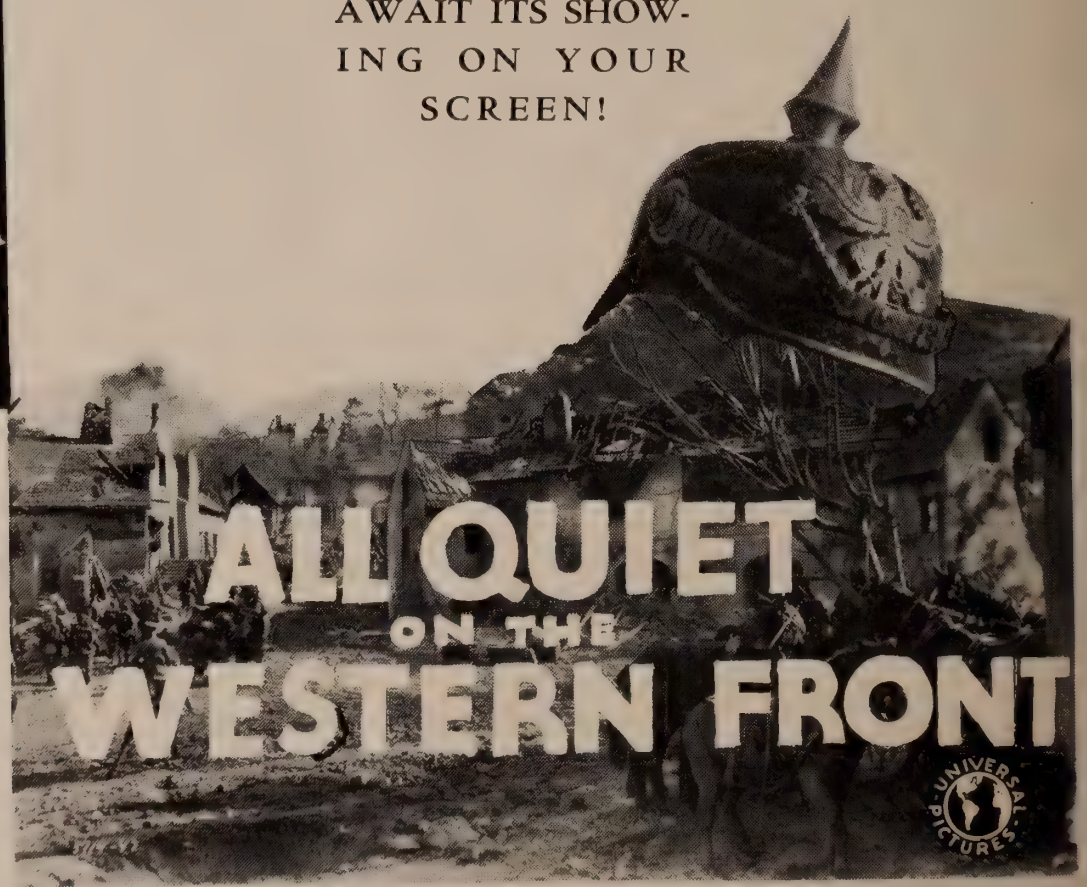
UNPARALLELED IN MODERN TIMES THE WORLD-SWEEPING SUCCESS OF THIS GREAT NOVEL

•

UNPARALLELED THE BOX-OFFICE POWER OF THIS EPIC OF WAR

•

TENS OF MILLIONS THROUGHOUT THE WORLD HAVE READ IT . . . TENS OF MILLIONS AWAIT ITS SHOWING ON YOUR SCREEN!



Published serially in the newspapers served by King Features, it is reaching 15,000,000 new readers with box-office power

ABLAZE

Laura

La PLANTE

and

John BOLES

in Carl Laemmle's great spectacle . . . a flaming tale of red revolt . . . the story of a towering love.

The thrilling tale of the birth of the world's most stirring song.

A Universal Production, with stirring music and songs by Charles Wakefield Cadman. A Paul Fejos Production from the story by Houston W. Branch. With Lucien Littlefield.

"La Marseillaise"

There's Nothing

No. 674—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

HAVE you heard Graham McNamee's marvelous work in his very first Talking Reporter job?

Isn't it a knockout?

Did you ever dream that the screen could give you the living, breathing, lifting voice of the world's most famous radio announcer in such perfect tone and naturalness?

Didn't you get a glorious kick out of it when McNamee described the news events with all the verve and pep and color that he puts into his radio announcements?

Mind you, this is the very first time he ever acted as Universal's Talking Reporter and he took to it as a duck takes to water.

There's absolutely nothing like Universal's Talking Reporter on the screen. It is the new and sensational thing of the day, despite its absolute simplicity.

How the audiences prick up their ears when they first hear that familiar voice! How they grin and laugh when McNamee injects into his talk some of those little human touches which have made him the outstanding man of radio!

Like It Anywhere!

They DID want him to make good on this new job of his, and when he not only made good but went away beyond their hopes, they were tickled to pieces!

If you have not booked the Universal Talking Reporter newsreel, you are—to put it plainly—behind the times.

Remember, this is the only sound newsreel in which you get the amazing speed of the best silent newsreel plus the sound effects and the vivid word of mouth description by McNamee.

We don't give you subjects from the back sections of a Sunday newspaper supplement. We give you the live, red-hot news right on the heels of its actual occurrence.

The best, smartest and biggest theatres in the world are going to feature Universal's Talking Reporter and Graham McNamee.

How about you? Can you possibly be satisfied with anything but the very best?

The landslide

Morrison Theatre	Alliance	Ohio
State Theatre	Toledo	"
Robbins Theatre	Warren	"
Strand Theatre	Canton	"
Regent Theatre	Saginaw	Michigan
Strand Theatre	Battle Creek	"
Publix Theatre	Macon	Georgia
Harris Theatre	Pittsburgh	Pennsylvania
Liberty Theatre	North Bend	Oregon
Globe Theatre	Albany	"
Star Theatre	Weiser	Idaho
Columbia Theatre	Longview	Washington
Alcazar Theatre	Dothan	Alabama
Capitol Theatre	Shreveport	Louisiana
Crystal Theatre	Pittsburg	Texas
Texon Theatre	Texon	"
Rialto Theatre	Brownfield	"
Queen Theatre	Hearne	"
Palace Theatre	Arlington	"
Arcadia Theatre	Baytown	"
Regal Theatre	Gatesville	"
Colonial Theatre	Clarksville	"
Victory Theatre	Carthage	"
American Theatre	Bonham	"
Hippodrome Theatre	Commerce	"
Patriot Theatre	DeKalb	"
Lyric Theatre	Big Springs	"
Mission Theatre	Sulphur Springs	"
Majestic Theatre	Dublin	"
Palace Theatre	Royse City	"
Dalsec Theatre	Dallas	"
Peak Theatre	Dallas	"
National Theatre	Graham	"
Queen Theatre	Celina	"
Liberty Theatre	DeLeon	"
Strand Theatre	Gorman	"
Majestic Theatre	Comanche	"
Texan Theatre	Goose Creek	"
Grand Theatre	Cooper	"
Hippodrome Theatre	Dallas	"
Titus Theatre	Mt. Pleasant	"
Amusu Theatre	Winnsboro	"
Colonial Theatre	Clarksville	"
Palace Theatre	Sweetwater	"
Palace Theatre	Hillsboro	"
Ritz Theatre	San Angelo	"
Palace Theatre	Cisco	"
Ritz Theatre	McKinney	"
Strand Theatre	Livingston	Montana
Broadway Theatre	Butte	"
Bluebird Theatre	Anaconda	"
Rialto Theatre	Glendive	"
Liberty Theatre	Kellogg	"
Liberty Theatre	Wallace	"
Liberty Theatre	Coeur d'Alene	"
Orpheum Theatre	Plentywood	"
Liberty Theatre	Miles City	"
Rialto Theatre	Deer Lodge	"
Lyceum Theatre	Winnipeg	Canada
Venetian Theatre	Racine	Wisconsin
Kenosha Theatre	Kenosha	"
Grand Theatre	Newberry	Michigan
Rivoli Theatre	Two Rivers	Wisconsin
Ispheming Theatre	Ispheming	Michigan
Garrick Theatre	Fondulac	Wisconsin
Ideal Theatre	Wisconsin Rapids	Wisconsin
Missouri Theatre	St. Louis	Missouri

Orpheum Theatre	E. St. Louis	Illinois
Strand Theatre	Carmi	"
Lyric Theatre	Moweaqua	"
Dixie Theatre	New Madrid	Missouri
Lyric Theatre	Casey	Illinois
American Theatre	Marthasville	Missouri
Grand Theatre	Oakland	Illinois
Palace Theatre	South Bend	Indiana
Tivoli Theatre	Mishawaka	"
Capitol Theatre	Chicago	Illinois
Lafayette Theatre	Buffalo	"
Capitol Theatre	Elmira	New York
Temple Theatre	Ithaca	"
Symphony Theatre	Binghamton	"
Palace Theatre	Alburn	"
Fox Olympic Theatre	Watertown	"
Fox Liberty Theatre	Herkimer	"
Fox Palace Theatre	Oneonta	"
Fox Hippodrome Theatre	Gloversville	"
Star Theatre	Hulson	"
Fox Rialto Theatre	Little Falls	"
Strand Theatre	Rome	"
Garden Theatre	Hibbing	Minnesota
Grand Theatre	St. Cloud	"
People's Theatre	Superior	Wisconsin
Lyric Theatre	Duluth	Minnesota
State Theatre	Hibbing	"
Metropolitan Theatre	Grand Forks	North Dakota
State Theatre	Willmar	Minnesota
Temple Theatre	Welch	West Virginia
Imperial Theatre	Zanesville	Ohio
Casino Theatre	Sac City	Iowa
Rialto Theatre	Pocahontas	"
Lyric Theatre	Osceola	"
Ritz Theatre	Centerville	"
Graham Theatre	Washington	"
Strand Theatre	Newton	"
Princess Theatre	Boone	"
Forest Theatre	Forest City	"
Earle Theatre	Carroll	"
Amuzu Theatre	Scranton	"
Rialto Theatre	Bedford	"
Strand Theatre	Westfield	Massachusetts
Strand Theatre	Holyoke	"
Palace Theatre	Pittsfield	"
Plaza Theatre	Northampton	"
Colonial Garden	Greenfield	"
State Theatre	Portland	Maine
Strand Theatre	Lewiston	"
O. H. Theatre	Millinocket	"
Strand Theatre	Rockland	"
Princess Theatre	Berlin	N. Hampshire
Powers Theatre	Caribou	Maine
O. H. Theatre	Skowhegan	"
Strand Theatre	Madison	"
Strand Theatre	Hanover	Pennsylvania
Arcadia Theatre	Reading	"
Hollywood	Pottsville	"
Opera House	York	"
Dunkin Theatre	Cushing	"
Dome Theatre	Lawton	Oklahoma
Texas Theatre	Alice	"
Beltonian Theatre	Belton	Texas
Palace Theatre	Georgetown	"
Colonial Theatre	Hondo	"
Sedalia Theatre	Sedalia	"
Miller Theatre	Jefferson City	Missouri
Uptown Theatre	Junction City	"
Lyceum Theatre	Winnipeg	Kansas
Starland Theatre	Winnipeg	Canada
College Theatre	Winnipeg	"
Rialto Theatre	Washington	"
Rivoli Theatre	Baltimore	Maryland
Moon Theatre	Yankton	South Dakota
Granada Theatre	Sioux Falls	" "
Grand Theatre	Howard	" "
Glud Theatre	Viborg	" "
Gem Theatre	Woonsocket	" "
Royal Theatre	Sibley	Iowa
Egyptian Theatre	Ogden	Utah
Lyceum Theatre	Winnipeg	Canada
Rialto Theatre	Pueblo	Colorado
America Theatre	Colorado Springs	Colorado

GREATER UNIVERSAL'S NEW SE starts at the top!

Isn't it uncanny how the news of a hit spreads like wildfire from coast to coast! Even before HELL'S HEROES struck the Colony Theater like a streak of golden lightning and rolled up a New York gross that made Broadway blink, the big fellows could FEEL that a box-office whopper was on the way like a steam roller to crush all opposition and crack house records wide open! The big boys, blessed with that amazing instinct known as showmanship, began to sign the date line before the raves were off the press . . . and a few days later the heap of HELL'S HEROES bookings made Universal's contract office look like a blizzard. Smart showmen all over the country are warming their inside pockets with HELL'S HEROES dates. We print the names of a few of the hundreds who were fast enough to stake off a first run claim on the big show:

HELL'S HEROES

PETER B. KYNE'S first story in sound. With Charles Bickford, Raymond Hatton, Fred Kohler, Fritzi Ridgeway, Maria Alba. Directed by William Wyler.

Presented by CARL LAEMMLE.

LING SEASON STARTS NOW

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors

Paul Gulick — Editor

PUBLISHED BY THE
— MOTION PICTURE WEEKLY PUBLISHING COMPANY — HECKSCHER BUILDING —
730-5th AVE. — NEW YORK CITY

Copyright 1930 UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION All Rights Reserved

Vol. XXX JANUARY 25, 1930 No. 25

UNIVERSAL MOVIEGRAMS

JEAN LANG, "America's sweetheart of the air," whose personality has stamped her as an exceptional radio artist, has been placed under long-term contract by Carl Laemmle, Jr. It was her work in "The King of Jazz" which demonstrated her adaptability to the screen as well as to the radio.

THE constant rains at Universal City as well as throughout California have given the George Sidney and Charlie Murray Company, making "The Cohen and Kellys in Scotland," a unique opportunity to incorporate characteristic Scotland atmosphere in their current "Cohen and Kelly" production. William James Craft has devised a new name for this atmospheric effect, which may become part of the nomenclature of California weather, which is already quite encyclopaedic. The new name is Scotch Mist.

BEFORE Henry La Cossitt went west on a long-time writing contract with Universal, he endeavored to get into Sing Sing for a week. Failing in this, he finally obtained admission at St. Quentin, without having committed any crime. His object was the study of prison conditions at first hand. He is writing the adaptation and dialogue of the story that Leon Abrams wrote six months ago for Universal, entitled "Jail Break."

EDWARD LAEMMLE, whose latest production for Universal was "The Drake Case," has been assigned to the direction of the Warner Fabian story, "What Men Want." Mary Nolan will undoubtedly play the leading role.

"King of Jazz" Song Hit Earns Jeanette Loff Contract

Carl Laemmle, Jr., Places Beautiful Blonde Under Long-Term Universal Contract and Gives Her Four More Numbers in "King of Jazz," in Which Paul Whiteman Is Starring Under the Direction of John Murray Anderson

JEANETTE LOFF, a product of Denmark and Norway via Idaho and Canada, is to become a Universal star. Though she has been in pictures since 1926, when she appeared atmospherically in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and in "The Collegians," it remained for the opportunity which one song in "The King of Jazz" gave her for this talented girl to demonstrate her unique and compelling ability. After this song had been seen and heard on the Universal City screen, it was the unanimous opinion of Carl Laemmle, Jr., John Murray Anderson and Paul Whiteman, and all who heard her, that here was a "find." The next day Carl Laemmle, Jr. placed Miss Loff under a long-term contract and also gave her four more numbers to do in "The King of Jazz" picture.

JEANETTE LOFF

There is every reason why, in the talking picture age, Jeanette Loff should become a great star. In the "B. T. P." era, Jeanette was a charming photographic personality, but so were thousands of other girls walking around Hollywood. But talking pictures disclosed in her a voice and a musical ability and education which immediately made her one thousand percent effective on the screen.

Neither does Jeanette Loff lack experience of the silent screen or of the talkies. Coming to Los Angeles from Portland, where she had finished her musical education at the Ellison and White Conservatory of Music, specializing in the pipe organ and voice culture, in 1926, Miss Loff immediately was advised to go on the screen. This was not so easy. She registered at casting offices and saw the casting directors of all of the companies. During this trying period she played small bits in "Uncle Tom's Cabin,"

(Continued on page 22)

GENE TOWNE is adapting to the talking screen for Universal "The Little Accident," the stage play by Floyd Dell and Thomas Mitchell. "The Little Accident," which will be made as an all-star feature production, is still playing SRO engagements with two companies on tour.

This peaceful golf scene is the first still from "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland." George Sidney decides that he doesn't like the game anyway. It takes all of Charlie Murray's self-control not to hit Sidney while he's down.

CARL LAEMMLE BEGINS 21st YEAR

Editorial Reprinted from Greater Amusements

THE NEW YEAR marks the beginning of Carl Laemmle's 21st in the motion picture industry—as an independent. Competitor-producrs have put away business animosities and are giving him credit, and although the sledding has been tough at times, persistence has won a firm position in the motion picture world for Carl Laemmle—again as an independent. There is a moral in this twenty-year battle that independent exhibitors may well examine. Shrewd business will tide anyone over the roughest of periods and when the industry is as capable of financial returns as is the motion picture industry persistence is well worth while. The fight has led to parley and out of the parley may come victory, but large system or not, there is always room for the real independent. Carl Laemmle won out and is honored. To follow in his footsteps in a small way might be a fine highway for showmen to travel.

T. E. Mortensen.

Vivid War Scenes from Universal's

Louis Wolheim as the hard-boiled, food-rustling Kat adds another little implement to the marching equipment of Tjaden, portrayed by Slim Summerville.

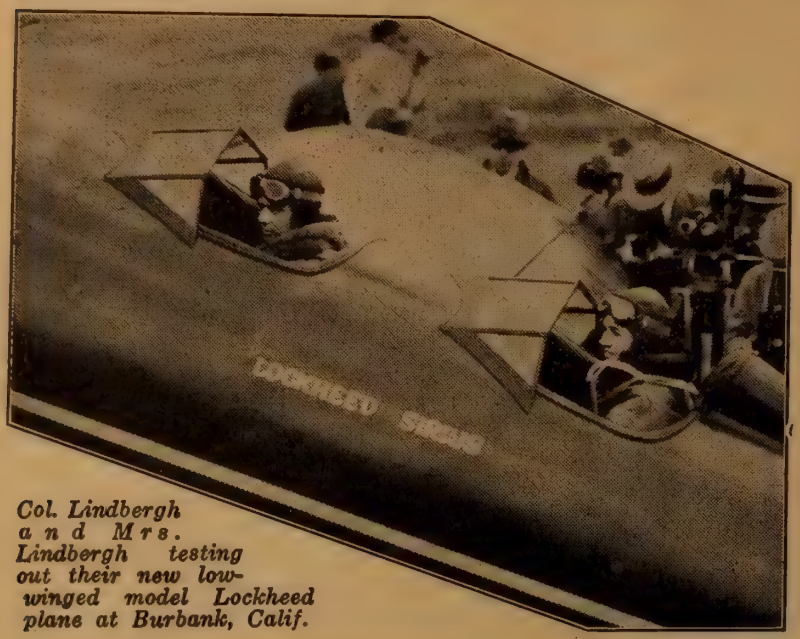
Erich Maria Remarque's picture of the war comes to life on the screen, under the direction of Lewis Milestone. Realistic scene of a German ambulance being loaded at a village under shell fire.

"All Quiet on the Western Front"

Smouldering with resentment, the seven comrades do all the polishing jobs of the company which the tyrannical Himmelstoss shoves on to them for discipline.

Corporal Himmelstoss, portrayed by John Wray, putting Paul Baumer, (Lewis Ayres) through the humiliation of making his bed fourteen times before it suits the bullying drill sergeant.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL



Col. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh testing out their new low-winged model Lockheed plane at Burbank, Calif.

This very modern baby, Robert James Althouse, of Elmhurst, Long Island, was christened by the Rev. Mead, over the Holmes Airport in a plane, attended by his proud parents

A new sport, with no rivals in the field, was introduced by a Florida daredevil who braves alligators in the Miami waters as an auto tows his aquaplane

American delegation to the naval arms conference. Left to right: Dwight W. Morrow, Sec'y of Navy Adams, Sec'y of State Stimson, Senator Robinson of Arkansas and Senator Reed of Pennsylvania.

B.O.
B.O.LES
B.O.

EVEN THE NAME spells box-office!

Fresh from romantic triumphs in 'Rio Rita' and 'Desert Song,' he comes to you singing in

MOONLIGHT MADNESS

and

THE SONG OF PASSION

Presented by CARL LAEMMLE

GREATER UNIVERSAL'S NEW SELLING SEASON STARTS NOW!

"Greater Amusements" Pays Tribute To Carl Laemmle's 21st Anniversary

(Reprinted from Greater Amusements, January 10, 1930)

IN view of the fact that Carl Laemmle's twenty years as a motion picture producer are being celebrated this month, the story of the oldest living Universal director is an interesting and pertinent thing. This story has never appeared before and was written especially for Greater Amusements.

William F. Haddock, "Silent Bill," as he is known far and wide in the industry, is now secretary of the Motion Picture Directors' Association. He has written this tribute to Carl Laemmle as his own contribution toward the celebration of his twenty years of production activity.

By WILLIAM F. HADDOCK

Secretary Motion Picture Directors' Association.

At the time Mr. Carl Laemmle organized the Independent Motion Picture Co. to produce pictures under the trade name of "IMP," the first director he engaged was William Ranous, who had been for several years with Vitagraph in Flatbush. The next to be engaged was Harry Salter, who had been with Griffith at the Biograph. At the same time he engaged Florence Lawrence (Mrs. Salter), previously known as "The Biograph Girl," to become the first "IMP" star. I was the third director engaged and as my two predecessors have passed to The Great Beyond, I have been honored with a request from Greater Amusements to contribute a short chapter to the Life of Carl Laemmle and I do most assuredly consider it an honor.

It was in February, 1910, when Thomas Cochrane, the then general manager of the IMP Co., engaged me, upon the recommendation of Alfred Saunders, editor and publishers of Motion Picture News.

The office and laboratory were at 111 East 14th St., and the studio was a one stage affair, and a small one at that, fitted up in an old brewery on 57th St., near Tenth Ave.

The little stock company at the studio was made up of Florence Lawrence, Anita Hendrie (Mrs. David Miles), King Daily, Bob Daily, J. Farrell McDonald and David Miles.

I added to the list George Loane Tucker, afterwards one of the great est directors the industry ever had; John C. Brownell, for several years scenario editor for Universal and F. O. B. (now RKO), and Miss Hazel Neason, who afterwards married Mr.

After twenty years which dawned with the production of "Hiawatha," Carl Laemmle presents Graham McNamee, greatest radio broadcaster, as Talking Reporter of the Universal Newspaper Newsreel. This picture shows McNamee at a personal appearance at the New York Strand Theatre.

A. E. Smith of the Vitagraph Co.

A man with only one tooth has no more troubles trying to eat corn on the cob than we had at that period. The Patents Co. and General Film Co. —"Old General Filmco," as Mr. Laemmle termed them—were suing all the independent production companies for camera patent infringements. Consequently our cameras were many and varied—everything from the old Gaumont beater type to the Schneider perforating camera. No matter what style or make we used, it was concealed when in the studio, in a 10 x 12 compo board house in which only the camera man was allowed, and when on location we had a guard of two men mhose duty it was to keep away inquisitive investigators. As these two men received an extra $5 any day they had a fight, it can readily be seen that excitement was not lacking.

To add to our troubles and tribulations, the cameras we used were far from perfect. I remember one picture that was shot at the rate of about two scenes per day. The routine was something like this: rehearse a scene and take it; rehearse the next and start to take that.

Bang! Camera out of order and downtown it would go to a machine shop for repairs.

Rehearse the balance of the scenes to be made in that set and then shoot craps or play poker until the camera came back and that was usually not until late afternoon or early evening. Then take one more shot and go home.

Just ditto this for the balance of the picture and you have the story.

Negative stock at that time was also hard to procure. Eastman film could not be bought at all times and the only other make obtainable was not very satisfactory, but we kept on hoping for the breaks, not so much for ourselves as for "that game little Guy," as we called Mr. Laemmle, "who always comes up smiling." And that is one thing Carl Laemmle always did, no matter how hard the knocks were either in patent suits, camera troubles or the disappointment of discovering false friends. He always had a smile for "his family," as he called those who were working for him, and while he would not have been human not to be discouraged at times, he never let us know it, nor did he ever find fault with the cost of a picture, although he needed every cent he could get to use in his fight for the "independents."

Mr. Laemmle was the first producer to pay what at that time were considered exorbitant salaries and was the first to send his stars away from New York for personal appearances to aid exhibitors. In the spring of 1910 he sent Florence Lawrence and King Baggot to St. Louis for a one night appearance. He was, I believe, the first producer to show a picture in theatres the same day it was taken. This last he did upon the occasion of former President Roosevelt's return from Africa. His camera men pictured the arrival of the former president at the Battery, the parade up 5th Avenue and the wonderful enthusiasm of the crowds, and that evening the

(Continued on page 22)

MARY NOLAN

The screen's most beautiful star has the world at her feet and the box-office by the tail . . . because she's got what you have to have in these three blue-flame specials:

SHANGHAI LADY
BARBARY COAST
UNDERTOW

"Shanghai Lady" — with James Murray. A John Robertson Production. From the play by John Colton, (author of "Rain.") "Undertow"—with JOHN MACK BROWN, Robert Ellis, Audrey Ferris, Churchill Ross. Story by Wilbur Daniel Steele. A Harry Pollard Production. Presented by

CARL LAEMMLE

GREATER UNIVERSAL'S NEW SELLING SEASON STARTS NOW!

UNIVERSAL'S "BIG THREE" SIGNALIZE NEW ERA IN PRODUCTION HISTORY

"All Quiet On the Western Front"; Paul Whiteman in John Murray Anderson's "King of Jazz"; and "La Marseillaise" In Work At One Time; Laemmle Sees Age of "Sound Specialization."

WITH three super productions of spectacle size in work at the same time, Universal has entered a new era in production history.

In former years, the company has produced one or two supers a season, such as "The Phantom of the Opera" and "Uncle Tom's Cabin," but never before has it undertaken the simultaneous filming of three great pictures, each of distinct individuality and requiring tremendous resources, equipment and talent to make.

This departure by Universal means, according to Carl Laemmle, not merely industry leadership in the making of sound and dialogue pictures on the biggest possible scale, but also marks the real advent of specialization in sound.

The productions, termed by Universal as its "Big Three" for 1930, now under way at the Coast are:

"All Quiet on the Western Front," from the novel by Erich Maria Remarque, which Lewis Milestone is directing, with a cast headed by Louis Wolheim, Lewis Ayres and John Wray, and including Slim Summerville, William Bakewell, Ben Alexander, Walter Browne Rogers, Owen Davis, Jr., Russell Gleason, Arnold Lucy, Joan Marsh, Yola D'Avril, Renee Damonde and Poupee Andriot.

Paul Whiteman in John Murray Anderson's "King of Jazz," with John Boles, and a cast that includes favorites of the musical comedy stage, in addition to all the Universal stars, who will do special numbers.

"La Marseillaise," starring Laura La Plante and John Boles, under the direction of Paul Fejos in the story by Houston Branch. Original music by Charles Wakefield Cadman.

"Any one of the pictures would, in the past, have been considered a sufficient undertaking for a single year by any big producer," Mr. Laemmle said, "but these are new times, requiring increased effort and expenditure to meet new and bigger box office demands.

"Not only are we breaking all past records in the production of three huge pictures at once, but we are also specializing in the type of picture we are making to a degree never before undertaken. Sound demands specialization. You can't rely on the mechanical novelty of sound, but you must utilize its wonders to the full in the making of pictures that are sharp and distinct in their individuality. The bigger the production, the more specialized and distinctive it must be!"

"All Quiet on the Western Front," Mr. Laemmle pointed out, is the grim réalism of war.

"King of Jazz" is musical extravaganza.

"La Marseillaise" is the romantic story of the birth of a song which started a revolution.

"All are big in production values and in scope, but each is individual in story and treatment," said Laemmle.

"They are specialized productions," he continued, "and big in spectacular effects, all of them."

"SKINNER STEPS OUT" CLICKS WITH LOS ANGELES CRITICS

UNIVERSAL'S latest comedy exploiting the amusing achievements of that likable team, Glenn Tryon and Merna Kennedy, proved a laugh hit at the Million Dollar Theatre in Los Angeles during the Christmas holidays. "Skinner Steps Out" is a typical vacation picture, crammed with humor and light entertainment. The critics tell the story in the following reviews:

LOS ANGELES EVENING HERALD

The picture can be recommended as good comedy. . . . Several of the gag situations are extremely funny, especially when Skinner asks for a raise, and where he auctions a dog at the bazaar.

ILLUSTRATED DAILY NEWS
By Rachel Rubin

William Henry Skinner bought a dress suit. Around this incident is woven the web of delicious humor that makes "Skinner Steps Out," Universal farce comedy now at the Million Dollar theatre, a rare achievement.

Merna Kennedy, in the role of Honey Skinner, is piquant and appealing. Her portrayal of the gentle, but firm young wife is superbly done.

The epitome of all young couples whose struggles for business and social recognition leads them into innumerable difficulties, the story of the Skinners is replete with comic situations of the highest order.

Burr McIntosh as the hard-hearted boss, deserves special commendation, as do E. J. Ratcliffe and Lloyd Whitlock of the supporting cast. Admirable direction by William James Craft is evidenced in the handling of comic situations.

LOS ANGELES EVENING HERALD

There is a certain variety of farcical comedy that, no matter what title it may be served under, is, as a rule, dependable for a good round of laughs.

"Skinner Steps Out," which stepped onto the Million Dollar screen last evening as one of the Yuletide gifts to the local Rialto, is in such a category.

With its new title, plus the addition of sound and with Glenn Tryon as Skinner, and the same dress suit conspicuous, the story still manages to be an entertaining concoction of comical situations.

RIDE IT FOR ALL YOU'RE WORTH!

BECAUSE IT'S CRAMMED WITH GRIPPING DRAMA AND SWELLING HEART THROBS!

"Thrills galore!"
—says M. P. News.

With
EDW. G. ROBINSON,
star of the stage play, "THE KIBITZER," and beautiful Barbara Kent, Harold Lloyd's latest leading lady. A John Robertson Production from the story by Henry La Cossit.

JOSEPH SCHILDKRAUT in NIGHT RIDE

GREATER UNIVERSAL'S NEW SELLING SEASON STARTS NOW!

CARL LAEMMLE'S TALKING AND SINGING TRIUMPH. A HARRY POLLARD Production. From EDNA FERBER'S great novel. With Laura La Plante, Joseph Schildkraut, Otis Harlan, Alma Rubens, Emily Fitzroy, Jane La Verne. Directed silent and movietone, by Harry Pollard. Synchronized score by Joseph Cherniavsky. Music from Florenz Ziegfeld's production.

BR

"ONE OF THE GREATEST PICTURES I HAVE EVER SEEN. RECORDING PERFECT." — Amusu Theatre, Bude, Miss.; "SHOW BOAT SET NEW HOUSE RECORD!"—Granad Theatre, Indianapolis; "THE PICTURE IS ALREADY SOLD. JUST TELL THEM THE DATES AND YOU WILL SEE PEOPLE YOU NEVER SAW BEFORE!"—Panama Theatre, Panama City, Fla.; "UNBELIEVABLE BUISNESS. TURNING AWAY HUNDREDS!" —Republic Theatre, Washington, D.C.; "BROKE ALL RECORDS FOR ALL TIME IN THIS CITY!"—Lea Richmond, Charleston, S. C.; "UNPARALLELED BIG MONEY! JAMMED HOUSE APPLAUDED!"—Macdonald Theatre, Eugene, Ore.; "'SHOW BOAT' BREAKS K. C. TOP! PRACTICALLY SOLD OUT AT ALL TIMES!" — Royal Theatre, Kansas City (Variety report); "SMASHED ALL RECORDS. GREATEST CROWD CHEERED, APPLAUDED!" — Picadilly Theatre, Rochester, N. Y.; "CRASHED ALL RECORDS HERE!" — William M. Shirley, Schenectady, N. Y.; "RECORD FOR MY HOUSE. 'SINGING FOOL HELD RECORD TO DATE!"—Sidney M. Nutt, Hot Springs, Ark. "ALL RECORDS SMASHED!"—Capitol Theatre, Dallas, Texas.

They Just Keep

SHOW BO

OADWAY

rolling along!

"RECORD BREAKING BUSINESS!"—Ray Dachman, Rialto Theatre, Tuscon, Ariz.; "CAPACITY BUSINESS.—Alhambra, Milwaukee; "RECORD BUSINESS MR. LAEMMLE, MY CONGRATULATIONS" — Midway Theatre, Rockford, Ill.; RECORD BUSINESS AT OUR NEW WARNER'S THEATRE AT ATLANTIC CITY!"—S. P. Skouras, Stanley Co. of America; "BROADWAY OPENED MANCHESTER (England) SMASHING ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS. CAPACITY 1000 —PLAYED TO 4400 PEOPLE!" — James V. Bryson; "TREMENDOUS OPENING. TRAFFIC TIED UP TWO HOURS. POLICE RIOT CALL CLEAR STREET!"—Warner Grand Theatre, Pittsburgh; "BROKE WEEK-END RECORD ON SECOND RUN!"—Colony Theatre, N. Y.; "ESTABLISHED NEW RECORD!"—Capitol Theatre, Salt Lake City; "BROKE ALL SUNDAY RECORDS!"—Ocean Theatre, Asbury Park, N. J.; "BROKE ALL EXISTING RECORDS!"—Lyceum Theatre, Winnipeg; "TREMENDOUS BUSINESS. TURNED AWAY HUNDREDS!"—Rivoli Theatre, Baltimore.

CARL LAEMMLE'S Million Candle Power Picture with GLENN TRYON, EVELYN BRENT, Merna Kennedy, T. E. Jackson, Otis Harlan, Robert Ellis, Paul Porcasi, Leslie Fenton, eBtty Francisco. From Jed Harris' stage production of the play by Philip Dunning and eGo. Abbott. Directed by PAUL FEJOS. A CARL LAEMMLE, Jr. Production. 2 Negatives: 1 SILENT, 1 DIALOG. Color Scenes by Technicolor.

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

AT

The BIG laugh is coming!

Carl Laemmle Presents

DAMES AHOY!

IT WILL SHIVER YOUR BOX-OFFICE TIMBERS!

With

GLENN TRYON

Otis Harlan
Eddie Gribbon

Gertrude Astor
Helen Wright

Directed by William James Craft from the story by Sherman Lowe

A Universal Picture

What chance have three helpless sailors got of escaping the wiles of Gertrude Astor?

Circle: Glenn Tryon and Helen Wright as the principals in the uproarious comedy.

Glenn spoils Gertrude Astor's sob scene.

Alert and able seaman are Eddie Gribbon, Glenn Tryon and Otis Harlan.

Glenn Tryon giving a hand-up to Helen Wright in a situation more exciting than an elopement.

McNamee Conquers Movies Same as He Did Radio

Talking Reporter With Universal Newsreel Now Being Heard at Four Major New York Theatres—

(Reprinted by Courtesy of Evening World)

By George Gerhard

GRAHAM McNAMEE, world's premier broadcaster, has succeeded beyond expectations in adding another important quiver to his bow. For "the best known voice in the world" is now an established part of the movies, being heard as it is in The Evening World-Universal Newsreel.

About a month ago Mr. McNamee began commenting upon the varied entries in the Universal Newsreel, comment which brought out their points of interest and which infinitely enhanced their entertainment value. We have heard him in two of these issues and now we are listed among those moviegoers who look forward from week to week for his voice.

Graham McNamee, of course, needs no introduction. Everybody who has ever listened to a radio recognizes his voice instantly, and, who among radio fans have not been moved by his description of a football game, a World's Series, a political convention or any other event of importance? He has broadcast every important news event in the past seven years, and now he brings his humor, and wit and his crystal-like clarity to newscasting upon the screen.

The Universal Newsreel has been shown for weeks by the Colony and the Little Carnegie Theatres. But this week the two Strands, Manhattan and Brooklyn, include it in their programs and in conjunction with it Mr. McNamee made personal appearances during the week at those houses.

Yes, it's now "Around the World with Graham McNamee," and, boy, what a conductor he is!

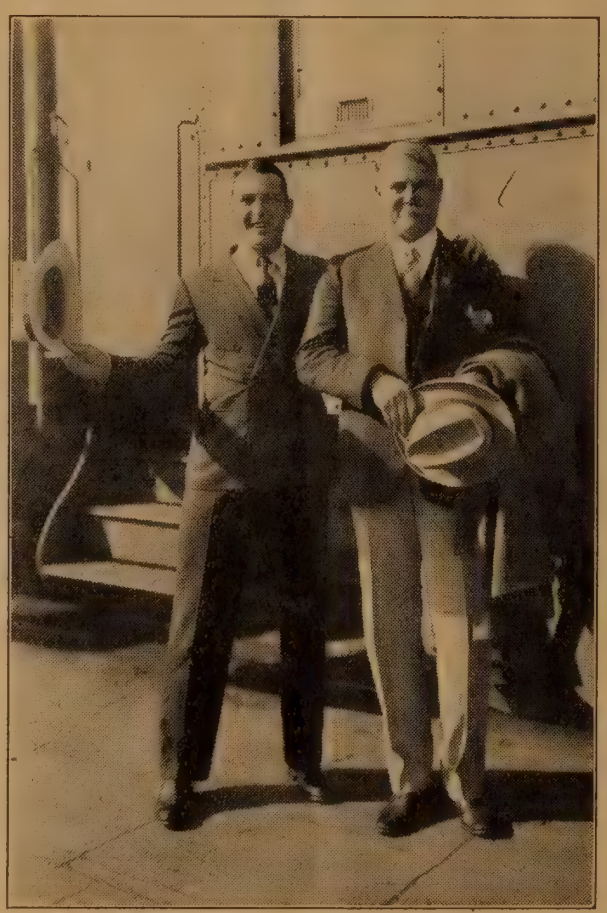
Towne Adapting "Little Accident"

GENE TOWNE is adapting "The Little Accident" to the talking screen for Universal.

This stage play by Floyd Dell and Thomas Mitchell, which will be made as an all-star feature motion picture picture production, has two companies still on tour playing to capacity houses.

Laemmle Directs 'What Men Want'

EDWARD LAEMMLE, whose last production for Universal was "The Drake Case," has been assigned to the direction of the Warner Fabian story, "What Men Want." Mary Nolan will undoubtedly play the leading role.



Ken Maynard, who has just finished "The Fighting Legion" for Universal, greets his father, William H. Maynard of Columbus, Indiana, upon his arrival in Los Angeles

Jean Lang Signed For "King of Jazz"

JEAN LANG, "America's sweetheart of the air," has been signed by Carl Laemmle, Jr., to a long term contract as a result of her work in "King of Jazz," the pretentious musical spectacle starring Paul Whiteman and his orchestra which John Murray Anderson is directing for Universal.

Known to radio audiences throughout the country through her appearances on national radio programs, Miss Lang has become immensely popular for her "personality" songs.

"U" Ass't Sales Mgr. Back from Coast Trip

HARRY TAYLOR, assistant general sales manager for Universal, with supervision over Western exchanges, has returned to New York from an extended trip to the Coast. In San Francisco he conducted the third of the conventions which inaugurated the new Universal selling season.

Ted Schlanger, assistant general sales manager with jurisdiction in the East, is now on a trip which will take him to all the exchange centers of the Eastern States.

Both Schlanger and Taylor report that exhibitors are almost unanimously in favor of the new Universal selling season plan.

"Shannons of Broadway" Best Bet

Says Weekly Film Review

THE story concerns a stranded vaudeville team in a New England village. Their time cancelled, they decide to buy the village hotel, get mixed up in a young couple's love affair and a bum steer on an aviation terminal proposition. A neat comedy concoction with the Gleasons doing some fine characterizations. Jimmie Gleason wisecracks his way through the footage for plenty of laughs and the human touches are nicely blended. It's a nifty piece of merchandise that sends the customers away smiling and satisfied and should prove to be a safe bet anywhere.—Spatz.

As a silent picture it was tremendous—but now magnified, glorified, immortalized with dialogue, music and technicolor, it is a veritable shower of gold!

The Phantom of the Opera

At the Oriental in Detroit it rang up $10,000 the first two days. . . . Big for this house. . . . Big for YOUR house!

LON CHANEY'S

Greatest sensational role

With Norman Kerry and Mary Philbin.
From the novel by Gaston Leroux.
Presented by CARL LAEMMLE

(Sound on disc only)

GREATER UNIVERSAL'S NEW SELLING SEASON STARTS NOW!

NEWSIES MEET 'HELL'S HEROES'

—By a Wisconsin News Staff Photographer.

MARCH TO SEE ALHAMBRA PICTURE

About 1,200 Wisconsin News carrier boys were guests of the Alhambra theater today at a special showing of the new picture, "Hell's Heroes," now running. The picture was taken as the marching column of newsies reached the theater from the Wisconsin News building. The youngsters gave vociferous approval of the Universal film which they described as a "wow."

Manager Fred S. Meyer drew Milwaukee's attention to the run of Universal's "Hell's Heroes" by inviting over a thousand newsboys to the Alhambra to see the red-blooded Peter B. Kyne picture

"Hell's Heroes" Recommended As Among Best New Talkies

IN accord with the unanimous praise which the New York critics showered upon "Hell's Heroes" is the following review which appeared recently in Today in New York:

"Hell's Heroes," a tale of three bad men, and a child in the desert is an all-talkie, and a surprisingly good one. The sound reproduction is well nigh perfect, the acting sustained and of a very high order, Charles Bickford, as the meanest of three bad men, gives the outstanding performance in the picture, which is a Peter B. Kyne story. A fine actor, Bickford, with his shock of red hair. The picture is held over from last week, and one can readily understand its popularity. If we are to have talkies then by all means let us have good ones.

"Hell's Heroes" is one of the very few good ones we have seen, since this new medium has been devised. The temptation to ring the melodramatic welkin, was clearly overcome by the better judgment of the directors. The speech of the several actors, even the minor ones, is reproduced with bell-like clarity, and the photography being excellent, I recommend this as one of the pictures worth seeing.

21st ANNIVERSARY TRIBUTE TO LAEMMLE

(Continued from page 20)

independent theatres in New York had the picture on exhibition.

Success seeming an easy thing to obtain, I, like many others of those engaged in the industry at the time, and even today, became intoxicated with my own ego.

Instead of following the advice of the man whose soundness of judgment has been so unquestionably proven, I felt that I had other and greater worlds to conquer in this new field of entertainment, little realizing that by leaving the association of Mr. Laemmle I was voluntarily unhitching the wagon of my career from a future star of the first magnitude.

I left the IMP Co. to go with Melies and was followed by Frances Powers; and, soon after, Mary Pickford and the late Thomas H. Ince were added to the roster.

From the time he entered the business Mr. Laemmle never took a backward step: first, the IMP Company, then the Independent Sales Co., and then Universal — each greater than the one which preceded it and through it all he wore the same friendly smile, the same size hat and had the same cordial shake of the hand for his friends.

"Jazz" Song Earns Universal Contract For Jeanette Loff

(Continued from page 6)

"Young April," "The Collegians" and even made a great impression on Cecil B. DeMille, for whom she made "My Friend from India" and "Man Made Women." She also appeared in "Hold 'em Yale," "Annapolis," "Love Over Night," "The Sophomore," "The Racketeer" and "Party Girl," which is playing on Broadway now.

Jeanette Loff was born in Orofino, a little lumber center in the Idaho mountains. Her father, M. J. Loff, a Dane from Copenhagen, was a violinist and his daughter inherited all of his musical appreciation and ability. The mother was of Danish and Norwegian extraction. While Jeanette was still an infant, her parents moved to Wadena, a small city in the province of Saskatchewan, Canada. Here she was educated and trained in music and all kinds of athletics in which Canadian girls excel, such as skating, swimming, horse-back riding, snowshoeing and skiing. It was here, also, that she played the organ for the local moving picture theatre for a year, probably dreaming of appearing on the screen herself, but with no hope of such a future as now opens up for her through her Universal contract.

Miss Loff is five feet two inches tall, weighs one hundred and five pounds, has large, dark blue eyes and a profusion of golden hair, which she has never bobbed.

The scenes in which Jeanette Loff will appear in "The King of Jazz" are well designed to exploit her beauty and dramatic ability to the fullest extent. In the bridal sequence, Miss Loff, as she dreams of all the brides who have gone to the altar before her, is indescribably lovely in her trailing ivory satin.

"Follies" Comedian Arrives at Universal For "King of Jazz"

FRANK LESLIE, comedian of several of John Murray Anderson's "Greenwich Village Follies" and the Earl Carroll "Vanities" musical shows of New York, arrived at Universal yesterday to appear in featured specialties in "King of Jazz," starring Paul Whiteman, with John Boles featured.

The pretentious Universal all-sound and technicolor extravaganza, which is being directed by Anderson for Carl Laemmle, Jr., now is approximately half completed.

now

—now you can present the world's most famous radio broadcaster as the Talking Reporter in Universal Newsreel. . . . Now you can have an attraction in your newsreel never before equalled. . . . Now you can have the only newspaper newsreel with a direct newspaper tie-up . . . the only talking newsreel with real, up-to-the-minute NEWS . . . Plus newscasting the latest events. Warner Brothers booked it for their new Beacon Theatre, Broadway; for the N. Y. Strand; for the Brooklyn Strand, because, like thousands of other showmen, they know it's the greatest newsreel attraction on the market!

GRAHAM McNAMEE

Produced under the supervision of Sam B. Jacobson. By arrangement with National Broadcasting Company. Twice a week—on disc. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE.

UNIVERSAL'S TALKING NEWSREEL

When You Play Rooney and Rubin Comedies Cash In On Their Vaudeville Following

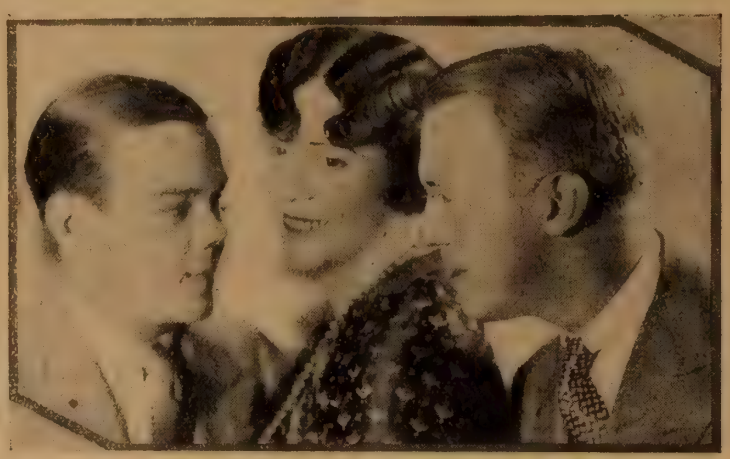
Smart Exhibitors Are Billing These Headliners in a Big Way

THERE are a lot of exhibitors who don't seem to realize even yet that Pat Rooney is one of the biggest box office draws in vaudeville. In whatever theatre he plays, he is given top billing and exceptional advertising on the part of the theatre. For instance, last week he was playing the Kenmore Theatre in Brooklyn, N. Y. The Kenmore advertises him like a circus, his name was a featured attraction on the marquee, and he had almost all of the billboard space that the Kenmore uses.

But the Patio Theatre, which is only a few blocks away wasn't so slow, either. This Schwartz house of 3500 seats had a sticker of Rooney in "Marking Time," which they were running on their regular schedule, made, and this sticker brought out the name of Pat Rooney as large as the name of the theatre. The manager also put Rooney's name up in electric lights and profited tremendously by the popularity of this vaudeville star appearing in person at the other theatre, the advertising that the other theatre did, and the billboard space that the other theatre gave to this big vaudeville star.

Any theatre which is near a theatre where Rooney is playing can do the same thing. Watch the vaudeville theatres for Rooney bookings. The Rooney pictures available for bookings for this purpose are:

"Sweethearts," "Love Birds," "Love Tree," "Three Diamonds," "The Royal Pair" and "Marking Time."



These Rooneys, Pat, Marion Bent and Pat III, should be billed like a circus if you want to pull in the coin they are worth with proper advertising

And don't forget the Rubins. Benny Rubin has never had the publicity and advertising to which his ability and entertainment capacity entitle him. Everyone in the west realizes what a wonderful master of ceremonies and dancer he is, but he has not had as much vaudeville publicity as Pat Rooney, for instance, who has been in vaudeville all his life and whose name was famous before he was born. But anyone who has seen Marion Davies' picture "Marianne," will realize that Rubin is the real big kick in this production, and if you are looking for a continuation of his very remarkable humor it is very easy to achieve it by booking one of the Benny Rubin subjects which Universal made. These subjects are listed below.

"The Actor," "Income Tact," "The Delicatessen Kid," "Pilgrim's Papa," "Pop and Son," "Broken Statues," "Hotsy Totsy." In making these sound shorts, Universal has retained the same type of comedy for which the Rooneys and Benny Rubin are famous.

The Colossus of Serials!
TARZAN t
And these extra money serials:
The JADE BOX
A mystery thriller that will pack them in. 10 Episodes

Prominent exhibitors and members of the Milwaukee press attending Universal's New Selling Season Luncheon at the Hotel Schroeder

Milwaukee Exchange Entertains Exhibitors At Universal's New Selling Season Luncheon

TO inaugurate Carl Laemmle's innovation of selling film at the first of the year, the Milwaukee Exchange entertained exhibitors and newspaper critics at a luncheon at the Hotel Schroeder on January eighth. This New Selling Season Luncheon was well attended by all the prominent showmen in and around Milwaukee. The advantages of a selling season beginning in January instead of in the summer when business is so poor that exhibitors are reluctant to buy were discussed and general approval voiced with enthusiasm.

The luncheon was presided over by Fred S. Meyer, president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners Association of Milwaukee. Fred J. McConnell, Universal sales director of short product, brought out the fact that box office receipts had proven that the public is sold on talking pictures and now demand super programs. Theatre men, who are all first class business men these days, Mr. McConnell pointed out, have their pulse on the desires of the public and must keep a pace ahead of changing times.

A telegram was sent to Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, as follows:

"Your many friends and exhibitors of Wisconsin attending Universal New Selling Season Luncheon wish you every success and are happy to be with you on this occasion." Signed: Stanley Brown, Ben Koenig, F. J. McWilliams; F. Welter, J. S. Grauman, I. Spear, E. Weisner, O. McKivvett, F. Cook, F. Ponton, B. Wood, C. W. Trampe, President of Milwaukee Film Board, O. L. Meister, Geo. Fischer, H. Goldenberg, F. S. Meyer, A.

(Continued on page 26)

McNamee Debut on Universal Newsreel Enthusiastically Received in Atlanta

(TELEGRAM)

January 10, 1930

Debut Graham McNamees on Newsreel splendidly received here by audiences Loew's Capitol. Carter Barron Manager enthusiastic and Journal officials well pleased with agreement calling Newsreel Journal Universal newpaper newsreel this territory. Amazing shot death of automobile racer as described by McNamee and actually seen sent thrill through audiences.

EARLE E. GRIGGS
Atlanta, Georgia.

Real "Scotch Mist" Atmosphere For "Cohens and Kellys in Scotland"

THE constant rains at Universal City as well as throughout California have given the George Sidney and Charlie Murray Company, making "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland," a unique opportunity to incorporate characteristic Scotch atmosphere in their production.

Director William James Craft has devised a new name for this atmospheric effect, which may become part of the nomenclature of California weather.

The new name is Scotch Mist.

In addition to the inherent humor of setting the Irish Kellys and Jewish Cohens in a Scotch background, "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland" makes riotous use of a golf motif. George Sidney plays the complete duffer with embellishments never seen on any course. He manages to get all tangled up in his sticks and removes enough turf to re-sod a fair-sized lawn. He and his old partner, Charlie Murray, insist upon adopting the native Scotch kilts in lieu of plus-fours, and they add as much atmosphere to the comedy as the Scotch Mist.

Cohen and Kelly fans can be assured of plenty of Scotch jokes, positively guaranteed without whiskers. Due to the co-operation of Universal and Fim Fun, all the gags and jokes in "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland" are original. The Scotch Joke prize contest brought in hundreds of humorous efforts, the best of which have been incorporated into the dialogue of the Universal farce-comedy.

MILWAUKEE EXCHANGE ENTERTAINS EXHIBITORS

(Continued from page 25)

V. Kvool, H. A. Staab. Secretary Motion Picture Theatres Wisconsin; S. Bauer, President State Exhibitors' Ass'n; E. Lagenmack, L. G. Sewnig, Ed. Vollendorf, B. F. Fisher, F. R. Trottman, Chas. Wasicheck, Otto Lang, E. W. Vannorman, Art Wetheimer, Gene Arnstein, E. R. Franke, R. F. Leach, F. R. Dau, Edmund Einstein, H. L. Evans, Paul Earle, L. G. McDaniels, Harry Wren, Dawn O'Day, Milwaukee Sentinel; Nancy Lee, Milwaukee Journal; Peggy Patton, Wisconsin News; Harriet Clinton, Milwaukee Leader.

San Francisco Packs 'Shannons of Br'dway'

THE Casino Theatre in San Francisco was filled with laughter during the run of "The Shannons of Broadway." The box-office receipts were as hearty as the enjoyment of the Universal comedy starring the Gleasons.

The Examiner wrote:

"Let us say here that if you enjoy wisecracks, smart repartee, and fun, then you'll enjoy 'Shannons of Broadway', for it has all that—and a little pathos, too. It is well acted, well directed, and was well received."

From the San Francisco Star came:

"You'll grin, you'll laugh, you'll roar with the 'Shannons of Broadway', current attraction at the Casino . . . exceedingly hilarious and enjoyable moments . . . Even in the most serious moments where a touch of pathos enters, and you start for your handkerchief, one of them'll pull off some smart quip that starts you giggling again."

Katherine Hill of the Chronicle adds:

"The Casino has been getting 'em lately. The latest is 'The Shannons of Broadway,' based on James Gleason's knockout stage comedy, with himself and Lucile Webster Gleason as the breezy vaudevillians they acted in the original Broadway production . . . All the wisecracks have been left in the score. The play has been subjected to just enough changes to keep it moving as a screen opus."

Half Page Story of Carl Laemmle Features "Show Boat" Campaign

Rex Theatre Management Also Gets Numerous Big Window Displays

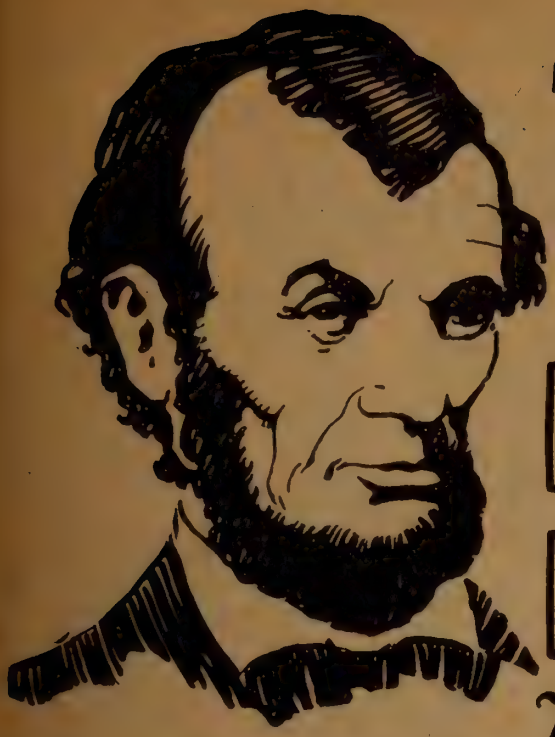
NEWSPAPER space is sometimes easy to get, sometimes hard and at times impossible. In Oshkosh, Wisconsin, it is the latter case, but when Manager B. K. Mosmian of the Rex Theatre decided to play Universal's "SHOW BOAT" he also decided to get some newspaper publicity. And he did.

He went to O. H. Hardy, publisher of the Northwestern Daily News, Oshkosh's only daily, and impressed him with the importance of "SHOW BOAT" to the extent of a three column story with photography of Carl Laemmle. The story told of the beginning and rise of the Universal president, to the time of the production of "SHOW BOAT."

The Northwestern Daily News does not run theatre publicity, all of which makes Mosmian's big break of considerable more importance.

Other features of the campaign included the distribution of five thousand roto heralds on the picture in the out-of-town Sunday papers delivered to Oshkosh residences; seven drug-store window displays on the Princess Pat cosmetics national tie-up; two large window displays on the Lux national tie-up, and several music and book store window displays.

Charles Lowenberg, Universal exploitation representative, assisted the management of the Rex Theatre on the campaign which resulted in excellent business.



THE ONE BEST BET FOR LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

Whether you've played it or not!

A HARRY POLLARD Production.

With Marguerita Fischer, Arthur Edmund Carewe, Lucian Littlefield, James Lowe, Virginia Grey, George Siegmann, Adolph Milar, Vivian Oakland, Lassie Lou Ahearn, Mona Ray, Aileen Manning.

2 Negatives—1 Silent, 1 with Sound.

Carl Laemmle's Super Production

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN"

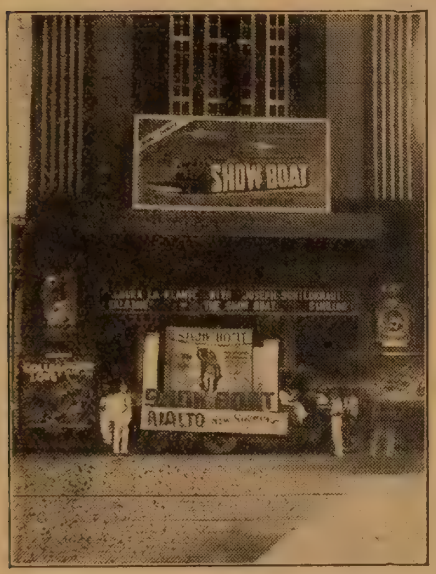
WORLD'S GREATEST REPEAT SPECIAL!

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

REPEAT RUN OF "SHOW BOAT" NINE DAYS WONDER IN MANILA

After Fifteen-Day Original Engagment at Rialto "Show Boat" Brought Back at Request of Thousands

First Instance of Return Run by Popular Request in Manila



Theatre front of the Rialto during the repeat run of "Show Boat" showing the book ballyhoo.

FOR the first time in the motion picture history of Manila, a picture has been brought back to the theatre of its first run as a result of popular request. "Show Boat" is the production to enjoy this distinction. The Universal super ran to SRO for fifteen days at the Rialto, where it broke box-office records. After "Show Boat" closed its premier engagement, the management was about to return the picture to the United States, but a deluge of letters came in, numbering in the thousands, requesting a return engagement. Naturally, this innovation in fan demands was used skilfully in newspaper advertising and publicity by Charles L. Brookheim, Universal manager of the Far East.

For the repeat run, a huge book was built and placed on a decorated truck. In the book, representing the Edna Ferber novel, a phonograph played "Show Boat" music. The truck not only covered Manila but visited surrounding towns.

The Radio Corporation of the Philippines placed a microphone in the Rialto and broadcast from the theatre. They gave a half hour on their radio announcing they were broadcasting direct from the screen at the Rialto where "Show Boat" was playing.

The Rialto mailed 6,000 rotos to the registered automobile owners announcing that "Show Boat" was again running at the request of thousands. Criticisms of the pictures in two languages, English and Spanish, were reprinted on the rotos.

Five 24-sheet boards, twenty-five 3-sheet boards and three hundred and fifty one-sheets were used around the town.

A worth while tie-up was effected with the Maypaho Cabaret for a "Show Boat" Night after the evening performance of the picture at the Rialto.

"Show Boat" ran against strong opposition—"Broadway Melody" and "Bulldog Drummond" among other big pictures—and grossed figures that are history making in Manila.

The phenomenal success of both "Broadway" and "Show Boat" in Manila indicates that sound pictures have captured the island.

Street ballyhoo consisting of an enormous "Show Boat" book with music playing inside it.

"U" Club Engages Consulting Physician

IN order to safeguard the health of its three hundred members, the Universal Club has engaged the services of Dr. Joseph Goldstone, of 102 East Eighty First street, as the Club's consulting physician.

In view of the trying winter weather conditions, and the colds and other illnesses prevalent at this time of the year, the Club decided to provide medical advice for those members desiring it, and this progressive step received the immediate approval of L. B. Metzger, general manager of Universal.

Dr. Goldstone maintains office hours at the Universal Home Offices on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The activities of the Universal Club are widening every month. The latest undertaking is a Dramatic Club with ambitious plans for the future.

Universal Veteran Enters Business

AFTER eleven years of service in the Universal ranks, Meyer Coleman leaves this week to enter the theatre business. He will be associated with Jacob Schreiber of Detroit in the management of the latter's circuit of theatres in Michigan.

Coleman will be located in Detroit, his home city, where he first entered the film industry.

At the time of his resignation, Coleman was in the sales department of the Universal Detroit, Washington and Big U Exchanges.

Coleman's long association with the picture business from the production angle gives him an excellent grasp of what the public wants in entertainment.

He enters the theatre business with every good wish from his Universal friends.

Thousands Have Made Money!

-are YOU missing something?

ARE YOU missing the proven profits that have accrued to the thousands of signers for Universal's Complete Service—18,426, to be exact? Are YOU passing up the opportunity of getting Complete Service in SOUND—of getting "all the TALKING PICTURES you want, when you want them, at a price you can afford to pay?" Think what it means to be able to sign a contract for all your product for one year, or two years, or three years or as many years as you like. Think what it means to you to know—BEFOREHAND—just what your show is going to cost you. Think what it means to you in CERTAIN PROFITS. Are YOU missing something? You certainly are—and the sooner you sign the sooner you'll be GETTING something.

18,426
COMPLETE SERVICE CONTRACTS HAVE BEEN SIGNED TO-DATE

CARL LAEMMLE gives you

UNIVERSAL'S COMPLETE SERVICE in SOUND

UNIVERSAL SYNOPSES

"UP AND DOWN STAIRS"

UNIVERSAL COMEDY
All Star Cast

VERNON'S wife made up her mind to break the friendship between her husband and Lou as she felt Lou was a pest. So they moved. Just as they were getting settled in their new love nest, Lou comes in and in disgust the wife leaves saying she will not return until the house is in order.

Vernon and Lou set to work, but the more they tried the more the mess they made of house-wrecking.

Then came complications with the pretty blonde downstairs.

In a gay moment, Vernon forgot all about his wife's instructions. He dragged Lou off for a gay evening of imbibing and just before dawn, they came rolling home—full sails ahead. In their foggy condition, they got into the wrong apartment and when discovered by the blonde's husband, found themselves in a compromising position—in their nighties.

When the wife found her house still in disarray she made her mark upon Vernon and Lou.

"FOOTLIGHT FOLLIES"

Sporting Youth Series

OAKVILLE'S only theatre advertised a rip-roaring melodrama and the entire town bought tickets for it. When the house manager got word that the theatrical troup was stranded in another town, he was beside himself until Judy offered her services as leading lady and director. The gang soon caught the spirit of the thing and they went into heavy rehearsing up to curtain. Discovering at the last moment that they needed a fake dynamite prop, Bert rushed to his father's store to get a sand pail. Through an error, he sold a farmer the can of sand and took the can of dynamite to the theatre.

The play went on and the villain did everything but tear up the papers when suddenly Bert discovered that it was real dynamite. He had to fight off two of the actors before he could grab the can and heave it out into the street—saving everyone in the theatre. Had it taken a moment longer, the theatre would have been in ruins.

Bert did his best to scold Judy, but her winning ways overcame him.

"TARZAN, THE TIGER"

Universal Adventure Picture

No. 2 — "The Road to Opar"

TARZAN, attacked by Numa the lion, kills it. In Zek's camp, Lady Jane is taken before the outlaw leader and given her choice of becoming one of his wives or being sold in the slave market. Jane defies Zek, saying her husband will save her. Meanwhile Tarzan is being followed by Werper, Zek's henchman. Tarzan arrives at Opar just as La, the high priestess of the sun god, is officiating at the annual festival of the worshipers. Tarzan, using a secret tunnel, reaches the cave where lie the treasures of Opar. Werper follows and watches him planning to remove the treasure. A fierce windstorm causes a panic among the priests of Opar. Werper, frightened by a hyena, flees to the altar chamber and is captured. The great pillars at the temple entrance crash through and the cave roof, burying Tarzan under an avalanche of debris. Meanwhile the same storm sweeps the camp of Zek, burying Jane and her captors in their tent.

...OR IN OTHER WORDS A BOX OFFICE WONDER!

EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

THE LONG LONG TRAIL: Hoot Gibson—Now let's get started right. This is a bear cat, and I'm not getting paid for this report. Book it . . . and you have IT. Hoot comes out with that personality here. He will ruin the record that Ken Maynard set up in "The Wagon Master," I'm thinking.

—Colonial Theatre, Hondo, Texas.

Pictures like these are what we mean by

PICTURES — NOT PROMISES

WHAT MEN WANT

A sensational story by Warner Fabian, author of "Flaming Youth." A startling story of two sisters who decided to live on the bounty of their men friends . . . now running serially in the N. Y. Daily Mirror.

The SHANNONS OF BROADWAY

The Gleasons of Broadway (James and Lucile) in the play that kept packed houses laughing for 39 weeks. With Charles Grapewin, Mary Philbin, John Breeden. An Emmett Flynn Production.

"Enough to make a mummy laugh."
—San Francisco News

The COHENS AND KELLYS IN SCOTLAND

With the four principals of the original "Cohens and Kellys" — George Sidney, Charlie Murray, Vera Gordon, Kate Price. A laugh shock that will shake records. A William James Craft Production.

The STORM

Langdon McCormick's great stage thriller — now a Universal picture that will hit thrilling grosses. Directed by William Wyler.

GREATER UNIVERSAL'S NEW SELLING SEASON STARTS NOW!

KEN MAYNARD

WHO GAVE YOU PACKED HOUSES WITH "WAGON MASTER" AND "SENOR AMERICANO," IS COMING IN A BIG WILD WEST SHOW THRILLER THAT WILL KNOCK ALL HIS FORMER B.-O. RECORDS INTO A TEN GALLON HAT.

A Ken Maynard Production. Directed by Harry J. Brown from the story by Marion Jackson. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE.

UNIVERSAL

PARADE OF THE WEST

More Satisfied Patrons With Universal Films

Says Salt Lake City Showman

HERE'S an exhibitor who realizes that in a picture, it's satisfied patrons that count. Box office returns are important, of course, but a delighted audience means future business. Read what Showman Stafford has to say:

"For the past two and one half years, have been using Universal productions, including features and the various short subjects. I have not limited myself to Universal product alone, for I have used, at some time or other, product from ten of thirteen distributing offices in the city. I am not knocking any of the producers, but I do wish to compliment your company on the quality of pictures which are under your release.

"Box office returns is not the most essential thing, but satisfaction to the patrons is most necessary, and it is very evident in our records, that there has been a greater attendance, and more satisfied people at a Universal program, than at any program furnished by some other Exchange.

"I wish to express my appreciation for the service your company has rendered; the cooperation of each department in your office, and the courtesy from each individual, who, in the employ of the Universal Film Exchange of Salt Lake City, is helping to boost and boast of the 'good goods' which Universal is making and releasing."

H. B. STAFFORD,
Mgr.. 11th Ward Theatre,
Salt Lake City, Utah.

"Mississippi Gambler" Rated Among Best Movies of 1929

"Drake Case" Gets Honorable Mention

DORIS ARDEN, movie critic of the Chicago Daily Times, closed the old year, according to ancient and honorable custom, with a critical survey of its best motion pictures. Among them Miss Arden rated "The Mississippi Gambler" well up on the list. She writes of the Schildkraut hit:

"The Mississippi Gambler" was a delightfully presented film about the career of a handsome gentleman gambler on the Mississippi boats. Joan Bennett, in lovely, picturesque gowns was the southern belle who, boarding the boat with her father, fell in love with Joseph Schildkraut, the gambler in point. The story was sweet. Alec C. Francis gave the third interesting performance here. It was an all-talkie.

In the murder mystery class, "The Drake Case" was given enthusiastic praise by the Chicago picker.

Confirming Miss Arden's opinion of "The Mississippi Gambler" is a recent letter from an exhibitor, J. C. Parker of the Star Theatre in Hereford, Texas, who says:

"I thought it was one of the best program pictures I have run. The story was good and the men like Schildkraut, and the ladies are crazy about him, and business was good. Just give us some more like it."

PAUL WHITEMAN

IN JOHN MURRAY ANDERSON'S

KING OF JAZZ

MAGNIFICENCE THAT WILL TAKE YOUR BREATH AWAY! RAVISHING GIRLS IN THE BEAUTY OF TECHNICOLOR!

WONDERFUL SONGS BY WONDERFUL STARS . . . INCLUDING JOHN BOLES AND A HOST OF OTHERS!

AND ABOVE ALL, THE INCOMPARABLE MUSIC OF WHITEMAN!

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

Carl Laemmle's

Multi-Million Masterpiece of Melody

Carl Laemmle, Jr.—Associate Producer.

LARRY EDMUNDS, INC.
CINEMA BOOKSHOP
HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.

The always Dependable
ADVANCE MAN

¶ Carl Laemmle's Saturday Evening Post Column, read and enjoyed by more than 15,000,000 people, is YOUR ADVANCE MAN for the world's finest motion pictures.

¶ Thousands of letters received weekly from movie fans form absolute proof that this column is used by movie fans everywhere as their entertainment guide.

¶ You must profit by it if you play UNIVERSAL!

The column at the left appears in The Saturday Evening Post of February 1, 1930.

Universal Weekly

VOL. 31
NO. 12

"ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT" posed by LEWIS AYRES

CARL LAEMMLE
PRESENTS
PAUL WHITEMAN
AND HIS BAND, IN
KING OF JAZZ
DIRECTED BY JOHN MURRAY ANDERSON
PRODUCED BY CARL LAEMMLE JR.
WITH
Laura La Plante, John Boles, Glenn Tryon, Jeanette Loff, Merna Kennedy, Kathryn Crawford, Otis Harlan, and hundreds of other international celebrities.
A UNIVERSAL PICTURE
Including the First Dramatization of George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue"
It is one of the ten big musical hits in
KING OF JAZZ
Once in a lifetime a show like this!

LIKE A BOLT FROM THE BLUE!

MARY NOLAN

The SCREEN'S MOST BEAUTIFUL STAR . . . COMES TO YOU GLORIFIED WITH EMOTIONAL AUDIENCE DRAW . . . IN A STORY FILLED WITH BRILLIANCY, PATHOS AND HUMOR . . . THE STORY OF A CARNIVAL GIRL WITH A PAST. BRIGHTEN YOUR FUTURE WITH THIS READY MONEY!

With Mae Busch, William Janney, Ralf Harolde. Produced by CARL LAEMMLE, Jr. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE. Directed by Lew Collins. With the heart-throb song, "WHY DID IT HAVE TO BE YOU?"

Young Desire

UNIVERSAL FIRST!

YOUR Theatre

No. 687—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

RIGHT while you are reading this, legions of people are roaring over the crazy antics of Oswald the Lucky Rabbit—undoubtedly the screen's most popular cartoon character.

When his name first flashes on the main title, the fans applaud and get all set for a series of laughs.

And they are NEVER disappointed!

I doubt if there ever was a series of short pictures so consistently clever, funny and entertaining. They are not in-and-outers. They are always good!

Oswald the Lucky Rabbit appeals to that sense of nonsense which is found in every human being, even the sourest of us.

He is so utterly human in some respects and so completely impossible in others that he keeps us guessing as to what fool thing he will do next.

A rich man was once asked by a newspaper reporter what was his greatest ambition and he replied, "To get rich enough so that some day I can throw half a dozen raw eggs into a whirling electric fan and not care a rap what it does to my parlor."

Needs OSWALD

There's something of that spirit in the Oswald cartoons—the spirit aroused by seeing Oswald do the physically ridiculous things we've day-dreamed about. And it's because of this constant appeal to our sense of the absurd that the Oswald cartoons are a continuing success.

Hundreds of exhibitors who use the Oswald cartoons regularly advertise them as freely as they advertise the star in their feature-length picture.

That's smart, of course. There is a strong, definite pull to the Oswalds and there are great armies of fans who wouldn't miss an Oswald for anything.

If you have not used them, you have slipped up on many an extra box-office pull—for Oswald is a star in his own right and he has a following that grows with each passing week.

You need Oswald!

You need a laugh producer that is absolutely sure-fire and here's one you can count on twenty-six times per year!

—and this during Lent?

Laura La Plante and John Boles

A Universal Production with stirring music and songs by CHARLES WAKEFIELD CADMAN. A John Robertson Production, from the story by Houston W. Branch. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE. HIT SONGS: "Song of the Sword," "Silhouette," and these by Handman, Kent & Goodman: "For You," "You, You Alone," "Maids on Parade," "Can It Be?"

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

CAPTAIN OF

FROM VARIETY

U's "Capt. Guard" $99,700 and Held Over at Roxy, with "Honey" H. O. On B'way by Par at $77,200

Lent, in use much less for an alibi this year, started to receive a little recognition along Broadway last week, particularly for the $2 pictures. Drop of $4,000 was registered at the 44th Street by "Song O' My Heart," while "Vagabond King," at the Criterion, skidded another grand to $12,100. "Mammy," at Warners, not hot at $19,500, despite rated best of the Jolson series. John Barrymore's slapstick farce, "Man From Blankleys," started off strongly at the Central, proving an exception and surprise.

Paramount was well patronized with "Honey," but would hardly hold over on $77,200 ordinarily. Approach of pre-Easter slump had all of the big houses economizing on features. Roxy has an English-made Sono-Art picture, "Cock O' The Walk," for Holy Week and the Capitol is playing Columbia's "Ladies Of Leisure," a week later.

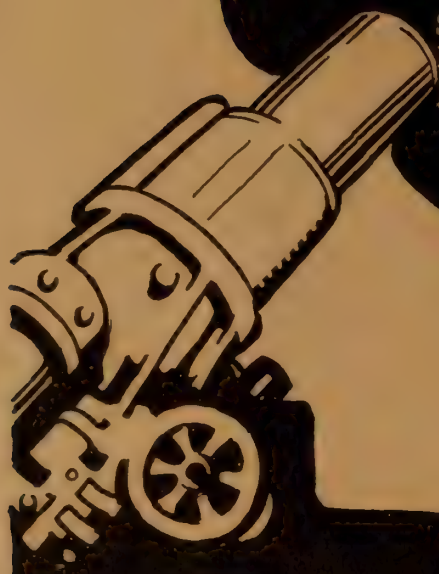
Universal's "Captain of Guard" barely missed touching $100,000 at the Roxy last week, exceptionally strong in view of the downward tendencies around town. This is the highest gross ever achieved at the Roxy by an outside picture

"The highest gross ever achieved at the Roxy by an outside picture," reports Variety . . . and this during a slump week when other big pictures on the street are reported in the words "dropped," "skidded," "not hot." Is it a showman's picture? Showmen, use your judgement! IT'S UNIVERSAL'S BROADWAY NOW!

THE GUARD

For Big Profits—

"TREMENDOUS BUSINESS TURNED AWAY HUNDREDS!"—Rivoli Theatre, Baltimore. "ESTABLISHED NEW RECORD!"—Capital Theatre, Salt Lake City. "BROKE ALL SUNDAY RECORD BREAKING BUSINESS!"—Ray Dachman, Rialto Theatre, Tuscon, Ariz. "RECORD BUSINESS, MR. LAEMMLE, MY CONGRATULATIONS!"—Midway Theatre, Rockford, Ill. "RECORD BUSINESS AT NEW WARNERS THEATRE AT ATLANTIC CITY!"—S. P. Skouras, Stanley Company of America. "TRAFFIC TIED UP TWO HOURS. POLICE RIOT CALL TO CLEAR STREET. TREMENDOUS!"—Warner Grand Theatre, Pittsburgh. "BROKE WEEK-END RECORD ON SECOND RUN!"—Colony Theatre, New York. "CAPACITY BUSINESS!"—Alhambra, Milwaukee. "'BROADWAY' AT MANCHESTER (England) SMASHING ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS. CAPACITY 1000—PLAYED TO 4400 PEOPLE!"—J. V. Bryson.



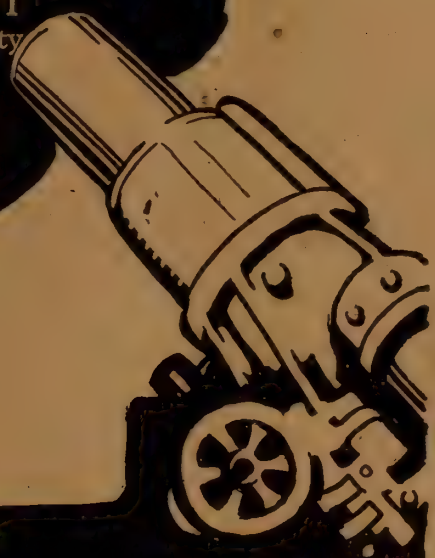
CARL LAEMMLE'S Million Candle Power Picture. With GLENN TRYON, EVELYN BRENT, Merna Kenedy, T. E. Jackson, Otis Harlan, Robert Ellis, Paul Porcasi, Leslie Fenton, Betty Francisco. From Jed Harris' stage production of the play by Philip Dunning and George Abbott. Directed by PAUL FEJOS. A CARL LAEMMLE, Jr., Production. Two negatives: one silent, one dialog. Color scenes by Technicolor.

BROADWAY

UNIVERS

USE BIG GUNS!

"ALL RECORDS SMASHED!"—Capital Theatre, Dallas, Tex. "'SHOW BOAT' SET NEW HOUSE RECORD!"—Granada Theatre, Indianapolis. "UNBELIEVABLE BUSINESS. TURNING AWAY HUNDREDS!"—Republic Theatre, Washington, D. C. "BROKE ALL RECORDS FOR ALL TIME IN THIS CITY!"—Lea Richmond, Charleston, S. C. "SMASHED ALL RECORDS. GREATEST CROWD CHEERED, APPLAUDED!"—Piccadilly Theatre, Rochester, N. Y. "CRASHED ALL RECORDS HERE!"—William M. Shirley, Schenectady, N. Y. "RECORD FOR MY HOUSE. 'SINGING FOOL' HELD RECORD TO DATE!"—Sidney M. Nutt, Hot Springs, Ark. "UNPARALLELED BIG MONEY! JAMMED HOUSE APPLAUDED!"—Macdonald Theatre, Eugene, Ore. "'SHOW BOAT' BREAKS K. C. TOP! PRACTICALLY SOLD OUT AT ALL TIMES!"—Royal Theatre, Kansas City (Variety report).



CARL LAEMMLE'S TALKING AND SINGING TRIUMPH. A HARRY POLLARD Production. From EDNA FERBER'S great novel. With Laura La Plante, Joseph Schildkraut, Otis Harlan, Alma Rubens, Emily Fitzroy, Jane La Verne. Directed, silent and movietone, by Harry Pollard. Synchronized score by Joseph Cherniavsky. Music from Florenz Ziegfeld's production.

SHOW BOAT

AL—FIRST!

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors

Paul Gulick — Editor

PUBLISHED BY THE
— MOTION PICTURE WEEKLY PUBLISHING COMPANY — HECKSCHER BUILDING —
730-5th AVE. — NEW YORK CITY

Copyright 1930 UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION · All Rights Reserved

Vol. XXXI APRIL 26, 1930 No. 12

UNIVERSAL MOVIEGRAMS

LEWIS AYRES, whose work in "All Quiet on the Western Front" is said to be of a sensational nature, has been chosen by Carl Laemmle, Jr., to play the lead in "Saint Johnson." This novel, by W. R. Burnett, author of "Little Caesar" and "The Iron Man," will be brought out by Lincoln McVeagh this October. "Saint Johnson" will be directed by William Wyler.

ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT" will have its premiere in the Carthay Circle in Los Angles on April 21. It will open in New York at the Central Theatre on April 29 for a run. Virtually every large city in the United States has booked this production in for the earliest possible showing.

JOHN MURRAY ANDERSON, who conceived and directed "The King of Jazz," with Paul Whiteman and Hollywood's most important players, arrive in New York on Wednesday to consult with Roxy for the premiere of his production. Roxy will arrive the following day from a vacation in Bermuda.

CAPTAIN OF THE GUARD" has met with such success that John Robertson, its director, has been entrusted with a second Boles operetta. It is to be called "The Love Cavalier." Jeanette Loff, the lovely prima donna of "King of Jazz," will be Boles' leading woman.

UNIVERSAL TO FILM "STRICTLY DISHONORABLE"

John Boles to Be Starred in Most Successful Stage Production of the Season, Which Universal Will Make on Elaborate Scale with the Assistance of Brock Pemberton, Producer, and Miss Antoinette Perry, Who Assisted in Staging the New York and Chicago Productions

CONFIRMING rumors which have been current in theatre circles for the last few weeks, Universal yesterday announced that it had acquired the moving picture rights to "Strictly Dishonorable," from Brock Pemberton, producer, and Preston Sturges, author.

By the terms of the contract, Universal guarantees to the author and the producer that their part of the profits shall be at least $125,000. It is provided that in the event that Universal desires, the producer will go to the coast for four weeks and assist in any way Universal requires in the production. Mr. Pemberton also undertakes to have Miss Antoinette Perry, who assisted him in staging "Strictly Dishonorable" both in New York and Chicago, go to the coast also.

In accordance with its established custom, Universal secured, in addition to other rights, television rights to "Strictly Dishonorable." Universal was one of the pioneers in putting in all of its contracts a proviso covering television rights. In all of the contracts signed for next year, even though there seems no immediate opportunity to use them, a television rights clause has been inserted in the contracts.

Universal will make "Strictly Dishonorable" as a starring vehicle for John Boles. While in New York appearing at the Roxy with "Captain of the Guard," Boles managed to see the production three times. He is delighted at the opportunity which Carl Laemmle is giving him to play this subtle and unique role. Because he is playing it, Universal will interpolate a number of songs and musical incidents in the play. However, it has no intention whatever of making this an operetta.

"Strictly Dishonorable" opened at the Avon Theatre in New York on September 18th. Six weeks ago it opened in Chicago, and a London company is now being formed.

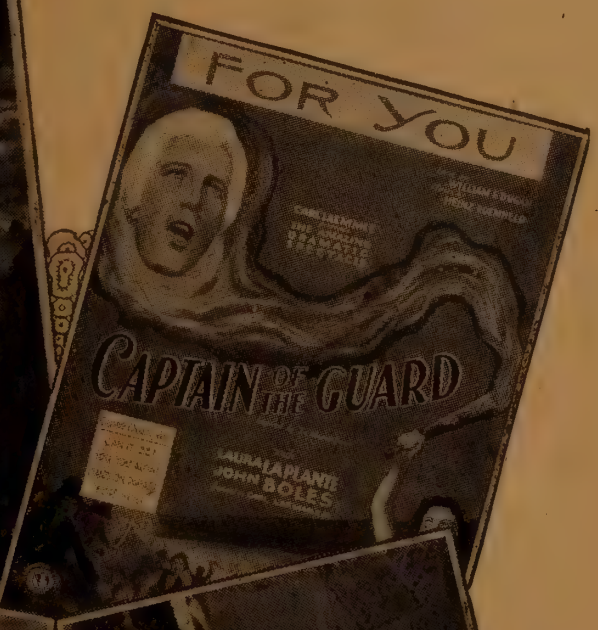
The purchase of "Strictly Dishonorable" comes as part of Carl Laemmle's new policy of producing fewer and better pictures. No play on Broadway this season has created more comment than this Preston Sturges comedy. Its sophistication, sparkling dialogue, whimsical twist and highly modern theme make it an ideal vehicle for the talking screen.

WHILE "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland" continues the laughing success of this spring, plans at Universal City have already been made for the fifth in the series. It will be called "The Cohens and Kellys in Ireland." It will be musical, and nearly all photographed in Technicolor.

"FOR YOU"

Haunting Theme Songs That Threads Its Romantic Way Through "Captain of the Guard"

When Rouget de l'Isle tells Marie of his love, he sings her the song, "For You," which runs through Universal's picturization of the story of "La Marseillaise."

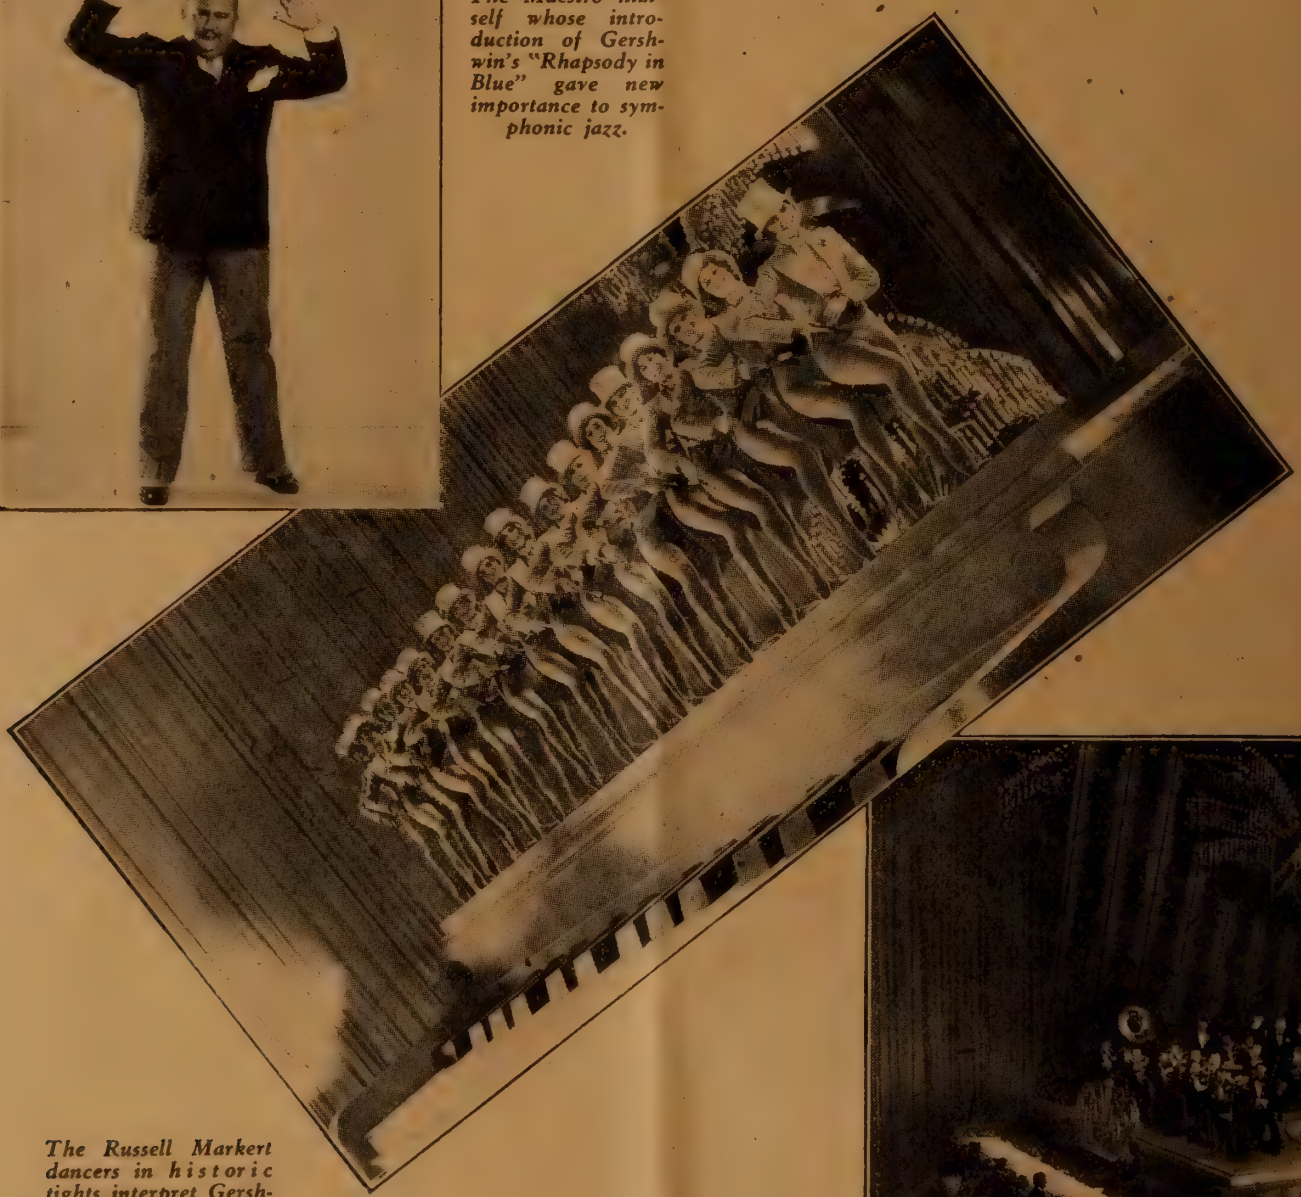


Returning to the inn in which Marie lives, Rouget (John Boles) discovers the original score of "For You," which he had written to her a year ago. He sings the song in reminiscence and so finds his beloved again.

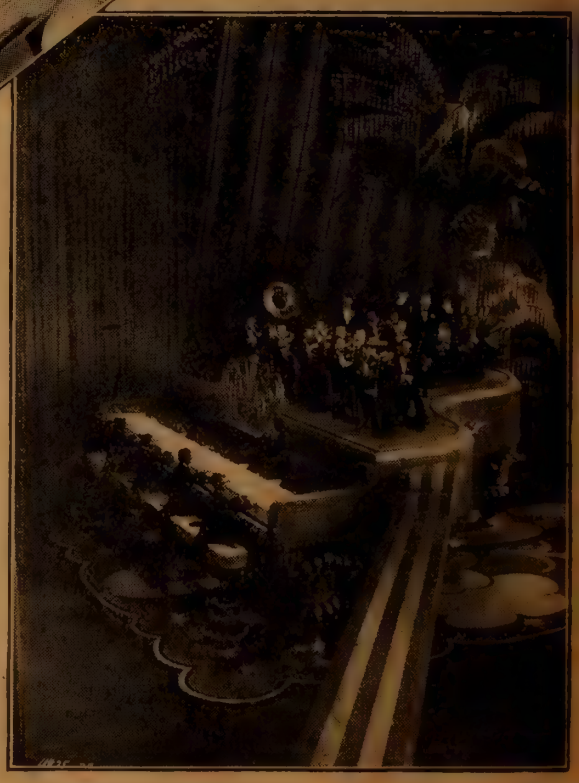
Struggling between love and loyalty to France, Marie (Laura La Plante) sings "For You" before she goes out to inflame the people against the crown for which her lover fights.

"RHAPSODY IN BLUE" NUM

The Maestro himself whose introduction of Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" gave new importance to symphonic jazz.

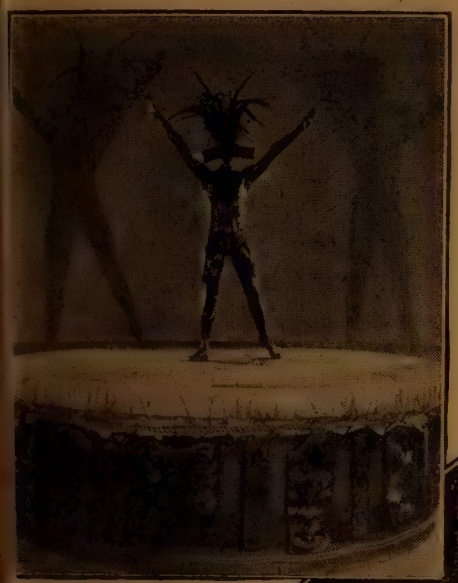


The Russell Markert dancers in historic tights interpret Gershwin's masterpiece in terms of modern rhythm. Their smart costumes carry out the blue motif of the number in three harmonizing shades.



The largest piano in the world makes Paul Whiteman's rendition of "The Rhapsody in Blue" tremendously effective. The Jazz King and his famous orchestra are discovered in the huge piano when the lid opens.

BER FROM "KING OF JAZZ"



Jacques Cartier's Voodoo dance suggests the savage origin of jazz and creates an atmosphere of rising excitement.

Roy Bagley, pianist of Paul Whiteman's orchestra, interprets George Gershwin's jazz symphony, noted for its significance in cutting loose from musical shackles.

The Sisters G and Jacques Cartier in a striking pose at the opening of the "Rhapsody in Blue" number. Their blue costumes and enormous fans are stunning against the background of a crystal tree.

Lewis Ayres and Scott Kolk waging some very realistic warfare in "All Quiet on the Western Front."

The trenches built on the Irvine Ranch were exact replicas of those on the German front.

LAEMMLE INVITES REMARQUE TO ATTEND WORLD PREMIERE OF "ALL QUIET ON WESTERN FRONT"

Author of War Epic Urged To Make First American Visit As Guest of Universal Chief

CARL LAEMMLE, president of Universal, which has transferred to the screen Erich Maria Remarque's novel "All Quiet on the Western Front," which met with sensational success throughout the entire world, cabled to the distinguished author in Berlin yesterday an urgent invitation to be his guest at the world premiere of the film.

Laemmle's message to the distinguished author who has so signally reached the heart of the world was as follows:

"Please favor us with your presence as guest of honor at the world premiere of the film narration of your great book 'All Quiet on the Western Front' which Universal has just completed and which will be presented for the first time soon. The entire literary life of America and the leaders of modern thought in every field are anxious to honor you. I also express the sentiment of hundreds of thousands of German-Americans in urging you to make your deferred American visit at this time."

This is the second invitation Mr. Laemmle has extended to Mr. Remarque to visit the United States as his guest. A year and a half ago when Mr. Laemmle visited Berlin to obtain screen rights for the literary products of the then little known writer (he was comparatively unheard of outside of Germany at the time) Mr. Laemmle urged Remarque to return to this country with him as his guest. The idea pleased the author; in fact such a visit was one of his greatest ambitions. Mrs. Remarque was in poor health at the time, however, and it was out of the question, so the trip reluctantly was abandoned.

In renewing his invitation, Mr. Laemmle acted upon the belief that the element of time has brought about the complete restoration of Mrs. Remarque's health, and also that propriety suggests all possible honors for the man who has done so much to make the whole world think in humane terms of internationalism.

Elaborate arrangements are being made by the entire personnel of Universal for the entertainment of the distinguished guest. The itinerary includes a visit to Universal City.

"All Quiet on the Western Front" admittedly is the greatest story of the World War yet written. The first scenes were shot on Armistice Day, and for the past five months both the Universal lot and various locations have resounded intermittently to bombardments, explosions, conflicts and all the other characteristic noises of the front, with two thousand former doughboys impersonating the struggling German and French troops.

Embraced in the strong all-star cast assembled by Carl Laemmle, Jr., general manager of Universal, and producer of the picture, are Louis Wolheim, Lewis Ayres, John Wray, Raymond Griffith, William Bakewell, Russell Gleason, Walter Browne Rogers, Owen Davis, Jr., Scott Kolk, George "Slim" Summerville, Edmund Breese, Bertha Mann, Yola D'Avril and Joan Marsh.

Casting the group of unsophisticated school boys who, under the influence of the stirring oratory of their professor, abandon their classes to enlist in the German army and thereafter undergo a baptism of horror and routine of hardships that slowly yet inevitably transforms them into hard-boiled veterans, atrophying all natural emotions except a passionate loyalty to each other, presented unique difficulties. This quartette rendered familiar by the book, was vizualized by Lewis Ayres, Russell Gleason, William Bakewell.

What a Cast!

PAULINE STARKE, the living answer to "what men want"; Ben Lyon, the sensation of "Hell's Angels"; Barbara Kent, Harold Lloyd's choice for his latest and next pictures; Hallam Cooley, charming comedian of "Paris Bound" and dozens of others; Robert Ellis, polished villain in "Broadway." That's what you get in:

WARNER FABIAN'S

WHAT MEN WANT

with PAULINE STARKE

Ben Lyon, Barbara Kent, Hallam Cooley, Robert Ellis. Directed by Ernst Laemmle.

Presented by CARL LAEMMLE.

It's Universal's Broadway Now!

Ben Lyon

Barbara Kent

Hallam Cooley

Robert Ellis

SONG HITS:
"What a Perfect Night for Love"
*
"My Baby an' Me"

UNIVERSAL FIRST!

Universal to Hold International Sales Convention, Starting April 25

New Product to Be Announced and Revolutionary Change in Policy to Be Officially Ushered in at Great Five-Day Rally at Savoy-Plaza—Carl Laemmle, and Carl Laemmle, Jr., Coming from Coast for Meeting—Galaxy of Stars Will Attend Banquet

First New York General Convention of Universal

OFFICIALLY ushering in the revolutionary change in Universal policy to super-production only, the annual sales contention of the company, which, for the first time will be international in scope, will get under way in New York City on April 25th at the Savoy-Plaza. Carl Laemmle, President, and Carl Laemmle, Jr., general manager of production, will come from the coast especially to attend and lead the Universal forces in the inauguration of "The New Day in Universal History."

It will be the company's first international convention. Delegates will be present from Australia, South America, Germany and England, in addition to the Home office personnel and branch managers from every exchange in the United States and Canada.

The convention will culminate with a special midnight showing at the Roxy of "The King of Jazz," with Paul Whiteman and his orchestra present and the New York premiere of "All Quiet on the Western Front" at the Central Theatre.

Both Carl Laemmle and Junior will come on from Universal City to fittingly usher in "The New Day in Universal History."

The headquarters of Universal during the convention will be established at the Savoy-Plaza. Here the delegates will be put up and the daily sessions of the convention will be held from April 26 to April 29, inclusive. John Boles, Jeanette Loff, Lewis Milestone and others who are coming to New York especially for this convention and for the premieres of Universal's super-productions, will also stop at the Savoy-Plaza.

The assembled sales forces will hear the company's product plans and policies fully set forth by Carl Laemmle and Carl Laemmle, Jr., and the other company officials, and the drive for the greatest year in Universal annals will get under way immediately after the convention ends.

On Sunday night, the banquet will be held in the Crystal Room of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, with a galaxy of Universal stars ald celebrities present to participate in Carl Laemmle's celebration of his twenty-fourth anniversary in the industry, which is signalized by the expansion of the company's production activities and its policy of "Bigger, Better and Fewer Pictures." The banquet will be in the nature of a testimonial to Laemmle, and a tribute to his inauguration of "The New Day."

Paul Whiteman and his orchestra will furnish the music for this extraordinary occasion, and will play the song hits from "King of Jazz," in which Whiteman stars for Universal. This super-production will begin its Broadway run at the Roxy Theatre on May 2.

At the banquet Roxy himself will stage the entertainment, in which talent from the world's greatest theatre will appear, together with an array of Universal celebrities, including John Boles, Jeanette Loff, Laura La Plante, Edward G. Robinson, Kathryn Crawford, Barbara Kent, Grace Hayes, William Kent and others. George Gershwin, composer of "The Rhapsody in Blue," which is one of the big numbers in "King of Jazz," will also be present, it is expected.

The convention delegates are due for some great surprises, according to advance word from Universal. One of the high spots of the convention will be the announcement of the purchase of a current Broadway hit, "Strictly Dishonorable," as a vehicle for John Boles. Those attending the sales sessions will go to the legitimate theatre, the Avon, in which the play is now running, and view the performance. "Strictly Dishonorable," by Preston Sturges, has been playing to capacity houses since its brilliant opening in September.

Further detailed plans for the convention will be announced later. The stage is all set for the biggest rally in Universal history.

"Very pleased to advise you that PHANTOM OF THE OPERA broke our house record for any three days' run. Considering the class of pictures we run here, I think this showing is remarkable. Thanks for a real box-office attracion."

—Major Graham, Grand Theatre, Regina, Sask.

The upper crust of the underworld—
A drama of Box-office thrills!
With
JOHN WRAY, BETTY COMPSON, JOHN HARRON
Claude Allister, King Baggot, Wilbur Mack, Henry Herbert, George Byron, Duke Lee. Directed by WILLIAM JAMES CRAFT. Songs: "That Homestead Steady of Mine," "Collegiate Love." Presented by CARL LAEMMLE.
This silent man of the shadows swayed commercial empires and ruled human lives!
The CZAR of BROADWAY
It's UNIVERSAL'S Broadway Now!

HOW DID T
WHITE
PITZ
Thrill #1001

HEY DO IT ?
HELL OF PALU
WHERE IN HEAVEN'S NAME WAS THE CAMERA ?
That's what will baffle your audiences —and you, too—when they witness this astounding new experience in screen drama! Places never before photographed—shots that never can be duplicated—Germany's greatest living ace zooming through a 2,000-foot-deep ice gorge—lovers hurtling over bottomless chasms, clinging to perilous precipices—nothing like it before! IT'S UNIVERSAL'S BROADWAY NOW!
Directed by Dr. Arnold Fanck, G. W. Pabst. H. R. Sokal, production manager. Produced by H. R. Sokal-Film.

Read What Douglas Fairbanks Thinks of "Pitz Palu"

Douglas Fairbanks

March tenth 1930.

Mr. Carl Laemmle,
Universal Pictures Corp.
Universal City, Calif.

Dear Mr. Laemmle:

I want to thank you for your courtesy to my friends and to me the other day and to tell you how intensely we enjoyed everything we saw. You are making great contributions to our industry and we all owe you our gratitude.

I believe I spoke to you about the Palu picture. If not, I want to tell you that I believe this picture is as distinctive and outstanding as anything I have ever seen.

My congratulations.

Cordially,

Douglas Fairbanks

DF;rah

Lupe Velez

seductively beautiful and tempestuous in the amazing talking thriller soon to play New York's Roxy. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE, from LANGDON McCORMICK'S great stage thriller, with PAUL CAVANAUGH and WILLIAM BOYD. With the hit song: "Tell Me, Do!" Directed by William Wyler.

You know how 'tis!

"It's UNIVERSAL'S Broadway Now!"

The SCUM

JOHN BOLES WELCOMED BY GLENS FALLS FOLK

Town Where Screen Star Once Taught Music and French Gives Him Cordial Homecoming—Renews Old Friendships

(Reprinted from Glens Falls Post-Star)

By SHERMAN H. LITCHFIELD

JOHN BOLES, nationally known film star, who in 1921 was vocal instructor and taught French in the Glens Falls High School, visited old friends and met new ones in this city yesterday.

Mr. Boles was stopping at The Queensbury with Mrs. Boles and Oscar Seagle, the group going to Schroon Lake this morning for a short visit at Mr. Seagle's home in that village. After the week-end Mr. and Mrs. Boles will return to New York and later visit Baltimore and Washington, where Mr. Boles will meet President Hoover.

After a tour through the Southern and Central part of the country, Mr. Boles will return to Hollywood about the middle of May and begin work on a new picture. Among the latest releases in which Mr. Boles appears is "Captain of the Guard," a picture taken from the life of Rouget de l'Isle, who wrote "La Marseillaise."

Another New Release

Also soon to be released is "King of Jazz," a picture in which Mr. Boles will sing two song hits.

"It certainly is a treat to be back in Glens Falls," Mr. Boles said last night. "There is always a warm spot in my heart for this city where I feel that I got my start," he added.

It was along about the time that the Glens Falls High School came in to the limelight with a crushingly strong championship football team that Mr. Boles was teaching in the local schools. When interviewed last night he recalled a few of the stars of that team, speaking especially of "Cliff" Sprague.

After spending three years as instructor in this city he journeyed to Europe with Oscar Seagle where he went still deeper into his study of music. In 1923 Mr. Boles returned to the United States where he made his initial appearance on the professional stage.

From his first appearance Mr. Boles' success seemed assured. So proficiently did he take his parts that in 1926 when Gloria Swanson was casting the roles for her picture, "Sunya," she sent to New York for Mr. Boles and it was in this picture that a career began which parallels any in the moving picture industry for its spectacular rise.

Talkies Open New Fields

With his well-trained voice and education in music, Mr. Boles was well-established when the talking screen came to the fore. While for many prominent actors and actresses, the change meant the end of their career, for Mr. Boles it opened new fields for still greater success and he has advanced rapidly.

In speaking of experimental developments in the moving picture industry, Mr. Boles looks forward with great anticipation to the perfection of apparatus to correctly picture colors. Another development which he feels will soon be offered for the theatre-going public is the projection of pictures onto the screen in the third dimension. He also spoke of the wide screen and its possibilities.

John Boles' success in the moving picture world has not changed him in the manner that success affects some persons. He warmly greeted Glens Falls friends last evening and expressed great pleasure in being so cordially welcomed "back home" again.

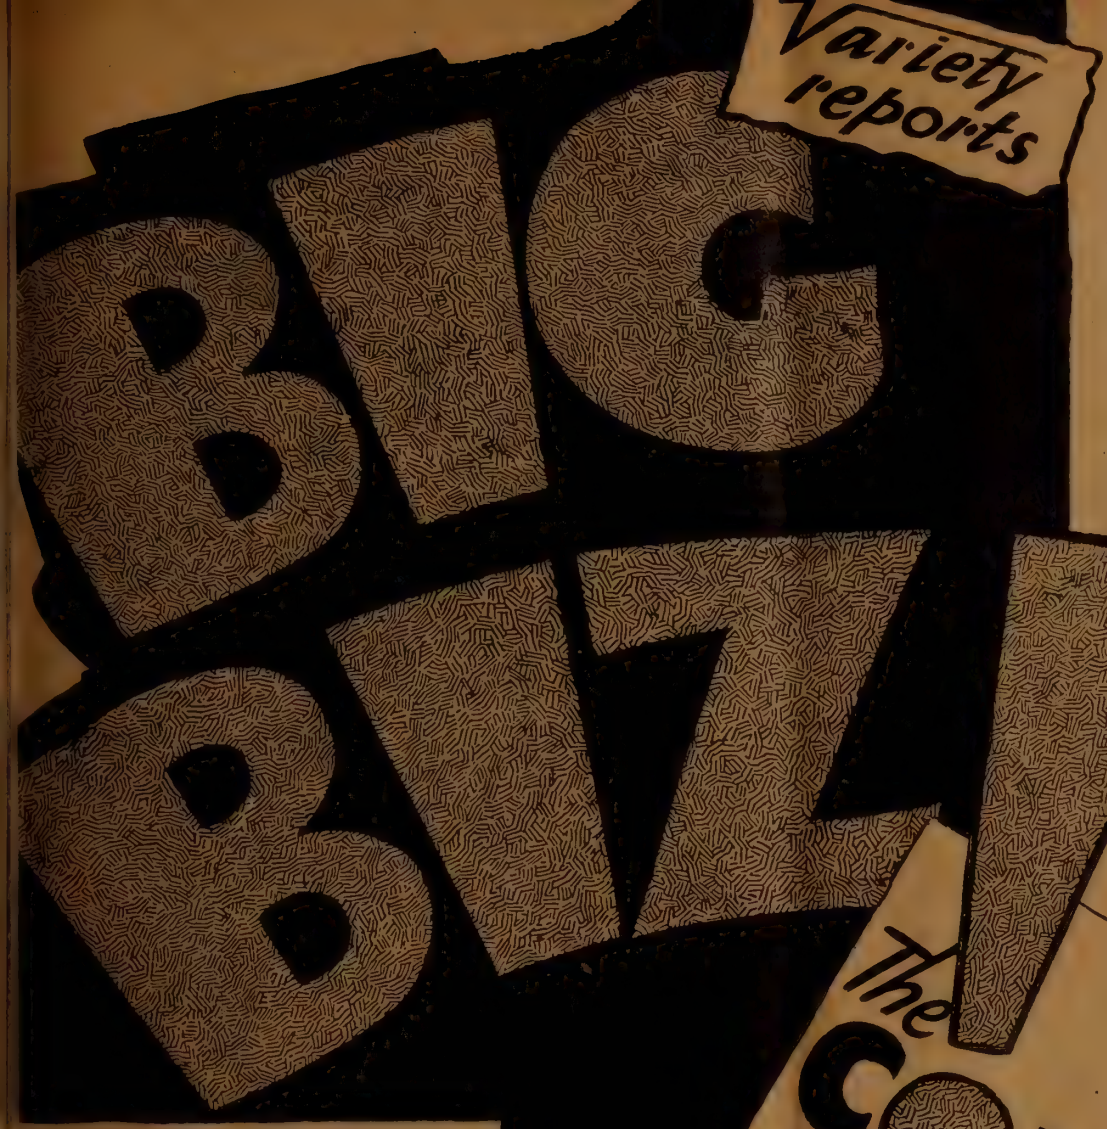
He chatted gaily with newspaper men with whom he was acquainted years ago when in Glens Falls, where he was then just starting to work his way up the ladder of success.

He recalled that in those days he had himself been "a good newspaper man" when he used "white space" liberally to advertise the musical attractions staged in this city under his direction. Mr. Boles assured newspapermen that a cordial welcome awaited them should they chance to visit Hollywood.

Mr. Boles expressed his appreciation of the many congratulatory messages that have reached him in Hollywood from his Glens Falls friends and said that he is anxious to have his friends know the genuine pleasure their messages brought to him.

HERE ARE THE FRENCH GIRLS

To whom Paul Baumer, Kropp and Leer swim across the canal in "All Quiet on the Western Front." The girls in the Universal war epic are Yola d'Avril, Poupee Andriot and Renee Damonde



Buffalo

FINE START, HELD UP

Lafayette (Ind) (3,400; 40-60)—"Cohens and Kellys in Scotland (U). "Jazz Temple Idea" (F. & M.). Good picture for house. Fine start and held up. $16,000.

Los Angeles

2 GRAND ABOVE AVERAGE

Million Dollar—"Cohens-Kellys in Scotland" (U) (2,300; 35-50). Lifted house to $7,400, about two grand above average. Gag-fest appealed to this section of town.

San Francisco

PIE FOR THIS LOCATION

Casino (Ackerman & Harris) (2,400; 40-60—"Cohens and Kellys in Scotland." Pie for this location. Climbed steadily, and ended with $13,000, close to house record.

New York

EARNED 3rd WEEK

Colony—"Cohens-Kellys in Scotland (U) (1,900; 35-50-75) (3d week). Did $13,000 following opening $15,000. Good enough to earn 3d week at this out-of-the-way location.

Pittsburgh

MEAT FOR THIS HOUSE

Harris (1,800; 10-20-30-40) "Cohens and Kellys in Scotland" (U) Meat for this house's trade and jumped to $8,000, more than satisfactory. Vic Graff's last week as m. c. Dick Ware opening Saturday (22).

New Orleans

CLICKED HEAVILY

Orpheum (2,400; 60)—"Cohens and Kellys in Scotland," vaude. With four shows daily regular policy returns have advanced. Picture clicked heavily; $14,000.

Minneapolis

PLEASED EXCEPTIONALLY

Orpheum (R-K-O) (2,890; 50)—"Cohens and Kellys in Scotland" (U), vaude, including Henry Santrey and band. Picture and vaudeville, particularly Santrey act, pleased exceptionally. Good night houses, but low scale kept gross down. $12,000. Fair.

UNIVERSAL FIRST

The popular Victor Concert Orchestra recording the accompanying music for Universal's Newspaper Newsreel. The addition of such excellent music to Graham McNamee's newscasting makes the newsreel triply entertaining.

Rosario Bourdon, conductor of the Victor Concert Orchestra, in his study

N. Y. AUDIENCES FIND "HIDE OUT" EXCITING

Critics Praise Swift Action, Thrilling Boat Race And Fact That New Twist Is Given to College Film

UNIVERSAL heralded the fact that "Hide Out" was a "different" sort of college picture. Now the critics are thanking the gods of the movie lot that "Hide Out" isn't just another campus film. The audience at the Colony Theatre, where the picture had its New York opening, exhibited signs of tension and interest not usually accorded varsity variations. The reviews below give the reason for the unusual response.

N. Y. AMERICAN
By Regina Crewe

A varsity hero of a decidedly different sort holds sway in "Hideout," the hybrid college-crook film at the Colony this week. It is an exciting enough movie with a number of tried-and-true ingredients cooked up together and garnished with several new angles—and a new face.

Jimmie Murray is the hero, and what a hard-boiled lad he is. He makes the Cicero playmates of Mr. Capone seem a lot of silly sissies. Despite the efforts of James' bootlegger-dad to make a gentleman of him via dear, old Crane College, Jimmie quits being an athletic star and goes into the rum racket for himself.

* * *

The new face, mentioned 'way back yonder in the first paragraph, belongs to Kathryn Crawford, who plays the ingenue lead opposite Murray. It is a piquantly attractive face, dimpled and possessing a kissable mouth, plus interesting eyes that seem to be blue and are fringed with long, jettie lashes. But the face isn't Miss Crawford's sole claim to film fame. She can act. And she can sing. I think the fans will want her in bigger and better roles. Incidentally, there's a buzzing from Hollywood that her present squire is "Buddy" Rogers. And he has good taste.

N. Y. JOURNAL
By Rose Peslwick

Throwing open the Pullman window (a feat which proves him to be the athlete he later turns out to be) James Murray escapes a jail sentence by diving off a train and enrolling in college. And the title of the piece, current at the Colony, is "Hide Out."

It's a good programme picture, with a neat little twist to the plot. Murray, as the excitement-hunting son of a bootleg king, tires of college life, goes in for rum-running and is caught by a detective (Robert Elliot). When he returns to college because it offers a hide-out, he becomes the campus hero through a ghost-written autobiography which presents him as the exponent of clean living. And when the detective finds and offers him the alternative of throwing the big game or going to jail, the what-to-do! situation is deftly, if not surprisingly concluded.

A regatta, which comes as the

(Continued on page 28)

"PACKED WITH PUNCH!"

Says N.Y. NEWS

" . . . not of the usual stuff from whence cinemas of the campus get their scenarios. No, sir. This is quite different. And we don't hesitate to recommend it as packed with punch, beside the rah-rah regalia."—N. Y. Sunday News.

HIDE OUT with JAMES MURRAY

KATHRYN CRAWFORD

Lee Moran, Robert Elliott
A Reginald Barker production. Story by Lambert Hillyer. Produced by CARL LAEMMLE, Jr. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE.

"JUST YOU AND I"
—
sung by Kathryn Crawford

UNIVERSAL FIRST!

Fred Coppins, bearer of the Victoria Cross, shakes hands with Hans Ferberg, Iron Cross wearer. The Canadian and German heroes fight on the same side in Universal's "All Quiet" war.

Wearers of V. C. And Iron Cross Meet in "All Quiet"

ONE of the dramatic incidents in the filming of Universal's "All Quiet on the Western Front" concerns the meeting of two valorous sons of England and Germany. Fred Coppins wears the Victoria Cross, Britain's greatest decoration for valor, for cleaning out three German machine-gun nests single-handed. Hans Ferberg was given the Iron Cross of the highest order in honor of his presence with the Kaiser the night he fled from Spa to exile at Doorn. Now the two are fighting as comrades in Remarque's moving protest against war.

Coppins plays the part of a German machine gunner, like those he attacked in the World War. Ferberg, who was an attache of the Kaiser's staff after graduation from the Potsdam military academy, portrays a German officer.

Coppins' explanation of the machine gun capture is as impressive in its simplicity as the Remarque novel itself.

"We attacked," he says. "We ran into the machine-gun nests. Then a barrage cut off our retreat. There we were. We all fell flat on our faces. There wasn't even a mound. We just hugged the earth. I got mad, that's all. I was lying there and couldn't do a thing. I got mad and got up and did it . . . that's all."

FAN PRAISE POURS IN ON "HELL'S HEROES"

Saturday Evening Post Readers Shower Carl Laemmle With Enthusiastic Letters on Unusual Talking Film

"HELL'S HEROES" IS A CLASSIC

"I happened into a theatre where 'Hell's Heroes' was playing. Only a few and far between do the movie mills grind out something outstanding and especially in this day of the audibles, and if ever there is one that is great, 'Hell's Heroes' is 'IT.' I tell you, it is a Masterpiece.

"Here is realism and life in the raw, here is marvelous and sincere acting before the glorious expanse of the desert, here the fine voice of Raymond Hatton is ever dominant in his splendid performance, as well as heroic portrayal by the others. Here is a plot ever so simple and unintelligent, yet so masterfully directed and portrayed that the colorful characteristics stand out as if they lived and breathed instead of being photographed artificialities. Here is photography so magnificently done that the desert is more than a reality, it becomes a character, silent yet expressive in its moods

"'Hell's Heroes' isn't just a movie, it's a Classic."

—Leonard E. L. Hue, Kansas City, Kansas.

ACTING WAS 100%

"'Hell's Heroes' . . . is one of the most human, real alive pictures I have ever seen . . . true to life all right. The moral obtained from it is well worth seeing, and sifting out. The acting was 100%—great—couldn't be better."

—Mr. A. S. Hodgdon, St. James, Manitoba, Canada.

"HELL'S HEROES" IS A MASTERPIECE

"I have recently seen 'Hell's Heroes.' It is everything you claim for it, but I think you were too reserved in praising it. It is, undoubtedly, one of the finest pictures it has been my good fortune to witness.

"When I saw the picture the audience actually rose and cheered when Bob reached New Jerusalem with the baby. And I cheered as lustily as anybody in the house.

—Arthur Leventhal, Brooklyn, New York.

MARVELOUS PICTURE

"'Hell's Heroes' was a marvelous picture, the best production of any movie company I have seen in quite a while. My judgment was not alone by the fact that every one of the critics acclaimed this picture. Charles Bickford shines in this picture.

—Joseph Appel, Chicago, Ill.

HAVE NEVER SEEN BETTER DIRECTION

"So great has been my enjoyment of 'Hell's Heroes' that I could not resist the temptation to write and tell you about it. . . . Never have I seen a better directed picture. It certainly is a pleasure to go through a picture with a clear understanding of the story as you could possibly get from reading it in the book. . . . The scenery and settings were wonderful, and never have I seen a finer bit of acting than that in the poison water scene when Bob was returning to New Jerusalem with the baby."

—W. F. Currington, Fon du Lac, Wis.

EXCELLENT PICTURE

"The other evening I attended the performance of 'Hell's Heroes' at the Strand Theatre. I thought it a very good — even excellent — picture, because of its natural and beautiful setting, and its fine dialogue—the dialogue of real 'desert rats.' It will go down on my 'Best Show List!'"

—Arvid E. Peterson, Duluth, Minn.

ONE OF DAY'S BEST

"I had the opportunity of seeing 'Hell's Heroes' in this city last week. It is my belief beyond any reasonable doubt that this is one of the best pictures of the day."

Kansas City, Mo.
—T. B. Roberson,

"DISTINCTLY FANCY AT $13,000" says Variety

Los Angeles, April 1.

Criterion (Fox), "Phantom of the Opera" (Univ) (1,600; 25-75) (1st week) Talking re-make stepped out from start and distinctly fancy at $13,000.

UNIVERAL FIRST!

"The Phantom of the Opera"

(Chaney's role of the Phantom is a silent portrayal.)

Carl Laemmle's super thriller is amazing the industry!

MUSIC
DIALOG TECHNI COLOR

Starring LON CHANEY

With Norman Kerry and Mary Philbin.

From the novel by Gaston Leroux.

Directed by Rupert Julian. Music—dialog—technicolor. Sound on disc only.

"CAPTAIN OF GUARD" CAPTURES BALTIMORE

"King of Jazz" captured the whole front page of the weekly film pictorial section of the Los Angeles Sunday Times Pre-view just before the spectacular pre-view of the production at the coast. Paul Whiteman, the enormous piano on which the orchestra plays, the bridal spectacle, the Melting Pot number and the exotic Monterey sequence combined to give some idea of the scope of the John Murray extravaganza.

BALTIMORE, the second city to see Universal's "Captain of the Guard," exhibited the same enthusiasm that characterized its premiere in New York at the Roxy. The French Revolutionary film opened at the Auditorium in Baltimore to a record crowd. The critics voiced the response of the audience in their reviews.

BALTIMORE POST

Most of the elements of a fine photoplay are in "Captain of the Guard," at the Auditorium. Enough of the elements to keep the audience constantly interested and not infrequently thrilled.

There is, first of all, a romantic story based on the writing of "La Marseillaise," the French national hymn. . . .

* * *

The film also has John Boles in the leading role. He makes an attractive, romantic figure . . . the possessor of a magnificent voice.

* * *

Perhaps the most exciting scenes in the film are the revolutionary mob scenes, which use, according to the ads, 5,000 people. This is quite believable, because the mobs are tremendous, and well directed.

Louis Azrael.

EVENING SUN

If there are, perchance, and lingering doubts in your mind as to whether "La Marseillaise" is or is not a superbly thrilling anthem, we would advise a trip to the Auditorium this week. At the conclusion of this stirring film we have every reason to believe that you will wrap up your doubts in a neat little package, tie the package to a brick and drop the whole business out the most convenient window.

The French hymn of patriotism had no difficulty at all in causing yesterday's audience to break out in the finest case of duck bumps this season, a rash that expressed itself in something approaching thunderous applause.

* * *

A lovely theme song threads the score.

Q. E. D.

Story Without Romance Or Jazz, But Filled Poignant Drama And Glints Of Comedy, At

"Hell's Heroes" Is Another Evidence That Universal Does Big Things.

By H. E. Cherrington.

WITH us to the Grand last night to see "Hell's Heroes," a really fine picture, and decidedly unusual, went a lady who hadn't been to a movie for seven weeks and who was uncertain whether she would be able to sit still for two hours. Said she: "This had better be good or I'll just walk out and go home." Verdict: We helped her on with her coat at the end of the show.

It was from Peter B. Kyne's "Three Godfathers" that they derived the story which goes into this stern and yet far from repulsive story of adventures and manifest destinies on the Mojave desert. But no story writer could achieve an effect such as this. Much of the credit must go to William Wyler, a director who, with this work, merits inclusion among the grains of the continually shifting art and industry, known as the motion picture business. But he was lucky to get a cast that perfectly achieved his goals.

We first meet the [illegible] bad men, who do most [illegible]tory, on their visit to a [illegible] west called New [illegible] "a bad town—for [illegible] as a sign-post [illegible]osts announces. We [illegible]hem having a jolli- [illegible] the bar, with the [illegible] asking one of them, as he [illegible]ves, "Where are you going?" "Oh, I donno," he replied, as if joking, "I thought mebbe I'd go over and rob the bank." And that, is what he does, with the aid of three pals, one of whom leaves his body behind in tribute. One of them plugs the bank cashier "through the pump," when he foolishly reaches for a gun, with two desperadoes covering him.

Thence we follow the trio out to the desert where they lose their pursuers, but also, in a violent windstorm, forfeit their horses and thus their passport back to civilization.

COLUMBUS DISPATCH

UNIVERSAL'S big-time product has them all talking. Pictures that fill the ever-sensitive box-office with a throb of power . . . that send audiences away with that "man-what-a-picture" smile of satisfaction. These two are typical:

▼

HELL'S HEROES

PETER B. KYNE'S first story in sound. With Charles Bickford, Raymond Hatton, Fred Kohler, Fritzi Ridgeway, Maria Alba. Directed by WILLIAM WYLER. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE.

▼

NIGHT RIDE

Starring JOSEPH SCHILDKRAUT with Edward G. Robinson, star of the stage play, "The Kibitzer," and beautiful Barbara Kent. Story by Henry La Cossitt. A JOHN ROBERTSON Production. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE.

L[illegible]RSAL FIRST

Traffic Signal Gag Attracts Crowds to "Cohens and Kellys"

Fred Meyer of Alhambra Theatre, Milwaukee Goes After Scotch Comedy in Brisk Campaign

FRED MEYER, Managing Director of the Alhambra Theatre, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, put a striking "Stop and Go" sign on the order of a regulation traffic signal in the entrance of the theatre and flashed a red "STOP" sign, folowed by a green one reading "GO See the COHENS AND KELLYS." He dressed his lobby with plaids to give it the Scotch atmosphere of the picture. The box-office was made to appear as a huge golf bag of a colorful Scotch plaid, which also provided an effective background for three 60 x 40 panels on both sides and two ovals at the front on which cut-outs of the stars stood out in relief. A shadow box displaying cut-out heads of George Sidney and Charley Murray was also used in the lobby.

Mr. Meyer tied up with Western Union by having a telegram sent him from Sidney, Murray, Price and Gordon at Universal City. This was mounted and placed in the windows of twenty-two telegraph officies around the city.

A co-operative tie-up was secured with the Eastern Laundry whereby they distributed 6,500 heralds in bundles delivered, or called for at the office of the laundry.

In addition to these stunts, three girls were employed to telephone all the Cohens and Kellys in Milwaukee that the picture would have an engagement at the Alhambra Theatre, and extra advertising space was taken in the papers. A special sound trailer was run one week in advance of the opening. A special cut-out was made with stills of the picture mounted on same and was placed in the Belmont Hotel. A window display tie-up was made with the Owl Drug Store, located on the city's main corner, with their "Baby Golf Clubs." A six-sheet cut-out of George Sidney holding a golf club was place in sporting goods store windows in choice locations in the downtown district. These cut-outs attracted considerable attention, especially since they came at the time when thoughts of golf are quite prevalent.

NEW YORK FINDS "HIDE OUT" EXCITING

(Continued from page 22)

climax, is well photographed, and Murray, as the famous stroke oar, does a convincing piece of work with his role. Kathryn Crawford, as the co-ed who helps bring about his regeneration, is attractive, and Eliott gives a pleasing performance as one of those detectives who, ever since "Broadway" takes a fatherly interest in crooks.

EVENING WORLD

By George Gerhard

Reginald Barker, director, and James Murray, star of sorts, have taken an utterly bromidic tale in "Hide Out," and made of it an exciting little picture. * * * . . . You'll find things which will excite you profoundly. The boat race scenes are very well done.

N. Y. TELEGRAM

If you like rough and ready, fast-moving stories that have been dished together with a seeming twist of the Hollywood wrist, if you like collegiates who are very collegiate, with a tendency to go bad thrown in for good measure—then you'll find the current film at the Colony, "Hide Out," muchly up your idiosyncratic channel.

From the President of the National Broadcasting Co.—

NATIONAL BROADCASTING COMPANY, INC.

711 FIFTH AVENUE

NEW YORK

April 5 1930

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

Mr Carl Laemmle President
Universal Pictures Corporation
New York City

Dear Mr Laemmle:

I am delighted to hear of the great success of the Universal Pictures Corporation newsreel featuring Graham McNamee. His charming and virile personality naturally led all of us to expect the popular approval with which this excellent feature has been greeted. But the work in its entirety has been done with a true appreciation of his unique qualities and I feel that Universal Pictures Corporation has a right to be proud of this new offering.

I therefore wish to offer you as well as Mr McNamee my hearty congratulations.

Faithfully yours,

M H Aylesworth

UNIVERSAL'S TALKING NEWSREEL

Newscast by GRAHAM McNAMEE. Produced under the supervision of Sam B. Jacobson. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE.

Two a Week. On Film & Disc.

UNIVERSAL FIRST!

UNIVERSAL SYNOPSES

John Boles

"CAPTAIN OF THE GUARD"

Universal Production

With Laura La Plante and John Boles

Laura La Plante

MARIE MARNAY, the daughter of an innkeeper, refuses to marry the man of her father's choice, Bazin, a secret agent in the service of the King.

Her father tells her of a music master, Rouget de l'Isle, whom Bazin is sending to give her music lessons. Marie is furious. Then the music master arrives. Marie, liking his looks, changes her mind. They fall in love and decide to marry after Rouget has served his year's service to the King. They pledge their troth and Rouget leaves.

The people of France are rising in secret against the dominion of the King. Marie and her father refuse to follow the rebels, but when Marnay is killed by one of the King's soldiers in attempting to save Marie from the lust of the officers, Marie experiences a change of feeling, and joins the revolutionists. They call her "The Torch," and follow her instructions to the letter. Since Rouget is on the King's side, she writes him that she has found something greater than love and will not see him again, and is going away.

Bazin discovers the whereabouts of "The Torch." Because of his jealousy of Rouget and Marie, Bazin sees that Rouget is sent to arrest this mysterious woman who is a traitor to her King. Rouget has no idea who the woman is.

In the village Rouget goes to the deserted inn. He enters. The place has many memories for him. He sings a song he had composed for Marie. She enters and there is a reconciliation. Bazin enters, accuses Marie of treason and orders her arrest. Rouget is furious because of the trick played on him. Back in Paris he pleads for Marie's life, but only succeeds in having himself thrown into jail, when he pleads for justice.

One day Rouget is inspired to write a song for the people. Queen Marie Antoinette, charmed by the beauty of Rouget's voice, has had him released from prison and Rouget is to sing his song for the King. After singing his song Rouget breaks his sword and renounces the King. He then escapes.

Rouget flees to Marseilles, where he organizes an army. They march on Paris, save Marie, and the revolution is started. Rouget and Marie are reunited.

"PEEK A BOO"

Universal Comedy

With Arthur Lake

ARTHUR was only a hotel page but at heart he was a detective and he little suspected that his trick disguises, when he was hot after a clue, were easily seen through. The only one who had faith in him was the hotel proprietor's daughter. Arthur discovered that one of the guests had been robbed, and questioned the victim for a description of his assailant, only to learn it was a gorilla assisted by a woman, but the finding of an earring seemed to be a good clue to Arthur.

Arthur found the woman thief and her accomplice, who had been masking as a gorilla. In the excitement the real gorilla is captured in place of the man-thief, but Arthur with his newly-found intincts, got his man and was awarded a better job in the hotel.

"ALIAS THE BANDIT"

Western Featurette

With Bobbie Nelson

DANDY DAN DAWSON, supposedly escaping the vigilant eye of the law, wins the admiration of little Bobbie Norman by recovering a sum of money given to the child by his sister, Ruth, to pay the final instalment on a mortgage, held by one Randall. Randall had sent one of his men out to waylay the Normans so that payment could not be made in time. Randall wanted to get illegal possession of the Norman ranch. When the money is stolen from Bobbie, Dan steals it from the thief, gives it to the boy and sees that he gets a receipt in full from Randall. Meanwhile the sheriff finds that Dan is "wanted" on a large reward. Dan gallops to the Norman homestead where Ruth hides him.

The sheriff and the Randall gang enter the cabin and find Dan. Just as the sheriff starts to arrest him, Dan shows his credentials as deputy marshall, declares that Randall is wanted by the Law and he makes an arrest of the gang.

"STEP RIGHT UP"

Universal Comedy

With Sid Saylor

SID was in love with a bareback rider, but the girl didn't know she was getting such a break. Sid was so bashful he adored in the distance! His big moment came when the pretty equestrienne asked him to go after her hat, with which a capricious monkey had climbed to the top of a lion cage. Well, he got the lid.

After that romantic episode he just had to get a job with the carnival and they made him water boy. He did his best to appear nonchalant when in the company of the elephant, but it didn't come off.

Suddenly a drunken sharpshooter began "acting up." Before the male Oakley left, our hero and heroine found themselves beneath a collapsed tent.

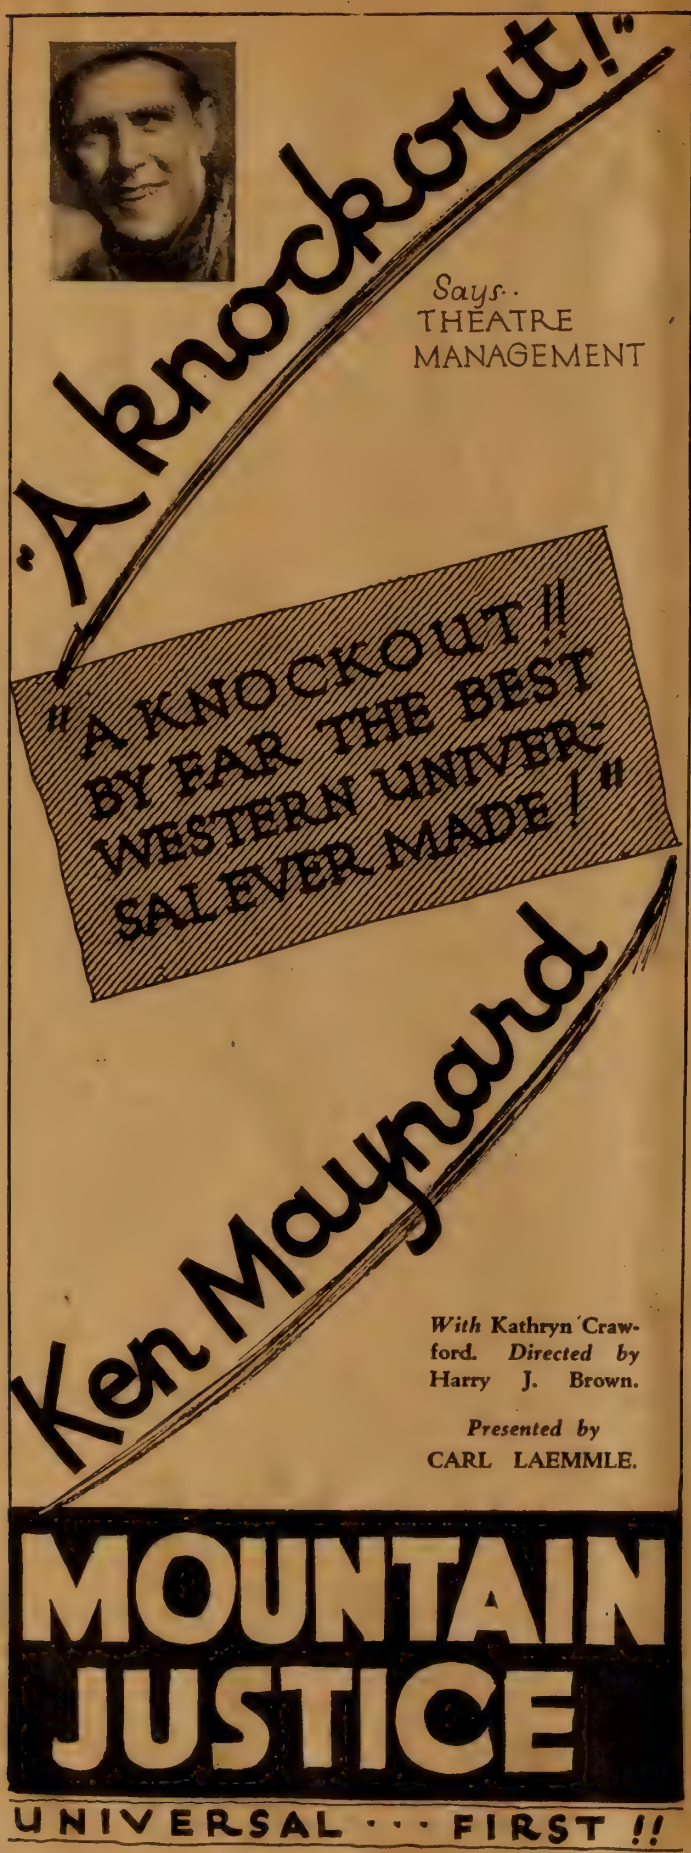
"THE JADE BOX"

No. 9---"Out of the Shadows"

JACK escapes unhurt and Helen escapes from the crooks' den. Morgan apologizes to Jack for stealing the box. He says they should work together, that he has the box in his safe and that if Jack will open it, they will find how to help Jack's father. Jack agrees. Meanwhile, in the library, the shadow opens the box and extracts a vial from it, substituting another vial. Morgan produces the box and Jack opens it. On the vial is a slip of paper saying it means the restoration of Jack's father. Morgan grabs the box and vial and draws a gun. He says he will keep them and learn the secret of invisibility. Jack and he struggle for the box and the vial falls from Morgan's hand and smashes on the floor. The shadow appears and materializes into Jack's father, John Lamar. He explains he substituted the vial to prove that Morgan was the real thief and would-be murderer and now, before he fulfills his vow, he will deal with Morgan.

Ads like these will sell your show like Roxy sold New York!

THIS exceptional campaign sheet is loaded with pulling paper and other accessories that will make your box-office records run and hide! Get the press book from your exchange and go after the big money!



Universal Sales Force Completely Realigned

Company's New Sales Policy Of Concentration Launched

COMPLETION of the realignment of the Universal sales organization, with concentration of executive man-power largely in New York and marking a significant change in the company's sales machinery, was announced yesterday by Lou B. Metzger, general manager, with the appointment of Leo M. Devaney as an Assistant Eastern Sales Manager and G. E. Rosenwald as Assistant Western Sales Manager. The appointments of Sig Wittman, as an assistant Eastern Sales Manager, and Ralph Williams, with the title of Southern Sales Director, have already been announced.

Under the direction of Mr. Metzger, as general manager of the company, sales are now handled by division of the country into two territories East and West. The Eastern Sales Manager is Ted Schlanger, and Harry Taylor is Western Sales Manager, both with headquarters in New York.

Under these two there are four assistant sales managers: Messrs. Wittman, Devaney, Williams, and Rosenwald. The first two are assigned to the East, while Mr. Williams' territory is partly in the East, and partly in the West. Mr. Rosenwald is an assistant sales manager for the West, and is the only one of the group who will not have his headquarters in New York.

Leo Devaney is promoted to his new post from the mid-west district managership. He will have supervision of the following offices: Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Indianapolis and Cincinnati.

A former newspaperman, Devaney had extensive experience in exhibition before going into the distribution end of the business, and has been with Universal for a number of years as Canadian Sales Manager, Home Office Sales Representative, branch manager, and mid-west division manager.

Rosenwald, whose promotion was also announced by Mr. Metzger yesterday, comes to his new post from the Western Division managership. He will have supervision over nine offices: Kansas City, St. Louis, Denver, Salt Lake City, Butte, Portland, Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Williams, as previously announced, has supervision of eight offices, five of which are in Schlanger's jurisdiction: Charlotte, Atlanta, Jacksonville, New Orleans, and Memphis. The other three—Dallas, San Antonio and Oklahoma City—are under the direction of Harry Taylor, Western Sales Manager.

Due to the great distances covered by Mr. Rosenwald's territory, which includes the Pacific slope, he will maintain his headquarters as before, in San Francisco.

The executive structure of the Universal sales organization, showing the concentration of man-power under the new plan, is as follows:

Lou B. Metzger, general manager; Ted Schlanger, Eastern Sales Manager; Sig Wittman, assistant Eastern Sales Manager; Leo M. Devaney, assistant Eastern Sales Manager; Harry Taylor, Western Sales Manager; G. E. Rosenwald, Assistant Western Sales Manager; Ralph Williams, Southern Sales Director, ranking as an assistant sales manager.

The first international sales convention of Universal Pictures Corporation, starting on April 25th in New York City at the Savoy-Plaza, will not only usher in the new alignment of the "U" sales organization, but will mark a new era in the history of the company. The decision to make fewer and better pictures is of tremendous importance to the sales force.

Out of the pages of the world's best seller walk the people of Universal's epic of war as seen through the eyes of youth.

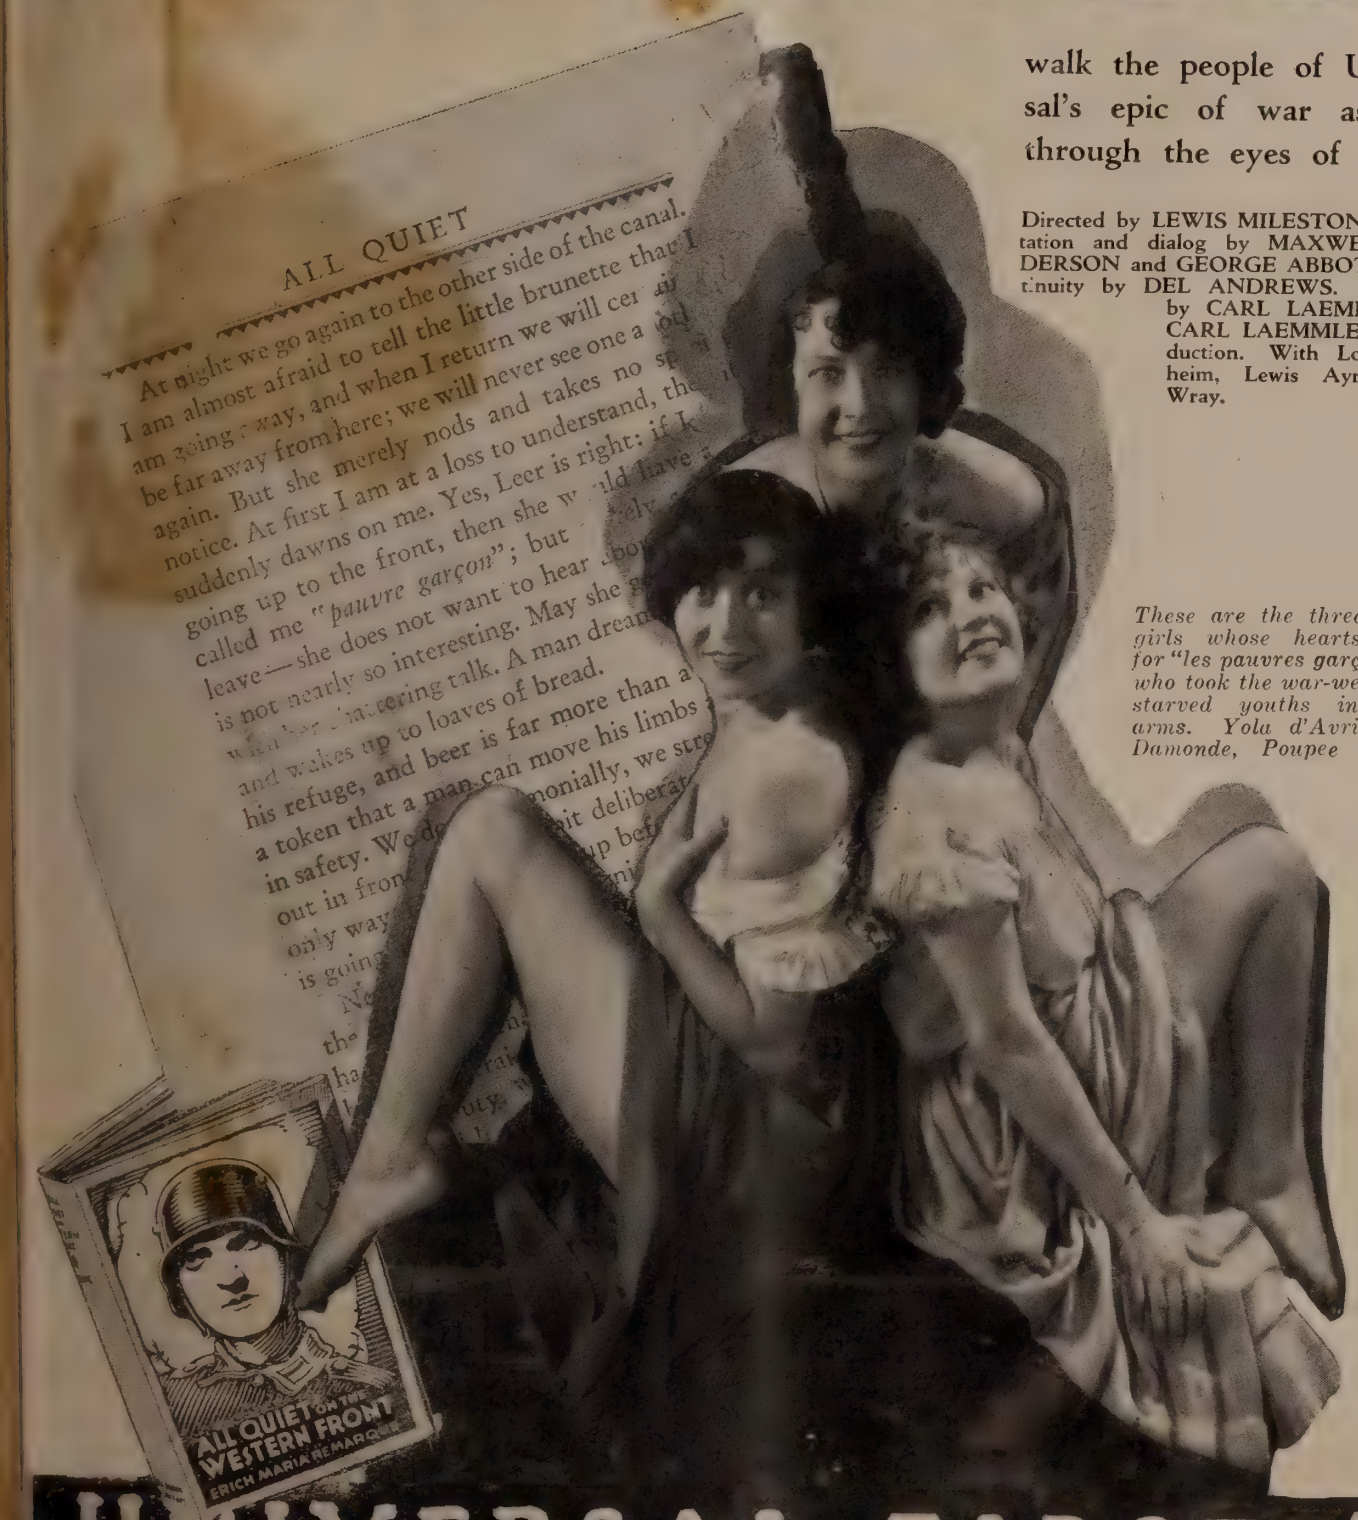
Directed by LEWIS MILESTONE. Adaptation and dialog by MAXWELL ANDERSON and GEORGE ABBOTT. Continuity by DEL ANDREWS. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE. A CARL LAEMMLE Jr., Production. With Louis Wolheim, Lewis Ayres, John Wray.



These are the three French girls whose hearts melted for "les pauvres garçons" and who took the war-weary, love starved youths in tender arms. Yola d'Avril, Renee Damonde, Poupee Andriot.

UNIVERSAL FIRST!

Watch This Column

Universal's Weekly Chat

Louis Wolheim

in "ALL QUIET on the WESTERN FRONT"

"CAPTAIN OF THE GUARD" is the new title for the beautiful and flaming romance previously named "La Marseillaise." The change was made because the new name is more appropriate, more dramatic and also because theatre-owners say "La Marseillaise" is difficult to pronounce. In this delightful musical drama, LAURA LA PLANTE plays the part of "The Torch" and JOHN BOLES is the "Captain of the Guard." As soon as you see the picture, write me about it, please. —C. L.

Members of the German Reichstag (similar to our Congress) take exceptions to Universal's great picture "All Quiet on the Western Front," written by Erich Maria Remarque. They complain that it is emphasized in anti-German form. They are mistaken. The picture is a faithful reproduction of Remarque's fine novel. Universal has taken no liberties with the story, and I predict that the picture will prove as entertaining to the Germans as it will to the rest of mankind.

JOHN MURRAY ANDERSON
Creator of Paul Whiteman's "King of Jazz"

Jimmy Starr, regarded as the foremost among the critics in Los Angeles, describes Paul Whiteman's "King of Jazz" as "the finest film revue and the most sensational production yet made. John Murray Anderson, who conceived and directed the massive feature, shows the world in fine fashion that he is indeed a master of cinematic entertainment." Unless I am terribly mistaken, the whole world will flock to this brilliant performance.

Have you any ideas that might make good moving-pictures? If so, write me. Do you know of any scene which we might put into our Talking-Newsreel in which the celebrated Graham McNamee, National Broadcasting Company's Star, is the announcer?

Carl Laemmle,
President

UNIVERSAL PICTURES
"The Home of the Good Film"
730 Fifth Ave. New York City

The column on the right will appear in The Saturday Evening Post of May 10, 1930.

Lengthen the line!

YOUR "neighborhood" extends for many miles in all directions. There is no limit to the area you can draw from, provided you play pictures the fans are awaiting—such as those nationally advertised in Carl Laemmle's Saturday Evening Post column.

Universal Weekly
VOL. 31 NO. 14
MAY 10 1930

Jeanette Loff
the prima donna of
"King of Jazz"

CRASH HIT
ERICH MARIA REMARQUE'S great novel. Directed by LEWIS
MILESTONE. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE. A CARL
LAEMMLE, JR. Production.
Adaptation and dialogue by MAX
WELL ANDERSON and GEORGE ABBOTT
With Louis Wolhe
Lewis Ayres, John W
ALL
WESTER

BOTH COASTS

After brilliant Los Angeles (Carthay Circle) opening, smashed home to sell-out business in New York's Central Theatre with critics raving themselves hoarse:

"So magnificent, so powerful that it hardly behooves mere words to tell of its heart-rending appeal, of its dramatic fire, its breath-taking battle shots."

Irene Thirer
N. Y. Daily News

"Audience stunned with its terrific power. Every one connected with the production has attained motion picture immortality."

Regina Crewe,
N. Y. American

"A memorable piece of work. A notable achievement sincere and earnest . . . vivid and graphic. One is gripped!"

Mordaunt Hall,
N. Y. Times

"Holds you spell-bound. Leaves you breathless. It is tremendous. Simply must be seen. Grips the audience."

William Boehnel,
N. Y. Telegram

"Enormously compelling. A brilliant transcription of the most famous book of a decade. Splendid achievement.

Howard Barnes,
N. Y. Herald Tribune

"Marvelously artistic, supremely realistic. Far and away the most significant picture ever turned out by Universal."

George Gerhard,
N. Y. Eve. World

"Compelling. An impressive production. Expertly chosen cast, splendidly made. Powerful."

Rose Pelswick,
N. Y. Eve. Journal

"A stupendous achievement in movie making. A striking blasting panorama of war. Magnificent. Vivid."

John S. Cohen, Jr., N. Y. Sun

"An important epic. A directorial achievement. A wonderful job. An impressive panorama."

Julia Shawell, N. Y. Eve. Graphic

"A magnificent success. Acted to utter perfection. A masterly incarnation of the vivid novel."

Quinn Martin, N. Y. World

EAST

Complete sell-out at long-run CENTRAL THEATRE, Broadway, N. Y. Matinee following opening night S.R.O. before doors opened.

WEST

Playing CARTHY CIRCLE, Los Angeles, prize west coast long-run house did outstanding $22,000, (see "Variety") on premiere week.

QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT

UNIVERSAL

689—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

FROM now on, the fur is going to fly!

From this day forward, you and all the other buyers of picture productions will think of Universal first!

From now on, Universal becomes the class of the industry.

The whole picture business is already talking about Universal—but we have other surprises and plans in store which will make the present excited talk sound like chatter.

I have already announced that our policy for next year calls for the making of only 20 productions instead of more than double that number—and that each and every picture will be aimed directly at first run houses.

I've got to make them better than anyone else's pictures in order to sell them into first run houses owned by other producers. It is only natural for them to give their own pictures preference in their own theatres, and that's why I've got to make mine better.

But I'm not waiting for next year to prove that I can do it.

FIRST!!!

The battle is on right now—this minute!

The first challenge which I fling into the very teeth of exhibitors in the war of quality and box-office bigness is Paul Whiteman in "The King of Jazz." There's not a theatre in the world that will not welcome it eagerly.

The next challenge is "All Quiet on the Western Front" —the picture which will create even a greater world sensation than the book of the same name.

The next smashing hit is "Captain of the Guard" which had its sensational world premiere at the Roxy theatre and which, Roxy said, had received more applause than any picture he had shown in a long time.

Then in rapid succession will come Lupe Velez in "The Storm"; John Wray in "The Czar of Broadway"; "The White Hell of PITZ-PALU"; and Mary Nolan in "Young Desire," and others soon to be announced.

What's fine enough for the world's finest theatres will be fine enough for you, won't it?

Well, that's what you will get and that's why, from this moment on, it will be a case of - - - -

Universal first!

Romance and the Talkies

A Story from France, and Some Others

Two Pages of Movie Reviews

By

KATE CAMERON

Captain of the Guard tempts with winsome Laura La Plante.

1 star means fairly good.
2 stars, good.
3 stars, excellent.
4 stars, extraordinary.

★ ★ ★ CAPTAIN OF THE GUARD

HOUSTON BRANCH has dramatized La Marseillaise, the song of the French revolutionists, for Universal, and under the direction of Paul Fejos it becomes the inspiration for a gripping and romantic story. The French Revolution is unfailingly dramatic. With the drama of this story we have, in addition, romance and lovely music.

It is directed in a staccato style. The short scenes of the revolutionary groups, the bits of the leaders' inflammatory speeches, and the flashes of royalty at their games are very expressive, and much more effective than the usual long-drawn-out mob scenes.

Theodore desperate doings in Montana Moon. Just look at Joan Crawford, John Mack Brown, and Ricardo Cortez.

The Carry On song, sung by the revolutionists, is rendered with spirit, but it is not as inspiring as La Marseillaise. John Boles, who plays the part of Rouget de Lisle, the composer of the great song, has a fine barytone voice which reproduces beautifully. If Boles were as good an actor as he is a singer he would be perfect.

The love story is charming. Laura La Plante is hardly recognizable at first, so great a difference does long dark wavy hair make in her appearance. She is just as attractive, however, as she is in her sleek blondness.

The story, with the revolution as a background, is of a young captain of Hussars, Rouget de Lisle, who falls in love with Marie Marnay, a country innkeeper's daughter (played by Laura La Plante). The lovers are parted during the period of the captain's military service, and while De Lisle is serving his king in Paris, Marie's father is killed by one of the king's officers.

Once a loyal royalist, Marie now becomes a passionate revolutionist. She is arrested, thrown into the Bastille, and condemned to death. De Lisle, who has betrayed her without knowing it, begs for her life. His pleas have no effect, and in his agony and desperation he [illegible]

...dge, his colonel, and Bazin, one of the king's secret agents, that their lack of mercy will incite the people to an uprising. He is arrested as a traitor.

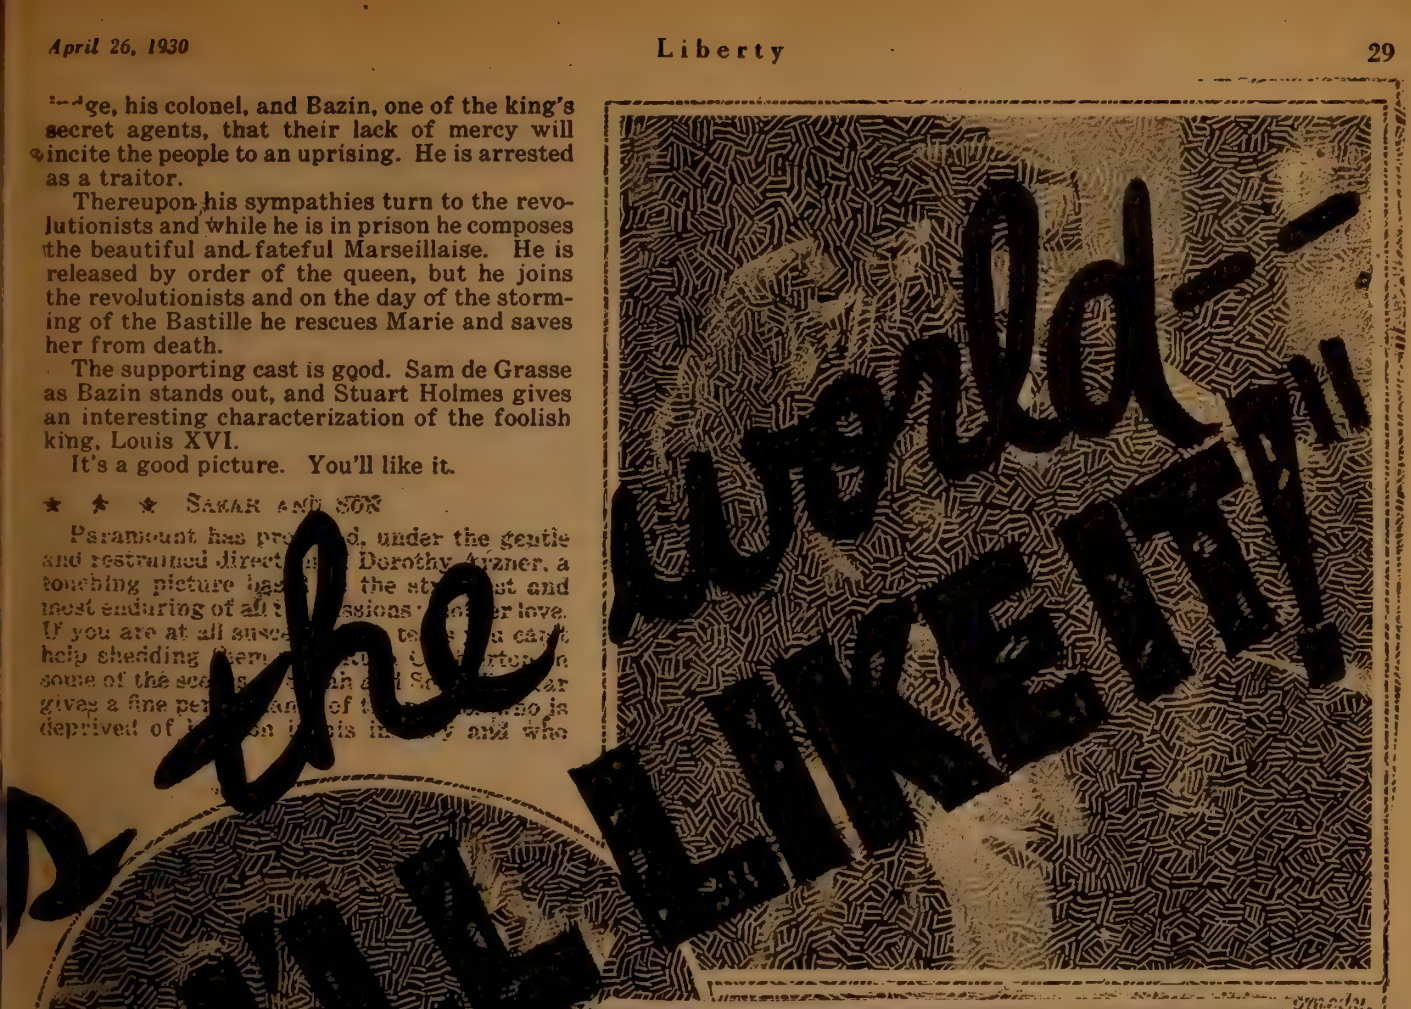
Thereupon his sympathies turn to the revolutionists and while he is in prison he composes the beautiful and fateful Marseillaise. He is released by order of the queen, but he joins the revolutionists and on the day of the storming of the Bastille he rescues Marie and saves her from death.

The supporting cast is good. Sam de Grasse as Bazin stands out, and Stuart Holmes gives an interesting characterization of the foolish king, Louis XVI.

It's a good picture. You'll like it.

★ ★ ★ SARAH AND SON

Paramount has pr...d, under the gentle and restrained direct... Dorothy Arzner, a touching picture ba... the st... and most enduring of all ...ssions ...er love. If you are at all susce... te... can't help shedding ...em... Ch...rton in some of the sce... ...h a... Sa...ar gives a fine pe... ...an... of t... ...no is deprived of h... ...n ... his in... ...y and who



—and HOW they liked it in New York, where hold-over crowds in the world's largest theatre compelled Roxy to run it another week . . . and HOW they are liking it in the big towns . . . and HOW they'll like it in YOUR town!

With Laura LA PLANTE and John BOLES

A Universal Production, with stirring music and songs by CHARLES WAKEFIELD CADMAN. A John Robertson production from the story by Houston W. Branch. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE. HIT SONGS: "Song of the Sword," and these by Handman, Kent and Goodman: "For You," "You, You Alone," "Maids on Parade," "Can It Be?" Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr.

Ruth Chatterton and Fredric March in ... At the right, Phyllippe de Lacy in the ...omedy, ...d, pre-...ented ...d Rex ...illiam ...own of ...

...by the ...behavior ...

...ord, the ...dess and ...s a cow-...Brown ...he finds ...d merry ...

CAPTAIN OF THE GUARD

...ortbreaki... ...s in ar... ...er ... ...of Gary ...

...has its ... ...ely ...

...Phili... ...y ma... ... ...

...b's l... ...lost so... ... ...ann't ...

...with Chatterton ... ...ango ...

...the successful a... ...rs s... ...later, ...e of. ...

...Fuller Mellish, ...

... ...ance as ... ...

... ...march, as the ... ...stage ...

... ...seeing her son, ...little ...

... ...ve, is handsome ... ...h it. ...

...and ... sympathetic in the part. Gilbert Emery is ... ...

...the hard-hearted foster fath... ... ...

...Sa... ... ...

...fa... ...see ... ...

★ ★ ... ...NA M... ... ...

...Ricardo Cortez, ...

...who is ... ...

...the ... ...

...and ... ...

...the ... ...

...Metro-... ... ...

...is a ... ...

...the ... ...

...a ... ...

...romance, but the ... ...

director's handling of it almost ruined it. If his intention was to kid the story, he spoiled the effect by going too far. What he did was to cheapen it by some low comedy

...William Collier, Sr., has the leading male rôle and is amusing as the exasperated father of the family. Mar-...garet ...urchill ... Patte... ... ...ee, Rex ...Bell ... ...harles ... ...

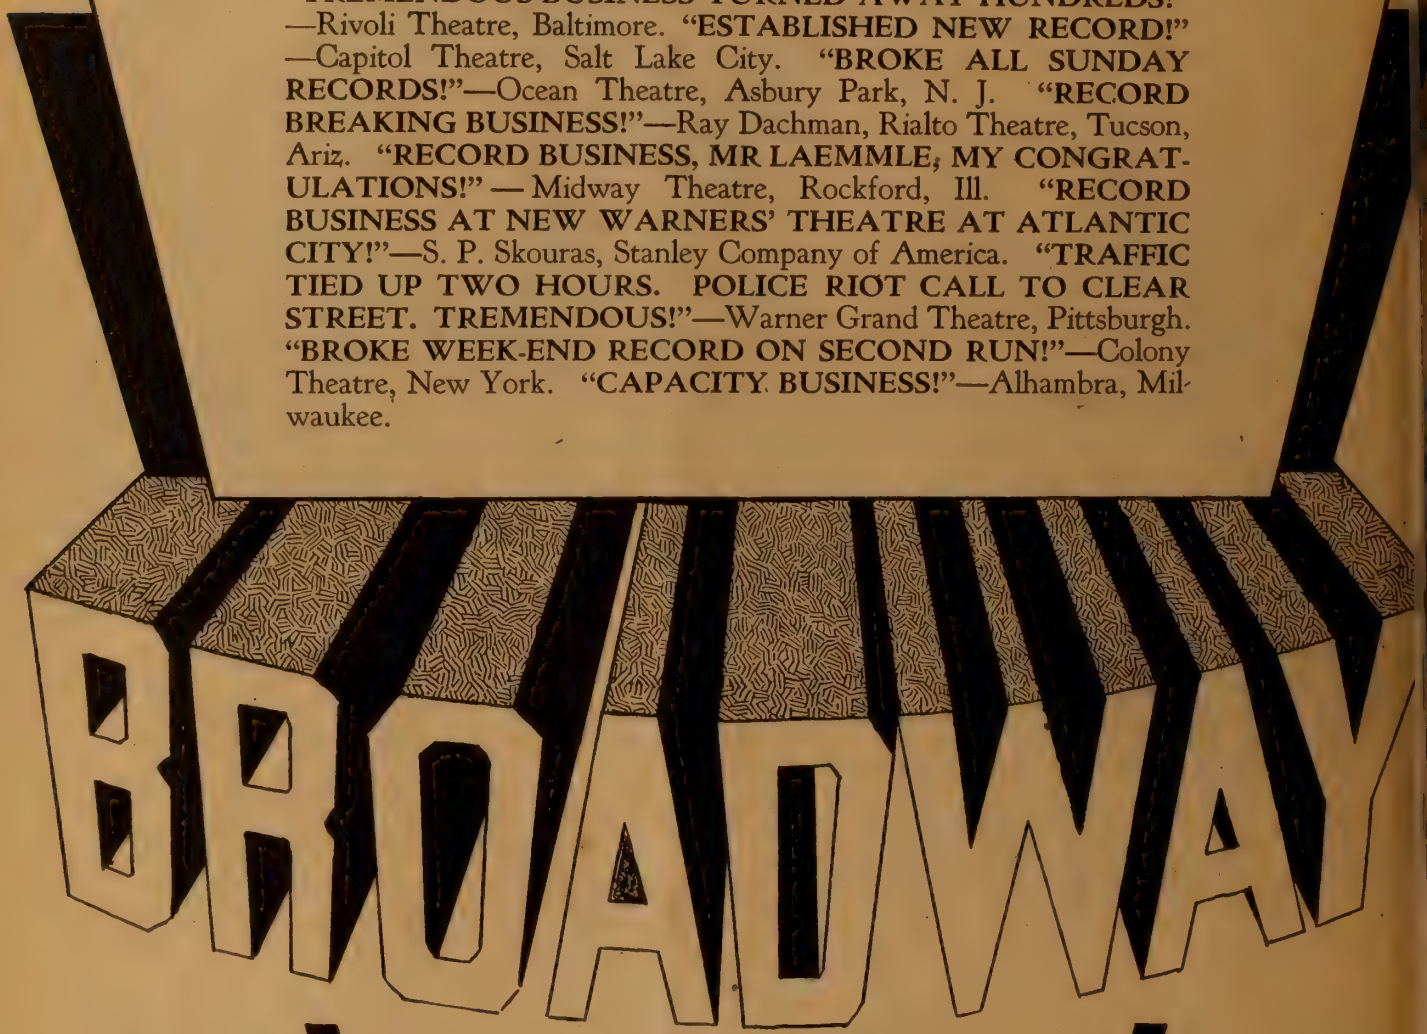
... ...

... ...

... ...

The Greatest Pic

"TREMENDOUS BUSINESS TURNED AWAY HUNDREDS!" —Rivoli Theatre, Baltimore. "ESTABLISHED NEW RECORD!" —Capitol Theatre, Salt Lake City. "BROKE ALL SUNDAY RECORDS!"—Ocean Theatre, Asbury Park, N. J. "RECORD BREAKING BUSINESS!"—Ray Dachman, Rialto Theatre, Tucson, Ariz. "RECORD BUSINESS, MR LAEMMLE, MY CONGRATULATIONS!" — Midway Theatre, Rockford, Ill. "RECORD BUSINESS AT NEW WARNERS' THEATRE AT ATLANTIC CITY!"—S. P. Skouras, Stanley Company of America. "TRAFFIC TIED UP TWO HOURS. POLICE RIOT CALL TO CLEAR STREET. TREMENDOUS!"—Warner Grand Theatre, Pittsburgh. "BROKE WEEK-END RECORD ON SECOND RUN!"—Colony Theatre, New York. "CAPACITY BUSINESS!"—Alhambra, Milwaukee.



CARL LAEMMLE'S Million Candle Power Picture, with GLENN TRYON, EVELYN BRENT, Merna Kennedy, T. E. Jackson, Otis Harlan, Robert Ellis, Paul Porcasi, Leslie Fenton, Betty Francisco. From Jed Harris' stage production of the play by Philip Dunning and George Abbott. Directed by PAUL FEJOS. A CARL LAEMMLE, Jr., Production. Two negatives: One Silent; One Dialog. Color Scenes by Technicolor.

UNIVERS

t Team in Years!

"ALL RECORDS SMASHED!"—.Capitol Theatre, Dallas, Texas. "'SHOW BOAT' SET NEW HOUSE RECORD!"—Granada Theatre, Indianapolis. "UNBELIEVABLE BUSINESS. TURNING AWAY HUNDREDS!"—Republic Theatre, Washington, D. C. "BROKE ALL RECORDS FOR ALL TIME IN THIS CITY!"—Lea Richmond, Charleston, S. C. "SMASHED ALL RECORDS, GREATEST CROWD CHEERED, APPLAUDED!"—Piccadilly Theatre, Rochester, N. Y. "CRASHED ALL RECORDS HERE!"—William M. Shirley, Schenectady, N. Y. "RECORD FOR MY HOUSE. 'SINGING FOOL' HELD RECORD TO DATE!"—Sidney M. Nutt, Hot Springs, Ark. "UNPARALLELED BIG MONEY! JAMMED HOUSE APPLAUDED!"—Macdonald Theatre, Eugene, Ore. "'SHOW BOAT' BREAKS K. C. TOP!" Kansas City (Variety report).

SHOWBOAT

CARL LAEMMLE'S TALKING AND SINGING TRIUMPH. A HARRY POLLARD Production. From EDNA FERBER'S great novel. With Laura La Plante, Joseph Schildkraut, Otis Harlan, Alma Rubens, Emily Fitzroy, Jane La Verne. Directed, silent and movietone, by Harry Pollard. Synchronized score by Joseph Cherniavsky. Music from Florenz Ziegfeld's production.

L FIRST!

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors

Paul Gulick — Editor

PUBLISHED BY THE
— MOTION PICTURE WEEKLY PUBLISHING COMPANY — HECKSCHER BUILDING —
730-5th AVE. — NEW YORK CITY

Copyright 1930 UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION · All Rights Reserved

Vol. XXXI MAY 10, 1930 No. 14

UNIVERSAL MOVIEGRAMS

UNIVERSAL'S first international sales convention, with representatives from all corners of the globe, opened at the Hotel Savoy-Plaza in New York City on Saturday, April 26th. A contingent of stars, directors and executives from the Universal City studios were present, including Carl Laemmle, Carl Laemmle, Jr., John Boles, Paul Whiteman, John Wray, Lewis Milestone, John Murray Anderson, Pauline Starke, Owen Davis, Jr.

EDWARD G. ROBINSON and Mary Nolan are to have the leading roles in Universal's picturization of Tod Browning's original story, "Outside the Law," which is to be one of its features on next year's program.

UNIVERSAL'S super-production, "The King of Jazz," starring Paul Whiteman and his band, is to have its first private New York showing in the unique Theatre-of-the-Air, atop the new skyscraper Chanin Building. This theatre accommodates only two hundred people, so that the invitation list to this showing was extremely limited, but the official premiere of the picture takes place on May 2nd at the huge Roxy Theatre, where all New York will have a chance to enjoy this lavish production.

DOROTHY JANIS has been chosen as the leading woman for Harry Garson film, "Ourang," which is to be produced in the jungles of Borneo as an all-talkie for the Universal program.

LAEMMLE ANNOUNCES UNIVERSAL LINE-UP FOR NEXT SEASON

Fifteen Productions Definitely Scheduled, with Five Others to Be Announced Later—Announcement to Universal International Sales Convention Marks Official Inauguration of Company's New Policy

CARL LAEMMLE announced this week at the opening session of Universal's first International Sales Convention at the Savoy-Plaza, New York City, the line-up of feature productions for the 1930-1931 season, under the company's new policy of specials only.

The pictures now definitely determined upon number fifteen. The total for the season will be twenty. The other five are in process of negotiation and will be announced later. Mr. Laemmle and Carl Laemmle, Jr., general manager of Universal City, who accompanies his father to the convention will pass upon three of the subjects, while here. Consummation of negotiations for the purchase of these is awaiting their final approval.

Following are the fifteen productions for Universal's 1930-31 season.

"Outside the Law." Thrilling underworld melodrama written and directed by Tod Browning, who created the original silent picture of the same name, which was one of the biggest box-offices successes of Universal history.

The new all-talking version of "Outside the Law" will have an all-star cast headed by Mary Nolan and Edward G. Robinson.

"Little Accident." The outstanding stage success of Floyd Dell and Thomas Mitchell. With an all-star cast. Director, William James Craft.

"Boudoir Diplomat," the play by Rudolph Lothar and Fritz Gottwald.

"East is West," the play by Samuel Shipman and John B. Hymer, which ran for three years on Broadway. Lupe Velez will be starred in the screen version which will have Technicolor sequences. A. E. Thomas, well known playwright, will write the adaptation and continuity.

"Sincerity," John Erskine's best-selling novel, to be directed by John M. Stahl.

"Strictly Dishonorable," by Preston Sturges. New York's smash stage hit this season. John Boles will probably be starred and it will have a musical background.

"Saint Johnson," by W. R. Burnett, author of "Little Caesar" and "Iron Man." This remarkable Western novel will be made as a big outdoor epic with Lewis Ayres and John Wray, famous for their portrayals in "All Quiet on the Western Front," co-featured. The picture will be released simultaneously with the publication of the book by Lincoln Mac Veigh next fall. William Wyler will direct.

(Continued on page 22)

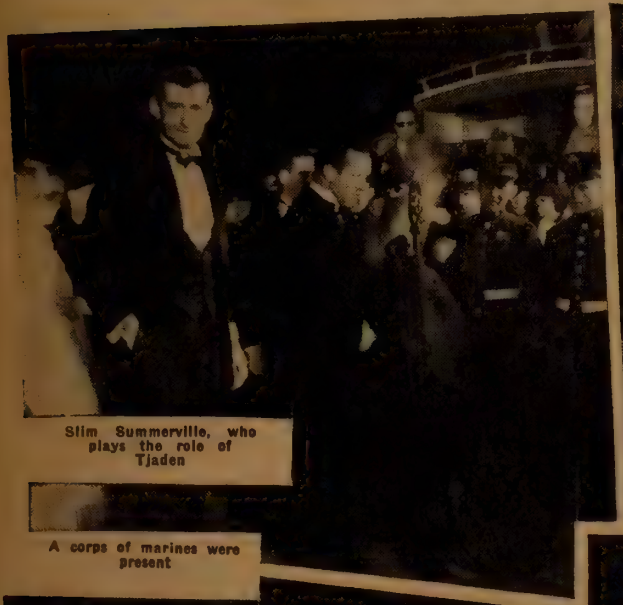
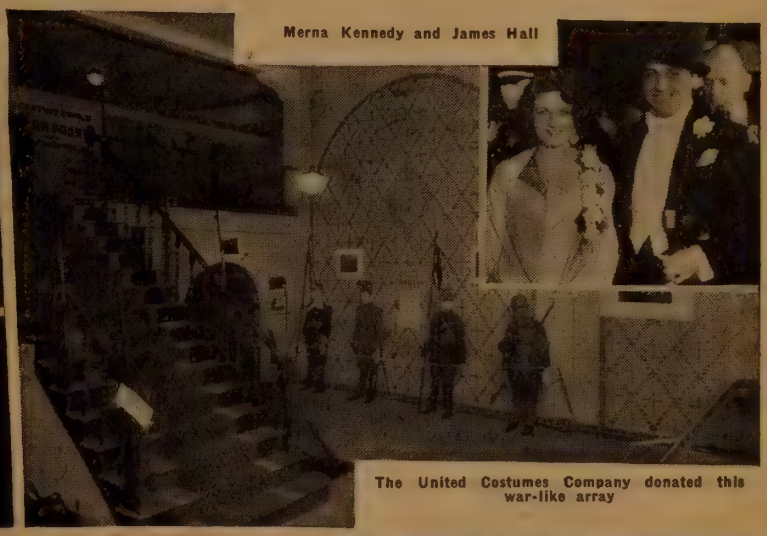
A. E. THOMAS, well known playwright, is preparing the adaptation and continuity for "East Is West," the Samuel Shipman stage play which Universal is producing with Lupe Velez in the role created on the New York stage by Fay Bainter.

"ALL QUIET" HAS BRILLIANT LOS ANGELES WORLD PREMIERE



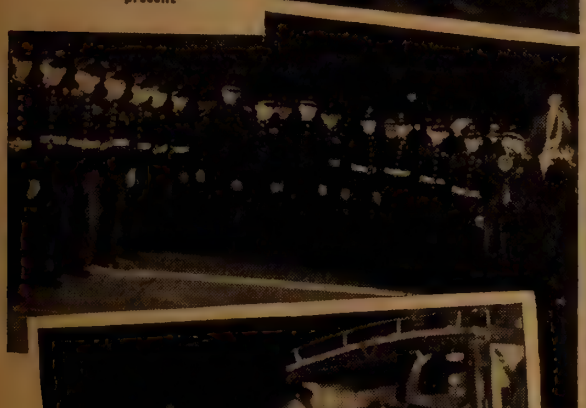
Slim Summerville, who plays the role of Tjaden



Merna Kennedy and James Hall

The United Costumes Company donated this war-like array

A corps of marines were present



Carl Laemmle's arrival goes over the air

Jeanette Loff and Walter O'Keefe

A sound picture was taken of the gala opening at the Fox Carthay Circle Theatre

"WHITE HELL OF PITZ PALU"

The lost mountain climbers joyously hail Udet's rescue plane.

Udet, Germany's ace flyer, attempts a daring rescue in the high Alps.

The staunch villagers scale the perilous North Wall.

The dizzy heights of Pitz Palu lure adventurers on to almost certain death.

One of the spectacular night shots showing the flares playing on Palu.

Universal's First International Sales Convention meets at the Savoy-Plaza, New York City. Seated at the dais, left to right: Paul Gulick, publicity director, E. D. Leishman, supervisor of exchanges; Harry Ascher, Universal distributing agent, New England; R. B. Williams, assistant sales manager; Fred J. McConnell, sales manager newsreel and short product; N. L. Manheim, manager of foreign department; Harry Taylor, sales manager, Western Division; Helen Hughes, secretary of Universal; Lou B. Metzger, general manager of Universal; C. B. Paine, treasurer; Ted Schlanger, sales manager, Eastern Division; Sidney Singerman, assistant to Lou B. Metzger; Leo Devaney, assistant sales manager; Sig Wittman, assistant sales manager; and G. E. Rosenwald, assistant sales manager.

ANALYSIS OF NEW SEASON PRODUCT GIVEN AT UNIVERSAL CONVENTION

Carl Laemmle Announces Adoption of Policy of Bigger, Better and Fewer Pictures with $400,000 Average Cost of Each of 20 Specials for 1930-31

"All Quiet" and "King of Jazz" Celebrities Presented to Convention, Including Paul Whiteman, Lewis Milestone, John Murray Anderson, John Boles, Hermann Rosse and Mabel Wayne

Reception Given in Honor of Carl Laemmle and Carl Laemmle, Jr's. Twenty-second Birthday

UNIVERSAL'S first International Sales Convention, held at the Savoy Plaza, New York City, ushered in the "New Day of Universal," which is signalized by the adoption of the policy of twenty specials only for the coming season. Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation, announced the new era of bigger, better and fewer pictures in a speech that was received with great enthusiasm. R. H. Cochrane, vice-president, evoked another demonstration, while Lou B. Metzger, general manager of the company, gave the delegates a detailed analysis of Universal's new season product and sales plans. Universal has allotted an average negative cost of $400,000 per picture for its twenty specials.

The new big picture policy alone is enough to mark this year's sales convention as history making in Universal's annals. In addition, the international scope of the convention is another innovation. Delegates from Universal's far-flung branch offices throughout South America, Europe and the Orient attended the five-day sessions. It is even certain, as the Weekly goes to press, that the convention will run over into Thursday, so important are the details of the coming season's new policies.

Among the prominent men in the motion picture industry who addressed the convention are Will H. Hayes, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors Association; J. E. Otterson, president, and Whitford Drake, vice-president, of Electrical Research Products, Inc.; S. A. Rothafel, better known as Roxy, and George F. McClelland, vice-president of N. B. C.

One of the highlights of Tuesday's session was a talk by Herc McIntyre, Universal general manager in Australia, who traveled 12,000 miles to attend the convention and made the latter stages of the trip by airplane from San Francisco.

(Continued on page 20)

DETROIT CRITICS RAVE OVER "KING OF JAZZ"

These Reviews Speak for Themselves and Tell Volumes About the Box-Office Pull of the Whiteman Extravaganza

THE reviews below are unanimous in their extravagant praise of "King of Jazz" as superb entertainment.

DETROIT EVENING TIMES

Never has there been such a grandiose revue as "The King of Jazz," Paul Whiteman's first and superlative film production which is now on exhibition at the State Theatre.

Marvelous and always clever, this film is bound to create a certain local appeal.

Whiteman and his band are always present and their music constantly provides a fitting background for the sumptuous settings, gay skits and romantic interludes.

Universal has outdone itself in giving the noted maestro of jazz one of the finest offerings that has so far come out of Hollywood.

Bundles of comedy, armfuls of girls, loads of Gershwin music and tons of Whiteman help to make the re-vusical movie a thing apart from most offerings.

Besides the rotund Paul the entertainers include singing John Boles, funny Billy Kent, Slim Summerville, handsome Stanley Smith, cute Jeanette Loff, Laura La Plante, Glenn Tryon, the cute French sisters, known by the name of "G," The Rhythm Boys and numerous others.

"The King of Jazz" is one of those productions which will amaze, thrill and amuse any spectator. It isn't at all possible that such a movie will ever again be made on such a scale.

Therefore, it behooves you to see it.

Murray Anderson has done himself well in the matter of settings. Many of his creations are actually bewildering. All of them are in excellent taste and boast originality.

That frightfully large grand piano which holds all of Whiteman's band; the lovely bridal veil number and the final Roman setting are among the most glorious efforts that Anderson has ever undertaken.

Whiteman plays many Greshwin numbers, both old and new. "The Rhapsody in Blue" is given a new setting and it is darn smart and clever. Melodies which will be heard at every turn of the radio dial during the next few months include: "Bench in the Park," "The Ragamuffin Girl" and "Monterey."

Paul Whiteman, star of "King of Jazz," is greeted upon his arrival in New York by Ted Husing of the Columbia Broadcasting Company

DETROIT NEWS

"The King of Jazz," Universal's coming out party for Paul Whiteman, is everything that its title implies. It is just about the king of all the revues that have been ground out of the talkie mills—and that includes "The Hollywood Revue" and "The Show of Shows." Certainly, here is a picture that you just can't afford to miss. It's showing at the State Theatre and business should be on the up and up there for several weeks to come.

The most striking feature of this revue is its settings. John Murray Anderson designed them. He evidently had all the money necessary at his command, so you know what to expect. They are fantastic, gigantic sets, swinging in and out or up and down and with huge chorus ensembles or even Paul Whiteman's big orchestra hidden in them. All these kaleidoscopic changes are gorgeous features for the eye and the color process is particularly effective.

* * *

But with all these striking effects don't imagine for a moment that the entertainment end of the revue has been overlooked. The picture consists of eight splendid musical specialties and between them are interspersed dramatic skits, specialties and quickie black-outs. Comedy is given a grand break. Some of the funny numbers last no longer than half a minute. All the units merge with fine precision into the entertainment at large.

DETROIT FREE PRESS

Gorgeous, beautiful, amusing, melodius screen entertainment is Paul Whiteman's first picture, "The King of Jazz," which opened Friday at the State.

Paul himself, is a figure of importance in it, proving a good comedian as well as a first-class musician. He directs his band in several special numbers, notably a most artistic and original setting for the famous "Rhapsody in Blue," which George Gershwin wrote for Whiteman, and in every other number in which he and his men do not appear in person they are heard, for they play the musical accompaniment to the various scenes. Gershwin wrote the entire score and so it is largely symphonic syncopation, tricky and gay, dissonant and intriguing. John Murray Anderson, one of the stage's foremost producers, produced and directed the picture and has evolved many magnificent backgrounds. The settings are artistic and lovely, presenting delightful pictures within a picture. There are so many clever skits, so much that is pretty, tuneful and tinkling, that one loses track of the clever persons who are seen in them, who sing, dance, move gracefully, or grotesquely, on and off the scenes, that only complete satisfaction with the whole as a huge, beautiful show, remains.

N. Y. NEWSPAPERS HERALD "ALL QUIET" OPENING

Lewis Ayres, Louis Wolheim, Slim Summerville and John Wray share these pictorial honors.

BALTIMORE CRITICS PROCLAIM "KING OF JAZZ" SETS NEW GOAL

Paul Whiteman and John Boles Appeared at Auditorium Theatre For Eastern Premiere of "King of Jazz" — Production Receives Wild Applause of Huge Audience and Warm Praise of Critics

THE Eastern premiere of "King of Jazz" proved a gala occasion in Baltimore. The Auditorium was crowded for the Whiteman extravaganza, with the personal appearance of the music maestro and John Boles attracting hundreds of screen and radio fans who do not usually attend first nights. The newspaper critics tell the story of both the brilliant opening and the excellence of the picture.

BALTIMORE SUN

Some of the excitement of a Broadway or Los Angeles premiere attended the opening of Paul Whiteman's eagerly awaited picture, "The King of Jazz," which was shown for the first time in the East at the Auditorium Theatre last night. A capacity audience applauded the picture itself at intervals and gave special ovations to Mr. Whiteman and John Boles, who appeared in person.

"The King of Jazz," pictorially, without doubt is the most beautiful as well as the most spectacular of all the color films to date. This Universal revue, composed of many numbers of varying length has an air of distinction which no other screen musical has had. It sets a goal for other companies to strive for.

The color schemes are novel and consistently pleasing, and some scenes, by comparison with previous efforts, may be called superb. The camera has been taught new tricks. An orchestra climbs out of an ordinary handbag; gigantic chorus girls, twice as tall as the Hotel Astor, dance down Broadway like female Gullivers. There are remarkable silhouettes in green and black and black and red. A dancer painted so that he shimmers in metallic shades of purple, green and black, and costumed as an African savage, performs a stirring dance atop a huge drum, with Maestro Whiteman's jazz rhythms beating somewhere off-screen.

At the beginning there is an animated cartoon in color, the first this writer has seen, and it is sure to set a new standard in this field. The stages are widely varied in size and shape, and they are apt to revolve, shrink, expand, divide or dissolve before one's eyes. The camera moves about indefatigably, mixing long-range shots of choruses with close-ups from many queer angles, with the result that there is a constant illusion of motion.

BALTIMORE NEWS

By Norman Clark

"KING OF JAZZ" is the best screen revue that has come out of Hollywood.

It has color, balance, pleasant music, pretty girls and its comedy is sufficient. . . . There is one sketch in "King of Jazz" that is particularly clever—the one in which a snappy city editor of a newspaper is shown demanding timely news.

John Murray Anderson, who puts on revues for the stage, is the director of Mr. Whiteman's first picture, and he proves again that he is a master at this sort of entertainment. Mr. Anderson knows how to blend colors and he knows how to give a revue that balance that is so essential. Without this balance a revue begins to drag before its end is reached no matter how beautiful and expensive it may be. "King of Jazz" does not slow down for a minute. . . .

Some of the music will rest easily upon the poular ear. Mr. Whiteman appears in some of the comedy sketches and does very well. I repeat that his initial revue is the best of the bunch thus far.

BALTIMORE EVENING SUN

Paul Whiteman and John Boles very much in the flesh, received the applause of hundreds of Baltimoreans last night when they appeared on the Auditorium Theatre stage in connection with the big sharp-and-flat man's long-awaited motion picture, "The King of Jazz." More, the crowded house applauded their screen appearances as well as those of the other stars in the cast.

* * *

"The King of Jazz," entirely in color, while a triumph for Whiteman and his music, is no less a triumph for John Murray Anderson, its director Colorful and extravagant as the sets, reflecting a brilliant imagination.

* * *

There is comedy and plenty of it. This was introduced in short skits, one of them lasting less than a minute. In all, the film had all the merits of an excellent and lavish revue and lacked one element that most revues have—there wasn't a sob scene in the whole reelage.

BALTIMORE POST

By George Browning

Sooner or later it had to come. Since that day when the electrical larynx was grafted onto moving pictures, most of us realized that inevitably Paul Whiteman would make a picture.

Here was a favorite orchestra leader with a trade mark of syncopation that helped make musical history. Movie magnates recognized the fact and sent for Mr. Whiteman.

. . . "King of Jazz" is a reality. It had its world premier last ngiht at the Auditorium Theatre amid usual whoodeedo that accompanies such occasions.

(Continued on page 30)

SHOOT!

SHOOT THE WORKS

on this one, gentlemen. Pawn the family jewels if you must. . . . No matter what the cost, lean heavy on the exploitation. Get them in the first night and they'll break down your doors to get in the second night. A PICTURE!

CZAR of BROADWAY

The inside story of the upper-crust of the underworld.

With JOHN WRAY, BETTY COMPSON, JOHN HARRON

Claude Allister, King Baggot, Wilbur Mack, Henry Herbert, George Byron, Duke Lee. Directed by WILLIAM JAMES CRAFT. SONGS: "That Homestead Steady of Mine," "Collegiate Love." Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE.

UNIVERSAL FIRST!

HOW DID T
WHIT
PITZ
Surpassing imagination—beggaring description—baffling the art of cameramen who thought they knew everything about thrills. Nobody knows how they did it . . . nobody knows how they made this astounding, heart-stirring drama of the ice peaks—except the people who made it. Emotion that will stir your audience to the depths . . . suspense that will hold them spellbound . . . thrills that will make their blood race and leave them gasping in utter amazement. It will pack them in for Roxy. It will pack them in for you!
Directed by Dr. Arnold Fanck and G. W. Pabst. H. R. Sokal, production manager. Produced by H. R. Sokal-Film.
UNIVERSAL

HEY DO IT ?

HELL OF PALU

LEWIS MILESTONE IS INTERVIEWED

Lewis Milestone (right) and Owen Davis, Jr., who plays Peter in "All Quiet," arriving in New York for the opening

New York Telegram Motion Picture Critic Discovers That Director of "All Quiet on the Western Front" Has Unique Method of Cutting Before He Begins Shooting

By WILLIAM BOEHNEL

PECK'S BAD BOY of Hollywood. That is the unofficial title that has been given, by those who know him, to Lewis Milestone, who directed Universal's production of Erich Maria Remarque's sensational war novel, "All Quiet on the Western Front," which has its Eastern premiere tonight at the Central Theatre.

And all because Milestone has been fired from more jobs than any other director in Hollywood. Meeting him for the first time, you would never believe it. Quiet, unassuming, you decide that it is just another Hollywood legend. Then you learn that he is Russian—he was born in Odessa—and although you may not be an authority on Russians, you begin to believe that maybe there is something in it after all. Milestone, himself, admits that he can be stubborn at times.

Anyway, he was fired from his first job because he insisted on coming to work in a taxi every morning. He was a cutter in one of the studios in Hollywood, earning $20 a week. The twenty just about paid has taxi fares. Earning $20 a week and riding to and from work was something his boss couldn't understand.

"I don't care how you come to work," he barked at Milestone, "but it can't be in taxis."

So Milestone found himself a new job and then another job. They usually lasted, he will tell you, about two weeks. Deciding he would never get very far in a studio cutting-room, he embarked on a directorial venture. His first effort wielding a megaphone was at the Warner studio and the picture was "Seven Sinners," with Clive Brook and Marie Provost. Then came "The Cave Man," with Matt Moore and Marie Provost again. Both of these films won him no little recognition.

Leaving Warners', Milestone did "Two Arabian Knights," with Louis Wolheim and William Boyd, "The Racket," "The New Klondike" and then "New York Nights," with Norma Talmadge, which George Fitzmaurice later made over.

Then came the offer to do "All Quiet" for Universal. With Maxwell Anderson, he worked on the script for three months and when Anderson left to fulfill another contract, he called in George Abbott to lend a helping hand. In all more than eight months were spent in making the picture.

Like the Russian directors, he believes that much of a picture's ultimate success lies in the cutting. . . .

He himself cuts a picture with the camera as he makes it. That is, he visualizes a sequence as it should be when it is finished and then goes ahead and photographs it that way.

There have been troubles aplenty connected with "All Quiet." The German government insisted that it was anti-German and threatened to close all the Universal offices in Germany until they saw that there was nothing to object to, and then the French consul on the coast objected to certain scenes. However, everything has been adjusted satisfactorily for all parties concerned, and the film, cut by Milestone himself, is now ready for presentation tonight.

Critics on the coast have proclaimed it a masterpiece, and as a result Milestone is sitting pretty. His services are in demand. But after two weeks in New York, looking up little restaurants he used to eat in when he worked here in a raincoat factory, he will sail for Europe to remain until the autumn.

"All Quiet" Called Sensation Of Today, Tomorrow and All Time

(Reprinted from International Film Reporter)

ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT," by Remarque, is a talking picture for today, a sensation for tomorrow, and history for all time. When Universal announced the intention of screening "All Quiet," many of us believed the film would be another war picture. "All Quiet" condensed into screen actions, is not a mere talking picture. It is a powerful message to humanity, a bouncing fist upon your conscience! This message will shake the weary minds of the world, crashing with the power of lightning into recklessness and ignorance of conflict. This message will demand consideration for humanity.

This picture, urging pacifistic tendencies, favors no nationality, although it portrays German heroism. "All Quiet" is a masterful achievement which keeps you spell-bound until the last moment. We compliment Carl Laemmle, Jr., a congenial youth for his cultural contribution to the world; also Lewis Milestone, the director, who proved his strength in artistic conceptions. We hope that "All Quiet" will be interpreted in every important foreign language to carry an everlasting human message throughout the whole world: Never — again — War. . . .

Desider Pek.

IT'S A BURN-UP!

Hotter than "Flaming Youth"

WARNER FABIAN'S

sensational story of two sisters who lived on the bounty of wealthy men. . . . Glistening with beauty and wit . . . flaming with dramatic emotion. . . . Burning up with box-office power.

PAULINE

STARKE

Ben Lyon, Barbara Kent, Hallam Cooley, Robert Ellis. Directed by Ernst Laemmle. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE

WHAT MEN WANT

SONG HITS:
"What a Perfect Night for Love"
*
"My Baby an' Me"

UNIVERSAL FIRST!

Delegates to the Universal Sales Convention. Left to Right: James V. Bryson, managing director of Universal Pictures; Ltd.; Herbert Crisp, prominent British exhibitor; S. F. Ditcham, sales manager of Universal Pictures, Ltd.; Clifford Crisp, son of Herbert Crisp; Al Szekler, general manager of Universal's Continental interests, and William Jeapes, laboratory expert of London.

Analysis of New Season Product Given at Universal Convention

(Continued from page 11)

The convention was outstanding in its array of notables, many of whom had come on from the coast to attend the premiere of "All Quiet on the Western Front" at the Central Theatre on Tuesday night, and the opening of "King of Jazz" at the Roxy on Friday. The following were presented to the convention amid great applause:

Lewis Milestone director of "All Quiet"; Owen Davis, Jr., who has a featured role in the picture; Paul Whiteman, star of "King of Jazz"; John Murray Anderson, who devised and directed the Universal extravaganza; John Boles, who has a big part in "King of Jazz"; John Wray, who plays Himmelstoss in "All Quiet"; Graham McNamee, the N. B. C. ace, who is the Talking Reporter of the Universal Newsreel; Mabel Wayne, composer of song hits, including "It Happened in Monterey," one of the big numbers in "King of Jazz"; Frank Goodman, of Handman, Kent and Goodman, the Universal music publishing firm; James Gillespie, manager for Paul Whiteman; and Ivan St. Johns, assistant to Carl Laemmle, Jr.

The delegates attended the premiere of "All Quiet on the Western Front" at the Central Theatre. A special showing of "King of Jazz" was held at the Theatre-in-the Air, atop the Chanin Building, on Monday evening.

Following the "All Quiet" opening on Tuesday night, a formal reception, dance and supper was given at the Savoy-Plaza in honor of Carl Laemmle and in celebration of the twenty-second birthday of Carl Laemmle, Jr. The overwhelming success of the "All Quiet" premiere crowned the first year of the young Laemmle's management of the Universal studios and confirmed the senior Laemmle's confidence in his son's genius. Accompanying a very handsome gift presented by the sales department and the heads of departments of Universal, was a scroll testifying to the esteem in which the young general manager of Universan is held by the organization and the appreciation which they all feel for the work which he has accomplished at Universal City. The pearl pin and the scroll were presented to Carl Laemmle, Jr., as the climax of the party in the Gold Room of the Savoy-Plaza.

"Show Boat" Breaks Records All Over Again In Cleveland Theatre

Manager Sharpe of Garden Theatre Proves That Exploitation Possibilities Are Not Over with First Runs

G. T. SHARPE, manager of the Garden Theatre in Cleveland, Ohio, doesn't believe that when a picture has had a first run in the city its exploitation possibilities are exhausted. He doesn't believe that at all—and that's why he did a record-breaking business with "SHOW BOAT" at the Garden.

Mr. Sharpe called on A. J. Sharick at the Universal Exchange and together they went over possibilities. Arrangements were made for a fine theatre front to start with. Then tie-ups were made with a number of music and record stores. One store near the theatre put in two fine windows and placed a victrola near the sidewalk, which played the "SHOW BOAT" ballyhoo record and all of the "SHOW BOAT" records.

A big electric store put in a full window. The center of this window was arranged with the old phantom "bulb" stunt which was used so effectively on "THE PHANTOM OF THE OPERA." An ordinary light bulb was laid on a piece of plate glass in plain view near the front of the window. No wires were attached to it (apparently). And still it flashed on and off alternately all day and night. A card stated that this was the mysterious pilot light from the "SHOW BOAT," and the store gave tickets to anyone who would tell how the trick was performed.

The West 25th Chevrolet sales company was sold on the idea of helping to pay for 10,000 roto heralds by using a tie-up with "SHOW BOAT" stars. Through Western Union copies of the telegrams from the stars were procured, and these were pasted up in the Chevrolet sales windows and mailed out to prospective accounts.

Fred Kloz meat market and grocery store, which does a tremendous business was tied up with the use of small "SHOW BOAT" cards, each numbered. At the theatre during the run numbers were posted each day and folks who held the Kloz cards with similar numbers got passes.

Just at this time the Hollenden "SHOW BOAT" dance room was opening and every street car had a big card on the front, hundreds of billboards and special 3-sheets and special ones made up on exact duplicates of "SHOW BOAT" paper were all over town. Newspapers carried stories of the "SHOW BOAT" opening with ads for the Hollenden. So Mr. Sharpe hopped right into the paper with a big ad in order to get his share of the general "SHOW BOAT" interest aroused.

These stunts, together with a half-dozen other fine windows, a liberal use of Universal accessories and ads and stories in regional papers did the trick and paid Mr. Sharpe many times over for his efforts and expenditures. He also procured displays in the two nearby branches of the Cleveland Public Library.

Delicious LUPE VELEZ • With Paul Cavanaugh and William Boyd • A tremendous triangle in a snow-bound forest hut • A roaring avalanche • A wind-whipped snow-storm • Directed by William Wyler • Produced by Carl Laemmle Jr. • Presented by Carl Laemmle • That's

THE STORM

(With the melting love song, "Tell Me, Do.")

"You know how 'tis"

UNIVERSAL FIRST

Liberty Recommends "Captain of the Guard"

28 Liberty April 26, 193

Romance and the Talkies

A Story from France, and Some Others

Two Pages of Movie Reviews

By

KATE CAMERON

1 star means fairly good. 3 stars, excellent.
2 stars, good. 4 stars, extraordinary.

★ ★ ★ CAPTAIN OF THE GUARD

This reproduction of Liberty's motion picture review page is published through the courtesy of Liberty

Captain of the Guard tempts you with winsome Laura La Plante.

HOUSTON BRANCH has dramatized La Marseillaise, the song of the French revolutionists, for Universal, and under the direction of Paul Fejos it becomes the inspiration for a gripping and romantic story. The French Revolution is unfailingly dramatic. With the drama of this story we have, in addition, romance and lovely music.

It is directed in a staccato style. The short scenes of the revolutionary groups, the bits of the leaders' inflammatory speeches, and the flashes of royalty at their games are very expressive, and much more effective than the usual long-drawn-out mob scenes.

The Carry On song, sung by the revolutionists, is rendered with spirit, but it is not as inspiring as La Marseillaise. John Boles, who plays the part of Rouget de Lisle, the composer of the great song, has a fine barytone voice which reproduces beautifully.

* * *

The love story is charming. Laura La Plante is hardly recognizable at first, so great a difference does long dark wavy hair make in her appearance. She is just as attractive, however, as she is in her sleek blondness.

The story, with the revolution as a background, is of a young captain of Hussars, Rouget de Lisle, who falls in love with Marie Marnay, a country innkeeper's daughter (played by Laura La Plante). The lovers are parted during the period of the captain's military service, and while De Lisle is serving his king in Paris, Marie's father is killed by one of the king's officer's.

Once a loyal royalist, Marie now becomes a passionate revolutionist. She is arrested, thrown into the Bastille, and condemned to death. De Lisle, who has betrayed her without knowing it, begs for her life. His pleas have no effect, and in his agony and desperation he warns the judge, his colonel, and Bazin, one of the king's secret agents, that their lack of mercy will incite the people to an uprising. He is arrested as a traitor.

Thereupon his sympathies turn to the revolutionists and while he is in prison he composes the beautiful and fateful Marseillaise. He is released by order of the queen, but he joins the revolutionists and on the day of the storming of the Bastille he rescues Marie and saves her from death.

The supporting cast is good. Sam de Grasse as Bazin stands out, and Stuart Holmes gives an interesting characterization of the foolish king, Louis XVI.

It's a good picture. You'll like it.

LAEMMLE ANNOUNCES UNIVERSAL LINE-UP FOR NEXT SEASON

(Continued from page 8)

"Ourang," a sensational dramatic story which will be filmed in the wilds of Borneo. This will be the first dialogue picture to be made in the jungle, and a complete expedition, headed by Harry Garson and Julius Bernheim, has been sent from the Universal studios to Borneo. Dorothy Janis will have the feminine lead in this.

Sequel to "All Quiet on the Western Front," by Erich Maria Remarque, author of this season's best seller and the outstanding picture of the year. Remarque's new novel will be picturized by Universal as a superproduction. It will be published serially in Collier's.

"The Love Cavalier," an operetta with John Boles and Jeanette Loff in the featured roles. To be directed by John S. Robertson.

"Gypsy Love Song," an original story by Konrad Bercovici, with songs and music by the author. John Boles, Jeanette Loff and Lupe Velez will appear in this operetta.

Two John Murray Anderson Productions. These will be musical sensations by the creator and director of "King of Jazz."

"Cohens and Kellys in Ireland." Fifth of the famous series. A musical comedy-drama, with sequences in Technicolor.

"The Oregon Trail," a big outdoor picture with an all-star cast. Edward Laemmle will direct.

This line-up for next season gives a well balanced program of drama, music, thrills and comedy with the assurance of excellence in each class, due to the new concentrated policy of fewer pictures and increased production cost on each.

SWAMPED

with fan and exhibitor praise and BIG CONTRACTS for

SWAMPED—With thousands of letters from enthusiastic fans—THE ONLY NEWSREEL THEY APPLAUD!

DELUGED—Exhibitors proclaim their delight over PACKED HOUSES and FATTER BOX-OFFICE RECEIPTS!

SUBMERGED—And contracts for the Universal newsreel pouring in!

Backed by a million dollar advertising campaign in Sixty-four of the biggest newspapers in the United tSates.

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH NATIONAL BROADCASTING COMPANY. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE. Produced under the supervision of Sam B. Jacobson.

▼ ▼ ▼

2 A WEEK ON FILM OR DISC

GRAHAM McNAMEE

as the TALKING REPORTER in the

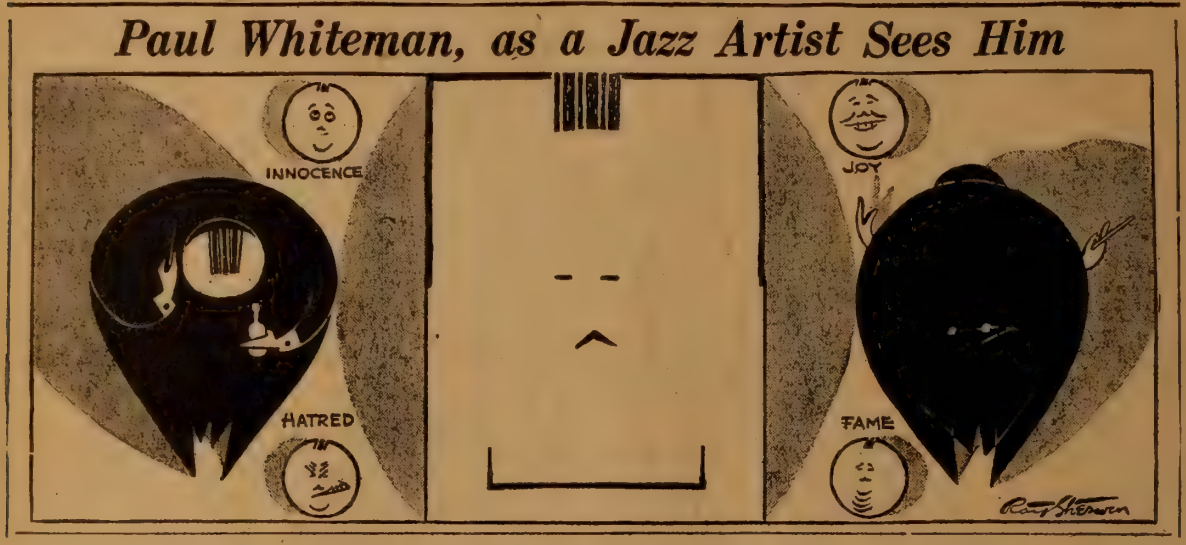
UNIVERSAL TALKING NEWSREEL

THE EVENING WORLD, SATURDAY, APRIL 26, 1930.



These are some of the serio - comic expressions you may expect from Whiteman in "King of Jazz."

"KING OF JAZZ" EXCITES NEA SERVICE REVIEWER

(Reprinted from N. Y. Evening Telegram)

Considerable interest on the part of the public has been displayed in Paul Whiteman's first big film. Dan Thomas, Hollywood correspondent for NEA Service, learned that the picture was being secretly previewed in San Bernardino, seventy miles from Hollywood, so he went over there, and here is his report on the film

By DAN THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 25.—What a picture! What . . . a . . . picture! It isn't often we get excited about a motion picture, especially a revue. But when we saw Paul Whiteman's "The King of Jazz Revue" previewed the other night—well, no praise is too great for it.

"The King of Jazz Revue" is the best parts of all previous revues rolled into one, plus a great deal more. While other studios have been depending upon vast arrays of big names as the drawing power of their revues, Universal chose a different attack. Aside from Whiteman and his orchestra, the sole attraction in this film is entertainment.

And that entertainment goes on for reel after reel, right to the finish. Of course, there are some outstanding personalities in the film, but they get by for what they do, not for who they are.

Credit for the success of this production—and it is bound to go over big even with a public already fed up on revues—goes to three men, Paul Whiteman, John Murray Anderson and Carl Laemmle, Jr. Whiteman is responsible for the music and for having Anderson signed as the director. Anderson is credited with directing the most thoroughly entertaining film we have seen in many moons. And young Laemmle, the boss of Universal, should be given credit for having sense enough to let two masters do things in their own way.

It goes almost without saying that the outstanding feature of the entire production is the music, every bit of which is played by Whiteman's orchestra. It is such music as will be heard by screen fans for the first time. And every one of the numbers for which the music serves as a background is worthy of it.

Ranking next to Whiteman as stars of the show and with little to choose between them are Jeanette Loff and Jeanie Lang. Miss Loff has by far the most footage, but Jeanie makes just as much of the opportunities given to her. If Universal does not put her under long-term contract somebody out there is just plain dumb, because some other studio will grab her the day after the picture is released.

Next in line for his vocal efforts is John Boles. His improvement since his first talkie, "The Desert Song," is so great you would never know he was the same man. And Stanley Smith does a couple of mighty fine vocal numbers with Jeanette Loff.

The dance numbers also come in for their line of praise, which is another wreath for Anderson. He personally trained and directed the girls in all of them, and they are flawless.

From beginning to end this gorgeous production is done in technicolor. And some marvelous results have been obtained, in photograph and camera angles.

Universal owns Detroit, too—

3 BIG ONES

Running Simultaneously at Three Big Theatres

▼

PAUL WHITEMAN

AND HIS BAND in

KING OF JAZZ

Opens at the STATE, April 25th

▼

ALL QUIET on the WESTERN FRONT

Opens at the PARAMOUNT, April 26th

▼

CAPTAIN of the GUARD

Opens at the ADAMS, April 25th

Presented by
CARL LAEMMLE

Produced by
CARL LAEMMLE, Jr.

UNIVERSAL FIRST!

ADVERTISING THE WORLD'S BEST SELLER AND THE WORLD'S GREATEST WAR FILM

The One Great War Novel that Has Swept Over the Whole World!

Over a million and a half copies now sold in twenty countries!

ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT

By ERICH MARIA REMARQUE

¶ This great book, by a German infantryman, gives an unforgettable picture of the World War—its tragedy, its humor, its good fellowship

General James A. Drain, former National Commander of The American Legion, says: "The genius of the German soldier author brings the essence of the war closer to the mind and soul than anything else in literature, sculpture or painting."

R. H. L. in The Chicago Tribune says: "We couldn't put it down, it's the realest, most terrifying, most gripping novel of the war we've ever read."

Frank Ernest Hill in The New York Herald-Tribune says: "Obviously founded on indelible fact, and might be an authentic autobiographical account."

Clinton Simpson in The New York Sun says: "Far and away the most vivid record we have had of the actual fighting in the trenches."

¶ You cannot afford to miss the one book that for the first time reveals real war to the civilian. Read of the life in the German trenches, behind the guns in the hospitals, at home on leave. The book leaves no one unmoved.

Ask any bookseller for the most popular novel of the War and he will sell you "All Quiet on the Western Front" for $2.50

Boston LITTLE, BROWN & CO. Publishers

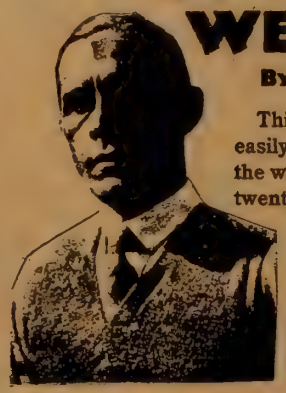
The World's Best Seller—Now Showing in a Great Motion Picture

ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT

By ERICH MARIA REMARQUE



This greatest war epic of all time easily holds the record throughout the world for popularity. There are twenty-four foreign editions, and the grand total sale in one year is 2,515,000 copies.

Read this record-breaking best seller—and be sure to see Universal's splendid talking picture. $2.50

Sales Record

Germany	999,000
France	440,000
England	310,000
America	335,000
Sweden	66,000
Denmark, Norway	70,000
Hungary	28,000
Spain	75,000
Holland	65,000
Finland	22,000
Russia	60,000
Japan	45,000

The ad above was the center of a full page in the book review section of The New York Times. All of Little, Brown & Company's advertising on "All Quiet on the Western Front" is now carrying a tie-up with Universal's talking version. At left: This two coloumn ad apeared in the American Legion Monthly, an excellent medium to reach picture patrons on the biggest war film yet to reach the screen.

"ALL QUIET ON WESTERN FRONT" A POSITIVE "MONEY" ATTRACTION

Says Motion Picture News

(Reviewed by Walter R. Greene)

UNIVERSAL'S film translation of Erich Maria Remarque's sensational novel of the World War is a great, dramatic epic of motion pictures—silent or sound.

There is a gigantic sweep of the world war background — plus a humanness and sincerity in characterization perhaps seldom before equalled on the screen. Digging deep into the innermost thoughts of the group of German youths who were emotionalized into the war "to save the fatherland," the picture goes a lot further than merely transcribing incidents of the war to the eyes of audiences. It gets right down to the hearts and souls of those who battled through the mud of France—fought in the front line trenches — and suffered all the pains and horrors of the great conflict.

"All Quiet on the Western Front" is vivid, tense, drama — superbly transferred to the screen with brilliance. Its gripping situations held a coast preview audience for two hours and a half, even though that audience had sat through two hours of pictures prior to it.

Although the production shows what might be judged as Germany's side of the war, it tells a straight story which could have easily been based on experiences of English, Canadian, French or Belgium soldiers. There is no sympathy created for war. In fact, it's just the reverse. "All Quiet" stands as a great piece of anti-war propaganda.

Universal spared no expense in producing the picture. It looks to be well worth the negative cost, reported in the neighborhood of two million dollars. Even at that figure, the production rates as a winner for the company.

Lewis Milestone carved a niche in the hall of fame through his excellent direction and handling of what was admittedly a tremendously difficult task. Milestone has injected a warmth into every scene and situation, besides capably handling the mass battle sequences for the utmost in realism.

Out of every big production such as this, there generally emerges a potential star. Lewis Ayres is the candidate here. His portrayal of Paul, the German youth, is outstanding in its natural sincerity and humanness.

Louis Wolheim is excellent as the corporal who lightens tense situations with comedy relief. Slim Summerville, veteran comedian, will likely get a fresh start through his splendid performance as a German soldier with a serio-comedy complex. Ayres, Wolheim and Summerville are standouts in a fine cast, every member of which is spotted in with fine judgment.

"All Quiet on the Western Front" is a positive "money" attraction. Its popularity is certain to build steadily for long runs anywhere.

CARL LAEMMLE presents

THE SCREEN'S MOST BEAUTIFUL STAR

MARY NOLAN

in

YOUNG DESIRE

She laughed at virtue until true love came to fill her cup with gall. The deeply moving story of this carnival girl will fill your cup with gold.

With Mae Busch, William Janney, Ralf Harolde. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Lew Collins. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE. "Why Did it Have to be You?" song, "Why Did it Have to be You?"

UNIVERSAL FIRST!

Film Daily Finds Thrills In "White Hell of Pitz Palu"

A GRIPPING STORY OF ADVENTURERS LOST IN SWISS ALPS. THRILLS AND SUSPENSE. WELL ACTED BY GERMAN CAST.

Universal offers a German-made production, certain to attract much attention. The danger-laden cliffs of the Swiss Alps offer a new background for a weird tale, in which Dr. Johannes Kraft, known as "the ghost of the mountain," seeks to find the body of his wife, who fell to herdeath on their honeymoon, when they were caught in a slide on Pitz Palu, a mountain peak. Ernest Udet, German aviator, furnishes the major part of the thrills by flying his plane through a narrow canyon to try to save the lost climbers. He signals Christian, a guide, who locates Maria and her husband, Dr. Kraft having wandered off to his death. The night search of guides for the bodies of four students lost in the mountains, abounds with thrills.

Direction, expert. Photography, first-rate.

"Hell's Heroes" Gets Front Page Notices In Youngstown, Ohio

WHEN "HELL'S HEROES" was playing the State Theatre, Youngstown, Ohio, J. W. Hynes, Director of publicity, arranged with the Circulation Manager of the "Vindicator" to give the newsboys a show on Saturday morning, and the newspaper tied up with front page publicity in two different editions. On the other days they used single and two-column art cuts with good stories.

Availing himself of the suggestion in the pressbook, Mr. Hynes on the opening day arranged for the distribution of one thousand envelopes, with a paster giving the sensational theme of the picture playing at his theatre. Fifty of them contained single passes good for any week day to see "HELL'S HEROES" and the remainder were half-filled with sand as a souvenir representing the sand with which the "three bad men baptize a baby who turns their paths to new adventure and eternity."

Several window tie-ups were made, including a very novel one with a near-by restaurant. This display consisted of a background showing the sun rising with a cut-out of the three figures on horseback in the foreground. Almost directly in front of the horsemen was a large sign reading "HELL'S HEROES" at the State. The entire display was made to look very realistic with the use of lights and fresh white sand.

"Cohens and Kellys" Wins Despite Last Minute Booking

THE COHENS AND KELLYS IN SCOTLAND" was booked into Fox's Palace Theatre, Muscatine, Iowa, with no time for the manager, Mr. John W. Creamer, to prepare an extensive exploitation campaign. However, with the aid of a special newspaper campaign and striking lobby and front decorations, he put the picture over in a style which whipped his opposition all to pieces.

For his theatre front, Creamer used a mammoth compoboard golf bag. The center was cut out and the bag used, prior to the opening, to cover the box-office. Later it was moved to the outside. On either side of the entrance he placed a large shamrock as a background for three 11x14's and a green light. Smaller shamrocks across the fro nt carried the title, and the effect was very attractive.

Which only goes to prove again that IT CAN BE DONE!

Sotcha Bizzniss!

"Turnaway business. Heavy opposition. Beat 'Broadway Melody' record."
—State, Altoona, Pa.

"Beat record of 'Sunny Side Up,' 'Cockeyed World.'" —Park, Tampa, Fla.

"Holdout crowds. Opposition 'Vagabond King,' 'Anna Christie.'"
—RKO Woods, Chicago

"New record. Audience shrieked, howled."
—Casino, San Francisco

"Standing room only from first show."
—Capitol, Dallas, Tex.

"Lifted Million Dollar about two grand above average."
—"Variety" Los Angeles report.

"Good enough to earn third week at this out-of-the-way location (Colony)."
—"Variety" N. Y. report.

CHARLIE MURRAY
GEORGE SIDNEY
VERA GORDON, Kate Price. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE. Directed by William J. Craft.

The

COHENS & KELLYS in SCOTLAND

UNIVERSAL FIRST

UNIVERSAL SYNOPSES

"THE LIGHTNING EXPRESS"

Adventure Picture
Featuring Louise Lorraine

No. 1—"A Shot in the Dark"

THE LIGHTNING EXPRESS is the crack train of the B & M Railroad built by John Venable whose ambition is to have a through line to the Pacific. The line has been built as far as Sleepy Cat, Calif. Opposition arises in the person of Frank Sanger, who refuses to let the road cross the land of Bobby Van Tyne, a beautiful girl of whom he is guardian. Jack Venable, son of the elder Venable, is giving a wild party in the city and Kate Fields is vamping him. Whispering Smith, who promised the elder Venable to straighten Jack out, is one of the guests. Sanger's henchmen are also there. A fight starts, but is stopped and the radio announces that the B & M extension has been blocked by Sanger. Smith persuades Jack to take up the fight for the extension. Just as Jack announces he is through "partying," one of Sanger's henchmen fires a shot at Smith. The lights go out as Smith sinks to the floor apparently mortally wounded.

Louise Lorraine

"THE WOLF'S FANGS"

Western Featurette
With Ted Carson

JACK WALTERS, of the Royal Mounted, is anxious to catch outlaw Wolf Rambeau, an unseen marauder. Jean La Tour, engaged to Jack, is molested by one Pete Dorgan, who claims he loves her. As she is resisting his advances, Jack enters and warns him to let the girl alone. In the scuffle which follows Pete's wig is pulled off, revealing him to be the Wolf. He escapes, riding off on his horse with the Mounty following him. Later Wolf goes to Jean's cabin to hide from Walters. He tells Jean that he will kill her father if she tells Walters he is there. Jack Walters enters and Jean says that Wolf has not been there, but the Mounty spies the Wolf through a mirror. He pretends to leave the homestead and has his men surround the place. They trap the Wolf and arrest him. Jack receives the reward offered for the capture of the Wolf which enables him and Jean to marry.

"SID'S LONG COUNT"

Universal Comedy
With Sid Saylor

IT NEEDED just one look at his opponent to discourage Sid about his chances of winnning a boxing bout and one good left to his winsome face put Sid to sleep for as many counts as it takes dream-sheep to go over a stile.

Next day things looked rosy, however, so Sid and his domineering manager went out looking for new arenas to conquer. They happened on an electric reducing machine proposition. They were willing to demonstrate anywhere and on anything, much to the annoyance of the local policeman, who soon developed an earnest "mad" against them.

The last "shake" came when the cop caught them demonstrating in his own home. Sid got such a shock, he lost his trousers, and the cop "laid" them out" to the law.

"PRISON PANIC"

Oswald Cartoon

OSWALD, as warden, has a hard time keeping his mousy convict in order, and when mouse filed a chunk out of his cell door and escaped, it meant a hard day's work for Ozzie.

Mouse again started on his career of crime the minute he gained his freedom—robbing the pockets of innocent citizens and frightening a poor hippo who tried his best to hide his Big Ben wrist-watch from the crook.

As mouse was swimming in his crime wave, Oswald pulled a few strokes behind him and saw to it that Mean Mouse went back into the jail drain.

Oswald was his mouse's keeper and from that time onward, kept the culprit behind barred doors.

Motion Picture News Finds "Czar of B'way" Good Melodrama

(Reviewed by Don Ashbaugh)

THE CZAR OF BROADWAY," based on Arnold Rothstein's life, shows the notorious gambler in an entirely different light than previous productions based on the same subject. . . . The picture shapes up as all around good melodramatic entertainment for regulation program bookings.

Betty Compson as the girl is the "name" bet to put this one over. Although John Wray is excellent in the title spot, he is new to picture audiences and cannot be depended upon to help at the box-office. The plot concerns the efforts of a newspaper editor to prove how villainous a gangster really is in his hold on the activities of a city. John Harron has the spot as the reporter. He is entirely satisfactory.

There is a novel twist in the friendship of the gangster and the reporter with the former dying at the finish. Several sequences are above ordinary level, notably that of the poker game between the gangster and the boy.

"KING OF JAZZ" SETS NEW GOAL

(Continued from page 14)

But, getting back to the picture, it is handsomely done, strikingly original and cannot be taken with a shrug. The entire revue is an all-color medley of inspiring spectacle, lilting melody, clever dancing and frequent hilarious comedy.

* * *

John Murray Anderson, long known as one of the three most celebrated producers in America, cannot be too highly commended for the breadth of his conception in creating "King of Jazz" and for his selection of the array of talent.

"U's PHANTOM PARALYZES PITTSBURGH!"

Pittsburgh, April 22.
(Drawing Population, 1,000,000)
Weather: Fair

Enright struck oil in that oasis known as Holy Week with sizzling $16,500 for Universal's duped "Phantom of Opera." Biggest thing his house has had in months. Cricks rapped picture, but mob insisted upon seeing it.

Starring

LON CHANEY

With Norman Kerry, Mary Philbin. From the story by Gaston Leroux. Directed by Rupert Julian. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE

MUSIC — DIALOG — TECHNICOLOR

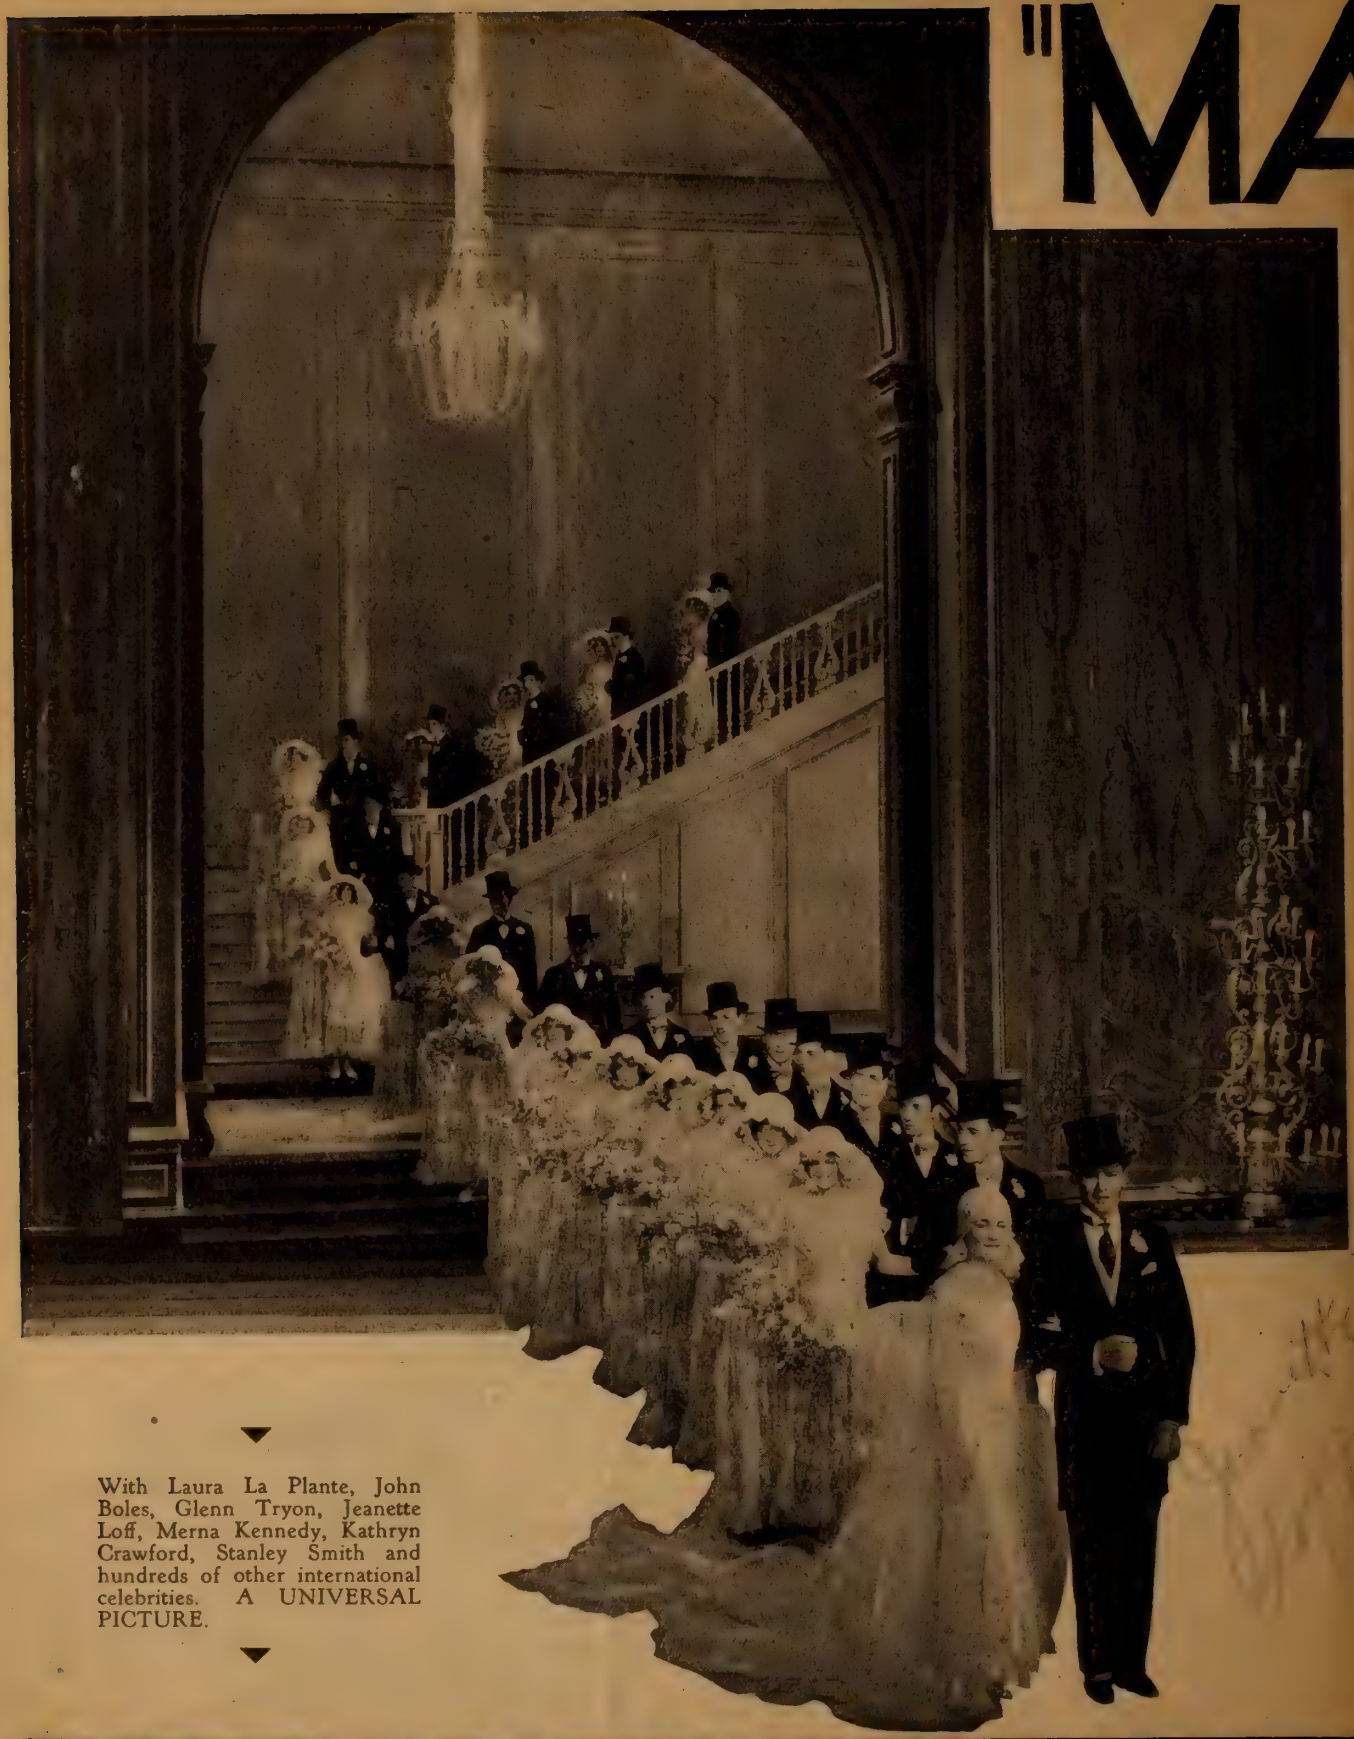
(Sound on Disc Only)

(Lon Chaney's role as the Phantom is a silent portrayal)

VARIETY

UNIVERSAL FIRST

"MA



With Laura La Plante, John Boles, Glenn Tryon, Jeanette Loff, Merna Kennedy, Kathryn Crawford, Stanley Smith and hundreds of other international celebrities. A UNIVERSAL PICTURE.

Including The First Dramatization of GNIFICENT"—

says Harold B. Franklin of Fox West Coast—

"We have just rated it magnificent. The picture's percentage after a preview before ninety officials of studios, film exchanges and chain theatres was 98. In the last five years, only four pictures have received a similar rating."

—Harold B. Franklin

"What a picture! What a picture! No praise too great. Thoroughly entertaining. Gorgeous."

—Cleveland Press

"Easily the most stupendous and lavish piece of entertainment ever turned out by Universal."

—Ex. Herald World

"Unquestionably the most sensational filmusical of the industry. Utmost results in entertaining qualities."

—M. P. News

"They lost their collective breaths. Thrilled with its physical pompousness as much as its originality."

—New York Daily News

"The biggest, greatest, most entertaining yet produced. Brings cheers from audience. Most sensational."

—Los Angeles Record

"In a formidable position to go unchallenged as the best picture of 1930. Should prove great box-office offering."

—Hollywood Screen World

"The most lavish to come from Hollywood studios and should be a hit with fans everywhere. Feast for eye and ear."

—Film Daily

"At last we have something different. And if this doesn't make money pictures might as well shut up shop."

—N. Y. Morn. Telegraph

PAUL WHITEMAN

and his band of exclusive Columbia Recording Artists in

"KING OF JAZZ"

Presented by Carl Laemmle Produced by Carl Laemmle Jr.

Directed by John Murray Anderson

George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue"

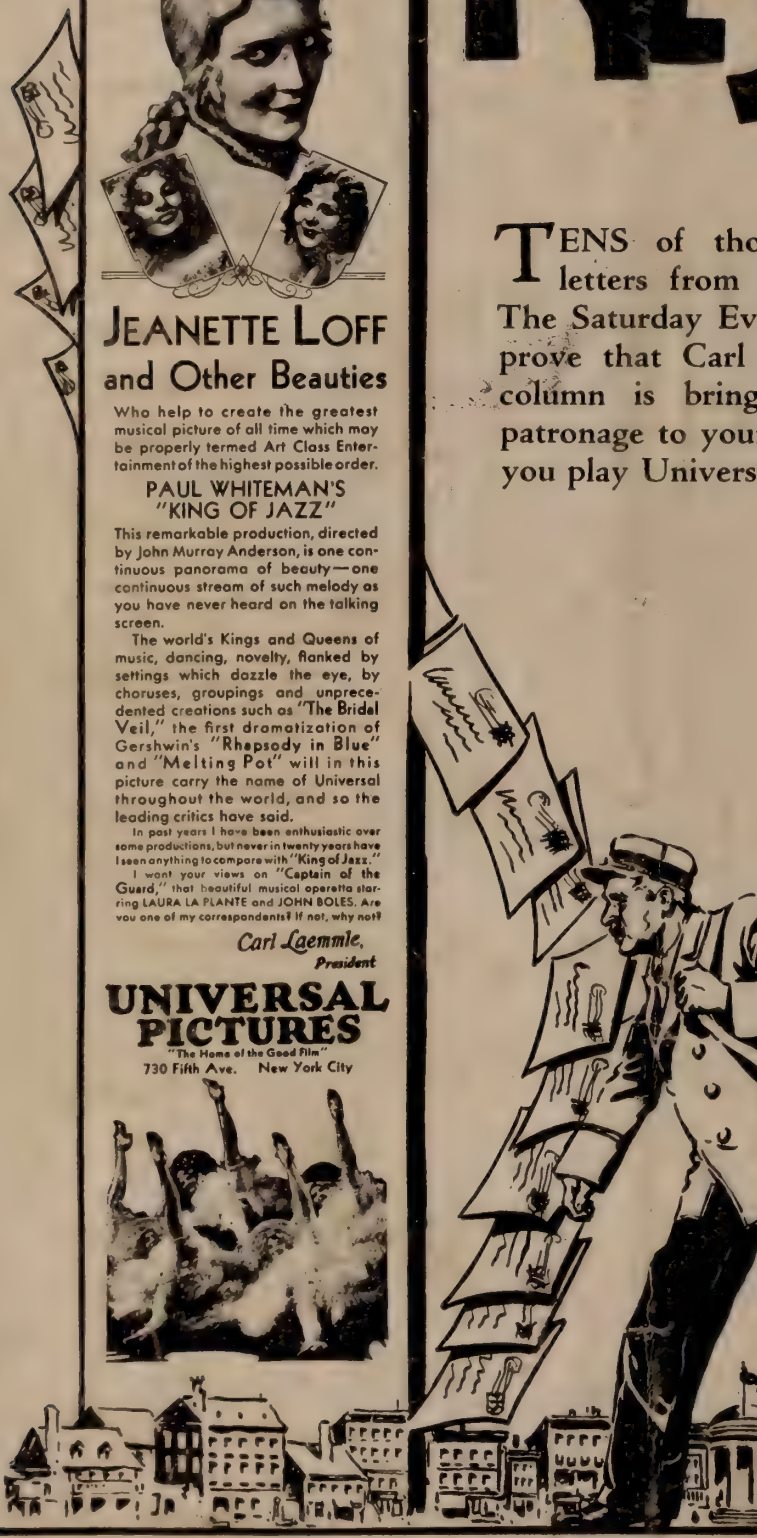
LARRY EDMUNDS, INC.
CINEMA BOOKSHOP
HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.

RESULTS!

TENS of thousands of letters from readers of The Saturday Evening Post prove that Carl Laemmle's column is bringing added patronage to your theatre if you play Universal Pictures!



The column on the left will appear in The Saturday Evening Post issue of May 17, 1930

Watch This Column

Universal's Weekly Chat

JEANETTE LOFF

and Other Beauties

Who help to create the greatest musical picture of all time which may be properly termed Art Class Entertainment of the highest possible order.

PAUL WHITEMAN'S
"KING OF JAZZ"

This remarkable production, directed by John Murray Anderson, is one continuous panorama of beauty—one continuous stream of such melody as you have never heard on the talking screen.

The world's Kings and Queens of music, dancing, novelty, flanked by settings which dazzle the eye, by choruses, groupings and unprecedented creations such as "The Bridal Veil," the first dramatization of Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" and "Melting Pot" will in this picture carry the name of Universal throughout the world, and so the leading critics have said.

In past years I have been enthusiastic over some productions, but never in twenty years have I seen anything to compare with "King of Jazz."

I want your views on "Captain of the Guard," that beautiful musical operetta starring LAURA LA PLANTE and JOHN BOLES. Are you one of my correspondents? If not, why not?

Carl Laemmle,
President

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

"The Home of the Good Film"
730 Fifth Ave. New York City

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
VOL. 31 NOV. 5, 1932 NO. 21

BROADWAY STEPS OUT WITH UNIVERSAL!

"ALL AMERICAN" at the PARAMOUNT

•

"ONCE IN A LIFETIME" at the ROXY

•

"OLD DARK HOUSE" at the RIALTO

•

"AIR MAIL" at the MAYFAIR

•

BROTHER, ARE YOU STEPPING OUT?

Coming!

SLIM SUMMERVILLE

and

ZASU PITTS

in

They had to get Married

With This Great All-Comedy-Star Cast!

FIFI D'ORSAY, Roland Young, Guy Kibbe, C. Aubrey Smith, Elizabeth Patterson, Vivian Oakland, Robert Greig, Cora Sue Collins, David Leo Tillotson, Wallis Clark.

Directed by E. Luddy

Universal Weekly

No. 695—Straight-from-the-Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

Two years ago I discontinued publishing the Universal Weekly which I had been distributing to exhibitors for about twenty years.

I figured that it would be a wise economy, but it proved to be a false one.

Universal has so many important things to tell you that it is impossible to cover them all in regular trade paper advertising.

Universal not only makes twenty-six of the finest feature pictures on the market, aimed at first run and every other run, but it also produces the incomparable Tom Mix Outdoor pictures, many two reel comedies, several serials, a novelty reel called Strange as it Seems and two newsreels, every week.

Every exhibitor is entitled to know what the world thinks about all of this product, but it would take so many pages of trade paper space to tell it that no company could afford it.

Comes to You Again!

So I have decided to give you the Universal Weekly again, beginning with this issue and continuing every week thereafter.

Only in this way can you be properly posted on Universal pictures as they relate to your prosperity. Only in this way can you know the whole amazing story of Universal's success in the face of the hardest times the world has ever known.

If the truth about all of Universal's product will help you make more money than you have been making; if something we publish in the Universal Weekly helps you to make up your mind about what to book in your theatre and how to advertise it and exploit it after you have booked it; then it will have served its purpose for you as well as for Universal.

I ask you to study each forthcoming issue of the Universal Weekly with the same care and seriousness which we shall use in making it up.

Thank you.

Carl Laemmle

His voice on your screen

"How do you do, ladies and gentlemen."

His face in your lobby and you've got more than any other newsreel can give you!

UNIVERSAL NEWSREEL

The fastest growing newsreel in the world!

Broadway Elects Universal

Crowds in front of the Paramount Theatre for "The All American" showing. A Christy Walsh radio broadcast was one of the features. At top, Universal's great Broadway sign announcing "Once in a Lifetime."

The Roxy displayed this "Once in a Lifetime" illumination and took in sixty thousand grand for new record. "The Old Dark House" went into the Rialto for a run, and opened like a whirlwind.

BROADWAY has elected Universal!

Presidential contests come only once every four years, but the battle of the theatres to elect a product ruler of the Main Stem is a weekly event. Universal has just won this victory.

No less than five Universal productions have enjoyed first runs in Broadway houses during the last month, and two are repeating. They are "The All American," "My Pal, the King," "Once in a Lifetime," "The Old Dark House" and "Air Mail." "Afraid to Talk" will follow in soon.

First, there was the Tom Mix feature, "My Pal, the King," which played the Globe. Imagine! A western on Broadway, and it packed them in for two weeks.

Second came "The All American" with its glittering array of football stars, and took the New York Paramount by storm, playing to enthusiastic houses at every showing. Too, the picture was vastly pleasing to the Metropolitan movie critics, as will be seen by the reviews printed on page 32 of this issue.

"The Old Dark House" got off to an excellent start last week at the Rialto when Irene Thirer, motion picture critic of the New York Daily News awarded the picture a rating of three and a half stars, and others agreed with her.

The business at the Rialto on the opening days averaged almost fifty percent above normal business. It is in for two weeks and possibly three. Saturday rolled up four and a half grand, and Sunday four. Variety on Tuesday morning predicted $22,000. Reviews on page 18 and 19.

The UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors

Paul Gulick, Editor

Published weekly by the Motion Picture Weekly Publishing Company, 730 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Copyright 1932, Universal Pictures Corp.
(All rights reserved)

Vol. 31 Nov. 5, 1932 No. 21

Opening business at the Roxy was very flattering, indeed. Over $10,000 on Saturday, and an equal amount on Sunday, which establishes a new record for the theatre since it re-opened at a lower price schedule. This record is not only for money taken in, but for attendance as well. Double record to the credit of "Once in a Lifetime," which moves immediately into the Fox Brooklyn Theatre.

Variety on Tuesday predicted $60,000, with a strong possibility of even more. Here is the way the Variety column opened. The heading reads:

"ROXY'S 'ONCE IN A LIFETIME' TOPS BROADWAY— WOW $60,000"

Here is the way it started off:

"Business generally sprightly on the town's biggest first-run front, with the Roxy for the first time since it reopened in August coming into the big money.

"With a good week-end also helpful to the other houses, the biggest 'un among them, with 'Once in a Lifetime,' is taking the hurdles for a nice $60,000, with a chance to beat that. It will be by more than $10,000 better business than the Roxy has generally enjoyed in a long time."

Armistice Day Suggestions

NOVEMBER 11th for generations to come will be a day which will live in the memory of the American people. It is the anniversary of the Armistice which terminated the World War. It is a day which should be signalized in your theatre. If you have not already done so, you should take steps immediately to memorialize Armistice Day. Naturally, you have your own idea of how this can best be done. The suggestions we can make to you have to do largely with the film or films you run in your theatre on that day.

Of course, the greatest film that you could run on that day, and, as a matter of fact, on any other day, is "All Quiet on the Western Front." By the judgment of hundreds of critics this picture is the best moving picture ever made. It would be impossible, by the expenditure of any amount of money, to make a picture more appropriate for Armistice Day showing than "All Quiet on the Western Front." Erich Maria Remarque, a German who served through the entire four years of the War in the German Army, wrote the book out of the fullness of his own tragic experience. As a book, it was one of the landmarks of book publishing. As a picture, it was even more outstanding and more graphic. The screen has far greater opportunity to speak to the soul than has the printed word. "All Quiet on the Western Front" is a soul-searching human document.

It is quite probable that Carl Laemmle will withdraw this production entirely from circulation for a certain length of time and bring it back later. He has many times been advised to do so. Moving picture people, international statesmen, educators, humanitarians, have assured him that "All Quiet on the Western Front" is a picture for the ages. Naturally, he could make more money by withdrawing it and putting it out later with a great advertising campaign. Mr. Laemmle has not done this yet. This year you will have the opportunity of booking it. It is an opportunity which you should embrace. Book "All Quiet on the Western Front" if you have the opportunity and it isn't already booked in your opposition house.

There is a picture which has just completed its first runs, but which is current in all of the exchanges and has established a tremendous reputation for itself as a builder of character and as a memorial to the American Legion. It is "Tom Brown of Culver." Not only in the United States has this picture met the most laudatory reception; in England, in Germany, in fact, all over the world, it has been an outstanding example of what a splendid moving picture can be. It will be a credit to your theatre to show "Tom Brown of Culver" on Armistice Day, whether you have already shown it or not.

There is no reason why the Slim Summerville comedies dealing with the Marine Corps and with the Army wouldn't make an appropriate subject to balance your program and to give it an Armistice Day flavor. There is no reason in the world why Armistice Day should not reflect the joy which Humanity felt in the termination of the War as well as the terrible experiences which engulfed the world for four years. These comedies are among the best ever brought to the screen. Whether you have shown them or not, a Slim Summerville Marine Corps Comedy would be a splendid feature for an Armistice Day program.

ARMISTICE!

Let us have an armistice in the picture business!

Let us all make an honest effort to put an end to quarreling, suspicion and distrust.

Heaven knows we must withstand enough attacks from outside our ranks without adding to our problems through constant internal discord.

If producers, distributors or exhibitors are indulging in practices which are unfair to any other branch of the industry, let us find a peaceful way out instead of drawing outside criticism upon ourselves by tearing at one another's throats.

The motion picture business, although in better shape than many others, is nevertheless facing a battle for existence. The constructive brainpower of every man who earns his living through pictures is needed to build it back into the greatness it once enjoyed.

It can be done if we all pull together, but not in any other way.

Speaking for Universal, I will agree to anything that is fair—fair to everybody concerned, because if it is not completely fair it will never bring peace. This goes for contracts or anything else which is causing friction.

Fourteen years ago the world war was stopped by an armistice, but the world is still smarting from its old wounds. Recovery is slow. But it need not be so slow in the case of the picture business.

Peace among ourselves is the first step toward recovery. Let's take it!

—Carl Laemmle.

To Help Defeat Depression

CARL LAEMMLE has just employed one hundred men to begin work immediately on two sound stages which will be constructed at Universal City at a total cost of $50,000, it was announced last week by studio officials. The stages will be the final unit in a $150,000 construction program started recently at the film plant.

The motion picture producer ordered the additional construction to give more employment.

Gloria Stuart Has Played Four Big Leading Roles in the First Six Months of Her Film Experience

GLORIA STUART has arrived.

In the movies only five months, the brilliant actress has played four leads. And with the recent acclaim of "Air Mail," in which she had the feminine lead opposite Ralph Bellamy, her future in pictures is assured. Universal has just signed her to a long term contract, and put her in "Laughter in Hell."

Miss Stuart's rise to motion picture prominence has been nothing short of meteoric. A few weeks ago she was an unknown quantity in Hollywood. Today she is headed for stardom.

One of the many interesting things about Gloria is the remarkable circumstances surrounding her picture debut. Before she had ever appeared on the screen, two major companies were quarreling over the right to sign her to a contract. And the matter was finally settled by flipping a coin. Universal won.

First noted by Carl Laemmle, Jr., while giving her initial performance in "The Sea Gull" at the Pasadena Playhouse, Miss Stuart stepped immediately into leading roles. No extra parts and bits for her. Her very first assignment was a lead.

When James Whale, the director, began searching about for someone able to register fright in "The Old Dark House," Universal's picturization of the J. B. Priestley thriller with Karloff, Laemmle, Jr., pointed out the recently signed Gloria Stuart. Perhaps because of her very natural novice's fright, Whale decided that Gloria could do the job. A preview of "The Old Dark House" revealed that the director's guess had been a good one.

On a "loan" to Warner Brothers, Miss Stuart next made "Street of Women." Then came her most difficult role to date, a heroine lead opposite Richard Arlen in Universal's football sequel to "The Spirit of Notre Dame," "The All American." Gloria not only filmed this picture but at the same time took the lead in Universal's "Air Mail." During her first five-month period in the movies, therefore, a time which most newcomers spend finding out what it is all about, Miss Stuart played the leads in four major productions. Because of her outstanding work in "Air Mail," in which she shares stellar honors with Pat O'Brien, Lilian Bond, and Russell Hopton, the little blonde was presented with a Universal long-termer.

"My head swam!" she confessed recently in commenting on her rapid rise to movie celebrity. "Though I was born in Santa Monica, less than 20 miles from Hollywood, the thought of a screen career had never occurred to me. All my theatrical activities had been in college plays at the University of California and in Little Theatres in various parts of the state. I appeared regularly in plays presented at the Theatre of the Golden Bow, located in Carmel-by-the Sea.

It was Gilmour Brown, director of the Pasadena Community Playhouse, who witnessed one of Miss Stuart's performances at the Golden Bow and invited her to his playhouse to play the lead in his production of "The Sea Gull." Curiously enough, Onslow Stevens, who is prominently cast in Carl Laemmle's screen version of "Once In A Lifetime," was Miss Stuart's leading man in "The Sea Gull" and was signed by Universal at the same time as Miss Stuart.

Though there are many blondes in Hollywood, Gloria is one of the natural ones, and this, with her large hazel eyes and exceptionally fine profile, makes her one of the most attractive young women of the screen. And beneath her ever-present dignity and poise, Gloria hides a great many ardent enthusiasms. An excellent swimmer, she is so in love with the sport that every summer afternoon finds her in the surf. Hollywood is agog at her feats on the polo field. She is an excellent horsewoman and of the few women polo players in the film colony. Also, she is an extremely talented wood-carver. Last, but certainly not least she is a movie fan.

Her work in "Air Mail," a thrilling story of the intrepid aviators who fly the government mail, is splendid.

ANOTHER BOX-OFFICE SMASH FROM THE STUDIO OF HITS!

WITH

ERIC LINDEN
SIDNEY FOX

Louis Calhern, George Meeker, Tully Marshall. By George Sklar and Albert Maltz. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Edward L. Cahn. Presented by Carl Laemmle

BY THE MAKERS OF BACK STREET — AIR MAIL

THE ALL AMERICAN — OLD DARK HOUSE, ETC.

"Laughter in Hell" in Production

AS THE Jim Tully novel, "Laughter in Hell," comes off the press and into the booksellers' windows, the moving picture of this graphic story, by one of the world's most vivid writers, goes into production at Universal City. The growing popularity of Pat O'Brien, as evidenced in "Air Mail", caused Carl Laemmle, Jr., to give him the lead. The entire cast is interesting and full of box-office names. Tom Brown, Gloria Stuart, Berton Churchill, Merna Kennedy, Arthur Vinton, all have splendid roles, and there are also Douglas Dumbrille, Tom Ricketts, Arthur Wanzer, William H. Turner, Russell Powell, Clarence Muse and Tom Conlon.

Tom Reed adapted the novel to the screen, and Edward Cahn is directing it. In "Laughter in Hell," Carl Laemmle, Jr., promises a remarkable performance by Merna Kennedy. Once before the Universal producing head snatched this girl from oblivion. She has the reddest hair in Hollywood and the producers mistakenly tried to make her a milk-white ingenue. They failed. This time she is coming back in a role as provocative as her hair. Miss Kennedy is all washed up with good little girls. She is the laughter in Hell.

The new Merna Kennedy as she appears in "Laughter in Hell"

Karloff actually is a mummy in this picture, a mummy who comes to life by the chance discovery of an ancient formula and then attempts to drag a beautiful society girl back through the centuries with him in order to eliminate the three thousand years which separate them. "The Mummy" has all of the power that made "Frankenstein" great. Its sets were designed by the world-renowned artist, Willy Pogany.

Karl Freund, the great camera expert, who shot "Variety" and awoke Hollywood to a consciousness of camera angles and the new camera technique, is producing "The Mummy" as his first directoral assignment. His cast in support of Karloff includes Zita Johann, David Manners, Edward Van Sloan, Arthur Byron, Bramwell Fletcher, and Noble Johnson.

"Cagliostro" Now Becomes "The Mummy" with Karloff

UNIVERSAL has changed the title of "Cagliostro" on its list of twenty-six productions for the year, to "The Mummy". "Cagliostro" was an original story by Nina Wilcox Putnam, written around a centuries-old legend. With the assistance of E. Richard Schayer, the story was prepared for the screen and the legend extended to date back three thousand years. The role of Im-Ho-Tep was tailored to Karloff, the "Frankenstein" monster, and fitted him so remarkably well that Carl Laemmle, Jr., resolved to launch him as a star in this production of "The Mummy".

"Destination Unknown" Announced

TO take the place of the picture "S. S. San Pedro," which has been withdrawn from the list of Universal productions, Carl Laemmle, Jr., has just announced the story by Tom Buckingham entitled "Destination Unknown." This production will feature Pat O'Brien and Ralph Bellamy, who were so tremendously successful in "Air Mail." The cast already includes Charles Middleton and Rollo Lloyd. Tay Garnett has been taken off of "Men Without Fear" and will direct "Destination Unknown" until conditions in the bull fighting sport in Mexico City improve. All of the important bull fights there were cancelled, owing to conditions which have affected sports in this country as well as in Mexico.

In the meantime, "Destination Unknown" looms up as a remarkably fine story, and Universal will give it every possible ounce of production value. The feminine lead will be announced next week.

The teaming up of Pat O'Brien and Ralph Bellamy is one of the results of the splendid work that these two did together in "Air Mail". When "Air Mail" gets into its stride in the theatres, reputations of both will increase.

Here's one they can't imitate because Universal gobbled up football's greatest stars and made a drama that smashes even "The Spirit of Notre Dame."

THE ALL AMERICAN

With RICHARD ARLEN, Andy Devine, James Gleason, Gloria Stuart, John Darrow. THE 1931 ALL AMERICA TEAM and the ALL AMERICA BOARD OF FOOTBALL—"Pop" Warner, E. L. Casey, Jesse Harper, W. A. Alexander, Christy Walsh. Story by Richard Schayer and Dale Van Every. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Russell Mack. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

Slim Summerville and ZaSu Pitts in "They Had to Get Married"

"They Had To Get Married" A Great Title and Cast

UNIVERSAL has improved another title and put a cast at work which is going to set a record for comedy personalities. The new title is "They Had to Get Married," changed from "Beauty and the Brute." It stars Slim Summerville and ZaSu Pitts. And look at this lineup: Veree Teasdale, Guy Kibbee, Fifi Dorsay, Roland Young, C. Aubrey Smith, David Tillotson, Vivian Oakland, William Burress, Louise Mackintosh, Robert Grieg, Virginia Howell, Bertram Matburgh, James Donlan, Elizabeth Patterson, Wallis Clark and Cora Sue Collins, who played so marvelously with Summerville and Pitts in "The Unexpected Father" last year.

The story was written by H. M. Walker, Gladys Lehman and Clarence Marks and is already in its second week of production at Universal City under the direction of Edward Ludwig. On the second day, ZaSu Pitts was taken to the hospital, but fortunately her ailment was of a minor nature, and she is now back on the set and production is progressing splendidly. No actress in Hollywood works so steadily as ZaSu Pitts. She has to go to the hospital to rest. In the meantime, Miss Pitts is getting gobs and gobs of praise for her work in "Once In A Lifetime."

"The All American" Hits Everywhere

(Hollywood Reporter)

"Reports received of the receptions accorded Universal's big football feature, 'The All American,' have given great joy to company officials," states the Hollywood Reporter. It then goes on to cite figures of the Golden Gate 'Frisco, the Orpheum in Omaha and the Orpheum in Portland, all above "Back Street.

"Afraid to Talk" Ready for Release

BEFORE ever "Afraid to Talk" reached New York, it was "grapevined" as one of the remarkable productions of the year. At its preview, "Afraid to Talk," which is based on the Broadway stage success, "Merry Go Round," by Albert Moltz and George Sklar, was caught by all the Hollywood critics, and they, with one accord, tagged this one as a winner. The Hollywood Filmograph calls it a ten-strike for Universal. Arthur Forde, writing in that paper, says:

"Universal hits the high mark in one of the best pictures of the year, on a subject that is given more thought and publicity than anything else in the public eye. - - - - The clever work of the writers, the director, and splendid cast, holds the audience in a spell until the final curtain. Edward Cahn did a masterly piece of work that should place him high in the ranks of top-notch directors. His novel idea of an electric sign to help the advancement of the story is extremely interesting. - - - - Eric Linden is so perfectly natural as the harrassed boy that you really suffer with him in his trials. Sidney Fox as his wife does the best work of her career. The photography of Karl Fruend is of his famous high order. Universal Pictures have shown us some splendid pictures since the new season opened, but 'Afraid to Talk' is by far the best, with its grand entertainment, which theatre managers all over the country will cash in on heavily at the box-office."

"Afraid to Talk" is ready for release. It will be in the exchanges this week. It takes the place on the Universal program of "Shanghai Interlude." It features Eric Linden and Sidney Fox, but its splendid cast includes Mayo Methot, Robert Warwick, Tully Marshall, Louis Calhern, Berton Churchill, Edward Arnold, George Meeker, Ian MacLaren, Matt McHugh, Frank Sheridan, Tom Jackson, Gustav von Seyffertitz, Reginald Barlow and Edward Martindel.

Eric Linden and Sidney Fox in "Afraid to Talk"

Paramount Backs it with 5 Column ads in New York!

reopen her Civic Repertory Theatre season Ferenc Molnar, and her leading man will be she is shown as she would appear offstage amille (right).

s on Review

WILLIAM BOEHNEL

wars the ballerina and her sweetheart carry on their romance, and just as ... out to leave
Prussia ... emperor returning ... the front, breaks ... apart
... them ... starving ... finally played a sad and ... Truex. The play is ex-
... to open within the next two weeks.

Not much ... but it is ex-
... cast and ha... produced. ... that is ... beaten path ...

At 79th Street Theatre.

Elsa Ditchchen ... Berliner
Erna Ditchchen ... Walburg
Adele ... Rommer
Stenographer

A THOROUGH ... little German ... in Paradise," is ... the week at ... Street Theatre. ... and amusing, it tells ... the efforts of a vice crusader to clean up a notorious week-end resort. How he accomplishes his end is at all times amusing if not always fresh and sparkling.

The cast, which includes ... Berliner, Claire ... Else Elster, three ... actresses, is very ... direction, which ... to Robert Land ... action is rather ... even if you don't ... German, but a ... guage will make the film more enjoyable.

Soloist Stirs Applause.

After an intermission the soloist displayed her ability in the early "Burleske" for piano and orchestra of Richard Strauss, a work which at moments is strongly prophetic of the "Rosenkavalier" that Strauss was to give to the world a quarter of a century later. Played with gusto, at any rate, it stirred the goodly audience to hearty applause.

Wagner's "Meistersinger" prelude concluded the concert.

Plan Play Revival.

Jules J. Levinthal and O. E. ... have put into rehearsal ... rence Gross ... Carroll ...

the freedom and authority of her singing. Vocally, her Violetta often gave pleasure.

Mario Valle and Dimitri Onofrei were, respectively, the senior and the junior Germont. Mr. Onofrei's singing was uneven. A seeming fixation on bigness of tone interfered at times with its legitimate effectiveness.

Mr. Valle offered a carefully considered impersonation of the ... father, and his delivery of "Di Provenza" was one of the ... of the evening.

Carlo Peroni ... ducting with his ... gu...

MUSIC ARTISTS NEXT ... announces—
CARNEGIE HALL TONIGHT at 8:30
KREISLER
All seats ... for ... Week
STRANGE INTERLUDE
Norma ... GABLE
A Metro ... Picture
TORO ... Sun. & ... Adds'le
& 45th ... 50c. to $2
LOEW'S ... Extra Attraction—Molly PICON
B'way at 46 St. Chevalier "Love Me Tonight"
CAPITOL NORMA SHEARER in "Smilin' Through." On Stage—Abe Lyman, 5 Keys and Gomez & Winona.
B'way at 51st | Doors open at 10:30 A. M.
PARAMOUNT
On the S...
30 FAMOUS ... in a red-hot ... romance
"ALL A...RICAN"
Richard ... Gloria Stuart
GUY ... CARBO
and his RO... MADRI...
SAMUE...
"MADISON SQUARE GARDEN"
All Seats 35c till 1 P. M.
Late Nite Owl Shows
RIVOLI JOAN CRAWFORD in "RAIN" with Walter Huston
B'way at 49th St. | 35c | 1 P.M.

A NOTHER LANGUAGE
Glenn Anders, Dorothy Stickney
Margaret Wycherly, John Beal
A. ... Evenings, Matinees Thurs. ...
... Mts. Today & Sat. 2:40
OF 1932
EUGENE ...
... 8:30
CR...
... Director
6th YEAR
TONIGHT at 8:30
LILIOM
By MOLNAR
... Terry, Beck
THURS. EVE. "CAMILLE" DUMA...
... Sat. Mat. & Mon. Eve. ...
... Sat. 2:30
By ELMER RICE
... Thurs. & Sat. 2:30
CRIMINAL ... by Edgar Wallace
... cast ... a masterly
... Gabriel ... service,
... and SAT. ...
... 8:30
... by ...
... Sharp — No
... Revue.
EARL CARROLL 16th Edition VANITIES America's featuring the Most Beautiful Girls in the World and ... Helen Broderick,
Harriet ... Milton Berle, Andre
Randall ... Styles, & 150 others, including The Helen Jackson Girls.
BROADWAY THEATRE, B'way at 53 St.
Circle 7-5692. Nights, 700 Orch. Seats $3.50
Wed. Mts. 50c-$2. Sat. Mts. 50c-$2.50 plus tax
MAX GORDON Presents
CLIFTON WEBB
CHARLES BUTTERWORTH
TAMARA GEVA PATSY KELLY in THE NEW HOWARD DIETZ REVUE
FLYING COLORS
IMPERIAL, W. 45. Evs. 8:30. $1 to $4 Plus Tax
Mats. Thurs. $1 to $2.50. Sat. $1 to $3 Plus Tax

EN MUST FIGHT
"It is a stirring play to see and hear."—Lockridge, ...
... W. 45th St. BR. 9-3546.
8:30. Mats. Thurs. & Sat. ...
FEARS presents
ORE ULRIC
with ARTHUR MARGETSON
Evs. 8:40. Mts. Thurs. & Sat. ...
ULITZER PRIZE WINNER 1931-'32
THEE I SING
A New Musical Comedy
WILLIAM ... LOIS ... VICTOR with GAXTON MORAN MOORE
200 ORCH. $4 | 400 ORCH. $3 | Plus Tax
SEATS ... Higher Prices
46th ST. THEA., W. of B'way. Evs. 8:50. A. ...
Mats. Thurs. & Sat. at 2:30 ... 1938
...OPKINS presents
...VOUS
...ON ... 41st ...
... Wed. & Sat. 2:30
...GRAND OPERA
... Tales ... Hoffmann". To-
... "Aida". ...
... Faust."
...STERDAM ... W. 42d St.
... 50c to $3. Wed. ... Mats. 50c to $2
THE GROUP ...
...CCESS STO...
... 50th
... Humorously ... on
... illuminating ... comedy
... acted."—... World-Telegram.
...INE ELLIOTT ... 39th E. of B'way
... 8:40. Mats. ... and Sat. at 2:40
C. ... Waldorf
GRA...UDE "Gratitude" ... tickets
... Thea ... Mts. ... honored
... Mts. Thurs. Sats. 2:40
...TO... $1.00 to $2.00
...OUTSIDE
... Comedy
LITTLE Thea. ... 45th St. Evs. at 8:50
THE ... GUILD presents
THE GOOD EARTH
Dramatized by Owen Davis & Donald Davis from Pulitzer ... novel by Pearl S. Buck
GUILD THEA., W. of B'way Evs. 8:50
MATINEES ... W. and SAT. at 2:30
LOU HOLTZ in
THE GREAT LOVER
LAST WEEK
ILSE MARVENGA-MARGUERITE SYLVA
WALDORF TH., 50 St. Mts. Wed., Th., Sat.
JOHN GOLDEN presents
WHEN LADIES MEET
by RACHEL CROTHERS
ROYALE, W. 45th St. CH. 4-6111. Evs. 8:40
Prices $1 to $3 Incl. Tax. Mats. Wed. & Sat.
YIDDISH ART THEATRE
2nd Ave. at 12th St. TR. 4-7105
MAURICE SCHWARTZ, Director
"YOSHE KALB"
Tonight and Every Night This Week
Matinees—Tuesday and Sunday

STARK TERROR BREAKS ITS CHAINS AND ROVES THROUGH A NIGHT OF SCREAMING THRILLS!

The Dreadful Drama of "DRACULA"
The Sheer Horror of "FRANKENSTEIN"
The Perfect Acting of "Dr. JEKYLL & Mr. HYDE"

...combined in the blood-chilling story of ten men and women... marooned in a house accursed while Fear broke loose and played havoc with their bodies and souls!

J. B. PRIESTLEY'S

"THE OLD DARK HOUSE"

A Universal Picture with

KARLOFF The Monster of "FRANKENSTEIN" supported by a superb cast which includes

CHARLES LAUGHTON
MELVYN DOUGLAS
Raymond Massey • Gloria Stuart
Lilian Bond • Ernest Thesiger

Directed by JAMES WHALE, Director of "FRANKENSTEIN"

TOMORROW at 9:30 A.M.

Popular Prices—Continuous Performances—Last Complete Picture 1.30 A.M.

RIALTO

HOUSE OF HITS • BROADWAY at 42nd ST.

All Seats 35c Till 1 P. M.

Tom Mix Signs A New Contract for Seven More

THOUSANDS of exhibitors will be glad to hear this piece of news. Tom Mix not only will be Universal's big western star for next year, but he will MAKE MORE PICTURES THAN HE DID LAST YEAR. Contracts have just been signed between Tom Mix and Universal, insuring Universal seven Mix pictures as compared with six the year previous. This is highly significant and an encouraging sign of the times.

The Mix pictures this year went over big. There can be no doubt about it. They made money for exhibitors. There can be no doubt about that. Nothing succeeds like success. Tom Mix is more of a success right now than he has ever been in all of his years as the premier western star of the screen. Universal realizes this and realizes that exhibitors want him. That is why it demanded and secured from Tom Mix one more picture. So there will be seven Tom Mixes next year.

In the meantime, Mix is rapidly recovering from three cracked ribs received when the faithful Tony stumbled down a bank during a fist fight on horseback between Tom and Duke Lee. Little things like cracked ribs do not stop Tom Mix, though. The way he can take it is nobody's business. He is going right on with the first of these seven pictures. The first one is a Peter B. Kyne magazine story entitled "Oh, Promise Me." It won't be that title when it is released, but you can bank on it, Universal will give this first one a crackerjack title. It already gave it a splendid cast, including Ruth Hall, William Farnum, George Hackathorne, Duke Lee, Pee Wee Holmes, William Steele, Fred Burns and Clarence Wilson. Arthur Rosson is directing "Oh, Promise Me."

Two other pictures have already been selected for next year. One is "Riders of Terror Trail," by Grant Taylor, which Jack Cunningham is now adapting and which will be directed by Armand Schaffer. The third picture will probably be "The Promised Land," by Lester Ilfeld.

"Air Mail" Today

"Air Mail" Was In the Bag Long Before It Opened

Strange thing how the film business smells out success. "Air Mail" opens today at the Mayfair Theatre in New York. No box-office figures to go on; no critics' reports—nothing—and yet there isn't a person in the moving picture business who doesn't already know that "Air Mail" is a huge success. They just smell 'em. In Africa, drums carry messages almost as fast as the telegraph. The Indians on this continent used to signal by fires from one mountain top to another, with incredible speed. They are as nothing compared to the speed with which a moving picture success can make itself known to every producer, distributor and exhibitor in this wide land.

READ

The Amazing Story

OF

"SOS ICEBERG"

The only film ever shot in Greenland and the sources of the gigantic icebergs. This story will be told in a forthcoming issue of the UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

Variety Retracts

U Denies Making Films for $75,000

Denying a "Variety" report that Universal is producing four class "B" features with budgets not exceeding $75,000, R. H. Cochrane, vice-president in charge of the home office, declared:

"We cannot do it and no other company can do it unless they intentionally set out to make cheaters. We haven't any such budget for any of our pictures or any such plan. Our minimum picture is around $150,000. The same is true of every other major company."

"I Get Prouder of Motion Pictures Every Day of My Life"

Says Mae Tinee, Chicago Tribune Critic, Inspired by Universal Picture.

This Is a Rave, Says Critic of Movie Review

'Once in a Lifetime' Wins a Big Hand

By Mae Tinée

Good Morning!

Right here on this spot, at this time, I want to give Universal a great big hand!

In "Once in a Lifetime" this company has attained a double barreled achievement. The first barrel is a workmanlike and exceedingly entertaining adaptation of the uproarious stage satire. The second—which possibly should have been mentioned first—is a reputation for good sportsmanship. There was no deleting of lines or situations that kidded Hollywood. Instead, they were permitted to blossom as the sunflower. Universal has, to its everlasting credit, proved Hollywood able to take a joke and pass it on with a grin, even if the joke WAS on the picture colony.

Honestly, I get prouder of motion pictures every day of my life! They're growing! The people who are making them are growing. By fits and starts and pains—maybe—but, still, lustily taking root in good old common sense and reaching aspiring tendrils toward the sky.

The play by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, who, it is said, had never been to Hollywood before they wrote it, starts its story with the start of talking pictures.

—•—

Then, as everybody knows, the world of the cinema went just plain cuckoo over the wonderful invention dropped into its lap.

A vaudeville trio—two men and a girl—down on their luck, trek to Hollywood. May Daniels and Jerry Hyland are smart. They nourish the brilliant idea of starting a school wherein formerly silent players shall learn to talk in a manner that shall not confound the world. George Lewis, the other member of the trio, is just a dumb Indian nut eating stooge whom they love and who loves them.

Not for the world would they leave George behind, though he is just the big tame bull in their china shop of plans. . . . Ha, ha, is the laugh on them! In their scheme of things, even as it is in heaven, the first turns out to be last and the last first. . . . !

The film sports the wealth of killing incident and dialogue that made the play the joy it was. And what a cast this movie boasts!

—•—

Aline MacMahon, in the leading feminine rôle, delivers one handsome performance! She's proved in numerous less important assignments that she was a comedienne of parts. This trip she establishes her right to be classed with Marie Dressler, Edna May Oliver, and the other grand and glorious girls who make laughter a necessity and a pleasure.

Russell Hopton is great as her brainy sidekick, and Jack Oakie is immense as the dumb cluck who comes to rule their world.

Onslow Stevens plays a forgotten man—an author who never gets to see the god who hired, pays, and gives him nothing to do—with delightful irony and great facial expressiveness. Gregory Ratoff as Herman Glogauer, the god-president of Glogauer Productions — is almost too good to be true. Louise Fazenda caricatures a lady columnist with zest and perception, and there are loads of other capables who simply slay you.

Direction, staging, costumes, scenery are assets of the first water.

"Why, this is a rave!" you say. When there's something to rave over —rave, says I.

See you tomorrow.

"Back Street" Goes Sweeping On

"Back Street" is regarded by experts as the most remarkable picture of the year in its consistent power at the box-office. It opened in the Rockaways and Long Beach, around New York, and has just played its repeat bookings in the same houses to within a few dollars as much money as it took in the first time it played these houses. And it established records in all of them then.

Frank McCarthy, Eastern Sales Manager, has just received a letter from A. H. Barnett, Manager of the Buffalo Universal Exchange, with some astounding figures on "Back Street" in its neighborhood runs in Buffalo. It is just a casual letter, like one official might send to another, but it contains a startling statement and all of the figures are included in the letter to back up this statement. Here is the letter.

"Dear Frank:

"I thought you might be interested to learn that 'Back Street,' in the Publix neighborhood houses, did more than any other picture shown in the past two years, particularly in the Elmwood and Seneca Theatres.

"The grosses in each situation were as follows."

(Figures on request).

WRITTEN IN Hollywood Repor t
Honey—A Wow and S

AIR

VORDS OF FIRE!

r Says: "Terrific Hit—A ven Kinds of a Knockout!"

NEVER HAVE SO MANY C
THINGS ABOUT SO MANY DI
BY ONE COMPANY AS THEY N

Irene Thirer Says in the Daily News with a three and a half star valuation

Old Dark House Horror Film

"The Old Dark House" is super-special spookinema. It is eerie and awful and logical besides. None of the trap-door, ghost-in-the-night stuff about the Rialto's new tenant. Theres' a reason for every move and a great deal of movement, inasmuch as several of the film's characters are definitely demented.

We don't think we've ever before enjoyed a talkie of this type so immensely. Much of our appreciation, of course, is for James ("Frankenstein") Whale's excellent direction of Benn W. Leevy's adaptation of the chilly tale by J. B. Priestley. And to be sure, we must credit R. S. ("Journey's End") Sheriff's help on the dialogue, which is human and always interesting. Then, of course, plaudits are due a really fine cast including Mr. Karloff (who, alas, hasn't enough to do, but manages to look as horrible as he did in his monster role in "Frankenstein"); the superb Charles Laughton; lovely, capable Lillian Bond; charming Gloria Stuart; estimable English Raymond Massey; meritorious Melvyn Douglas, and four others whom we haven't seen in pictures before.

They are Eva Moore, Ernest Thesinger, Brember Wells and John Dudgeon who offer a quartet of shivery characterizations. Especially is Miss Moore's performance extraordinarily effective.

Not many shrieks and exclamations come from the ladies of the picture. But, when they do scream, you're right with them. You understand their plight, and hope with them to work out of it.

Rose Pelswick Says in the N. Y. Journal

Mad Butler, Insane Firebug, Add Thrills, Chill Nerves In Mystery Melodrama

A mad butler and an insane arsonist are only two of the characters who are guaranteed to terrify any timid soul visiting the Rialto this week. For the new tenant at the Rialto is "The Old Dark House," one of the eeriest and, incidentally, one of the best acted and directed mystery melodramas seen hereabouts in many months. The menace of the Priestley novel, is translated to the screen, is conveyed almost entirely by suggestion. And as any horror-story addict knows, suggestion is a more effective hair raiser than all the leering antics of assorted Draculas, Frankensteins and Zombies put together.

While Boris Karloff, wearing a frightening, if not especially convincing make-up, is billed as the star of the piece, he has to stand aside so that bows can be taken by three English players—Brember Wells, Ernest Thesinger and Eva Moore, who walk away with all the acting honors. And it is due to the superb direction by James Whale, the adaptation by Benn Levy and the dialogue by R. C. Sheriff that the picture piles chills and a lady finds herself clutching the arm of the gentleman sitting beside her because she's scared.

Harleigh Schultz Says in the Boston American

'The All American' Tops Football Films

Russell Mack now has to his credit two "bests." His "Spirit of Notre Dame" was the best grid picture with a collegiate background; now comes his "The All American" as the best of all football films. Mack's direction has the knack of instilling the breath of life into the screen, of giving the panorama of lights and shadows an exciting sweep that is second only to the reality itself. All this he has done in his latest, now to be seen at RKO Keith's.

"The All American" is an out and out epic of the pigskin. The campus fades out early; men are men in the whirl of life after college. Problems of livelihood, of character, of career, are theirs, knottier than the x-y-z problems of the classrooms and the dormitories. But the old football love lingers; the old lessons of the gridiron battles interweave their living, and the yearning is still strong to get into the game—never to be on the sidelines. So the picture tackles the theme from a new angle; it takes up the heroes when the varsity contests are ended.

Gridiron Stars

First of all Universal brings into the cast the big names of football. They are men of physique, of striking faces. Mack swings his lenses upon them. His touch is a good deal like that of the Russians who like to cull their actors from the streets, and not from professionals. Frank Carrideo, Albie Booth, Chris Cagle, Ernie Pinckert, Eddie Casey, "Moon" Mullins, and a dozen others, participate, and give a glow of virility Hollywood cannot match out of its make-believe personnel. These man act better than the film men of their years, and to this story of football give authenticity and a mighty punch.

There is a story, far above the sentimental thread in other grid pictures. But it isn't a great story; it doesn't have to be. For these true-life heroes rise higher than cinema romance. They dwarf incidentals, and stir up such a swift stream of thrilling camera narrative, that the audience applauds more than at any other movie we can recall.

This is truly football's screen saga; it is so, thanks, chiefly, to Russell Mack's direction, and to Carrideo, Booth and the rest.

Praise for Mix in "My Pal the King"

Bland Johaneson Says in the Daily Mirror

At last, something new in Westerns!

Tom Mix and Tony, ever greatest of the horse-and-cowboy teams, have made a completely novel western in MY PAL, THE KING . . . an appealing human little yarn which is pleasing entertainment for adults and a riot for the youngsters . . .

The story has charm. It is spiked with stirring action, quiet humor and simple drama . . . Mix is supported by a most engaging little boy named Mickey Rooney.

A clean picture for the whole family. . . . It's a thoroughly pleasing film and a spectacular departure from conventional westerns.

RITICS SAID SO MANY FINE FFERENT PICTURES PRODUCED OW SAY OF UNIVERSAL HITS!

William C. King Says in the Evening Post

"Once in a Lifetime" at the Roxy, Is a Hilarious Picturization of the Stage Satire

Mr. Carl Laemmle, the veteran head of Universal Pictures, has taken a dare—taken it and, what is more important, made it into the most intelligent and amusing screen comedy that has come out of Hollywood in years.

When "Once in a Lifetime" appeared on Broadway as a play those of us who saw it on the opening night muttered to each other between spasms of hilarity that here was one sure-fire stage hit the movies wouldn't dare to touch. Hollywood, we said gleefully, had at last got what was coming to it in the way of concentrate of sarcasm and precipitate of ridicule. The cinema moguls, so gorgeously spoofed by Moss Hart and George Kaufman, would scarcely wish to preserve the spoofing by way of their own celluloid.

We were wrong. The motion picture version of "Once in a Lifetime," now visible and audible at the Roxy, is the proof, for Mr. Laemmle's director, actors, and scenarists have not diluted a single drop of the caustic which Messrs. Kaufman and Hart poured over the talkie capital and its inhabitants.

"Once in a Lifetime," therefore, is as uproariously funny on the screen as it was on the stage, and that, as any one who saw the footlights production will tell you, is the highest possible praise. There has been no tampering with the characters created by the playwrights and no weakening of the hilarious but scathing dialogue of their play.

Moreover, the actors chosen by Universal for the talkie version do every whit as well by their roles as did the superb cast of the stage presentation.

Follows the Play Closely

Although the cameras wisely have done little more than record what might have been a performance of the play itself, the production never for a moment loses pace. All too frequently, when plays are recorded on the films, the screen version seems to drag between sequences. Not so "Once in a Lifetime." What few excursions are made outside the limitations necessary to a stage performance add decidedly to the effectiveness of the production.

Mordaunt Hall Says in the N. Y. Times

Having discovered through the popularity of the films of "Dracula," "Frankenstein" and "The Murders in the Rue Morgue" that motion picture patrons like to be horrified just as much as they like to be amused, Carl Laemmle, Jr., of Universal Pictures, is now offering another shocker in the form of a pictorial conception of J. B. Priestley's "The Old Dark House," which now is spreading its spine-chilling effects among Rialto spectators.

There is a wealth of talent in this production, and while one may wonder, after witnessing the exciting doings, why the motorists who seek refuge in the old dark house did not continue on their way immediately after encountering two or three of the occupants, it must be remembered that Mr. Priestley is responsible for their staying and, as the shadow tale adheres quite closely to the book, he is also responsible for the hysteria that prevails during many of the scenes.

This current thriller, like "Frankenstein," had the advantage of being directed by James Whale, who again proves his ability in this direction. "The Old Dark House" may not have as complete a story as "Frankenstein," but in it are such talented performers as Charles Laughton, Raymond Massey, Melvyn Douglas, Ernest Thesiger, Boris Karloff, Lillian Bond and Brember Wills.

Bland Johanson Says in the Daily Mirror

Old Dark House Thriller

Hokum Melodrama Gives Brember Wills Chance to Shine as Lunatic

A stunning scare film. You'll be thrilled by it.

The cast is uniformly splendid. The outstanding performance is delivered by Brember Wills as the madman. Karloff, all bewhiskered, grunts and lumbers his menacing way through the action, which is breath-snatching and appalling.

Lurid stuff for impressionable babes and riders of nightmares, "The Old Dark House" is great fun for the less timorous. A first rate thriller, loaded with chills.

William Boehnel Says in the World Telegram

Priestley Film Hot Thriller

"The Old Dark House," at the Rialto, Excellent Piece of Acting.

Dread terror stalked the old, dark, uncanny Femm house, situated in the Welsh mountains, where Philip Waverton, his wife Margaret and their companion for a weekend, Roger Penderel, had to take refuge from a storm, a flood and a landslide which overtook them as they were on their way home.

There was a gorilla-like, dumb servant, obviously up to no good; a bedridden old man, his shrewish, God-fearing daughter; his blasphemous son, wanted by the police, and the strongly bolted door of a terrifying room on the top floor hid a lunatic, the eldest son of Sir Roderick Femm.

These horrifying characters, the endless stairway that leads to the roof, the succession of terrifying rooms and what happens to the three accidental guests, as well as to Sir William Porterhouse and his chorus girl companion, Gladys DuCane, who also take refuge within the stone-walled corridors of the Femm house, may be witnessed with much curdling of blood and with considerable pleasure at the Rialto Theatre, where yesterday a thriller of thrillers called "The Old Dark House" had its premiere.

From Novel by Priestley.

It is based on a novel by J. B. Priestley, which in England was known as "Benighted," and which Harpers published here several years ago as one of the first of their sealed mystery novels under the title which the picture now uses.

When shockers are as inherently sound as this one is there is cause for considerable cheering, for this is the type of story that the movies can do superlatively well. And when, in addition, the direction and acting are as superlative as they are in the "The Old Dark House," then there is even more cause for cheering.

UNIVERSAL SCOOPS UP THE RADIO FOR A NEW

Millions have tuned them in on their radio sets . . . Now you can tune them in on your screen!

and the first release is

MORTON DOWNEY

with

VINCENT LOPEZ

and his band—and the famous song composer

DAVE DREYER

• •

Produced by WILLIAM ROWLAND — MONTE BRICE
Productions, Inc.

• •

SIGN UP FOR THE SERIES. THEN

THE GREATEST STARS OF SERIES OF SHORT FILMS!

WALTER WINCHELL

NICK KENNY • LOUIS SOBOL

The Most Widely-Read Columnists in America—
Sponsoring The Biggest Names in Radio!

THE STARS WHO FORMERLY KEPT
THE PEOPLE AT HOME WILL NOW
BRING THEM TO YOUR THEATRE

COMING

THE BOSWELL SISTERS

•

THE STREET SINGER

•

ART JARRETT

with BUDDY ROGERS, LEO REISMAN, MILDRED BAILEY, JACQUES RENARD

•

LEW BROWN and RAY HENDERSON

with NORMAN BROKENSHIRE, FOUR ETON BOYS, STEPIN FETCHIT

TELL THE WORLD YOU'VE GOT IT!

MIX CLICKS ALL

TEXAS BAD MAN

Universal production and release, starring Tom Mix. Directed by Edw. Laemmle. Story and continuity by Jack Cunningham. Camera, Dan Clark. Cast: Tom Mix, Fred Kohler, Willard Robertson, Lucille Powers, Joe Girard, Bob Milash, Franklyn Farnum, Slim Cole, C. E. Anderson, Ted Larch, Geo. Magrill, Rich. Alexander, Jas. Burtis, Edward Le Saint, Frances Sayles, Booth Howard, Lynton Brent, Rich. Summer Buck Moulton, Tony. At Loew's New York theatre, one day, as half of double bill. Running time, 60 mins.

Tom Mix gets the breaks in this one and scores strongly. Too good to be wasted at the New York on a double bill, but that's the house tradition, so they used this feature to top the show. Can solo in any house that likes western stories and in many places where they do not care for the usual western product.

Just goes to show what can be done with a little more money and a lot more effort. This is the basic plot of the law officer who gets himself a bad name to gain admission to a gang. A favorite theme and one generally developed along pretty standard lines. Here the idea has been built up cleverly into a real story, with more plot and characterization until it no longer suggests the type.

The role fits Mix nicely and is the best he has had since his return to the screen. He plays adroitly for effect and handles a bit of love making very nicely, though it is his riding which counts for most. Gets excellent support from Fred Kohler, Willard Robertson, Lucille Powers and Joe Girard. Minor assignments are all in competent hands, but those mentioned above carry the story.

Photographically, the picture is exceptionally well done, with many really beautiful exteriors, and the direction brings out the good points of the script. Sound not so good, but this seems to be the fault of the reproduction. A good job all around.

VARIETY

are combined.

New Tom Mix Movie One of His Very Best

There's a Grand Show at the Castle.

"MY PAL, THE KING."

Produced by Universal.
Directed by Kurt Neumann.
Presented at the Castle theater.

THE CAST.

Tom Reed	Tom Mix
King Charles	Mickey Rooney
Red	Paul Hurst
Princess Elsa	Noel Francis
Gretchen	Finis Barton
Kluckstein	Stuart Holmes
Schwartz	James Kirkwood
Cloudy	Jim Thorpe
Etzel	Christian Frank
The Dowager Queen	Clarissa Selwynne
Gen. Wiedeman	Ferdinand Schumann-Heink
Lorenz	Wallis Clark
Tony	Himself

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

Well, Kids, old and young, there a picture over at the Castle that's just—about—our—size!

A lot of us missed the circuses this year. WE SHOULD CARE! Tom Reed's Traveling Wild West Show is as good as most of them and has some of 'em licked a mile SEE the cowboys perform wonders at roping, lassoing, riding, shooting! SEE those three trained horses execute their act with grace and precision that would do honor to Ziegfeld chorus girls! SEE the runaway stage coach—that has one REAL runaway! SEE Tom Mix and Tony in what I do believe is the best picture they've ever made!

CHIC. DAILY TRIBUNE

In "My Pal, the King," Mr. Mix, better known as the Children's Delight, has an unusually appealing and plotful story. The action, which transports an American king cowboy and his troupe of performers overseas to the mythical kingdom of An—— something or other, ostensibly ruled by a wee King Charles, aged about eight—has just the right amount of imagination and whimsy. It shows Tom Mix at his best, which he always is when among children and horses, packs considerable excitement, a soupçon of romance, and a lot of grand and gorgeous uniforms which make a nice foil for the cowboy costumes of the Wild West Show. AND the show itself!

I don't want to tell you the story, but you can just bet your bottom dollar that when Tom's pal, the king, is in danger from those wearing the uniforms he is not deserted by the spurred and sombreroed sons of the western plains.

The king is delightfully acted by little Mickey Rooney—a quaint child with big, serious eyes, grown-up ways, and a keen sense of the dramatic. Supporting rôles are handled with zest—you'll especially like Paul Hurst as Tom's side kick and Wallis Clark as the little king's tutor—and I thought the direction was just immense.

There's a rousing good time for the whole family in "My Pal, the King," at a quarter a throw for the grown-ups and fifteen dark brown pennies for children.

See you tomorrow!

* *

Old Irish Vo...

"Destry Rides Again"—U

Tom Mix, Claudia Dell, Zazu Pitts, Andy Devine, Earle Foxe, Stanley Fields.

Tom Mix is back and exhibitors don't have to worry about his pictures. Mix should be a bigger and better star back in the Universal regime, and the kids and adults will go for his action pictures.

Estimate: Old-time Mix western and box office.

EXHIBITOR

"Rider of Death Valley"—U

Tom Mix, "Tony," Lois Wilson, Fred Kohler, Forrest Stanley.

An improvement over the first Mix, with the Death Valley aspect a strong exploitation angle. The thirst scenes in the desert are exceptionally well done. Here is a Western which might be accepted by those who don't care so much for horse operas.

Estimate: Okay, TOM!

The EXHIBITOR

Minor Cincy Spots Sprint, 'Destry' After Neat $4,500

Family (RKO) (1,000 15-25)—'Destry' (U) and 'Cross-Examination,' Split week for $4,500, mainly on Mix. Last week 'Branded Men' (Tiff) and 'Pleasure' (Standard) $3,000.

VARIETY

ANY MIX PICTURE IS A

OVER THE WORLD

– here's just a drop in the big bucket!

REEL JOURNAL

Destry Rides Again

Universal—55 Minutes

Cast: Tom Mix, Claudia Dell, Zasu Pitts, Andy Devine, Earle Fox, Stanley Fields. Directed by Ben Stoloff.

Tom Mix, idol of America's youth, makes triumphant return to the screen in a typical rip-roarin' western. The story, being taken from the popular novel by Max Brand, offers Mix and his horse, Tony, plenty of opportunity to do some fast riding. Mix is framed into a prison sentence by his double-crossing partner (Earle Fox), and vows vengeance on the villain in the Tom Mix manner. Claudia Dell is a convincing heroine. Zasu Pitts is seen in only a few scenes as comedy relief. The picture is first-rate entertainment for the entire family.

SELLING SEATS: Play up Tom Mix's return to the screen. Get the kids talking about it by distributing Tom Mix novelties in the neighborhoods. Universal has innumerable accessories to offer, such as Tom Mix hats, neckerchiefs, and magic books. Organize a Tom Mix club.

Rider of Death Valley

Universal production and release. Stars Tom Mix. Associate producer, Bergerman. Directed by Al Rogell. Story by Stanley Bergerman and Jack Cunningham. Dialog by Al Martin. Photography by Dan Clark. At Loew's Circle, N. Y., as half of double bill for one day. Running time, 76 mins.

Tom Rigby	Tom Mix
Helen Joyce	Lois Wilson
Lew Grant	Fred Kohler
Doc Larribe	Forest Stanley
Bill Joyce	Willard Robinson
Betty Joyce	Edith Fellowes
Tony	Tony
Dance Hall Girl	Mae Busch
Citizens: Otis Harlan, Max Ascher, Pete Morrison, Edmund Cobb

Much more than the usual attention accorded westerns has been given 'Rider of Death Valley.' That it's not merely a plains opera following a conventional routine pattern may explain the interest U, Tom Mix and others concerned in its making apparently had in seeing that it got that attention.

Westerns of recent years have become tiresome even to their large followings mostly because they're all alike. Not this one, much of the appeal of which is drawn from the stark drama of starvation in the desert.

In all, it's one of the best Tom Mix pictures to date and in it Mix turns in a swell job. He goes dramatic in the desert sequences when he and companions are dying of thirst. These scenes were photographed in Death Valley in that portion of the bleak sandswept desert which is free of any vegetation and long has been used for stories focale of which it is the Sahara. Such as Foreign Legion pictures etc. Thus, this western at least differs greatly in background from the rest.

Mix's horse, Tony, which probably has nearly as many fan worshippers as Mix does, is very much in evidence. He has the biggest part in his career, being called upon to save his master and the others from the desert and the buzzards. He fulfills the task admirably. And that nearly makes the picture something more than a routine western. Tony taking much of the spotlight toward the last.

The direction, by Al Rogell, is clean-cut and intelligent. Among the virtues 'Rider of Death Valley' possesses is its adherence to detail. The story, even to the regulation heroine, who comes from the east after her brother has been shot by a man plotting to steal his gold mine, carries conviction. Mix himself doubtless had a hand in the making so far as sticking to exactness of detail was concerned.

Picture has been exceptionally well cast, with Fred Kohler as a great heavy, Forrest Stanley as his partner in crime and Lois Wilson as the girl. In the first few reels many other characters appear, but for the second half it's just these characters, Mix and Tony, that tell the tale.

In the casting for the first few reels U has chosen excellent types, including some for the purpose of comedy. A little girl (Edith Fellowes) is also involved in the earlier portions.

Probably for the first time a team of runaway horses looks on the level, and the gravity of being lost in the desert without water becomes strikingly convincing.

Story is largely concerned with Mix's efforts to protect the secret of a gold mine away off in the desert from two men who have killed its owner and are scheming to take it away from the dead man's sister. There's plenty of suspense and plenty of action, but with latter intelligently restrained.

Running time is 76 minutes, long for any western. Nevertheless, the interest holds to the end, and picture in many spots should solo it rather than play as half of a double bill as here. New York is no town for westerns, however, regardless of how well made.

The exhibitor can give 'Rider of Death Valley' everything he has and it will stand by him, at the same time increasing fan interest for Mix and his hoss.

Char.

VARIETY

HARRISON'S REPORTS

"My Pal The King" with Tom Mix

(Universal, Aug. 4; running time, 61 min.)

Excellent. This is not a western, although a wild west show has been cleverly worked into the story. It has everything—fast action, human interest, comedy, and some fine melodramatic situations. The closing scenes are the most exciting; it is where the boy king is held a prisoner by the villain, and is saved by the hero just in time. These scenes will so excite children that they will stand on their seats and cheer. As a matter of fact they will hold in tense suspense even adults. It has been lavishly produced with settings good enough for any feature picture:—

The plot was adopted from a story by Richard Schayer. It was directed by Kurt Neumann. In the cast are Mickey Rooney, Paul Hurst, Noel Francis, James Kirkwood, and others.

Excellent for children and for Sunday showing.

"MY PAL THE KING" EARNS HOLDOVER WEEK AT GLOBE THEATRE, NEW YORK

SURE MONEY MAKER

never....
never...
never..
never.

was a finer series of one-reelers produced than our multi-colored novelties called

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

There are now 24 of these perfect gems in release and not one has ever failed to delight the thousands of audiences who have seen it. Ask to see ONE and you'll want them all.

THE UNIVERSAL WEEKLY SHOWMANSHIP SECTION

A DIGEST OF THE BEST EXPLOITATION IDEAS OF THE WEEK

You're the Man of the Hour!

"Even the Big Ones Have To Be Exploited Today!" Says Carl Laemmle. Showmanship Means More Now Than Ever Before. The Industry Depends On Energetic Theatre Managers.

WHAT is it that brings in the money at a theatre today? What is it that brings that early morning line-up to your box-office? What is is that establishes new records at your theatre, smashing even the great ones set during the most prosperous times?

It is $howmanship!

The houses doing the big business today are the ones with real showmen at the helm—fighting managers who are using their brains and energy to sell their pictures to the public as they never did before! In the words of Carl Laemmle: "It takes more than a manager to run a theatre today. It takes an honest-to-God showman. Even the big ones have to be exploited today!"

Real showmen are doing just that. Some of the biggest successes of the season would not have clicked as big as they did if smash exploitation had not been put behind them. Take BACK STREET, for example. A truly great picture! A wave of well planned exploitation swept from coast to coast on this one to send records soaring to new heights not only in the important key cities, but in the smaller communities and in the second and third run houses as well. And BACK STREET will continue to break records in the return dates it is already receiving.

The same applies to THE ALL AMERICAN, Universal's great football picture. Showmen everywhere are giving it campaigns even greater than that accorded that wonderful hit of last year, THE SPIRIT OF NOTRE DAME. And it, too, is chalking up wonderful grosses despite the times. What we say for Universal pictures applies to all companies' product. Exploit the good ones and be sure you put smash campaigns behind the big ones too, because only in that way will you capitalize the big potential profit possibilities of these pictures. Fight—fight—FIGHT for that extra money!

$ $ $ $ $

The Universal Weekly will devote a special Showmanship section for the news of outstanding exploitation work done by leading theatre managers throughout the country. We hope you will find in this section many ideas that you can adapt to local advantage. We also hope that you will become a regular contributor to this section by sending to us the tried and proved ideas that bring you the best results at the box-office. Send us samples of your newspaper advertising — your newspaper contests—photographs and unusual lobby fronts—general information on your campaigns and outstanding stunts—so that we can reproduce them on these pages for other exhibitors in other cities to see, and so benefit from your experience just as you, too, may find some help in reading about what your brother showmen are doing.

$ $ $ $ $

Hard work is the lot of the showman. You know, and we know, that hard knocks are his reward. In this business, blame and censure are handed around freely but praise very rarely. People are too busy for that. Nevertheless, good work deserves recognition. And from now on the Universal Weekly will give it where it is due.

This recognition won't be in the form of a medal, a bunch of flowers, a costly prize or a bag of gold! It will be in the form of a plain parchment certificate. But when it is made out to YOU it will mean plenty! it will signify: YOU ARE DOING YOUR JOB RIGHT, MISTER!

The Universal Weekly Certificate of Merit must be EARNED—earned by a smart job of distinguished showmanship on a Universal Picture. It will be awarded for the best creative showmanship ability displayed in campaigns submitted to us each week. A number of men may win certificates each week. They may be granted for a complete all-around campaign or for some outstanding item in the campaign.

Are YOU going to be one of the first to win a Certificate of Merit? It's up to you. Send us details of what you do. Address this material to: SHOWMANSHIP EDITOR, UNIVERSAL WEEKLY, 730 Fifth Avenue, New York. Come on, Mr. Showman!

HONOR FOR THE SHOWMAN!

Universal Weekly Offers This Congratulatory Certificate For Distinguished Showmanship!

IN THE SKIES—ON THE AIR—'ALL AMERICAN' CAMPAIGN

New York knew when "The All American" was in town! The air was full of it! Even the skies over the metropolitan city carried the message of the greatest football picture of all times. The radio waves carried the news into the homes of millions, and the pedestrian was greeted at every turn by window tie-ups that told the same story. In the subway trains the word-of-mouth advertising was traveling homeward.

Here are the big fellows who spoke from the Paramount stage. (Reading from left to right): Law, Notre Dame; Pinckert, U.S.C.; Ripley; Lou Gehrig; Coach Cavanagh; Coach Crowley; Christy Walsh; "Bugs" Baer; Coach Lou Litttle; Chris Cagle and Shipwreck Kelly. Are you getting local celebrities for your opening?

Catching the attention of hundreds of thousands of football fans an autogiro plane flew over the big games at the Polo Grounds and Yankee Stadium, trailing a giant banner reading: UNIVERSAL PICTURES—"THE ALL AMERICAN"—PARAMOUNT—NOW!

A monster nation-wide broadcast over the Columbia network, from the stage of the Paramount theatre on opening night reached into millions of homes with the announcement of the picture's engagement on Broadway. Planned by Christy Walsh with the co-operation of the General Foods Company, the Paramount theatre and the Universal Home Office Exploitation Department, this broadcast not only helped to exploit the picture in New York but gave it a big send off clear across the country. It was part of the All-America program for Postum and introduced noted sportsmen, sports writers and football players, to the overflow audience at the Paramount as well as to the million radio listeners.

Utilizing the many national tie-ups arranged for the picture, announcements and elaborate displays were secured in dozens of prominent New York store windows. The Richard Arlen-All American shirt was featured in seven of the National Shirt shops windows and as many windows of the Knickerbocker Shirt Company, sporting dealers tied up all over the city. The Adler Shoe Company arranged a window tying up with their All American shoe, using the giant accessory streamer and several cut-out enlargements of action photos of the famous football players.

Publix gave the picture a smart advertising campaign in the New York papers and backed this up with a 24 sheet billboard showing which blanketed the city.

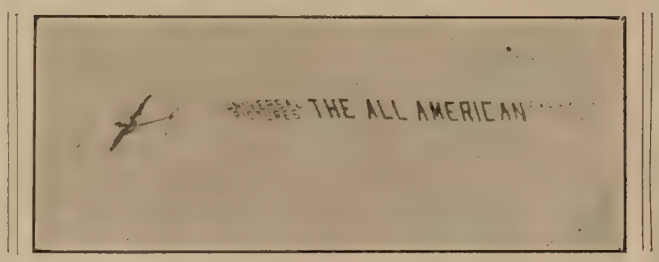
Upon completion of its run at the Paramount Theatre "ALL AMERICAN" was immediately booked for its second Broadway showing at the RKO Palace. This theatre is renewing and adding to the many tie-ups on the picture about the city.

AT SOUTH BEND—NOTRE DAME TEAM AND COACH ATTEND PREMIERE.

As a climax to a great campaign for his engagement of "The All American," George Gambrill, manager of the Palace theatre, South Bend, Ind., invited the Notre Dame football team and Jesse Harper, the university's athletic director, to attend the opening as the theatre's guests and appear on the stage. For the week preceding the opening Gambrill had his ushers costumed in Notre Dame football togs with the All America shield, and on opening day he had six men, similarly uniformed, on the streets of the city.

The school turned out en masse for this picture.

EVEN IN THE NEW YORK SKY!



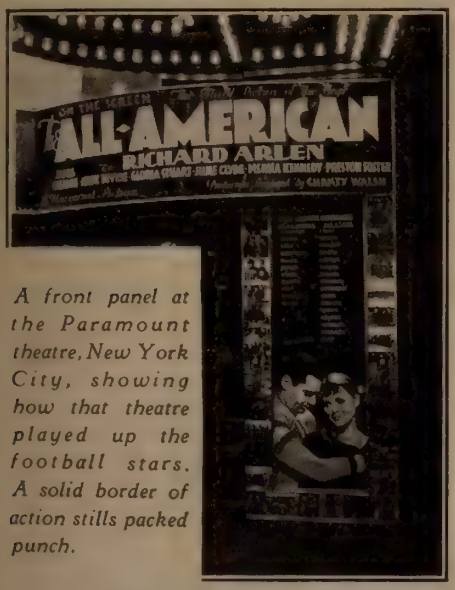
Above: The autogiro that flew over the big football games in New York City providing novel advertising for the engagement of "The All American" at the Paramount Theatre.

DETROIT USHERS PEP FOOTBALL LOBBY

Right: Walter Norris, manager of the RKO Downtown theatre, Detroit, Mich.; adapted two pressbook suggestions and developed this attractive lobby display for "The All American." The "players" are ushers in University of Detroit uniforms.

UNDERGROUND—EVERYWHERE! STEADY LINES AT BOX-OFFICES!

ON BROADWAY



A front panel at the Paramount theatre, New York City, showing how that theatre played up the football stars. A solid border of action stills packed punch.

FIVE SCHOOL RALLIES TOP BIG SYRACUSE

Gus Lampe, manager of the Eckel, Syracuse, N. Y., jumped into his exploitation for "The All American" with both feet and came out with a real bang-up showmanship campaign.

He crashed the Syracuse-Ohio football game with the first local stadium ballyhoo and also distributed 1,000 megaphones at this game. His ad appeared on 5,000 official score cards.

A Johnny Orsi night was held and the Colgate faculty and student body attended. Lampe lined up five other school rallies with parades led by bands and banners marching to the theatre. Four Syracuse high schools held these nights.

Local Tavannes watch dealer paid for imprinting 3,000 roto heralds. Newspaper ran contest offering ticket prizes for best football score guesses.

PLAYS UP GRID STARS

One of the big space newspaper ads used in the New York campaign. Space ran 9½ inches on 3 columns.

L. A. PREVIEW, COLLEGE TIE-UP, RADIO CONTEST

R. L. Moss, manager and Ken McGaffey, publicity manager of the R.K.O. Hill Street Theatre in Los Angeles, assisted by Ben Westland, Universal exploiteer, put over a fine campaign for "The All American" in the movie capital. A preview held for school and college officials and local sports writers resulted in special nights for five colleges and some nice plugs from the sports writers.

Adapting the pressbook suggestion a contest was conducted over station KRKD offering ticket prizes for readers guessing local football scores. Fine window displays were secured through the national tie-ups and the set of tie-up stills. A ballyhoo truck equipped with loud speaker and two 6' x 6' banners was spotted at the Olympic Stadium all day Saturday.

BINGHAMTON SELECTS

Fred Perry, Manager of the Capitol Theatre, Binghamton, New York, boosted "ALL AMERICAN" with a contest to select local All America professional team. Newspapers co-operated. Montgomery Ward store gave him fifty footballs for contest prizes and imprinted 5,000 roto heralds free.

HUNDREDS OF CHOICE TIE-UP WINDOWS FOR "ALL AMERICAN"

Left: Display in Adler Shoe Store on West 42d Street, New York City, for "The All American" engagement at the Paramount theatre. Centre: A Los Angeles display featuring All American Tweeds and giving generous space to stills, lobby photos, etc., on "The All merican" at the RKO Hill Street theatre. Right: Another Los Angeles display featuring the Tavannes All American watch. Space similar to this can be secured in your city as these are all national tie-ups.

PEPPY LOBBIES AND PRETTY GIRLS PUT "ONCE IN A LIFETIME" OVER!

BIG LAUGH RIGHT ON THE STREET

Fred Meyer, Manager Director and Al Kvool, manager of the Alhambra Theatre, Milwuakee, Wisc., get credit for this attractive front for "Once In A Lifetime". A revolving disc behind the open mouth of Jack Oakie, was covered with stills giving the impression of pictures coming out of the laughing face. The panel at the right featured catch lines and cut-out star heads.

SHANBERGER LANDS "LIFETIME" CONTEST AND CO-OP PAGE IN BALTIMORE

Here's a showman who knows how to land free newspaper space! Lawrence Schanberger, manager of Keith's theatre, Baltimore, adopted the pressbook suggestion for a newspaper contest on "Once In A Lifetime" and landed in the Baltimore Post with extra pubcity for four days. The Post gave the contest generous space in stories and art and the public response was away beyond expectations. Schanberger also succeeded in coming through with a full page cooperative ad on the picture in the same paper.

Extra space was used for the newspaper ads and a selling front arranged. Duke Hickey, Universal exploitation representative, assisted on the campaign.

MORE "ALL AMERICAN" WINDOWS

Left: One of the many displays in windows of the National Shirt Shop chain, New York City, through national tie-up on Lion Brand All American Shirts.

Right: One of the 20 "Loop" district windows secured by Frank Smith, manager and John Joseph, publicity manager for the RKO Palace Theatre, Chicago. It features the D & M Football tie-up.

DETROIT RADIO CONTEST NETS AIR PLUGS FOR FOUR DAY PERIOD

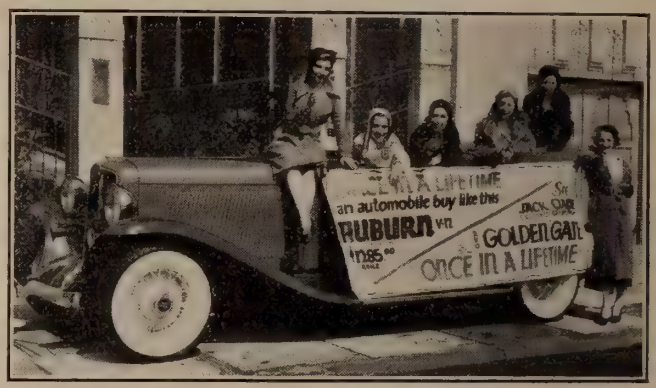
Walter Norris manager of the R-K-O Downtown theatre, Detroit, gave "Once In A Lifetime" an all around campaign. Adapting a pressbook suggestion he arranged a contest offering ticket prizes for the best letters on "things that happen once in a lifetime." Station WMBC conducted the contest which netted the engagement three 2 minute plugs a day for four days. A classified ad newspaper contest tie-up resulted in 123 inches of free display advertising and several stories.

Giant cut-outs of laughing faces were used in the lobby display two weeks in advance. Loud speakers set up behind the faces broadcast laughs from the picture at the break of each show.

Adapting the Indian nut stunt suggested in the pressbook Norris tied up with a chain of drug stores for an Indian Nut Sundae. This gave the picture title and theatre a break on 12 windows and soda bars.

Extra space was used for display ads in the metropolitan dailies and special ads were inserted in a dozen regional papers. Andy Sharick, Universal exploiteer, assisted.

GEORGE BOLE CRASHES ONE PARADE AND STAGES ANOTHER



One of the bannered cars, and its cargo of beauty, from the parade staged by George Bole, manager of the Golden Gate theatre, San Francisco, for "Once In A Lifetime". The local Auburn dealer co-operated and supplied the cars.

The day before "Once In A Lifetime" opened at the Golden Gate theatre in San Francisco, the city staged a welcome home parade to one of its leading citizens. George Bole, manager and Emil Umann, publicity manager, heard about it and crashed in with a car bannered with a welcome to the returning hero and an invitation to see the picture. Mounted police and a band led the parade and the Golden Gate's entry followed the car of honor. The line of march was through the city's busiest section and ended at the civic centre where all were greeted by the mayor and other public officials.

Not content with one parade Bole and Umann staged another through a tie-up with the local dealer in Auburn cars. Eight cars were used and all were bannered with an ad for the picture and the new model car. Each was filled with a bevy of San Francisco's best beauties.

"BUSINESS SENSATIONAL!"

-at R.K.O. PALACE, Cleveland

RECEIVED BY PRIVATE WIRE FROM POSTAL TELEGRAPH

STANDARD TIME INDICATED IN THIS MESSAGE

Postal Telegraph
THE INTERNATIONAL SYSTEM
Commercial Cables · TELEGRAMS CABLEGRAMS RADIOGRAMS · All America Cables
Mackay Radio

DL	Day Letter
NL	Night Letter
NM	Night Message
LCO	Deferred Cable
NLT	Night Cable Letter
WLT	Week End Cable Letter

N6-RI CLEVELAND O 1137A

UNIVERSAL FILM EXCHANGES INC

ONCE IN A LIFETIME OPENED PALACE THEATRE CLEVELAND SATURDAY BUSINESS FOR SATURDAY SUNDAY ABSOLUTELY SENSATIONAL BOTH DAYS BEAT BACK STREET WHICH DID TREMENDOUS STOP PICTURE EXCEPTIONALLY WELL RECEIVED AUDIENCE RAVING APPROVAL CRITICS REVIEWS OUTSTANDING

SAUL RESNICK

"Once in a Lifetime"

With JACK OAKIE, SIDNEY FOX, Aline McMahon, Russell Hopton, Louise Fazenda, Gregory Ratoff, Zasu Pitts, Onslow Stevens. From the play by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Russell Mack. Presented by Carl Laemmle

IT'S C-O-L-O-S-S-A-L!

LIVE-WIRE SHOWMEN'S ADS

FROM POINTS NORTH, EAST, SOUTH AND WEST

OKAY in MINNEAPOLIS-

OKAY in KANSAS CITY-

OKAY in SAN FRANCISCO-

OKAY in BOSTON-

OKAY EVERYWHERE!

OKAY AMERICA

starring

LEW AYRES

With MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN, Walter Catlett, Allan Dinehart, Nance O'Neil, From the story by WILLIAM ANTHONY McGUIRE. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Tay Garnett. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

"All American" Gives Every Thrill of Gridiron, Having Distinct and Logical Story

—New York American

By REGINA CREWE

Motion Picture Editor N. Y. American

From kick-off to touch-down it carries every thrill of the gridiron, and hits the screen as hard as its pigskin luminaries hit the line. And what a list of the football famous the picture boasts! "Marchy" Schwartz, "Johnny" Baker, "Erny" Pinckert, and their 1931 All-American teammates; "Chris" Cagle, "Ernie" Nevers, Frank Carideo, Albie Booth, and fifteen more historic goal-post names. And Christy Walsh, Glenn Warner, Jesse Harper, Ed Casey, and Alexander, of Georgia Tech, besides. Boy, when the All-Americans battle the All-Stars on Universal's football field, there's a kick! And I don't mean on the fourth down!

Not content with startling shots of gridiron glories and gladiators, a distinct and logical story thread runs through the film. It establishes Dick Arlen as the football "phenom" of his varsity team, and follows him from the glamorous days of college heroism into the grim struggle following graduation.

From a proud place in the sports limelight he skids into oblivion and disgrace. And then, just as time is about to be called on him, he fights his way back along the route that once brought him fame. In doing so he saves a younger brother from following the paths of error that once brought about his downfall.

This is the sort of role in which Dick Arlen excels, and as the star of the stadium he is always both sympathetic and convincing. The comedy falls to Andy Devine, as a beefy but brainless stalwart, and Jimmie Gleason, in the part of coach. It is essentially a masculine picture, but Merna Kennedy, Gloria Stuart and June Clyde, acquit themselves nicely when the plot pulls them into the picture. The big thrills, of course, are provided by the shots of the various games, and in meeting face to face, long shot, medium and close-up, dozens of college heroes. It's great entertainment, unique in film annals.

Bland Johanson Says in the Daily Mirror

'All American' Great Football Epic

Here is Universal's annual football epic, and Mr. Richard Arlen's annual Autumnal appearance as hero of a football epic. It is a timely picture and a good one, thrilling, human, dramatic and exciting. And it presents every spectacular football star extant. It swarms with sportpage celebrities.

Like "The Spirit of Notre Dame" and "Touchdown," its gaudily successful predecessors, "The All American" tells a story which is not merely one of college competition.

The story has pathos, drama and sincerity. It provides romance, hysteria and plenty of laughs from such an able comic as Andy Devine.

The football plays, naturally, have supreme authority. The climatic game is stunning. Football enthusiasts will be excited by "The All-American."

Irene Thirer Says in the Daily News

'The All American' Football Thriller

★ ★ ★

Last week Paramount bosses lined up the all-American radio favorites for us and they crooned their ditties in "The Big Broadcast." This week the theatre at the crossroads of New York presents via celluloid all the collegiate football heroes known to pigskin history of the past several years. It's a Universal picture this, "The All American." And the Carl Laemmles, Sr. and Jr., may well be proud of assembling such a celebrated gridiron line-up for one mere movie.

To name some of the boys who participated in the thrilling football action sequences in "The All American":

Schwartz of Notre Dame, Cagle of the Army, Shaver of U. S. C., Cain of Alabama, Dalrymple of Tulane, Pinckert of U. S. C., Munn of Minnesota, Nevers of Stanford, Carideo of Notre Dame, Booth of Yale, Hanley of Northwestern — and that's just mentioning a few.

It certainly is swell to watch these boys break through lines and make their goals. Probably the football scenes in this picture are the choicest ever caught by the camera. At any rate, they're certainly the most realistic.

Richard Shayer and Dale Van Every got together on the story, a neat, amusing and fast paced piece which boasts some originality in plot, capable acting and commendable direction by Russell Mack.

Think you'll thoroughly enjoy "The All-American." It's bright, peppy, cheerful and full of football thrills.

Rose Pelswick Says in the N. Y. Journal

27 Grid Stars from Real Life Enliven Picture Showing Perils of Hero Worship

The audience that packed the Paramount Theatre at the first performance yesterday applauded and cheered as the screen introduced, one after the other, such football heroes as Carideo of Notre Dame, Booth of Yale, Cagle of the Army, Nevers of Stanford and other stalwart gridiron heroes. No fewer than 27 all-American stars, past and present, appear in the Paramount's new picture, which bears the title of "The All American."

The People's Choice
OSWALD
WHAT THIS COUNTRY NEEDS IS MORE LAUGHS LIKE ONLY I CAN DELIVER!
Oswald
"The Lucky Rabbit"

From
UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORP.
730 FIFTH AVENUE
NEW YORK CITY

Sec. 435½, P. L. & R.
U. S. POSTAGE
Paid
New York, N. Y.
Permit No. 949

E R GOLDEN
IDLE HOUR THEATRE
DIAMOND ST
PITTSBURGH PA

IRENE DUNNE, as she appears in John M. Stahl's production of Fannie Hurst's greatest novel.

BACK STREET

is doing tremendous business wherever it plays. Its BOX-OFFICE PERFORMANCE is a matter of industry record. It deserves extra and preferential playing time in every theatre that has it booked. Get in touch with your Universal Exchange TODAY!

Printed in U. S. A.

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

VOL. 32 NO. 6

JANUARY 21, 1933.

Esther Ralston

in the

"ROME EXPRESS"

FEED 'EM WHAT THEY'RE HUNGRY FOR . . . RAW MEAT*

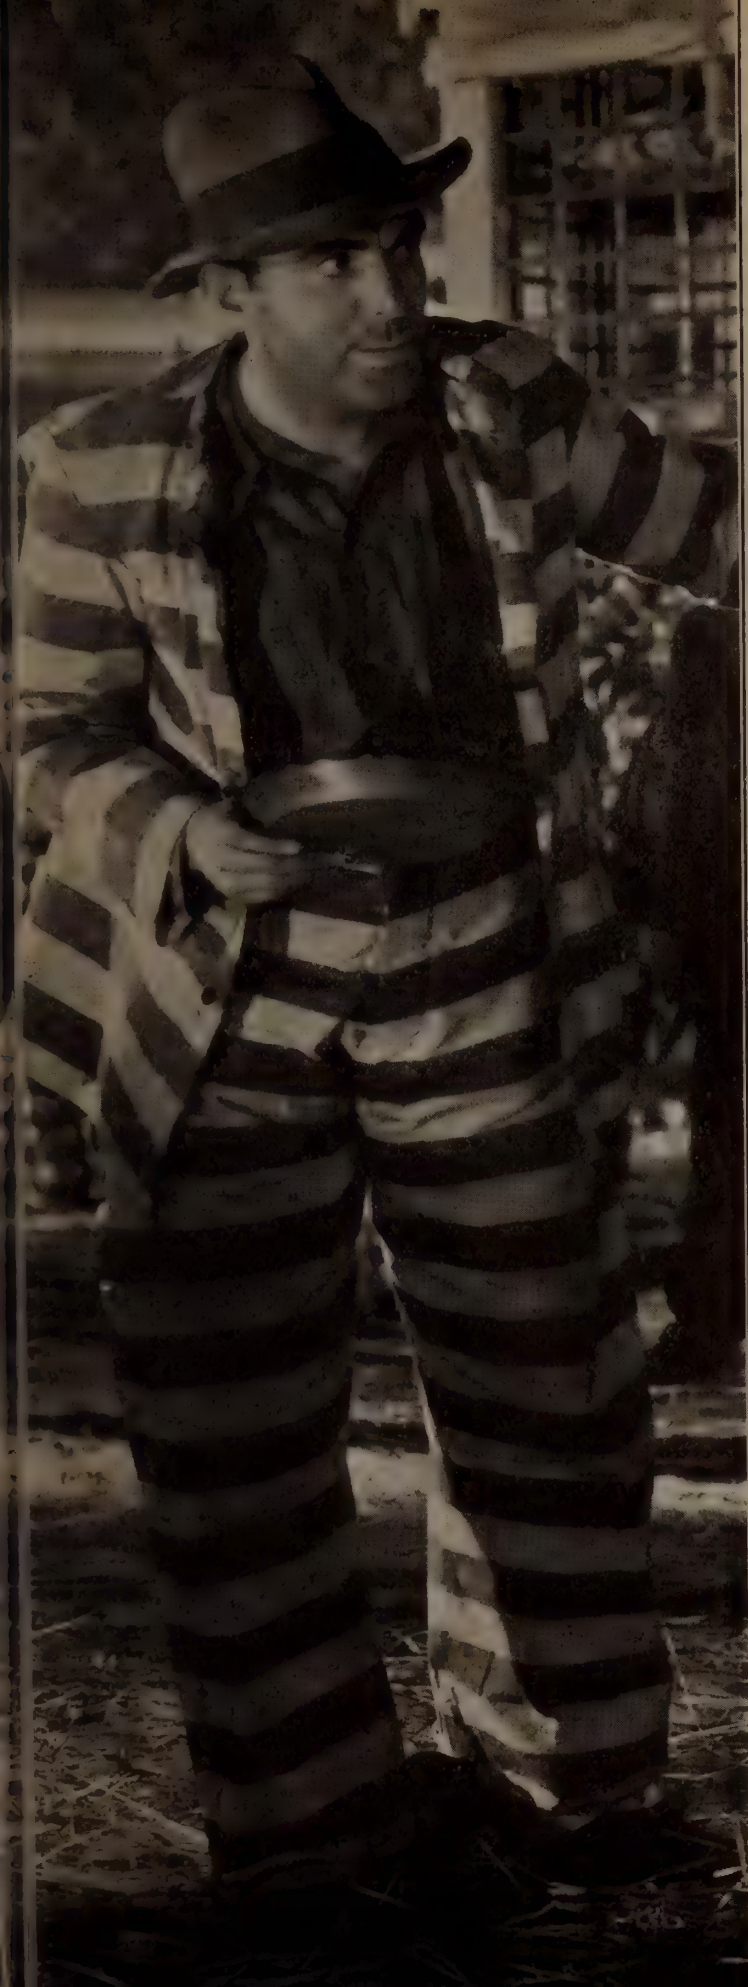
Feed 'Em Wild Excitement!
Feed 'Em New Sensations!
Feed 'Em Raw Romance!

ALL OF THESE AND MORE ARE YOURS IN

The BIG CAGE

*NOTE:—The nerviest man in the world locked in a cage with 43 man-killing animals in one of the many high spots in this brand new type of picture.)

JOIN THE REST OF THE TRADE IN CELEBRATING CARL LAEMMLE'S 27TH ANNIVERSARY!



"Chain Gang Picture Doing Big Business Everywhere"

JIM TULLY'S

LAUGHTER IN HELL

With Pat O'Brien, Merna Kennedy, Berton Churchill, Gloria Stuart, Tom Brown. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Edward Cahn. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

STEP OUT WITH UNIVERSAL

One woman and twelve men in stark drama amid raging seas aboard a ship about to be smashed on rocks!

DESTINATI

With Pat O'Brien, Ralph Bellamy, Alan Hale, Betty Compson, Russell Hopton, Tom Brown, Rollo Lloyd. Story by Tom Buckingham. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Tay Garnett. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

JOIN THE REST OF THE TRADE IN CELEBRATING

ON UNKNOWN

The spirit of "The Miracle Man" and the dare-devil recklessness of "Hell's Heroes" in one picture!

POSTERS WITH A WILL MOVE THE

JOIN THE REST OF THE TRADE IN CELEBRATING

A SPIRIT THAT WORLD ALONG!!

CARL LAEMMLE'S 27TH ANNIVERSARY!

KEEP YOUR EYE ON

No. 706 Straight-from-the-Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

I am excited about "Rome Express."

It is an exciting picture, the story of which unfolds on an express train as it is speeding through the night.

But, to me, it has another reason for excitement — and it will have to you, too. It has a bearing on your future business and it carries a promise of vast interest to you.

It was made in England with a cast partly American and partly English. It was produced by the Gaumont Company which has been making a more determined effort than any other foreign producer to break into the American market.

It found the way in "Rome Express"—and that way consisted of making a picture directly for your box-office.

The cast is headed by the exquisitely beautiful Esther Ralston, an American girl, and Conrad Veidt, who has done some excellent work in pictures produced in Hollywood. It was directed by Walter Forde, who has shown astonishing familiarity with your needs, because he has put everything you want into this picture.

"ROME EXPRESS"

The story of "Rome Express" is highly melodramatic. The fast action starts with the very first scenes and gains momentum as the story unfolds.

All of the action, as I said before, occurs on a fast express train. This adds to the speed and action of the story.

Forget all your old prejudices against pictures made elsewhere than in Hollywood. See "Rome Express" yourself. Ask your Universal exchange for the special exploitation matter which has been created for it.

Then your natural showmanship will point the way to new profits.

I am excited over the idea of giving you new backgrounds, new atmosphere, new everything.

I am proud to present "Rome Express" for the very commercial reason that it will make you happier than ever over your association with Universal!

Getting "Rome Express" in the heart of the season is a scoop of which I am proud. And your share in this scoop now awaits you.

Carl Laemmle

HE RUNS UNIVERSAL NEWSREEL IN FIFTY THEATRES!

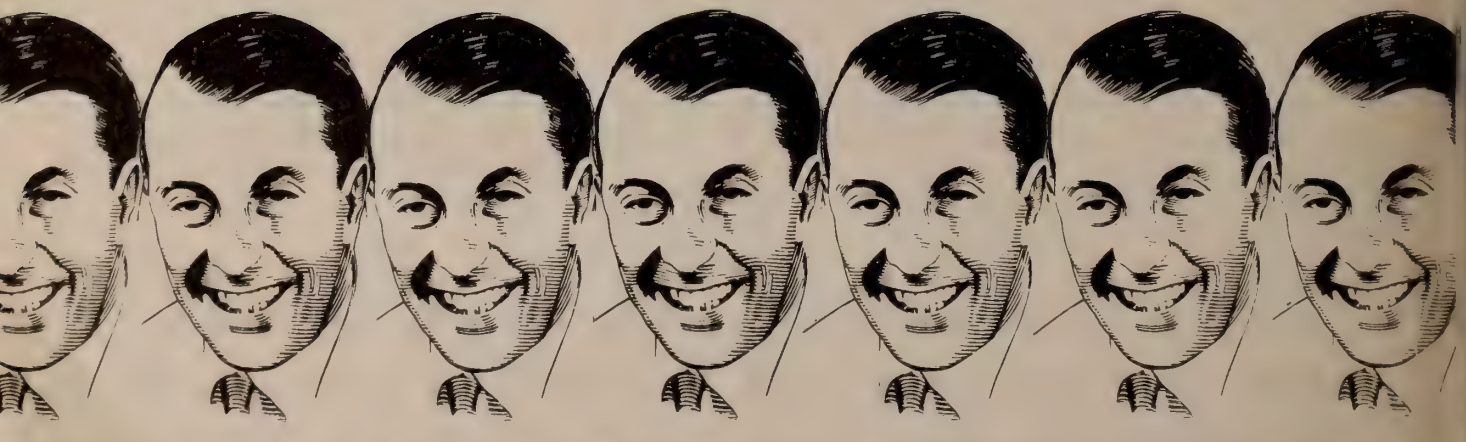
In England, too, they are delicately nuts about Universal's Newsreel. Mr. H. D. Moorehouse, of the Moorehouse Circuit, with theatres all over the British map, writes:

"I would like to place on record my appreciation of your Newsreel. I am now playing it in 50 cinemas which come under my supervision and it is an important and popular item in my program much appreciated by the public."

IF YOU DON'T OWN FIFTY THEATRES, USE IT WHEREVER YOU CAN!

UNIVERSAL NEWSREEL

PLUS THE MOST POPULAR VOICE IN ALL THE WORLD . . . GRAHAM McNAMEE, NO LESS!



JOIN THE REST OF THE TRADE IN CELEBRATING CARL LAEMMLE'S 27TH ANNIVERSARY!

LATEST NEWS from Universal City

CARL LAEMMLE, Jr. announced this week that he has placed E. A. Dupont, director of "Variety" and a score of other film successes, under a long term contract to direct for Universal. Dupont, accompanied by his wife, arrived in New York from Berlin last week and left immediately for Universal City. His first assignment will be "The Invisible Man," the H. G. Wells-Gouverneur Morris story which will go into work shortly with Karloff in the starring role. He may then do "Blue Beard."

* * *

WITH the cast of "The Kiss Before The Mirror" complete actual camera work on the screenplay which William Anthony McGuire adapted from the Viennese stage hit, got underway this week at Universal City. Last minute additions to the large cast of principals were Charles Grapewin, Wallis Clark, and Walter Pidgeon, who will have featured roles along with Paul Lukas, Frank Morgan, Gloria Stuart, Jean Dixon, and Nancy Carroll. James Whale is on the directorial end.

* * *

"WOMEN, Inc.," by William Hurlbut, which will be the first film musical to be produced by Universal in more than two years, is scheduled to go into work in the near future under the guiding hand of Sam Jacobson, former Universal Newsreel head now an associate for Carl Laemmle, Jr. The work of whipping "Women, Inc." into shape was begun this week by Jacobson and Harry Sauber, director of the "Nine O'Clock Revue" at the Music Box in Hollywood, and author of "Marathon Dance."

* * *

CAMERA work on "The Cohens and Kellys in Trouble," eighth of the famous Universal series co-starring George Sidney and Charlie Murray, was started at San Pedro, Calif., this week under the direction of George Stevens. The principals in addition to Murray and Sidney are Maureen O'Sullivan, Andy Devine, and Frank Albertson, with Arthur Hoyt, Herbert Corthell, Olive Cooper, and Don Brody in the supporting cast. The story is by Homer Croy the novelist and Vernon Smith.

Laemmle Motto, Furthest North

Overlooking the highest front in the world, the Rinks glacier, stands this bust of Carl Laemmle.

WITH the Universal-Dr. Fanck Greenland Expedition safely back home from their hazardous experiences in filming "S. O. S. Iceberg," Universal's epic of the arctic wastes, it has been revealed that a bust of Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Picture Corporation, bearing the slogan "It Can Be Done," has been left in Greenland as a monument to Mr. Laemmle and the undertaking.

Immediately after the last scene had been made—the spectacular "calving" of a glacier, during which parts of the glacier break into icebergs—Zolten J. Kegl, sound engineer placed the bust on Rink glacier. It remains as a record of the farthest point north reached by the expedition.

"The bust stands on a rock above the highest ice front in the world," said Mr. Kegl. "While on the way to Greenland to assist in the production of the picture, I visited the Universal offices in New York City. The legend, 'It Can Be Done' inspired me, and I asked if I might have a bust to leave in Greenland.

"The motto was an inspiration not only to me but to all those connected with the stupendous undertaking. The bust rests in reinforced concrete bound into a quartz rock, and the name and motto are carved in the cement as an eternal testimonial."

The UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors

Paul Gulick, Editor

Published weekly by the Motion Picture Weekly Publishing Company, 730 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Copyright 1933, Universal Pictures Corp. (All rights reserved)

Vol. 32 Jan. 21, 1933 No. 6

JUST WHAT YOU

Action as fast as the express train on which it takes place; drama full of high suspense; romance, mystery, thrills—all a part of a CLASS picture that will make your box office happy! Grab It Now!

ROME E

NEED!

XPRESS

"Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" Set as This Year's Release of Screen's Merriest Antagonists, George Sidney—Charlie Murray.

Homer Croy Wrote Story—Maureen O'Sullivan Andy Devine and Frank Albertson Assist Stars

GEORGE SIDNEY and Charlie Murray, the well known comedy team who have immortalized "The Cohens and Kellys" on the screen, will again portray this well known pair, in "The Cohens and Kellys in Trouble." For a time, it looked as though there would be no Cohen and Kelly picture this year. Sidney and Murray had been signed by Universal, but it was for a story titled "Salt Air," and Carl Laemmle, Jr. had decided to give up this annual institution. But he has received so many requests from exhibitors for another Cohen-Kelly story, that he has reconsidered his decision and has given instructions to start work on Monday on this year's March 17th release, the eighth in the series, "The Cohens and Kellys in Trouble."

The picture is to be directed by George Stevens under Warren Doane's supervision, from a story by Homer Croy and Vernon Smith. The continuity was prepared by Jack Jungmeyer, with adaptation by Albert Austin and Fred Guiol. The cast supporting Sidney and Murray will include Maureen O'Sullivan, Andy Devine, Frank Albertson, Arthur Hoyt, Herbert Corthell, Olive Cooper, Dan Brody and Edward Le Saint. Other cast announcements will be made early next week.

Andy Devine is now completing his role in "The Big Cage" on the lot at Universal City. It is expected that he will finish work on this Clyde Beatty thriller within a few days, and be able to start on "The Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" as soon as the production gets under way. Maureen O'Sullivan's latest appearance in a Universal picture was in support of Lew Ayres in "Okay, America," while Frank Albertson has appeared in a number of Warren Doane "shorts," "The Lost Express" "The All American" and "Air Mail" recently.

George Sydney and Charlie Murray

Summerville—Pitts Start in "Niagara Falls" Comedy

THE title of the second Slim Summerville-ZaSu Pitts feature for the year has been selected. It is to be ""Niagara Falls." A number of celebrated writers were concerned in whipping this story into shape for the screen. Preston Sturges, author of "Strictly Dishonorable," Dale Van Every, who has just been appointed head of Universal scenario department, and Tim Whelan, all worked on the story, its adaptation and continuity, while the dialogue has been in the hands of James Mulhauser and Joseph Franklin Poland, both of whom have contributed to many Universal feature successes.

The success of "They Just Had to Get Married" has been so universal and so outstanding that Carl Laemmle, Jr., intends to rush this second Summerville-Pitts comedy as fast as possible to the screens of the country. It will be directed by Sam A. Taylor.

From the First Name on the Screen

MARY PICKFORD
Hollywood, Cal.

December 19th, 1932.

Mr. Carl Laemmle,
Universal Pictures Corp.,
730 - 5th Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Laemmle:-

It is a great pleasure to wish you continued success on your Twenty-Seventh Business Birthday. As a picture pioneer you helped lay the foundation of an industry. Persistency of purpose and sagacious vision formed the brick and mortar with which you built your trade mark — Universal Pictures. May it never perish!

Sincerely yours,

Mary Pickford

WILD ANIMAL

A CLASS PRODUCTION with all the big-time wild animal thrills that any screen can hold. . . . Built as a super show to attract more people to your theatre than you've had in months and months.

JOIN THE REST OF THE TRADE IN CELEBRATING

LS IN THE FIERCEST BATTLE ROYAL EVER SEEN

STEP OUT WITH UNIVERSAL

With TALA BIRELL, MELVYN DOUGLAS, Onslow Stevens, Everett Brown, William H. Dunn, Miki Morita, Frank Lackteen. Story by Lester Cohen, Screenplay by Dale Van Every and Don Ryan. Directed by Ernst L. Frank. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

ARL LAEMMLE'S 27TH ANNIVERSARY!

That's Right! Talk About Us!

Old Friend Back

EATON THEATRE

Motion Pictures at Their Best
C. R. Beechler, Manager

December 24th, 1932

Charlotte, Michigan

Mr. Mannie Gottleib,
Universal Film Exchange,
Detroit, Michigan.

Dear Mr. Gottieb:

This is rather an unusual letter from an Exhibitor to an Exchange Manager.

On reading the December 17th issue of the Universal Weekly, it gave me an idea that I will attempt to put in writing.

I, too, want to congratulate Mr. Laemmle on his twenty-seventh anniversary, but more particularly to congratulate you on the service and cooperation that your office has given me during the past year.

Naturally, the product released plays an important part in this. If your pictures were not making money for me I would not be writing this letter.

Hence I want to tell you that I will most certainly give you my whole-hearted support in helping your office put this Drive over in a big way.

With kindest personal regards, I am,

Sncerely yours,

C. R. BEECHLER

CABLE

"Back Street" Unprecedented

"PRESS PUBLIC ACCLAIMED BACK STREET PICTURE BEAUTIFUL DESPITE HEAT WAVE HUNDRED ONE DEGREES PLAYING UNPRECEDENTED CROWDS ATTENDANCES STILL CLIMBING FIFTH DAY AUSTRALIAS PREMIER THEATRE STATE SYDNEY FIRST PROGRAM EARN HOLDOVER SEASON PAST SEVEN MONTHS REGARDS"
HERC. McINTYRE
SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA

HERE I AM

In last week's Weekly, there was a whole page devoted to an exploitation campaign on me. If you missed it, for goodness sakes look in last week's Weekly and find out how to make a lot of excitement in your town with a drawing contest.

It is the slickest way to cash in on Universal's newest cartoon marvel.

POOCH THE PUP
Who Peps 'Em Up

Welcome Weekly

PONCE DE LEON THEATRE
C. D. Swint, Owner & Manager
Atlanta, Ga.

Universal Pictures, Corp.,
730 Fifth Avenue,
New York City.

Gentlemen:

I wish to extend my congratulations to you on your decision to resume publication of Universal Weekly. I am sure that exhibitors everywhere will look forward to receiving the Universal Weekly and without a doubt will give them useful information concering their business. Will look for my copy each week.

Very truly yours,
C. D. SWINT, Mgr.

Connellsville, Pa.
December 8, 1932

Universal Film Exchanges
Pittsburgh, Pa.

My dear Mr. Cohen:

Having used Universal consistently for the past nineteen years, I was very happy to notice recently the return of my old friend, "The Universal Weekly."

For years this publication gave me all the information I needed on your product, and when it was discontinued, I certainly missed it, hence this letter expressing my pleasure at its return.

Congratulations on the marvelous pictures you have released this season: "Air Mail," "The All American," "Old Dark House," and "The Mummy." I am looking forward to the releases for the usual clean-up.

Best regards and good luck,

Very truly yours,
(Signed) C. A. Wagner
Paramount Theatre
Connellsville, Pa.

Universals Pictures to the rescue down in dear old Baltimo-'!

(VARIETY)

Keith's (Schanberger) (2,400; 25-30-40-50), 'They Just Had to Get Married' (U). Zasu Pitts a local comedy fav with the shopping matrons. and on strength of the feature's name and names, will hit it off to indicated $6,000, swell. 'Mummy' (U) climbed fast to finish to fine $6,600. House is traveling right side up now and roaring down the road.

Yes Suh! They played two Universal Pictures and now the theatre is right side up and roaring down the road."

And way up north in Minneapolis, another Universal pip!

(VARIETY)

Lyric (Publix) (1,300; 35)—'They Just Had to Get Married' (U). Pitts-Summerville combination always a pip box office card for this theatre and attraction on its way to a big gross, probably $5,000. Last week 'Air Mail' (U) $4,200.

The Publix house is on its way to a big gross with that Summerville-Pitts Universal Picture!

Another great opening on a Universal Smash hit!

PITTSBURGH

Warner (WB) (2,000; 25-35-50)—'The Mummy' (U). Great opening laid to telling exploitation campaign and on strength of it looks set to gather $8,500.

Those Warner Theatre guys know how to make a great Universal picture work for "em!

Birmingham, Alabam, plays a Universal twice as long!

(VARIETY)

Galax (Wilby) (500; 15-20) 'Fourth Horseman' All week instead of usual split week, about $1,100. The kids go for Mix. Last week 'Pride of Legion' (Mono) and 'Malay Nights' (Mono) fair $900.

Because the kids go for Tom Mix the split week just aint split!

THE UNIVERSAL WEEKLY SHOWMANSHIP SECTION

A DIGEST OF THE BEST EXPLOITATION IDEAS OF THE WEEK

BILLBOARDS IN WINTER — WHY NOT?

24 Sheets Are "In Season" The Year Round!

YEARS ago someone said, "Don't use 24 sheets in the winter. The roads are snowed up or muddy. People are not out driving. No one sees them. It's wasted money if you put them up."

That was years ago; but, odd to say, that mistaken impression still exists in many showmen's minds. They heard it somewhere. They repeat it. They believe it, because they have never taken the trouble to figure out that it is utterly wrong!

Years ago when cars chugged along on one cylinder and radiators froze at the first whiff of a north wind, and the roads were one foot deep, when they were not three feet deep, in mud or ice—maybe the 24 sheet could not serve its purpose in the winter time. But that was years ago! Today every car runs all year 'round—most roads are cleared of snow quickly and only in the extreme hinterlands, if anywhere, do people sew themselves up in their underwear and stay indoors for the rest of the winter.

A well designed 24 sheet smash on a picture is a hot spot ad that starts an impulse which very few people can resist. Today, leading showmen everywhere realize the necessity of the return to showmanship to get the crowds in. The result is that the 24 sheet is coming back in favor because wherever it is used it boosts business in tremendous proportion to its small cost.

Pick up the January 17th issue of Variety and read:

"'THE MUMMY' at the State, playing against a short-seated house, will show to more people than any other picture in town. The town has been 24 sheeted to capacity and looks good."

Doesn't that tell the story in itself? A great picture, yes!—a fine 24 sheet, yes!—and a good showman? You betcha! And he was right on the job, too!

Any time any road-show picture is put on—anywhere—one of the first things any manager does is to grab his hot spot 24 sheet locations and get his paper up quickly. Even in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and other major cities where 24 sheet space runs into big money—there is rarely an outstanding campaign that does not embrace this very profitable form of advertising. Where the success of a big picture is at stake, no one would think of campaigning it without 24 sheets.

Does it not stand to reason that if the 24 sheet brings big returns on big pictures it will also boost returns on some of the smaller ones?

None of us can tell accurately just what picture will go over with a smash. Oftentimes the very ones we think will roll up the biggest grosses only do fair, while other pictures come along, capture the interest of the public, and start to roll up business all out of proportion to what was expected.

You can set the ball rolling on some of these pictures by 24 sheeting them ahead of playdate. Today, because all pictures do not get the benefit of the billboard campaigns, the ones that are so advertised are made to look bigger in the eyes of the public. The crowds realize they must be more "important" and business is therefore boosted.

We do not urge you to 24 sheet every picture. But we DO urge you to use 24 sheets on many good pictures that can be built into big money-makers, if properly campaigned.

Today cars are on the road all year 'round—motors are not freezing up—roads are invariably in fine condition. The 24 sheet is an all year 'round business asset! Take advantage of it.

JOE WEIL.

STEALING THE PAGE!

The entire theatrical page of the Lawrence, Mass. Tribune is reproduced above to illustrate how big space and a well constructed ad overshadowed everything else on the page. Dan Finn of the Warner office prepared this for the Palace Theatre. Fine showmanship!

SMASH FRONT THAT HELPED FURST SELL "MUMMY"

Harry Furst's impressive "Mummy" front at the Palace Theatre, Lawrence, Mass. Note how the giant cut-out heads of Karloff as the Mummy predominate.

BIG ADS—BIG FRONT AND BIG "MUMMY" BUSINESS!

REALIZING he had a big picture that had proven its big money possibilities, Harry Furst, manager of Warner's Palace Theatre, Lawrence, Mass., decided to get behind "The Mummy" with a big campaign and pull some real business for his theatre.

The newspaper campaign started with small advance ads and built up to a six column by ten inch ad that commanded the attention of the entire theatrical page. Each side of the front display featured giant cut-out heads of Karloff as the Mummy, surrounded by framed stills and snappy catch lines. The centre panel had a smaller head of the Mummy and cut-out figure of the girl as used on the pressbook cover. This panel also featured the line: It Comes To Life!

Result: Another spot where "The Mummy," backed with showmanship, established new records for the theatre.

FLASHING EYES IN GIANT KARLOFF HEADS PROVE MAGNETS FOR NEW YORK THRONGS

THE MUMMY took New York by storm. Heralded two weeks in advance by a city-wide 24 sheet campaign and banged over to a flash "opening" by large sized ads dominating the theatrical pages of the mass circulation newspapers, THE MUMMY had the crowds rushing to the Mayfair and standing in line waiting for the doors to be unlocked on the opening day.

And they never stopped coming in right through the week, with the result that the picture was a sure hold-over and was announced for a second week after the third day of the run.

Bob Sisk and Terry Turner of RKO, realizing the big box-office possibilities of the picture, gave it a very flashy front. The display reached from the side-walk to the very top of the Mayfair Theatre building. The giant banner and the solid wall display built over the top of the marquee were carried out in weird colors with yellows, greens and purples predominating. Two massive heads of Karloff were set in front of the wall display. The eyes were cut out and pasted over with glazed cloth. Dimmer light attachments were hooked up to these eyes and flashed them up and down with stunning effect. Because of the nature of the Karloff make-up in this picture, this eye display held everyone's attention.

The interior of the lobby was filled with beautifully painted enlargements of characters and scenes. The sidewalls had photographs interspersed with telling catchlines selling the picture from its various angles. Over the box-office the name of the star and the title of the picture was set up in cut-out letters and these were hooked to a mechanical contrivance which made them move from side to side—another eye attractor which stopped the passerby.

For the smash attention getter on the street, RKO borrowed one of the full sized mummies which the Universal Home Office Exploitation Department had prepared. This stood upright in its case, facing the street on the right-hand side of the lobby. It was hooked up with two way microphones. Following out the pressbook suggestion, cards on either side of the mummy told the pas-

(Continued on page 29)

It Comes To Life On Broadway!

Above is shown the striking Mayfair flash for "THE MUMMY." With its weird green lighting and flashing eye sockets, it dominated the entire Times Square electric display. To the right is shown detail under marquee. Title letters moved weirdly by a mechanical contrivance.

MAYFAIR'S "TALKING" MUMMY JAMS BROADWAY AND TURNS CROWDS TO B. O.

Part of the crowd that jammed up in front of the Mayfair Theatre to hear the "talking" mummy and then turn to the box-office to see the great Karloff thriller.

Here's the Way To Make Mummy "Talk"

After you have built your mummy and set it up in your lobby follow these directions for hooking it up to make it "talk."

Place a "lapel" mike behind the figure to "pick-up" the voices of those who stand in front of it. A dynamic speaker should be secreted in the chest of the mummy with wires (2 pairs) running up to a point that can overlook those who stand in front of the mummy. From this place of concealment the operator, with head phones, hears what is asked the mummy and replies into a mike of his own and the spectators receive their answers via loud speaker in chest of mummy.

When questions become scarce it is easy for the operator to pick some one out of the crowd and make a remark about his hat, tie, etc., to get the rest of them into the proper spirit. The picture at the left shows part of the ever-present crowd in front of the Mayfair's "talking" mummy.

Continued from page 28)

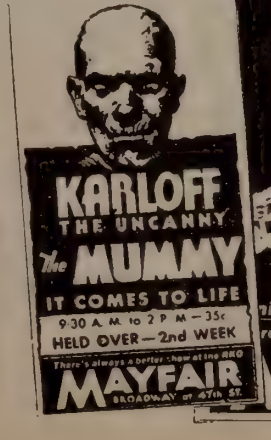
serby to ASK THE MUMMY A QUESTION —IT WILL ANSWER YOU. The actual working of the stunt is described in the column to the right.

The crowds jammed around this mummy morning, noon and night, causing such a terrific traffic tangle in front of the theatre that stores alongside complained to the police to move the people. RKO picked a clever person to answer the questions and in between questions and answers many selling lines on the Mummy were shot through the microphone. This stunt caused such a commotion around the theatre that word of mouth spread quickly around the town that they were jamming them in at the Mayfair—and they were. Business kept up at a fast pace right through the week.

As in other very successful campaigns on this picture, the New York campaign featured the head of the mummy with the line, KARLOFF—THE MUMMY—IT COMES TO LIFE! A beautiful full length picture of Zita Johann, the girl, was used everywhere to attract extra feminine appeal for the picture.

THE MUMMY stunt at the Mayfair Theatre has proved so successful that scores of other theatres are already putting it into effect. It is suggested that your local radio dealers be contacted to help you install the two way receiving and talking connections. Your local art school's aid can be enlisted to prepare a "mummy" for you. A putty or plaster face and hands and the rest of the body wrapped in iodine and paint stained bandages do the trick. Try it!

Three column by eight inch ad, representative of the newspaper campaign used by the Mayfair for its engagement of "The Mummy." Below one of the one column teaser ads announcing the hold over.



WARNER PITTSBURGH MAKES NEW OPENING HIGH WITH "MUMMY"—THRILLER SCORES AGAIN!

The mummy-and-the-girl ballyhoo used in the lobby of the Warner Theatre, Pittsburgh, Pa., dramatizing the line: "It Comes To Life!"

A MAGIC mirror and a mummy and girl ballyhoo in the lobby, the finding of a mummy near a cemetary, big newspaper space and a smash front were all features of manager Roy Rowe's campaign that put over "The Mummy" to a new opening high for the Warner Theatre, Pittsburgh. Joe Feldman and Donn Wermuth of the Warner publicity staff handled the exploitation.

The mummy discovery stunt (illustrated in last week's issue) was used as an advance and landed the engagement some nice publicity in the local papers as well as several breaks on local radio broadcasts. The "mummy" was a dummy wrapped in bandages that had been colored and aged by process. It was left near a cemetery at an early morning hour and later, when the police and newspapers were notified of its discovery, the fireworks started popping and pictures landed in the papers.

The lobby ballyhoo consisted of a man wrapped to represent the mummy, and a girl in Egyptian costume. The mummy stood rigid in a case and every once in a while "came to life" and took a step towards the girl, apparently sleeping on a couch. The same stunt was used on the stage as a prologue to the trailer. It created considerable comment and brought thousands to the theatre lobby. The same man was used as a walking mummy ballyhoo on the streets.

The magic mirror stunt was used as an advance lobby display. It was effected through the use of two circular pieces of plate glass with gold leaf between to make a mirror. The glass was placed in an opening on the front of a mummy case. Four lights inside the case overcame the mirror effect when lighted, bringing into view a head of the mummy placed in the background. The effect was very weird and caused extensive comment.

In addition to increased space on the theatrical pages, teaser ads were run on the news pages of the dailies, and special ads used in local weeklies. Accessory heralds were distributed in all the leading hotels. Duke Hickey, Universal exploiteer assisted on the campaign.

$100.00 IN PRIZES!

Watch for "Nagana" EXPLOITATION CONTEST

Details in Next Issue!

THE UNIVERSAL WEEKLY CERTIFICATE OF MERIT is hereby awarded to the following showmen for exceptional exploitation on Universal pictures.

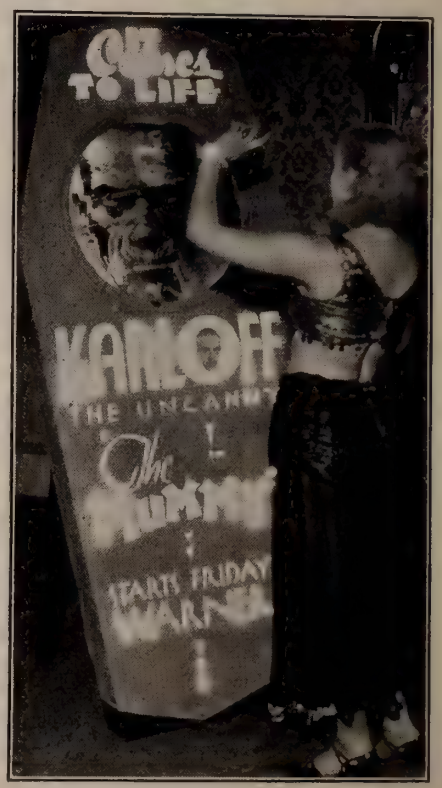
ADAM P. HOWELL, manager of the Strand Theatre, Hartselle, Ala., for his campaign on "The Mummy."

HARRY CHARNAS, of Warner's metropolitan theatres, for smart showmanship on the Winter Garden opening of "Laughter In Hell."

WILLIAM H. JEMNER, manager Fox Riverside Theatre, Riverside Calif., for his campaign on "Once In A Lifetime."

Congratulations! Your certificates, signed by Carl Laemmle, are in the mail!

There are certificates waiting to be awarded to other theatre managers for examples of smart showmanship on Universal pictures. Send us the details of YOUR campaign with photographs of oustanding ballyhoos and fronts. Address your material to SHOWMANSHIP EDITOR, UNIVERSAL WEEKLY, 730 Fifth Ave., New York City.



The magic mirror lobby stunt. Note disappearing head of mummy on glass.

"Exceptionally Good"
G.W. Yeaton
Ioka Theatre
Exter, ··· N.H.
AIRMAIL
STEP OUT WITH UNIVERSAL

SENSATIONAL "LAUGHTER IN HELL" EXPLOITATION STARTLES DETROIT!

THE outstanding exploitation given "Laughter In Hell' by Simon Griever, manager of the Adams Theatre, had all Detroit talking about the Jim Tully chain gang picture. In all of its details it emphasized the current chain-gang publicity filling the newspapers of the country and the sensationalism of the picture.

Through the co-operation of the local city, county and state police authorities Griever secured a lobby display of leg and arm braces, shackles, punishment belts, balls and chains and rib-hooks. These and a few actual whips used by chain gang overseers, were tied into the picture by surrounding the display with accessory 1/3 sheet snipes and copies of the publicity broadside prepared by Universal.

As an advance display the ball and chain weight guessing stunt suggested in the pressbook was used in the inner lobby. Four banners spotted around the lobby carried this copy: JUST AS THE WHOLE COUNTRY IS TALKING OF ROBERT ELLIOTT BURNS COMES JIM TULLY'S "LAUGHTER IN HELL"—REVEALING HORRORS OF THE CHAIN GANG.

SNIPES AND BROADSIDE DRESS LOBBY

The special chain gang whip display used at the Adams Theatre, Detroit, Mich., for "Laughter In Hell."

Griever's street ballyhoo consisted of four men in striped prison garb and and overseer, who was an expert at whip cracking and drew large crowds by sniping cigarettes and cutting paper with his whip.

The Jim Tully book was given special displays by several local book shops. Large newspaper space was used during the run of the picture. Duke Hickey, Universal exploiter, assisted on the campaign.

EYE-CATCHING STREET BALLYHOO

Trick whip expert and convict sheet, ballyhoo used by Simon Griever for his "Laughter In Hell" campaign.

POWERS USES LOCAL CHAIN GANG BOY

JUST about the time that manager Powers of the RKO Proctor's Theatre, Newark, N. J., was getting set on his campaign for "Laughter In Hell," a local boy was returned to his home after a term with a prison chain gang. The story was played up by the Newark papers as front page news. Powers cashed in on it for the feature of his campaign. The news stories were clipped and mounted on a lobby board with this copy: FRONT PAGE NEWS NOW—NEWARK BOY CALLS CHAIN GANG LIVING HELL—SEE WHY IN "LAUGHTER IN HELL"—NOW PLAYING.

For the opening night he induced the boy to come to the theatre as his guest and see the picture. Just before the opening the boy was photographed reading a copy of Jim Tully's famous book. After the show he gave the reporters a story saying that he had read the book and seen the picture and that they faithfully portrayed what he saw and suffered.

Large newspaper space and a flash front completed the campaign. Ed Sniderman, publicity manager of the theatre, and Al Nathan, Universal exploiteer, assisted.

THE BOX-OFFICE MAN OF THE HOUR

as the cockiest soldier on the Western Front!

With Gloria Stuart, Donald Cook, Emma Dunn, Frank McHugh, Russell Gleason.

Story by Richard Schayer. Adapted by Samuel Spewack, Bella Cohen, George Jessel. Directed by RUSSELL MACK. Produced by CARL LAEMMLE, Jr. Presented by CARL LAEMMLE.

LEE TRACY in PRIVATE JONES

JOIN THE REST OF THE TRADE IN CELEBRATING CARL LAEMMLE'S 27TH ANNIVERSARY!

From

UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORP.
730 FIFTH AVENUE
NEW YORK CITY

MANAGER
MELROSE THEATRE
MELROSE MASS

Sec. 562, P. L. & R.
U. S. POSTAGE
Paid
New York, N. Y.
Permit No. 949

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
VOL 32 NO. 8
FEB. 4, 1933

Old Dan'l in the lion's den was a push-over compared with this modern dare-devil who enters a cage with 43 man-killers in

CLYDE BEATTY

STEP OUT WITH UNIVERSAL

The BIG CAGE

The Box-Office Man of the Hour —

LEE

TRACY

—as the cockiest, stubbornest, funniest, laziest, most reckless, most brazen, most lovable soldier on the Western Front —

PRIVATE JONES

—just one of the A. E. F. who went

FROM HELL TO HERO — AND HOW!

With GLORIA STUART, Donald Cook, Emma Dunn, Shirley Grey, Frank McHugh, Russell Gleason, Walter Catlett. Story by Richard Schayer. Adapted by Samuel Spewack, Bella Cohen, George Jessel. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr.
Directed by Russell Mack.
Presented by Carl Laemmle.

"Naw, they can't make you fight. They just shove you up in the front line, hand you a gun—and let you use your own judgment."
"This hero stuff may be all right, . . . but I'd rather be a live pacifist than a dead soldier!"
"I didn't start this war, and I certainly am not going to try to finish it all by my lonesome!"
"They told me I had to be a soldier—and then handed me a pick and shovel!"
Lee
TR
in Priv
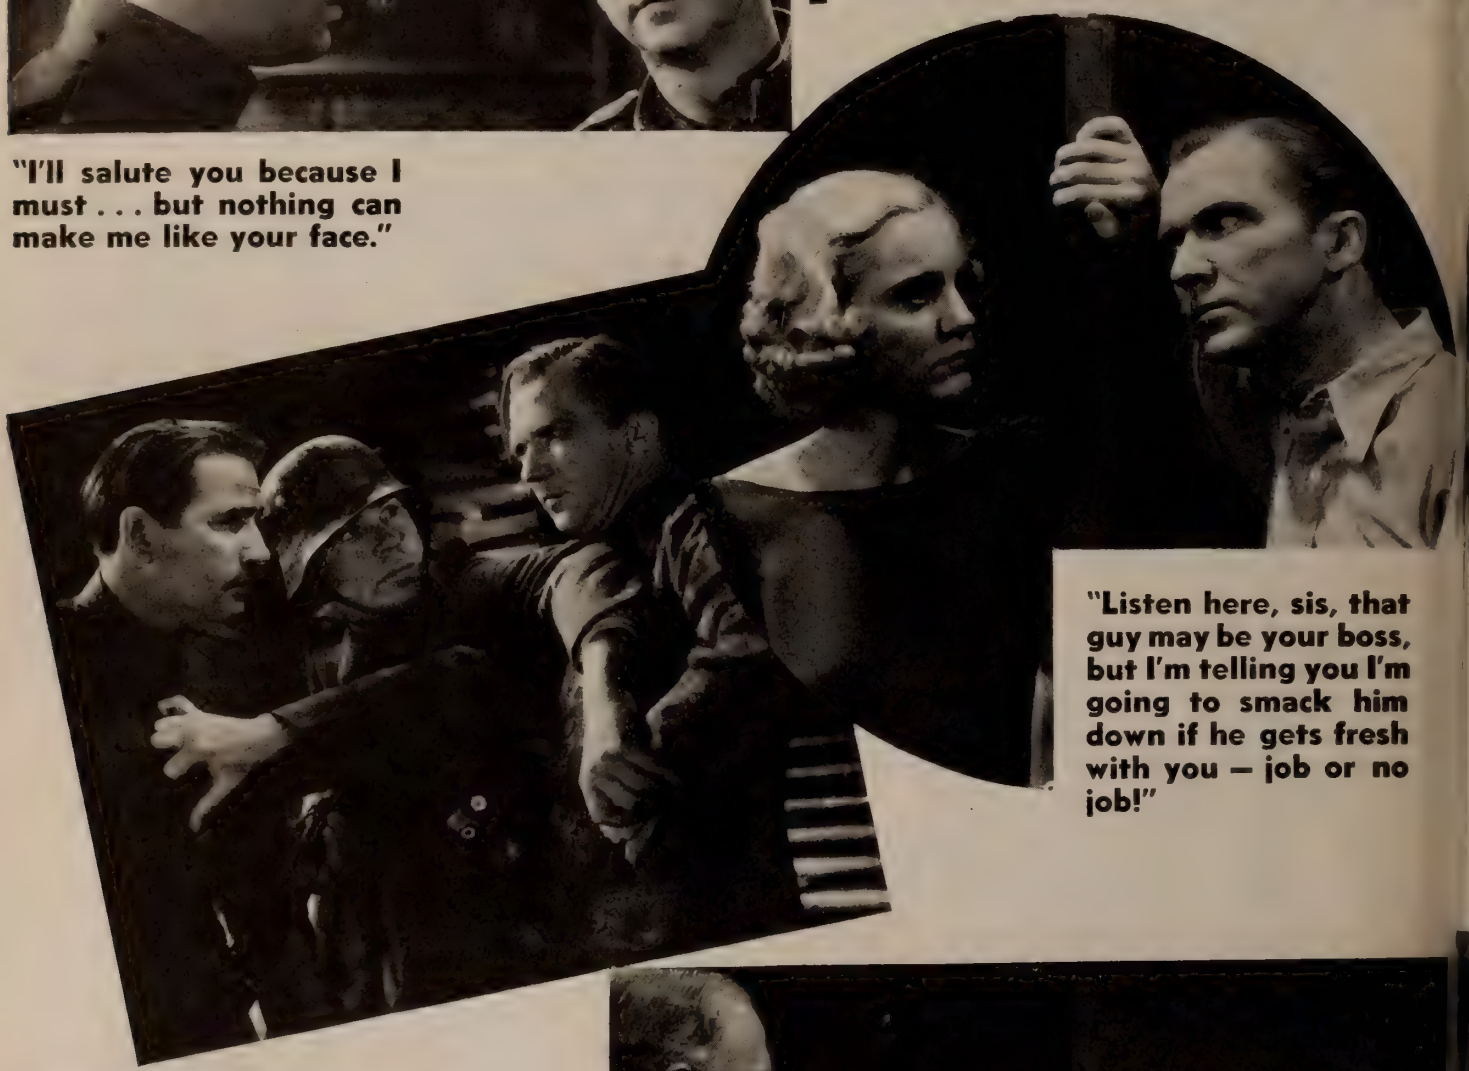
JON

"Say, anything lower than a second lieutenant could hide under a snake's belly... and that's right on the ground!"
"All that this man's army needs is a few million less officers and a coupla hundred more privates!"
"Huh... you're telling ME! Say, what I don't know about rain and mud and cooties you could hide under a canary's toenail!"
"They said I should help make the world safe for Democracy— and me a regular enrolled Republican!"
STEP OUT WITH UNIVERSAL

LEE TRACY

"I'll salute you because I must . . . but nothing can make me like your face."



"Listen here, sis, that guy may be your boss, but I'm telling you I'm going to smack him down if he gets fresh with you — job or no job!"

"Now I'm going to show you just how yellow and afraid to fight I am!"

"You forced me into this, you dirty hypocrite, and when I come back I'm going to - -"

PRIVATE JONES

"Don't tell me that a girl like you could fall for a mutt like that."

"'S all right, mom. Let 'em have their war. They can't get ME into the argument. I'm here to stay with you!"

"If he's a sap they'll have to get a new definition for the word. I like him."

"Well, I'll tell you. The 116th has two million men and three million guns . . . but now that you've got me . . . they're weak."

UNIVERSAL'S

No. 708 Straight-from-the-Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

The only pictures worth a rap to you are pictures—good pictures—which are made and delivered!

Pictures advertised and never made are a source of danger to you, because you count on them and they never come.

Universal, from the beginning of the season, has assured you it would make and release twenty-six features suitable for every class of theatre from first run all down the line.

Universal will make twenty-six pictures and they will be strong ones.

Universal is strong enough to carry out its promises.

Since we first announced our plans last May, we have vastly improved them. Every single change we have made has been influenced by its beneficial effect on your receipts.

Even with an economy wave sweeping throughout the world, we have never lost sight of the fact that you must have money-making shows or you will shut up shop.

Now, in addition to such money-makers as "Back Street" and "Okay America" and "The Mummy" and "They Just Had To Get Married" and "Air Mail" and "The All American" and others already released, (and I nearly forgot to mention

STRENGTH

"Once in a Lifetime" and "Old Dark House" and "Afraid to Talk") you will be delighted with these:

"Rome Express," a Gaumont-British production praised to the skies by Variety as "one of the best pictures ever made anywhere." Esther Ralston and Conrad Veidt are the leads in one of the best dramas of the year.

"Nagana," which can only be described as "terrific." Watch for the battle royal of a dozen wild jungle beasts in a scientist's laboratory.

"Private Jones," starring Lee Tracy in the best role he ever had in his life—and how he plays it!

"The Big Cage" will feature Clyde Beatty, the world's greatest wild animal handler, in a stunt never before attempted for any picture ever produced.

"The Invisible Man," from the H. G. Wells story of the same title, and featuring Karloff. Enough said!

"Destination Unknown," with the kick of "Hell's Heroes" and the spiritual quality of "The Miracle Man."

I'll tell about more forthcoming pictures later. And every single one of them will spell STRENGTH!

Carl Laemmle

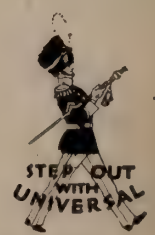
UNIVERSAL AGAIN SPEEDS UP THE NEWSREEL!

The trade has formed the habit of looking to Universal for the newest thing first. It was Universal that solved the problem of adapting sound to newsreels without losing one minute of speed.

So again it is Universal which introduces the newest newsreel improvement—the moving subtitle! Everybody thought the newspaper style of headline could not be beaten. But we have found a way to beat it And now every inch of the best news reel moves with speed, even the titles!

It will be copied. Okay. That's the price of leadership. But you don't want a copy. You want the original. So you'll have to have the smartest and fastest growing newsreel in the world!

ALL ISSUES OF THE UNIVERSAL NEWSREEL FROM NOW ON WILL HAVE THE MOVING SUBTITLES!



(Step out with Universal Newsreel and you'll step faster, faster, faster, faster, faster, faster, faster, faster!)

News From Universal City

Carl Laemmle greeting Dr. Feuchtwanger at Universal City.

Carl Laemmle Entertains Dr. Lion Feuchtwanger

AMONG the experiences which Dr. Lion Feuchtwanger, author of "Power," "Success," "The Ugly Duchess" and the current best-seller, "Josephus," will take back with him to his native land, will be the pleasant reception which he received from Carl Laemmle and the opportunity given him of seeing Universal Pictures in the making. Dr. Feuchtwanger is on a lecture tour in this country, but these learned men and wide-awake authors always combine the assimilation of new ideas, new impressions and new peoples with their lecturing.

The Universal Weekly

A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors

Paul Gulick, Editor

Published weekly by the Motion Picture Weekly Publishing Company, 730 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Copyright 1933.
Universal Pictures Corp.
(All rights reserved)

Vol. 32 Feb. 4, 1933 No. 8

Lois Weber Back With Universal

LOIS WEBER is back at Universal City. The woman director who made so many profitable pictures for exhibitors, such as "Shoes," "Where Are My Children?" "The Doctor and the Woman," and "Idle Wives," has been engaged by Carl Laemmle, Jr. to interview and test candidates for the screen and find new faces. This is one of Miss Weber's special abilities. She is credited with having discovered Mary MacLaren, Billie Dove, Claire Windsor, Ella Hall and Mildred Harris.

Incidentally, it will seem like returning home to Miss Weber to be associated with Universal again. Lois Weber started with the Rex organization, in which she co-directed.

Carl Laemmle, Jr. Becomes Judge

BECAUSE of his intense interest in sports of all kinds, his reputation for unbiased judgment and probably somewhat because he made a swell picture out of "The All American," Carl Laemmle, Jr. last fall was appointed a judge, not a legal one, but a member of a committee of awards to determine which sporting page had given the most artistic, complete and unusual layout to the subject of the All American football team selections. The committee, which is pictured below, consisted of Carl Laemmle, Jr., on the left, Charles Owen, artist Los Angeles Times, Sid Ziff, sports editor Los Angeles Herald-Express, and, standing, Harley Davis, layout man of the Los Angeles Examiner. The award was given to the Detroit Times.

Telephone:
Mountview 2961

9 The Grove
HIGHGATE VILLAGE
London, N. 6
January 13th, 1933

Dear Mr. Laemmle,

May I send you a word of congratulation on the twenty-seventh anniversary of your work as a moving-picture producer. It is a heartening thing that the man who has stayed the course with most stamina should have earned the goodwill and friendly regard of all his colleagues and competitors. I hope that for many years to come you will continue to enjoy the rewards of a career that is an honour to the moving-picture business.

With kind regards,

Very sincerely yours,

John Drinkwater

P.S. I was so sorry to miss you in America

This letter from John Drinkwater, eminent British writer, biographer, dramatist and lecturer is one in which Carl Laemmle will take especial pride.

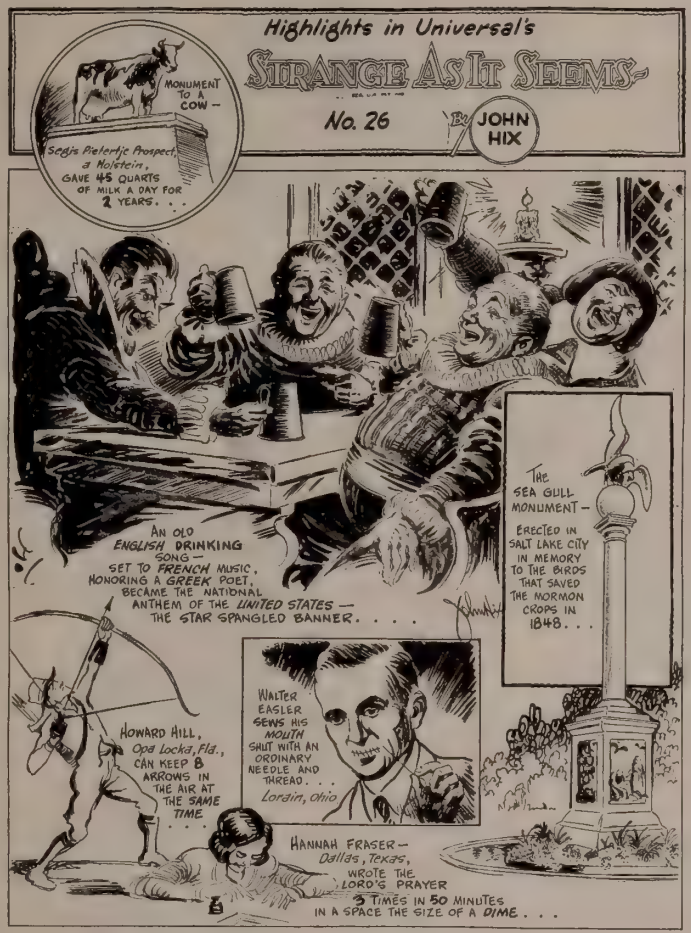
John Hix Illustrates Issue No. 26

THE twenty-sixth issue of "Strange As It Seems" is one of the most strange and interesting that the producers of this John Hix cartoon have ever put together. The film contains twelve subjects, selected from John Hix's daily cartoon service to over two hundred and fifty newspapers. Six of them are illustrated in the cartoon which adorns this page. There are six others in the subject which are not illustrated. Here are appropriate captions for these unillustrated six.

Subject 7. THE SKY SCRAPER HORSE — appropriately named TIMBER LINE. From Chehalis, Washington, Timber Line stands seven feet, eleven inches high and conveys a vague impression of the original horse of Troy.

Subject 8. HERCULES —one of the smallest horses in existence, is five years old and from Vickery, Texas. Hercules wieghs but 100 pounds and is only twenty eight inches in height.

Subject 9. THE FISHING POLICE DOG. Cy Havlick of Astoria, Oregon, has trained the animal to successfully subdue 20 to 30-pound salmon. The dogs parents were killed by the poisonous effect of wounds made by the sharp back fin of the salmon.



For the WEEKLY, John Hix drew this cartoon which illustrates six subjects from the "Strange As It Seems" issue, No. 26. If you used the last cartoon from the Weekly for No. 25, you will want to use this, too. Can be secured at low cost 11 x 14 from the Supply Dept. Universal.

Subject 10. 10,000-PIECE TABLE. Stephen Sailor, 68-year-old cabinet maker of St. Paul, Minn., after 24 years of untiring effort completed the masterpiece, geometrical in design, consisting of 10,000 pieces of wood from all parts of the world.

Subject 11. LADY OF THE WOODS. A natural rock formation. This beautiful life-size form of a weeping woman remains an ever-deepening mystery to those who would discover its origin.

Subject 12. TEXAS PRIDE. From San Antonio, Texas this eight-year-old Brahma Jersey is one of the largest cows in the world. She weighs 2225 pounds and stands six feet high.

Here also is some additional information on the subjects included in the drawing on this page.

Subject 1. ENGLISH DRINKING SONG. The melody of the Star Spangled Banner, our official national anthem, was taken from the old English drinking song "To Anacreon in Heaven" which was composed in 1770. It was set to French music and honored a Greek poet. Francis Scott Key, in 1814, wrote only the words of our anthem.

Subject 2. SEA GULL MONUMENT. In gratitude to the sea gulls for saving their crops, the Mormons erected an imposing granite pillar to the sea gulls and passed a state law protecting them.

Subject 3. THE HUMAN WILLIAM TELL. Howard Hill exerts a pull on his bow of 172 pounds as compared with the best pull of 65 pounds made by the Indians. He scores bulls eyes from every conceivable position. His real forte is the hunting of wild animals that prey on live stock. The sequence shows him slaying coyotes and lynx in their native haunts.

You Get Big Comedy Names Like Slim Summerville—Louise Fazenda—James Gleason and Many Others in UNIVERSAL TWO-REEL COMEDIES
Produced Under Supervision of WARREN DOANE. Formerly with Hal Roach says Motion Picture Herald. "...vividly and highly dramatic... Bellamy does a splendid job . . . likewise all the other characters, particularly Alan Hale . . . highly effective...lay out a straight from the shoulder campaign that will convince your patrons that they are going to see something starkly unusual."

"Daring and Unusual"

•

With PAT O'BRIEN, RALPH BELLAMY, Betty Compson, Alan Hale, Russell Hopton, Tom Brown, Rollo Lloyd. Story by Tom Buckingham. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Tay Garnett. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

STEP OUT WITH UNIVERSAL UNKNOWN

Oswald Now Almost Six Years Old. Meets Demand for New Stars With Pooch.

ALTHOUGH Oswald was not officially released as a cartoon personality until September 1, 1927, he was actually shown to the public on July 15th at the Criterion Theatre, Los Angeles. On this historic date, almost six years ago, "Oswald the Lucky Rabbit" as a stellar attraction took his place on a theatre marquee sign with John Gilbert and Greta Garbo. On July 15th of this year, Oswald will be six years old. Universal is planning an anniversary for him, to start on June 30th, at which time Brother Pooch the Pup will be one year old.

And Along Came Pooch

It seemed that when "Oswald the Lucky Rabbit" was five years old, he became lonesome. Walter Lantz, director of cartoons at Universal City and originator of young Oswald, decided to do something about this loneliness. He went into a huddle and evolved Pooch the Pup, unpedigreed and pretty much a tramp, but harmless to rabbits. Oswald has been very happy about this situation because ever since Pooch came, his labors have been cut in half, so to speak. Oswald goes to bat thirteen times a year, instead of twenty-six, and Pooch takes up the cudgels for the other thirteen appearances. Neither of these cartoon characters, as will be easily seen, is superstitious.

With the current release, "Oswald the Plumber," Oswald will have appeared in exactly 135 subjects. This is a stellar accomplishment which only the most popular stars, like Tom Mix, for instance, can possibly equal. But great things are ahead for Oswald. In spite of the splendid record he has made, "Oswald the Plumber" is regarded by many critics as the best Oswald yet.

"In 1933," says Lantz, cartoon director, "it is necessary to step up the quality of animated talking cartoons. In spite of the high standard we have attempted to maintain on Oswald, we are definitely committed to making improvements in his cartoons, and with Pooch we feel that we have an opportunity of unique character, and we are going to take full advantage of it. The other day, we discovered that Pooch looked better with dark ears. The whole lot was enthusiastic about the new sideboards, and we feel that Pooch's admirers will also be greatly amused by the new ears we have given him." (First picture of Pooch in his new ears will be seen on the opposite page. Take a look at them. The new ears will not appear on the screen until "The Lumber Champ," released in March.)

Lots of Hard Work

If anyone thinks that it is an easy matter to turn out animated cartoons, it will be a surprise to them to know that to turn out the thirteen Oswalds and the thirteen Pooch cartoons requires the services of forty people, artists, animators, gag men and musicians. The music is under the direction of James Dietrich.

I'M OSWALD
The Lucky Rabbit

January 20, 1933

Mr. Carl Laemmle, President
Universal Pictures Corp.
Dear Mr. Laemmle:

May I avail myself of this method of showing you my appreciation for the wonderful suggestions and encouragement which are found within the pages of your Universal Weekly.

Your Straight-from-the-Shoulder talk carries a great "punch" and my only regret is that I have never had the pleasure of receiving your Weekly in the earlier years of its existence. I hope my name is kept on your mailing list for each and every copy that is issued. Quote me as freely as you wish on this.

Incidentally, let me further add my best wishes for your continued success in the motion picture industry.

Very sincerely yours,
H. L. GOLDEN
Orpheum Theatre
Indianapolis, Indiana

"Not The Caviar of Comedy, But The Ham and Eggs," says John C. Moffitt in Kansas City Star, reviewing "They Just Had To Get Married"

A WISE man recently said something so profound that we are tempted to quote it. He said what the theatres of America needed was less caviar and more ham and eggs. He pointed out the effort to make American audiences appreciate sophistication and satire was a movement that gratified Hollywood's naive desire to be worldly rather than any desire on the part of audiences.

Down to Cases

With due respect to Miss Pitts and Mr. Summerville, we can say that here is the ham—and the eggs, and we don't mean fish eggs.

Here's a picture made for the folks who never get the point in the Lubitsch comedies. To the folks who can't decide what Philip Barry is driving at, it will be as welcome as a relief expedition would have been at the Custer massacre. To those who believe Herbert Marshall is too restrained and who found only bewilderment in the antics of Lunt and Fontanne in "The Guardsman" this will be a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

Since the confusion of audiences is a profitless business for theater men, it is amazing that this element has been neglected so long. The continued success of Loie Bridge in the middle West should have been an indication that there was a large public waiting for such an effort. Whenever the industry makes a picture like this it explains apologetically that it is for the "masses." We are all members of the "masses," whether we like it or not. Half of us just try to act as though we have lost our membership cards.

Sure, for the Masses—

This film was made for the other half.

They will extract much honest enjoyment from this tale of a maid and a butler who inherit their master's fortune and use it to finance their cruise on the sea of matrimony. The scene of Mr. Summervile and Miss Pitts in their nuptial chamber may be painful to a few, but it's pretty sure to set the others ringing peals of bucolic laughter. So will Miss Pitts anatomical woes after riding a horse. So will the sight of Mr. Summerville doing an Apache dance.

It's all obvious, but it has its moments. Even the lofty brows may condescend to a democratic chuckle when Miss Pitts sets out upon her first horseback ride. The groom (like all riding masters) instructs her to let the horse know she's the boss.

They Like This

"I'm the boss—I'm the boss," she quavers while the mustang jumps fences and tears up the countryside with his thundering hoofs in a fast sequence that misses no laugh bets.

The embarrassment of Slim with his valet is none the less laughable because it is broad and his speech upon matrimony should get laughs. The fact that Roland Young and C. Aubrey Smith, two of our most aristocratic farceurs appear as members of this proletarian picture's supporting cast must have caused a gratified glow to sweep the person of Comrade Stalin. Fifi D'Orsay is in the picture, but ZaSu lets no one compete for comedy honors with her querulous self. Querulous women are the most difficult to compete with.

John C. Moffitt

Best He Ever Saw

Max Cohen, Mgr.,
Universal Film Exchanges, Inc.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dear Mr. Cohen:

I consider "Air Mail" a better picture than "Hell Divers" and that is not knocking the latter picture. Believe it's the best air picture (Air Mail) I've ever seen.

Best wishes.

(Signed) Charles Blatt,
Park Theatre,
Somerset, Pa.

The folks tell me they like me better with dark ears. So I've dyed 'em black. Anything to please the customers—what?

POOCH THE PUP

With ESTHER RALSTON, CONRAD VEIDT, Joan Barry, Harold Huth, Gordon Harker, Cedric Hardwicke, and many others. Directed by WALTER FORDE. A Gaumont Picture distributed by Universal. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

ROME E

A Lifetime of Adventure In

"One of the best pictures ever made."
—Variety.

". . . excellent drama . . . strong entertainment . . . smartly handled . . . highly effective . . . not a moment's lagging of interest."
—Motion Picture Herald

"A 'Grand Hotel' idea, but on wheels . . . rattling good entertainment."
Kann, Motion Picture Daily.

XPRESS

One Night on a Train!

WESTERN UNION

NL PORTLAND, OREGON —1/26/33

UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORP.

MUMMY OPENED RKO ORPHEUM TODAY BUSINESS BEST OPENING DAY SINCE REOPENING CHRISTMAS DAY BEATING ROCKABYE BITTER TEA GENERAL YEN HALF BAKED TRUTH STOP THIS DESPITE SEVERE STORM HEAVY GALE AND ELECTRIC POWER OFF WITH BROADWAY AND ALL THEATRES DARK EIGHT FORTY FIVE AND NINE FIFTEEN ALL INDICATIONS GREAT WEEK

AL O'KEEFE

He Speaks Truly

(From Allied Comments, Chicago)

Walter Babitz of the editorial board of Allied Comments, the publication of the Allied Theatres of Illinois, has this very interesting and illuminating comment to make in his column in the latest issue of Allied Comments:

"We have watched Universal closely this season, and we have had an opportunity to see their productions so far released (it seems that they are not afraid to screen them for the exhibitors). So we have seen them all, and in our opinion, there is not a flop among them. It seems that they are making pictures that the exhibitors have been waiting for for years, and we noticed that after each screening, exhibitors make a "bee" line for the UNIVERSAL office and engage a salesman in very animated conversation, and they are not talking about a pinochle game either."

"AIRMAIL" the BEST

Millen, Ga.
Jan. 11th, 1933

B. Y. Cammack, Manager
Universal Film Exchange
Atlanta, Georgia.

Dear Sir,

We just finished an engagement of "AIRMAIL", and want to say I believe it to be the best air picture made to date, we had many patrons to tell us it was the best picture they have seen yet.

Furthermore all Universal features used on the 1932-33 group have shown up wonderfully, and so far well pleased with the kind of product your company is releasing this season.

Just keep up the good work, and Universal will be on top absolutely.

Very truly yours,
C. H. Simpson
Princess Theatre

"Capital" Says Variety

(From Variety, New York)

The reviewer of Variety caught No. 25 of "Strange As It Seems" in the Universal projection room, showing and this is what he said:

Capital release in this Universal series, which is supplemented with a modest and unassuming off-screen lecture.

Opens with a great spash of color (whole subject is in Technicolor), having to do with scenes in Morocco with special reference to the native dyeing industry and rug making. Half a dozen widely varied clips give it sustained interest and the cameraman has worked with an eye to subjects that called for color interest and striking pictorial effect.

"STRANGE AS IT SEEMS is one of the best short reels on the market. I feature my short reels the same as feature pictures and in many cases the shorts will save the show," says R. W. Reckman, Lyric Theatre, Greenville, Ill., in Motion Picture Herald.

"Red" Kann in the Motion Picture Daily Says:

"The Mummy"
(Universal)

It is a fascinating story that Universal weaves in "The Mummy," latest of the Karloff endeavors into the field of uncanny make-up.

Reminding of the mysterious fate that overtook Lord Carnarvon and Howard Carter, Egyptologists who unearthed the tomb of King Tut, the story gives living form to Karloff, high priest in the days of the Pharoahs, tells of his scheming among twentieth century moderns and his well-deserved end exactly at the moment when he is about to make away with Heroine Zita Johann.

Karl Freund, the German camera expert who photographed that same "Variety" some years ago which sent Hollywood scampering to shifting photographic angles, directed. It is his first American picture and, while occasionally slow-moving, generally emerges as a very good job indeed. His vast knowledge of the camera serves him in good stead and does much for the picture as a whole.

Karloff's make-up is amazing and probably the most unique he has essayed to date. The rest of the cast, which includes David Manners in the romantic lead, does nice work.

"The Mummy" looks like entertainment built along popular lines. The paying line at the Mayfair yesterday was formidable and the house crowded. That proved something.

—KANN

Big Opening Day

"The Mummy" grossed $4,300 at the Mayfair on its opening day. This is big business.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 9.—"The Mummy," current at the Warner, topped opening day records by $300.

Motion Picture Daily

"Rome Express" Entertains

A "GRAND HOTEL" story idea, but on wheels, "The Rome Express," produced in England by Gaumont British and acquired for the domestic market by Universal is rattling good piece of entertainment.

The action, plenty of it, is compressed between the time the train pulls out of Paris and deposits its assorted human cargo in Rome. Cross purposes trip and then straighten out, in a various fashion, a trio of thieves, a wife about to go unfaithful, a film star tired of press agentry and longing for the life simple, an unscrupulous and pseudo-charitable millionaire, and some others.

The script holds together better than anything we have seen since "The Night of June 13" probably and leaves no loose ends kicking around. Performances by players unknown here with the exception of Esther Ralston and Conrad Veidt, are very competent, in the main. —KANN

"BUSINESS BRISK," says Variety of the run at the RKO Albee, Providence. "Looks good at $8,000."

•

"A NATURAL for this spot" (Liberty, Kansas City) reports Variety.

•

"FINE PICTURE,"
says Exhibitor W. H. Hardman, Royal Theatre, Frankfort, Kansas, in Motion Picture Herald.

AFRAID to TALK

NAGAN

A

ALL THE WILD ANIMAL THRILLS ANY AUDIENCE COULD HOPE FOR IN ONE GREAT BIG PICTURE THAT FAIRLY CRIES FOR EXPLOITATION!

THRI

TOM

TYLER

Jacqueline Wells, William Desmond, Rosalie Roy, Francis Ford, Earl McCarthy. Directed by Ray Taylor.

12 TREMENDOUS CHAPTERS

An Adventure Serial distributed by Universal. Suggested by a poem by ROBERT W. SERVICE

CLANCY of the LLS!

Never before have there been screened such sizzling action, such biting drama, such tremendous THRILLS as you'll find in this GREATEST OF ALL SERIALS! . . . Every inch of every episode is cram-jam packed with bring-'em-back punch that will build business every week you show this tremendous continued feature. It's a worthy successor to — and from the same studios as — such serials as "The Lost Special," "Heroes of The West," "Jungle Mystery," etc. GRAB IT NOW!

MOUNTED

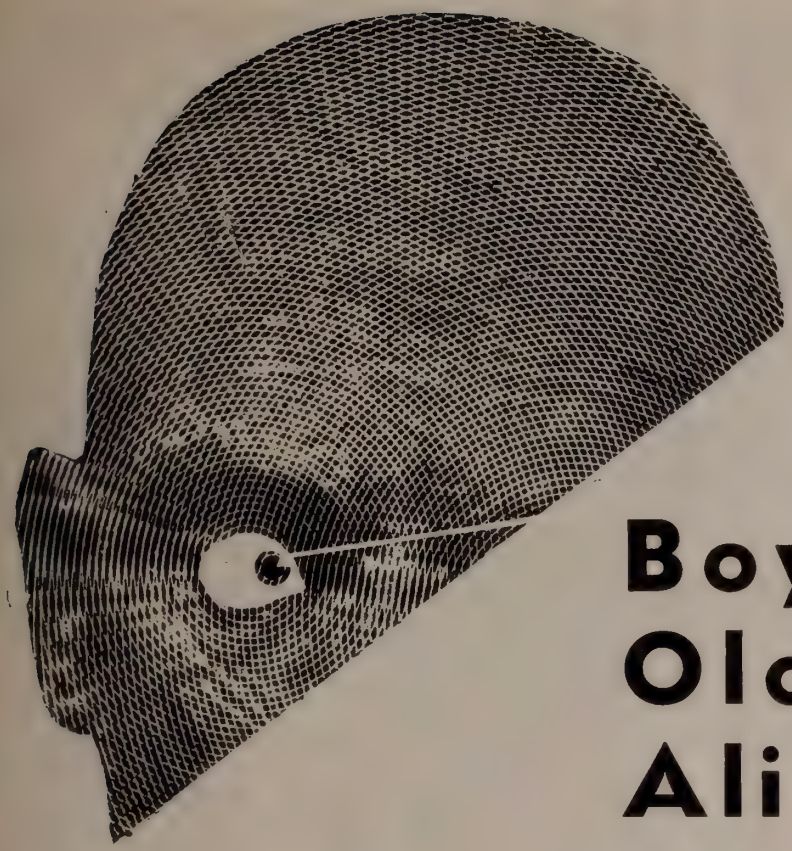
A Tribute from Earl W. Hammons

E. W. Hammons
President
Educational Pictures

MR. CARL LAEMMLE is one of the few who, as great men, have withstood the vicissitudes of the motion picture industry. He has been a great credit to our business, carrying through his splendid career, fine ideals and a sense of fair play which have made him beloved and respected by all who have known him. It has been with great admiration that I have watched Mr. Laemmle's career over a period of more than two decades, in which he has not only developed a splendid company, but has given it a personality that will always be one of the prides of our industry.

On the occasion of the turn of twenty-seven years in Mr. Laemmle's association with the motion picture industry, it is with great pleasure that I extend my congratulations and sincerest wishes for a long continuance of Mr. Laemmle's success.

E. W. Hammons



Boy! Is That Old Mummy Alive! Read:

Variety reports: "Boston, Keith's, big $25,000" — "Pittsburgh, Warner, in the dough at $8,000"—"Philadelphia, Stanton, should get a neat $12,000"—"Denver, Orpheum, okay $11,000"—"Lincoln, Neb., State, an exceptional $2,400" — "Baltimore, Keith's, $5,000, one of the best marks here in weeks" — "Washington, Rialto, going into second week, last week $9,000"—"New York, Mayfair, held over" — etc., etc., etc.

KARLOFF
(The Uncanny) in

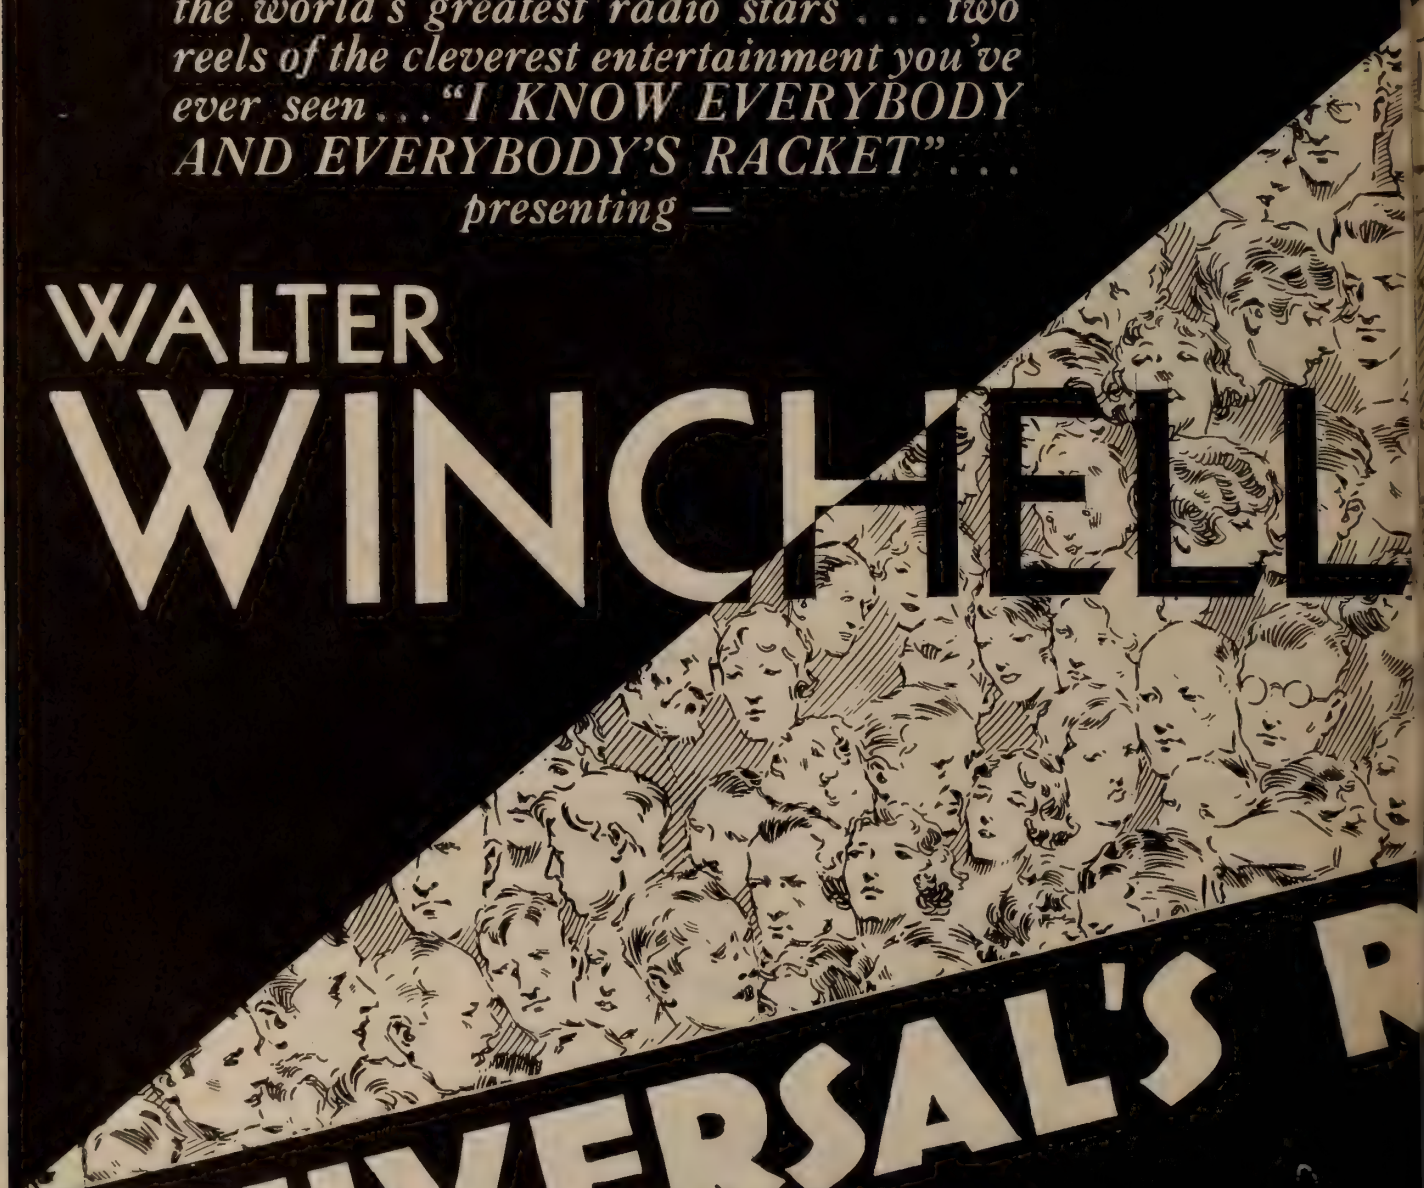
The

MUMMY

Another Smash

in Universal's series of shorts presenting the world's greatest radio stars . . . two reels of the cleverest entertainment you've ever seen . . . "I KNOW EVERYBODY AND EVERYBODY'S RACKET" . . . presenting —

WALTER WINCHELL



UNIVERSAL'S R

Produced by William Rowland—Monte
Brice Productions, Inc.

ADIO SHORTS

which bring to your theatre such outstanding radio names as

MORTON DOWNEY
THE STREET SINGER
ART JARRETT
NICK KENNY
VINCENT LOPEZ

LITTLE JACK LITTLE BOSWELL SISTERS
PAUL WHITEMAN
RUTH ETTING
LOUIS SOBOL

and scores of others

THE UNIVERSAL WEEKLY SHOWMANSHIP SECTION

A DIGEST OF THE BEST EXPLOITATION IDEAS OF THE WEEK

FIRST RUN THEATRES: TRY A SERIAL!

Public Taste Runs In Cycles—A New Thrill Era Is Here!

DID you ever hunt high and low for something that you thought was lost, only to find it right at your fingertips? You have been tearing your hair, scheming and figuring many ways to bring extra business into your house: but have you thought of what a good serial picture could do for you?

Now don't get excited and say—"Don't bring that up again!" Or, "Serials were all right in first run theatres years ago, but today the public's taste is 'different.'"

Many of us thought that cross word puzzles would die out years ago, but the public is still doing cross word puzzles! We saw bagatelle die out years ago, but the public is playing bagatelle again! Leg-of-mutton sleeves were passe years back, but handsome dollies are strutting down Fifth Avenue and Main Street today wearing leg-of-mutton sleeves! Some of us haven't done jig-saw puzzles since we were kids, but the public has again gone jig-saw crazy today!

The public is fickle, and that goes for their thoughts as well as their actions. Neither you nor I can tell from one day to the next what they are going to like or dislike.

How do you know, until you have tried it today, whether or not the public of your city is not in just the very frame of mind today to enjoy a sizzling serial picture? How do you know but that the thrills and the daring escapades in the chapter play are the very things they want to whet their film appetites. How do you know, but that the wild serial thriller is the very thing that will make even the first-run-theatre high-brows enjoy themselves as well as the mob of so-called low-brows?

Do you know that many first run houses have found the serial picture a perfect show opener that brings the people back week after week? And do you know that the first run audiences too, men and women as well as children literally "eat up" the desperate adventures of the daring hero, the pursued heroine and the vile villain?

Look at a serial to day. You'll be surprised at the great strides made in chapter-play production. They're finely directed and marvellously well acted.

Maybe the serial picture is the very thing to put that extra pep into your programs! If you are running a high-brow first run theatre try it. Kid it along if you have to. Tell the town:

Come on down for a real good old-fashioned eat 'em alive chapter play. G-r-a-a-n-d T-h-r-i-l-l--s! Cheer the hero! Hiss the villain! The chapter-play has come into it's own again! The Capitol Theatre offers you the chance to enjoy yourself to the limit just as you did when you were boys and girls! Kids from 6 to 60! You will get a great kick out of following the adventures of "CLANCY OF THE MOUNTED!"

This serial presentation each week might mean plenty of extra money at the box office! You can get grand newspaper publicity out of it because of the novelty of presenting it at this time. The critics will ride along and play it up in the right way.

Set in a serial and campaign the "new" idea in rip-rousing fashion. We believe that in four cases out of five, where showmen have the guts to try a chapter-play and put it on in the right style, their public will go for it in a big way! It's worth trying, isn't it? JOE WEIL

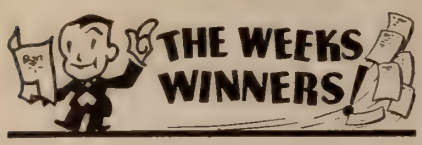
Do You Rate One?

You will find this coveted diploma hanging in the private offices of the country's leading showmen who have earned it by crackerjack showmanship in tough situations. Showmanship on serials and shorts receives the same consideration as on features. Send the details of your campaigns or stunts on Universal Pictures together with photographs, if available, to SHOWMANSHIP EDITOR, UNIVERSAL WEEKLY, 730 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK CITY.

$100 IN PRIZES! SEE PAGE 30 FOR DETAILS "NAGANA" Showmanship Contest

VARIED APPEAL IN THESE SHOWMAN ADS!

(1.) 3 columns by 6½" from the Adams, Detroit. (2.) Snappy single column, 2½" type ad from RKO State-Lake, Chicago. (3.) Neat arrangement of type and illustrations in single column, 2½" ad from Rialto, Washington. (4.) In 3 columns by 7" the Rialto, Washington, invites the public to a party. (5.) A well balanced double column, 9" ad from the Alhambra, Milwaukee. (6.) In 3 columns, 7" the Warner, Pittsburgh, dramatizes a famous line. (7.) Liberty, Wheeling, takes advantage of current newspaper publicity in this double column, 4" ad. (8.) This neatly arranged, double column, 5" ad from Pantages, Los Angeles, is easy to read. (9.) Effective double column, 3" spot from Stanley, Jersey City, N. J. (10.) Double column, 8" ad from Spreckles, San Diego, Cal.



Here are five more exhibitors who have earned the CERTIFICATE OF MERIT. Take a bow, fighters, and step up for your showmanship diplomas.

DAVE ITZEL and FRED SCHADER, manager and publicity manager of the Fox Theatre, Detroit, for their fine campaign on "The Mummy."

KEN COLLINS, manager of Dolle's Apollo Theatre, Indianapolis, for exceptional work in the exploitation of "Air Mail."

J. C. MOHRSTADT, manager of the Missouri Theatre, Hayti, Mo., for his showmanship ballyhoo on "They Just Had To Get Married."

EDWIN B. RIVERS, manager of the Granada Theatre, Lewiston, Idaho, for his smash double truck "co-op" on the New Baby Contest for "They Just Had to Get Married."

Congratulations! Your certificates, signed by Carl Laemmle, are in the mail. We'll be watching for your campaigns on "Nagana!" Better grab some of that $100 in cash prizes!

The eye-catching front at the Broadway Theatre, Charlotte, N. C., designed by Walter Morris, manager. It's a representation of the Mummy's tomb. Heiroglyphics, that do no show up in the reproduction, were used for decoration. The cut-out head of Karloff, at the left, had blinking eyes.

$100.00 IN PRIZES!

FOR THE BEST EXPLOITATION CAMPAIGNS ON "NAGANA"

GET YOUR PLANS SET, NOW!

Don't miss out on one of these SIX CASH AWARDS which Universal is offering for the best all-around exploitation of "NAGANA!" Get your copy of the pressbook, study it carefully and set your plans, now! It will be much easier for you to put over a winning campaign if you plan well ahead and get your front and ads in work.

"NAGANA" is an exploitation natural! With its two big angles—THE TERRIFIC WILD ANIMAL THRILLS and EXOTIC LOVE IN THE JUNGLE—it is a challenge to the ability of any showman!

Materials Ready For Work!

As you will see in the pressbook, there is a great line up of accessories all ready to help you put over the big "NAGANA" campaign. We call your attention to the following showmanship aids: Two 24 Sheets, a pictorial stand and a circus "24"—also special roadshow threes and ones in addition to the regular line of pictorial posters; the striking rotogravure herald; a 15 minute radio script and numerous other accessories.

FIRST PRIZE
$50.00

SECOND PRIZE
$25.00

THIRD PRIZE
$10.00

3 PRIZES OF $5.00 EACH

CONTEST CONDITIONS

1. Prizes will be awarded by Universal Pictures Corp.
2. Any persons actually executing a campaign on "NAGANA" may enter.
3. Awards will be made for the best all-around campaigns, which include newspaper advertising, lobby display, publicity stunts, etc. (Prizes noted in box at left.)
4. Entrants should submit ad clippings, samples of publicity, photos of stunts, and a typewritten summary of the campaign.
5. All entries must be mailed not later than April 15th, 1933.
6. Awards will be announced in the Universal Weekly within two weeks thereafter.
7. The judges will be Charles E. ("Chick") Lewis, Editor of the Managers' Round Table Club of Motion Picture Herald; Epes W. Sargent, Exploitation Editor of "Variety"; Joe Weil, Director of Exploitation, Universal Pictures Corp.
8. Address all entries to "NAGANA" Showmanship Contest, c/o Universal Pictures Corp., 730-5th Ave., New York City.

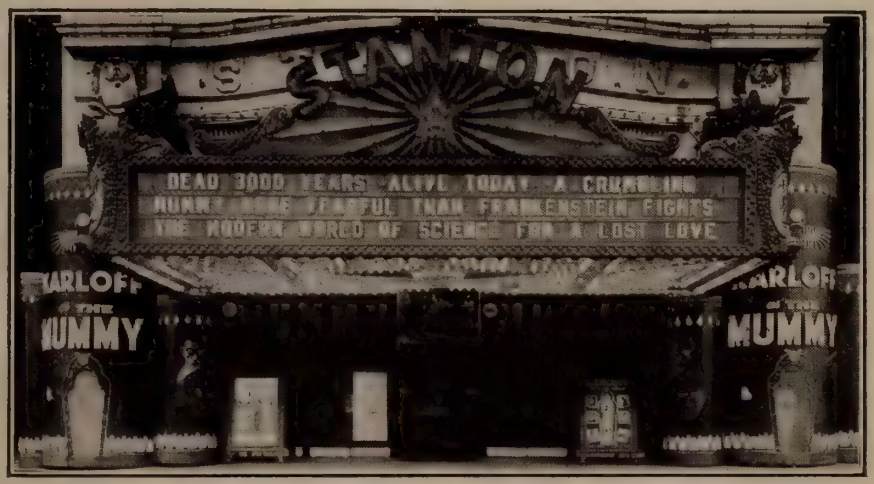
PHILLY'S MUMMY ROVES CITY — MAKES FRONT PAGES — DRAWS BIG CROWDS!

LEFT: Crowds like this trailed the Stanton Theatre's mummy in a different part of Philadelphia every night for a week. The stunt, put over by Sid Davidson, manager of the theatre for his "Mummy" campaign, was a tie-up with the Daily News. The paper ran daily streamers on the front and back pages and daily announcements and photographs. Each night the mummy came to life in a different section of the city, pointed a finget at one of the crowd, and if that person carried a copy of the News, presented him with an envelope containing a dollar bill or two tickets to the Stanton.

MAKING THE MARQUEE ATTRACTION SIGN TALK!

RIGHT: Note how the marquee sign has been set with seat-selling advertising punch lines; the use of giant cut-out heads of Karloff as the Mummy with flashing lights in the eyes. The title is mounted across the top of each entrance in giant cut-out letters.

BELOW: Lucky girl! She had a copy of the News and when the mummy came to life he pointed his finger right at her! She's shown receiving her prize. At the extreme right bottom is shown flashes of the great publicity the "NEWS" gave to the MUMMY stunt.

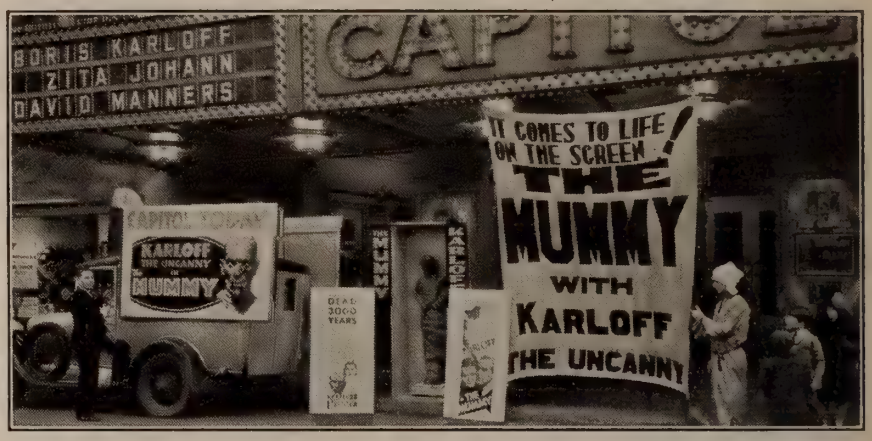


A PRIZE FROM MUMMY

DISCOVERY OF BURIED MUMMY LANDS IN PAPERS BRINGS LARGE CROWDS TO CAPITOL, BINGHAMTON

THE number of adaptations of the "lost mummy" stunt, suggested in the press book, is increasing daily. Mummys have suddenly been discovered in cemetaries, old excavations, in the street and in other unexpected spots. Now we have a report from Fred Perry, manager of the Capitol Theatre, Binghamton, N. Y., that a mummy was found buried on a farm in the outskirts of the city!

Perry made a deal with the farmer and had his art department make the mummy. Later the farmer reported to the sheriff that he and his family heard queer noises every night and had seen a phantom disappear across the farm. The newspapers wrote up the incident and the sheriff came out and found the mummy. An undertaker was called and old "Im-Ho-Tep" was taken downtown and put on display in a prominently located window.



Fred Perry's giant banner, ballyhoo man, mummy display and sound truck ballyhoo in front of the Capitol Theatre, Binghamton, N. Y.

Other stunts in Perry's campaign included a sound truck, (shown at left of picture) which covered all nearby towns; 5,000 book marks distributed in all branches of the public library; a mummy ballyhoo man on the streets; 5,000 heralds; 5 illuminated 24 sheets and 200 window cards.

Blinking eyes in a giant papier-mache mummy atop the marquee attracted attention for blocks on the main street.

Here They Are—

OSWALD

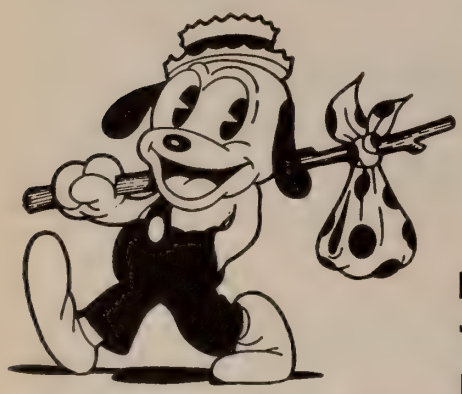
The LUCKY RABBIT

AND

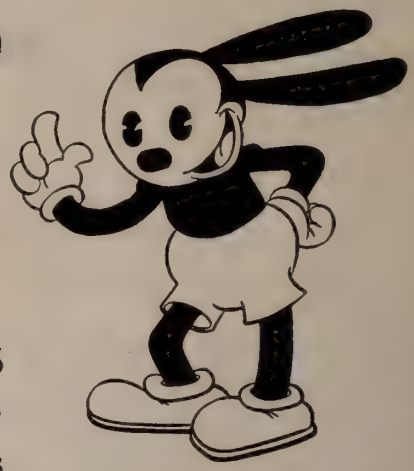
POOCH

The PUP

DRAWING CONTESTS TO EXPLOIT THESE TWO Popular Cartoon Characters



This Is Pooch, the Pup



This Is Oswald, the Lucky Rabbit

A BUSINESS BUILDING STUNT

Universal has arranged drawing contests, to help you exploit OSWALD and POOCH. They are great for the kids, will start the grown-ups talking. They are ready made stunts—complete in every detail. All you need to put them over are the special Exploitation Campaign Kits available on either one of the popular cartoon characters. The price of the campaign kit includes FOUR SPECIAL AUTOGRAPHED photos to be used as prizes and the material listed in next column. NO WORK FOR YOU! Simple to do! Try it!

COMPLETE CAMPAIGNS

YOUR CHOICE OSWALD OR POOCH, FOR $3.50 EACH

THIS IS WHAT YOU GET

Two 22 x 28 lobby posters announcing contest. 1,000 heralds with contest details. One 1 sheet stock poster. One 1 column and one 2 column newspaper mat—to use in tying stunt to newspaper. The prizes of four 8 x 10 autographed photos mailed direct to the winners. Order your campaign, now! Remember to specify either the OSWALD or POOCH campaign, or if you wish to run both, you may so order. Each campaign is $3.50. Address EXPLOITATION DEPARTMENT, UNIVERSAL PICTURES, 730 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK CITY.

CONTEST CONDITIONS

1—The contest must be based on the 1-sheets of Oswald and Pooch which should be displayed in lobby.

2—All drawings must be copies of the poster.

3—All entries must be submitted to Exploitation Department, Universal Pictures, 730-5th Avenue, New York City, not later than March 30, 1933.

4—All photograph awards will be sent DIRECT to winners from Universal.

5—All children are eligible without entry cost of any kind.

6—The prize autographed photos will be awarded for merit only.

"Say, ZaSu, did you see what our new picture (*) did at the State Theatre, Cortland, N. Y.? It outgrossed 'Back Street,' which is the best business the house has done since 'Frankenstein.' We played to better than 40% over the house's average . . . and they tell me similar reports are coming in from all over the country."

*THEY JUST HAD TO GET MARRIED

"Yes, Slim, I heard about that. But have you read the wires from Des Moines, where our picture was held over? And from Charlotte, where it played to the biggest business in eight months, and Seattle, where it lined 'em up all week long—and all the others? Oh, isn't it all just TOO thrilling?"

From

UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORP.

730 FIFTH AVENUE

NEW YORK CITY

Sec. 562, P. L. & R.
U. S. POSTAGE
Paid
New York, N. Y.
Permit No. 949

MANAGER
MELROSE THEATRE
MELROSE MASS

S·O·S ICEBERG

Printed in U.S.A.

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

JULY 15, 1933
VOL. 33, NO. 5

OK

Mr. Exhibitor——

"Be Mine Tonight"

is making new long-run records in big cities and small towns all over the country. It can do the same for you.

—Universal

UNIVERSAL'S NEW DEAL for 1933-1934

BOX-OFFICE

BLOSSOM TIME

The most popular musical romance ever staged. The tremendous Shubert stage hit by Sigmund Romberg brought to life on the screen.

•

ONLY YESTERDAY

From the novel by Frederick Lewis Allen. A great woman's story directed by JOHN M. STAHL.

•

ZEST

This year's biggest best-seller novel by CHARLES G. NORRIS, author of SEED. The story of one man and the women in his life. Directed by JOHN M. STAHL.

•

IMITATION OF LIFE

The latest novel by FANNIE HURST, author of BACK STREET. A sensational best seller. Directed by JOHN M. STAHL.

•

THE ALL-AMERICAN GIRL

Universal's 1933-34 football picture. Story by LUCIAN CAREY. . . . Tremendous exploitation tie-ups to be announced.

•

TAKE A CHANCE

The greatest musical comedy smash that New York has known in years. Schwab and De Sylva's production that made history at the Apollo Theatre this year.

WHEN THE TIME COMES

A smash dramatic story from the pen of WILLIAM ANTHONY McGUIRE, author of "Kid From Spain," "Whoopee," etc.

•

THE GREAT ZIEGFELD

By BILLIE BURKE and WILLIAM ANTHONY McGUIRE. A sensational musical based on the life of America's greatest theatrical producer.

•

THE MAN WHO RECLAIMED HIS HEAD

From the Broadway stage success by Jean Bart. A powerful, dramatic story with a highly unique theme.

•

I GIVE MY LOVE

From the sensational story by VICKI BAUM, author of "Grand Hotel." A daring drama of clashing human emotions, with a prize winning title.

•

NERVOUS LOVERS

SLIM SUMMERVILLE AND ZASU PITTS, that great box-office team, in an hilarious comedy.

•

OH, PROMISE ME!

SLIM SUMMERVILLE and ZASU PITTS in an adaptation of the Broadway stage play of the same title, by Howard Lindsay and Bertrand Robinson.

FEATURES 1933 1934

HAPPINESS AHEAD

SLIM SUMMERVILLE and ZASU PITTS in a comedy made from a story by the one and only RING LARDNER.

•

SLIM SUMMERVILLE AND ZASU PITTS

The team that makes your box-office smile, in a fourth picture, as yet untitled.

•

GLAMOUR

EDNA FERBER'S great Cosmopolitan Magazine story.

•

MA CINDERELLA

HAROLD BELL WRIGHT'S tremendously popular novel. A powerful modern drama.

•

THE GOOD RED BRICKS

From the widely read novel by MARY SYNON. A dramatic story of self-sacrifice—of a girl, her loves and loyalties. (Title to be changed).

•

ONE GLAMOROUS NIGHT

From the story, "Bagdad on the Hudson," by VARD MOREHOUSE. A dramatic romance with a terrific kick.

RIGADOON

From the stage play by CHARLES KNOX ROBINSON. A startling drama with new box-office and exploitation angles.

•

THAT'S GRATITUDE

From the New York Stage success by that brilliant author and actor, FRANK CRAVEN. A comedy as only Craven knows how to write them.

•

THE LEFT BANK

From the smash stage play by ELMER RICE, author of "Street Scene," "Counsellor at Law," etc.

•

DAUGHTERS OF THE SEA

A fascinating tale of the sea, with fifty of the best-formed and most beautiful girls in America in the cast.

•

MYRT AND MARGE

A smash box-office attraction built around the radio favorites of millions upon millions of listeners. From a story by WILLARD MACK.

NOTE: Universal will release thirty-six features for 1933-34. There are twenty-three listed here. Watch UNIVERSAL WEEKLY for further announcements.

6 KEN MAYNARD PRODUCTIONS

with

TARZAN

5

OF THE GREATEST SERIALS EVER PRODUCED

BUCK JONES

– IN –

GORDON OF GHOST CITY

Suggested by a story by PETER B. KYNE

•

The ADVENTURES of ANNE

The First Musical-Mystery-Thriller Ever Produced

•

RICHARD TALMADGE

– IN –

PIRATE TREASURE

•

The VANISHING SHADOW

•

The PERILS OF PAULINE

From the Story by Charles W. Goddard

BOX-OFFICE SHORT

Universal Newsreel

With GRAHAM McNAMEE, N. B. C. Ace, as the Talking Reporter

•

TWO-REEL COMEDIES

26 WARREN DOANE PRODUCTIONS

Real quality comedies starring such box-office personalities as LOUISE FAZENDA — JAMES GLEASON — VINCE BARNETT — HENRY ARMETTA — STERLING HOLLOWAY — EDDIE PEABODY and many others.

•

13 RADIO PERSONALITIES

Subjects presenting the biggest names in radio—voices known to millions brought to your theatre in the specialties that make them famous.

•

13 MENTONE MUSICAL SHORTS

Variety entertainment in its spiciest form. Famous folks from musical comedy, vaudeville, legitimate stage and radio doing their specialties for YOU.

PRODUCT

ONE-REEL SUBJECTS

26 OSWALD THE LUCKY RABBIT

The well-known and justly celebrated cartoon star in the funniest antics of his career!

•

13 STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

Oddities from all over the world to amaze and thrill. Backed by John Hix's drawing in scores of newspapers.

•

13 GOOFYTONE NEWSREEL

The newest and brightest and funniest idea on the screen. Screaming burlesques of "almost" news events.

•

7 AROUND THE WORLD WITH MARK HELLINGER

A trip to the most interesting and thrilling out-of-the-way spots of the globe with one of the most famous columnists in America.

"THE KING OF JAZZ"

No. 730 Straight-from-the-Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

Forget all your fears about a re-made, re-cut version of a great picture success.

Keep in mind one thing, namely, that "The King of Jazz" as newly issued by Universal is meeting with a hearty welcome and a sensational success wherever it is shown.

Note our experience, for instance, in Beaumont, Texas, where the Jefferson Amusement Company ran it three days to such exceptional business that it decided to give it preferred time on the whole circuit.

That is just one of our experiences. Nothing could speak more practically, from the box office angle, than this. It means that the exhibitor has found something he can grab hold of, exploit and make a good profit in so doing.

Pictures as good, as lavish, as elaborate and as rich as "The King of Jazz" are not being turned out in these days of depression.

All studios are fighting budgets with all their heart and soul because they are compelled to do so.

But when "The King of Jazz" was first produced, studio budgets were merely something to laugh at. We busted the budget into smithereens when we made it.

A GLORIOUS SUCCESS

We started out to make a picture for half a million dollars, but it kept getting bigger and better until we finally spent $1,750,000 on this baby. Yes, a million and three quarters!

It shows on the screen!

That's why I want you to judge it solely on what is in it in the form of entertainment, and not be hidebound by that funny old fear of re-issues.

Putting "The King of Jazz" out in its new form, with its new prints in full color, its riotous luxury, its gorgeous splendor was nothing short of a happy thought.

It will remind the people that there is happiness, and beauty in a world whlch has been all too solemn for three or four years. It will lift them up with its sheer stunningness and make them glad they are alive.

Packed full of radio and screen performers who have become famous and enormously popular, it gives you a hundred angles with which to advertise. Go to it and wake up your whole lot of fans!

Carl Laemmle

UNIVERSAL NEWS
From Universal City and London

Carl Laemmle Guest at Chicago Pageant

CARL LAEMMLE stayed over from the Universal convention at the Congress Hotel in Chicago. He was an honored guest at the Jewish Day pageant entitled "Romance of A People," which was held at Soldier's Field on July 3rd. Standing directly behind Mr. Laemmle is Chaim Weitzmann, Zionist leader. At Mr. Laemmle's left, in the white coat, is Judge Nathan Fischer and Governor Horner.

INTERESTED

YOU can't blame Paul Lukas. Here he is in the Lieutenant's uniform that he wears in "Secret of the Blue Room," and maybe he is divulging a secret to Diana Damerell, who plays "Marge" in the famous radio team of "Myrt and Marge," on a set at Universal City. Myrt and Marge are making a picture for Universal under the direction of Al Boasberg. It is being produced by Brian Foy. Its title for release has not been chosen. It was adapted from Willard Mack's play "My Lady's Legs."

• •

Laemmle, Jr. Throws Party for Ernst Udet

AMONG the 180 guests when the dauntless flyer of "S.O.-S. Iceberg" was given an informal "brunch," are the following: Rear row, standing: Carlos Borcosque, German Consul Gyssling, Lieut. John A. Macready, Col. Arthur Goebel, Capt. Irvine. Second row: Edward Everett Horton, Russell Simpson, Neil Hamilton, Ernst L. Frank, Chester Morris, Mabel Marden, Russ Colombo, Harold Lloyd, Joe E. Brown, Charlie Murray, Hugh Enfield, Major Udet, Clarence Brown, Carl Laemmle, Jr. and John Farrow. Seated: Anita Page, Mary Brian, June Knight, Madge Bellamy, Benita Hume, Mary Carlisle, Dorothy Burgess, Gloria Stuart, Maureen O'Sullivan, Alice Joyce.

Stars of "S. O. S. Iceberg" and "The Rebel" Do London

WHEN Rod LaRocque, star of "S.O.S. Iceberg," started back for Universal City, he decided to come all the way by water. He also decided to bring Vilma Banky with him. Miss Banky is one of the stars of "The Rebel," just to be released in this country, but already a tremendous rage in Europe. They embarked on the steamer Damsterdyk, bound for Los Angeles via Bermuda and the Panama Canal. They made a stop of two days in London, where they spent their time being interviewed and seeing the sights.

In the illustration at the top of this page, Rod is photographing Vilma on the top of the Savoy Hotel which commands a marvelous view of the Thames, with Cleopatra's Needle in the immediate foreground. Below, the stars of "The Rebel" and "S. O. S. Iceberg" are welcomed by Universal Pictures Ltd.'s publicity and exploitation department,—J. Leslie Williams, Bader and Cooper. As will be seen, Dave Bader has been to Hollywood and knows all of the posing technique, looking straight into the camera, however impolite this might seem to the lovely Vilma Banky. "The Rebel" is about to be previewed in London, and Vilma Banky was very anxious to stay over.

On A Dare

LONDON is in a bicycle craze. From a workman's necessity, it is on the verge of becoming a fashionable sport, as it was in the old days in this country. Rod LaRocque, star of "S.O.S. Iceberg," on a dare not only rode a bicycle around the square in front of the Savoy, but he did it in the rain, holding up an umbrella. In the photograph above, he is shown with Vilma Banky, featured with Luis Trenker in "The Rebel."

Use You

He gambled on the races against happiness—and won—and lost—and won again in a romance-drama that will hold you spellbound. See—
LEW AYRES
with GINGER ROGERS
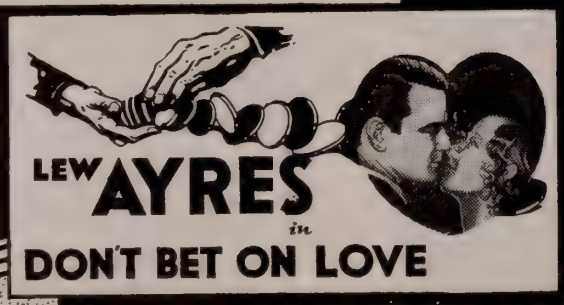
DON'T BET ON LOVE
It's 100 to 1 you'll like it!
With Shirley Grey, Charles Grapewin, Tom Dugan, Merna Kennedy, Lucille Gleason, Robert Emmett O'Connor. Screenplay by Murray Roth and Howard E. Rogers. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Murray Roth. Presented by Carl Laemmle. A UNIVERSAL PICTURE.

LEW AYRES
DON'T BET ON LOVE



LEW AYRES
in
DON'T BET ON LOVE

Happiness at stake with fast women and slow horses pitted against Youth in Life's greatest race!
100 to 1 you'll like it!
LEW AYRES in DONT BET ON LOVE
with
GINGER ROGERS
Shirley Grey, Charles Grapewin, Tom Dugan, Merna Kennedy, Lucille Gleason, Robert Emmett O'Connor. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Murray Roth. Presented by Carl Laemmle.
A UNIVERSAL PICTURE

Youth's Dramatic Gamble with Happiness!
LEW AYRES in DONT BET ON LOVE
with GINGER ROGERS
With Shirley Grey, Charles Grapewin, Tom Dugan, Merna Kennedy, Lucille Gleason, Robert Emmett O'Connor. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Murray Roth. Presented by Carl Laemmle.
A UNIVERSAL PICTURE

Press Sheet!

Here are reproductions of newspaper ads made direct from the press sheet on "Don't Bet On Love." Use them for all you're worth. You'll find ads for big or little campaigns, with a patron-pulling punch in every single ad!

LEW AYRES

DON'T BET ON LOVE

Slow horses and fast women pitted against Youth in Life's greatest race!

with GINGER ROGERS

Shirley Grey, Charles Grapewin, Tom Dugan, Merna Kennedy, Lucille Gleason, Robert Emmett O'Connor. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Murray Roth. Presented by Carl Laemmle. A UNIVERSAL PICTURE.

FAST HORSES got the plunging plumber into fast company...When he was "in the money" he hit life high, wide and handsome...The little girl who loved him didn't mean a thing any more ...But one slow horse and one fast woman taught him more about life in a few days than most folks see in a decade!

Lew AYRES

with GINGER ROGERS

in

Don't Bet on Love

With Shirley Grey, Charles Grapewin, Tom Dugan, Merna Kennedy, Lucille Gleason, Robert Emmett O'Connor. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Murray Roth. Presented by Carl Laemmle. A UNIVERSAL PICTURE.

LEW AYRES

DON'T BET ON LOVE

with GINGER ROGERS

Shirley Grey, Charles Grapewin, Tom Dugan, Merna Kennedy, Lucille Gleason, Robert Emmett O'Connor. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Murray Roth. Presented by Carl Laemmle. A UNIVERSAL PICTURE

LEW AYRES DON'T BET ON LOVE

LEW AYRES in DON'T BET ON LOVE

He gambled on the races against happiness—and won—and lost—and won again in a romance-drama that will hold you spellbound. See—

LEW AYRES

with GINGER ROGERS

DON'T BET ON LOVE

It's 100 to 1 you'll like it!

With Shirley Grey, Charles Grapewin, Tom Dugan, Merna Kennedy, Lucille Gleason, Robert Emmett O'Connor. Screenplay by Murray Roth and Howard E. Rogers. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Murray Roth. Presented by Carl Laemmle. A UNIVERSAL PICTURE.

CARL LAEMMLE

Presents

"MOONLIGHT AND PRETZELS"

a Romantic Musical Comedy

Produced under the Personal Supervision of STANLEY BERGERMAN

with a Distinguished Cast

STORY BY
SIG HERZIG AND ARTHUR JARRETT

Continuity by SIG HERZIG

a Rowland and Brice Production

●

CAST

SALLY	MARY BRIAN
NICK	LEO CARRILLO
GEORGE DWIGHT	ROGER PRYOR
POWELL	HERBERT RAWLINSON
ELSIE	LILLIAN MILES
BERTIE	BOBBY WATSON
MACK	WILLIAM FRAWLEY

Jack Denny and His Orchestra, Alexander Gray, Bernice Claire, Mary Lange, Max Stamm, James Carson, John Hundley, Richard Keene, Doris Carson, Frank and Milt Britton Band, The Four Eton Boys, Geraldine Dvorak, and Chorus of 50 of New York's Most Beautiful Show Girls

Directed by KARL FREUND

Dialogue Director
MONTE BRICE

Photographed by WILLIAM MILLER

Dances Staged by BOBBY CONNOLLY who staged "Good News," "Follow Thru," "Flyin' High," "Take A Chance" and all the Ziegfeld Shows for the last seven years.

MUSIC SUPERVISION by JAY GORNEY

Composer of "Americana," Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book" and "Merry Go Round."

MUSIC AND LYRICS by Jay Gorney and E. Y. Harburg

Who wrote "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime," "What Wouldn't I Do for That Man," "Isn't It Heavenly" and "A Girl in Your Arms is Worth Two in Your Dreams."

ADDITIONAL NUMBERS by

Herman Hupfeld — Who wrote "Let's Put Out the Light and Go to Sleep," "Sing Something Simple," and "When Yuba Plays the Tuba."

Sammy Fain — Who wrote "Was That the Human Thing to Do," "You Brought a New Kind of Love to Me," and "Let a Smile Be Your Umbrella."

Al Siegel — Who wrote "Hey, Hey," "Satan's Holiday" and "Get Hot."

●

MUSIC NUMBERS:

"DUSTY SHOES" by Harburg & Gorney. Sung by Alexander Gray.

"I TOOK YOUR PICTURE OFF THE DRESSER" by Al Siegel. Sung by Lillian Miles.

"AH, BUT IS IT LOVE?" by Gorney & Harburg. Sung by John Hundley.

"MOONLIGHT AND PRETZELS" by Gorney and Harburg. Sung by Stamm & Carson.

"BABY, IN YOUR HAT" by Gorney & Harburg. Sung by Roger Pryor.

"LET'S MAKE LOVE LIKE THE CROCODILES" by Gorney & Harburg. Sung by Roger Pryor.

"ARE YOU MAKING ANY MONEY." Words and Music by Herman Hupfeld. Sung by Lillian Miles.

"THERE'S A LITTLE BIT OF YOU IN EVERY LOVE SONG." Music by Sammy Fain. Words by E. Y. Harburg. Sung by Roger Pryor and Mary Brian.

"I GOTTA GET UP AND GO TO WORK." Words and music by Herman Hupfeld. Sung by Doris Carson and Richard Keene and company.

●

Sets by WALTER KELLER

Unique Lighting Effects by KARL FREUND

CARL LAEMMLE
Presents—
MO
P Beauty!
Music!
Romance!
Fifty Gorgeous Girls!
Six Big Song Hits!
Dozens of Stars!
Box-Office!

ONLIGHT AND RETZELS

A WILLIAM ROWLAND-MONTE BRICE Production

•

With ROGER PRYOR, MARY BRIAN, LEO CARILLO, Herbert Rawlinson, Lillian Miles, Bobby Watson, William Frawley, Alexander Gray, Bernice Claire, Jack Denny and his orchestra, Frank and Milt Britton and Band . . . Story by Sig Herzig and Arthur Jarrett . . . Screenplay by Sig Herzig . . . Dances staged by Bobby Connolly . . . Music supervision by Jay Gorney . . . Songs and lyrics by Jay Gorney, Herman Hupfeld, Al Seigel, Sammy Fain, E. Y. Harburg . . . Directed by Karl Freund . . . Dialogue direction by Monte Brice.

•

Produced under the personal supervision of Stanley Bergerman.

Pete Harrison says

That "THE REBEL" has "some melodrama in it that is more thrilling than that seen in other pictures for some time."

HARRISON'S Reports of July 1 carries an enthusiastic review of "The Rebel." In this review, he says: "There is some melodrama in it that is more thrilling than that seen in other pictures for some time. Tyroleans are shown defending their country against the invaders by letting loose dammed rocks on them down the mountainside, timing the hurling of these rocks so as to either fall on the passing soldiers or to block exit of these troops. The action unfolds in the days when Napoleon invaded Tyrol; yet the picture does not convey the impression of being a costume play except in the scenes where Napoleon's troops are seen in the action. There is sympathy for Trenker, who takes the part of the leader of the rebels, for Napoleon's soldiers had murdered his family for no valid reason. One feels sympathy also for Vilma Banky, for although she is the daughter of the magistrate, she risks even her life to give the hero, with whom she is in love, information about the invading troops. The scenes in which the hero is shown, disguised as a staff officer, attending the ball so as to dance with the heroine, are extremely suspensive; one holds his breath out of fear lest he be detected and arrested.

"The picture was photographed in the Tyrolean Alps, and shows some very beautiful natural scenery.

"The last part shows the Tyroleans battling desperately Napoleon's troops in an effort to drive out the invaders. But it is all in vain, for the invaders are too many for them.

"Good for the entire family."

Karloff Sign With Univers "Return Of

"THE MONSTER" will stalk the dark passage ways and village streets of Britain again.

Karloff, leading claimant to the crown of the late Lon Chaney, who won stardom by his uncanny performance as the man-made monster of "Frankenstein" nearly two years ago, has signed a new contract with Universal Pictures Corp. and will be starred next in "The Return of Frankenstein," Carl Laemmle, Jr. has announced.

The outstanding delineator of grotesque and weird screen characters Karloff returned to Hollywood a month ago after several months in England making "The Ghoul" and his appearance in "The Return of Frankenstein," will be his first on the American screen in nearly eight months.

Decision to make a sequel to the "FOUR WISE GIRLS" Is New Title Of "Lilies of Broadway"

THE "FOUR WISE GIRLS" Left to right: Dorothy Burgess, Mary Carlisle, Sally O'Neill, June Knight. Some kidnappers!

"FOUR WISE GIRLS" has just been selected as the release title for the musical play by William Hurlbut, called heretofore in the studio "Lilies of Broadway." It will mark June Knight's debut in moving pictures, to be followed shortly by the role she created on Broadway in "Take A Chance," for which she is flying back to New York next week.

The other three girls in support of this great box-office title are Mary Carlisle, Dorothy Burgess and Sally O'Neill. The balance of the cast includes Neil Hamilton, George E. Stone, Virginia Cherrill, Berton Churchill, Oscar Apfel, Richard Carle, Maude Eburne, Arthur Hoyt, Eddie Kane, Rosita Marstini, Allan Fox and Ken Howell. Music for the picture, which is being directed by E. A. Dupont, was written by Lynn Cowan. Sam A. Jacobson is the associate producer in charge.

New Contract ll: Will Make ankenstein" memorable "Frankenstein" with Karloff playing the role of the man created by science, was made after Tom Reed, Universal scenarist found the inspiration for a new story with even greater thrill possibilities than the original, in a certain chapter of the Mary Shelley horror novel written nearly 100 years ago. Reed not only wrote the original screenplay but also continuity and dialogue for "The Return of Frankenstein" and if present plans carry, Colin Clive, now back in London, after three trips to Hollywood, will cross the Atlantic again to play Frankenstein, the scientist, which he created on the screen. Whether Mae Clarke and John Boles will be re-engaged to play the roles they assumed in "Frankenstein" has not been determined by Mr. Laemmle, Jr.

"King of Jazz" Clicks

Variety Reports First Runs of Re-Juvenated Universal Musical Cleaning up in Widely Separated Situations

FEW pages of Variety are as carefully read by exhibitors as those which give box-office reports on new pictures in the principal cities of the United States. The current issue of Variety, out on Tuesday, was virtually a press book for "King of Jazz."

For instance, in Pittsburgh, "King of Jazz" was booked into the Shea-Hyde Fulton Theatre." Variety says:

"Another re-issue and another surprise click. Sky-rocketting house to $4,700 in spite of heat and lack of cooling system, which certainly is indicative of something. Pittsburgh had two surprises this week, both of them musicals and both of them re-issues. They proved the biggest kind of surprises, knocking all previous prognostications into cocked hat.

"The Fulton had 'King of Jazz,' off to a flying start, and showing signs of hitting above $4,600, a great figure with everything considered, while David had its biggest opening day of the summer with 'Sunny Side Up' —looks like a $3,300 week."

Again at the Grand Theatre in Cincinnati, Variety says of "King of Jazz:"

"Trade on opening day for this musical revival was best theatre registered for many weeks and rush continued over week-end. Looks like $2,800, with prospects of holding over for a second week. Front flash an artistic pip."

"In San Francisco at the United Artists Theatre, revival of 'King of Jazz' last week all right at $7,500."

"In Detroit at the Fisher, 'King of Jazz' okay at $5,500."

WESTERN UNION

NL PORTLAND OREGON
JUNE 15

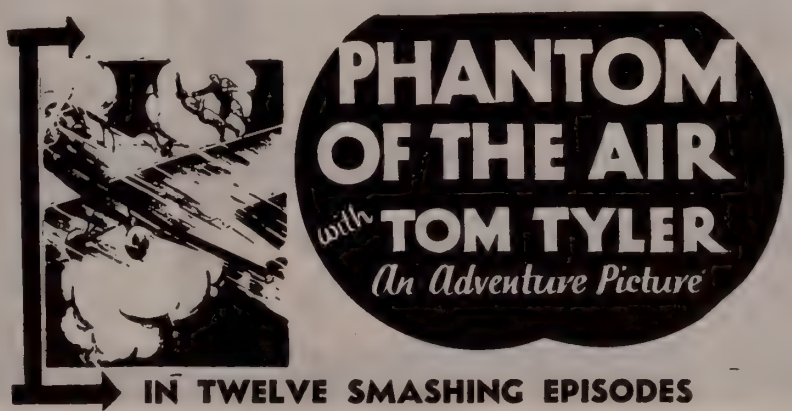
UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORP.
NEW YORK CITY

KING OF JAZZ OPENING TODAY THURSDAY LIBERTY PORTLAND TREMENDOUS STOP RECEIPTS MORE THAN TRIPLED AVERAGE THURSDAY PAST SIX MONTHS STOP HOMER GILT GAVE PICTURE SPECTACULAR CAMPAIGN WITH TYPICAL HOLLYWOOD PREMIER OPENING AUDIENCE REACTION MARVELOUS PRESS AND PUBLIC ACCLAIM PICTURE AS GREATEST OF ALL MUSICALS

REGARDS
A J O'KEEFE

Book The TOM MIX Pictures

NOW is the time to book Tom Mix pictures. The kids are home on vacation and father always did like 'em. There are eight Tom Mix pictures, and any one of them is worth playing in any theatre, and worth playing twice. Several have played on Broadway and they are the only Tom Mix pictures to be had for the millions of Tom Mix fans.



UNIVERSAL'S 10-STAR MYSTERY DRAMA

✚

LIONEL ATWILL
PAUL LUKAS
GLORIA STUART

EDWARD ARNOLD + ONSLOW STEVENS
WILLIAM JANNEY + RUSSELL HOPTON
ELIZABETH PATTERSON + MURIEL KIRKLAND + JAMES DURKIN in a compelling and suspenseful picture of the type that always means success at the box office!

✚

Screenplay by William Hurlburt. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Kurt Neumann. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

T OF THE ROOM

KARL FREUND DIRECTOR of the FROTHY GIRLEY, MUSICAL HIT
"MOONLIGHT and PRETZELS"

No. 30 of "Strange As It Seems" contains an unusual amount of interesting and unbelievable shots compiled by Nathan Hahn and Fairbanks from the famous newspaper cartoon by John Hix. It is graphically described as usual by Gayne Witman. It starts off with an interesting man who is upholding a family tradition.

John Hix, creator of "STRANGE AS IT SEEMS" draws the illustration for No. 30. It can be had for your lobby, from the Supply Department.

1. For 60 years various members of the family of Charles Gableman have held important offices in Waverly, Ohio. They have also been the town's newsboys. Gableman is now both the Mayor and the newsboy, the newsboy part being perhaps the most important with over 800 deliveries to be made every day.
2. The sacred bull of Japan draws thousands of people from all parts of the country every day. It is said to have strange healing properties so that when an afflicted part is toughed by the hand which rubbed the sacred bull, a miraculous cure is effected.
3. An unusual scene of the home life of the octopus. Mama octopus standing guard over the millions of eggs from which will presently emerge the baby octopii. Her sinuous tentacles weave in among the mass of eggs and pluck out all foreign matter or egg eating parasites. A microscopic view is shown of the embryo octopus inside the egg.
4. In Imperial Valley, California, where 100 degrees in in the shade is nothing unusual, a natural well of dry ice freezes any object brought near it. Its normal temperature is 110 degrees below zero.
5. The first pictures ever taken of the Hopi Indians as they perform their secret rites in an underground chamber in the region of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, include some remarkable views of the Canyon itself. The walls of the Canyon were formed by a river never on a higher level than it is now, the Colorado. The river never eats its way any lower because that part of the U. S. is constantly pushing upward.
6. The Yucca plant, a hardy form of cactus of our own western deserts, depends for its propagation on a tiny white moth. The moth cannot live without the plant.
7. The horned toad about whose longevity fabulous tales are supported by facts, is shown as it is being hermitically sealed in a brick mortar. Ninety days later, the brick is broken open, and Mr. Toad hops out, apparently none the worse for its imprisonment.
8. Mexico, land of queer foods, has one very popular delicacy which is cut from the heart of a form of Mexican cactus—soft little worms very much like a denuded American caterpiller. These worms are cooked in oil, done up in little packages and sold.
9. Arthur Hubell, an Oklahoma City youth, can expand his waist full 40 inches without any discomfort by the simple expedient of inserting the tube of an auto pump into his mouth and having himself pumped up.

THE VERY TOP

UNIVERSAL'S MARVELOUS TWO-REEL SPECIAL!

•

Edited by Allyn Butterfield.
Highlighted by the voice of GRAHAM McNAMEE.

The World's

IN SCREEN THRILLS!

THE very tiptop in screen thrills has at last been achieved!...No person anywhere has ever seen its equal . . . It is the very finest collection of daring and unique shots made, sometimes at the risk of life and limb, by those gay, nervy, ever-ready musketeers of the motion picture business—the newsreel camera men...It is the grandest of entertainment...It is all true, real, right from life . . .While you and your fans sit safely in your theatre, you will view events which were photographed at terrific hazard and under the most trying conditions...You will see the biggest thrills in modern history just as they happened—not faked, but so real as to bowl you over . . . If you want to be in first on probably the greatest sensation of recent years, get an early booking on "The World's Greatest Thrills" and then advertise it for all you are worth!

Real Variety of Action Makes Good Western

KING of the ARENA

UNIVERSAL WESTERN

Hollywood Herald

Ken Maynard has delivered here a western that combines the customary hard-riding melodrama with some Wild West Show performances, including bucking bronchos, roping stunts and hippodrome races. Ken has learned a lot about what is considered standard Western entertainment, and he keeps this moving consistently enough to make it register as a very good Western.

The story is one of those things about Ken's conflict with the murderous gang of bank robbers known as the "Black Death." Ken comes back to his old position as star of a Wild West Show while still serving as a "ranger" because he suspects that some men in the show have something to do with the criminal gang.

Of course, there is the charming young lady, Lucille Browne who interests Ken, and finally she is kidnapped and he has to rescue her in a grand melodramatic fight, embellished with hard riding, action, a gun battle in the mountain pass and even an airplane that uses a machine gun trying to kill Ken. As an added touch, Ken uses the slingshot belonging to his young buddy to shoot some nitroglycerine at the airplane, and he makes a perfect bullseye—which finishes that!

The house in the woods where the leader of the "Black Death" held forth had trick compartments, trap doors, a periscope and a laboratory filled with high explosives. What more could anyone ask for a spot to stage the grand knock-'em-down-and-drag-'em-out fight which always properly concludes the rescue of the fair lady in a good Western?

Because this moves away from the action formula of cattle thieves and barroom conspirators who work for the young lady's father, and becomes the Wild West Show offers some good entertaining action, this rates much better as a good movie than many more costly production that have more elaborate sets, production values and other trimmings, but lack movement and basic elements.

"Be Mine Tonight" Keeps Minne

Al Steffes Putting in $30,00

in 13th Week of

WITH two houses completing their thirteenth week and going as strong as ever, "Be Mine Tonight" is more and more the sensation of the year. There is no let-up in the business of Al Steffes' World Theatre in Minneapolis. The only difficulty is that Minneapolis is getting pretty hot. This theatre always closes in the summer. With the proceeds of this run and the promise of its indefinite continuance, Mr. Steffes decided to keep the theatre open all summer instead of closing as he usually does the latter part of June. With this decision, he bought himself a $30,000 cooling plant and is right now installing it.

There is no telling how long "Be Mine Tonight" will run in Minneapolis, with the conditions made so ideally suited to it. It is a certainty that every theatre-goer in Minneapolis will have seen "Be Mine Tonight" before it closes. Many of them have already seen it five and six times.

One of the amusing commentaries on the run is in connection with passes. A lot of pains was taken with these passes to make them look individual and important. They were all of that. Last week, after seeing the picture five and six times, the holders of these passes began to accuse Mr. Steffes of holding out on them by keeping "Be Mine Tongiht" in the theatre so long. What is the use of a gold-plated pass in a leather case

Sterling Holloway

"HE COULDN'T TAKE IT."

STERLING HOLLOWAY

KAY DESLYS

Among the most consistently successful show fillers of last year were the series of twenty-six comedies produced by Warren Doane. They were not arty, they were not over people's heads. There was humor, spice and splendid entertainment in these—

UNIVERSAL REEL COMEDIES

From the Moti

Four Times Average Business

"COHENS" AND 'SCANDALS' BIG IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, June 29.—George White's "Scandals" at popular prices coupled with "The Cohens and the Kellys in Trouble" culled $18,000, or more than four times average business at the Hippodrome.

"THE COHENS AND THE KELLYS IN TROUBLE" (Univ.)

HIPPODROME—(3,800), 25c 50c. 7 days. Gross: $18,000. (Average, $4,000.)

apolis House Open All Summer

Cooling Plant in World Theatre

Unprecedented Run

when you have already seen the picture four and five times?

In Los Angeles, the Filmart Theatre is still packing them in, also in its thirteenth week, with no sign of any letdown whatever.

"OUT ALL NIGHT," Great Film

SILSBEE TEXAS

UNIVERSAL FILM CO
308 SOUTH HARWOOD DALLAS TEXAS
OUT ALL NIGHT IS TAILOR MADE FOR ANY THEATRE IN ANY TOWN BETTER THAN NINE OUT OF TEN HIGH PRICED SPECIALS MORE LAUGHS THAN ANY HAROLD LLOYD I HAVE EVER SEEN AND IVE SEEN THEM ALL THANKS FOR THE BEST BOX OFFICE PICTURE IVE RUN IN MANY A MOON

WALTER STOEPPLEMAN PALACE THEATRE

Picture Daily

PORTLAND, July 6.—"King of Jazz" at the Liberty in the second week had an intake of $3,000, or $1,000 over average. Also in its second week at Hamrick's Oriental" Be Mine Tonight" grossed $3,400, or $1,100 over average, and was moved to the "Blue Mouse" and continued for a third week's run. Other houses were average and under.

Total first run business $16,200. Average is $15,300.

Estimated takings for the week ending June 30:

"BE MINE TONIGHT"

HAMRICK'S ORIENTAL — (2,040), 25c-35c, 2nd week, 7 days, Gross: $3,400. (Average, $2,300.)

"THE LITTLE GIANT" (F. N.)

UNITED ARTISTS—(945), 25c-35c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $5,000. (Average, $5,000.)

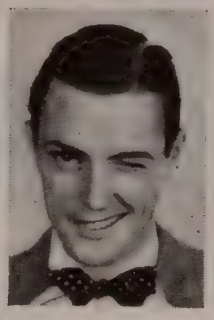
"KING OF JAZZ" (Univ.)

LIBERTY—(1,800), 15c-25c, 2nd week, 7 days. Gross: $3,000. (Average, $2,000.)

"HE COULDN'T TAKE IT."

Holloway's First

DOROTHY WARD



EDDIE NUGENT

Now comes a new star in the two-reel comedy field. He is Sterling Holloway of the sad sad eyes and chysanthemum hair. In his first comedy, "He Couldn't Take It," he is supported by Dorothy Ward, Key Deslys and Eddie Nugent. It is a

UNIVERSAL TWO REEL COMEDY

Universal Praised for Best Record

IN this reviving period of moving pictures, praise such as Mrs. McClure has showered upon Universal is sweet, indeed.

This praise is contained in a letter to Henry Herbel, manager of Universal's Chicago exchange, and congratulates Universal upon producing so many pictures on what she refers of as the family type. Family type pictures are going to be mighty popular this year, as a return to normalcy on the part of picture producers. There have been too many salacious dramas, too many unrelieved sex pictures, and too much sophistication in the films.

Appended to Mrs. McClure's letter there was a list comprising the number of pictures from each company reviewed. The pictures were made by nine different companies. Out of the pictures reviewed from Universal, exactly fifty percent were classified as "for the family."... No other company had an average of above 33-1/3%, and one of them was as low as six percent. No wonder Universal is to be congratulated.

Here is Mrs. McClure's letter:

THE BETTER FILM COUNCIL OF CHICAGO AND COOK COUNTY

June 29, 1933

UNIVERSAL PICTURES,
CHICAGO.

My dear Mr. Herbel:

Yesterday at the Annual Meeting of the Better Films Council of Chicago and Cook County a report was made that I thought might be of interest to you and your organization.

Of the 290 pictures reviewed by our previewers during this past year twenty-six were Universal productions. Of this number thirteen were classed as Family pictures. Knowing that we are particularly concerned with that type of entertainment, I wanted to pass on to you the very great appreciation of the Better Films Council for the policy of Universal Films to make clean entertainment for the family.

We shall always be happy to assist you in any way that we can and shall wish for you and your organization a most successful production year, which I believe is just ahead.

Most cordially,
(Signed) Mrs. Richard McClure,
President.

The Sure-Fi
Team In T
Picture Of T

SLIM SUMMER
ZASU PI
in

HER FIRS

e Box-Office
he Funniest heir Career!

VILLE
TTS

With Una Merkel, Henry Armetta, Berton Churchill, Warren Hymer, George Marion . . . From the stage play by Daniel Jarrett and John Golden. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by William Wyler. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

T MATE

SHOWMANSHIP

A DIGEST OF THE BEST EXPLOITATION IDEAS OF THE WEEK

Here Comes "MOONLIGHT AND PRETZELS"

Grand For Exploitation and Stunning Showmanship!

As this is being written the final cutting is being given to Universal's smash musical production "MOONLIGHT and PRETZELS." And WHAT a picture that is going to be for Showmen! Tuned right to the minute—reaching the public at the very peak of the demand for musical's—containing many novel production angles that will make the public talk—packed with eye-appeal and ear-appeal as well—"MOONLIGHT AND PRETZELS" is bound to be the summer's most talked about release.

So we're passing on to you a few of the high-spots of this picture so that you can start in RIGHT THIS MINUTE to plan your campaign on it and get your advance working for you at once.

The CAST is made up of STAGE and RADIO as well as SCREEN stars. Look it over: Roger Pryor (he starred in "Blessed Event" to the stage); Mary Brian; Leo Carillo (now he's famous on the radio as well as the screen); Lillian Miles (wait'll you hear her sing those blues); Herbert Rawlinson; Alexander Gray (that great radio singer); 4 Eton Boys; Bernice Clair; Jack Denny and his Waldorf-Astoria Orchestra; Frank and Milt Britton orchestra and others which lack of space prevents us mentioning.

IN ADDITION YOU HAVE 50 OF NEW YORK'S MOST BEAUTIFUL SHOW GIRLS PICKED BY FAMOUS ARTISTS FROM THE OUTSTANDING MUSICAL HITS OF THIS SEASON.

IN ADDITION YOU HAVE 8 HIT SONGS SPECIALLY COMPOSED FOR THIS PICTURE—WRITTEN BY THE ACE SUCCESS SONGSTERS OF TODAY!

NATIONWIDE RADIO NETWORKS ARE ALREADY BEGINNING TO POPULARIZE THESE TUNES FOR YOU . . . "I've Gotta Get Up and Go To Work" (by the composers of "Brother Can You Spare A Dime"), "Dusty Shoes," "Ah, But Is It Love?" "Moonlight and Pretzels," "Are You Makin' Any Money?", etc.

There will be nationwide Mary Brian and Lillian Miles style tie-ups with the greatest department stores; Shirt, hat and neckwear tie-ups on Pryor; pretzel and beer tie-ups; special music ballyhoos and a score of exploitation angles that will be a cinch to put over. We'll tell you more later.

Pencil "MUSIC AND PRETZELS" in now for some of your famous special handling. It's one of those pictures you're going to "shoot the works" on! And you're going to be glad you did!

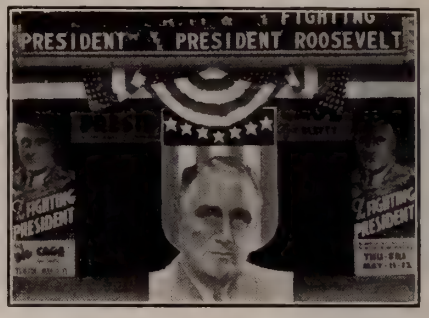
JOE WEIL

"CLANCY" CONTEST PEPS ROXBURY KIDDIES

Using three publicity mats, Saul Goldstein, manager, printed up a special contest herald for his campaign on "Clancy of the Mounted," Adventure serial, playing at the Ideal Theatre, Roxbury, Mass.

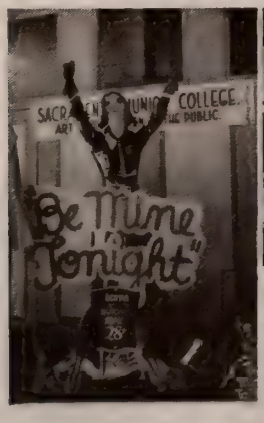
Prizes of a pair of roller skates, a baseball and a bat and free tickets to the theatre, were offered boys and girls who could name the characters in the pictures and tell the episode in which the action took place. As helpful hints for the contestants, Goldstein listed the chapter titles and the names of the characters in the film.

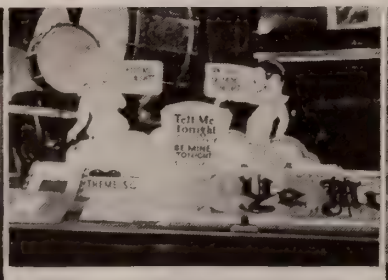
Poster Cut-outs Make Front



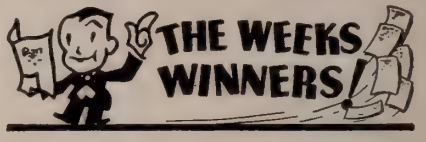
Poster cut-outs used by Abe Cohen, manager, for his "Fighting President" display at the Massena Theatre, Massena, N. Y. Just a few days before the opening Mrs. Roosevelt stopped off for a visit in Massena and Cohen covered his attraction sign with a big welcome banner. The immense popularity of "The Fighting President" makes exploitation easy for the picture. Smart showmen everywhere are playing up this timely feature to the limit.

3 OF 3 DOZEN SACRAMENTO "BE MINE" WINDOWS





C. Heaton, of the Sierra Theatre, Sacramento, Calif., landed three dozen window displays for his campaign on "Be Mine Tonight." Above are reproduced three of them. Note the use of poster cut-outs and the cartoon display in the centre window.



Once more we present a list of four wide awake managers whose work in exploiting Universal pictures has won them UNIVERSAL WEEKLY CERTIFICATES OF MERIT. Here they are:

HERMAN C. BAMBERGER, manager, Taft's Paramount Theatre, Middletown, O., for his unusual display on "The Big Cage."

ARTHUR FREUDENFELD, manager of RKO Downtown Theatre, Detroit, Mich., for his "hall of mirrors" lobby on "The Kiss Before the Mirror."

HOMER GILL, manager of the Liberty Theatre, Portland, Ore., for an exceptional campaign on "The King of Jazz."

AL HARRIS, manager of the Avalon Theatre, Olympia, Washington, for very successful exploitation of "Be Mine Tonight."

Congratulations, men! Your certificates are in the mail!

SICCARDI STEPS OUT ON "BE MINE" CAMPAIGN FOR HOLD-OUT OPENING AT LIBERTY, PLAINFIELD

BY boosting his campaign budget for newspapers and direct mailing, Joseph Siccardi, manager of the Liberty Theatre, Plainfield, N. J., put over an attention-getting campaign on "BE MINE TONIGHT" that resulted in a hold-out opening and fine business for the week, despite the intolerable hot weather.

Post cards reached every one of the ten thousand homes listed in the phone book well in advance of the opening. This was followed with a house to house distribution of five thousand heralds made by Boy Scout troop leaders on bicycles.

German, Polish and Italian organizations were reached through foreign language newspapers and special letters to the members. Music and social clubs and fraternal organizations were circularized with a letter.

The posting of 24 sheets, 3 sheets and window cards and the placing of several special window displays, completed the campaign. Albert S. Nathan, Universal exploiteer, assisted Siccardi on the exploitation.

Attractive front display used by Sherrill Cohen, manager of the Tremont Theatre, Boston, Mass., for the engagement of "Be Mine Tonight."

SOLD PLAINFIELD!

A neat three column by nine inch display. One of the series of large space newspaper ads used by Joseph Siccardi in his "Be Mine Tonight" campaign at the Liberty Theatre, Plainfield, N. J.

SOBLER'S "BE MINE" CAMPAIGN CASHES IN ON THREE SANTA BARBARA CONVENTIONS

BEN SOBLER, manager of the California Theatre, Santa Barbara, Calif., took good advantage of three conventions held during his run of "BE MINE TONIGHT."

On his opening day the town started their celebration of Fleet Week, during which they entertained 10,000 sailors and officers. An arrangement made through the Chamber of Commerce resulted in an announcement to the sailors of additional shore leave privileges for those men who wished to attend Sobler's Navy Midnight Matinee.

Announcements of the engagement were made at all sessions of the district convention of the Lions Club as well as at the sessions of the convention being held by the District Attorneys of California.

Word of mouth advertising was started with a morning preview the day before the opening. This was attended by local music leaders and other prominent persons. Station KDB broadcast the hit song, "Tell Me Tonight," daily for a week in advance of the opening. The number was preceded by an announcement of the engagement at the California Theatre of "BE MINE TONIGHT." Sobler also broadcast the song from his lobby in advance and during the run.

The mailing of letters to music lovers, the distribution of several thousand heralds, and a score of window displays on the music, completed the campaign. Ben Westland, Universal exploiteer, assisted.

Entertainment Insurance Policy For "Be Mine"

Providing entertainment insurance to a selected list of patrons in each town proved a seat-selling idea for H. A. McClure, district manager for Fox Theatres in Kansas, in his circuit campaign for "BE MINE TONIGHT."

The stunt was a variation of the money back guarantee, but was handled in such a way that it roused enthusiastic interest in every one of the fourteen openings on which it was used. Attached to each letter was a coupon, printed on "bank note" paper, insuring the holder against wasting his money on poor entertainment. Box-offices were kept open until after the last show so that any patron who so desired, could take advantage of the insurance and get his money back. McClure did not have to redeem a single coupon!

BEST ADS OF THE WEEK

(1.) Playing up Banky and spectacle in 2 columns x 8½″ from Alhambra, Milwaukee. (2.) Strong two column x 5″ from Filmarte, Los Angeles. (3.) Cartoon treatment in 2 columns x 5″ from Palace, Cleveland. (4.) Liberty, Seattle sells Mix big in 2 columns x 10″. (5.) Smash opening announcement in 2 columns x 15″ from State, Spokane, Wash. (6.) New Roxy, Seattle uses title hot-spot in 2 columns x 10″. (7.) Third week ad in double column x 5½″ from Aldine, Philadelphia. (8.) Attractive 2 column x 8″ ad from Blue Mouse, Portland featuring a third week hold over. (9.) Three column x 8″ from Lyceum, Minneapolis. (10.) United Artists, San Francisco announcement of the return of the King of Musicals in 2 columns x 12″.

THE REBEL

Starring
LUIS
TRENKER

•

"This picture is worth seeing twice," says Nancy Lee in the Milwaukee Journal. "It has romance of a high type; it brims with action. It has a story . . . The scenes have some of the year's supreme camera triumphs . . . It is what they call a 'natural' in the theatre."

•

With VILMA BANKY, Victor Varconi. Directed by Edwin Knopf and Luis Trenker. Presented by Carl Laemmle.
A UNIVERSAL SPECIAL

Pete Harrison says: "Thrilling —Unusual —good for the entire family!"

LARRY EDMUNDS, INC.
CINEMA BOOKSHOP
HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.

From

UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORP.

730 FIFTH AVENUE

NEW YORK CITY

ROBERT B WENNER
22 CROSS ST
MALDEN MASS

Sec. 562, P. L. & R.
U. S. POSTAGE
Paid
New York, N. Y.
Permit No. 949

Major Ernst Udet,

German war ace and fearless hero of the skies, whose daring and breath-taking stunts are just one thrilling part of the dramatic picture—

S. O. S. ICEBERG

Printed in U. S. A.

Universal Weekly

BRITISH EDITION
VOL. 33 ★ ★ No. 2
AUGUST 26th, 1933

Vilma Banky
supporting Luis Trenker
in "THE REBEL"

Slim SUMMERVILLE and Zasu PITTS

"HER in FIRST MATE"

A Riot at its London Trade Show!

Faster .... Funnier than "They Had To Get Married" and "Out All Night"

Karl Freund, director of

"MOONLIGHT and MELODY"

(Trade Show: Tuesday, August 29th, Prince Edward Theatre, 8.30 p.m.)

POUR GOLD

No. 711 Straight-from-the-Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, Chairman, Universal Pictures, Ltd.

One of the best showmanship stunts in the world is to do just the opposite from what the people anticipate.

Shock 'em!

It's an old idea and it never fails to work.

Right now, the people of the world are saving, stinting, scrimping, cheating themselves down to the last penny. They are living on the very least they can spend.

Exactly now is the time to shock them with a display of lavishness, richness, gorgeousness and expense!

Show them the "King of Jazz."

Startle them with the picture that cost nearly four hundred thousand pounds to produce.

Stun them with the eye-filling beauty of womanhood, costume and scenery which none but John Murray Anderson would have the creative imagination to produce and none but a reckless producer (in them thar good old days) would have the nerve to pay for!

OVER THEM

One of the greatest numbers ever staged — "The Song of the Dawn" — with the voice of John Boles augmented by an outstanding male chorus — in its very self is a big show. It will haunt your memory and delight your soul.

Another magnificent piece is "The Melting Pot" in which the choruses of all nations, in costumes and colourings that will fairly stun you, stage a never-to-be-forgotten pageant which words cannot hope to describe.

The whole production is better than originally. It has been snapped up. It is all like a flow of gold and precious jewels.

It comes at a time when the people had forgotten that there ever was such a thing as luxury and grandeur.

It comes at a time to gladden their eyes and make them realize that this old world has beauty and happiness and cheer in it in spite of any signs to the contrary.

Dump this golden flood on the laps of your fans and whip up your advertising campaign to fit the occasion.

Carl Laemmle

What a Letter!

PARADE CINEMA
MARGATE

Telephone - - MARGATE 299

July 31, 1933

Dear Mr. Ditcham,

As you will see by the returns, we have done very excellent business with "THE BIG CAGE" this week, but it will interest you to know, I am sure, that these exceptional figures were netted during the hottest weather of the year.

"THE BIG CAGE" is a really fine film and one of the very few I have played which have beaten the weather.

Let me thank you for providing a picture, together with a publicity campaign to back it up, which absolutely beat every opposition, including brilliant sunshine.

Yours sincerely,

W. L. Johns.

UNIVERSAL ENDLESS CO-OPERATIVE DEALS TO HELP CINEMAS

Tremendous Tie-up With Kodak Latest Scheme

NATION-WIDE tie-ups, bringing Universal's stars and pictures before millions of English men and women regularly each week, both through paid advertising spaces and editorial columns, have recently been completed by the Laemmle English company.

The greatest beauty product company in the British Isles, Messrs. Icilma, devotes a large space in their national advertising and publicity exclusively to Universal stars and their films, their paid advertising schedule being in the region of £100,000 a year. An associated company in the giant Lever combine, Atkinson's hair cream, also devotes much space to Lew Ayres in connection with the product.

The "Sunday Pictorial" with its circulation of nearly 2,000,000 is running a splash two-page feature weekly on "The Big Cage," Clyde Beatty's vivid story on which the Universal film was based, while Messrs. Appleton, the publishers, have a special edition of "The Big Cage" book in circulation. Further newspaper publicity of excellent value is being given by the "Sunday Dispatch," through its serialisation of the life story of Victor McLaglen, star of Universal's "Laughing at Life," which recently played a two-weeks premiere at the Regal Theatre, W. The McLaglen newspaper life story reads like the story of the star's latest film, insofar as both stories tell of a world-wanderer who falls into and manages to laugh his way out of a hundred-and-one dare-devil adventures.

"The Mummy," Karloff's current Universal release, is also getting big spaces in the new Kodak film stock advertising campaign in the national and leading provincial Press and it is likely that "The Big Cage" will also be included soon.

A further publicity arrangement of inestimable value is the tie-up with the "Daily Express" Northern Edition and the "Scottish Daily Express" for the Universal British Talking News. Under the terms of the arrangement, the two "Express" daily publications, which cover half the British Isles, publicise and advertise the newsreel, two 12-inch advertisements per week being devoted by each edition to the Universal newsreel, which is growing rapidly.

One of many posters issued in giant tie-up.

"INVISIBLE MAN"

Almost 100% British

Universal's British-adapted British story, "The Invisible Man," will be almost as British as an Elstree production before it is finished, judging by the way home talent is being signed at Universal City.

Crauford Kent is the latest English-born player to join the cast, others being Claude Rains (title role) Una O'Connor, Merle Tottenham, Donald Stuart, Forrester Harvey and Dudley Digges. Gloria Stuart is the leading lady with William Harrigan, Henry Travers and Harry Stubbs featured.

Other English angles to the film are its story origin—H. G. Wells—its direction by James Whale and its adaptation by R. C. Sherriff.

Production is almost finished.

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors of the U.K.

Published by Universal Pictures, Ltd., Film House, Wardour Street, London, W.1

S. F. Ditcham, Managing Director

Editors:
David Bader
J. Leslie Williams

Vol. 33 August 26, 1933 No. 2

Tivoli Books "World's Greatest Thrills"

Universal's Epic of Newsreel Work to Play Gaumont Circuit

Universal's "The World's Greatest Thrills," an epic of the newsreel cameraman's daring, has been booked for a premiere at the Tivoli Theatre, Strand, announces Mr. S. F. Ditcham. Following the premiere the film will play the Gaumont-P.C.T. circuit.

"The World's Greatest Thrills" is a clever compilation of the many thrilling scoops obtained by Universal cameramen all over the world, from taking shots under fire in the recent Shanghai warfare to photographing sky-scraper fires, floods, land, sea and air disasters, the most remarkable item of which is possibly the sinking of a German battleship.

THE REBEL

— unprecedented bookings following the record-breaking two-weeks run at the Regal Theatre, London! (During the hottest fortnight in years).

A UNIVERSAL SUPER

WITH

LUIS TRENKER, VILMA BANKY, VICTOR VARCONI

JAMES WHALE STAYS WITH UNIVERSAL FOR LONG TERM

Carl Laemmle, Jr., has advised S. F. Ditcham that he has re-signed James Whale on a further contract which will keep him employed in Universal City, Hollywood, for at least a year.

Whale, who made "Journey's End," has directed "Waterloo Bridge," "The Impatient Maiden," "Frankenstein," "The Old Dark House" and "The Kiss Before the Mirror," all of which have been shown publicly in England, for Universal, and is now making "The Invisible Man," with Claude Rains, Una O'Connor, Merle Tottenham, Dudley Digges, Donald Stuart and other English artistes and Gloria Stuart, Henry Travers, William Harrigan and Forrester Harvey, Americans, in the cast.

The story is of course from H. G. Wells' famous novel and was adapted by R. C. Sherriff.

James Whale is on the left, with S. F. Ditcham on the right, a photograph taken during Whale's visit to London.

AMY AND JIM FILMED BY "U"

Newsreel Achievement

With the publication of the pictures of the Mollison crash on their landing in America in the Universal British Talking News, Universal add yet another newsreel achievement to their already formidable list.

The way in which the pictures were received makes cinema history.

Immediately on hearing of the crash, Mr. S. F. Ditcham cabled to New York for a rush negative. The result was that, finding the Bremen had already sailed, Universal's New York office flew a copy of the film to the boat and delivered it from the air. To complete the special attempt at speedy delivery, a seaplane was launched from the Bremen while the boat was still a good distance from British shores and a copy of the newsreel film flown to England, arriving 20 hours ahead of the Bremen.

The film is unusually graphic and gives vivid impressions of the way in which the Mollisons arrived and the anxiety of the Bridgeport authorities to do everything in their power for the stricken aviators.

(Reprinted from "Onlooker's" Gossip column in "The Cinema.")

U's Press Breaks

Must congratulate Universal on getting the big Press breaks these days, what with the "Daily Express" regularly publicising and advertising the newsreel and a good part of the last "Sunday Pictorial" devoted to Universal's picture interests.

The "Pictorial" is of course giving big space to "The Big Cage," the story on which the film was based. On top of that I noticed a good middle-page picture break on the success of the Adelphi, Slough's, wagon in the local trade advertising parade. The wagon, an elaborate affair, complete with displays and a group of gaily costumed circus performers, as well as live bears and monkeys, was devoted to "The Big Cage," which is playing at the house this week.

On the top of which I spotted a neat four-column spread devoted to the Great Barrier Reef, many oddities in the cartoon being featured in Universal's Great Barrier Reef nature series. Nice work and all good for the industry.

"LAUGHING AT LIFE" BOOKING STRONGLY

Universal's Mascot Production, "Laughing at Life," is showing its box office strength everywhere, judging from bookings which are coming in to Film House each day.

"Laughing at Life" is the 20 star picture which strong cast is headed by Victor McLaglen, Noah Beery, Lois Wilson and others.

"Era" Reviews

VICTOR McLAGLEN'S "LAUGHING AT LIFE"

A vehicle to carry the big boy, Victor McLaglen, into scrapes, hairbreadth and otherwise, all round the world.

Each adventure means another alias. The incident developed mainly here is the making and unmaking of a revolution in a South American Ruritania.

Noah Beery and Regis Toomey have smallish parts. Fast and funny, and will find favour among all fans.

"Laughing at Life." Universal. Director, Ford Beebe. Cast as above. Certificate "U." Length 6,342 feet. General appeal: Very good.—H.H.H.

ONLY FROM UNIVERSAL CAN YOU GET ☆ TOM MIX PIX! ☆

KING O
LOOK WHA
JOHN BOLES
BING CROSBY
JEANIE LANG
SLIM SUMMERVILLE
• • •
Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr.
Directed by John Murray Anderson
Presented by Carl Laemmle
A UNIVERSAL PICTURE.
STEP OUT WITH UNIVERSAL

F. JAZZ

T YOU GET!

THE RHYTHM BOYS • LAURA LA PLANTE
JEANETTE LOFF .. .. THE SISTERS "G"
BROX SISTERS .. .. .. NANCY TORRES
MERNA KENNEDY .. .. WILLIAM KENT
CHARLES IRWIN .. .. .. NELL O'DAY
STANLEY SMITH .. .. .. HARRY BARRIS
RUSSELL MARKERT DANCERS and scores of other stage, screen and radio stars

• • •

The most glorious musical ever produced . . . . Filmed entirely in Technicolour . . Reissued when you need it most! Presenting—

PAUL WHITEMAN

AND HIS BAND—BING CROSBY and others!

UNIVERSAL SERIALS

are money-makers!

"The Lost Special"

"Phantom of the Air"

"Clancy of the Mounted" and other big ones! Play them—and get ready for the 1933-34 smashers!!

Photos of theatres where "The Mummy" was given excellent exploitation.

"THE MUMMY" CONTINUES TO PILE UP RECORDS EVERYWHERE

"The Rebel" Does Sensational Business At Premiere Run

Bumper Bank Holiday business was reported from the Regal Theatre, Marble Arch where Universal's greatly acclaimed spectacular romance, "The Rebel," opened up for its British premiere run.

Mr. Will Pepper, General Manager of the Regal, stated that probably the most remarkable aspect of "The Rebel" business was the way in which large queues formed each day before the opening at noon. Not only that, he said, but as the temperature soared in the hottest Bank Holiday for years, the box office receipts soared similarly, due, to a large extent, to the fact that Londoners are conscious of being able to enjoy modern cinema programmes in coolness and comfort, despite torrid street temperatures.

The reaction to Vilma Banky's return to the screen has been unusually fine, Mr. Pepper adds, and the film has made a big hot-weather hit. The national Press critics have given a welcome to "The Rebel" which few modern films have enjoyed. Vilma Banky, the ingenious and stirring spectacle and the great romance each receiving high praise.

Theatre Royal Gives "The Mummy" Royal Showing

Notwithstanding the heat wave, F. Basil Boddington, general manager for Universal, at the Theatre Royal, Bolton, in spite of strong counter-attractions, reaped the benefit of a wide campaign for "The Mummy" (Universal).

Special throwaways were distributed, a lobby and foyer display of Egyptian relics shown, circulars sent to local Egyptologists, talks made to Bolton boys and girls on the lore of Egypt, tie-ups effected in linen, scarab ornaments, kneeling mats—as used in Egypt—books on travel in Egypt and the Sudan, travel tours in the East, and many other angles.

The house interior and presentation was specially made to fit the picture, so that the atmosphere of the film fitted in with the atmosphere of the theatre, especially in-so-far as the closing sequences of the film were concerned.

Mr. Boddington, having travelled and hunted in Egypt and the Sudan, was most fitted to exploit such a vehicle, and the business that accrued proved that the angles exploited were of real showmanship value.

Big Birmingham Campaign for "The Mummy" Wins Acclaim

Manager F. Hardy has been awarded a Certificate of Showmanship by Universal for his remarkable campaign. It will be remembered that with each certificate a cheque for one guinea is also awarded.

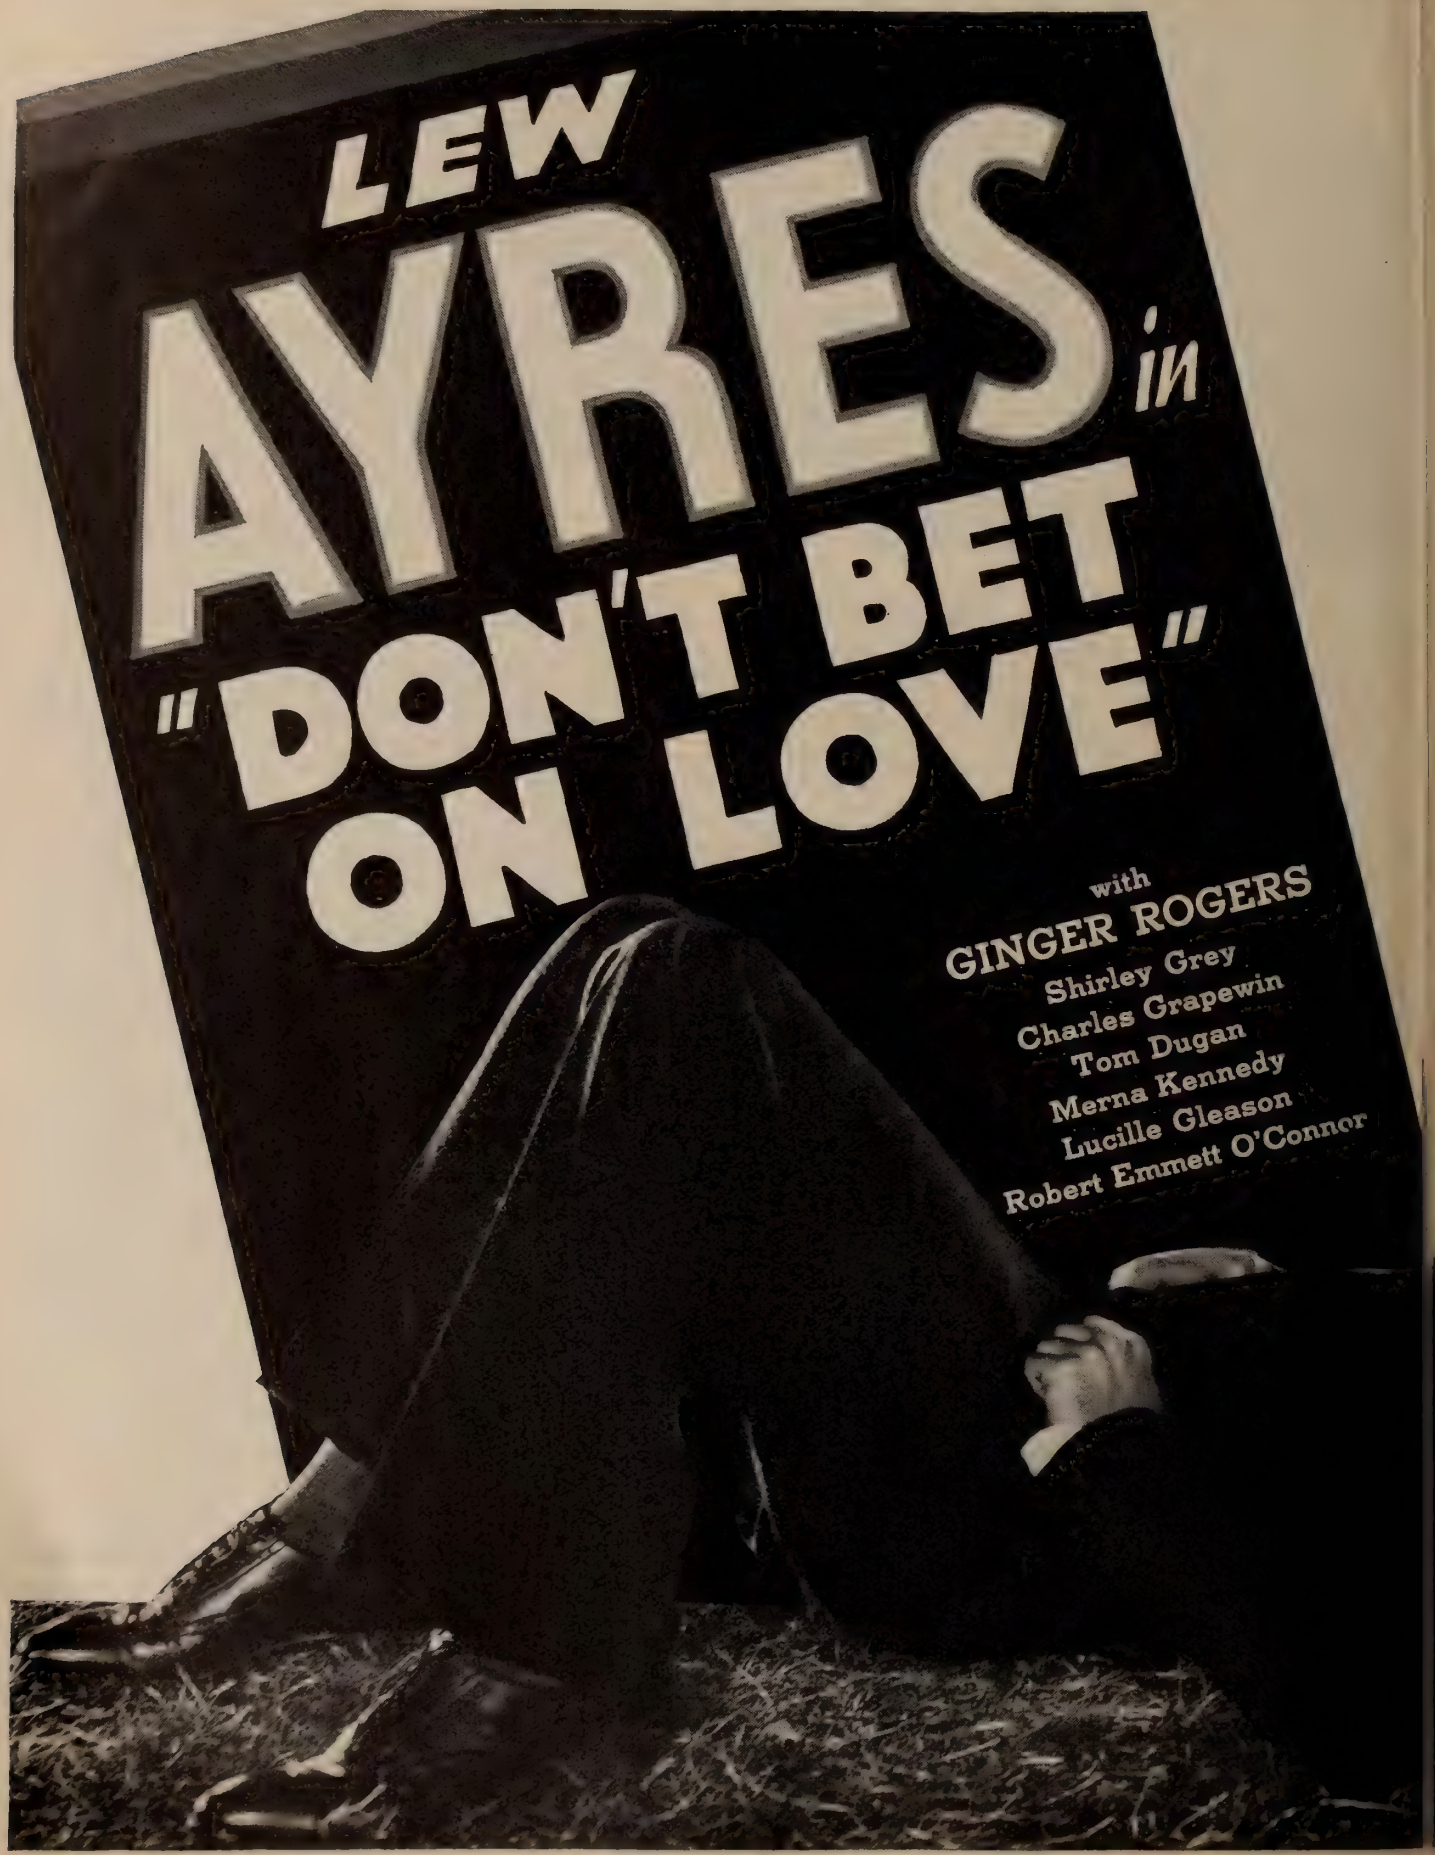
In the Personal Column of the Birmingham Mail, there appeared an advertisement which read as follows: "EGYPTIAN MUMMY REQUIRED, for hire; must be at least 3,000 years old. Apply MANAGER, WEST END CINEMA, BIRMINGHAM."

In reply to this strange advertisement dozens of letters were received offering all kinds of mummies of various ages. The one selected was a real mummy loaned by Mrs. George Cadbury, of the Manor House, Northfields. It was acquired by the late Mr. George Cadbury, while on a visit to Egypt some thirty years ago.

The mummy was brought to the theatre in full ceremony and pressmen and photographers were present at the reception.

The mummy and sarcophagus were put on exhibition in an anteroom at the theatre with a uniformed nurse in charge and Universal's exploiteer, F. B. Boddington, gave lectures regarding "The Mummy." 12,900 people visited the anteroom during the week.

LONDON PREMIERE: TIVOLI



THEATRE, STRAND !—NOW ! !

Fast horses got the plunging plumber into fast company . . . When he was "in the money" he hit life high, wide and handsome . . . The little girl who loved him "wasn't good enough" any more . . . But one slow horse and one fast woman taught him more about life in a few days than most folks see in a lifetime . . . IT'S GREAT BOX-OFFICE!

Screenplay by Murray Roth and Howard E. Rogers. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Murray Roth. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

(Reprinted from "Screenland," where under the heading of "Best Pictures," Delight Evans, the Editor, reviewed "The Big Cage")

"The Big Cage"

(Universal)

The family film of the present season ! I congratulate Universal on being the one movie company to recognise the tremendous appeal of a circus picture starring Clyde Beatty, (the world-famous trainer). Here's a refreshing novelty and a relief to worried parents who, when Junior and Sis want to go to the movies, have to put the neighbourhood theatre manager through the third degree to find out if the current screen attraction is suitable juvenile fare. Clyde Beatty's sensational lion-tiger act is even more thrilling when seen on the screen than under the big top. You can hear Beatty whistle his commands; you can see the huge cats close-up. Beatty himself is an ingratiating, natural personality. Not too much plot; humour by Andy Devine and Vince Barnett; romance by Anita Page and Wallace Ford; and those marvelous "lines and taggers." Beatty puts his savage "pets" through their paces with unbelievably beautiful precision.

H. Bushell, manager of Universal's branch in Manchester, has the years of a veteran behind his record of one of the industry's best informed film men. He is showing his mettle in Manchester, by working closely with exhibitors in that territory.

"Bert" Bushell's reputation for fair dealing makes him one of the most popular film men in the North.

"KISS BEFORE MIRROR" CONTINUES TO PLAY TO PACKED CINEMAS

James Whale Masterpiece Pleases Everywhere and Everyone

Following its successful premiere recently at the Capitol Theatre, W., Universal's "The Kiss Before the Mirror" was booked for second West End presentation run at the Dominion Theatre, W., recently.

Following the London premiere runs, this brilliant drama is doing phenomenal business in other first run showings !

James Whale directed this story of cheating wives and jealous husbands, in which Paul Lukas, Nancy Carroll, Frank Morgan and Gloria Stuart have the starring honours.

On its initial showing, the picture was heralded as an unusually brilliant drama and a triumph for James Whale, the entire national Press according it high praise.

IN THE BIG MONEY CLASS!

"AIRMAIL" "BIG CAGE"

"THE MUMMY" "NAGANA"

"PRIVATE JONES"

"KISS BEFORE THE MIRROR"

FROM THE STUDIO OF HITS!

THE UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

SHOWMANSHIP SECTION

A DIGEST OF THE BEST EXPLOITATION IDEAS OF THE WEEK

"THE BIG CAGE" GETS GALA EXPLOITATION; HINKS' LATEST STUNT FOR "U"

Bernard M. Woolley put over his greatest stunt to date with "The Big Cage" (Universal) at the Adelphi Theatre, Slough. The week before screening he arranged a big vestibule display of wild animals loaned from Chapman's and made an attractive display of posters and cut-outs. Prior to the trailer, he made a microphone speech to his patrons announcing that the film was coming next week and describing the story. Following this, music of the fairground type was played by the organist and the noise of a lion roaring was made. Posters from the "Sunday Pictorial" were displayed outside newspaper shops all over the county, and tie-ups were arranged with local gun and sports shops.

On an ordinary kitchen chair displayed in the vestibule was a whip. A card underneath read: "How does he do it, with this whip and chair Clive Beatty faces 20 lions and 20 tigers." Mr. Woolley also advertised in the local papers in the personal columns the following: "Wanted, a lion or Bengal tiger tame enough to walk out with a young lady to advertise 'The Big Cage,' all next week at the Adelphi."

A special item was the tie-up with forty schools in the district. Schoolmasters showed bills and distributed handbills to the children, and Mr. Woolley arranged a special Saturday morning matinee, at which over 2,000 children attended.

(Concluded in column 3)

Bernard M. Woolley, Manager Adelphi Theatre, was awarded a Certificate For Showmanship (plus one guinea in cash) for a "The Big Cage" campaign

During the week of showing Mr. Woolley had a huge marquee erected in front of the theatre, and from the road it gave appearance of a big circus. Loud speakers were erected in front, and circus music was played all day. At periods announcements were made through a microphone by Mr. Woolley, who acted as a circus showman. All the live animals were displayed outside the theatre, and attendants attired as clowns, cowboys, trainers, etc., gave the real atmosphere to the film.

On the Saturday prior to the screening, Mr. Woolley entered a lorry into the annual carnival of the Slough Joy Week. This lorry was decked with flags, and had on it a big cage of monkeys and bears.

★ ★ ★

"Were You a Private Jones?"

"Were you a Private Jones?" Under this heading the Regent Cinema, Beacontree, obtained fine newspaper space in connection with their presentation of Universal's brilliant Lee Tracy comedy, "Private Jones."

The newspaper stories carried an invitation to every ex-Private Jones who served in the war to present the necessary credentials at the theatre and obtain complimentary tickets.

DEATH FROM LAUGHTER

Walter Hinks' Insurance Enterprise

"You'd die laughing" is an expression that has apparently put the fear of the loss of patrons into the mind of Walter Hinks, manager of the New Alex, Paisley, for, in exploiting Universal's hilarious Summerville - Pitts comedy feature "They Just Had to Get Married," he insured his patrons for £100 against death from laughter.

Needless to say, the bright showmanship got excellent local newspaper breaks.

Bing Crosby, who sprang to fame because of his performance in "King of Jazz" and who is now one of the biggest names in gramophone, radio and moving pictures.

CARL LAEMMLE'S GIFT TO ITALIAN HERO

Armada Flight Record

Inspired by the sight of the giant Italian air armada sweeping down the Hudson, Carl Laemmle gave orders for a complete film record of Air Marshal Balbo's epic flight to be prepared and offered to the Italian air chief.

Despite being avalanched by hundreds of appointments and thousands of hero-worshippers in New York, the Air Marshal saw the film privately and accepted a copy.

"I am terrifically delighted to see and to have this motion picture," he said to Allyn Butterfield, Universal's American Newsreel Editor. "What a difference it is to sit here in an easy chair and see what one has gone through under much more trying conditions. I shall always cherish this gift from Mr. Laemmle."

"WORLD'S GREATEST THRILLS" TO TAKE ITS PLACE AS THRILLING FEATURETTE

"2 Reels of Suspense"

AT LAST the real story of the newsreel cameramen is to be told.

Two thousand feet of thrills have been gathered from the four corners of the earth, from the air, the sea and the land with Graham McNamee, Universal's U.S.A. star newsreel screencaster, giving a dramatic commentary to the hair-raising events.

"World's Greatest Thrills" certainly lives up to its name! No one has ever lived such a breathless twenty minutes as this picture provides. Appropriately enough the film opens with the clanging of the fire engine. There is a great fire at the docks. Newspaper reporters and newsreel men alike hurtle to the scene, some in planes. They risk injury and worse to get their shots to feed the thrill-hungry and news-hungry world.

War! Right into the midst of the Sino-Japanese conflict go the intrepid cameramen, braving shot and shell to get the footage. Locusts! Millions of the insects in dark clouds right in front of the cameras. A skyscraper fire. People trapped on the eighth floor jump for their lives. . . . . Into the midst of a hurricane, beside a great dam that is blown up in front of the lens, a trick performer doing his act on top of the Woolworth Building tower, in New York, with a cameraman perched precariously on a narrow girder.

A lion tamer attacked and mauled in the cage, two trains in a head-on collision, the break-neck recklessness of the Grand National, 20 parachutists leaping from one plane, a great warship turning turtle in front of the lens, the worst tragedy of speed when an airplane spun round and round and burst into flames at 300 miles an hour.

Those are only some of the world's greatest thrills brought together in this one picture, which should prove one of the most popular shorts in recent years.

ZASU PITTS' NEW CONTRACT WITH UNIVERSAL

Success of "They Just Had To Get Married," "Out All Night" and "Her First Mate"

ASSURING the continuance of the series of features which have proved to be among the most popular film fare since the advent of talking pictures, ZaSu Pitts has signed a long term contract with Carl Laemmle, Jnr., for Universal Pictures. Miss Pitts will be co-starred with Slim Summerville in feature-length productions, three and possibly four of these pictures being contemplated for the 1933-34 Universal programme.

Miss Pitts' signing with Universal means that she will concentrate on feature films in the future and that her screen appearances will not be so frequent as in recent years. The sad-faced comedienne appeared in 38 pictures in 1932 and has been featured in 16 so far in 1933.

Last week, Summerville and Miss Pitts completed "Her First Mate," adapted from the Frank Craven stage hit, "Salt Water," and within a fortnight are scheduled to begin "Love, Honour and Oh, Baby!" which Norman Krasna is preparing for Eddie Buzzell's direction.

Miss Pitts has enjoyed one of the most remarkable careers in motion pictures. Recognised as one of the screen's finest tragediennes the popular star has gone from comedy to tragedy in her film work three different times. During the past four years her distinctive comedy characterisations have been so much in demand that, temporarily at least, the girl who brought tears from audiences with her appealing dramatic roles in "Greed," "The Wedding March," and other films has devoted herself to humorous roles entirely, her 'teaming up' with the equally popular Summerville proving a most happy film union.

Release Schedule to Dec. 1933

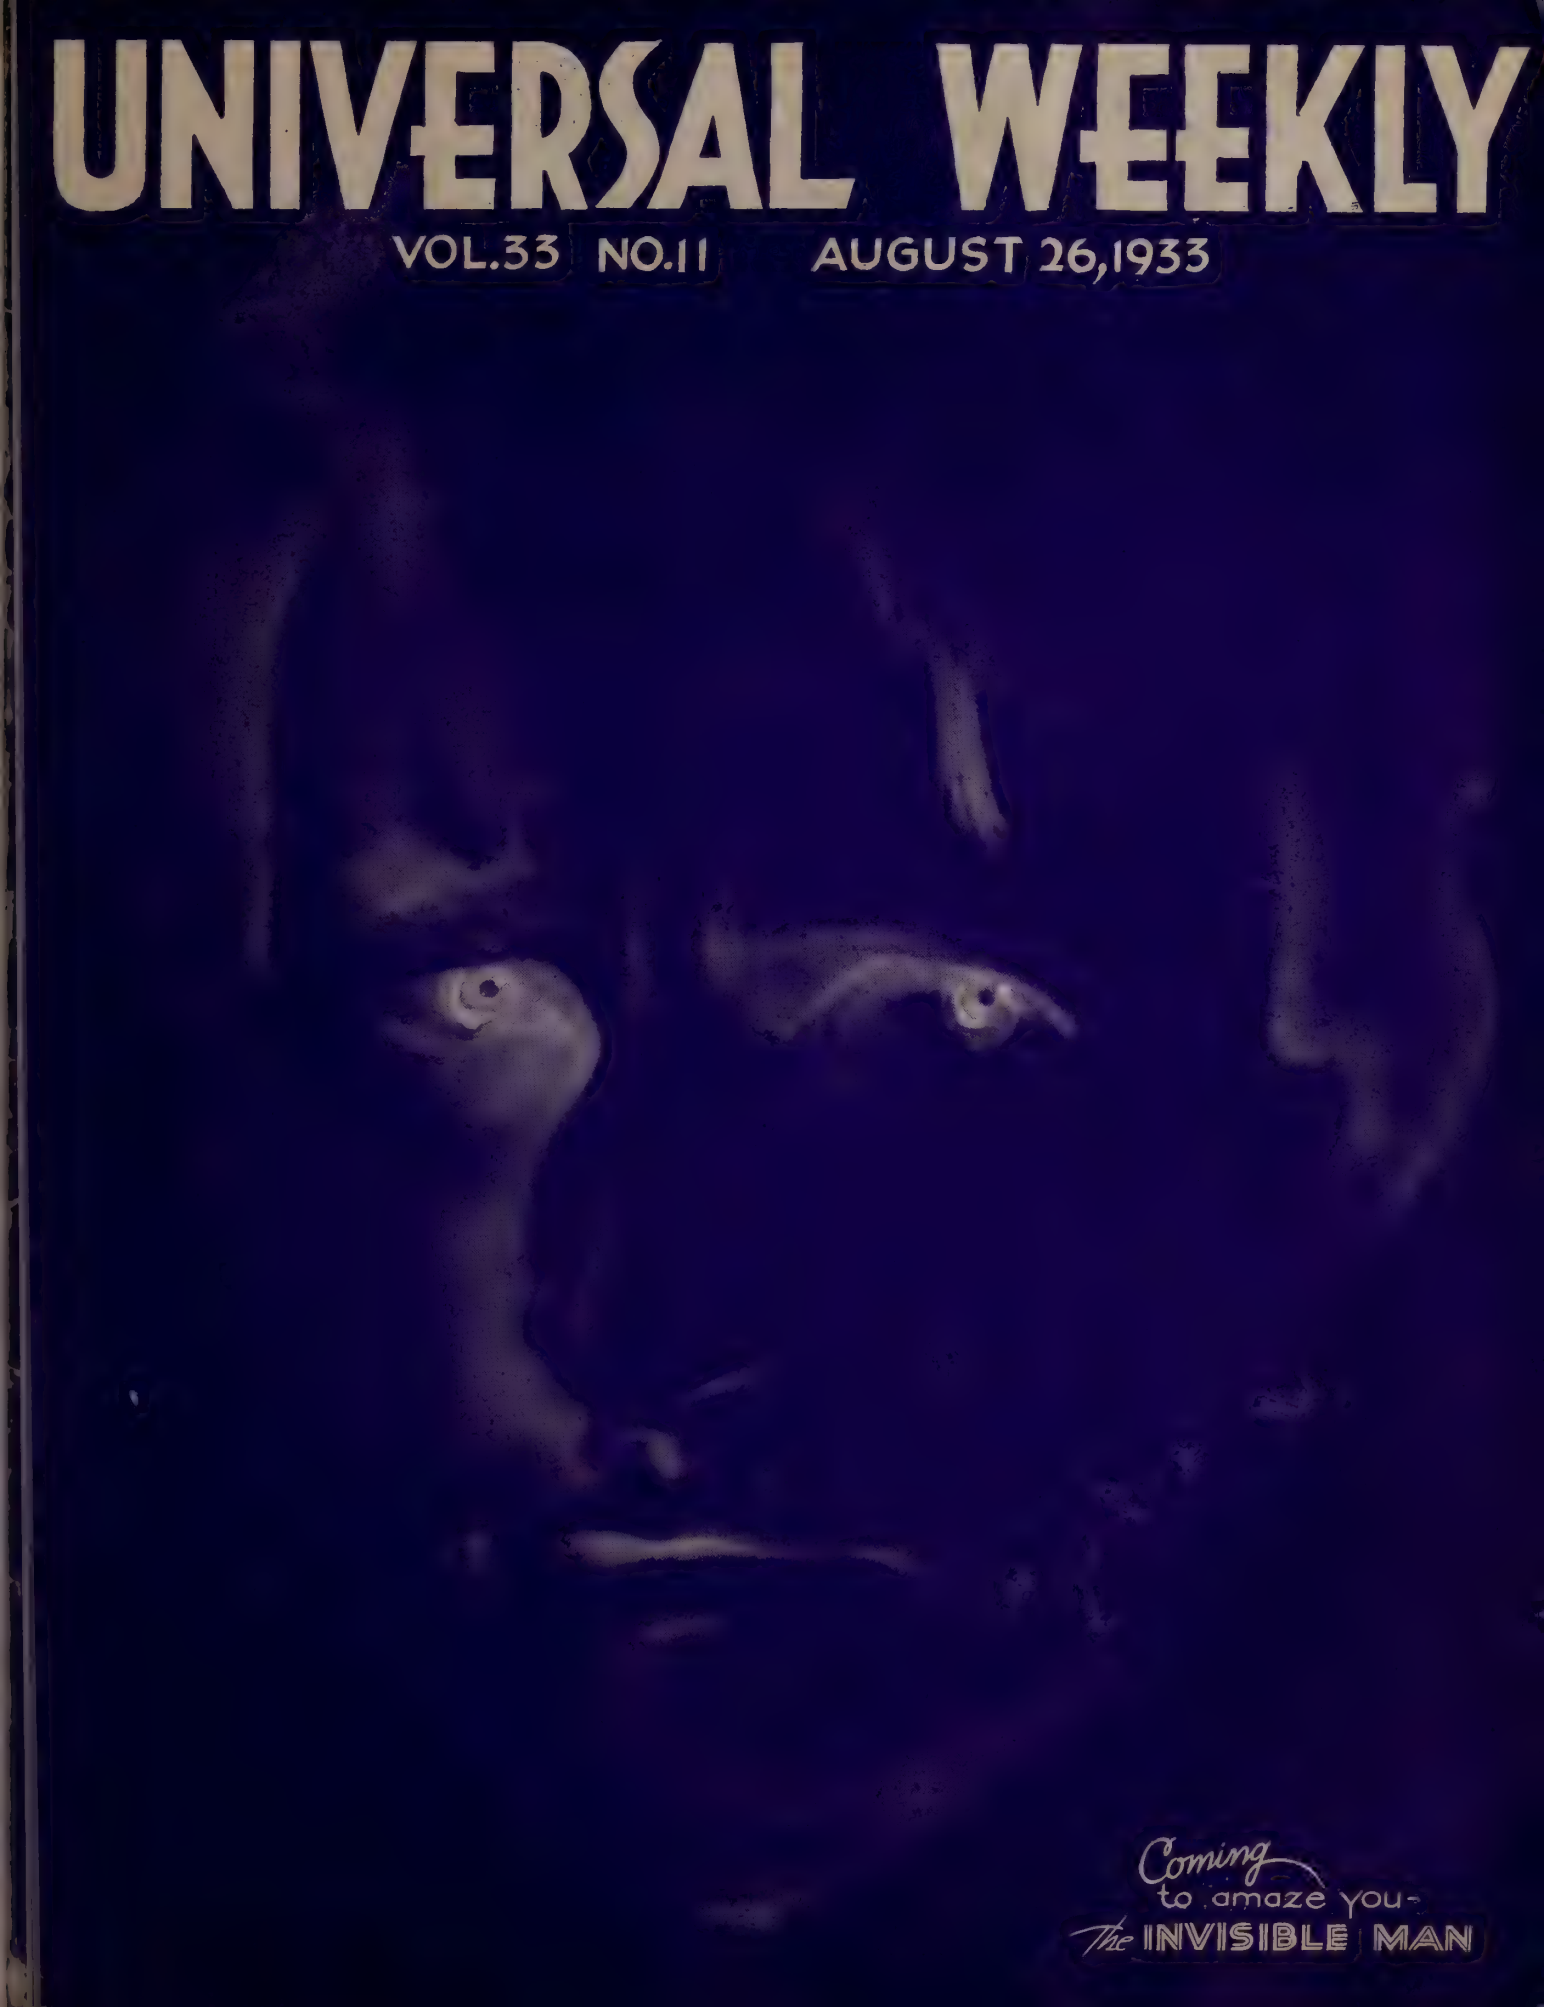
TITLE	STARS	Cert.	Length	Reg. No.
HIDDEN GOLD	Tom Mix, Judith Barrie	U	5141 ft.	F. 8054
THE MUMMY	Karloff, Zita Johann, David Manners	A	6532 ft.	F. 8325
THEY JUST HAD TO GET MARRIED	Slim Summerville, Zasu Pitts, Fifi D'Orsay, Roland Young, Guy Kibbee, C. Aubrey Smith	A	6000 ft.	F. 8375
ROUGH RIDING ROMEO	Tom Mix, Ruth Hall	U	5217 ft.	F. 8376
LAUGHTER IN HELL	Pat O'Brien, Gloria Stuart, Tom Brown	A	5899 ft.	F. 8333
TERROR TRAIL	Tom Mix, Raymond Hatton, Naomi Judge	U	5198 ft.	F. 8473
Re-issue of ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT	Lew Ayres, Slim Summerville, Louis Wolheim	A	9142 ft.	F. 4238
NAGANA	Melvyn Douglas, Tala Birell	A	6295 ft.	F. 8517
PRIVATE JONES	Lee Tracy, Gloria Stuart	A	7693 ft.	F. 8590
RUSTLERS' ROUND UP	Tom Mix, Diane Sinclair, Noah Beery, Jnr.	U	5098 ft.	F. 8558
KING OF JAZZ (Re-issue)	Paul Whiteman and his Band, John Boles, Bing Crosby	U	9388 ft.	F. 4266
COHENS AND KELLYS IN TROUBLE	George Sidney, Charles Murray, Maureen O'Sullivan, Andy Devine	U	6194 ft.	F. 8638
OUT ALL NIGHT	Slim Summerville, Zasu Pitts	A	5802 ft.	F. 8695
LUCKY DOG	Chic Sale, Buster, the Wonder Dog	U	5252 ft.	F. 8749
THE SHADOW LAUGHS	Rose Hobart, Hal Skelly	A	5957 ft.	F. 8861
BIG TOWN	Frances Dade, Lester Vail	A	4918 ft.	F. 8862
STRANGE PEOPLE	Hale Hamilton, Gloria Shea	A	5962 ft.	F. 8894
MIDNIGHT WARNING	William Boyd, Claudia Dell	A	5349 ft.	F. 8868
DESTINATION UNKNOWN	Ralph Bellamy, Pat O'Brien, Betty Compson, Alan Hale	A	5309 ft.	F. 8867
THE BIG CAGE	Clyde Beatty, Anita Page	U	6685 ft.	F. 8631
THE KISS BEFORE THE MIRROR	Nancy Carroll, Paul Lukas, Gloria Stuart, Frank Morgan	A	6149 ft.	F. 8708
FORGOTTEN	June Clyde, William Collier, Jnr.	U	6260 ft.	F. 8877
THE KING MURDER	Conway Tearle, Natalie Moorhead	A	6133 ft.	F. 8888
SECRETS OF WU SIN	Lois Wilson, Grant Withers	A	5898 ft.	F. 8907
LAUGHING AT LIFE	Victor McLaglen and 20 Star Cast	U	6259 ft.	F. 8999
KING OF THE ARENA	Ken Maynard, Lucille Brown	U	5607 ft.	F. 8893
THE REBEL	Luis Trenker, Vilma Banky, Victor Varoni	A	6614 ft.	F. 8913

OVER a year in the making . . . . the year's biggest of big productions . . . . the kind of picture which only Universal can give you . . . will make you glad that you are in the movie business! ☆ ☆ ☆

Rawlings & Walsh, Ltd., Printers, Chertsey, Surrey.

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

VOL.33 NO.11 AUGUST 26,1933



Coming!

Universal's 1933-34 Football Picture

SATURDAY'S MILLIONS

Bigger than "The Spirit of Notre Dame" — Bigger than "The All American"

"Takes Screaming Precedence Over The Dramatic Feature!"

— Los Angeles Times

" 'The World's Greatest Thrills,' a collection of newsreel shots made by Universal, is one of the most exciting pictures I have ever seen," says Philip Scheuer in the Los Angeles Times. "It is at the Criterion, where it takes screaming precedence over the regular dramatic feature. With Graham McNamee's staccato comments to hold it together, this astonishing compendium of death and destruction fairly rips through the projection machine—a holocaust in celluloid. Burning buildings, careening racers, crashing planes, floods, hurricanes, riots, and the horrific spectacle of a cruiser catapulting hundreds of wriggling humans into the sea as it turns over—these are some of the petrified moments caught by the cameramen. Many of them, I gather, were withheld from circulation when the events they illustrated were 'news.' The effect of all of them is to give one a feeling of dizzy insecurity in a transient world."

ANNOUNCING THE

No. 736 Straight-from-the-Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

Who has a better right to kid the newsreels than the company which makes the smartest newsreel of all?

The question answers itself.

So, Universal is going to release a series of burlesque newsreels known as "The Goofytone Newsreel."

It will give you all the laughs you have hoped for.

It will lighten up the heaviest program and displace the stodgy, routine comedies of past years.

There is nothing funnier than burlesque when well done. It brings a laugh from the brightest as well as the dumbest.

I ask you to make it a point to see "The Goofytone Newsreel."

See the woman who broke all the floating records.

See the winner of the basket ball game and hear her describe through rather loose teeth how she made the winning point.

GOOFYTONE NEWSREEL

See the foreigner who stumblingly explains why his country is not going to pay its debt to the United States.

Remember, "The Goofytone Newsreel" will not put your regular newsreel off the program. You cannot possibly make up a more clever program than to run "The Goofytone Newsreel" right after your regular newsreel.

It will bring gales of laughter. We have tried it out and we know.

It is just slapstick enough to be perfect.

Once a month Universal will release a "Goofytone Newsreel" and you can take my word for it that after you show the first one, there will be a clamor for the others.

This is proof that there IS something new under the sun, and, as usual, Universal is the first to bring it out.

Carl Laemmle

Remarkable Versatility In Unive

ADELAIDE HALL

"Hot from Harlem" is the number contributed to the first Mentone musical production by Adelaide Hall, star of the recent "Black Birds" musical comedy. The first Mentone production will be "On the Air—And Off.

Unprecedented Power In Serials

WITH the selection of Evalyn Knapp to play the title role, and the supporting cast complete, Universal's serial, "The Perils of Pauline," will go into work Saturday (August 19th) under the direction of Ray Taylor. In recognition of his work in "Gordon of Ghost City," "Phantom of the Air," and "Saturday's Millions," Hugh Enfield will head Miss Knapp's supporting cast, being on hand to rescue her at least once in each of the 12 chapters. Enfield's name is changed to Robert Allen.

The name is the combination of the first names of his grandfathers, of whom he was very fond.

Enfield to date has appeared in two serials, "The Great Air Mail Mystery," and "Gordon of Ghost City," as well as several feature pictures, including "Saturday's Millions," the football picture, and "Only Yesterday, now in production.

Revised by Ella O'Neill in such a way that "Pauline" will talk and travel to the far corners of the earth, the new chapter-play will be made under the supervision of Henry McRae.

"Perils of Pauline" is the second serial for the year. Its cast in addition to Evelyn Knapp and Robert Allen include James Durkin, John Davidson, Sonny Ray, Frank Lackteen, Richard Hemingway, Charlie Stevens, Philip Sleeman.

Buck Jones in "Gordon of Ghost City" is just starting its first runs within a week or so. When it does the country will realize that in this serial Universal is putting in the hands of exhibitors one of the greatest money makers in years.

Buck Jones is a tremendous drawing card and he was never better than in "Gordon of Ghost City."

The third serial will be Richard Talmadge in "Pirate Treasure" which will get under way within the month, to be followed by "The Adventures of Ann" and "The Vanishing Shadow."

✚ ✚ ✚

Morton Downey Second Radio Short Ready

THE second Universal Radio Reel starring Morton Downey, famous singer of the stage and radio, is ready for release. It was produced in New York by Rowland and Brice, and in addition to Downey, it features George Givot, the comedy waiter, whose reputation is nation-wide; Peggy Healy, Paul Whiteman's latest discovery; and Harold Stern's Hotel St. Moritz Orchestra. During the course of the picture, Morton Downey sings in his golden-toned tenor many of the numbers for which he is internationally popular, including "A Boy and a Girl Were Dancing."

First Mentone Comedy

UNIVERSAL is almost ready to release its first Mentone musical production entitled "On The Air—And Off." The cast of this unique two-reeler includes Nick Lucas, Adelaide Hall, Leon Belasco and his orchestra, Eddie Carr, Hizi Koyke, dainty Japanese primadonna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, Bovard Sisters and Murray, Sam Liebert, Lord Oliver Wakefield and Kelvin Keech.

Adelaide Hall, the Blackbird's star, interpolates her fascinating number, "Hot from Harlem." Miss Koyke sings the popular San Toy number. Eddie Garr does an impersonation of Maurice Chevalier and Ed Wynn.

Nick Lucas as his part of "On The Air—And Off," contributes a song written for and dedicated to him by Milton Schwarzwald and Ballard MacDonald. It is called "The Moonlight Troubadour."

An Eternal Delight

Oswald the Lucky Rabbit is a household word in every language and every country. This impish and utterly delightful rabbit has a way of coming out alright in the end no matter what impossible experiences happen to him or how much unholy mirth he creates.

sal's List of Splendid Short Product

Universal Will Release Mark Hellinger Shorts

RECENTLY Mark Hellinger, versatile columnist of the Daily Mirror made a trip around the world. He wanted to have a permanent record of it, so he took a camera and a cameraman with him. Hellinger cannot be any place without something interesting cropping up. Excitement thrives where he is. Strange as it seems, most of this excitement was captured by Mr. Hellinger's cameraman. He went to Paris, Monte Carlo, Rome, Berlin, Spain, Vienna. And everywhere he went he was pursued by pretty girls who wanted to get into the movies.

Of course, Hellinger and a girl-gaited camera like this excited a lot of interest. When he got back, a lot of film companies tried to secure the rights to Hellinger's round-the-world experiences, but Universal was far, far ahead of them. The day Hellinger sailed on his trip, he signed a contract with Universal to release seven pictures, all one-reelers, of his interesting experiences. They are now being cut and the finishing touches put on them for early release this fall under the general title, "Round the World with Mark Hellinger."

✚ ✚ ✚

DON'T FAIL

to take advantage of this opportunity.

Because of its unique possibilities, its tremendous drawing power and its widespread booking, National Screen service has created a trailer for "The World's Greatest Thrills." This is an unprecedented distinction for any short subject. This trailer has been modestly priced at $2.50 and can be obtained from any National Screen Exchange. Don't fail to take advantage of it.

New Kind of Newsreel

Goofytone Newsreel is a satirical comedy newsreel for up-to-date audiences. The illustration above was posed by a society lady and represents the accidental winner of the basketball team who won because the ball bounced off her head and into the basket. The ladies' make-up is a work of art.

Another Big Paper for "Strange As It Seems"

UNDER the new syndicating arrangement of John Hix's cartoon, "Strange As It Seems," the latest newspaper to take it on as a circulation builder is the Indianapolis News. This paper is arranging a trailer tie-up with about fifty theatres in and around Indianapolis which use the film version of this popular newspaper feature. "Strange As It Seems" No. 31 is playing this week at the RKO Radio City Music Hall in New York.

✚ ✚ ✚

Louis Sobol Featured in "Peeping Tom"

"PEEPING TOM," a two reel comedy now in production at the Astoria Studios under the direction of Joseph Santley, features: Louis Sobol, New York Journal Columnist. In the cast are Mildred Bailey, Roy Atwill, John Fogarty, Bill Berton, Gertrude Nissen, all prominent radio names and Mrs. Lawrence Schwab, formerly Mildred Brown of the musical comedy stage.

Louise Fazenda in the first of her Warren Doane Universal comedies for next season. It is entitled "Nature in the Rough." Bert Roach is the other player in the rough.

Louise Fazenda Starts on "Mountain Music"

LOUISE FAZENDA starts today, her second two-reel Universal comedy produced by Warren Doane. It is entitled "Mountain Music," was written by Vernon Smith and James W. Horne and will be directed by W. P. Hackney. The cast will include Victor Potel, Milton Wallace, Geoffrey Gill, Nelson McDowell, Noah Young and Jack Pennick.

The first of Miss Fazenda's comedies was finished a short time ago. It is entitled "Nature in the Rough." The cast includes Bert Roach, Raymond Hatton, Olive Cooper and Wally Howe.

✚ ✚ ✚

Star Henry Armetta in Warren Doane Comedy

Henry Armetta, explosive Italian comedian, who has just completed a role in Universal's "Her First Mate," will make his debut as a comedy star at Universal City. He will be featured in the two-reel Universal comedy, "Open Sesame." James W. Horne will place it in production at Universal City on Monday.

THE BIGGEST W

With Cecelia Parker, William Gould, Frank Rice, Bob Norman, Fern Emmett. Story and Direction by Alan James. Produced by Ken Maynard Productions, Inc. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

Ken

ESTERN in YEARS!

At last the talking screen can boast its epic Western . . . Tremendous in scope, furious in action, and terrific in drama, it gives you the opportunity to play it up on a par with the biggest feature you've ever presented! . . . PLAY IT UP AS THE GREAT SHOW IT IS ! ! !

MAYNARD
in
THE TRAIL DRIVE

Universal's New Deal!

•

MID-STATES THEATRES, Inc., OF DETROIT

Ray Moon, General Manager,
Embracing 70 theatres in Detroit and vicinity

•

FAMOUS PLAYERS CANADIAN CORPORATION

N. L. Nathanson, President,
Including 171 theatres from the Atlantic to the Pacific

•

A. H. BLANK THEATRES

Omaha, Sioux City, Davenport, Waterloo, Rock Island
Cedar Rapids and Grand Island

Sign for

UNIVERSAL

Features, News, Serials and Short Product for 1933-34

•

Thanks, Messrs. Moon, Nathanson, Blank and associates, for your confidence in Universal Pictures.
We will do our part!

N-E-W-S

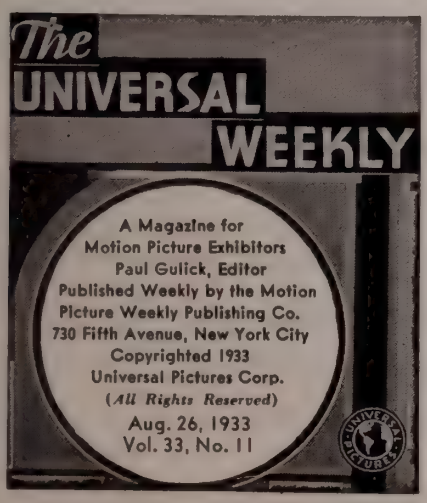
• Alice White signs long term Universal contract.

• A. H. Blank Theatres in Iowa and Nebraska contract for Universal Produts.

• Elmer Rice flies to Universal City to assist William Wyler on "Counsellor at Law."

• Sparks Circuit of Florida, 70 theatres, contract for Universal features, shorts, newsreel and serials.

(Continued on Page 28)



Ken Maynard Jumps Into An Epic

Fore! Avast! Hey! Hello! Look Out!—or any other expression which will indicate to exhibitors that they get ready for a sensation! Ken Maynard in "The Trail Drive" sneaked up on everybody in Universal Home Office. Don't let it sneak up on you. Get ready for a great, big, joyous surprise. It's the greatest Western you ever saw in your whole life! Don't muff it. Get ready now to take advantage of this western classic. Prepare this minute to put all of your exploitation brains at work so that you can make yourself more money than you ever made on a Western before. Get ready for "The Trail Drive."

Elmer Rice Flies To Universal City To Help On "Councellor At Law"

ELMER RICE, Pulitizer prize winner and outstanding Broadway playwright of the last decade, arrived at Universal City this week for a conference with Carl Laemmle, Jr. and William Wyler on the picturization of his sensational New York stage hit, "Counsellor at Law."

Last week Director Wyler flew to Mexico City to discuss the filming of "Counsellor at Law" with Rice, vacationing in the Mexican capital, and after a three-day huddle the playwright agreed to accompany Wyler back to California.

"Counsellor at Law" will enter production as one of the season's most elaborate productions just as soon as Universal makes a decision as to the actor assuming the titular character. One of the most dominant roles ever offered a screen actor, the studio is exercising extreme care in selecting the man for this assignment. Three times the difficulties preventing Paul Muni, who created the role in the stage version, from playing the part for Universal seemed to be surmounted. But three times the well-laid plans came to nothing. At the moment Laemmle, Jr. has four well

(Continued on Page 28)

✚ ✚ ✚

Two More Added to "Special Investigator"

WITH the addition of Skeets Gallagher, veteran stage and screen comic, and Onslow Stevens to the cast, "Special Investigator," Bert Kelly's initial picture under his recent producing agreement with Universal,

(Continued on Page 28)

A LOW DOWN DIRTY TRICK BY OUR STUDIO

• • We, the staff of the Universal home office advertising and reviewing departments, protest most resentfully against the low-down dirty trick which has been perpetrated on us by the Universal studio.

• • The studio folks have just sent us an epic—an absolute epic—an epic, no less—without one word of advance hooey or blah or exaggeration.

• • It is a Ken Maynard picture. It is called "The Trail Drive." That's all we knew about it before we saw it just now in our projection room. So it didn't mean any more to us than it does to you.

• • But the darned thing knocked us right out of our chairs. Old Chris Columbus discovering America never felt so much like a discoverer as we did when this epic was flashed before our eyes, all unprepared as we were.

• • Book the darned thing. If you must see it first before booking it, then see it.

• • And when you run it and it knocks your audience cuckoo and makes money for you, give the whole credit to the studio and none to the advertising, because we didn't know a darned thing about it until this very minute and now it's too late for us to ballyhoo it as it deserves.

UDET, THE GREAT FLYER OF "S. O. S. ICEBERG" THRILLS MILLIONS HERE AS HE DID THE GREENLANDERS WHILE FILMING GRIM DRAMA

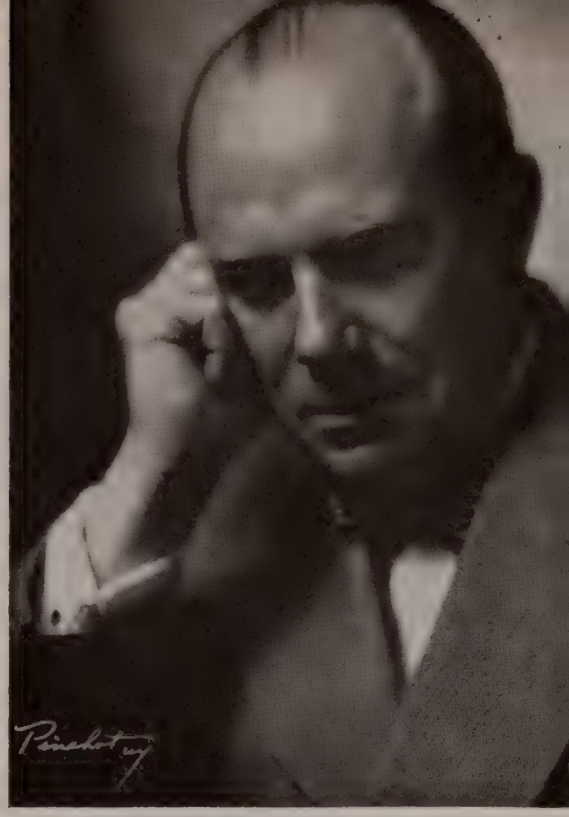
MAJOR ERNST UDET, premier stunt flyer of the world, has probably thrilled more millions of people in this country since he came here two months ago than any other flyer of history. Every flight he makes is an advertisement of that epic of the North, "S. O. S. Iceberg." Udet is one of the featured players in this epic drama made in Greenland and the treacherous icebergs and ice floes which surround it. His work was of two kinds. His principal business was being an actor, playing a vital part in this grim drama of courage and sacrifice in the Arctic. His second role was that of rescuer to those who were lost or taken suddenly ill on this six months' expedition to an inhospitable land, where no film was ever made before.

During the Great War, Udet was one of the most talked-of and idolized flyers in the German air forces. His record stands second only to that of the famous Baron von Richthoffen. Sixty-three allied flyers were brought down by this intrepid and resourceful air man. It is no wonder that Udet was chosen by the German government as its representative to the Los Angeles Air Meet. At this meet, he was the hit of the entire show. He handled his airplane, a ship designed and built by himself, in a way to send the thrills down the spines of the thousands of people watching the races. Will Rogers wrote a very humorous article about Udet, almost implying that he could pick a handkerchief off the ground in full flight as easily as a cowboy swings from his saddle to perform this neat trick.

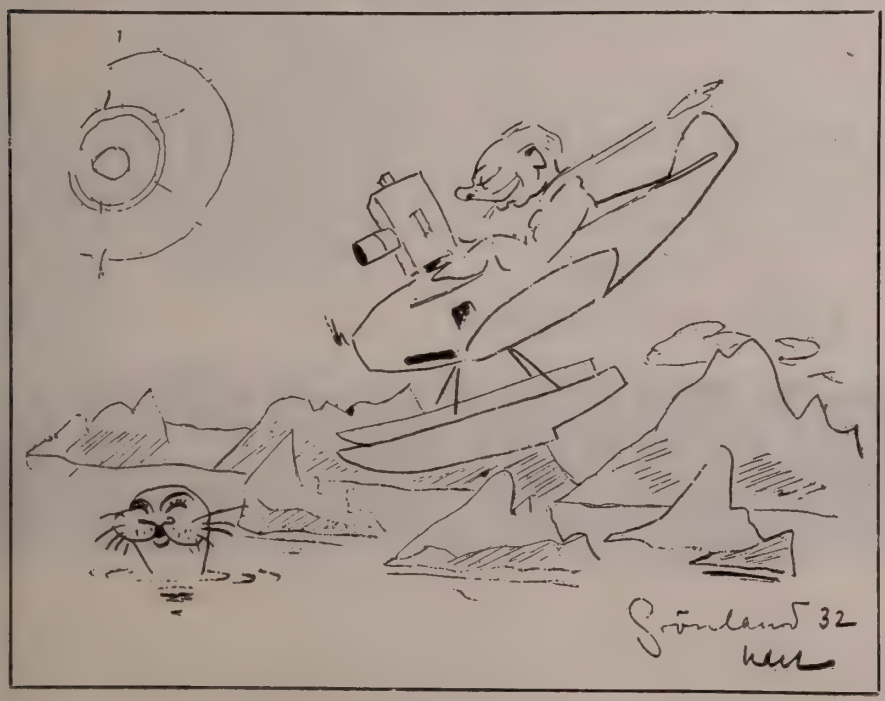
Major Udet will also be the star of the official International Air Meet in Chicago early in September. Wherever Udet goes, however, he is a flying advertisement of Universal's picture, "S. O. S. Iceberg," soon to be released in this country.

While in Greenland, Udet not only performed his sensational flying manuevers over the ice fields for the cameras, but also accomplished a number of daring rescue flights, once saving the film company from starvation when they were isolated by a glacial slide, and later accomplishing the hitherto unheard of feat of landing his plane on a floating iceberg.

In the short time Udet has spent in this country, he has picked up a very useable vocabulary of English. Strangely enough, he has no guttural or German accent in his voice whatever. The words he uses, limited as they are, are spoken as an Englishman would speak them. In the studio scenes taken by Tay Garnett in Berlin, his dialogue is as perfect in its English intonations as that of Rod La-Rocque, who plays the lead, or Gibson Gowland, who is the heavy. Udet expresses an amazing admiration for Garnett and for the easy and efficient manner in which he secures results in the directing of the picture.



Major Ernst Udet, flying star of "S. O. S. Iceberg," photographed in New York by Ben Pinchot.



Amusing cartoon drawn by Ernst Udet, representing his activities in Greenland for "S. O. S. Iceberg," with his signature and date.

HONEY, ARE YOU MAKIN'

A
WILLIAM ROWLAND
-MONTE BRICE
Production
Presented by
CARL LAEMMLE

MOONLIGHT

ANY MONEY?

Theatres playing Universal's great musical ARE making money—plenty of it ! . . . For instance, these reports from Motion Picture Daily: "Minneapolis—'Moonlight and Pretzels,' playing day and date at the RKO Orpheum here and across the river, took $10,-500, about $500 above average in each house."

"Oklahoma City—'Moonlight and Pretzels' set in at the Liberty, a two-change-a-week house, proved highly successful and was given a week's run, grossing $3,400, which was $400 above par."

And this one from Variety: "Lincoln, Neb.—Last week 'Moonlight and Pretzels' took town like wildfire, exceptional $1,700."

●

With Leo Carrillo, Mary Brian, Roger Pryor, Herbert Rawlinson, Lillian Miles, Bobby Watson, William Frawley, Alexander Gray, Bernice Claire, Jack Denny and his orchestra, Frank and Milt Britton and Band . . . Story by Monte Brice, Sig Herzig and Arthur Jarrett . . . Screenplay by Sig Herzig . . . Dances staged by Bobby Connolly . . . Music Supervision by Jay Gorney . . . Songs and Lyrics by Jay Gorney, Herman Hupfeld, Al Siegel, Sammy Fain, E. Y. Harburg . . . Directed by Karl Freund. Dialogue direction by Monte Brice.

Supervised by Stanley Bergerman.

ND PRETZELS

Gloria Stuart, the busiest bee in films, who will have the lead in "Madame Spy" as soon as she completes her role with Eddie Cantor in "Roman Scandals."

LATEST PRODU

"MME. SPY" SELECTED FOR GLORIA STUART

CARL LAEMMLE, Jr. has just announced at Universal City that Gloria Stuart will have the lead in a 1934 spy story. As soon as this Universal leading lady finishes as the lead opposite Eddie Cantor in "Roman Scandals," Universal production chief will cast her in the feminine lead of "Madame Spy." This picture is now being adapted from the play by Max Kimmick entitled "Under False Flags." It will be directed by Karl Freund. It will have a Continental atmosphere and will deal with the kind of spying which has recently been causing so much disturbance between Austria, Poland, Russia and Roumania. Miss Stuart completed her role in "The Invisible Man" several weeks ago to be free to join the Cantor company. "Madame Spy" will start on September fifth.

EDWARD EVERETT HORTON AND EDNA MAY OLIVER TO BE TEAMED IN THREE

SO successful have been the Universal feature comedies co-starring Slim Summerville and ZaSu Pitts that Carl Laemmle, Jr. has decided to form a similar team in Edward Everett Horton and Edna May Oliver. These two popular players have been signed to make a series of three full-length features of the same scrappy type that have brought Summerville and Miss Pitts to the fore.

In signing with Universal Horton will return to the studio where he first came into film prominence several years ago. Since 1930 he has supplied the comic relief for a dozen box-office hits, among them being "Kiss Me Again," "Reaching for the Moon," "The Front Page," "Trouble In Paradise," and "A Bedtime Story," Miss Oliver returns to the screen after several months absence during which she appeared in the late Flo Ziegfeld's New York revival of "Show Boat," as she was in the original.

John Bright, veteran screen writer, and Dale Van Every, Universal story chief, are working on the first Horton-Oliver, feature, scheduled to go into production early in October.

✚ ✚ ✚

Teddy Joyce, Best Master of Ceremonies, in Short

TEDDY JOYCE, stage entertainer, celebrated his birthday this week with a hard day's work before the cameras at Universal City where he is featured in "Talent on Parade," film variety featurette, which Warren Doane is producing with Eddie Peabody, The Hudson Sisters, The Three Cheers, Alfred Latell, Lorraine and Digby, and King, King and King. Joyce, who gained recognition as the country's most versatile master of ceremonies, made his screen debut in "The Crooner." The novel entertainment short is being directed by James W. Horne.

✚ ✚ ✚

Edmund Lowe Signed For "Bombay Mail" By Universal Pictures

AS soon as he completes his series of personal appearances in the East, Edmund Lowe will return to Hollywood and begin work immediately in "Bombay Mail" for Universal, Carl Laemmle, Jr. announced this week. This week Lowe is appearing on the Steel Pier at Atlantic City.

"Bombay Mail" is being prepared for the screen by Lawrence Blochman, well known scenarist, who is writing both the continuity and dialogue.

TION NEWS FROM UNIVERSAL CITY

Kiepura To Make "A Song For You"

MARIAN NIXON, heroine of a score of outstanding screenplays, has been engaged by Universal for the feminine lead in Jan Kiepura's first starring picture under his long term contract with that company. "A Song For You." Miss Nixon will leave Hollywood next week for London where the picture will be produced because Kiepura cannot come to Universal City this Fall. His concert and opera engagements cannot be cancelled.

The recent signing of Kiepura by Carl Laemmle came as the result of the tremendous acclaim which the handsome young Polish tenor received for his performance in the screen musical hit, "Be Mine Tonight," which enjoyed successful runs at both the Paramount and Criterion Theatres in New York. The picture broke box office records all over the country, running for seventeen weeks alone at the Filmarte Theatre in Los Angeles, and is still going strong in Minneapolis, Buffalo and Cleveland.

Tay Garnett, who has been abroad for several months putting the finishing touches on Universal's forthcoming Greenland drama, "S. O. S. Iceberg" will direct "A Song For You." Actual shooting is scheduled to get underway sometime around September 15th.

✚ ✚ ✚

"Be Mine Tonight" Reaches Unbelievable Heights

NEVER since the advent of talking pictures has a feature picture hung up such records as "Be Mine Tonight" is hanging up in scores of cities. It closed in Los Angeles last week in its seventeenth week. It closed last week in Cincinnati in its twelfth week, a record not only for Cincinnati, but for Ohio and the entire Middle West, with the exception of Minneapolis, where the picture is now in its nineteenth week. Incidentally, the eighteenth week at the theatre exceeded by $500. the receipts of the fifth week. Nothing like the run of this picture in Minneapolis has ever been approached by a talking picture.

In Buffalo, N. Y., too, this Universal musical is still going strong. It has just entered its fourteenth week.

Such remarkable records are having a tremendous effect throughout the country. "Be Mine Tonight" is being re-booked by theatres which already have had successful runs and its second-run records are almost as impressive as its first-run prestige.

✚ ✚ ✚

CAUTION TITLE

IN response to a number of suggestions from exhibitors, Universal Pictures yesterday sent out an additional title to be inserted in all prints of "The Secret of the Blue Room." This title is to be inserted at the end of the final scenes of "The Secret of the Blue Room." It reads as follows:

"Please do not disclose to your friends the identity of the guilty so that they, too, can come in and enjoy this picture, prolonging their suspense to the end. Thank you."

✚ ✚ ✚

Tremendous Cast For "Kid Gloves"

ONE of the largest casts of the year is being assembled for "Kid Gloves," the William Anthony McGuire story which is scheduled to go into production this week, under the direction of Kurt Neumann at Universal City.

Chester Morris, Alice White, Helen Twelvetrees, and John Miljan, substituted for Alan Dinehart because of a conflict in the latter's schedule which wouldn't allow him to play the part, have leading roles.

Additions to the cast within the last day or two include Grant Mitchell, George Meeker, Frank Albertson, George E. Stone, Warren Hymer, Harlan Tucker, Adrian Morris, Harry Galfund, Clarence H. Wilson, Dorothy Grainger, Mabel Marden, Maxie Rosenblum, Walter Miller, Wade Boteler, Matt McHugh, Robert Ellis and Edward Peale.

Rosenblum, nationally known fighter and world's official light-heavyweight champion has been signed for the job of knocking Morris out to give the sequence authenticity. Rosenbloom has always had screen aspirations. Now he has his big chance.

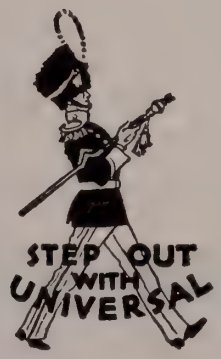
Chester Morris

PORTRAIT OF A LADY · 1933 ·

Ladies M

Your Screen's Been Crying For a Picture Like This!

ON the strength of its story alone it would be a smash comedy-drama; on the appeal of its music and songs alone it would be a smashing musical . . . BOTH COMBINED make it a grand piece of entertainment . . . Brilliant in dialogue and situation; sparkling with comedy and romance; bubbling over with music that includes four potential hit songs. GRAB IT!



●

With JUNE KNIGHT, NEIL HAMILTON, SALLY O'NEILL, DOROTHY BURGESS, MARY CARLISLE, Oscar Apfel, George E. Stone, Virginia Cherrill. Suggested by a play by William Hurlbut. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by E. A. du Pont. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

Regina Crewe in N. Y. American Says "Mo

IT'S a hit! In fact, it's twenty hits in one! A big name cast, beautiful girls, tuneful melodies, bright, refreshing dance numbers, combined in a production such as Broadway used to boast about in its most dazzling days. High-powered entertainment all the way.

Yes, there's a plot. It's about Roger Pryor, a song-writer and Mary Brian, his small-town sweetheart, and Leo Carillo, a big-shot, and Herb Rawlinson another, and Lillian Miles, a star, and how they all get entangled when Pryor makes good in the big city and produces his own revue. Of course, there are all sorts of complications, but meantime the show on the screen of the Rialto goes on in splendid fashion.

There is that "Dusty Shoes" number, sung by Alexander Gray, and Milt Britton's band, and the Four Eton Boys, and Geraldine Dvorak, one-time Garbo double, at the head of a half-hundred beauties. There are a half dozen other hit songs, and Bernice Claire, Jack Denny and his orchestra, Bobbie Watson, Bill Frawley, more Broadway names than you can find outside of Hollywood. And they all contribute the specialties that make them the class of the entertainment world.

Every once in a while the story comes along to tell how Roger Pryor loses his show, and how Mary wins it back again with the toss of a coin, and how everything finally comes out

The company which made "Moonlight and Pretzels" made its own advertisement as shown here. They should have been at the New York opening at the Rialto.

"Moonlight and Pretzels" Says Wanda Hal

Composed by four of our leading songsmiths, the tuneful melodies in this musicomedy reflect the spirit of the times in an unique manner. "Dusty Shoes" is by Jay Gorney and E. H. Harburg and it is a cavalcade of American life from 1928 to 1933. The highlights depicted in song and action are the boom year, the crash, the depression years and the New Deal. "Moonlight and Pretzels," a drinking song, is also by Gorney and Harburg and tells a lyrical story of peace and contentment since the legalization of beer. "I Gotta Get Up and Go to Work," depicts various types rising in the morning and preparing for their jobs with new hopes and new hearts. It is by Herman

"Moonlight and Pretzels" at the Rialto Se

So says William Boehnel in N. Y. World-Telegram

LILTING songs, cleverly staged dance numbers, expert performances and a more than serviceable story—these are the ingredients from which "Moonlight and Pretzels," which opened last night at the Rialto Theatre, is fashioned and the result is perfectly swell entertainment.

A musical made in the East at a cost which should make Hollywood sit up and take notice—it is said that it was produced for about $100,000 (Oh, if that were only so, Mr. Boehnel. Ed.)—it bears comparison, and favorable comparison, too, with any of the song-and-dance films that have come out of the Western studios. True, some of Hollywood's musical films may have been more elaborate, but few, if any, have been more imaginatively staged.

"Moonlight and Pretzels" is the story of a small-time song writer who comes to New York and makes good. That, briefly, tells the plot. The embellishments are the customary snags in his rise to fame and fortune and the usual misunderstanding with the ingenue.

But these embellishments have been treated with more than the customary amount of ingenuity and freshness that goes into the making of pictures of this type.

For the composers it can only be said that they have written a score which is considerably above the aver-

...light and Pretzels" Is Twenty Hits In One right with all hands stepping out for the grand finale!

This is Roger Pryor's movie debut and Herb Rawlinson's return to the screen, double cause for rejoicing. Bill Frawley gives a sample of what we may expect from him in his camera career. Mary Brian is a lovely ingenue, and Lillian Miles plays a star role so well that she must remain one, while Leo Carillo brings down the house with every word he utters.

Indeed, to cite each individual contribution to the gayety of the occasion would mean merely to list all who appear, as well as Monte Brice, William Rowland, Bobby Connolly and the rest who made "Moonlight and Pretzels" possible by their work behind the scenes. Congratulations to all concerned. Regina Crewe

..." Filled With Appeal ...n The Daily News

Hupfeld. Other infectious numbers are "Ah, But Is It Love?" "There's a Little Bit of You in Every Love Song," "Are You Making Any Money?" and "Baby, in Your Hat."

Roger Pryor is swell in his role as Nick, Leo Carillo is a panic, Mary Brian is her sweet self and Lillian Miles puts over her songs satisfactorily.

Besides the featured players the picture is filled with radio, stage and former picture players of the old musical comedy days. There are, for instance, Alexander Gray, Bernice Claire, and Richard Keene, also Jack Denny and his Orchestra, Mary Lange, Max Stamm, James Carson, Frank and Milt Britton and the Four Eton Boys.

...High Film Mark

age musical comedy score. The dances have been expertly staged by Bobby Connolly, the chorus is as comely as any Hollywood can boast of and the principals are excellent . . . particularly Roger Pryor as the young song writer and Leo Carillo as the gambler who comes to his aid.

Perhaps there are flaws in the picture, but what of it? It's swell entertainment of its kind. So, if you like musicals, then "Moonlight and Pretzels" is one that you should see by all means.

ALEXANDER GRAY

Famous Radio Stage and Vaudeville Star, who sings "Dusty Shoes" number in "Moonlight and Pretzels," now packing 'em in all over the country.

ENTIRELY NEW
"Strange As It Seems" No. 30
(Universal)

Something entirely new is shown in this one. It is an octopus guarding its eggs, a million or so of them. It includes a microscopic view of an octopus inside an egg. Another subject is a natural well of dry ice that freezes things instantly. New views of the Grand Canyon, a Yucca plant, a horned toad sealed in cement for 90 days that comes out alive, and odd uses of cactus as food are also a part of the reel. It is very interesting. Running time, 10 mins.

Review in the Motion Picture Daily

"Swell Entertainment" Says P. C. Hammond in The Evening Post

UNIVERSAL slipped neatly into the front ranks of the cinema's "back to musicals" movement last night with the premiere showing of "Moonlight and Pretzels," which from this section of the gallery looks as though it would be at the Rialto for some time to come.

Loaded down with excellent players and considerably above the average bunch of chorus girls, to say nothing of a lively and engaging score, "Moonlight and Pretzels" is swell entertainment on a rainy day or any other kind of night. Its occasionally lagging and sometimes naively written book is satisfactorily redeemed by several first-rate performances—notably those of Leo Carillo, Roger Pryor, who makes his screen debut in this picture; Bobby Watson, Mary Brian and Lillian Miles—and by a handful of catchy and lingering tunes.

Having agreed that it was time to bring back the musical shows, the Universal people have spent a lot of money and summoned some of the best available talent to make this picture one of the best of its kind. And I think they have succeeded.

Leo Carillo, as the gambling Greek, who wins and then loses the show, might have stolen the acting honors had it not been for the strength of the surrounding cast. Roger Pryor, as the song writer who almost forgot, is perfectly cast and should be seen plenty in the future. Mary Brian is her own lovely self in a rather thankless role. Lillian Miles does very well as the goodhearted hotcha they call Elsie and Bobby Watson, Herbert Rawlinson and William Frawley round off an exceptionally good cast.

To these not very ancient ears, "Ah, But Is It Love" is one of the catchiest tunes written in several seasons, and "Dusty Shoes" sung by Alexander Gray, will be heard often.

The picture was made here in New York under the supervision of Stanley Bergerman. It was directed by Karl Freund and produced by William Rowland and Monte Brice. The songs and lyrics are work of Messrs. Harburg, Gorney, Hupfeld, Siegel and Fain.

Slim Summerville and ZaSu Pitts in their forthcoming Comedy, "Oh Promise Me," from the well known Broadway play.

"WORLD'S GREATEST THRILLS" TAKES SCREAMING PRECEDENCE OVER REGULAR DRAMATIC FEATURE

"World's Greatest Thrills" Intensely Exciting Feature at Criterion.

"WORLD'S GREATEST THRILLS" made by Universal, is one of the most exciting pictures I have ever seen. It is at the Criterion, where it takes screaming precedence over the regular dramatic feature, "Clear All Wires," starring Lee Tracy.

With Graham McNamee's staccato comments to hold it together, this astonishing compendium of death and destruction fairly rips through the projection machine — a holocaust in celluloid. Burning buildings, careening racers, crashing planes, floods, hurricanes, riots, and the horrific spectacle of a cruiser catapulting hundreds of wriggling humans into the sea as it turns over—these are some of the petrified moments caught by newsreel cameramen.

Many of them, I gather, were withheld from circulation when the events they illustrated were "news." Some will be recognized for what they were; the effect of all of them is to give one a feeling of dizzy insecurity in a transient world. For this is a history of violence.

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER,
LOS ANGELES TIMES,
AUGUST 5, 1933

Here's Your

Radio Stars, Ted Healy and Stooges in Theatre Yarn

Hollywood Herald Review of "LAUGHTER IN THE AIR" August 17, 1933 issue

THROUGHOUT America there are millions of radio fans who are very much interested in Myrt and Marge. Eddie Cantor, who really ought to know, stated at a dinner in Hollywood recently, that he considered the radio act of Myrt and Marge to be one of the most popular on the air today. Universal will certainly cash in on this screen presentation of these radio favorites.

Without doubt the presentation of this comedy of the theatre starring Myrt and Marge means the possibility of collecting real money at the box office. This should be particularly successful in the smaller towns where community folk are particularly keen about radio personalities as was proved in the first great success with radio players, "The Big Broadcast."

FROM VARIETY

"First Mate" Rates First In Indpls., No Competish

Indianapolis, Aug 21.

Summerville and Pitts in "Her First Mate" are faring better at the Apollo than they would have if the other theatres were offering any competition. Advertised heavily, this comedy will probably do a very good $4700 for the best business in several dismal weeks at the Apollo.

Estimates for This Week

Apollo (Fourth Ave.) (1,100; 25-40) "Her First Mate" (U). Pitts and Summerville have always been good at the Lyric here with vaude. to help, but this is their run at the Apollo. First choice of the neighbors this week in face of poor competition is enabling them to put the business up out of the depths to a good $4600. Last week "No Marriage Ties" (RKO) very sad at $2700.

Guide To Universal Picture Quality

"KING OF JAZZ" IS THE FINEST STRICTLY MUSICAL FILM EVER OFFERED

New Orleans States Review

SAENGER

That Paul Whiteman is still the master of modern rhythmic music is again proven by the revival of the "King of Jazz" on the Saenger screen. The great musical melange, which thrilled its viewers years ago has been re-issued and again thrills its audiences.

In support of Whiteman are John Boles, Jeanette Loff, Bing Crosby, Jeannie Lang, Jack Fulton, Nell O'Day, Stanley Smith, Stadler and Rose, Harry Barris, Al Rinker, Billy Kent, Sisters G, Brox Sisters, Grace Hayes, Jacques Cartier, the Russell Markert Dancers and many others.

The film is the finest strictly musical film enjoyment ever offered on the screen and still easily ranks that. It makes no attempt at story—but is presented episodic. Boles and Jeanette in their song number are still outstanding and "It Happened in Monterey" still thrills its hearers at the theatre.

George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" will never be forgotten as the blue harmony emanates from the screen's kaleidoscopic pianos. The great "Melting Pot" scene still stands out as one of the finest mass musical productions ever filmed—as the representatives of nations step forth following the mighty tom-tom to offer the melody of their land.

The film is a seething musical, rumbling, rhythmic movement of ever gaining proportions—that could not have been completely understood from a single viewing or hearing and will amaze those that see it again for its increased scope in their understanding. It is a mighty milling maelstrom of color, the entire film is done in excellent color and music.

We recommend the film again as when it first showed here and recommend a second view by those who have seen it. They will be surprised how little of the film they really grasped the first time.

THEY WERE ALL WRONG; SO ITS GOOD

From Box-Office (Aug. 17th)

Universal 67 Minutes Aug. 17, '33

A stormy night, a gloomy-looking castle in which is a blue room where three murders had been committed 20 years before. A birthday dinner for the heroine, who has three suitors as her guests. The story of the blue room is told. The men decide that each will sleep in the room on three successive nights. Tragedy befalls the first two, but the third, Paul Lukas, escapes and solves the mystery. The idea has been worked before and your patrons are familiar with the ghostly sets and atmosphere. However, it's good hokum and holds interest. At a private screening four circuit bookers bet 50 cents they knew who the killer was before the end of the picture. They were all wrong, so it is evident that the mystery is well developed. Directed by Kurt Neumann.

Paul Lukas, Gloria Stuart, Lionel Atwill, William Janney.

SECRET OF THE BLUE ROOM

Mystery Drama

Three And A Half Stars for "The Rebel"

IN her review of "The Rebel," Kate Cameron, the new reveiwer of the Daily News, gave this Universal picture 3½ stars.

"The Rebel," she says, "is a grand picture. It is full of action. It has beautiful Austrian Alpine country as background. It has been expertly photographed and directed, and it serves to return the beautiful Vilma Banky to the screen after too long an absence.

"A love story between Anderlan and the daughter of the town magistrate heightens the drama of the struggle between the professional soldiers of the invading army and the Austrian civilians.

"The acting is fine throughout. Vilma Banky is as lovely as ever and she plays her part with assurance and reserve. Trenker is a splendid actor, a good photographic subject and a clever director. His agility in climbing up and down sheer precipices, over crags and onto peaks is just a little less marvelous than the photographing of these stunts. The camera follows him and his pursuers up and down the rugged mountain sides, catching some remarkable action scenes and gorgeous scenery as it is moved expertly about.

"Victor Varconi, who was also in 'The Doomed Battalion,' is competent as the French commander."

✚ ✚ ✚

A REAL PUNCH

Here's an excerpt from the motion picture page of the Pittsburgh Post Gazette, which will be of interest to exhibitors.

". . . If you run into that two-reel Universal release "The World's Greatest Thrills," which played the Stanley last week, at any of the neighborhood houses, don't miss it. The thing carries a real punch . . ."

YOU'LL HARDLY BELIEVE—

—what your own eyes won't see!
—what your own ears will hear!
—what your own sense tells you is impossible . . .

—YET WHAT UNIVERSAL HAS ACTUALLY ACCOMPLISHED AND PUT ON THE SCREEN TO GIVE YOUR CAPACITY CROWDS THE BIG THRILL OF THEIR LIVES ! ! ! . . .

•

With Gloria Stuart, Claude Rains, William Harrigan, Dudley Digges, Una O'Conner, Henry Travers, Forrester Harvey. Screenplay by R. C. Sherriff. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by James Whale. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

The INVISIB

H.G.WELLS'
Fantastic Sensation—

STEP OUT WITH UNIVERSAL

LE MAN

"Chic" Lewis Sizes Up Universal For 1934

EDITOR OF SHOWMAN'S ROUND TABLE IN SERIES OF ESTIMATES OF PRODUCING COMPANIES GIVES UNIVERSAL HIGH RATING ON ITS RECORD AND ANNOUNCEMENT FOR 1933-1934.

Charles E. (Chic) Lewis is not only the editor of Showman's Round Table and formerly the conductor of a round-table department in Motion Picture Herald. He is a showman, an exhibitor, manager, booker, exploiteer, and has had experience in the production branch of pictures as well. In fact, the first job that young Mr. Lewis ever had,—and he isn't so old now,—was in Universal studio at the time Mary Pickford, Tom Ince, King Baggot and Owen Moore were Universal stars.

Mr. Lewis' estimate of Universal is carried in his August 19th Issue. It is too long to be quoted in its entirety as it deserves to be. Herewith are excerpts—as many as this and page 28 will permit.

The Company

TO us, Universal is more than a company; it's an institution, and, an institution with which the industry could ill afford to dispense.

For years exhibitors in all parts of the country depended upon Carl Laemmle to deliver the real meat to the box office and for too many years than we want to admit to, (it would make you think we were bent with age) we have looked upon this company as being the most consistent of all. They had more than just pictures to deliver, they had "tradition," and that's something some of the others, called "leaders" cannot point to with any great amount of pride.

"Uncle Carl" has never let the exhibitor down yet and we doubt whether 1933-34 will witness anything so radical in that company's plans or productions. They will continue to be the same dependable, reliable, never-failing Universal.

And that's not so hard to understand when you look over the roster of this company and the personnel

DUDLEY DIGGES

This English actor plays one of the most important roles in "The Invisible Man" with Claude Rains, Gloria Stuart, William Harrigan and the big cast collected by director James Whale at Universal City for the H. G. Wells masterpiece. Though Dudley Digges was born an Englishman, he is now an American citizen, having just received his citizenship papers. For years he was with the Theatre Guild, which also brought Claude Rains to stardom. "The Invisible Man" is rated as a sensation already in Hollywood.

that has been built up by it over a long period of years. With such loyalty (the kind that only the continued employment for many years can bring about) it stands to reason that this rock of Gibraltar of the motion picture industry will continue to weather the storms to come just as they have weathered them in the past. And what storms they have come through with flying colors. We ought to know. We were in the thick of the battle many times ourselves.

Past Performances

Universal has had the knack of delivering the type of picture that oft-times rates only a perfunctory review from the so-called smart city reviewers. But the exhibitors know better. Just ask them about the Summerville-Pitts series of features this past season. Their box offices will tell a far more graphic story than any writer could hope to conjure with lavish praise for less meritorious box office product. We understand only one language; the box office receipts. And in our own theatres the box office has been telling us an entirely satisfactory story on any number of Universal's pictures for the season now coming to a close.

Those who question our enthusiastic opinion of Universal's product this past year can best decide for themselves if they would check up on the pictures and the grosses. Don't let the solitary achievements of some other product influence you into believing that Big U failed to come through. Let the figures speak for themselves.

Trading with Uncle Carl

Has always been a pleasure in more ways than one. First, they have never even attempted to take the shirts off our backs. And we have traded in more than one exchange with this outfit. So the satisfactory reflections upon our dealings need not be construed to be an exception. The best proof of these statements is the plain fact that it never did take us very long to conclude a deal after we started working out a new season's contract. Unlike many of the other companies, they have never tried to jam us up with shorts that they knew full well could never be played. Especially after the double feature situation made playing shorts a tough proposition. The mere fact that we never recall an assignment of dates or a suit of any kind is ample proof that they would always listen to reason. And that is why we say they are more reasonable to deal with than some of the others.

Unless our memory is not functioning efficiently, we have never run a theatre without Universal product. And our running theatres covers a period of a great many years. And, unless we are greatly mistaken, or that the company's policies will be altered considerably, we don't expect to be without their picture for many more years to come.

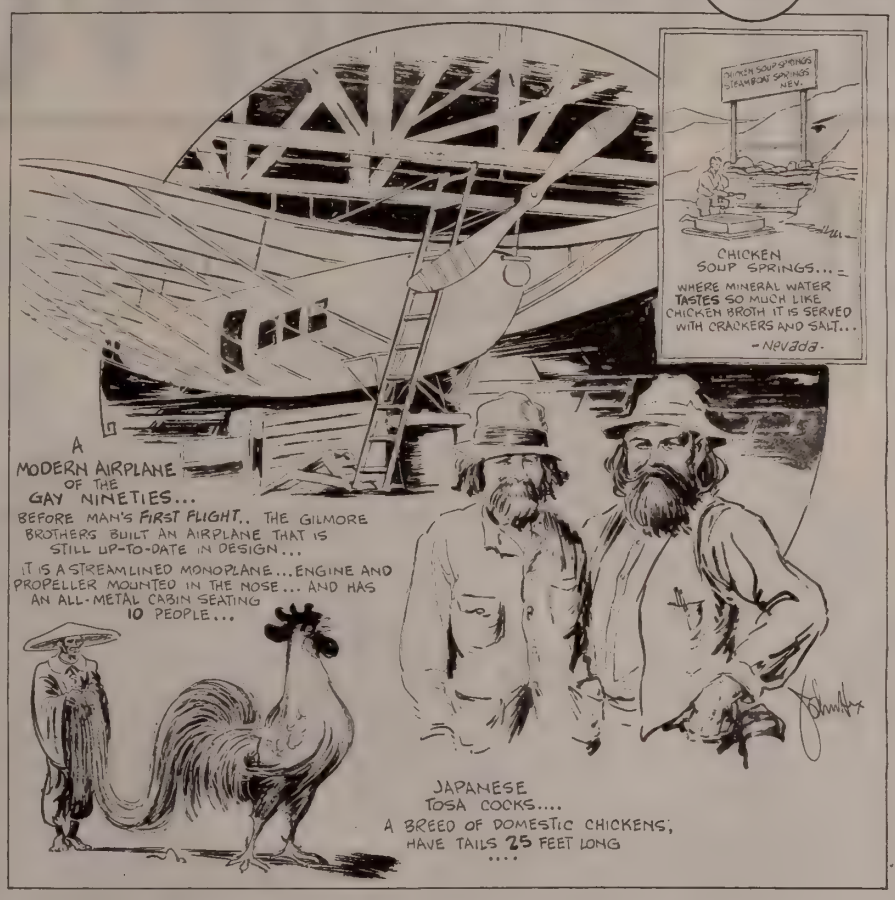
(Continued on Page 28)

Highlights in Universal's

Strange As It Seems

NO. 31

by JOHN HIX



Of the nine subjects in "Strange As It Seems No. 31," four of them are illustrated in a special drawing made for the Universal Weekly by John Hix. This drawing can be utilized as a lobby display for theatres using "Strange As It Seems No. 31." Order from your Universal Exchange.

APPARENTLY it remained for John Hix to discover a remarkable airplane which was built thirty-six years ago and which, in spite of that fact, is almost as modern as modern airplanes are. It has a streamline body, motor-in-the-head, an all-metal cabin and propeller mounted in the front. It was designed by the Gilmore brothers, who built it in a secluded valley high in the Sierra Nevada Mountains. Charles and Lyman Gilmore discovered the theory of coordinating the center of air-pressure and the center of gravity. Without this principle, flight would be impossible.

In addition to this claim, the Gilmore brothers declare that they are the first to build a monoplane, the first to apply the streamline principle, first to design a passenger-carrying ship, first to conceive the idea of an all-metal cabin, first to apply the gull-like shape to airplane wings, first to mount a motor in the nose of the ship, first to make a screw-pitch propellor mounted in the front, first to design a steam-engine for an airplane.

The Gilmore brothers' plans were so ambitious that they ran out of money, though they issued quite a bit of stock in their efforts to finance a plane that was way ahead of the times. The steam engine which airplane engineers are just now coming to visualize as a possibility, was patented in 1898 but the ten-passenger cabin monoplane patent was refused. The authorities then contended that flight was impossible without a gas bag. This ancient airplane dream which almost succeeded is the high spot of "Strange As It Seems No. 31."

But there are plenty of other almost as interesting subjects. There is, for instance, the work of Roy Waldo, miner, and H. O. Mueller. At the American Museum of Natural History in New York, they reproduce amazing examples of marine life in glass. There is a remarkable picture of Japanese long-tailed roosters. The tails are often twenty-five feet long.

Mr. Hix also shows you at Steamboat Springs, Nevada, a spring which gives out chicken soup, also a remarkable Chinese temple which was erected in Weaverville on the Oregon border for Chinese gold-miners in 1852. There were 6,000 Chinese miners there then. There are none now

This issue also contains some extraordinary scenes of marine life found in the waters of the Great Barrier Reef off the east coast of Australia. Turtles, gigantic in size, are shown in their native state. Their life, domesticity and maternal arrangements are fully described.

Life Savers!

Sli
an

HER FIR

FOR EXHIBITORS EVERYWHERE

SUMMERVILLE ZASU PITTS

Typical Report (from Motion Picture Daily): "'First Mate' leads Boston with $18,000... Boston theatres show decided gains for the week over several previous weeks, with three first runs well over par . . . R K O KEITH'S was high for the week with 'Her First Mate,' which grossed $18,000, which is $2,000 above par."

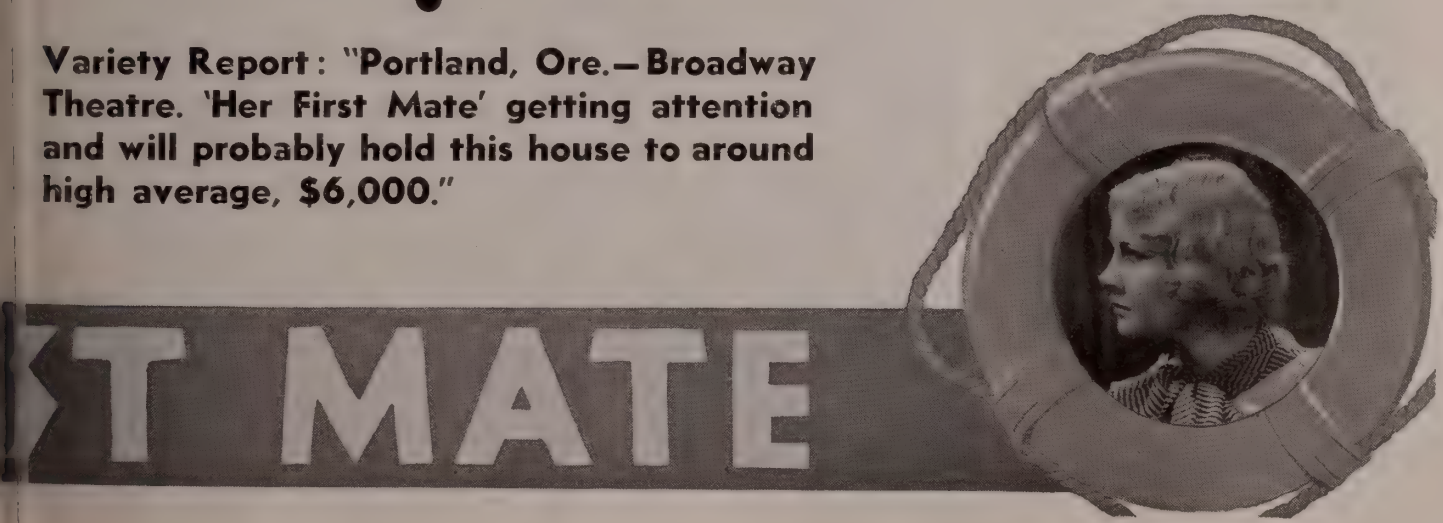
●

Variety Report: "Lincoln, Neb.—State Theatre. 'Her First Mate' (U). Looks like a second consecutive click week here."

●

Variety Report: "Portland, Ore.—Broadway Theatre. 'Her First Mate' getting attention and will probably hold this house to around high average, $6,000."

With UNA MERKEL, Henry Armetta, Berton Churchill, Warren Hymer, George Marion. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr., from the play by Daniel Jarrett and John Golden. Directed by William Wyler. Presented by Carl Laemmle. A UNIVERSAL PICTURE.



Alice White, the snappy blonde whom Universal has signed for "Kid Gloves" and "The Good Red Bricks."

ELMER RICE FLIES TO UNIVERSAL CITY

(Continued from Page 9)

known players under consideration for the part. First, there is Otto Kruger, who played the title role in the road company of the Rice play; second, Claude Rains, noted New York Theatre Guild star who is now playing in Universal's "The Invisible Man;" third, Jacob Ben-Ami, one of the theatre's most seasoned players; and last, but surely not least, Onslow Stevens, rising young Universal player who recenty scored in "The Secret of the Blue Room," and with Marian Davies in "Peg O' My Heart." Of the lot Stevens seems to have the best chance of landing the acting plum. He even looks like Muni !

Rice, incidentally, is the author of such noted stage successes as "On Trial," "Street Scene," "The Left Bank" (which Universal will film), "The Mongrel," "Cock Robin," "The Adding Machine," "Close Harmony," "The Subway," and many others.

N - E - W - S

(Continued from Page 9)

• Evalyn Knapp chosen for the Pearl White role in "The Perils of Pauline."

• The Seventh Avenue Roxy, New York, contracts to play 26 Universal pictures next year.

• Mid-States Theatres, Inc. of Michigan, seventy of them, almost all in Detroit, Ray Moon, general manager, booked Universal features, shorts, newsreel and serials.

• "Laughter in the Air" is the new title of the Myrt and Marge feature, produced by Bryan Foy with Eddie Foy, Jr., Trixie Friganza, Grace Hayes, Thomas Jackson, Ray Hedge and Colinette and her ballet of forty.

• Bert Kelly, formerly of K. B. S., becomes a Universal producer.

• Marian Nixon will support Jan Kiepura in his next picture for Universal entitled "A Song for You." Tay Garnett will direct.

• "Be Mine Tonight" completed seventeen weeks in Los Angeles and is still running strong in Minneapolis after nineteen weeks. It's in its thirteenth week in Buffalo.

✚ ✚ ✚

"Special Investigator" Cast

(Continued from Page 9)

went before the camera this week under Edward Marin's direction.

Wynne Gibson and Stevens will have the romantic leads and the supporting line-up includes William Collier, Sr., Warren Hymer, Edward Van Sloan, John Wray and Harry Woods. Gordon Kahn and Warren Duff wrote the screenplay.

"CHIC" LEWIS' COMMENT

Universal for 1933-1934

We are looking at the prospects for next season strictly through the eyes of a showman and not a writer. Perhaps that will explain the difference in opinion about many angles in this series of product discussions. But getting back to their recent announcement of 1933-34 productions. They expect to deliver a total of thirty-six pictures, which, if we recall correctly is slightly more than they sold a year ago. Of the thirty-six, they list twenty-two in their first announcement under titles.

Twelve production are announced to be chosen later according to their timeliness, which is a swell idea if Laemmle, Jr., gets under the tape in time on some current event or happening. The group is completed with six Ken Maynard westerns. Certainly a well diversified program for consistent, steady patronage.

The Summary

If we seem entremely enthusiastic or optimistic over Universal's possibilities for next year we can only look for confirmation to thousands of exhibitors all over the country who will gladly testify that what we have said is one hundred percent true. We can well recall our various trips into the field into every section of the country and Canada and our conversations with exhibitors and managers about the various companies and their product. How they invariably played Universal year in and year out without a break in their relations with the company. They would sooner do without their sleep than do without this company's pictures. And they have "got" that way only as a result of experience over a long period of years.

If productions are at all in order, we would venture the thought that as steady and reliable as they have been in the past the coming season would indicate an even more successful year. The advance announcements, the news from Universal City and the inside dope we've had brought to our attention all indicate that this company will be up among the leaders when a product analysis is made a year from now.

SHOWMANSHIP

A DIGEST OF THE BEST EXPLOITATION IDEAS OF THE WEEK

EARLY START INSURES FINISHED CAMPAIGN

Special Stunts Such As "Ladies Must Love" 24 Sheet Marquee Flash Need Early Planning!

This is not the first time you've read the urge to start your campaigns early. Everyone knows that early work usually insures a successful campaign. Yet, each week, hundreds of campaigns flop because managers, working too close to deadline, run into unexpected snags and trip over their hurriedly prepared plans. The result is that the major part of their thinking efforts is dissipated into thin air.

There's nothing like the satisfaction of carrying out a campaign with all the details you planned. And to do that you MUST get your material into work EARLY.

For example: On the picture "LADIES MUST LOVE" Universal has prepared what is perhaps one of the catchiest 24 sheets of the season. It shows the four fetching girls, who play gold-digger roles in this musical, perked up prettily on pillows in bed. Their eyes flirt with you.

We suggest that in addition to billing this sheet heavily, because of its catchlines and seat-sales ability, you ALSO use it for cut-out on your marquee. The heads of the girls are to be mounted separately on concentric rollers, belt driven, so that when the motor is turned on the heads will bob from side to side. With flasher lights set behind the eyes you'll have the four gay girls flirting with the city. (You can be sure a goodly portion of your city is going to come down to watch this display.)

You cannot take advantage of this idea overnight. If you want to use it, you must plan to do so NOW. You'll find this 24 sheet reproduced in last week's issue of the Weekly. It will soon be stocked in Universal exchanges. Show it to your display man. Set your plans to work this out NOW so that it will be ready when you want it! An early start means a finished job! JOE WEIL

A 3 Column x 15 Inch Smash

Rialto, New York Gets Big Macy-"Moonlight" Tie-Up

JOE LEE, manager of the Rialto Theatre, New York, took advantage of Universal's national tie-up on dresses made with the Modern Merchandising Bureau for "Moonlight and Pretzels" and landed this full window and three column x 15 inch ad for his engagement of the picture.

The ad and the window were used by Macy's department store, one of the largest in the world, to exploit their Cinema Shop.

This tie-up is available in all cities and will get you the co-operation of your best stores. Don't pass it up when you play this picture. See the "Moonlight and Pretzels" pressbook for details.

Part of a fleet of magazine trucks tied up by George McKenna, manager of the New Lafayette Theatre in Buffalo to advertise his run of "The King of Jazz."

McKENNA GIVES "KING OF JAZZ" BANG-UP CAMPAIGN AT NEW LAFAYETTE, BUFFALO

UP in Buffalo, N. Y., where George McKenna, manages Charlie Hayman's New Lafayette Theatre, the citizens were given plenty of eyesful about the "The King of Jazz" for several days before the opening and during the run.

One of McKenna's big stunts was a tie-up with a local brewery whereby fifteen cases of the KING OF BOTTLED BEER were awarded each night during the run of "THE KING OF JAZZ." The gag was widely advertised and attracted city wide interest.

The attractive ballyhoo float shown below, adapted from a pressbook suggestion, was used on the streets several days in advance, playing music from the ballyhoo record on a concealed phonograph. A tie-up with the local street car company placed display cards on the front and rear of Buffalo trolley cars.

The trucks shown at the top of the page are part of the fleet used by Buffalo's magazine distributor, all bannered with display ads on the picture and tying up to Screenland movie magazine.

McKenna's special "King of Jazz" front at the New Lafayette Theatre, Buffalo, N. Y. The scintillating color effects were most attractive and gave a much bigger flash than this black and white photo reveals.

McKenna boosted his newspaper advertising space and used extra paper for billing the town. He also placed seventy-five special display cards in downtown windows and used one hundred 11x14's in Neon lighted frames. The Buffalo Times ran a contest in their classified section for ten days offering free tickets to "The King of Jazz" to readers finding the stars' names in the ads. A fine campaign that does even George McKenna credit!

Buffalo's trolley cars carried these cards, front and rear, during the run of "The King of Jazz" at the New Lafayette Theatre, George McKenna manager.

Strong Plug For "Big Cage" Given By English Picture Paper

THE Sunday Pictorial, one of England's big picture weeklies tied up to run, serially, a novelization of "The Big Cage" and got behind it with one of the biggest advertising campaigns ever staged in Great Britain.

The tie-up came just as the picture was being pre-released in the Empire and added considerable impetus to the business of many theatres. The paper was so enthused over the story it started it off with a double page spread and a page runover. The day before the serial started large three column ads were run in provincial and metropolitan newspapers. Special pictorial posters were prepared for theatre use and a hundred thousand block and pictorial posters were used over a wide area. Displays were arranged for fifty thousand newsstores, and for eight hundred bus fronts.

Buffalo's Sparkling, Colorful Float!

The float ballyhoo for "The King of Jazz" at the New Lafayette Theatre, Buffalo. Music from the special accessory ballyhoo record was played on a concealed phonograph.

Yes, it says: "TOP"

"Jazz King" Philadelphia Top, $16,500

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—"King of Jazz" did a comeback here last week that surprised the town. With a stage show, it pulled the Fox gross up to $16,500, over summer normal by $500.

M.P.DAILY

SHOWMEN BOOST "FIRST MATE" WITH BIG SPACE!

(1.) Double column x 11" from Strand, Louisville, Ky. (2.) Smash 6 column x 8" from New Roxy, Seattle, Washington. (3.) Double column x 4" from Palace, Rochester, N. Y. (4.) Single column x 9" from Hill Street, Los Angeles. (5.) Two columns x 4" from Keith's Washington, D. C. (6.) Double column x 10" also from the New Roxy, Seattle. (7.) Two columns x 5" from State, Waterbury, Ct. (8.) Three column x 4¼" from Keith's Boston, Mass. (9.) Double column x 8" from Liberty, Oklahoma City.

BANG!

BANG goes a five year record as "BE MINE" closes its 17th WEEK IN LOS ANGELES

BE MINE TONIGHT

starring

JAN KIEPURA

STEP OUT WITH UNIVERSAL

From

UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORP.

730 FIFTH AVENUE

NEW YORK CITY

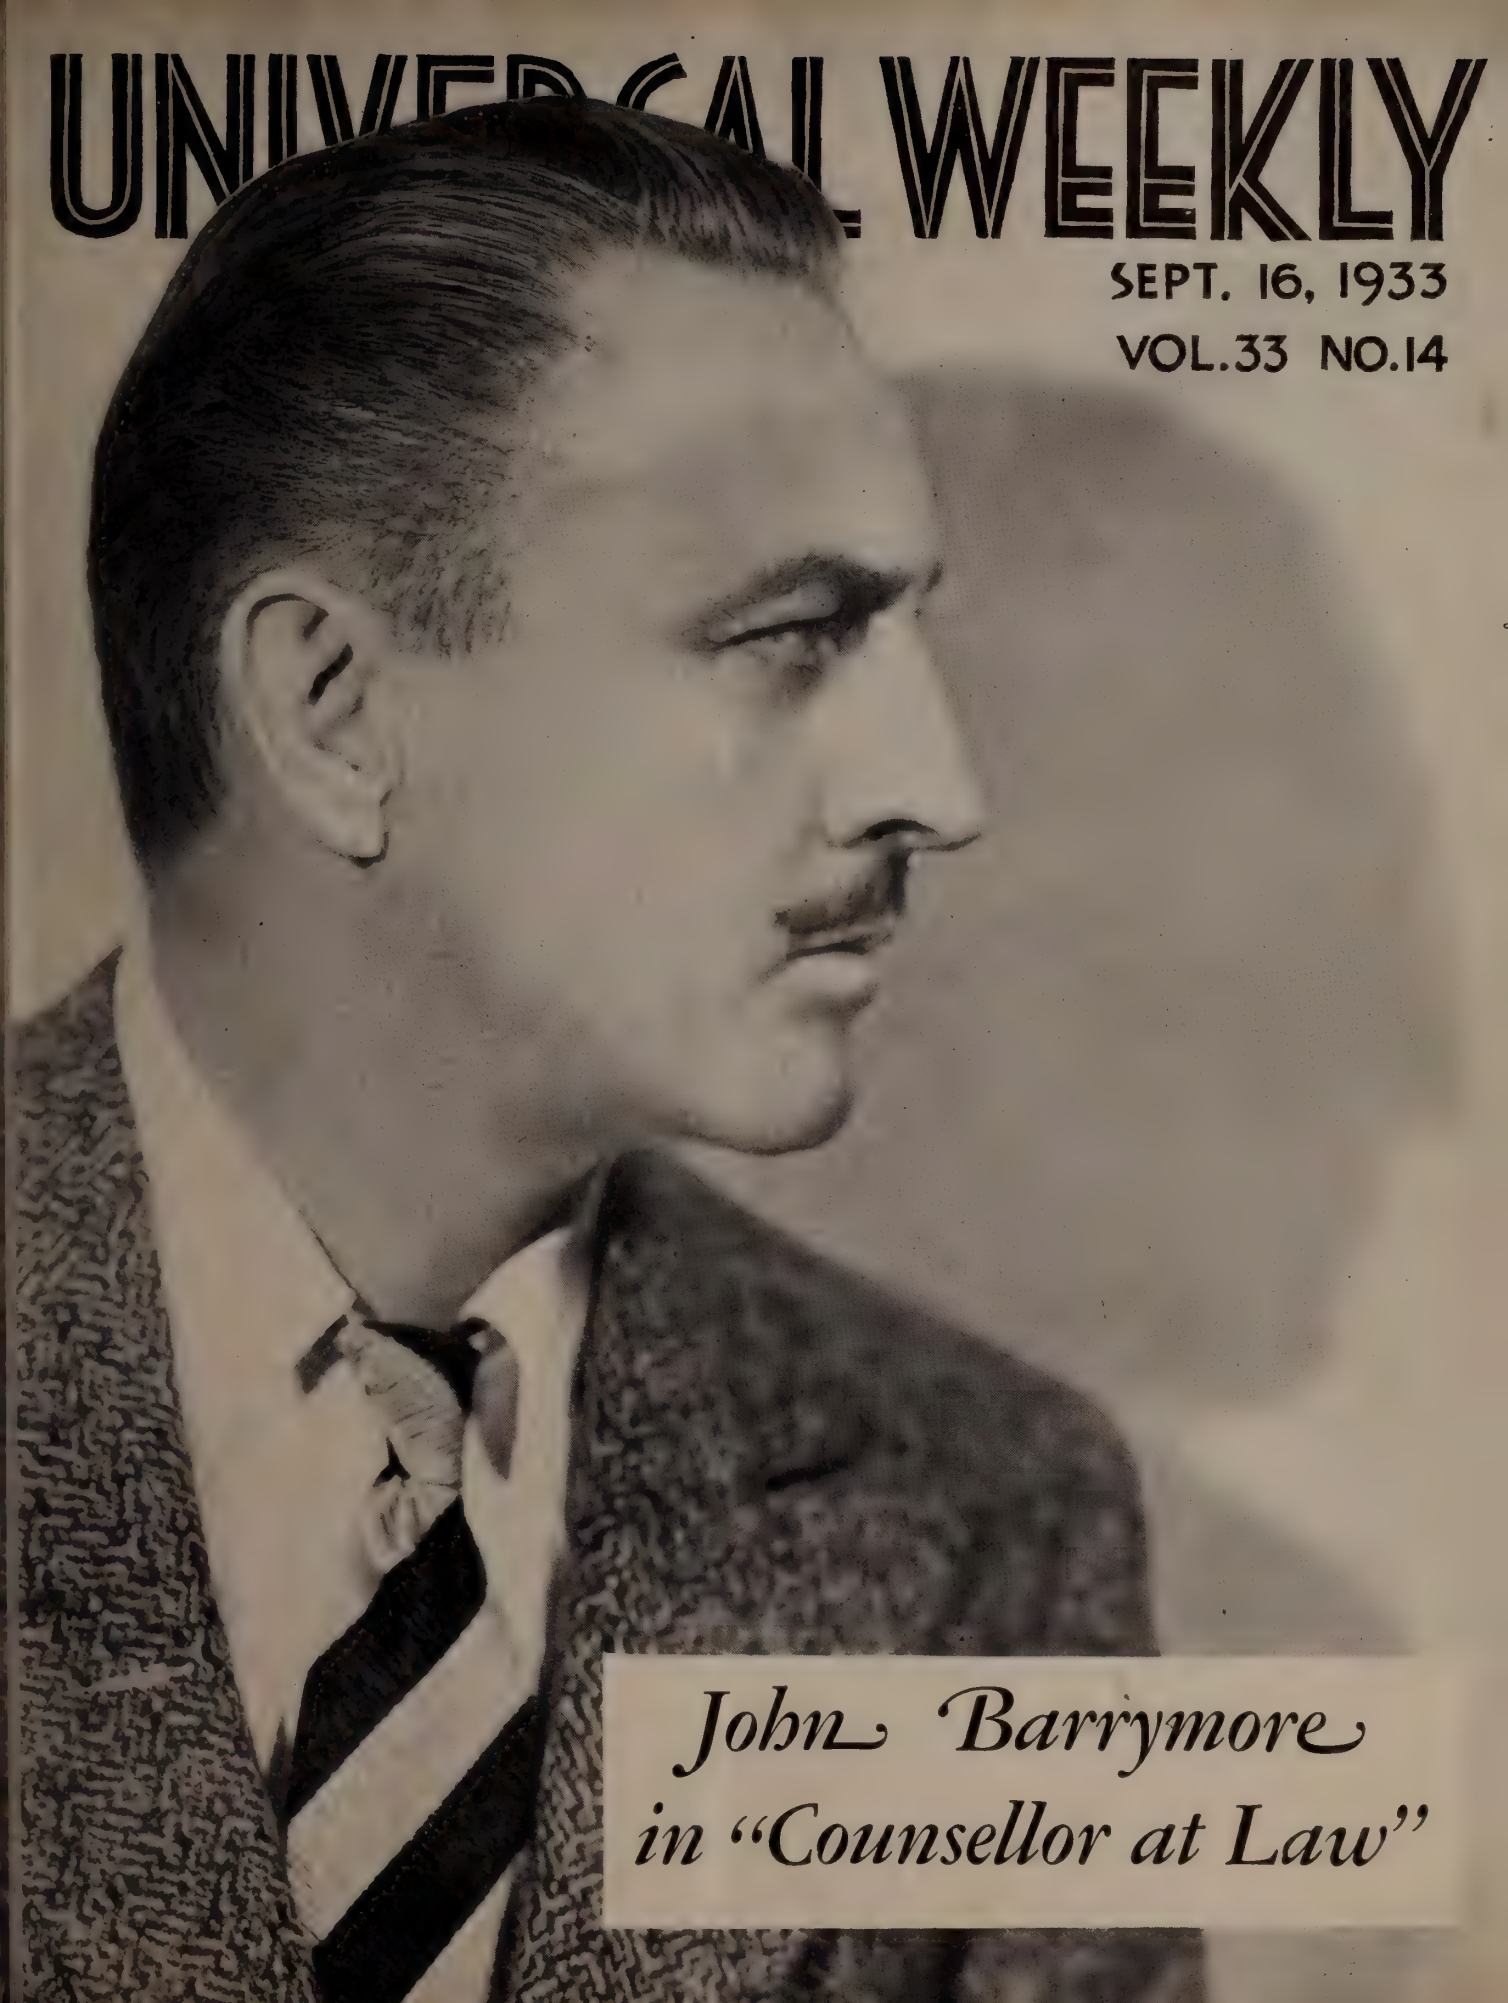
LARRY EDMUNDS, INC.
CINEMA BOOKSHOP
HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.

Sec. 562, P. L. & R.
U. S. POSTAGE
Paid
New York, N. Y.
Permit No. 949

MRS I A VINCENT
PLAYHOUSE THEATRE
ENOSBURG FALLS VT

Printed in U. S. A.

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
SEPT. 16, 1933
VOL. 33 NO. 14



John Barrymore in "Counsellor at Law"

Coming!

SLIM SUMMERVILLE AND ZASU PITTS

IN

LOVE, HONOR AND OH, BABY

●

Another Smash Hit From The Team That Makes Your Box-Office Busy!

●

The most important date this year

National release date of JOHN M. STAHL'S great
Universal Production —

ONLY YESTERDAY

DO YOU GET THIS

No. 739 Straight-from-the-Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

No person with a spark of showmanship can see the Universal Newsreel without admiring it!

It has a smartness, a grasp of world news, a friendly, intimate tone which cannot be described in words.

Thousands consider it the very best newsreel ever put together—I mean thousands of exhibitors and other show experts. But millions of movie fans love it, too.

With the universally-liked Graham McNamee delivering the oral description—with the cleverest kind of editing—with the most careful and discriminating selection of the news of the world—it is a joy to behold.

It is entertainment with a vengeance!

Of course we have an advantage over the cleverest of newspapers. They can show the news in attractive form, but they cannot hope to compete with the Universal Newsreel in showing it graphically, with action, with fire and pep and enthusiasm.

You are making a most serious mistake if you are not

NEWS

New Contracts

CONTRACTS for Universal pictures are fairly tumbling over themselves in the office of James R. Grainger, general sales manager of Universal pictures. Warner Brothers Theatres, Loew's Theatres, R. K. O. Circuit, Balaban & Katz Great States Circuit, M. E. Commerford Circuit, Lichtman Circuit, Fox Midland Theatres Circuit, Schine Circuit, are only a few of those which have been pouring in since the last Universal Weekly went to press. Turn to page 9 for these important circuit and theatre deals. It is a tremendous expression of confidence in Universal pictures.

✚ ✚ ✚

"All American Girl" in Second Film

LUCILLE LUND, Northwestern university co-ed recently crowned "The All American Girl" in a contest conducted by Universal Pictures and College Humor Magazine, yesterday was assigned a prominent role in Edward Sedgwick's current Universal production "Tin Pants" co-starring Slim Summerville and Andy Devine and featuring Leila Hyams. Miss Lund previously appeared in "Saturday's Millions."

✚ ✚ ✚

Director Edward Sedgwick Marries His Scenarist

EDWARD SEDGWICK, veteran Universal contract director, now directing Slim Summerville and Andy Devine in "Tin Pants," was married on September 3rd, to Miss Ebba Havez, scenarist who has worked with him on the scripts of several pictures.

A reception was given the bride and groom following the wedding, at the home of the director's mother, Mrs. Josephine Sedgwick, with more than 200 guests, prominent in motion picture and social circles in attendance. Mr. Sedgwick is a brother of Eileen and Josie Sedgwick, well known motion picture actresses.

FAMOUS TRIO

● Three Well Known Personalities Filmed at Universal City—John Barrymore has just signed a contract to star in "Counsellor at Law" in the office of Carl Laemmle, Jr., production chief of Universal City, and here they are, posing with Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, and all seem very happy about it.

NEXT WEEK

Announcement is hereby made that the next issue of the Universal Weekly will be a special issue devoted exclusively to Universal's tremendous Arctic drama, "S. O. S. Iceberg." This picture, produced in Greenland at a tremendous cost, and over a period of a year and a half, will have its world premiere at the Criterion Theatre, on September 22nd, in New York City.

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick, Editor
Published Weekly by the Motion Picture Weekly Publishing Co.
730 Fifth Avenue, New York City
Copyrighted 1933
Universal Pictures Corp.
(All Rights Reserved)
Sept. 16, 1933
Vol. 33 No. 14

NRA MEMBER U.S. WE DO OUR PART

Original Title Used for Summerville-Pitts Film

REVERTING to the title previously used, "Love Honor and Oh, Baby" Universal's latest completed Summerville-Pitts feature play has been shipped to exchanges for early release. During the past four weeks the title was changed three times being known as "Oh, Promise Me," and "Sue Me" as well as the release title. Eddie Buzzell directed "Love, Honor and Oh, Baby!' And the Preview report as shown on page ten of this issue is excellent.

✚ ✚ ✚

New Contract Given To Andy Devine

ANDY DEVINE, Universal's husky comedian, this week was given a new contract by Carl Laemmle, Jr. production executive and as a result of the athletic young actor's rapidly increasing popularity Devine will be given a number of screen vehicles written to emphasize his distinctive personality.

At present Devine is being co-starred with Slim Summerville in Edward Sedgwick's production tentatively titled "Tin Pants," while "Saturday's Millions," his most rcently completed filmplay is slated for release late in September.

✚ ✚ ✚

World Premiere

The world premiere of "Saturday's Millions," Universal's this year's football story, will take place at the Roxy Theatre, New York, September 29th. The story, by Lucian Cary, began this week in the Saturday Evening Post. Read it.

✚ ✚ ✚

Now Kentucky Kunnel

THE first Universal Exchange manager ever to be commissioned a Colonel is Paul Krieger. Governor Ruby Laffoon of Kentucky yesterday commissioned Krieger a Colonel on his official staff. Paul Krieger is manager of Universal's exchange in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Universal's

CONFIDENCE!

The circuits listed on the opposite page have signed for Universal, 1933-34

New Deal!

WARNER BROS. THEATRES

LOEW THEATRES
New York

RKO CIRCUIT

FAMOUS PLAYERS CANADIAN THEATRES

FRANK H. DURKEE CIRCUIT,
Baltimore

MAINE & NEW HAMPSHIRE THEATRES

BUTTERFIELD THEATRE CIRCUIT
Michigan

BALABAN & KATZ GREAT STATES CIRCUIT, Illinois

M. E. COMERFORD CIRCUIT,
Pennsylvania

M. A. SHEA THEATRE CIRCUIT,
Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York

FOX MIDLAND THEATRE CIRCUIT, Kansas City, Mo.

A. H. BLANK CIRCUIT,
Iowa, Nebraska

UNITED AMUSEMENT COMPANY, Montreal

MID-STATES THEATRES, INC.,
Detroit

E. J. SPARKS CIRCUIT,
Florida

PASCHAL TEXAS CIRCUIT

O'DONNELL CIRCUIT,
Texas

EAST TEXAS AMUSEMENT CO.

M. A. LIGHTMAN CIRCUIT,
Tennessse

LOUIS ROME CIRCUIT,
Baltimore

MINNESOTA AMUSEMENT CO.
Minnesota, North and South Dakota

WM. BENTON CIRCUIT, New York

GLEN DICKINSON CIRCUIT,
Kansas

TRI-STATE CIRCUIT, Oregon

JENSEN & VON HERBERG, Seattle

JOHN HAMRICK,
Seattle, Wash., & Portland, Ore.

MAX SCHWARTZ CIRCUIT,
Louisville

J. J. PARKER, Portland, Ore.

SHARBY CIRCUIT,
New Hampshire, Vermont

HARRY HUFFMAN CIRCUIT, Denver

SCHINE CIRCUIT, New York

MORTON G. THALHIMER CIRCUIT, Richmond, Va.

POLI CIRCUIT, Connecticut

LICHTMAN CIRCUIT, Wash., D. C.

● Pauline faces another danger. "The Perils of Pauline," the world's most exciting serial, is under way at Universal City. Evalyn Knapp, is playing the old Pearl White role to the queen's taste under the direction of Ray Taylor and Robert Allen (Hugh Enfield) plays the role that was made famous by Crane Wilbur. Don't think that "The Perils of Pauline" will be the unbelievable thing that movies were, and particularly serials, in 1910. Everything has been brought up to date; everything has been made real and believable, and "Perils of Pauline" will be much more thrilling than it ever was before.

Karloff Selected for "Bombay Mail"

AS soon as Boris Karloff completes his role with Richard Dix in "Patrol" at Radio he will return to his home studio at Universal City and assume a featured assignment in "Bombay Mail," Carl Laemmle, Jr. announces. "Bombay Mail" will star Edmund Lowe and was prepared for the screen by Lawrence G. Blochman.

Meanwhile preparations are going steadily forward at Universal for Karloff's next big make-up thriller. "The Return of Frankenstein," in which the actor will again play the monster role that skyrocketed him to movie renown.

Universal To Make "The Golden Fleece"

UNIVERSAL has decided to make a screen version of the famous dramatic fantasy, "The Golden Fleece," and will star Paul Lukas in the colorful role of "Jason," it was announced yesterday at the studio. Tom Reed and Lawrence G. Blochman, who just completed the screen treatment for Universal's "Bombay Mail," have been assigned to write the continuity and adaptation.

Lukas, whose most recent picture for Universal is "The Secret of the Blue Room," has just been signed to a new long term contract by the Laemmle organization.

LATEST NEW

Audience Laughed Themselves Limp

Carl Laemmle Receives Preview Report of "Love, Honor and Oh, Baby," the First Slim Summerville-ZaSu Pitts Picture for Next Season

WHEN Slim Summerville and ZaSu Pitts first started to make a picturization of the Broadway play, "Oh, Promise Me," the title suggested for it was "Love, Honor and Oh, Baby." This box-office title took such a keen hold on everybody that it was impossible to change it back to "Oh, Promise Me" or to "Sue Me" as the title department attempted to do. This week it was decided therefore, to revert to "Love, Honor and Oh, Baby" as the final title for the first Slim Summerville-ZaSu Pitts feature for 1933-1934.

Carl Laemmle has just received from the studio reviewer a report of the preview of "Love, Honor and Oh, Baby." The report was made by Ralph Adair, and here was the report just as Mr. Laemmle received it.

"This picture was a hit even before it started.

"The audience didn't know what was coming. At previews nobody ever knows what the picture is to be, or who is in it. The moment the names of Slim Summerville and ZaSu Pitts came on the screen, the laughter and applause began. Howls of joy from the kids—giggles from the women and haw-haws from the men. Then applause from everybody. In other words—to the audience it was a glad surprise. This gives you an idea of what the public thinks of these two players.

"The picture was sold from the very first scene. It was a closeup of the woe-begone Slim hearing the voice of the judge pronouncing a sentence of twenty years. Not Slim being sentenced. Merely Slim's client. You see, Slim is a lawyer in this picture.

"As a lawyer, what a wash-out he is. The jail is full of his trusting clients. So full that the authorities are thinking of building a bigger jail. Then along comes ZaSu and Slim takes her case. From that moment the riot

of PRODUCTION at UNIVERSAL CITY

Cameraman Arrested Again For Newsreel Exclusive

David Oliver, who received a hundred dollars from Carl Laemmle for his prison experience in Cuba, goes to jail in Binghamton-Erie Wreck Scoop.

THEY say lightning never strikes twice in the same place. Ask David Oliver. Dave is the cameraman who found himself immersed in the midst of the Cuban revolution and as a result of that, immersed in jail. Returning from Cuba, David Oliver was by fortuitous chance in the neighborhood of Binghamton when the Erie Railroad wreck occurred. He was ordered to shoot it. But when he got there, the wreck was all cleaned up, one of the fastest clean-up jobs on record.

Like the new reporter who came back from a wedding assignment and told the editor that the groom had not shown up, so there was no story, Oliver had to phone in a "no-story" report. Allyn Butterfield, Universal Newspaper Newsreel editor, was shocked.

"With fourteen people killed and thirty injured, and you can't get any pictures! Go back and get something, anyway."

Oliver went back. He shot the morgue where the fourteen victims had been taken, and was lucky enough to get several of the survivors in the hospital. Then he found where they had taken the remains of the smashed cars and in spite of a vigilant guard, photographed them.

Dave had already filled up one magazine and had re-loaded; when an irate officer of the railroad nabbed him. Oliver nonchalantly tossed the exposed magazine to his helper and looked on complacently while the officer yanked out the magazine from the camera and ruthlessly exposed what he fondly imagined to be the scenes Oliver had just shot. For the second time in a month, Oliver went to jail. This time in Binghamton. But the film was on the way to the Weekly. It was an exclusive too. No other cameraman got a shot.

For Oliver's last exploit in Cuba, Carl Laemmle wrote him a personal letter of commendation, and the letter enclosed a check for $100. Dave was grateful for that and is ready to risk life and imprisonment again for the Universal Newspaper Newsreel.

● Carl Laemmle entertains the President's son. Elliott Roosevelt and his bride visit the film capital and are shown about the Universal City stages by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal.

---

starts. ZaSu isn't on trial—she is sueing an old fellow for breach of promise. It all works up into a big courtroom scene, with all the trimmings. There hasn't been but one real good comedy courtroom scene in pictures and this is it.

"That's where the real fun begins. Incidentally Slim wins his first case and wins himself a bride. The Judge works hard with his gavel trying to keep down the tumult, but he is just a forgotten man. The audience laughed themselves limp and went home happy. Another cleanup for the well known firm of Summerville and Pitts."

Universal To Film "Sutter's Gold"

ONE of Universal's most pretentious productions of the year will be "Sutter's Gold" a picturization of Blaise Cendrars' dramatic story of the California gold rush in '49, Carl Laemmle, Jr. announced this week. Preparations for filming the story already are underway at Universal City and actual shooting is expected within a month.

The new Universal picture will tell the story of the colorful California pioneer. Few American pioneers have had the experiences of Sutter, who came to America early in the 19th century, worked his way westward, won and lost half a dozen fortunes and finally reached California by way of Vancouver, to begin 40 years of thrilling adventure.

Based on fact, "Sutter's Gold" will show how the courageous settler became the largest individual landowner in America, its first billionaire and became the most envied and hated man in the West, and how the discovery of gold on his lands brought about his ruination. Following Sutter's career, the screenplay will reveal how a man who was virtual master of all he could see from the mountain tops in the golden state became a bootblack, a dishwasher, a mad-man and who on the verge of regaining some of his wealth and position crumpled and fell before the heavy hand of fate.

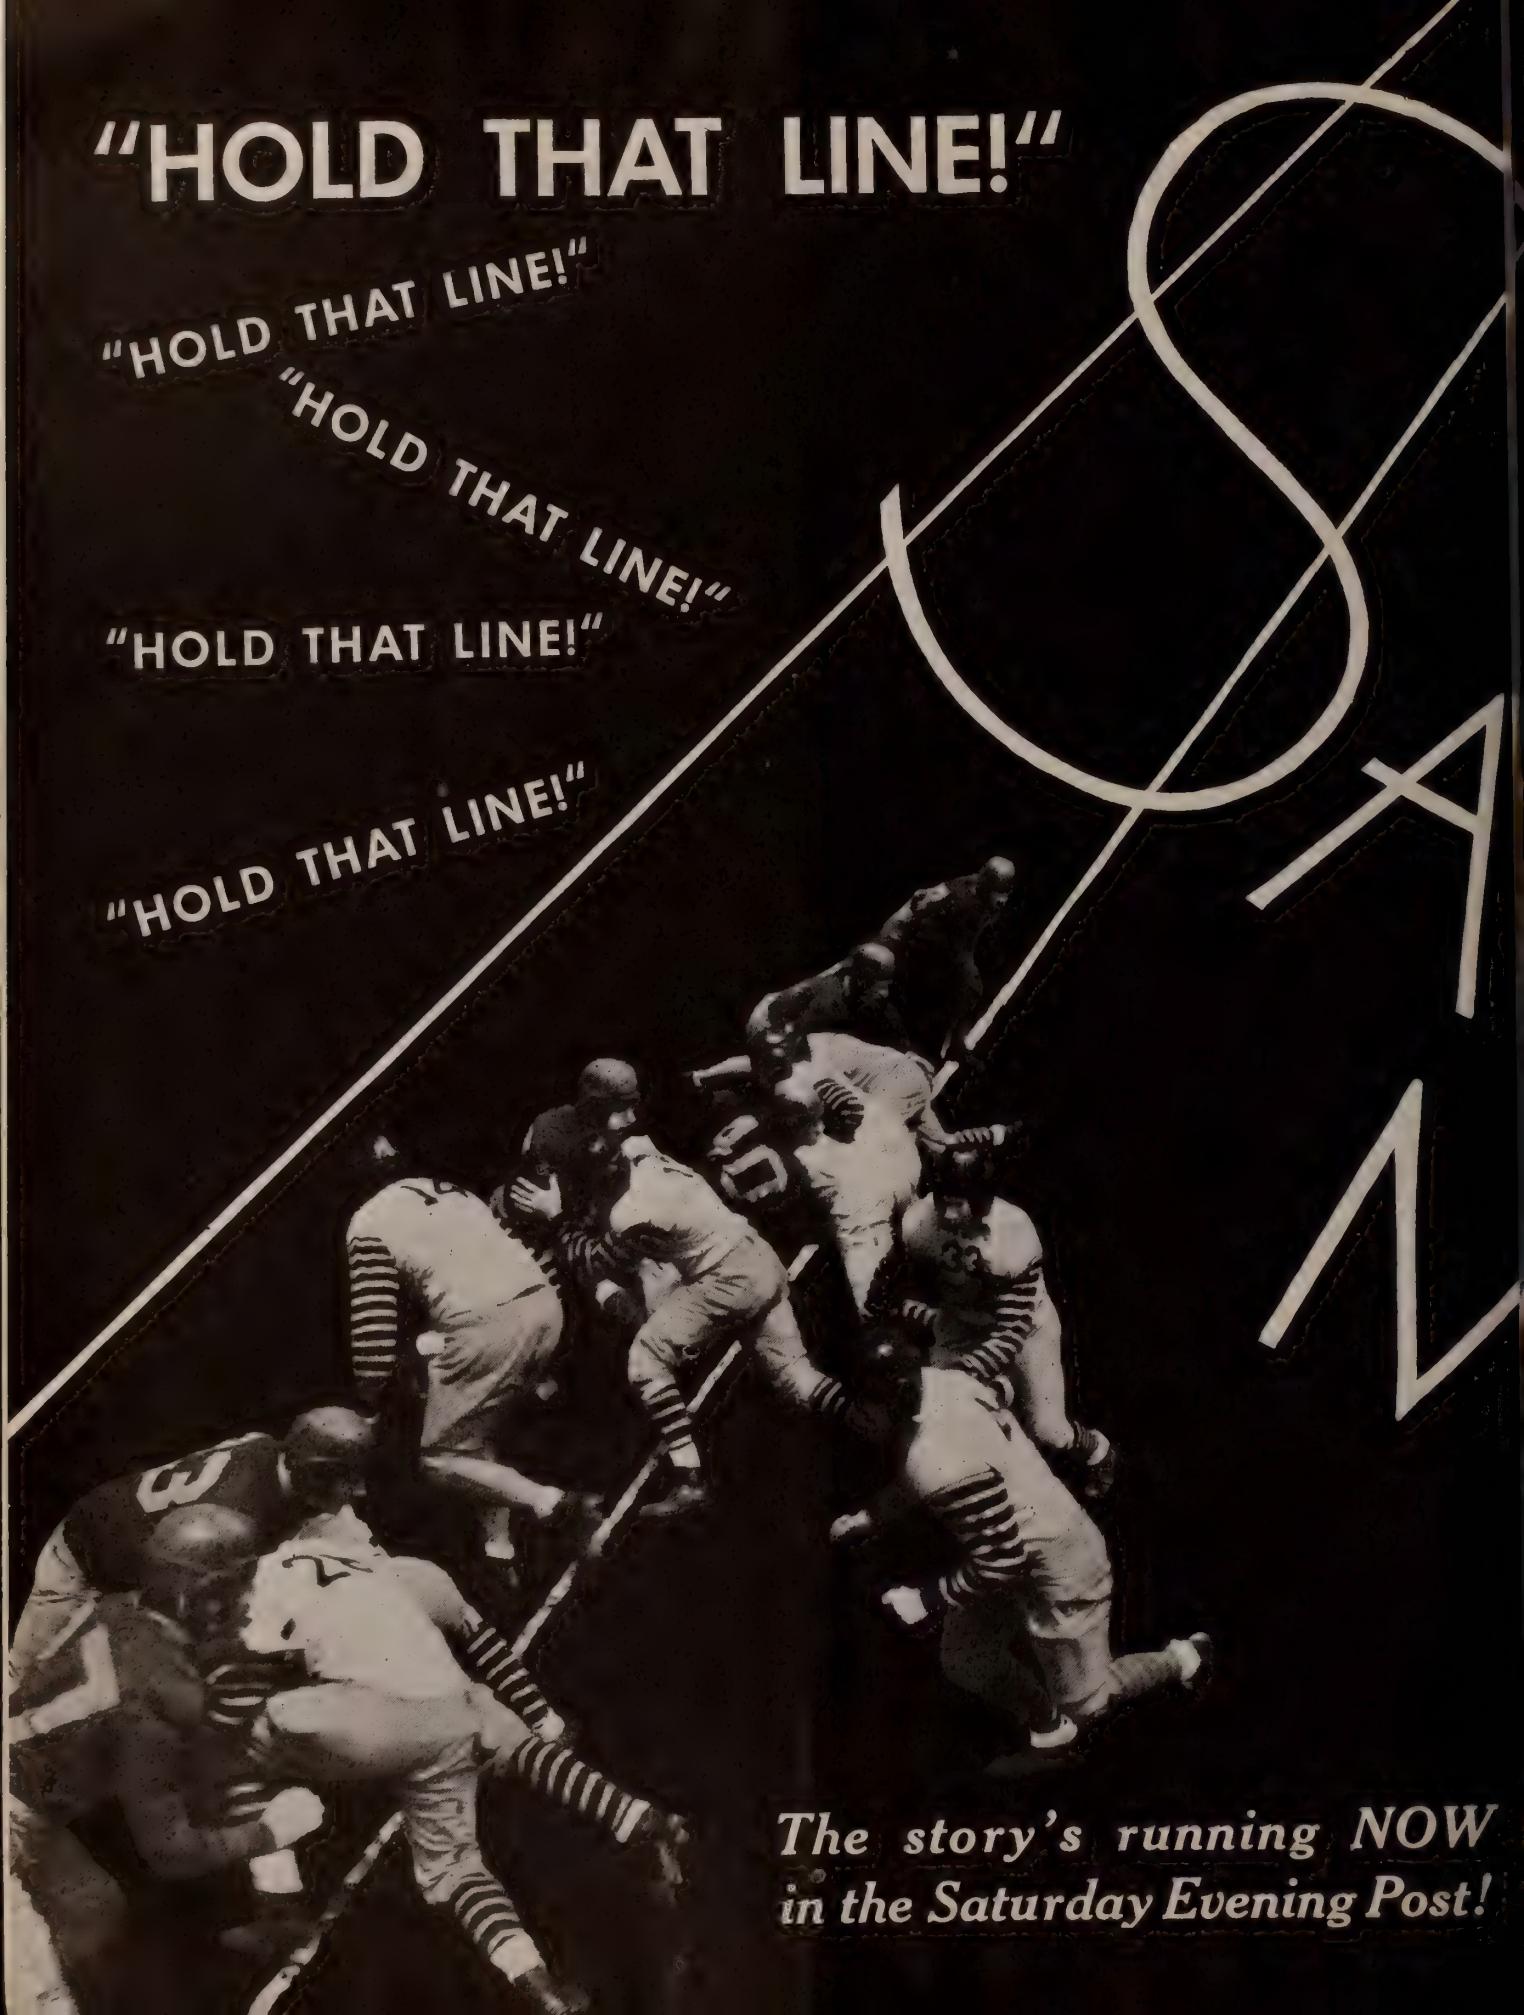
"HOLD THAT LINE!"

"HOLD THAT LINE!"

"HOLD THAT LINE!"

"HOLD THAT LINE!"

"HOLD THAT LINE!"



The story's running NOW in the Saturday Evening Post!

"HOLD THAT LINE!"

—right up to the doors of your theatre ! !

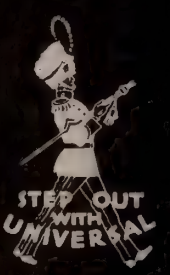
—and this is the picture that will do it! . . . Universal's smashing football romance, planned and produced to top even "The Spirit of Notre Dame" and "The All American"! . . . Released to you for the cleanup of cleanups right when this country's football fever is at consuming heat! GRAB IT!

TURDAY'S
ILLIONS

With ROBERT YOUNG, LEILA HYAMS, Johnny Mack Brown, Andy Devine, Lucille Lund (the All-American Girl), Mary Carlisle, Grant Mitchell and All-America Football Stars. Story by Lucian Cary. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Edward Sedgwick. Production arranged by Christy Walsh. Presented by Carl Laemmle.



Its Record Says:
"Sure – Fire Box–Office!"
KING OF JAZZ

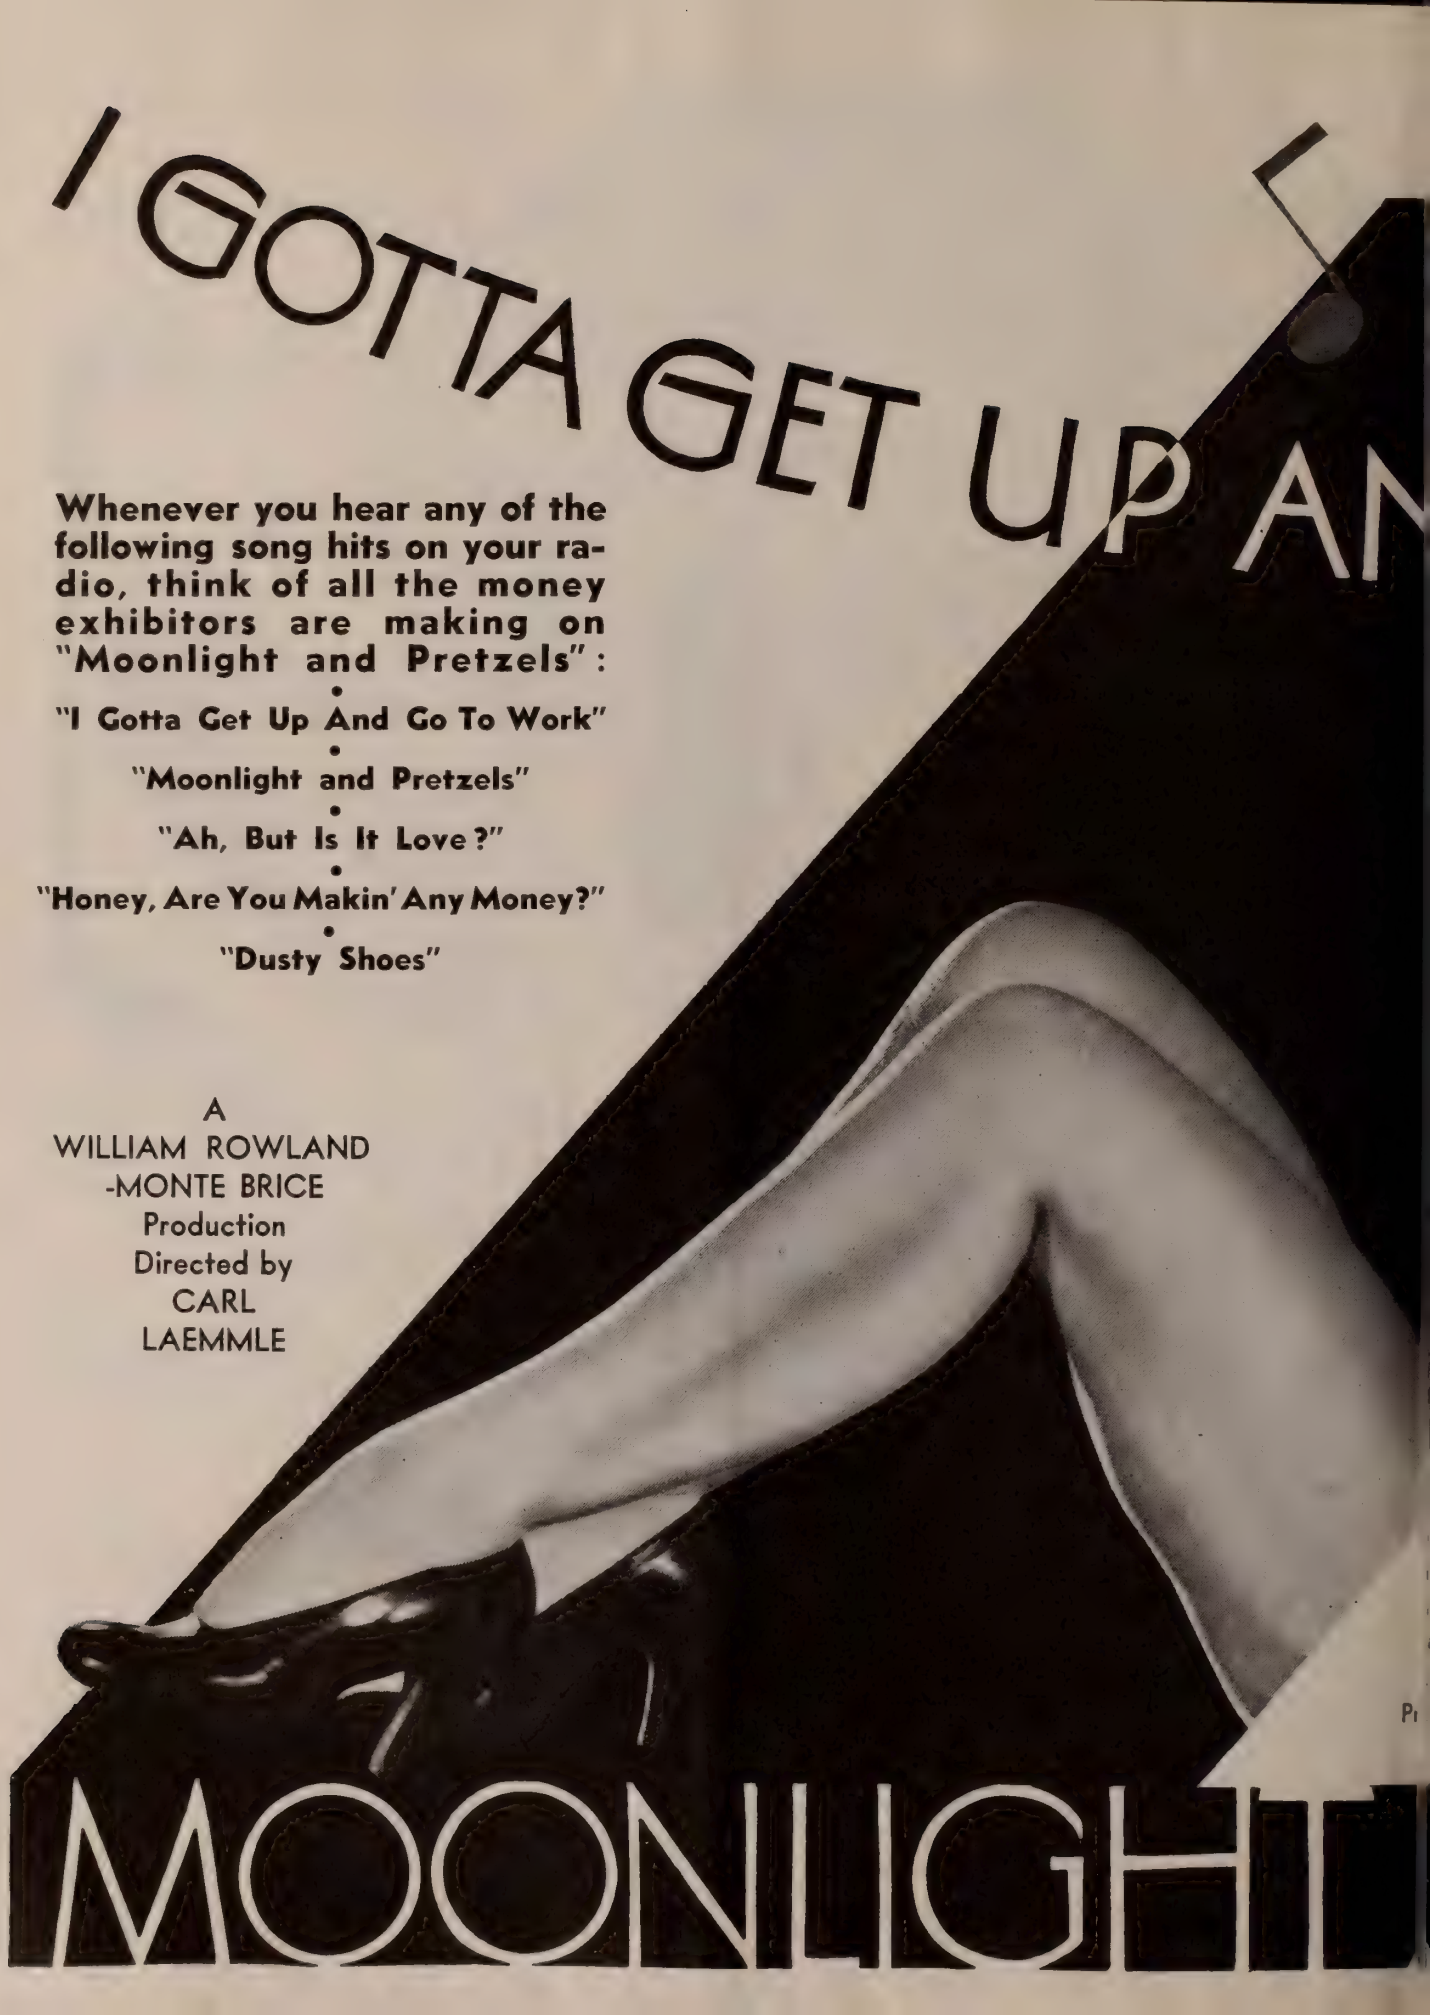
Unique Way to Herald June Knight, Coming Star

FOREST AGES McGINN, the well-known cartoonist and newspaper artist, has devised a series of two-column cartoon releases under the title, "Shooting at the Stars." For the time being, this series will be devoted exclusively to Universal stars and coming stars. The first release is June Knight in "Ladies Must Love." It is an appropriate selection, as "Ladies Must Love" is June Knight's debut in moving pictures, and "Ladies Must Love" is Universal's first musical production made at Universal City since "King of Jazz."

There is no doubt in the mind of anyone who has seen June Knight in "Ladies Must Love" that this taffy-colored performer is destined for stardom. She has what it needs and moving pictures have just been crying for a personality like this. Put the name of June Knight in your list of future box-office possibilities. With "Ladies Must Love," she will burst upon the film world in a blaze of glory. Don't be left at the switch. Prepare yourself.

"Shooting at the Stars" came along too late to be included in the press book of "Ladies Must Love." If you want it for your newspaper, order it right away from your exchange, or from the publicity department, 730 Fifth Avenue, New York. Mats of this four-inch cartoon are twenty-cents each, plus postage. Your newspaper through you can have priority before we offer it in the service as an exclusive feature. The Publicity Department would be glad to know in what paper you place it, so that it will not interfere with the exclusiveness of the feature when it is offered.

Order mats of this unique cartoon of June Knight direct from the Exchange or from the publicity department of Universal Pictures, 730 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Mats, 20c. each, plus postage.



I GOTTA GET UP AN
Whenever you hear any of the following song hits on your radio, think of all the money exhibitors are making on "Moonlight and Pretzels":
"I Gotta Get Up And Go To Work"
"Moonlight and Pretzels"
"Ah, But Is It Love?"
"Honey, Are You Makin' Any Money?"
"Dusty Shoes"
A
WILLIAM ROWLAND
-MONTE BRICE
Production
Directed by CARL LAEMMLE
MOONLIGHT

D GO TO WORK!

—Yes, baby, you gotta get up and go to work — but what a swell job you helped do on your last effort!— "Moonlight and Pretzels" is a positive WOW EVERYWHERE! — and the proof is in every trade paper report you read!

With Leo Carrillo, Mary Brian, Roger Pryor, Herbert Rawlinson, Lillian Miles, Bobby Watson, William Frawley, Alexander Gray, Bernice Claire, Jack Denny and his orchestra, Frank and Milt Britton and Band . . . Story by Monte Brice, Sig Herzig and Arthur Jarrett . . . Screenplay by Sig Herzig . . . Dances staged by Bobby Connolly . . . Music Supervision Jay Gorney . . . songs and Lyrics by Jay Gorney, Herman Feld, Al Siegel, Sammy Fain, E. Y. Harburg . . . Directed by Freund. Dialogue direction by Monte Brice. All under the personal supervision of Stanley Bergerman.

ND PRETZELS

"Only Yesterday" Completed W

John M. Stahl Used 4500 Extras In Universal's Most Important Picture Of The Season.

THE "extra's paradise" is no more: the "parts-players delight" is a matter of history.

With the engagement of 18 additional well known screen players for the final sequence of John M. Stahl's Universal drama, "Only Yesterday," the filming of this unusual picture came to a close last week. Those appearing in these final scenes along with many other supporting players, were Edmund Breese, Ben Bard, Creighton Hale, Natalie Kingston, King Baggot, William Davidson, Lloyd Whitlock, Virginia Howell, Jason Robards, Robert Bolder, Lynn Cowan, Maidel Turner (from the New York stage) George Irving, Eddie Kane, George Hackathorne, James Donlan, Otto Hoffman and Harvy Clark, bringing the total cast to 93 speaking parts.

"Only Yesterday," presented as Universal's most ambitious picture of the season, features Margaret Sullavan, John Boles, Billie Burke and Reginald Denny in leading roles, and other important parts are played by Edna May Oliver, Jimmy Butler, Benita Hume, George Meeker, June Clyde, Barry Norton, Matt McHugh, Vivien Oakland, Bert Roach, Onslow Stevens, Natalie Moorhead and many more. In addition more than 4,500 extra players appeared in its various scenes, and 14 weeks were required

"S.O.S. Iceberg" in New Y

THE completed negative of Universal's amazing drama of the arctic, "S. O. S. Iceberg," has arrived in this country and will be shown for the first time Friday, Sept. 22nd, at the Criterion Theatre, New York, where it will have its world premiere.

The run will be a two-a-day presentation and elaborate plans are being made by the theatre for a record engagement.

Universal's six months' expedition into northern Greenland, headed by Dr. Arnold Fanck, noted outdoor film producer and explorer, brings to the screen a tense drama staged in polar regions never before penetrated by the sound camera. Essentially an epic of high adventure and unconquerable love, "S.O.S. Iceberg" crowds into its exciting reels the thunderous explosion of a giant ice-

Onslow Stevens and Wynne Gibson in the first still taken of "Wanted at Headquarters," which was formerly called "Special Investigator."

Important Additions t

TWO important changes were made yesterday in the cast of "Counsellor at Law," which went into production at Universal City. Because of the opportunity of securing Isobel Jewel, who originated the role, to play the telephone operator, Bessie Green, Alice White, who had been previously announced for this role, was switched to a role in "Dangerous to Women."

Miss Jewell, who becomes one of a dozen prominent players selected to support Barrymore, won her first stage fame in "Counsellor at Law." She attracted the attention of motion picture executives, who sent her to Hollywood.

Her most recent screen appearance is with Otto Kruger and Madge Evans in "Beauty for Sale."

The other change was in the role of Roy Darwin. As a result of a physical and psychological change in the screen characterization of the "heavy," Melvyn Douglas yesterday was ordered into the role, replacing

Nils Asther, Esth Added To The In

THREE additions to the cast of "By Candlelight" were announced yesterday by Carl Laemmle, Jr. at Universal City. Paul Lukas and Elissa Landi, as previously announced, play the leads. The new supporting cast includes Nils Asther, Esther Ralston and Lawrence Grant.

"By Candlelight" is the first Universal picture in which Nils Asther has ever played. His selection for the ith 93 Name Cast

for its filming. The story covers a period of 12 years, and includes many historical events in the recent history of the United States.

Margaret Sullavan, favorite ingenue of the New York stage, makes her screen debut in this picture, and it is predicted that its release will result in elevating her to stardom. Miss Sullavan is on the way to New York for a vacation before going into "The Good Red Bricks" as her second picture. "Only Yesterday" will make her a screen star.

Chester Morris, Frank Albertson and Helen Twelvetrees, in the first still from "Dangerous to Women," by William Anthony McGuire.

rk Two-a-Day Premiere berg, a mortal struggle against ravenous ice bears, the screen debut of northern lights, and the miraculous feat of a plane landing on a floating iceberg.

"S.O.S. Iceberg" marks the return of Rod La Rocque to the screen. Other featured players include the beautiful and daring Leni Riefenstahl; the rugged character actor, Gibson Gowland; German's great war ace Major Ernst Udet; Sepp Rist, famous Austrian mountaineer; Dr. Max Holsboer, ski wizard; and Walter Riml. Tom Reed adapted the screenplay from an original story by Dr. Arnold Fanck, who also collaborated with Tay Garnett in the direction of the picture. The cinematography is by Hans Schneeberger and Richard Angst, two of Europe's most noted cameramen.

"Counsellor at Law" Cast

Sidney Blackmer. Change of character from brunette to blonde and making him less a villain in the lines is said to be responsible for the substitution.

"Counsellor at Law" will mark Douglas' first screen work since he and his wife, Helen Gahagan, recently returned from several months of travel in the South Seas.

Frederick Burton was last week assigned to the cast in the role of Canfield.

John Barrymore is starred in "Counsellor at Law," with Bebe Daniels, Doris Kenyon, Isobel Jewel, Thelma Todd, and Onslow Stevens heading a large cast of supporting players from the original stage cast. William Wyler is directing.

r Ralston and Lawrence Grant osing Cast of "By Candlelight" important role was dictated by the splendid way in which he played a character part in "The Bitter Tea of General Yen. "Lawrence Grant has never appeared in a Universal picture before though he is a well-known character actor and began his picture career by playing the role of the Kaiser in 1918. Esther Ralston was virtually a Universal discovery and played in many pictures on the Universal lot. She was also the featured player of "Rome Express," a British Gaumont production, which Universal released.

"By Candlelight" is a play by Siegfried Geyer, produced at the Prince of Wales Theatre, London, and the Empire Theatre, New York City. It will go into production on Friday under the direction of Robert Wyler.

Elaborate Settings For "Counsellor At Law"

WITH "Counsellor at Law," by Elmer Rice, one of America's greatest playwrights, ready for screening and with John Barrymore heading one of the most remarkable casts assembled this year, Carl Laemmle, Jr. is giving the production elaborate modernistic background.

The entire floor space of one of the largest stages at Universal Studio has been converted into the law offices of George Simon, played by Barrymore, and John T. Tedesco, the role given Onslow Stevens. In style it compares with the most luxurious offices of the Empire State and Chrysler Buildings in New York City. The library alone, in which part of the screenplay will be produced, contains more than 2,500 volumes of law.

The floors of the offices are covered with deep carpets, the walls with bass relief sculpture. Furniture is strictly modern, with wide desks, heavy chairs, lounges and clocks, to say nothing of lighting fixtures, lavish in their stark simplicity.

There is much metal work, consisting of aluminum and other rust-proof alloys. The entire set is so constructed that one on first entrance believes he is in a vast law office. Sets were constructed under the supervision and from designs created by Dan Hall, Universal art director.

In the cast are Bebe Daniels, Doris Kenyon, Onslow Stevens, Isobel Jewell, Thelma Todd, and nine New York players who created their roles on the Broadway stage.

"Breezy and snappy, this is a new kind of gold-digger yarn, novelly premised to permit a unique romantic angle," says Motion Picture Herald. "It introduces a new personality, June Knight, who clicked with the preview audience. Dialogue is crisp and brittle, action is fast and catchy and a couple of Miss Knight's song numbers have that tingle and tempo that should have audiences humming. The story is modern for the moderns, the kind of show that should appeal strongly to the young bloods, yet which has plenty of sparkle to intrigue the more mature.

LADIES MUST LOVE

With JUNE KNIGHT — NEIL HAMILTON— SALLY O'NEILL — DOROTHY BURGESS — MARY CARLISLE, Oscar Apfel, George E. Stone, Virginia Cherrill. Suggested by a play by William Hurlbut. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by E. A. duPont. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

Extravagant Praise For "Moonlig

A SLEEPER WINS!

GLEN W. DICKINSON THEATRES, INC.

Hiawatha, Kansas, August 6, 1933

Mr. Wm. Benjamin,
Universal Pictures,
Kansas City, Mo.

Dear Bennie:

You know I used to like to pick up a racing form and delve into the entries, looking for a sleeper, in other words a horse that was better than rated in the race. When they win you pick up a bankroll and when they lose it is just another day.

I am beginning to classify the show business with the racetrack: Pick a sleeper and cop a bankroll. The other day I received from New York, the first announcement on "MOONLIGHT AND PRETZELS"—To use the venacular of the race track it looked like a sleeper: Title, story, stars, direction and a trainer of steppers that never lost a race.

In going through past performances I saw this entry classed with "Forty Second Street" and "Gold Diggers." Did it have a chance with this fast company? Well, sez I, he is owned and entered by Uncle Carl and all his entries finish close up and fast. My friends told me there was nothing to it, that he didn't have a chance in that class. Bet on the others while you only get fifty cents on the dollar they're a cinch. I looks over the form again and decide to stay with Uncle Carl's entry. I called some friends in for a morning's workout and did "MOONLIGHT AND PRETZELS" show speed—Sez I to myself, that coupled with Dusty Shoes can win any stake no matter what the competition might be. I figured he might be a slow starter but would finish fast and would pay a carload because the public wasn't wise to his speed.

The race started, all you could hear was Forty Second Street and Gold Diggers, but around in the back stretch M & P started to show speed and from then on all you could hear from the crowd was "Uncle Carl has another winner." This baby just won going away from a classy bunch and should be the public choice from now on.

Yes, Bennie, it's a great entry and should pass everything in its class. Well, I'll be seen' you some of these days. Now I GOTTA GET UP AND GO TO WORK.

With best personal regards, I am

Sinncerely yours,

FRANK WHITTAM, Manager
Dickinson Theatre,
Hiawatha, Kansas

TELEGRAM

SPOKANE WASH SEPT 5 1923

UNIVERSAL FILM EXCHANGE
SEATTLE WASH

MOONLIGHT AND PRETZELS CHALKED UP RECORD SATURDAY SUNDAY OPENING AND EXCEEDED ALL PREVIOUS MONDAY GROSSES THIS YEAR STOP AUDIENCE REACTION IMMENSE AND WORD OF MOUTH ASSURES PICTURE WILL BUILD NECESSITATING HOLDING OVER FOR ADDITIONAL DAYS STOP LOOKS LIKE UNIVERSAL HAS PLUCKED ANOTHER TEN STRIKE RIGHT WHEN THEY ARE NEEDED MOST REGARDS

RUSSELL F BROWN
STATE THEATRE

TELEGRAM

LAGRANGE GA AUG 21 1933

UNIVERSAL FILM EXCHANGE
ATLANTA GEORGIA

JUST FINISHED TWO DAY ENGAGEMENT EACH AT OUR FAMILY AND RITZ THEATRES ON MOONLIGHT AND PRETZELS TO BIGGEST GROSS ANY PICTURE THIS YEAR EXCEPT FIRST RUN ON REVIVAL OF WHOOPEE STOP MARVELOUS COMMENTS ON PICTURE FROM PATRONS STOP IF MOONLIGHT AND PRETZELS A SAMPLE OF UNIVERSAL COMING PRODUCTIONS THERE WILL CERTAINLY BE A NEW DEAL FOR EXHIBITORS THAT BUY AND PLAY THEM STOP I HAVE MY APPROVED CONTRACTS ON YOUR ENTIRE 1933-34 LINEUP INCLUDING BOTH ISSUES OF NEWS AND AM PROUD OF IT

WALTER L BRANDENBURG

TELEGRAM

LEWISTON IDA AUG 31 1933

UNIVERSAL FILM EXCHANGES
SEATTLE WASHINGTON

MOONLIGHT PRETZELS AGAIN HELD FOR FIFTH DAY AFTER BUILDING EVERY DAY OF RUN AUDIENCE REACTION SENSATIONAL SCORES OF PATRONS VOLUNTEER THAT ITS BEST MUSICAL YET STOP DONT LET ANY PREVIEW WISE GUYS TELL YOU THIS BABY ISNT A HONEY FOR SHOWMEN STOP CHECK IMMEDIATELY ADVISE IF YOU CAN PROTECT SPOKANE ON ANOTHER PRINT AND ALLOW US HOLD THIS PRINT FRIDAY AND SATURDAY FOR FULL WEEKS ENGAGEMENT WIRE IMMEDIATELY JUST CHECKED BOX OFFICE BIGGEST MATINEE TO DATE REGARDS

EDDIE RIVERS
GRANADA THEATRE

ht and Pretzels"

It took Ray Lewis two weeks to say all this about "Moonlight and Pretzels" in the Canadian Motion Picture Digest

(The First Week)

I WISH I had more space to talk about "Moonlight and Pretzels," Universal's musical-comedy. It has enough song-hits to make a successful musical-show for a long run on Broadway. It sings its way with song-hits all through the picture, and the songs are so catchy and tuneful that already they are being universally played, danced to, and sung. —Editor.

(The Next Week)

LAST WEEK, your Observer had a few kind words to say about Universal's successful musical comedy, "Moonlight and Pretzels." We repeat that it has enough song hits to make a Broadway show hit. Among the most catchy is "Honey are you making any money, that's all I want to know," "Ah, but is it love?," "Dusty Shoes," and the title song, "Moonlight and Pretzels," the theme song, "There's a little bit of you in every love song," etc., etc. "Dusty Shoes" has been given a big setting and makes a grand finale for the big show.

"Moonlight and Pretzels" is given a real Budweiser atmosphere, or is it Pabst, or Schlitz? The brand is not the question because the "Moonlight and Pretzels'" brand is the real thing!

Universal has collected, or assembled, a chorus snappy enough and good looking enough for a $2.00 show. Row after row of peaches, young, shapely, wonderful dancers, and who can also sing.

For good measure take a look at the cast, it features Leo Carillo, Mary Brian, Roger Pryor, Herbert Rawlinson, Lillian Miles and a noticeable group of stage and radio stars.

✚ ✚ ✚

TWO interesting Universal notices announce that Mr. N. L. Nathanson has booked Universal product over the entire Famous Players circuit, and that The United Amusement Corp. of Montreal, of which George Nicholas is General Manager, has booked the Universal product for his entire circuit of theatres. No doubt, "Jimmy Grainger" had his finger in these substantial pies. Grainger has always had the reputation for getting play dates and at real money. Incidentally, Grainger has a wonderful ally in Clair Hague, it's a pleasure to give him business.

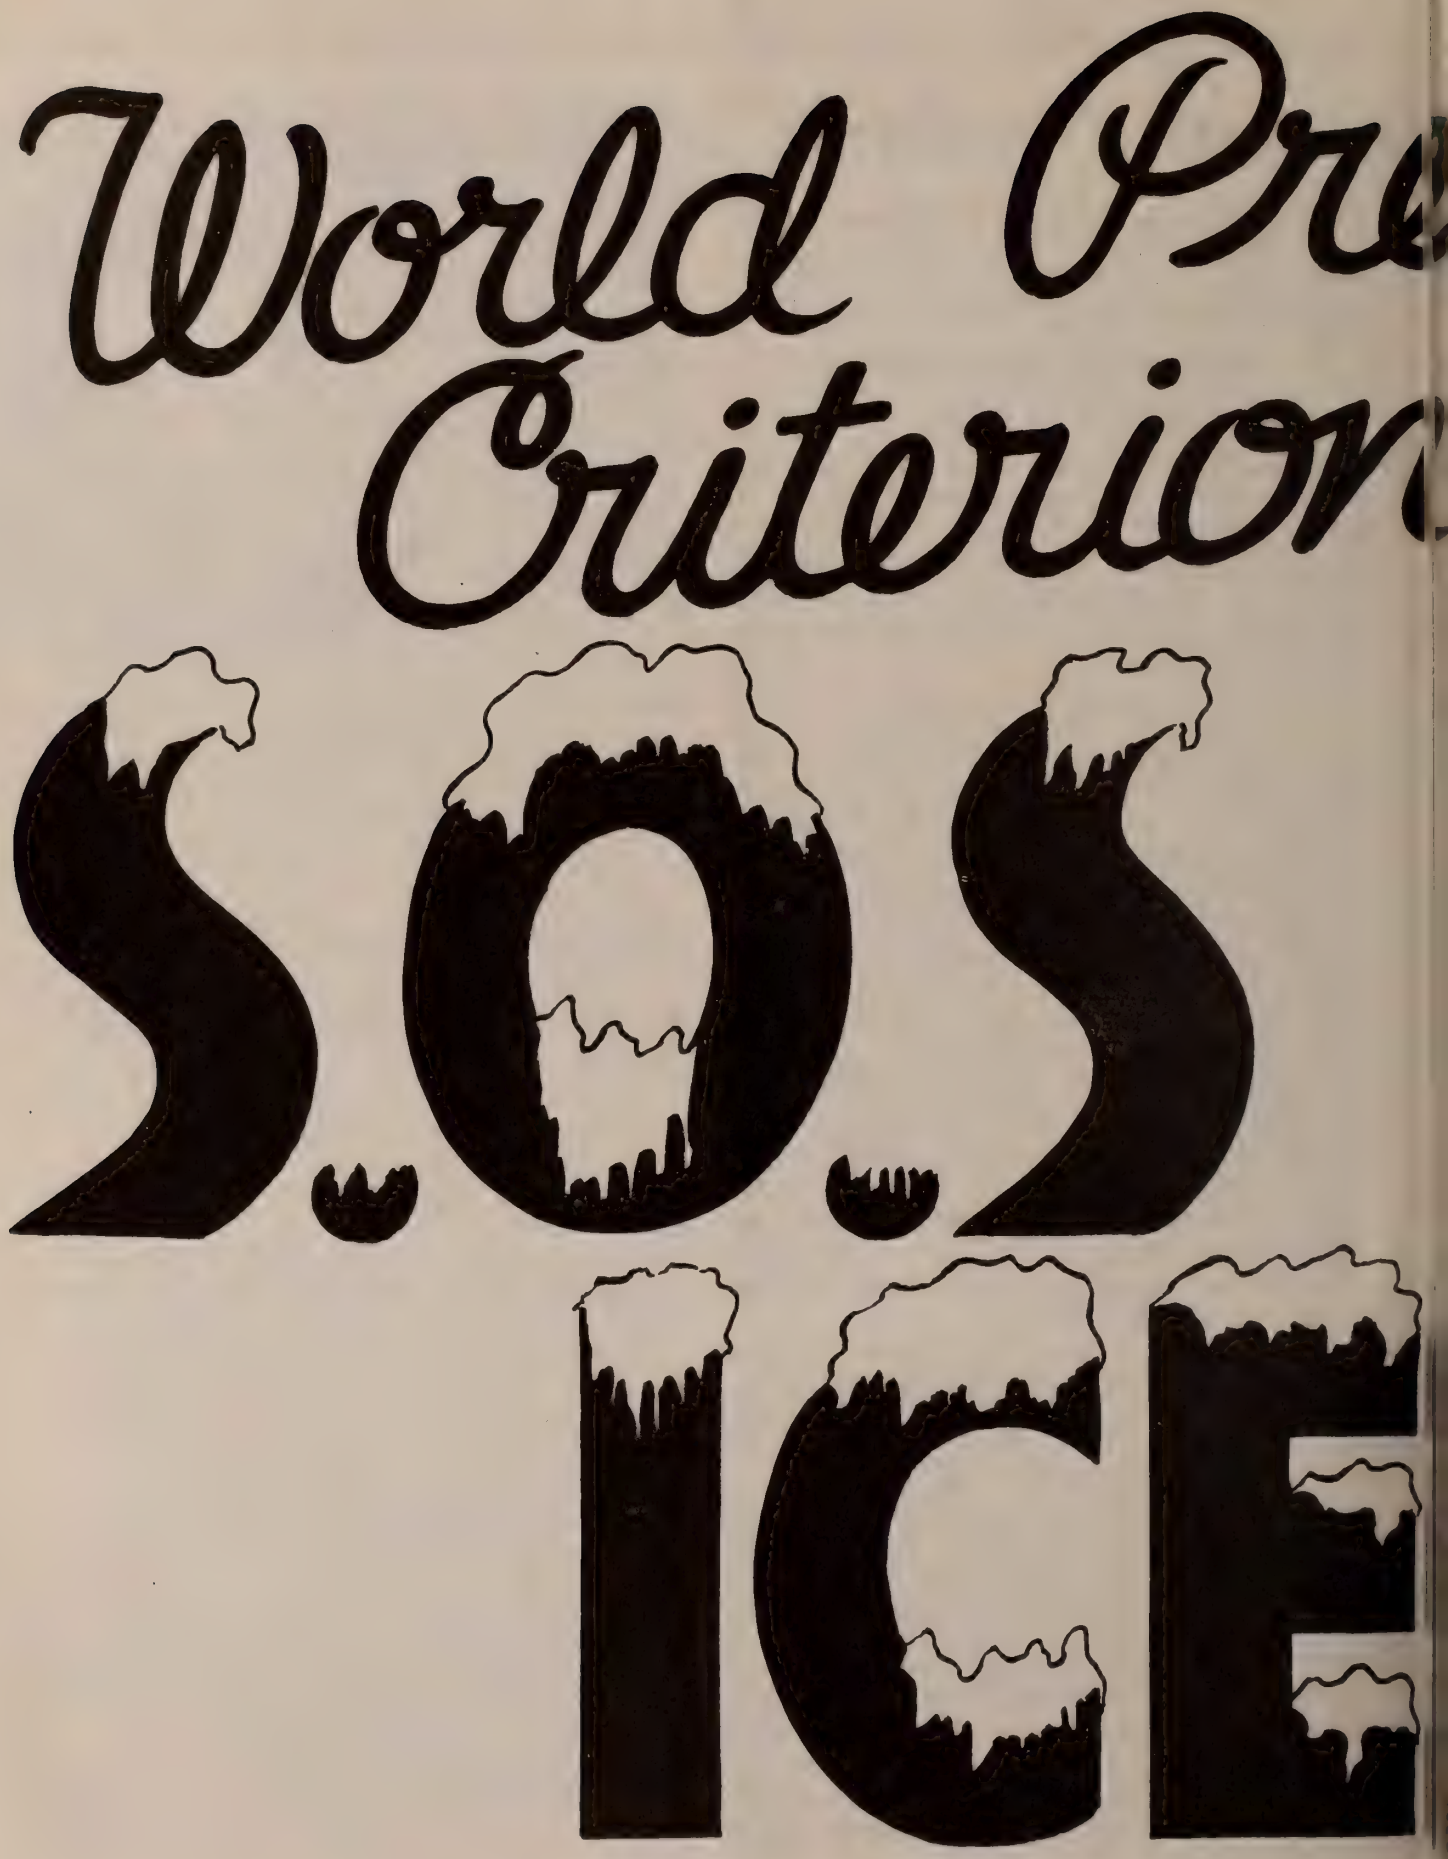
Beautiful Elissa Landi, one of the big names Universal has signed for next season's pictures. She will play one of the feature roles in "By Candlelight," which will go into production at Universal City within a fortnight. "By Candlelight" scored a hit on the stage in London and New York.

Second Run Records for "Be Mine Tonight"

TELEGRAM

ITS THE SAME OLD STORY IN THE SAME OLD WAY FOR BE MINE TONIGHT WHICH BROKE ALL FIRST RUN RECORDS FOR SEATTLE IS DUPLICATING ITS ORIGINAL SUCCESS IN ITS SECOND RUN SHOWING NOW CURRENT AT THE WINTER GARDEN THEATRE SEATTLE STOP EVEN BEFORE BE MINE COMPLETED ITS THIRD DAYS RUN AT THE WINTER GARDEN THE THEATRE MANAGEMENT DECIDED TO HOLD THE PICTURE OVER FOR AN ADDITIONAL WEEK STOP THE EXCEPTIONAL BUSINESS JUSTIFIED THIS STOP MY HUNCH IS THAT BE MINE WILL ENJOY A LONG RUN AND THAT THE PRESENT PEAK BUSINESS WILL CONTINUE STOP THE WINTER GARDEN HAS GIVEN BE MINE THE EXCELLENT CAMPAIGN THE PICTURE DESERVED AND AS USUAL THE PRESS IS RAINING ENTHUSIASM OVER THE PICTURE

L J MCGINLEY SEATTLE WASH



World Pre
Criterion
S.O.S
ICE

miere Theatre, N.Y.

Friday, September 22 and twice daily thereafter

$1.50 TOP

Exhibitors Say They Are Good

MYRT and MARGE

From The Hollywood Argus

MYRT AND MARGE (Universal) successfully combines radio audience appeal with an interesting story of back-stage life. Many will find more entertainment here in preference to Universal's recent "Moonlight and Pretzels," although the latter was a more lavish production, just as many people preferred Forty-Second Street to Gold Diggers of 1933, under the same circumstances.

Briefly, it is the story of a musical comedy road show which tours a route of one-night stands eventually hoping to make Broadway. The picture has been well cast with several good meaty parts allotted to capable players. Credit for a successful picture belongs to the scenarist and director.

Best Short of Year

COLONIAL THEATRE, Inc.
EUGENE, OREGON
September 1, 1933

Universal Film Exchange,
Portland, Oregon

Dear Jack:

We have just finished a run on your radio two reel subjects, the last of which was "The Old Timers." While all the subjects are excellent, in this specific one you have a candidate for the best short of the year. We had more favorable comment on this than on any short subject we have ever played. It especially attracted the older people, who to many film companies have become the "forgotten men and women" of our trade. At the same time it had enough comedy and action for the youngsters.

An indication of the drawing power of this short was shown by the fact that on the third night of the run a party of eight came to the theatre and informed the doorman they came to see "The Old Timers" upon the enthusiastic recommendation of some of their friends.

The power of this short was further emphasized at this particular time, since it played with "Her First Mate." Pitts and Summerville have always been favorites here, and when a short can come near to equalling them in customer interest, it is some short!

You would do your exhibitors a favor if you would give them full information on subjects such as these, and urge them to give them prominence in billing. I might even suggest some ad mat slugs and ad copy for your service.

Let me also commend Universal upon the high tone of this subject. It was as clean as a whistle, yet never lagged a minute. More of this type of entertainment, in features as well as short, would bring back the "good old days" when whole families came to the movies much more regular than they do now!

Yours sincerely,
GEORGE H. GODFREY

✚ ✚ ✚

GOLD-LINED GUARANTEE BY N. Y. TRANS-LUX THEATRE

THE Trans-Lux Theatre of New York was evidently one hundred percent sold on "The World's Greatest Thrills." In spite of the fact that National Screen had provided the only trailer ever issued for a two-reel subject on this, they made their own trailer. They guaranteed to refund money if the patron was not satisfied that this picture provided "the world's greatest thrills." Here is the wording of the Trans-Lux Theatre's trailer:

> "The management of this theatre absolutely guarantees this to be the most astonishing picture ever shown in a theatre, and will refund admission to anyone who can conscientiously say that it is not!"

Another thing: The Trans-Lux Theatre held over the subject for a second week. This is the first number that ever earned this distinction at this theatre.

THIS IS THE WAY THE SATE DAY'S MILLIONS" IN ALL N

● "Saturday's Millions" is going to get a play with ten million people during the next three weeks. In the Saturday Evening Post of this week, the story by Lucian Cary started. It is a three part story. On this page will be found a reproduction of the five-column advertisement which the Post ran on Tuesday of this week in all of the New York daily papers. Our reproduction of it was taken from the New York Times. This advertisement shows

Third Fazenda Comedy Started

THE third of Louise Fazenda's comedies for Universal for next season was started this week. The title is "Out of Gas." It was written by James W. Horne and is being directed by him under the supervision of Warren Doane. In the cast are Madge Bellamy, Otis Harlan, Paul Hurst and Ben Alexander. The titles of the other two pictures, both completed, are "Stung Again" and "Mountain Music."

STARTING TODAY...ANOTHER GREAT POST SERIAL

by LUCIAN CARY

Author of* "THE DUKE STEPS OUT"

IDOLIZED by the roaring Saturday crowds, petted by his pals, and the girl friend, boosted and ballyhooed by local business interests—what did football do to Jimmie Fowler, the man? Does the game and the glamour make or break character?

For millions of gridiron fans, here's All-America football fiction. And for those who aren't, there's the tenseness, thrill and romance of a great story about a girl, two old grads and one of the finest triple-threat backs of all time.

POST ADVERTISES "SATURDAY'S MILLIONS" IN NEW YORK DAILY NEWSPAPERS

what the Post thinks of the story.

Universal thought enough of the story to buy it immediately after the Post bought it and put it into work at Universal City in plenty of time to be released early in October to meet the great rush of interest which will accompany the opening of the football season.

The same ad. was run in other cities throughout the United States on this same date.

TODAY IS POST DAY

5¢

FROM ANY NEWSDEALER

MORE BIG-GAME FEATURES COMING EVERY WEEK!

Among them, look for big things from Harry Kipke of Michigan, beaten only once in his past thirty games. Hark to Howard Jones of Southern California, "Pop" Warner, the Gray Fox of the gridiron; and Red Grange, the Galloping Ghost. Thrill with the scoring plays of Harry Stuhldreher, plot-weaving coach of Villa Nova, and W. Thornton Martin.

BEGIN THIS WEEK—BUY THE POST

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

"AN AMERICAN INSTITUTION"

BUCK JO

in GORDON OF GHOST CITY

Now Playing THREE Big New York City Circuits!

With MADGE BELLAMY, Walter Miller, Tom Ricketts, William Desmond, Francis Ford, Edmund Cobb, Hugh Enfield. Directed by Ray Taylor. 12 big episodes. Suggested by the story by PETER B. KYNE.

•

Other Universal Serials for 1933-1934

THE PERILS OF PAULINE

With Evalyn Knapp, Robert Allen, James Durkin, John Davidson, Sonny Ray and many other serial favorites.

•

RICHARD TALMADGE in PIRATE TREASURE

•

THE ADVENTURES OF ANN

•

THE VANISHING SHADOW

NES

STEP OUT WITH UNIVERSAL

THE UNIVERSAL WEEKLY SHOWMANSHIP SECTION

A DIGEST OF THE BEST EXPLOITATION IDEAS OF THE WEEK

HERE'S ONE YOU'LL GLADLY BOOST!

Just as the public perks up its ears when a parade is coming the showman who "steps out" perks up his spirit when a good football picture is scheduled for release. He can rub his hands in contentment in that he has one of the surest-fire showmanship aces to work with if the football picture comes at the right time.

When he takes off his coat to go to work on the picture he KNOWS he is going to make a real flash in a dignified manner and "sell" his theatre to the younger set in a way they will remember, in addition to attracting thousands of sport fans who do not ordinarily attend picture shows.

There is plenty of cause for jubilation this year. Universal is bringing you "SATURDAY'S MILLIONS" at the hot-spot of the football season itself. Universal gave you "The All American" last year. The year before Universal offered "The Spirit of Notre Dame." Universal backed these productions with comprehensive, practical exploitation plans and gala accessories to assist showmen to work on the pictures.

And HOW the showmen worked: Theatre managers can well be proud of the records they set with those pictures. And these same theatre men are going to glory in the job of putting over the new release, "SATURDAY'S MILLIONS," which is set to TOP the other two pigskin films.

"SATURDAY'S MILLIONS," is being heavily exploited by the Saturday Evening Post which is serializing the story and advertising it in leading newspapers throughout the country. This publicity is reaching into YOUR city to pre-sell the picture to your patrons. Capitalize on it!

Make your school tie-ups—advertise at the big games with score cards, ballyhoo and special motion pictures. Run school nights with school glee clubs and bands in attendance. Do the score of things possible on a real football picture. Get started now!

"Saturday's Millions" is THE real picture of the year! JOE WEIL

Greatest Thrills — or Guarantees Refunds

The management of the Trans-Lux Theatre in New York City, went the limit in guaranteeing its patrons thrills on the screen. The following, an excerpt from the theatre's trailer on "The World's Greatest Thrills" tells the story.

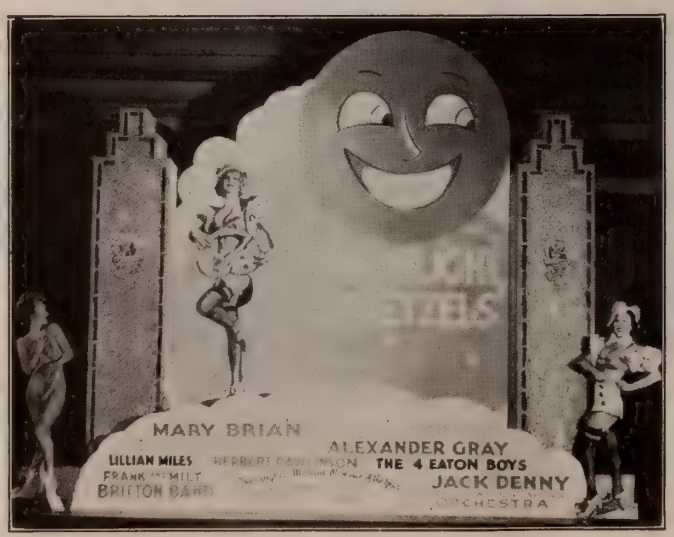
"The management of this theatre absolutely guarantees this to be the most astonishing picture ever shown in a theatre, and will refund admission to anyone who can conscientiously say that it is not!"

Beat that, if you can!

That the theatre did not have to make any refunds is attested to by the fact that "The World's Greatest Thrills" was held over for a second capacity business week, marking the first time in the history of the theatre that any picture won that distinction.

BRILLIANT "MOONLIGHT" LOBBY DISPLAY

Set piece in center of inner lobby at the Stanley Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa. for engagement of "Moonlight and Pretzels." The cut-out girl figures are life size which gives an idea of the size of the display. Brilliant colors, mirror insets and flood lights made it fairly dazzling. The eyes in the moon moved back and forth adding animation.



1700 Philadelphia Stores in Pretzels Window Tie-up

TWO large Philadelphia grocery store chains co-operated with Harry Graever, manager and Jules Seltzer, p. a. of the Stanley Theatre, in one of the largest display tie-ups ever engineered in that city. The publicity stunt was one of the outstanding features of the "Moonlight and Pretzels" campaign.

In the windows of about two hundred of the seventeen hundred stores in the chains, were displayed cans full of pretzels accompanied by cards offering free tickets to those coming closest to guessing the number of pretzels in the can. The other stores carried large display cards announcing the stunt and playing up the picture. The entire city was covered in this contest. The Quinlan Pretzel Company with whom the tie-up was negotiated, also supplied 10,000 pretzels to be distributed by the theatre in envelopes advertising the picture and the baking company.

Graever played up the title of the picture over his marquee with a giant sign thirty-five feet high and twenty-five feet wide. It was decorated with large music notes and illuminated by flood lights from the marquee. He also designed the elaborate lobby display shown at the left. Music from the production with mention of picture and theatre, was broadcast over practically every radio station in the city. Albert S. Nathan, Universal exploiteer assisted.

BIG RADIO AND DRINK TIE-UPS FEATURE "MOONLIGHT" CAMPAIGN AT GOLDEN GATE

CLIFF WORK, manager and Emil Umann, publicity manager, put over their campaign for "Moonlight and Pretzels" at the Golden Gate Theatre, San Francisco, with two big tie-ups, one featuring radio broadcasting and the other smash newspaper space and a beer garden in the lobby.

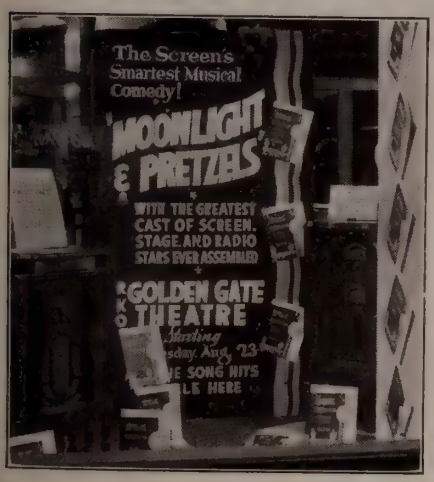
By engaging a locally popular radio group for an appearance on the stage, Work secured the full co-operation of the radio station with daily broadcasts of the song hits from the production, and special plugs for the picture and the theatre. The radio group was engaged as a compliment to the radio stars in the picture and to the station sustaining it. Other local stations and orchestras were contacted and supplied with music from the production which they played nightly the week before the opening with mention of the picture and theatre.

The beer tie-up was engineered with one of the city's largest breweries and resulted in a full page ad featuring the beer and the picture, and announcing that free beer would be served in the theatre during the run of the picture. A regular bar was set up in the mezzanine promenade with attractive girls dressed in Bavarian costumes in attendance. As they entered the house, patrons were handed a special ticket, entitling them to a glass of beer.

Several flash window displays were secured in prominent music stores, large newspaper space was used and a wide distribution given heralds. Ben Westland, Universal exploiteer, assisted on the campaign.

Top: Attractive front display designed by Cliff Work, manager and Emil Umann, publicity manager, for the engagement of "Moonlight and Pretzels" at the Golden Gate Theatre, San Francisco. Lower: Part of the large line-up that besieged the theatre practically all day during the opening.

'FRISCO MUSIC WINDOW



One of the many music shop window displays that featured the campaign for "Moonlight and Pretzels" at the Golden Gate Theatre, San Francisco.

COLLINS ENTERTAINS 10,000 PLAYGROUND KIDDIES AT APOLLO "FIRST MATE" MATINEES

KEN COLLINS, manager of the Apollo Theatre, Indianapolis, Ind., started plenty of word of mouth publicity and built himself some fine good will by inviting all the children enrolled in the city's playgrounds to matinee performances of "Her First Mate." His opening was the best the theatre has enjoyed in several months.

Other features of his campaign included a special rocking ferry boat, ballyhoo truck designed after a pressbook suggestion, bumper strips on all city taxis, the drawing contest in the Minneapolis Times, several window displays and a special front.

Three more showmen this week join the ranks of certificate winners in recognition of their exceptional exploitation of Universal pictures. They are:

LOUIS CHARNINSKY, manager of the Capitol Theatre, Dallas, Texas, for his front display on "Don't Bet On Love."

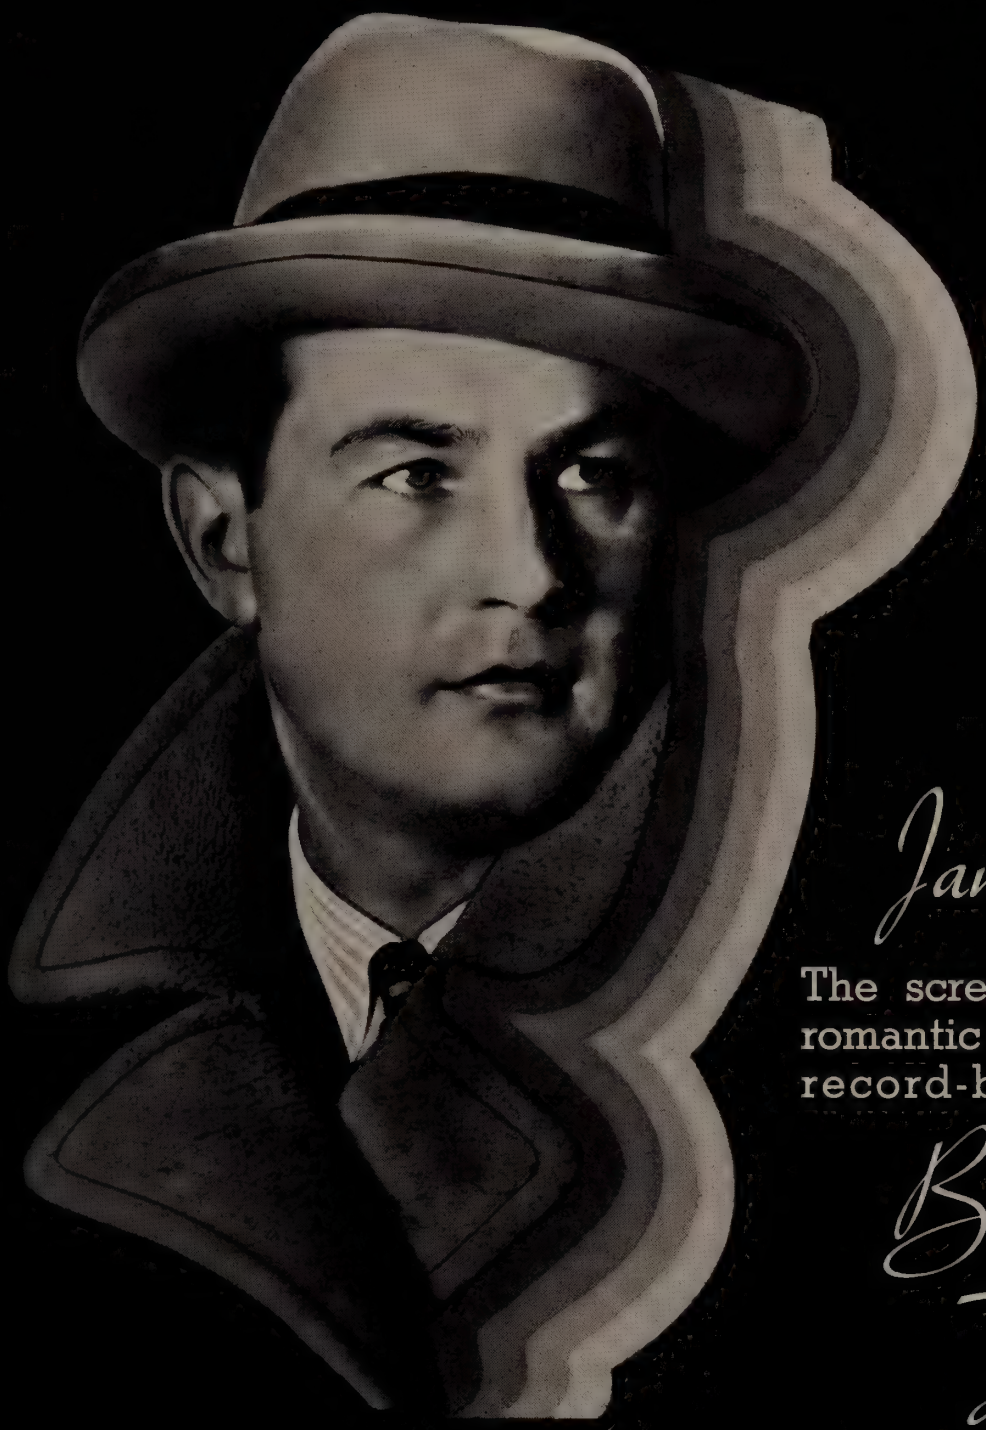
BERNARD KEARNEY, manager of the Rialto Theatre, Amsterdam, N. Y., for his "Moonlight and Pretzels" campaign.

W. P. WILSON, manager of the Capitol Theatre, Edmonton, Canada for his showmanship campaign on "Be Mine Tonight."

Reproduction of the full page newspaper ad announcing the beer garden at the Golden Gate Theatre in connection with the showing of "Moonlight and Pretzels."

REAL BOX-OFFICE SPIRIT IN THESE ADS!

(1.) Double column x 7" from Winter Garden, Seattle, announcing another record for "Be Mine Tonight." (2.) Single column x 7" from Rialto, New York City. (3.) Double column x 5" from Capitol, Worcester, Mass. (4.) Two column x 2" from Pantheon, Toledo, Ohio. (5.) Smash double column x 9½" from Fox Senator, Sacramento, Calif. (6.) Single column x 7" from Kimo, Albuquerque, New Mexico. (7.) Another smash double column x 10" from Music Box, Seattle, Wash.



Jan Kiepura

The screen's golden-voiced romantic hero, star of that record-breaking picture, will soon appear in another picture for Universal — "A SONG FOR YOU," now in production, with Marian Nixon, under the direction of Tay Garnett.

Be Mine Tonight

From

UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORP.

730 FIFTH AVENUE

NEW YORK CITY

Sec. 562, P. L. & R.
U. S. POSTAGE
Paid
New York, N. Y.
Permit No. 949

ROBERT B WENNER
22 CROSS ST
MALDEN MASS

The Great Football Romance!

Read the story in the Saturday Evening Post NOW — Watch for the picture on the screen soon!

SATURDAY'S MILLIONS

With ROBERT YOUNG, LEILA HYAMS, Johnny Mack Brown, Andy Devine, Lucille Lund, Mary Carlisle, Grant Mitchell. From the story by Lucian Cary. Screenplay by Dale Van Every. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Edward Sedgwick. Production arranged by Christy Walsh.

A UNIVERAL PICTURE Presented by CARL LAEMMLE

Printed in U. S. A.

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
VOL 33 NO 17
OCT. 7, 1933

MARGARET SULLAVAN
...ored such a hit
... first film role
...LY YESTERDAY"
...rl Laemmle Jr. has
...r the big part in
...lladas great novel
...MAN, WHAT NOW?"

93

FEATURE PLAYERS

MARGARET SULLAVAN
JOHN BOLES
Edna May Oliver
Billie Burke
Benita Hume
Reginald Denny
Onslow Stevens
Franklin Pangborn
Berton Churchill
Robert McWade
Hugh Enfield
Arthur Hoyt
Creighton Hale
Natalie Kingston
Marie Prevost
June Clyde
Richard Tucker
Natalie Moorhead
Mabel Marden
Joyce Compton
Bramwell Fletcher
Dorothy Granger
Lucille Powers
Barry Norton
Ruth Clifford
Betty Blythe
Walter Catlett
Edgar Norton
Noel Francis
Crauford Kent
Geneva Mitchell

Sidney Bracy
Caryl Lincoln
Jean Darling
Julia Carter
Frank Beal
Huntley Gordon
Lita Chevret
Vivien Oakland
Bert Roach
Mary Doran
George Meeker
Sammy Cohen
Edmund Breese
Ben Bard
King Baggot
Wm. Davidson
Lloyd Whitlock
Virginia Howell
Jason Robards
Robert Bolder
Lynn Cowan
Maidel Turner
George Turner
Eddie Kane
Geo. Hackathorne
Eleanor Jackson
Mildred Washington
Warren Stokes
Jane Darwell
Oscar Apfel
Tom Conlon

Louise Beavers
Tom O'Brien
Herbert Corthell
James Flavin
Leon Waycoff
Cissy Fitzgerald
Ida Darling
Marion Byron
Sheila Manners
Jean Hart
Herta Lind
Robert Ellis
Julia Faye
Florence Lake
Jack Richardson
Astrid Allwyn
Dorothy Christy
Jean Sorel
Ferdinand Munier
Bruce Warren
Hans Furberg
Churchill Ross
Gay Seabrook
Lew White
Dick Winslow
Matt McHugh
Norma Drew
Jimmy Butler
James Donlan
Otto Hoffman
Harvy Clark

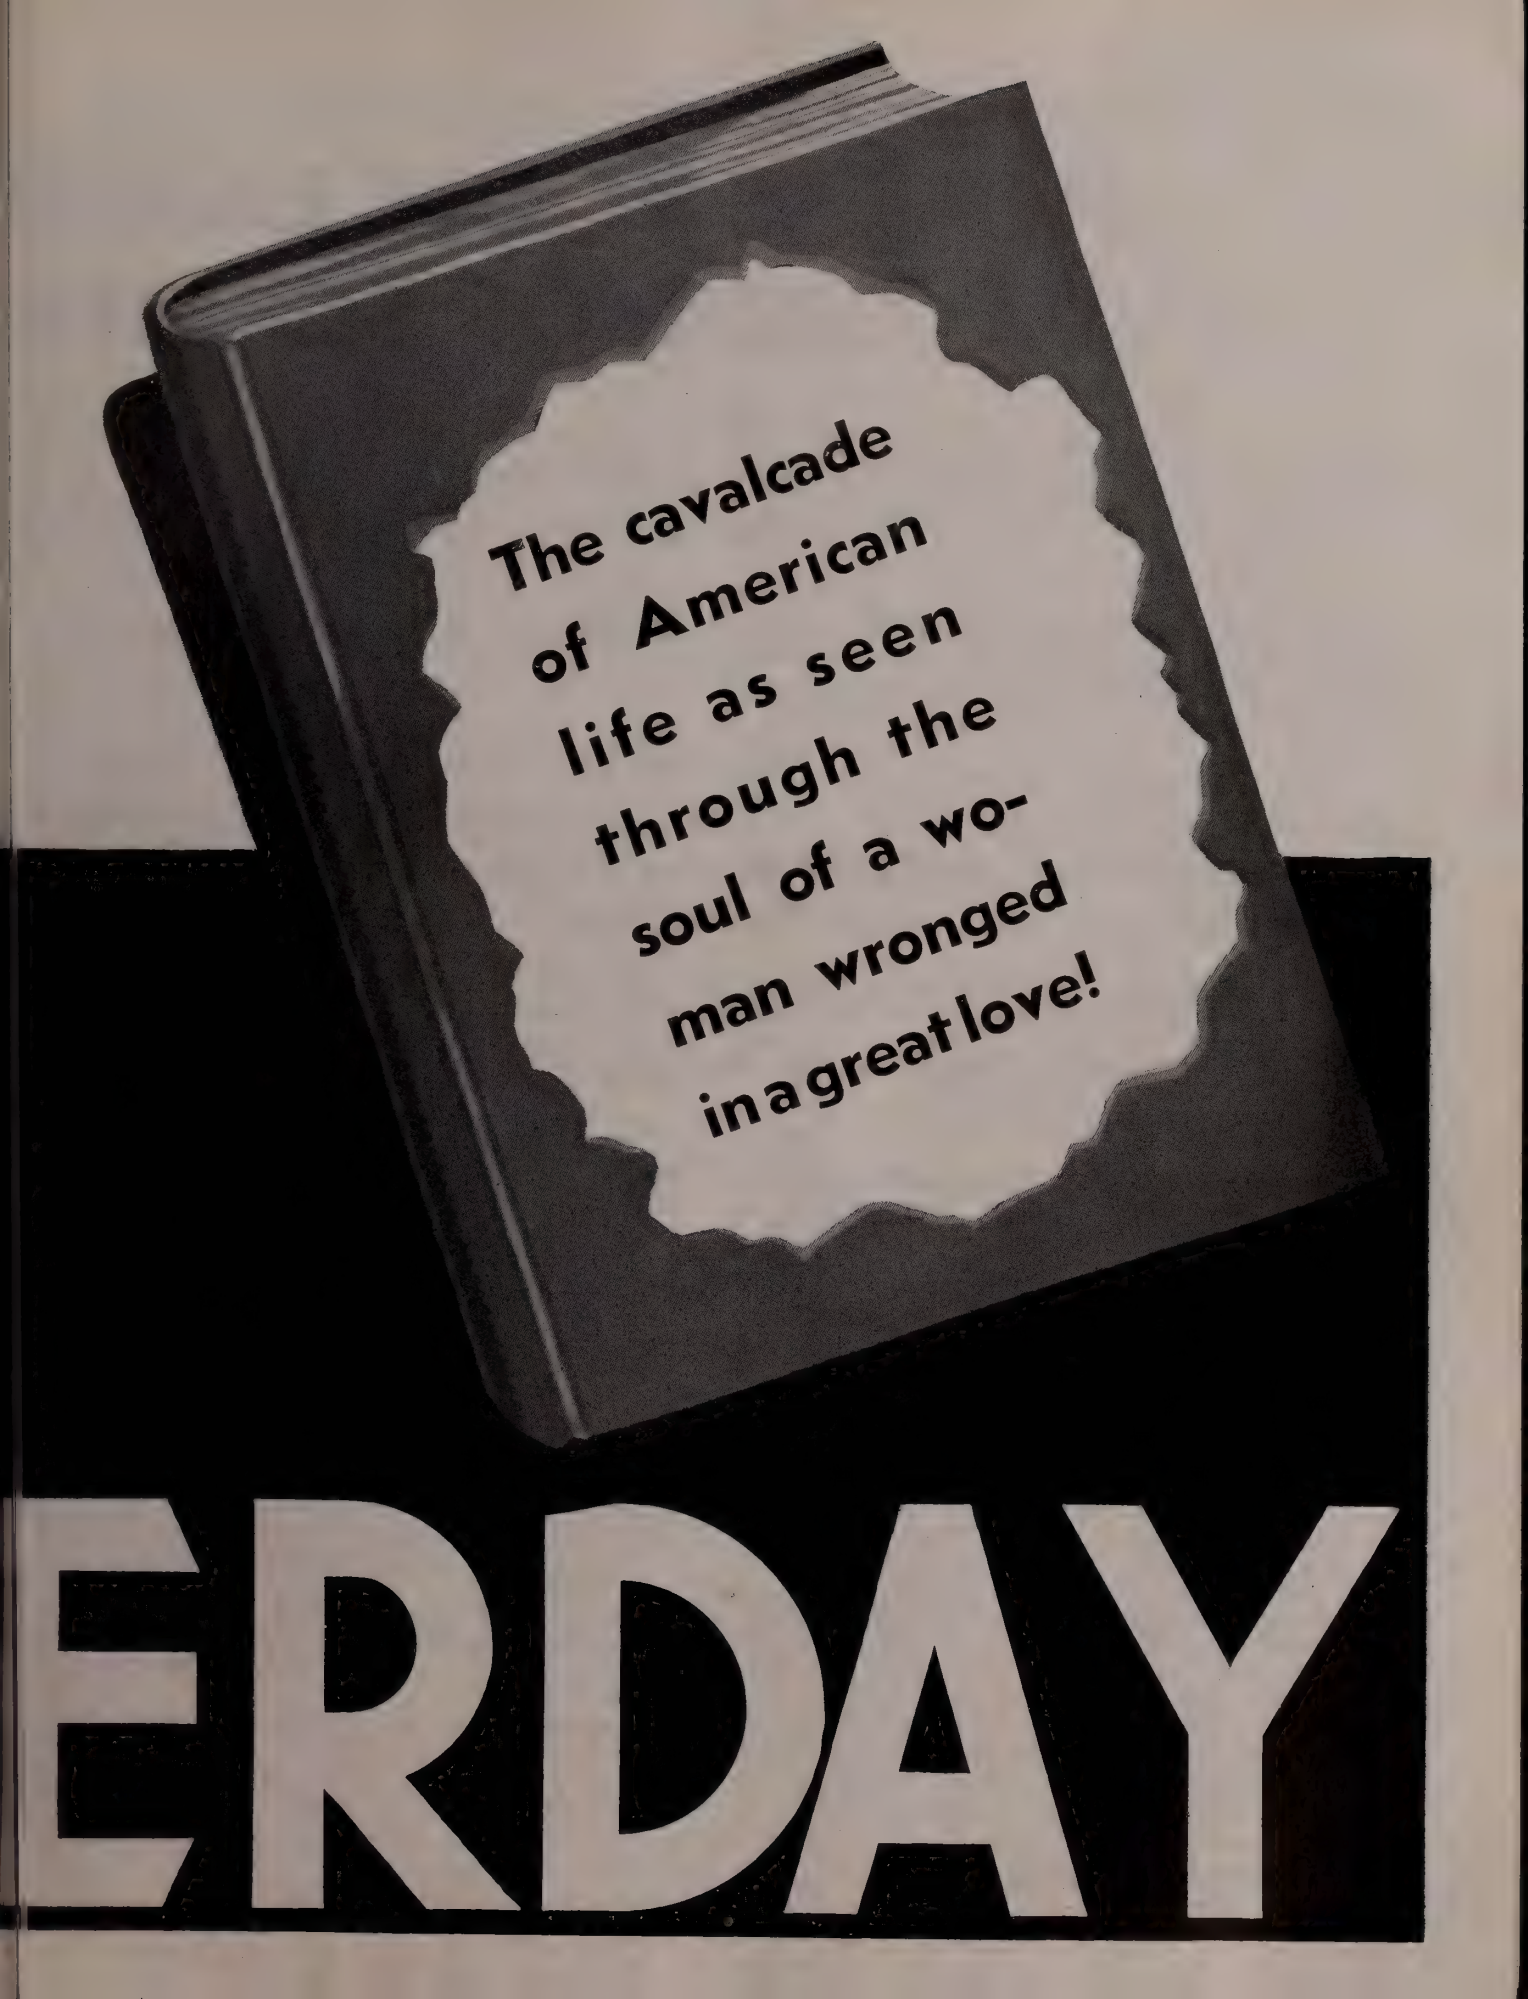
IN THE CAST OF →

A

JOHN M. STAHL PRODUCTION

Suggested by the book by Frederick Lewis Allen. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Dialogue by William Hurlbut. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

ONLY YESTERDAY



The cavalcade of American life as seen through the soul of a woman wronged in a great love!
ERDAY

NO SHOW ON EARTH
A CAST OF SCREEN

No. 742 Straight-from-the-Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

No story ever screened ever demanded so much from a producer as "Only Yesterday."

So I turned it over to John Stahl, who gave you "Back Street" and "Seed" and "Strictly Dishonorable" and "The Lady Surrenders" and told him to hit you on the nose with something you had never had before.

He has given about one year of his time to it.

For example, how long do you think it took him to pick a cast including

MARGARET SULLAVAN	Noel Francis	Edmund Breese	Louise Beavers
JOHN BOLES	Crawford Kent	Ben Bard	Tom O'Brien
EDNA MAY OLIVER	Geneva Mitchell	Creighton Hale	Herbert Corthell
BILLIE BURKE	Caryl Lincoln	Natalie Kingston	James Flavin
REGINALD DENNY	Sidney Bracy	King Baggot	Leon Waycoff
Franklin Pangborn	Jean Darling	Wm. Davidson	Cissy Fitzgerald
Benita Hume	Julia Carter	Lloyd Whitlock	Ida Darling
Berton Churchill	Frank Beal	Virginia Howell	Marion Byron
Onslow Stevens	Huntley Gordon	Jason Robards	Sheila Manners
Robert McWade	Lita Chevret	Robert Bolder	Jean Hart
Hugh Enfield	Lew White	Lynn Cowan	Herta Lind
Arthur Hoyt	Vivien Oakland	Maidel Turner	Robert Ellis
Mabel Marden	Bert Roach	George Irving	Julia Faye
Joyce Compton	Mary Doran	Eddie Kane	Florence Lake
Bramwell Fletcher	George Meeker	Geo. Hackathorne	Richard Tucker
Dorothy Granger	Dick Winslow	Eleanor Jackson	Jack Richardson
Lucille Powers	Matt McHugh	Mildred Washington	Astrid Allwyn
Barry Norton	Sammy Cohen	Warren Stokes	Natalie Moorhead
Ruth Clifford	Norma Drew	Marie Prevost	Dorothy Christy
Betty Blythe	Jimmy Butler	June Clyde	Jean Sorel
Walter Catlett	James Donlan	Jane Darwell	Ferdinand Munier
Edgar Norton	Otto Hoffman	Oscar Apfel	Bruce Warren
Gay Seabrook	Harvy Clark	Tom Conlon	Hans Furberg
			Churchill Ross

It took months!

EVER BOASTED SUCH ATTRACTIONS AS THIS:

It required endless tests, rejections, conferences, head-shakings, re-tests, more conferences and more thought than has ever been given to any motion picture cast.

Every actor must fit the part, because Mr. Stahl adamantly refused to change the parts to fit the actors. The result proves that he was right.

He threw all the jackass rules of Hollywood overboard.

He said "no" a thousand times for every time he said "yes."

And now you've got a picture that is fan-proof, critic-proof and fool-proof.

You've got the ideal picture.

It will only take you a few seconds to read the list of artists which it took Mr. Stahl months to choose.

I ask you to read it slowly and thoughtfully. I ask you to think how many separate pictures could be cast very successfully out of this list — and yet this whole cast is in just one picture.

Universal, as usual, smashes precedent to set a new pace!

Carl Laemmle

PICTURE GALLERY OF NOTED NAMES IN THE CAST OF "ONLY YESTERDAY"

JOHN BOLES

Handsome, stalwart actor who follows up "Seed" and "Back Street" with

"Only Yesterday"

THIS GIRL'S NAME

will be as famous as any star's on the screen when she makes her debut in

JOHN M. STAHL'S ONLY YESTERDAY

A Star
MA
SU
—MA in "ONI new is Born!

RGARET
LLAVAN
KING HER SCREEN DEBUT," Y YESTERDAY

BILLIE BURKE as Julia Warren

REGINALD DENNY as Bob, Julia's Boy Friend

GEORGE MEEKER as Dave Reynolds

BENITA HUME as Phyllis Emerson

EDNA MAY OLIVER as Leona

FRANKLIN PANGBORN as Tom

WALTER CATLETT as Barnes

JIMMIE BUTLER as Jim Emerson, Jr.

The Director of "Only Yesterday"

JOHN M. STAHL

Who Was Also Responsible for "Seed" and "Back Street"

NEWS

● Warner Bros. Theatres, contract for Universal Pic-Pictures.

● "Tin Pants" changed to "Horse Play"—Summerville, Devine.

● "S. O. S. Iceberg" in its third week at the Criterion in New York.

● R.KO circuit book Universal pictures.

● Ken Maynard starts "The Rider of Justice."

● Monroe Isen in New York for six weeks. Studying new product.

● Loew's Theatres of New York, book Universal Pictures

SCREENLAND WAITS FOR "ONLY YESTERDAY"

CARL LAEMMLE SAILS

For the first time on a French boat since he came to the U.S.A. on the Neckar in 1880, Carl Laemmle sailed last week for Europe on the Ile de France. He will be back next month.

FOR nine months there has been a growing feeling that when "Only Yesterday" reached the screen it would be a sensation. The creator of "Seed" and "Back Street" is one of the few sure-fire directors in the business today. Every resource was made available to John M. Stahl to insure "Only Yesterday" being a huge success. Money, time, personalities, story, photography, timeliness,—all were present.

The fan magazines are primed with material about "Only Yesterday" and about Margaret Sullavan, who is certain to be made a star and an international personality because of her work in "Only Yesterday."

"Only Yesterday" will be released on November 6th. It will make the most striking and appropriate Armistice Week offering ever presented. While it is still being cut, Hollywood expects it to be the leading candidate for Photoplay Medal honors of this year.

Second Universal Newsreel Cameraman Shot Up

ANOTHER exciting chapter in the saga of the intrepid newsreel cameraman was written last Friday in Havana, Cuba, when Joseph Gibson, of the Universal Newsreel staff, was shot in both legs and seriously wounded while photographing scenes of the riot between Communists and Cuban troops.

Gibson, along with other "headline hunters," was taking pictures of the fighting from the roof of the Hotel Nueva Isla, overlooking Fraternity Park. Observers reported that a marksman, probably mistaking the long lenses in their cameras for machine gun barrels, opened fire on them. The other cameramen saved themselves by dropping to their faces, but Gibson was too intent on his work and caught the full force of the volley of shots.

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick, Editor
Published Weekly by the Motion Picture Weekly Publishing Co.
730 Fifth Avenue, New York City
Copyrighted 1933
Universal Pictures Corp.
(All Rights Reserved)
OCTOBER 7, 1933
Vol. 33 No. 17

Immediately afterward, according to Gibson, five sergeants entered the hotel and hastily jerked improvised bandages from his legs, denying the wounds were from army rifle bullets but were caused from buckshot. Gibson also said that soldiers aimed and fired directly at him, pointing out that the balcony was crowded and he was the only one hit. The pictures taken by Gibson and the other photographers were confiscated by the soldiers.

Following the news of Gibson's injury and his removal to the Emergency Hospital in Havana, Allyn Butterfield, Editor of the Universal Newsreel, asked Secretary of State Cordell to investigate the circumstances

(Continued on Page 25)

ON YESTE

Universal's mig emotion, pict dous clash against man

LY RDAY

y epic of human g the tremenvoman's love orgetfulness!

WITHOUT question of a doubt, this is THE WOMAN'S PICTURE SUPREME! ...That means that it not only will pack matinees, but that nights will be overcrowded as well . . . That means that you have a woman-appeal picture of the finest order, which is just one more way of saying that you have a GIGANTIC ATTRACTION!

TERDAY

The cocktail party on the day of the stock market crash, the day on which "Only Yesterday" opens and the day on which it concludes.

Margaret Sullavan holding little Rina Dumesmil, the third of the children to represent a stage in life of Jim Emerson, Jr.

Armistice Night in "Only Yesterday." Nearly all of the ninety-two members of the cast appear in this scene.

"ONLY YESTERDA
WHEN FIRST S

UNUSUAL precautions were taken to insure the success of "Only Yesterday" from the start. As a matter of act, though, John M. Stahl always takes precautions to insure the success of his pictures. To the best of anybody's knowledge, he has never directed a failure since he made a picture called "Dirty Dishes." By a failure is meant a failure at the box-office. "Dirty Dishes" was not a failure artistically, but it flopped terribly at the box-office, for all that. It taught John M. Stahl the biggest lesson of his entire life. He already knew that a woman's picture is the most successful type of picture at the box-office, but after "Dirty Dishes," he knew exactly what type of woman's picture NOT to make. He has been making them one hundred percent perfect ever since.

"Seed" and "Back Street" are the two latest pictures to attest this success, and the assurance which is a part of John M. Stahl's system of directing. He knows beforehand. He leaves little or nothing to chance.

In the cast of "Only Yesterday," he spent three months on the story. He came to New York; he engaged three different sets of authors to adapt Frederick Lewis Allen's story; and he went back to California with what he considers the best story he ever started to direct. It was a woman's story.

John Boles at the A
"Only Yesterday,"

WHEN John Boles made "Seed," the screen world wondered. It thought it might be a flash in the pan. Here was a singer successfully turned into a dramatic actor. Then came "Back Street." Here was proof. John Boles was over the goal line. He was set. It was no flash in the pan.

John M. Stahl was responsible for both performances. When it came time to pick an actor for "Only Yesterday," which is greater by far than either of these other pictures, he again chose John Boles. That is the greatest compliment Boles ever had in all his life. And John M. Stahl has had no reason to be sorry. John Boles played the role of Jim Emerson "to get the women." As Jim Emerson he may have made a

Y" WAS SUCCESS ENE WAS SHOT

Stahl took two months to select his cast. When he started, he was positive that he had the right people, the right people to interest women. He took four months to direct the picture. Every scene was shot over and over until it was absolutely perfect. John M. Stahl leaves nothing to chance. Here is part of his philosophy on making pictures, the only kind he makes.

"Women, and not men, are the main factors in the success or failure of a motion picture," he declares.

"I refer to the women players who appear on the screen and to the women in the audience. In the first place, sentiment makes pictures appealing to the women in the audience. In the second place, a certain amount of 'hokum' also brings the women to the box office.

"A woman has a far greater chance of reaching prominence in Hollywood, if she has any ability, than has a man of equal talent. Women are interesting to women in the audience as well as to the men. Men players have a hold on women, but have very hold little hold on men. Our greatest male stars are laughed at and ridiculed by men. But seldom does a woman receive such ridicule. If she does, the women go to the theatre anyway to see the clothes she is wearing."

The greatest tragedy of all. Though Jim Emerson is polite, he does not recognize the girl in whose life he had meant so much.

Margaret Sullavan and John Boles in a love scene from "Only Yesterday."

Mary Lane did not lack for suitors, but her heart belonged to another. She was only sorry for Dave Reynolds. (George Meeker).

pex of His Career in His Third Stahl Role ghastly mistake; in the film he may have been a terrible rotter. But the women will forgive him.

And in "Only Yesterday" Boles was right in his element. He could play Jim Emerson's war experience because he had lived it.

John Boles entered the service in the middle of 1917, two or three months after the United States entered the World War. He was stationed at Camp Green, at Charlotte, N. C., and went to France as a member of the First Army Headquarters Regiment, composed of French-speaking men from all over the country. Universal gave Boles his first dramatic role in "We Americans." "Only Yesterday," gave Boles his biggest opportunity. It is Universal's biggest picture.

Franklin Pangborn and Edna May Oliver in an amusing scene in "Only Yesterday."

Margaret Sullavan as Mary Lane and Jimmy Butler as Jim Emerson, Jr.

Again Jim Emerson fails to recognize Mary Lane, though he is strangely drawn to this remarkable woman.

Margaret Sullavan She Is Great In

JOHN M. STAHL made John Boles what he is today as a dramatic actor. John M. Stahl has made another star. This other star is the girl he chose to play the part of Mary Lane in "Only Yesterday." Her name is Margaret Sullavan and he saw her playing in New York in "Dinner at Eight." Several tests were made, and they pleased Stahl so much that he even declared he would not make the picture unless he could have Margaret Sullavan. Why Margaret Sullavan accepted the part is harder to explain. She had already turned down three moving picture offers for more money than Universal offered her. Instead of taking one $1500 a week offer, she went into stock at $50. a week. But something impelled her to take the role of Mary Lane in "Only Yesterday" on the promise that if she liked the movies, she would stay in them, and if she didn't, Universal would give her the privilege of going back on the stage.

Then Came The Proof

After Carl Laemmle, Jr. and the officials at Universal City saw the first cutting of "Only Yesterday," there was no doubt in their minds that she would stay on the screen. There was no doubt in their minds that she would be a big star. When first-night audiences see "Only Yesterday," that will be their verdict, too.

It was an unusually tough problem to get a girl with the looks, the experience and the dramatic fire to play Mary Lane. After he had interviewed 250 aspirants for the role, this is what Stahl himself had to say of the part and the requirements for the one who would play it satisfactorily.

What John Stahl Thought

"I believe that eventually she will be found in the ranks of film players already in Hollywood," he says. "The main trouble has been in this case that the woman capable of playing the role must be capable of expressing every human emotion. She must be intelligent beyond her years, for she must live through thirteen years of her life in a few short weeks. She must have the understanding of an older woman, for she must grow and develop from a young, charming, unsophisticated girl to a worldly woman. During that period she must pass through the travail of motherhood.

"To run this gauntlet of human emotions convincingly, so that she will be able to make girls of 18 and women of 31 believe her, she must have an extraordinary talent. While I am not discouraged, my search for such a player has taught me that there are few competent players not under contract to major studios at the present time, and that there is a genuine need for more talent in Hollywood."

Will Be A Star. Only Yesterday"

And Was His Face Red—and Happy?

In spite of all that Stahl thought and said, Margaret Sullavan filled every requirement and turned in one of the grandest performances in screen history. Stardom will be her reward.

✚ ✚ ✚

Another Cameraman Shot Up

(Continued from Page 13)

under which Gibson was shot and to care for him at the hospital. Later the cameraman was moved to Miami, Fla., his home, where he is recuperating satisfactorily. Gibson, according to Mr. Butterfield, is one of the best cameramen in the newsreel field. He has been active in that profession for the last fifteen years, is married and has two children.

Attached to the New York office of the Newsreel, Gibson was sent to Havana several weeks ago, following the withdrawal of David Oliver, another Universal cameraman, who figured in the news at that time after being jailed at the point of a bayonet by Cuban soldiers during the revolt that ended in the overthrow of Machado. When news of Gibson's shooting reached New York, Oliver was hastily sent back to his old post.

✚ ✚ ✚

Cast of 93 Big Names Sets All Time Hollywood Record

(Continued from Page 19)

slow, Edgar Norton, Sidney Bracey, Baby McLane, Anita Kosterlitsky, Rina Dumesmil, Jack Richardson, "Deacon" McDainels, Louise Beavers, Charles K. French, Leo White, Frank Beal, Churchill Ross, Marion Clayton, Bessie Eyton, Lyman Williams—also Jay Whidden and his London Orchestra.

Margaret Sullavan, favorite ingenue of the New York stage, makes her screen debut in this picture, and it is predicted that its release will result in elevating her to stardom.

Billie Burke, Jimmy Butler and Reginald Denny in a scene from "Only Yesterday."

Their last meeting. And still Jim Emerson fails to recognize the girl he had so grievously wronged,—Mary Lane.

Margaret Sullavan and Jimmy Butler in an affecting scene near the close of "Only Yesterday."

THE UNIVERSAL WEEKLY SHOWMANSHIP SECTION

A DIGEST OF THE BEST EXPLOITATION IDEAS OF THE WEEK

A DIGEST OF THE BEST EXPLOITATION IDEAS OF THE WEEK

TOMORROW THE WHOLE WORLD WILL BE PRAISING "ONLY YESTERDAY"!

HERE ARE SOME CAMPAIGN HINTS:

For a year all eyes of the movie world have been turned on the production of "Only Yesterday." With the meticulous care that he used in the preparation of "Back Street," that great director John M. Stahl has labored tirelessly over script and cast and detail to make "Only Yesterday" perfect from every angle before the cameras turned a single foot of film on its production. And then, into its picturization, this ace of woman's-picture directors, poured the same genius that made "Back Street" such a vibrant, real-life picture.

"Only Yesterday" comes to the screen WORTHY of the great expense, the lengthy time of production and the tremendous facilities with which Carl Laemmle, Jr. backed it. It comes to you as a picture destined to top by far all "Back Street" records in money and popularity. Its potential possibilities are enormous!

Ninety-three feature players in the cast! A year in the making! Produced by the man who gave you "Back Street" and "Seed." A woman's story with a heart punch that will leave audiences limp and handkerchiefs soaking wet! Revealing in its glorious unfoldment a blazing new star, Margaret Sullavan, who should capture top acting honors of the year. A title song that will be heard in millions of homes over the radio night after night! A picture that will be talked about wherever people meet! Plenty of selling angles!

You will want to stamp "ONLY YESTERDAY" as your most important picture of the season . . . give it screen attention a month in advance of its coming . . . plant publicity and lobby matter at the same early date . . . arrange a gala Hollywood opening for its premiere . . . invite the very biggest people in the city to this opening . . . see that the newspapers make an event out of it . . . have famous local headliners comment on it for newspaper and lobby publicity . . . work the numerous dignified stunts now being prepared for it, a few of which are outlined on the following pages.

You are going to be as proud of showing "ONLY YESTERDAY" as Universal is of having produced it!

JOE WEIL

THIS IS A REPRODUCTION OF THE SMASHING 24-SHEET STAND—BE SURE TO GET IT POSTED!

FILL THAT FRONT WITH STARS!

93 Names! A gigantic cast of stars! Bill them all over the front! Play up the mighty drama—a picture "greater than "Back Street!" Use cut-outs coming forth from a jumbo book. Sell the bigness of this picture with a special display as illustrated.

LOBBY ALBUM

Another way to put over that honor-roll of players! Build a big practical album for the lobby and spot 8x10 still of the stars on its pages. Put in a conspicuous place in your lobby and watch patrons come up to look over the 93 stars.

TIE-UP THE WHOLE TOWN TO THE TITLE!

A Natural For Co-op Ad Page

You can get the local merchants to put out a big co-op page on the "Buy Now" basis. Use this catchline: THESE STORES CELEBRATE THE SPECIAL "ONLY YESTERDAY" SALE WITH PRICES OF YESTERDAY AND VALUES YOU WILL NOT BE ABLE TO DUPLICATE AFTER TOMORROW! With this slogan, you can solicit almost any type of store for advertising space.

PLUG THE SONG HIT

Get in touch at once with music stores, orchestra leaders, radio stations, and have them start plugging the song hit "ONLY YESTERDAY" by Walter Donaldson. Its popularity will help put the picture over! Plug the song to help the box-office. If copies are not stocked locally, communicate with:

Robbins Music Corp., 799-7th Ave., New York City

Special Accessories!

2 Styles Window Cards

1. Die-cut Novelty Card

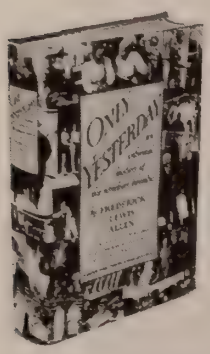
2. Giant 22 x 28 Card

Use Them Both! You'll Capture The Town With Them!

ALSO A JUMBO LOBBY STREAMER—15 Ft. WIDE

AVAILABLE AT YOUR EXCHANGE

CAMPAIGN THE BOOK!



Although the book "Only Yesterday" concerns itself only with the background of the picture, many people will want to read it because it is a sensational best-seller, much-read, heavily publicized, and widely discussed. "ONLY YESTERDAY" offers great opportunities for book tie-ups. Go after the book-stores and libraries for counter and window displays; build a jumbo-book ballyhoo with pages which turn—spot posters on these; award books as prizes to the first on line at matinees and to contest winners; print up book-marks for libraries to distribute—and everywhere you make tie-ups, use the catch-line: Bigger Than The Book! "ONLY YESTERDAY" on the screen suggested by the romance and drama behind these pages! If no copies of the book are stocked locally, communicate with the publishers.

HARPER & BROS., 49 East 33rd Street, New York City

MARGARET SULLAVAN

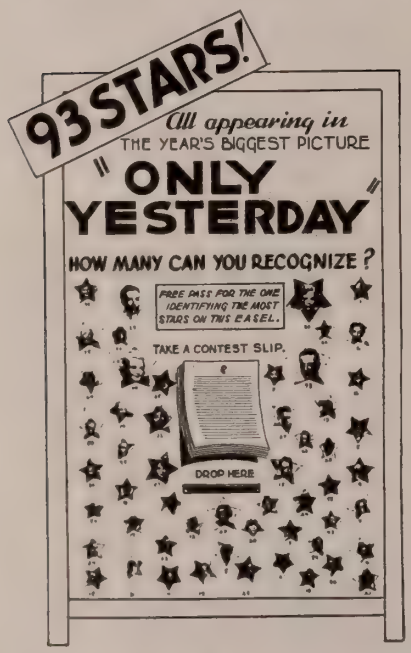
Exploit The New Screen Star Sensation!

Everyone will talk about Margaret Sullavan after seeing the picture. Get them started before they see it. Build up the star's personal triumph in "Only Yesterday." Sell her as a great new screen star. Do this with special exploitation. Plant photos of her everywhere with lines such as: Margaret Sullavan is the new rage of Hollywood; Margaret Sullavan a blazing new star that all Hollywood is talking about! Try and find a local girl who most resembles Margaret Sullavan and make her a guest of the town during your showing. Devote an entire panel in the lobby to Margaret Sullavan in various poses; interest milliners in her hats, designers in her gowns; cosmeticians in her beauty. Make a fuss over Margaret Sullavan — and watch this discovery flash into the box-office limelight.

ENVELOPE NOVELTY

A good little teaser gag to sell Margaret Sullavan can be worked out as follows: Imprint small pay envelopes with this message in script—NOT TO BE OPENED TILL THE DAY AFTER "ONLY YESTERDAY" OPENS AT THE STRAND THEATRE. Inside the envelope, have a slip of paper, imprinted likewise in script: "ONLY YESTERDAY" A NEW SCREEN STAR WAS CREATED WHEN MARGARET SULLAVAN MADE HER FILM DEBUT WITH JOHN BOLES, BILLIE BURKE, REGINALD DENNY AND 90 STARS IN JOHN M. STAHL'S "ONLY YESTERDAY." Hand these out to patrons who attend the first day's showing at your theatre.

CONTEST STUNT



Ask the fans to identify the 93 players appearing in the cast. Use numbered portraits of them in star-shapes as shown. Supply contest blanks and a box for entries on the same easel. Award a pass or small cash prize to the patron identifying the most stars.

STAR-SPANGLED BALLYHOO CAR

The sketch shows a truck literally covered with stars—each one of which should contain a portrait of a player appearing in "Only Yesterday." This and the jumbo book is a fine way to sell the tremendous title and cast.

Special Matinee For War-Time Romancers!

Get in touch with local Legion Post and check on war-time romances. Have couples married at that time invited to War Bride Matinee inasmuch as picture is about one. Great for publicity slants and word-of-mouth.

Hollywood Opening

Give "Only Yesterday" a real Hollywood opening with arc lights, celebrities, camera and newspaper men present, etc. It marks the picture's importance!

MOVING BELT ROLL-UP OF STARS!

A stunt that is certain to intrigue the fans is a moving belt roll-up of stars in "Only Yesterday." Do this with a shadow-box, in the front of which you have a star-shaped opening. Behind the aperture, the moving belt revolves bringing into view one star's name after another. Number all the names, but not consecutively. Dress up the shadow-box front with stars of various colors, title billing, etc.

POSTERS TO SELL A SUPER-PICTURE!

6-SHEET

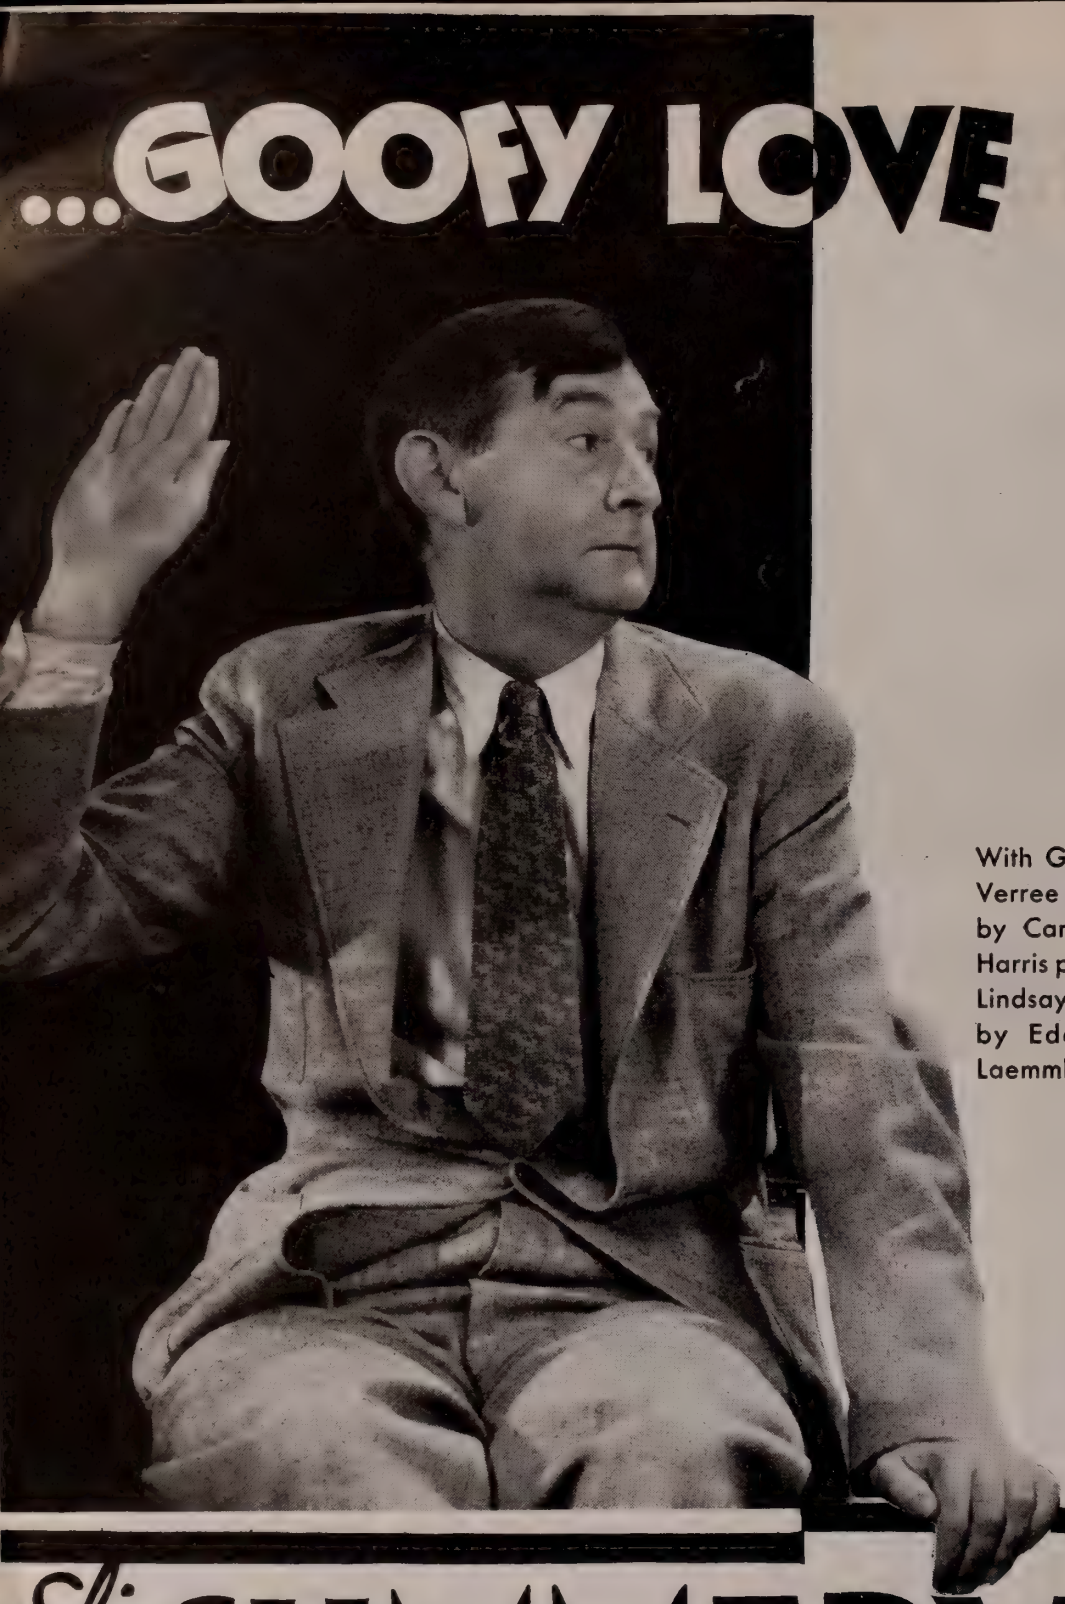
3-SHEET

SEE PAGE 1 OF SHOWMANSHIP SECTION FOR REPRODUCTION OF 24-SHEET POSTER . . . .

(At Left) 3-SHEET

(Below) ONE-SHEET

...GOOFY LOVE BIRDS



With GEORGE BARBIER, Lucille Gleason, Verree Teasdale, Donald Meek. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr., from the Sam H. Harris play, "Oh, Promise Me," by Howard Lindsay and Bertrand Robinson. Directed by Eddie Buzzell. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

Slim SUMMERVILLE

"LOVE, HONOR

GOOFIER THAN EVER!

"SPINACH!"

What's "spinach" got to do with the film business or with the box-office? . . . PUH-LENTY, Mister, PUH-LENTY! . . . Because when this picture gets circulating, "SPINACH" is going to be the country's newest wise-cracking by-word... It's going to be just as famous as Eddie Cantor's "quack-quack" or Mae West's "Come Up and See Me Sometime!" . . . How? . . . Why? . . . What? . . . Where? . . . You'll find out all about it when Zasu Pitts tells it to the judge and jury in the funniest breach of promise case ever framed into court.

•

Special Note To Theatre Managers:

You can give your personal guarantee in your newspaper ads that this picture presents the funniest courtroom sequence ever filmed!

and ZASU PITTS in "and OH, BABY!"

3 BIG WEEKS ON
"One of the really notable products of the screen" says Variety.
With ROD LA ROCQUE, LENI RIEFENSTAHL, Gibson Gowland, Ernst Udet. Story by Dr. Arnold Fanck. Music by Paul Dessau. Directed by Tay Garnett. Presented by Carl Laemmle. A UNIVERSAL SPECIAL
S.O.S ICE

B'WAY AT $1.50 TOP!

—now ready for a cleanup EVERYWHERE!

Two-a-day run at Criterion Theatre, N. Y! . . . The year's big thriller available for immediate booking NOW—Now, while you have the open time to give this sensational production the kind of a campaign and the length of run that will make BIG MONEY for you! . . . Play it now, Now, NOW, when every important factor points to your biggest grossing chance in months and months! . . . Prints are available in your exchange center.

From

UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORP.

730 FIFTH AVENUE

NEW YORK CITY

LARRY EDMUNDS, INC.
CINEMA BOOKSHOP
HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.

Sec. 562, P. L. & R.
U. S. POSTAGE
Paid
New York, N. Y.
Permit No. 949

ROBERT B WENNER
22 CROSS ST
MALDEN MASS

You'll laugh with tears in your eyes! You'll thrill while stifling a sob!

SATURDAY'S MILLIONS

turns all picture formulas upside down and hits the market just when football excitement is at fever heat!

•

With Robert Young, Leila Hyams, Johnny Mack Brown, Andy Devine, Lucille Lund, Mary Carlisle, Grant Mitchell. From the story by Lucian Cary. Screenplay by Dale Van Every. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Edward Sedgwick. Production arranged by Christy Walsh. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

Printed in U. S. A.

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
VOL 33 NO 18
OCT. 14, 1933

WYNNE GIBSON
The Glamorous Blonde in "SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR"

JOHN BARRYMORE

as the

COUNSELLOR AT LAW

With BEBE DANIELS

DORIS KENYON

Onslow Stevens, Melvyn Douglas, Isabel Jewell, Thelma Todd, Mayo Methot. From the stage play by ELMER RICE. Directed by WILLIAM WYLER.

Prepare for the box-office thrill of a lifetime!

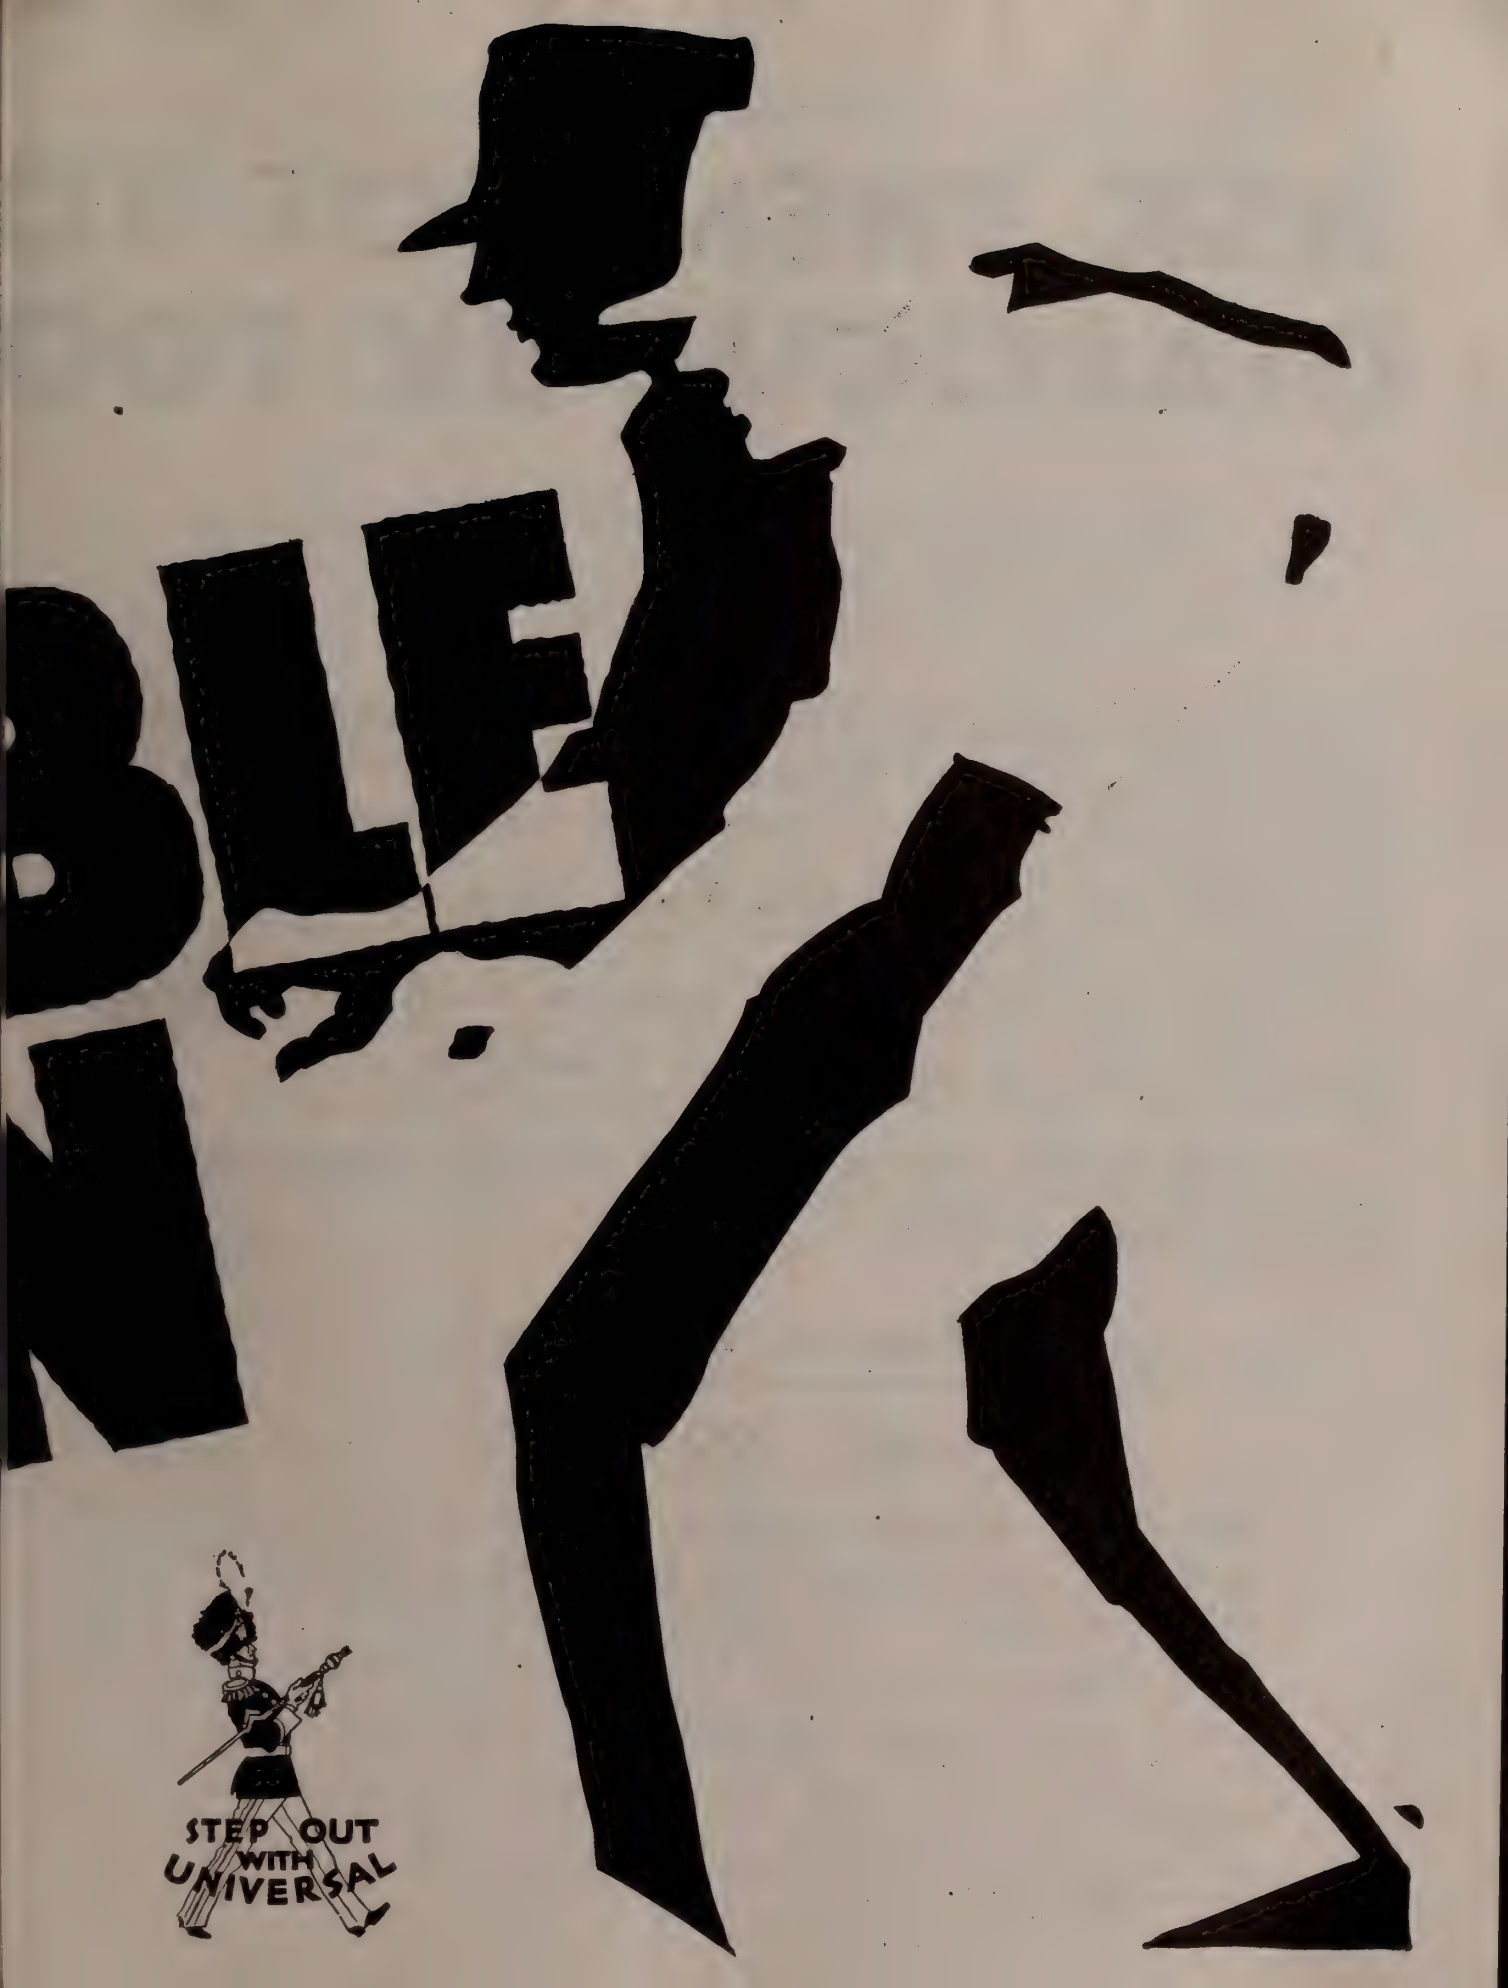
H.G. WELLS' FANTASTIC SENSATION!

THE INVISIBLE MAN

Starring

CLAUDE RAINS,

With GLORIA STUART, William Harrigan, Dudley Digges, Una O'Connor, Henry Travers, Forrester Harvey. Screenplay by R. C. Sherriff. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by JAMES WHALE. Presented by Carl Laemmle.



BLE
N
STEP OUT
WITH
UNIVERSAL

ASK THEM NOT TO DIALOGUE BY TOO

No. 743 Straight-from-the-Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

If I were running your theatre and were about to show Slim Summerville and ZaSu Pitts in "Love, Honor and Oh, Baby" I would reverse the usual order of advertising.

I would not tell them how funny the picture is.

I would not say this is the funniest of all the Summerville-Pitts pictures, even though it really is.

I would tackle it from a totally different angle, possibly on the following order.

Please Do Not Laugh Too Much!

The crazy comedy in this picture of Slim Summerville and ZaSu Pitts has such a rapid-fire dialogue that it is a shame to miss even a word of it. Please remember the rest of the audience when you do your laughing. Do it quietly if you possibly can, so that no one else will miss any of the ridiculously funny chatter. If you find yourself roaring with laughter, please remember that the other fellow cannot hear the next crazy remark because you are disturbing him.

DROWN OUT THE MUCH LAUGHING

Believe me, the picture will prove the truth of your advertisment, and the wisdom of it.

I had to look at the picture more than once to get all of its nonsense, because even the hard-boiled cynics in a cold projection room laughed so much that some of the dialogue was drowned out.

We have advertised Mr. Summerville and Miss Pitts as the team of screams and the scream of teams. We have given you some very funny pictures with this team as the main attraction.

But, take it from me, we have never produced anything quite so foolishly hysterical as "Love, Honor and Oh, Baby!"

Slim out-Summervilles Summerville, and ZaSu out-Pitts Pitts. His face. Her hands. A jackass plot. Gorgeous nonsense, and something to make your theatre just a little more popular than ever!

Carl Laemmle

Universal's New Deal!

UNITED THEATRES of CALIFORNIA

Including Golden State Theatres Corp., T. & D. Jr., Theatre Circuit, San Francisco Theatres, Inc.

(Eugene Emmick, M. Naify, R. A. McNeil, Sam Levin) sign for

UNIVERSAL

—Features, News, Serials and Shorts, 1933-34

•

Thanks,* Messrs. Emmick, Naify, McNeil, and Levin for your confidence in Universal Pictures. We will do our part.

NEWS

June Knight officiating at the opening of the new Bismarck Inn with Ted Weems and Harry Sosnick, whose orchestras furnish music for the Bismarck and with Otto Eitel, general manager of the Inn.

June Knight Captures Chicago

AFTER four weeks of personal appearances at the Paramount Theatre in New York, June Knight went to Chicago for a week. So successful was she at the Palace Theatre here that she was held over, and goodness knows how she was able to get to Universal City, Cal., where she will be starred with Russ Colombo in "The Indecent Age," by Frederick and Fanny Hatton, and "Crooning Through," and with Lew Ayres in "Cross Country Cruise."

While in Chicago, Miss Knight graciously consented to help open a Chicago thoroughfare with the Mayor and a Chicago restaurant with its owner. Pictorial illustrations of these activities are displayed on the page.

During the Convention of the American Legion, Miss Knight received an honor which has only come to one other woman, that is Elsie Janis. She was elected "Queen of the Convention."

June Knight officiates at the formal opening of the new Chicago Boulevard. It is the last link in the so-called outer drive on Sheridan Road between Montrose and Foster Avenues. At Miss Knight's left is Emmet Whealan, president of the Cook County Board, Hon. Edward J. Kelly, Mayor of Chicago, and Alfred D. Plamondon, President of Lincoln Park.

James R. Grainger, general manager of distribution for Universal, passes through Chicago on his way to Universal City studios, as June Knight arrived. He witnessed her signature to the contract for playing at the Palace Theatre.

✚ ✚ ✚

Illness Retires Wyler; James Whale Directing "By Candlelight"

SUDDEN illness of Robert Wyler forced a change of directors last week on "By Candlelight," now in production at Universal City. James Whale took over the reins after a delay of only one day. This continental comedy, adapted from a play, presents Elissa Landi and Paul Lukas in starring roles. Featured are Nils Asther, Esther Ralston, Lawrence Grant and Dorothy Revier.

"Beloved" is Title of Boles Musical

UNIVERSAL has at last definitely selected a title for the John Boles-Gloria Stuart musical which is being produced at Universal City by B. F. Zeidman. The title chosen is "Beloved," the story for which is by Paul Gangelin and the music by Victor Schertzinger, who is directing. In addition to John Boles and Gloria Stuart, the cast includes Dorothy Peterson, Mae Busch, Edmund Breese, Lucille Gleason, Lester Lee, Mabel Marden, Lucille La Verne, Burton Churchill, Albert Conti, Holmes Herbert and Evalyn Knapp who has just completed her role in "The Perils of Pauline."

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick, Editor
Published Weekly by the Motion Picture Weekly Publishing Co.
730 Fifth Avenue, New York City
Copyrighted 1933
Universal Pictures Corp.
(All Rights Reserved)
OCTOBER 14, 1933
Vol. 33 No. 18
NRA MEMBER U.S. WE DO OUR PART

Margaret Sullavan and Billie Burke in a smashingly dramatic scene from "Only Yesterday," which John Stahl has just completed at Universal City. This remarkable picture featuring Margaret Sullavan and John Boles is now in the cutting room and will be ready for release on November 6th.

Lew Ayres Definitely Cast in "Cross Country Cruise"

UNIVERSAL last week decided the first of the two pictures which Lew Ayres will make for Universal this season. Its title is "Cross Country Cruise." At least that is what it is called at the present moment. It will go into production at Universal City just as soon as Eddie Buzzell recovers from a slight attack of influenza which has taken him to Palm Springs. Already Alice White, Alan Dinehart and Eugene Pallette have been cast in supporting roles. The story is by Stanley Rauch and Elmer Harris.

✚ ✚ ✚

Victor McLaglen's Brother Cast in Summerville-Devine Feature

LEO McLAGLEN, brother of Victor McLaglen and world's jiu jitsu champion, yesterday was engaged for a prominent role in Universal's comedy feature, "Horse Play."

Now before the cameras at Universal City, "Horse Play" co-stars Slim Summerville and Andy Devine, and features Leila Hyams. Edward Sedgwick is directing.

Production Ac With Seven P At Busy Univ

WITH seven feature pictures now in work, two starting during the current week, and two more to begin October 16th, a new all-time production high has been chalked up at Universal City, Carl Laemmle, Jr., general manager, announced last week. Never in the history of Universal City has the Laemmle studio had more pictures in work at one time or been so busy. Furthermore, the excessive activity seems likely to last until the Christmas holidays.

In addition to the record number of screenplays in work and about to go in work, four have just been completed and consigned to the cutting and editing rooms. They are "Only Yesterday," the John M. Stahl picture featuring Margaret Sullavan, John Boles, Reginald Denny, and Billie Burke; "The Invisible Man," starring Claude Rains, and directed by James Whale; "Special Investigator," with Wynne Gibson and Onslow Stevens featured; and "Strawberry Roan," Ken Maynard's latest western.

William Wyler is busily engaged in directing John Barrymore in Elmer Rice's sensational stage hit, "Counsellor at Law," with Bebe Daniels, Doris Kenyon, Onslow Stevens, Isobel Jewell, Thelma Todd, and nine members of the original New York stage show cast.

After two months of preparation and musical composition, Victor Schertzinger is at work filming "Beloved," co-starring John Boles and Gloria Stuart with a large supporting cast. This picture is a musical romance, and is attracting a lot of attention in Hollywood.

Kurt Neumann is finishing "Dangerous to Women" with Chester Morris, Helen Twelvetrees and Alice White. James Whale is in the second week of "By Candlelight," featuring Elissa Landi, Paul Lukas, Nils Asther, and Esther Ralston; Edward Sedgwick is directing Slim Summerville and Andy Devine in "Horse Play," with Leila Hyams; ivity At Peak ctures in Work ersal Studios

Edwin L. Marin is directing "Bombay Mail," starring Edmund Lowe, with Onslow Stevens, Shirley Grey, Ralph Forbes, Georges Renavent, Tom Moore and others, and Alan James is directing Ken Maynard and Cecilia Parker in "Riders of Justice."

This coming week Eddie Buzzell will start Lew Ayres in "Cross Country Cruise" with Alice White and Alan Dinehart in the cast, and October 5th will be the starting date for "Madame Spy," featuring Nils Asther and Fay Wray, with Karl Freund directing. Shortly afterward Stanley Bergerman's production of "I Like It That Way" with Roger Pryor will start under the direction of Harry Lachman, and Harry Pollard is scheduled to begin "The Good Red Bricks," adapted from Mary Synon's book and featuring Margaret Sullavan. Also Edward Everett Horton and Edna Mae Oliver are slated to begin their first co-starring feature, "The Poor Rich," with Edward Sedgwick directing before the middle of the month.

Stories now in preparation and which will be filmed at Universal City this winter include "The Man Who Reclaimed His Head," by Jean Bart, starring Claude Rains, and with Lowell Sherman directing; "The Great Ziegfeld," an original screenplay by William Anthony McGuire and Billie Burke; "Rigadoon," from the story by Charles Knox Robinson, with Robert Wyler directing; "The Golden Fleece," written by Tom Reed and John Larkin, and starring Paul Lukas; "Little Man, What Now?" Hans Fallada's best seller which will star Margaret Sullavan; "Zest," the best seller by Charles G. Norris, screenplay by William Hurlbut, and Lowell Sherman directing; "American Scotland Yard," starring Edmund Lowe; "A Trip To Mars," by R. C. Sherriff, starring Boris Karloff, and directed by James Whale; "Sutter's Gold," by Blaise Cardraras; and "The Strange Behavior of Mrs. Crane," Harry Segall's famous stage success.

Leila Hyams, supporting Slim Summerville and Andy Devine in "Horse Play." The horse is also in the cast. He is the equine who registers at the Three Roses Hotel in London, and causes some of the horseplay.

"S. O. S. Iceberg" Enters Third Week At Criterion

"S. O. S. Iceberg," the Universal screen drama of a lost expedition, enters its third week at the Criterion Theatre. Since its world premiere at the Criterion on September 22nd, attended by stage and screen celebrities, the film of the arctic has been playing to packed houses. In addition to the typical Broadway movie-goers, "S. O. S. Iceberg" has attracted members of the Explorers Club, lecturers and scientists such as Vilhjalmur Stefansson and Branson de Cou, and aviation fans eager to see the spectacular flying of Major Ernst Udet, World War ace and stunt flyer in international air meets.

The million dollar production required the longest and most hazardous location trip on record in motion picture making. The six months' expedition into Greenland was led by Dr. Arnold Fanck, noted outdoor film producer. Rod La Rocque and Leni Riefenstahl play the leading roles, supported by Sepp Rist, Dr. Max Holsboer and Walter Riml, European mountain climbers and ski jumpers. Tay Garnett directed the film, which was adapted by Tom Reed from an original story by Dr. Fanck.

A NEW STAR IS BORN!

ONLY
YEST

The whole Universal studio — and about everybody else on the West Coast — is wildly enthusiastic over the performance given by Margaret Sullavan in what is hailed as THE GREATEST WOMAN'S PICTURE EVER PRODUCED!...Mr. Exhibitor, here you've got that rarest of all picture combinations—a great production introducing a great new personality. CASH IN ON IT!

•

With

MARGARET SULLAVAN and JOHN BOLES

JOHN M. STAHL'S

Greatest Production for Universal!

93 feature players in the cast, including Edna May Oliver, Billie Burke, Benita Hume, Onslow Stevens, Reginald Denny, Jimmie Butler, Marie Prevost, Franklin Pangborn. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Suggested by the book by Frederick Lewis Allen. Dialogue by William Hurlbut. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

ERDAY

She will take her place with the GREAT

Katharine Hepburn

MARGARET SULLAVAN making her screen debut
in

ONLY

EST

Ann Harding Marlene Dietrich Greta Garbo

YESTERDAY

Use These Cartoons for "S.O.S. Iceberg"

A PUBLICITY feature for "S. O. S. Iceberg" which could not get into the regular press book is herewith explained to exhibitors. Almost all newspapers like to have cartoons for illustration even better than good stills. In the first place, they are odd and attract attention. In the second place, they usually show up better in newspapers than halftones do because the cartoons can be made in line cuts instead of halftones. In the big run which "S. O. S. Iceberg" had at the Criterion Theatre, there were a number of striking cartoons printed, which we have purchased from the artists who drew them and which you now have the opportunity of using when you play "S. O. S. Iceberg" in your theatre.

Cartoon of Himself by Udet the Intrepid Flyer of "S. O. S. ICEBERG."

There are six cartoons in the set. Two of them were drawn by Major Ernst Udet himself. This intrepid flyer and splendid actor is also an artist of no mean ability. One of the cartoons is signed "Greenland 1932, Udet" and is illustrated on this page. It is a cartoon as he sees himself in his perilous rescue work among the icebergs. The other is a picture of Gibson Gowland smoking a pipe. This cartoon may be done either as a very coarse screen halftone, or as a line cut. Another is by the cartoonist, Harry Firestone, and has a very nice arrangement of Bendays. It shows Major Udet, Knud Rasmussen, protector of the expedition, and Dr. Holsboer, European ice hockey champion, and one of the actors in the film.

Irving Hoffman is represented by a nice drawing of Udet and a cleverly executed setting. Malcolm Eaton has a characteristic drawing of Gowland, Riefenstahl and LaRocque. One of the best drawings is by the artist von Hentzchel. This drawing will have to be reproduced as a coarse screen halftone, but even so it will reproduce a lot better than a photograph. These six cartoons can be obtained from any Universal Exchange. A quantity of them is already in each Exchange and can be ordered from accessory manager.

"S.O.S. Iceberg" Enters Third Week at Criterion

"S. O. S. Iceberg," the Universal screen drama of a lost expedition, enters its third week at the Criterion Theatre. Since its world premiere at the Criterion on September 22nd, attended by stage and screen celebrities, the film of the arctic has been playing to packed houses. In addition to the typical Broadway movie-goers, "S. O. S. Iceberg" has attracted members of the Explorers Club, lecturers and scientists such as Vilhjalmur Stefansson and Branson de Cou, and aviation fans eager to see the spectacular flying of Major Ernst Udet, World War ace and stunt flyer in international air meets.

The million dollar production required the longest and most hazardous location trip on record in motion picture making. The six months' expedition into Greenland was led by Dr. Arnold Fanck, noted outdoor film producer. Rod La Rocque and Leni Riefenstahl play the leading roles, supported by Sepp Rist.

Andy Devine Chosen For "The Poor Rich"

HAVING finished his co-starring role with Slim Summerville in "Horse Play," Andy Devine was this week assigned to a new role. He is the first player selected for "The Poor Rich," starring Edward Everett Horton and Edna May Oliver. "The Poor Rich" is a comedy by Dale Van Every, Ebba Havez and Henry Myers. Ebba Havez has just finished the continuity. It will be directed by Edward Sedgwick. Universal with this picture is confident of building a new comedy team which will attempt to rival Summerville-Pitts. There will be two of the Horton-Oliver features.

UNSOCIAL NOTE

Bebe Daniels, supporting John Barrymore in "Counsellor-At-Law," and J. Hammond Dailey, also supporting him, came to Hollywood from New York City on the same airplane. Hammond recognized Miss Daniels, but was too shy to speak to her. Miss Daniels exhibited a shy reserve for 27 hours.

Three days later they found themselves working together on the same set, at Universal City.

Splendid Cast Signed for "Rider of Justice"

WALTER MILLER, who attracted a lot of attention with his work in the Buck Jones serial, "Gordon of Ghost City," and Cecilia Parker, who has appeared in several Universal chapter-plays, yesterday were added to the cast of "Rider of Justice," the fifth Ken Maynard western for Universal. Miss Parker will be the western star's leading lady.

"Rider of Justice" is an original screenplay by Robert Quigley. Alan James is directing.

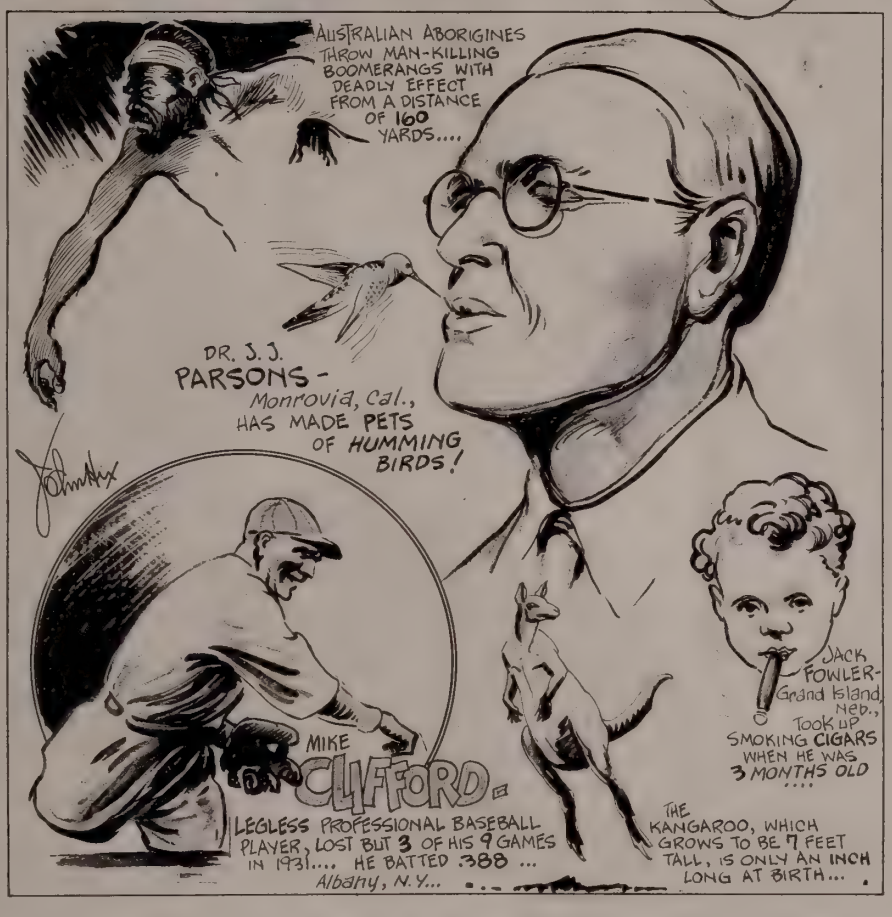
Strange thing about these Ken Maynard features. They get better with each release. Watch next week for a story on "Strawberry Roan." We though "The Trail Drive" was the best western ever made. Just wait till you see "Strawberry Roan."

Highlights in Universal's

Strange As It Seems

NO. 32

by JOHN HIX



JOHN HIX comes to bat with a tremendously interesting assortment of material for "Strange As It Seems" No. 32. The highlights of this interesting reel are illustrated for the Universal Weekly by Mr. Hix himself in the accompanying cartoon.

The domestic life of a humming bird, how Australian aborigines get along with a minimum of ammunition, the strange life growth of the kangaroo, and a baby boy who took up smoking at the tender age of three months are among the dozen separate strange subjects brought to the screen in the latest Universal "Strange As It Seems" short based on the widely read newspaper cartoon of the same name by John Hix.

The short subject, which is the thirty-second of the series produced by Jerry Fairbanks and Manny Nathan, is winning wide acclaim for the sequence which shows Dr. J. J. Parsons, Monrovia, California, and his pet humming birds. Excellent camera shots give hitherto unfilmed pictures of Dr. Parsons feeding a tiny humming bird with an eye-dropper, and a mother humming bird feeding her own young.

The Australian aborigine and his boomerang which returns to him if it misses it mark, and his deadly spear which he carries with his feet are shown in another highlight of the film. Comedy is provided in scenes of the Men's Sewing Club of Louisville, Kentucky, where he-men of the South gather round to knit and gossip.

One of the strangest businesses in the world—that of gathering and selling Mexican jumping beans—is explained interestingly by Gayne Whitman, Strange As It Seems narrator, in scenes of the Sierra of Alamos, Mexico, where all jumping beans come from. Strange habits and customs of the colorful Navajo Indians of Arizona form two sequences, showing how the Indian brave shaves his sparse beard; and why, strange as it seems, Indians are able to buy valuable merchandise with nothing more than the buttons on their clothes.

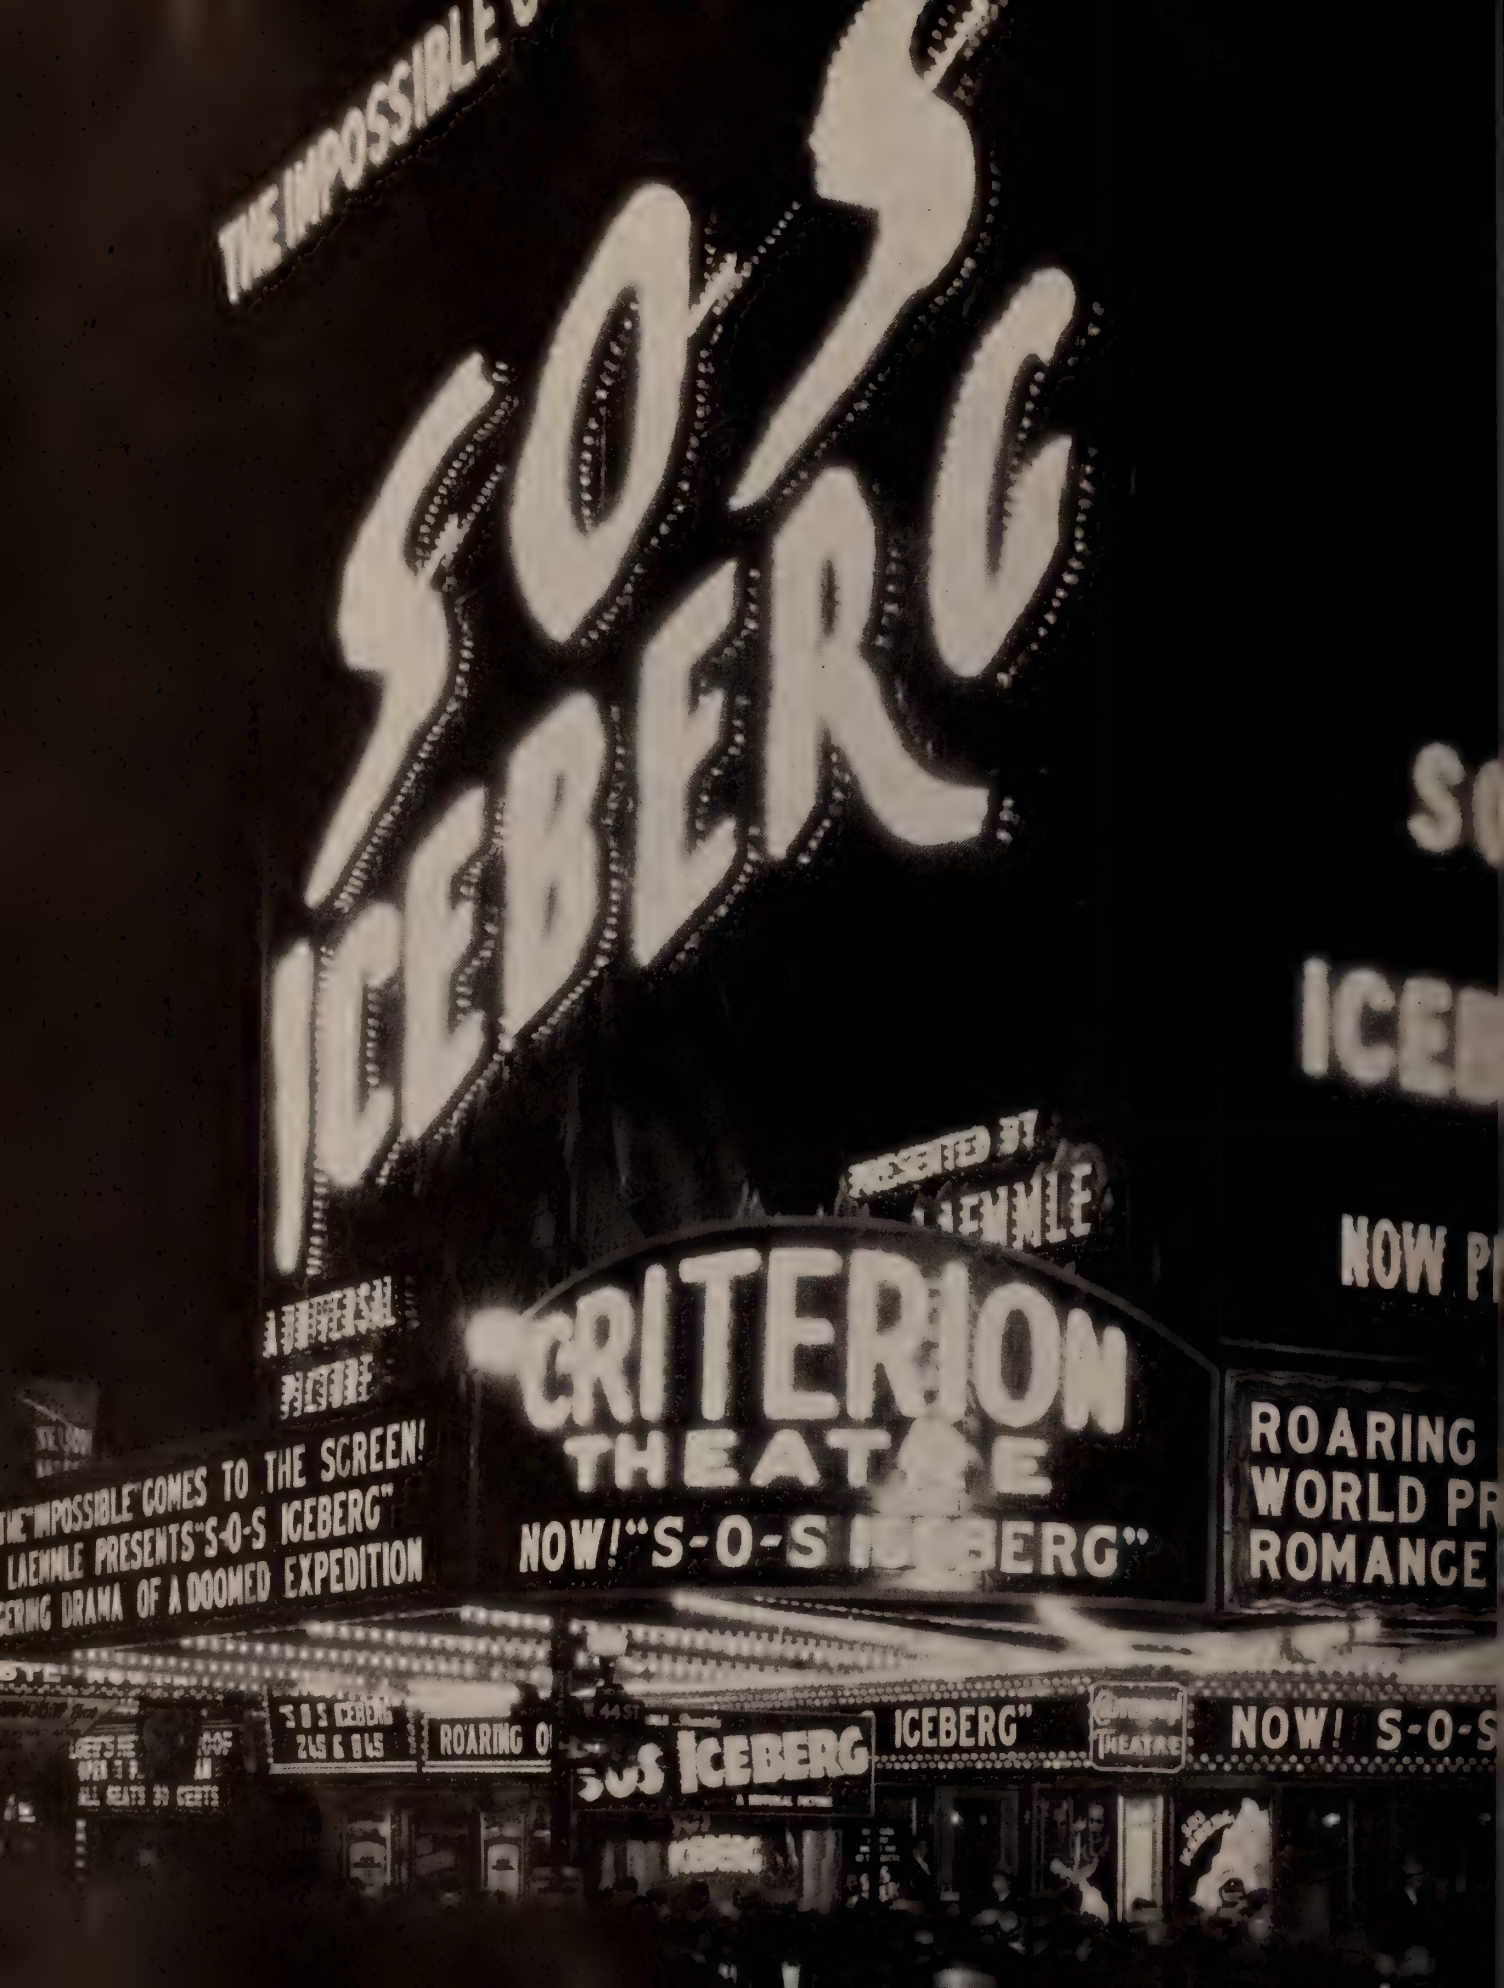
Architecture turns back 6000 years for the scenes in Mescalero, New Mexico, at the site of a granite structure where Father Albert Braum, "The Padre of the Mountains" and his two faithful Indian workers have labored 15 years building a church which, now half done, will take another decade and a half for completion.

The short also includes fascinating shots of little Jack Fowler, who took up smoking cigars at three months; the strange friendship between wild ducks and Tom Reed of Lost Lake, Florida; the "Rubber Faced" man of Atlanta, Georgia; and Mike Clifford who, although legless, plays professional baseball and plays it well.

"Strange As It Seems" is constantly broadening its newspaper syndicate. Last week it started in the Seattle Star. In every instance now a tie-up is effected with the theatres in the city where a new newspaper contract is effected. In the case of Seattle, the tie-up includes 32 Seattle theatres.

In addition to Seattle, the John Hix cartoon went into the Portland News-Telegram with a tie-up of twenty-six Portland theatres. These tie-ups were effected for the McNaught Syndicate by Ernest Hix, working in collaboration with the Universal Exchanges in Seattle and Portland.

The illustration above is from "Strange As It Seems" No. 32, now being released to theatres throughout the United States.



S-O-S ICEBERG
THE IMPOSSIBLE
CRITERION THEATRE
NOW!"S-O-S ICEBERG" ROARING
WORLD PR
ROMANCE
S O S ICEBERG
ICEBERG"
NOW! S-O-S

BROADWAY'S BIG SENSATION becomes

THE THRILL OF A NATION!

Prints now available at all exchange centers for IMMEDIATE RUNS on the picture that played to thrilled thousands at $1.50 Top... Early reports from runs in key spots indicate that this tremendous thriller is going to clean up EVERYWHERE... Climb aboard the bandwagon NOW... Set it in as soon as possible, for as long a run as possible so as to make the most money possible—(and there never was a better time to make big money than right NOW!!!)

•

With ROD LA ROCQUE, LENI RIEFENSTAHL, Gibson Gowland, Ernst Udet. Story by Dr. Arnold Fanck. Music by Paul Dessau. Directed by Tay Garnett. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

A UNIVERSAL PICTURE

GREATEST SALES WEEK in UNI

LAST week was the biggest week in Universal's sales history.

Last week was no special week. It wasn't the peak week of a drive; it wasn't any anniversary; and it wasn't any accident. It was just the build-up to a climax of the sales effort of the Universal Exchanges since James R. Grainger became general manager of Universal distribution and since Universal announced its thirty-six picture program for 1933-1934.

There was, however, a coincidence of events which brought the big contracts together in one week. In the first place, the Universal Weekly, with its new announcement explaining what two million dollars more in production money had accomplished for these thirty-six pictures, had just come out. Its effect was distinctly noticeable in all exchanges. However, the big business came from San Francisco Exchange, and the Big U Exchange.

James R. Grainger, after weeks of preliminary work on the part of the Exchange, had arrived in San Francisco and had closed four smashing deals that gave the San Francisco office the greatest week in sales the office had ever had in its entire history. These contracts set Universal solidly in the San Francisco territory and in Honolulu. The figures themselves are sufficiently staggering, but the superb playing arrangements effected made these four deals notable in a year in which Universal is bound to stand out with startling prominence. The deals closed were with the Golden State, the T. & D. Junior circuit, Blumenfeld, and the Consolidated Amusement Company. These four great circuits represent the major playing time for the entire Northern California and Honolulu districts and set up the Universal product for more de-luxe playing time than the Coincidence of James R. G San Francisco, the Big U's Appearance of the New Number of the Universal Gigantic Volume Sales of

✚ ✚ ✚

June Knight Enters "Cross Country Cruise"

JUNE KNIGHT returned this week to Universal City. Carl Laemmle, Jr. cast her immediately and unexpectedly in a role supporting Lew Ayres in "Cross Country Cruise." This trans-continental bus story will go into production within a few days under the direction of Eddie Buzzell. The cast already includes Alice White, Alan Dinehart, Eugene Pallette, Robert Allen and Arthur Vinton. It will be June Knight's second Universal picture. Her first, "Ladies Must Love," will be released this month. Following it she came to New York, and played three weeks of personal appearances at the Paramount Theatre, and followed this up with two at the Palace Theatre in Chicago.

Two other pictures have been discussed for June Knight and if "Cross Country Cruise" finishes on time she will go into either or both of them. The first "Crooning Thru" by William Anthony McGuire with Russ Columbo and the other is "The Indecent Age."

✚ ✚ ✚

FAY WRAY CAST FOR "MADAME SPY"

FAY WRAY has been engaged for the title role in Universal's production of "Madame Spy" which Karl Freund is to direct. Miss Wray is assured in "Madame Spy" of the most dominant role of her screen career.

TOM MIX HONORED

Tony Among Immortals

WHEN the winner of the Irish Sweepstakes is drawn this year, it will be against a background of world famous horses. The committee in charge has commissioned John Keating, R.H.A., to select and paint the twenty-four most famous horses in the world. The only moving picture horse he chose was Tony, Tom Mix's famous horse, featured in nine Universal productions and honored while he was in London in a way that no horse in modern times was ever honored. John Keating is shown in the illustration above, drawing Tom Mix and Tony preliminary to making his painting. This painting will be incorporated as one of the twenty-four panels decorating the rostrum upon which the winner of the Irish Sweepstakes will be drawn.

Oswald, the Lucky Rabbit to Fly With Navy Birdmen

"Oswald, the Lucky Rabbit" Universal's eight year old cartoon comedian is going for a skyride with the United States Navy.

The clever little Walter Lantz cartoon caricature will soon adorn the sides of many fighting aeroplanes of the U. S. Navy Observation Squadron 3B assigned the battleships Arizona, New Mexico, Mississippi and California.

In compliance to a request from Lieut. Comm. C. T. Simard for the observation planes, Cartoonist Lantz has created a red, white and blue insignia showing the long eared Oswald whizzing towards a bulls eye astraddle a 14 inch projectile. This Oswald will win new fame as the first "seagoing" rabbit.

ISEN IN NEW YORK

MONROE ISEN, General Manager for Universal in South America, arrived in New York Tuesday from South America, with his wife and two-year-old daughter. It is three and a half years since Mr. Isen, who was born in New York, has been in this country. He will take a thoroughly long rest and endeavor to catch up with the progress in the northern hemisphere, as well as study at first-hand the product which Universal will release in South America during the coming year.

ERSAL HISTORY

ger's visit to Veek and the nouncement kly, Produce ersal Pictures.

company has ever enjoyed in this section of the country.

Features, News, shorts and serials were included in the deal with each brand of product calling for price increases and preferred playing time for the greater portion of the product. With these deals added to those already closed, Universal is well on its way to the greatest year in the entire history of the company. Mr. Grainger has personally closed one great deal after another and has set a solid framework of sales that will insure exceptional representation, and preferred playing time. He has built a massive structure of confidence. The closing of the coast deals puts practically every large circuit definitely in the Universal Victory Parade.

The other big contributor to the greatest sales week in Universal history was the Big U Exchange. Although the R. K. O. contract had previously been announced, it was only last week that definite contracts were signed and only last week that it could be included to the sales credit of the Exchange. In addition to the R. K. O. deal, there were a number of smaller circuit deals and an exceptional amount of business credited to the splendid impression which the Universal Weekly, carrying Universal's new announcement, had produced in the territory. Everyone seems thoroughly satisfied with this report of what two million dollars more in production money has done for Universal product.

✚ ✚ ✚

HERE IS A RECORD

"BE MINE TONIGHT" has broken lots of records, but this one breaks the all-time record for attendance by so much that there is not even a good second. Ruth Baldwin Pierson of 110 Corwin Road, Rochester, N. Y. has seen "Be Mine Tonight" more times than any person ever saw a moving picture before.

How many times do you think a person can go to see a good moving picture? All right! And then double that, and double it two or three times more, and still you'll be 'way off!

Mrs. Pierson has gone to see "Be Mine Tonight" at the Little Theatre in Rochester just forty-eight times! Unless she has gone to see it again since the story of this remarkable devotion to a moving picture was printed on September 20th in the Rochester Evening Journal. She would have had several more opportunities to see it, because "Be Mine Tonight" is now in its fourteenth week in Rochester and this is another record that cannot be overlooked.

Ruth Baldwin Pierson is a nationally known poet. She is a regular contributor to the Magazine of Verse and a number of her poems have been published in book form. Mrs. Pierson goes to see "Be Mine Tonight" apparently every time she has an opportunity. She isn't striving for a world's record. She goes because she likes the picture.

Buck Jones Reviews Huge Fan Club

THERE never was a fan club in the history of the moving picture business to anywhere near equal that of Buck Jones. It is entitled "The Buck Jones Rangers." They have uniforms and everything, and the total membership is well over three million. This is a huge heady-made audience for "Gordon of Ghost City," which is now playing its first chapters in selected theatres throughout the country to record-breaking business.

The illustration above shows a review of the uniformed Buck Jones Rangers from Belvedere Gardens. This review by Buck Jones of his admirers was one of the outstanding features of the closing day of the Pomona County Fair. Below is the band attached to this California division of the Buck Jones Rangers.

DOUBLES HIS GROSS

L. J. MASON of the Palace Theatre of McAllen, Texas, played such a successful engagement on "Moonlight and Pretzels" that the amount of money coming to the exchange on a percentage arrangement doubled the gross of any Universal picture played in McAllen this year. Mr. Mason was thoroughly satisfied with the picture and showed his good judgment by making an exceptionally strong exploitation campaign. The Palace is one of the crack houses of the Paschall-Texas Circuit.

✚ ✚ ✚

"STRANGE AS IT SEEMS" No. 32

PLENTY of curiosities to hold the interest of the most jaded fan. In particular there are shots showing a Navajo Indian shaving with a piece of tin and a farmer scratching his nose with his nether lip. Well worth while. Running time, 10 mins. Review of the Motion Picture Daily

RED-HOT RI

With ROBERT YOUNG, LEILA HYAMS, Johnny Mack Brown, Andy Devine, Lucille Lund, Mary Carlisle, Grant Mitchell. From the Saturday Evening Post story by Lucian Cary. Produced by Carl Laemmle. Directed by Edward Sedgwick. Production arranged by Christy Walsh. Presented by Carl Laemmle

GHT NOW!

Football is getting millions of dollars in admissions from the public right now—and this picture revolving around FOOTBALL will get theatres millions of dollars in admissions right now! Never was there a more timely release, and never was there as good a football picture... Because this one, in addition to its football pull, has the all important WOMAN-APPEAL that all good pictures need . . . It has plenty of DRAMA, ROMANCE, COMEDY and SENTIMENT to go with its world of ACTION and SUSPENSE . . . It's truly the showman's "natural" this year! PLAY IT NOW!

$ MILLION$

What They Think of Goofytone News

Had to Raise the Volume

Winnipeg, Manitoba
September 9th, 1933

Mr. Clair Hague
Canadian Universal Film Co.
Toronto, Ont.

Dear Mr. Hague:

Glad indeed, to hear that you are out of the hospital, and feeling much better. I trust by the time this letter reaches you that you will have fully recovered.

We screened the first Goofytone Newsreel the other day, in the screen room, and had our doubts as to how the audience would receive it, whether or not they would get any laughs out of it, and if it would take the place of a comedy, so suggested to Frank Vaughan that we put it in this week's program in place of a comedy, and if the audience did not receive it, we would replace it with something else. Right off the bat the audience started to laugh, and each one of the news items seemed to bring more laughs, so decided to keep it on this week's program. With the house filled to capacity, for two nights shows, they roared and laughed to such an extent that we had to have the operators raise the volume three points, so that the laughs would not drown out the talking. We have had a lot of inquiries wanting to know when we would run one again, and you may rest assured it will receive billing in our ad. The morning's paper praises it, and mentions no other short but this one.

We are exploiting "Moonlight and Pretzels" in a big way, and am satisfied that we will do capacity business.

Thought the above would be of interest to you, and with the kindest personal regards, I am

Yours very truly,

E. C. BOSTICK
Managing-Director
Lyceum Theatre

NEW YORK HOWLS AT GOOFYTONE NEWS

AT the showing of "S. O. S. Iceberg" in the Criterion Theatre, the only short shown with the feature was the Goofytone News. It was the debut of this howlingly funny take-off on newsreels in New York City. Here are several excerpts from the New York papers.

The New York News said: "The Universal Pictures Company has a novel newsreel offering at the Criterion. It is called 'Goofytone News Reels,' and is a bit of nonsense from which you will be sure to get a kick. Purely satirical, it pokes fun at the newsreel cameramen and their subjects."

Sidney Skolsky in the News says: "Grand fun is the Goofytone News, burlesque newsreel."

Paul Yawitz in the Mirror says: "Among the things that kept this Sunkist Columnist awake this wk. are Arty Auerbach's made 'Goofytone News' idea at the Criterion."

HE HAD THE BELLY LAUGHS

220 East 42nd St., New York City
September 12, 1933

Mr. James A. Grainger,
Universal Pictures Corp.,
New York City.

Dear Mr. Grainger:

I had the pleasure and belly laughs to see a Universal release called "Goofytone" playing in Keith's Albee Theatre in Boston on the second day of September.

On that date I had been assigned to cover the Giants - Boston game in the bean country. Quite by accident, several of the ball players and sports writers wandered into this theatre after Saturday's game, and believe you me that Goofytone newsreel took the wet blanket off everything. We laughed 'till we wept copious tears of mirth. It was what might be honestly termed a "HOWLING" success.

If it is to be released here, please send me the information, date and theatre where it can be seen again, so that the ribs of my friends, myself, and many of our townfolk can get an exercising as only a hearty laugh right from the mid-section can produce. And believe you me, Sir Grainger, your many Goofy subjects in this reel, with a sweeping bow to the Noble Chancellor Moahn,—CAN PRODUCE 'EM.

Still laughing-ly yours,

PHIL LEVINE

FUNNIEST EVER

220 East 42nd St., New York City
September 14th, 1933

Mr. James A. Grainger,
Universal Pictures Corp.,
New York City.

Dear Mr. Grainger:

Allow me to congratulate Universal Pictures for the first really new and funniest idea in movies that I have ever had the pleasure to witness.

"Goofytone News" provides the definition of the word "COMEDY" to an EXCLAMATION POINT!!

Thanks for many solid minutes of hearty laughter.

Sincerely,

JOSEPH COSTA, Jr.

Song cover of the first song written for a two-reel comedy subject by famous composers.

Unique Song Plug For "On The Air — And Off"

"ON THE AIR—and OFF," first of Universal's series of Mentone Featurettes, becomes a still more highly exploitable subject with the publication of the current song hit, "Lonely Moonlight Troubadour." This romantic ballad, which is rapidly becoming one of the most popular selections with leading radio orchestras and soloists everywhere, was originally sung in "On the Air—and Off" by Nick Lucas, the crooning troubadour of stage screen and radio.

Music store tie-ups involving song hits from feature pictures have always proved effective theatre exploitation. This fact should be taken into consideration in booking "On the Air — and Off." Exhibitors who book this short are urged not to fail to capitalize the possibilities. For plugging purposes, get in touch with local radio, restaurant and ballroom orchestras. Contact your local music dealers now. Tell them that special reproductions of song covers and other advertising material are now available at the Music Dealers Service, 619 West 54th Street, New York City. A postal inquiry will bring prompt action.

For your information, a reprint of the page you are now reading, together with an appropriate explanatory letter, is being sent to each of three thousand music dealers by Miller Music, Inc., the publishers of "Lonely Moonlight Troubadour."

New York's famous Tin Pan Alley is genuinely interested in the success of the new Mentone-Universal song hit because of the collaboration, for the first time, of the song-writing talents of Ballard MacDonald and Milton Schwarzwald. Macdonald is responsible for the lyrics of hundreds of successful songs during the past twenty-five years. He is also prominent as a musical comedy and revue writer. Incidentally, he wrote the story and scenario of "On the Air—and Off" and of four additional Mentone Featurettes.

Mr. Schwarzwald, in addition to his pre-eminence as a radio director and arranger of music, is the composer of scores of musical comedies and song hits.

The cast of "On the Air—and Off" includes besides Nick Lucas, Adelaide Hall, one of the world's leading colored artistes; Eddie Garr, foremost amongst American mimics; Hizi Koyke, celebrated Japanese prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera; Lord Oliver Wakefield, stuttering star of the English music halls; Bovard Sisters and Murray, vaudeville's outstanding harmony trio; Sam Liebert, famous Broadway character actor; and Leon Belasco, popular maestro of the St. Moritz Hotel, in New York, with orchestra. As this line-up of extraordinary talent suggests, "On the Air—and Off" is crammed full of sure-fire entertainment. Also, it is the sort of variety two-reel subject that will fit into almost any show schedule, regardless of what type of full-length feature may top the program.

Mentone Productions are all of them geared to this amusement angle. Mentone had the pick of hundreds of actors from the Catholic Actors Guild, from which list the casts for its second and third two-reel pictures have also been chosen. The titles of these are "All At Sea" and "The Big Benefit." Prints of "On the Air—and Off" are in all Universal Exchanges now.

BOX-OFFICE HISTORY WILL

•

With EVALYN KNAPP,
Pat O'Malley, William Desmond, Robert Allen, James Durkin, John Davidson, Sonny Ray, Frank Lackteen. Story By Ella O'Neill. Directed by Ray Taylor.

•

Other Universal Serials For1933-34

BUCK JONES in
GORDON OF GHOST CITY

•

RICHARD TALMADGE in PIRATE TREASURE

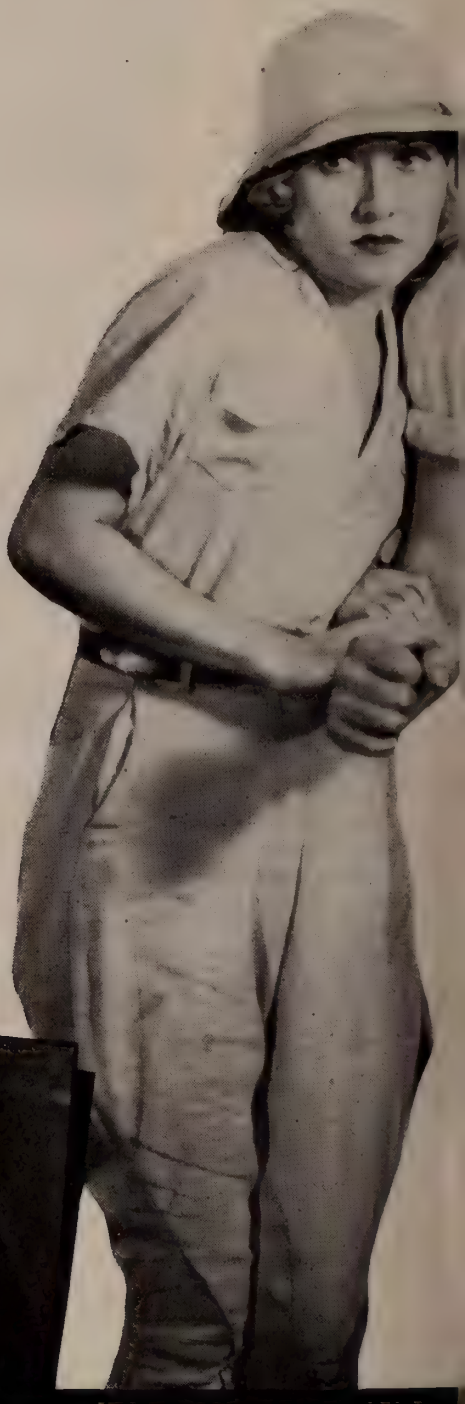
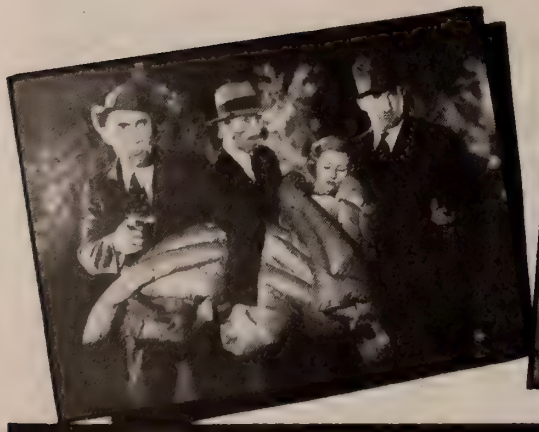
•

THE ADVENTURES OF ANN

•

THE VANISHING SHADOW





PERILS OF

REPEAT ITSELF ! !

JUST as the first "Perils of Pauline" made box-office history in the "good old days," so will Universal's brand new modern serial make box-office history today. Because this serial has all of that old-time pull PLUS everything else that could have been put into it to make it a smasher! There's millions of dollar's worth of publicity value in this title for you—and the serial backs it all up with a super wallop!

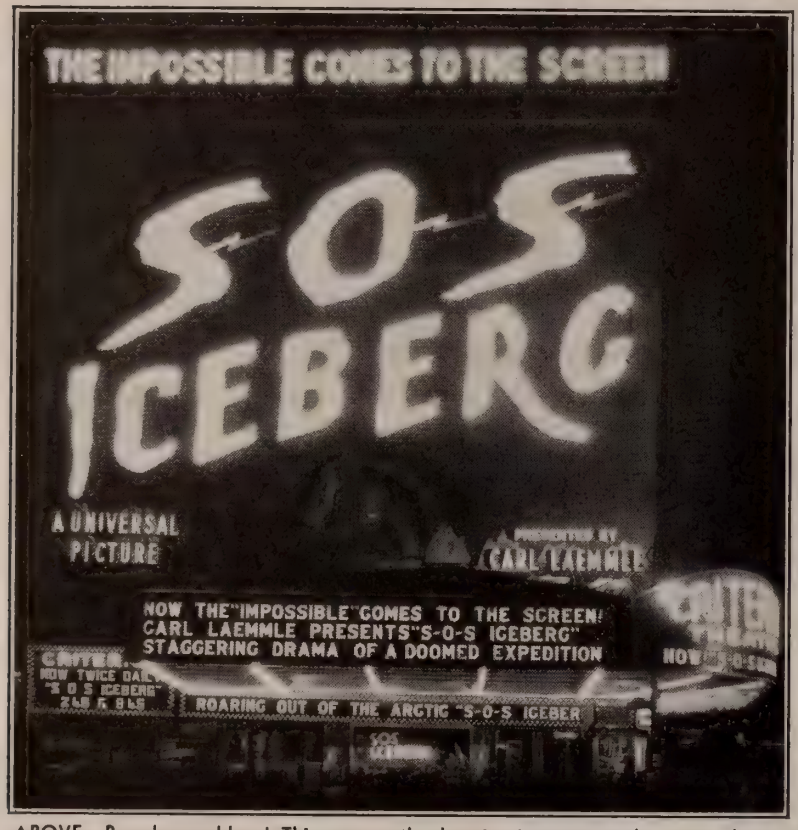
12 SMASHING EPISODES!

PAULINE

THE UNIVERSAL WEEKLY SHOWMANSHIP SECTION

A DIGEST OF THE BEST EXPLOITATION IDEAS OF THE WEEK

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE B'WAY CAMPAIGN!



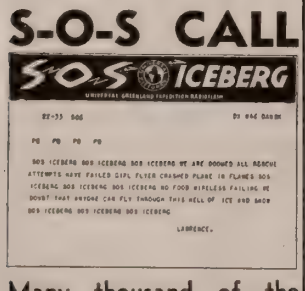
ABOVE—Broadway ablaze! This mammoth electric sign covers the entire house-front of the Criterion Theatre. The letters S-O-S in the title flash on alternately. An Aurora Borealis effect is secured with irradiating lights, and an airplane with practical propellor whirring near the giant iceberg adds to the flash.

BLAZING ARCS! CAMERAS! COPS! CELEBRITIES! GALA OPENING NIGHT OF "S-O-S" AT $1.65 TOP THRILLS NEW YORK!

The pictures tell the story! On this and succeeding pages are reproduced shots of the exploitation highlights of the New York opening of "S-O-S ICEBERG." Study them and lay plans NOW for your campaign. If you book the picture quickly you can tell your patrons you are offering it at popular prices direct from its $1.65 presentation on Broadway. Further details of "S-O-S ICEBERG" exploitation possibilities are included in the campaign book now rolling on the presses. Get your copy from the Universal Exchange. It is full of red meat, practical showmanship ideas.

JOE WEIL

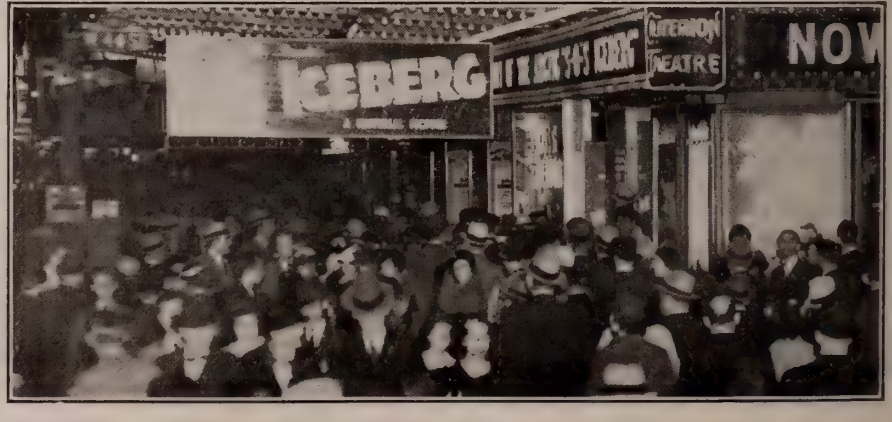
S-O-S CALL



Many thousand of the above S-O-S "flashes" printed up in regular radiogram size were distributed around New York as part of the advance campaign.

AT RIGHT—Plenty of patrons were turned away on opening night but they kept coming! Here's a view of the mob pulled in by the big ballyhoo!

FLASHLIGHT OF FIRST NIGHT THRONGS!



SPECIAL DISPLAYS, TIE-UPS, EXHIBITS, BALLYHOO FLOAT, NEWSPAPER HERALDS, GIVE "S-O-S" SPECTACULAR SEND-OFF!

AT LEFT—Every inch of space put to use! Enlargements of leading players and catchlines make a selling display on the door panels of the theatre. Blow-ups of stills and "see lines" are spotted on other panels. Larger frames are adaptations of poster material.

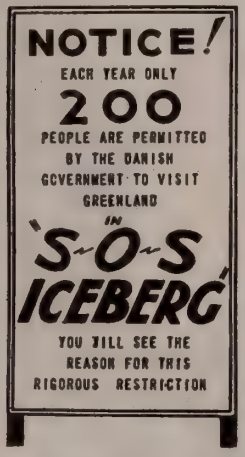
AT RIGHT—Blue-tinted enlargements in silver frames illuminated by blue baby spots as used in the inner lobby. In addition, atmospheric material such as skiis, snow-shoes, etc. were used decoratively as shown. A frieze around the walls carries out the Polar effect.

4-PAGE NEWS FLASH

The little reproduction above suggests the front-page make-up of the full-size newspaper flash of which 20,000 were distributed. Screaming headlines, sensational copy and dramatic illustrations intrigued interest. Newsboys at right distributed them.

NEWSBOYS IN ESKIMO COSTUMES HAND OUT PAPERS ON BROADWAY'S BUSIEST CORNERS!

Below are a few of the boys used to distribute the full-size news flashes reproduced at the left. Dressed in fur coats and hoods, a score of these youngsters got plenty of attention when they dashed around Broadway distributing their S-O-S- ICEBERG "Extra's." The boys wore snowshoes strapped on their back for realistic effect and the stunt was among the most successful used for the campaign.



LOBBY EASEL

No angle was neglected in the New York campaign. This sign, used in the Criterion Theatre, teased curiosity and made them wonder about the picture. Use it yourself and watch it work.

MA
STEP OUT WITH UNIVERSAL
STRAWBERR

KEN MAYNARD

SAYS Hollywood Reporter: "Maynard's latest a thrill knockout," to which the Motion Picture Herald adds: "No ordinary western this, but entertainment that should hand any kind of an audience a thrill... wholesome, exciting throughout, and it's an unusual feature for the showmen who have the courage to play up something RADICALLY DIFFERENT!"

IN ROAN

With Ruth Hall, Harold Goodwin, William Desmond. Directed by Alan James. Produced by Ken Maynard Productions. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

SHORT SUBJECTS

Built to the same high box-office standard as set by Universal's New Deal Features

TWO-REELERS

26 WARREN DOANE PRODUCTIONS

16 RADIO PERSONALITIES

13 MENTONE MUSICAL SHORTS

ONE-REELERS

26 OSWALD THE LUCKY RABBIT

13 STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

13 GOOFYTONE NEWSREEL

13 AROUND THE WORLD WITH MARK HELLINGER

ANIMATED COLOR-SOUND SHADOW BOX BIG ATTRACTOR AT CRITERION, N. Y., SHOWING

A display that stopped the Broadway crowds was the shadow-box shown. The scene itself is an adaptation of a poster design. Sound effects were secured by using a spark gap near the man at the wireless to get an "S-O-S" dot-dash sound. Animation was added by having the airplane propellor revolve and using a belt behind the icebergs to carry miniatures of dog-sleds, polar-bears, etc. A red transparency gave a flame effect to the burning airplane and a dimmer was used to light up the Aurora Borealis in the background.

ATMOSPHERIC CURTAIN EFFECT

A beautiful, splendid way to give the picture an atmospheric send-off is to use a special "Aurora Borealis" effect on the house-curtain. This was done with great success at the Criterion. The light fills the entire curtain and then can be masked down to fit the screen. This effect can be hooked right on to your regular spotlight. It is available for $15 a week, express extra. For additional information, communicate with KLIEGEL BROS., 321 W. 50th St., N. Y. C.

Exhibit Paintings

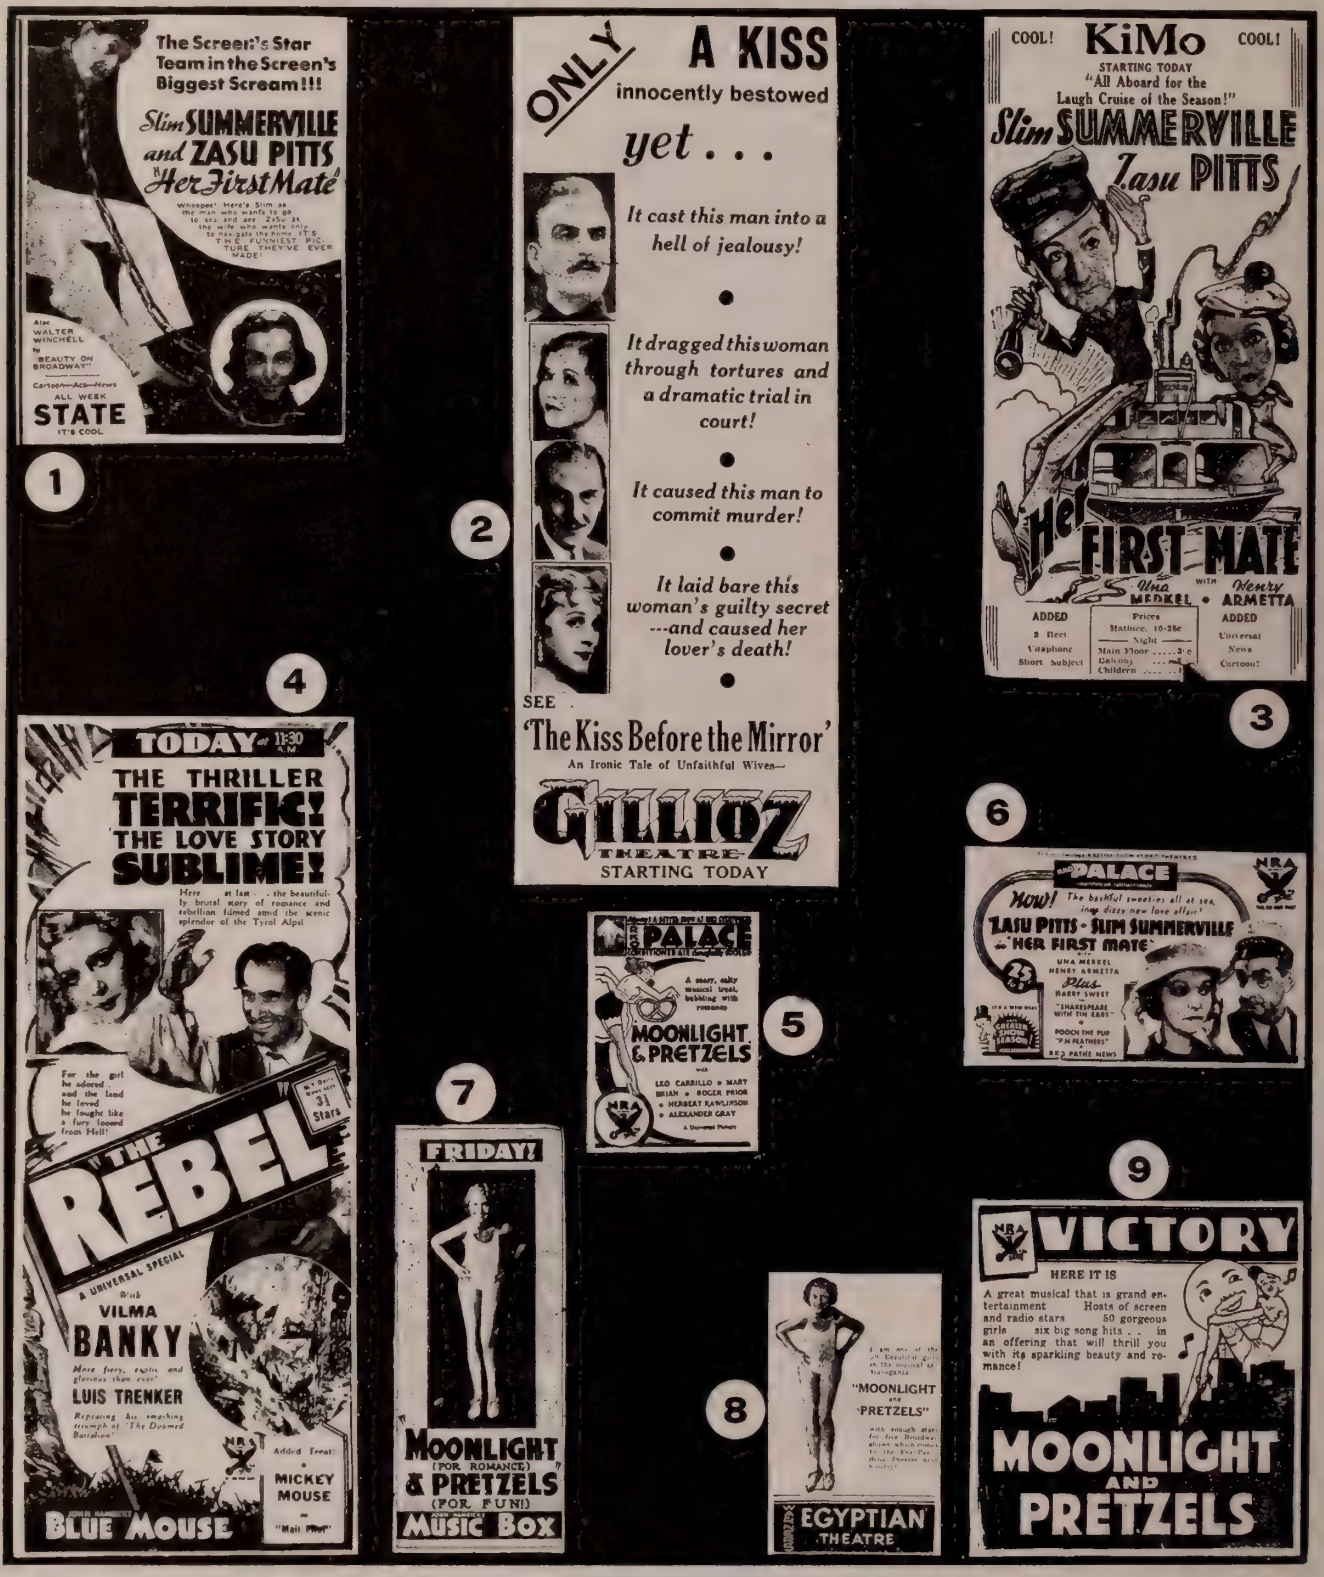
For inside the theatre, mezzanine or other show-place, an exhibit of oil paintings of Polar subjects will get lots of favorable interest. Co-operate with local art gallery or newspaper on this. Four fine paintings borrowed from "The New York Times" were exhibited at the Criterion.

THRILL FLOAT FLASH BALLYHOO

This giant float on a truck covered all New York and environs during the run of the picture. Special trips were made to the World Series games, football games, and schools. Notice the "See lines" used on two black panels.

WHEN YOU PLAY IT AT POPULAR PRICES, BILL "S-O-S ICEBERG" AS COMING DIRECT FROM ITS SPECIAL SHOWING ON BROADWAY AT $1.65 TOP!

CLEVER ARRANGEMENTS MAKE FINE ADS!



(1.) Lincoln, Nebr. "links" Slim and ZaSu in smart 2 column x 5" ad; (2.) Intriguing copy and plenty of white space sell this 2 column by 10" Springfield, Mo. ad; (3.) Caricature adapted from posters used effectively by Albuquerque, N. M. in 2 columns by 8"; (4.) Power expressed with type and design by Seattle, Wash., in 2 column by 10". (5.) Only 1 column by 3" used by Columbus, Ohio, but the wee girl figure packs a punch; (6.) Nice balance in 2 columns by 2½" used in Cleveland, O. (7.) Seattle, Wash. makes a splash with this page-stealing beauty in 1 column by 5" (8.) The same figure equally effectively employed by Pasadena in 1 column x 3½"; (9.) 2 columns by 4¼" used in Dayton, O. and what a spot!

toot! toot!

all aboard for the laugh cruise of the century!

SLIM SUMMERVILLE AND ANDY DIVINE in HORSE PLAY

From
UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORP.
730 FIFTH AVENUE
NEW YORK CITY

E I OLSON
GOULD THEATRE
SACRED HEART MINN

Sec. 562, P. L. & R.
U. S. POSTAGE
Paid
New York, N. Y.
Permit No. 949

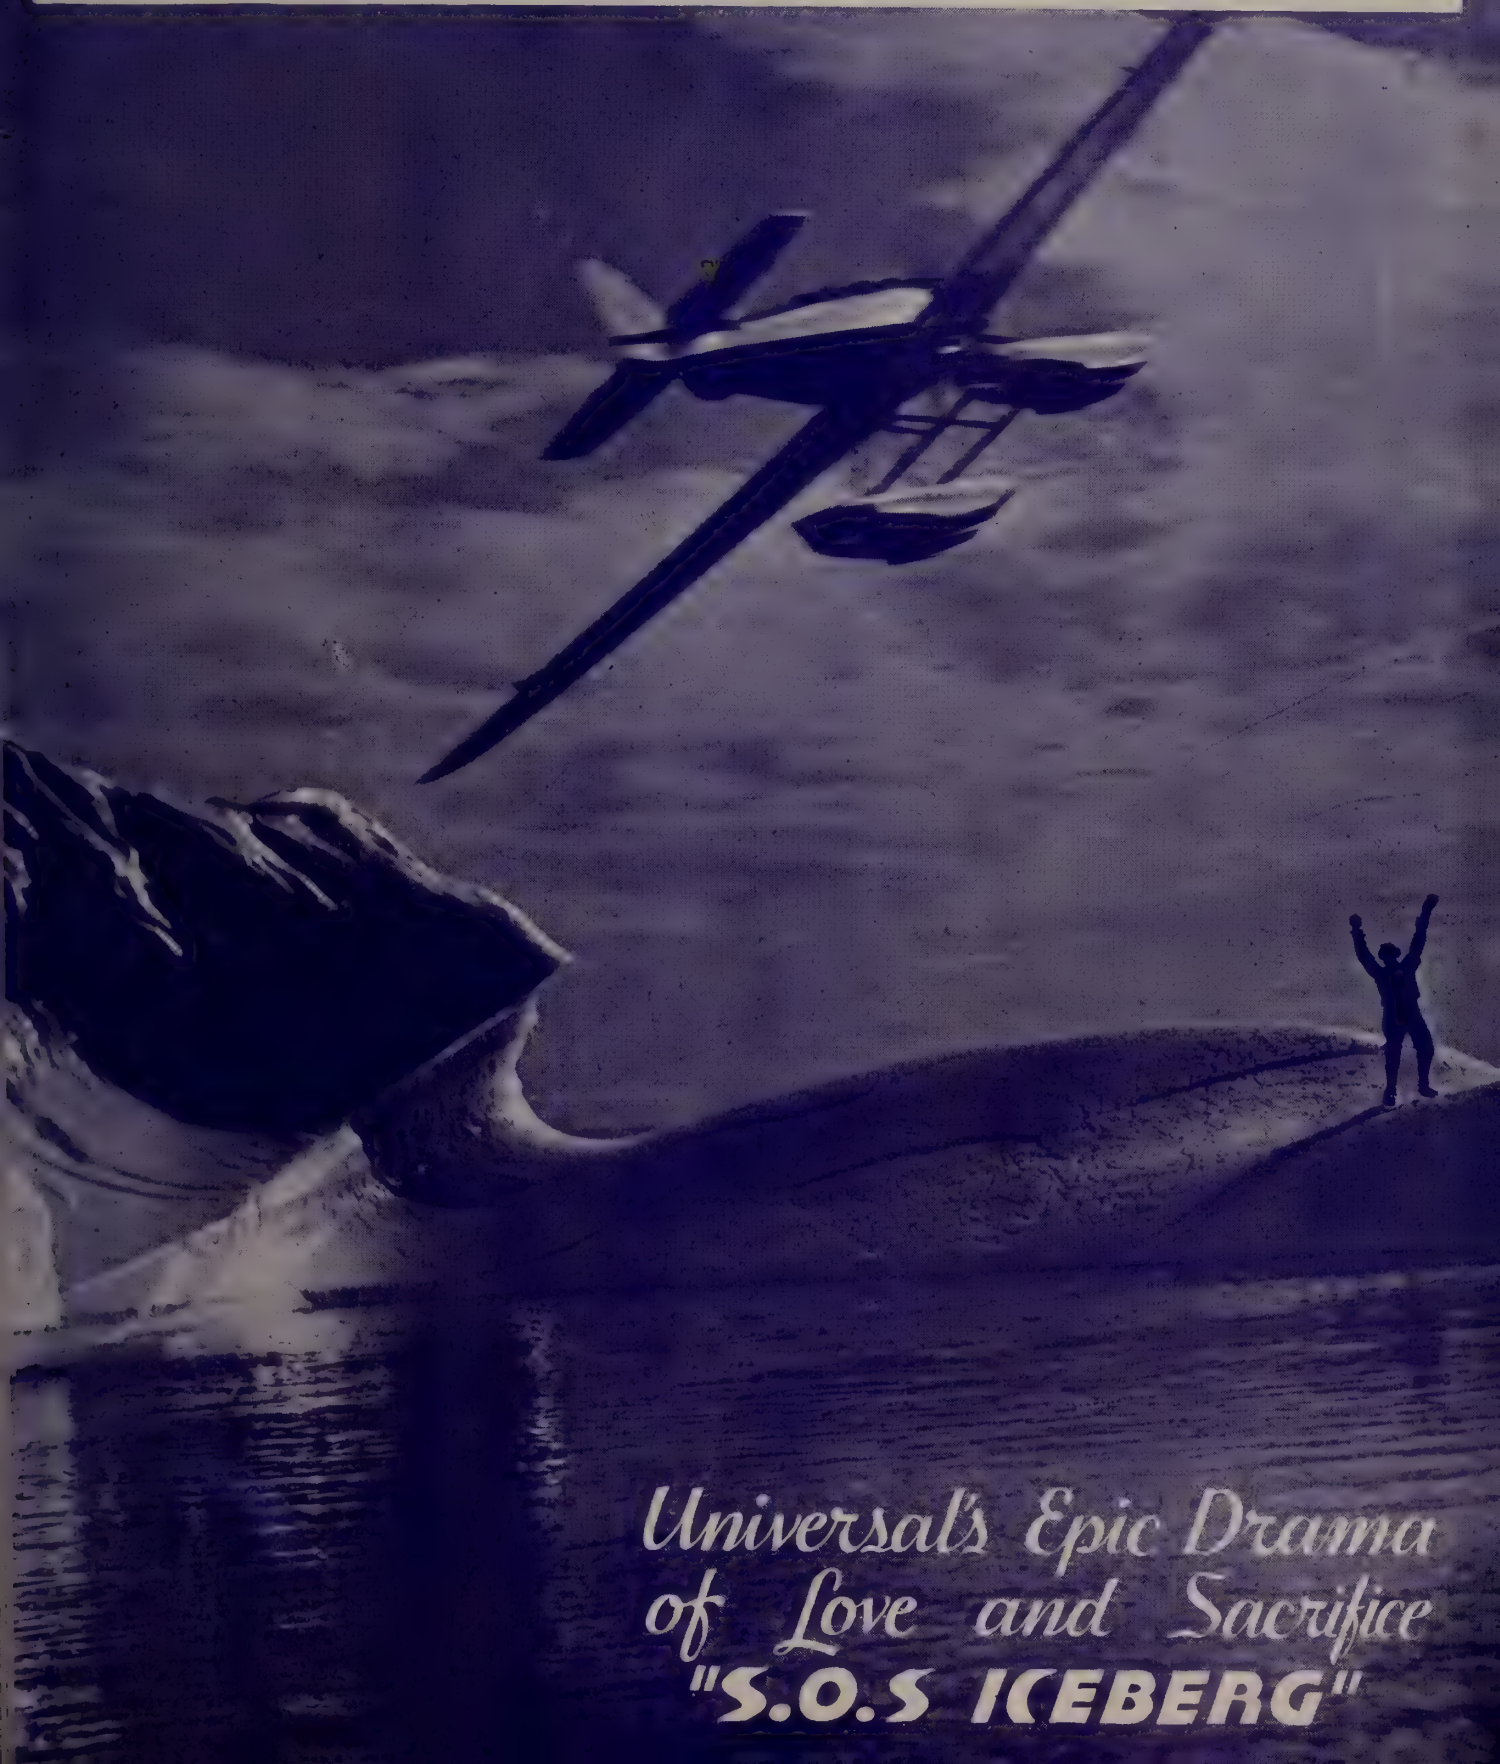
Margaret Sullavan,
as she appears with
John Boles
in John M. Stahl's great dramatic production for Universal —ONLY YESTERDAY.

Your first chance to see the girl destined to reach the dizziest heights of movie stardom.

Printed in U. S. A.

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

VOL. 33—NO. 6 ★ ★ BRITISH EDITION ★ ★ Oct. 21, 1933



Universal's Epic Drama of Love and Sacrifice

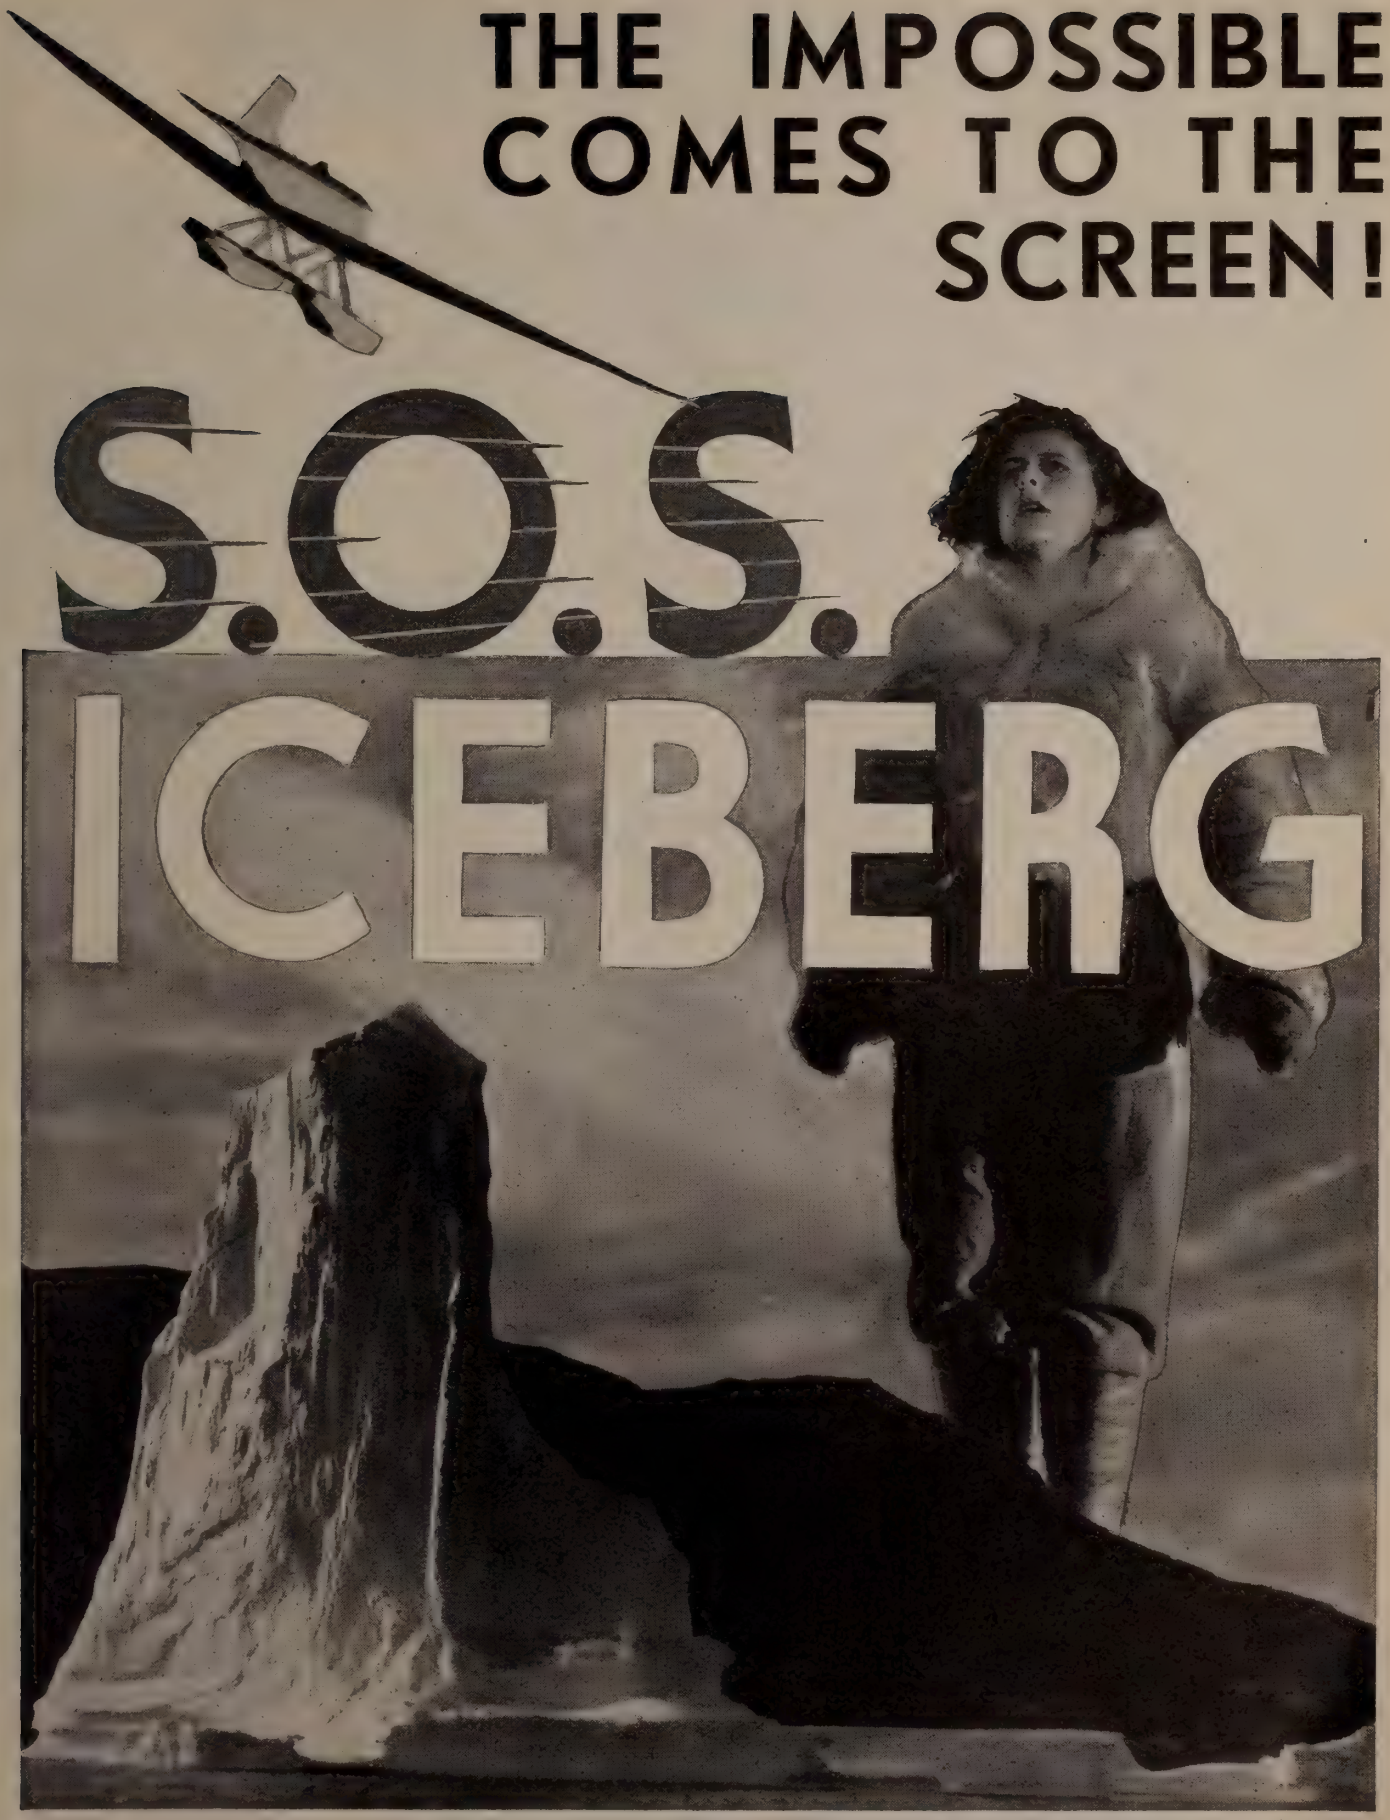
"S.O.S ICEBERG"

HEADING FOR STARDOM!

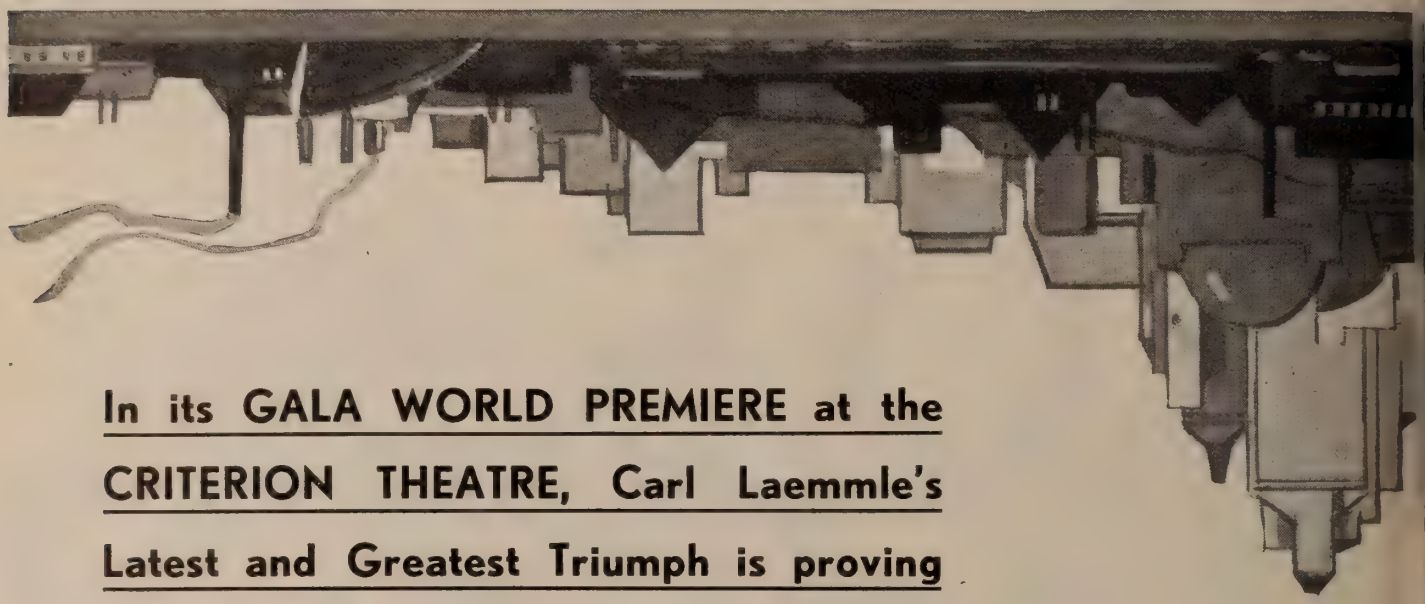
- JUNE KNIGHT, Broadway's most talented and beautiful musical comedy star, and one of the really few great finds in films this year, makes a sensational debut in "LADIES MUST LOVE," Universal's sparkling comedy with four big song hits.

- Let your patrons have an eye-and-earful of June in this gayest of gay musicals! And don't miss your local Trade Show!

THE IMPOSSIBLE COMES TO THE SCREEN!



IT TURNED NEW YO



In its GALA WORLD PREMIERE at the CRITERION THEATRE, Carl Laemmle's Latest and Greatest Triumph is proving the biggest sensation for years. Watch it take Great Britain by storm . . . ! !

S.O.S. ICEB

RK UPSIDE DOWN!

BOOKED BY GAUMONT for EXTENDED PREMIERE RUN at the MARBLE ARCH PAVILION!

E R G

NO SHOW ON EARTH E
A CAST OF SCREEN

No. 715 Straight-from-the-Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, Chairman, Universal Pictures, Ltd.

No story ever screened ever demanded so much from a producer as "Only Yesterday."

So I turned it over to John Stahl, who gave you "Back Street" and "Seed" and "Strictly Dishonorable" and "The Lady Surrenders" and told him to hit you on the nose with something you had never had before.

He has given about one year of his time to it.

For example, how long do you think it took him to pick a cast including

MARGARET SULLAVAN
JOHN BOLES
EDNA MAY OLIVER
BILLIE BURKE
REGINALD DENNY
BENITA HUME
Franklin Pangborn
Berton Churchill
Onslow Stevens
Robert McWade
Robert Allen
Arthur Hoyt
Mabel Marden
Joyce Compton
Bramwell Fletcher
Dorothy Granger
Lucille Powers
Barry Norton
Ruth Clifford
Betty Blythe
Walter Catlett
Edgar Norton
Gay Seabrook

Noel Francis
Crawford Kent
Geneva Mitchell
Caryl Lincoln
Sidney Bracy
Jean Darling
Julia Carter
Frank Beal
Huntley Gordon
Lita Chevret
Lew White
Vivien Oakland
Bert Roach
Mary Doran
George Meeker
Dick Winslow
Matt McHugh
Sammy Cohen
Norma Drew
Jimmy Butler
James Donlan
Otto Hoffman
Harvy Clark

Edmund Breese
Ben Bard
Creighton Hale
Natalie Kingston
King Baggot
Wm. Davidson
Lloyd Whitlock
Virginia Howell
Jason Robards
Robert Bolder
Lynn Cowan
Maidel Turner
George Irving
Eddie Kane
Geo. Hackathorne
Eleanor Jackson
Mildred Washington
Warren Stokes
Marie Prevost
June Clyde
Jane Darwell
Oscar Apfel
Tom Conlon

Louise Beavers
Tom O'Brien
Herbert Corthell
James Flavin
Leon Waycoff
Cissy Fitzgerald
Ida Darling
Marion Byron
Sheila Manners
Jean Hart
Herta Lind
Robert Ellis
Julia Faye
Florence Lake
Richard Tucker
Jack Richardson
Astrid Allwyn
Natalie Moorhead
Dorothy Christy
Jean Sorel
Ferdinand Munier
Bruce Warren
Hans Furberg
Churchill Ross

It took months!

EVER BOASTED SUCH ATTRACTIONS AS THIS:

It required endless tests, rejections, conferences, head-shakings, re-tests, more conferences and more thought than has ever been given to any motion picture cast.

Every actor must fit the part, because Mr. Stahl adamantly refused to change the parts to fit the actors. The result proves that he was right.

He threw all the jackass rules of Hollywood overboard.

He said "no" a thousand times for every time he said "yes."

And now you've got a picture that is fan-proof, critic-proof and fool-proof.

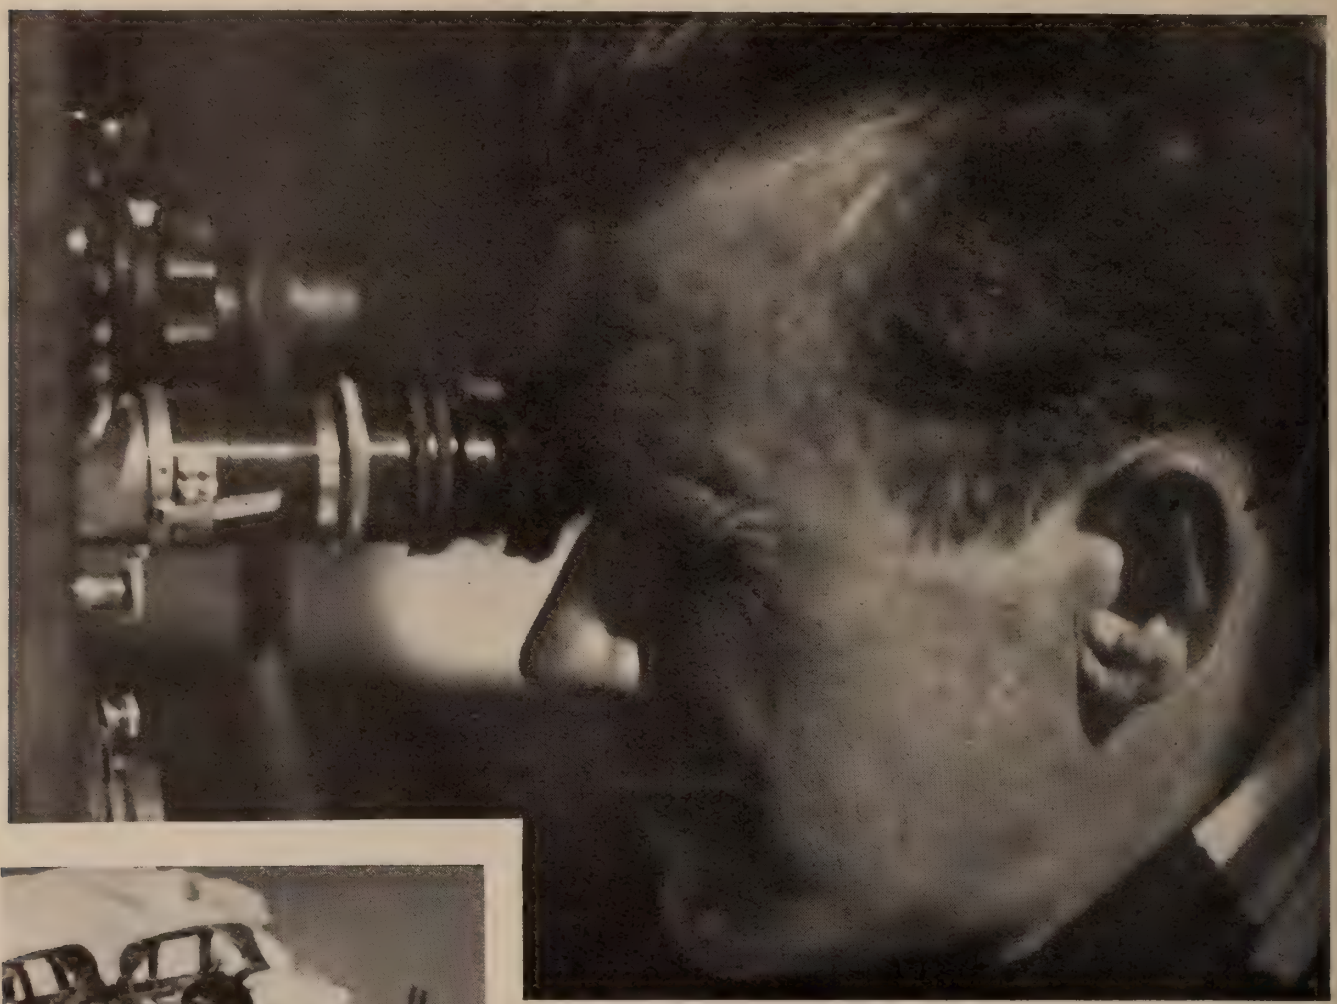
You've got the ideal picture.

It will only take you a few seconds to read the list of artistes which it took Mr. Stahl months to choose.

I ask you to read it slowly and thoughtfully. I ask you to think how many separate pictures could be cast very successfully out of this list—and yet this whole cast is in just one picture.

Universal, as usual, smashes precedent to set a new pace!

Carl Laemmle



Tay Garnett

● ● ● The director of "S. O. S. Iceberg." A former screen writer who has achieved outstanding success during recent years as a director, Garnett's experience as a writer with screen stories has given him a basic knowledge of dramatic construction and enabled him to bring emotion to the screen with a technique enjoyed by few directors. His quiet methods of obtaining results were a revelation in this international cast, but he secured results as director of "S. O. S. Iceberg" which speak for themselves.

"S.O.S. ICEBERG" PREMIERE

Universal Epic Booked by Gaumont for Extended West End Run

"LOVE, HONOUR AND OH, BABY"

Latest Summerville-Pitts Comedy a Riot!

TRADE SHOW NEXT FRIDAY

"LOVE, Honour and Oh, Baby," fifth of the Slim Summerville-ZaSu Pitts co-starring feature comedies, has arrived in London and will be trade shown next Friday, October 27th, at the Phoenix Theatre, W., at 3 p.m.

This new Summerville-Pitts has literally taken the American industry by storm and it is freely hailed as far and away the most laughable production in the careers of the two mirth-making stars.

The big cast is headed by Lucille Gleason, Veree Teasdale, Donald Meek, George Barbier, Purnell Pratt and Adrian Dore, while Eddie Buzzell, noted comedy director, handled the production.

LAWYER SLIM!

"Love, Honour and Oh, Baby," based on the successful stage play "Oh, Promise Me," is the hilarious story of an unsuccessful lawyer who, in order to conclude his six years' engagement and ring the wedding bells, arranges to "frame" his fiancee and her boss and claim 100,000 dollars love balm. The frame-up is successful enough, but the boss decides to contest the case and go into court.

The consequence is that Slim has to play the part of lawyer with ZaSu as his heart-broken client. And Slim, as a lawyer, is a great movie comedian. The result is a riot of broad fun in the best gloom-chasing vein.

So successful is the combination of Slim Summerville and ZaSu Pitts that they are already at work on their next production, "Happiness Ahead," while two further productions, "Nervous Lovers" and another as yet untitled, are ready for filming.

AT MARBLE ARCH PAVILION

"S.O.S. Iceberg," mightiest of all Universal epics, has been booked by Gaumont for an extended British premiere run at the Marble Arch Pavilion, announces Mr. S. F. Ditcham.

Both in America and on the Continent, "S.O.S. Iceberg" has met with the most amazing success. The premiere in New York, at the Criterion Theatre, is now in its fourth week, with business at the theatre at top pressure. The box-office has been working overtime ever since the first performance and, comparatively speaking, there are no signs of business slacking off.

Carl Laemmle, Jr., young production genius whose latest success is "S.O.S. Iceberg."

Similarly, the premiere at the Ufa-Palast, Berlin, and the pre-release showing in leading cities met with instantaneous success, netting phenomenal receipts and inspiring the critics to high praise.

In New York, the "Daily News" awarded the exceptionally high rating of 3½ stars and described it as "One of the most extraordinary films of the year." "Variety" heralds it as "One of the really notable productions of the screen."

"Terrific and Awe-Inspiring"

Since the London trade show of "S.O.S. Iceberg," the English trade Press has published many remarkable tributes to the film.

"The Cinema" describes it as "Terrific and awe-inspiring," and adds that "it has few equals for it impresses one immediately with that penetrating realism that can only be achieved by unconquerable nature. . . . The excitement steadily rises . . . a veritable triumph . . . and reflects every credit upon those concerned. . . . . S.O.S. Iceberg is an interesting production made doubly so by the exquisiteness of its photography and the grandeur of its background."

"Magnificent—Thrilling"

The "Daily Film Renter" critic heralds it as "spectacularly magnificent drama . . . . inspiringly beautiful. Sequences in which Udet, the famous German air ace, discovers the lost party after wheeling in and out of giant bergs, are definitely thrilling. The sight of hundreds of Eskimo canoes, racing to the rescue, also packs a spectacular punch. Huge bergs, rising in fantastic cathedral-like shapes from an ice-packed inner sea, are memorable—nothing like them has ever been seen on the screen before. When they burst and turn over, the result is terrific.

"Gibson Gowland turns in a telling performance. Running him close is Sepp Rist. . . . Ernst Udet flies magnificently, performing thrilling manoeuvres. Rod La Rocque and Leni Riefenstahl, as Lawrence and his wife, fit well into the picture.

"The enterprising exhibitor will be able to find many exploitation angles with this film and he can safely tell his patrons they are going to see something out-of-the--ordinary. . . . . It stands as a monument to the endeavours of a location party that underwent many perilous adventures."

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors of the U.K.

Published by Universal Pictures, Ltd., Film House, Wardour Street, London, W.1

S. F. Ditcham, Managing Director

Editors:
David Bader
J. Leslie Williams

Vol. 33 Oct. 21, 1933 No. 6

The Unparalleled Danger and D

ACKNOW

To the Directorial Staff who devo
I tender my gratitude.

To the Cameramen who risked th nature, might be presented to th

To the courageous leaders who g glaciers where the slightest mis-st miring appreciation.

And to the Artists who bravely polar outposts of the world I exte

THINKING up moving picture stories in Hollywood and making them on the "lot" in Greenland, fifteen degrees south of the North Pole are two different things. Carl Laemmle had the courage and the vision to send a moving picture expedition of thirty-eight people three-quarters of the way round the world to the inaccessible glaciers and icebergs of Norway to take a picture that everyone else said could not be made. It was made. But back of the making is a story of hardihood, of endurance, of ingenuity and courage which is unsurpassed in the annals of picture making.

The story, as written by Dr. Arnold Fanck, whose dramas of difficulty in inaccessible places have become traditional, deals with the rescue of a lost expedition in the Arctic. Dr. Fanck lost his expedition in the most inaccessible place that would be possible to find. The next thing was to film it in all its stark reality and complete isolation from the world. Intensive planning was the only answer to the requirement of safety for the expedition. Three months were spent in mapping out everything which could be foreseen, in purchasing supplies for every imaginary need, for insuring the safety of life and limb of the thirty-eight members of the expedition. The plans were well drawn. One member of the expedition was lost for six days, but he was found because one of the struts of his canoe was washed up on the shore and brought to Dr. Fanck by one of the Greenlanders. Two airplanes were lost. This was anticipated, a sacrifice to the big sensational scenes of the picture. Four ribs were broken. That could not be helped. Five people were almost burned. Innumerable bruises, cuts and sprains were encountered, but in all the danger and difficulty, in all of the intense effort to provide movie thrills in Nature's most dangerous workshop, not a life was lost, and for this Carl Laemmle gives far more credit, far more thankfulness than for the iculty of Filming "S.O.S. Iceberg"

At the top: Leni Riefenstahl surveys the dangerous Greenland scene. Below: Washing her hands in a pan of ice: At bottom: The "S.O.S. Iceberg" company landing its supplies at Umanak.

DGMENT year to the making of this picture

ves in the Arctic so that a new star, lic I offer my enthusiastic thanks.

the expedition past mountainous ant instant death, I give my ad-incomparable hardships in the found admiration.

Sincerely, CARL LAEMMLE

unexampled splendour and thrill of "S.O.S. Iceberg."

To film "S.O.S. Iceberg" required the permission of the Danish government, who had sealed Greenland against movie exploitation following the Nobile disaster. But Denmark opened up Greenland to Universal's expedition. It contributed two Danish scientists, Dr. Sorge and Dr. Loewe, both former members of the Wegener expedition, and it appointed Knud Rasmussen, the noted Polar explorer, as protector of the expedition. It was one of these scientists, Dr. Sorge, who developed one of the most startling scenes in "S.O.S. Iceberg," and one of the most difficult to film.

On one trip he discovered the Rinks Glacier, about which considerable was known. It is admitted to be the largest and fastest moving glacier in the world. While exploring it, he was lost for six days and discovered and brought back by Major Ernst Udet. As a result of Dr. Sorge's experience, a company went to the Rinks Glacier to film the birth of an iceberg. The berg, however, was so

(Continued on Page 21)

Knud Rasmussen, protector of the "S.O.S. Iceberg" expedition to Greenland. Below: Dr. Arnold Fanck, leader of the expedition, entertains the Governor of Greenland. At right: Richard Angst embarking in a kayak for a difficult shot.

HEROIC FIGURE

The Compelling Drama of S

Drama of human emotion, drama of conflict w vation, endurance, thrilling rescue, love that kn sacrifice and heroism, all abound in this story bergs and relentless glaciers of G

Leni Riefenstahl, beautiful ex-dancer, Alpinist and actress, as she appears in "S.O.S. Iceberg."

MAN-MADE drama has reached high altitudes in motion pictures. Human emotion as expressed on the screen can be deeply compelling. But nothing can rival Nature as a dramatic force. A Universal company chased all over the United States once to photograph a tornado. Harry Pollard went from coast to coast to find an ice jam for Eliza to cross. Nature balked them at every turn. Dr. Arnold Fanck led an expedition to Greenland to photograph Nature in its most ferocious and majestic expression. He came back with "S.O.S. Iceberg." With a story truly expressive of human love and sacrifice thrown against such a background, with cataclysms of Nature filmed in sound as they actually took place, Universal's dramatic expedition to Greenland has reached the highest point of reality and unusualness of the screen so far. It marks an epoch. It is the pinnacle of screen accomplishment.

To the adventurous, the world is getting smaller every moment. There are fewer frontiers, there are still fewer unknown places. Greenland, a huge continent, supposedly covered with ice almost a mile deep, is one of the few remaining lands of mystery. Some years ago, the ill-fated Wegener expedition was lost there and its leader never returned. Several of the party did return, however, and they formed the technical board of Universal's "S.O.S. Iceberg" expedition.

Dr. Fanck, who wrote the story, which Tom Reed put into screen form, pictured a daring explorer, Dr. Carl Lawrence, who was fired with the ambition to find the records or the body of the lost explorer. Here is drama. Here is the spirit of high adventure. He leaves his wife, a well-known aviatrix, behind, bravely hoping for his safe return but fully capable of making a daring flight to Greenland to rescue him, when an S.O.S. startles the world. The S.O.S. call comes from an iceberg floating somewhere off the gigantic Rinks Glacier on the west coast of Greenland. Without a moment's hesitation, she flies to his rescue. More drama. While the world waits breathless and the S.O.S. grows fainter and fainter, the daring woman cracks up in a spectacular landing. The only hope is Major Udet, the world's most daring flyer, the World War ace of aces, and the man who thrills millions at air races and exhibitions by daring stunts which no other aviator in his right senses would think of doing. He can pick a handkerchief off the ground with a darting wing in full flight; skyjoring comes as easy to him as walking on the footpath. For the sake of Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence, as well as to save lives, Udet takes off on a spectacular rescue flight. No radio spark can guide him. The radio has died. The survivors are almost too weak from lack of food even to con-

A MOMENT OF INTENSE SUSPENSE

Rod La Rocque and Leni Riefenstahl gaze skyward with their hearts in their mouths as Udet circles above them and fails to see them in "S.O.S. Iceberg."

.O.S. Iceberg"

*Nature, drama of prino bounds, idealism, against the jagged ice-
and.*

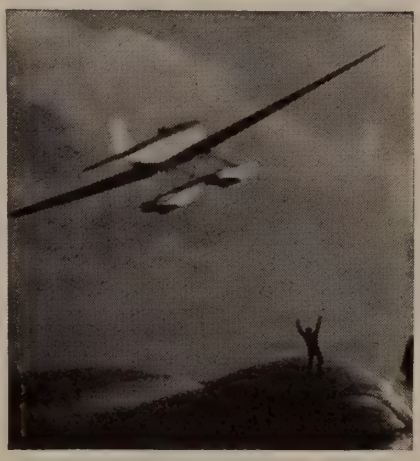
tinue their hopeless signals. One of them, in an attempt to kill a polar bear for food is torn to pieces and two hunger-crazed members of the party die in a struggle to preserve an Eskimo dog who has been utterly faithful to his trust.

Winging over the inhospitable and treacherous glaciers, fjords, icebergs and ice floes, Udet eventually sees the strong man of the party, John Brand. As a last resort he has plunged into the icy water, attempting to swim from the iceberg to land. Utterly exhausted, on an ice floe, Udet sees him and gets proper directions for locating the berg on which Dr. Lawrence and his wife are perilously perched. Winging away to the nearest settlement, Udet secures the help of the natives and their kayaks skimming over the water to the iceberg. Then, with rescue almost at hand, the iceberg which has held them safely bursts in two in one of Nature's most gigantic cataclysms. Truly, there is more drama packed in "S.O.S. Iceberg" than you will find in any moving picture this year—and it is real. Filmed on the spot.

FLYER UDET TO THE RESCUE

Major Ernst Udet, world famous ace, looking down from his plane on the sea of water and icebergs, endeavouring to find the lost explorers.

WILL HE MAKE IT?



Will Udet be able to land on this glacier and rescue the marooned explorers?

DRAMA OF INSANITY

Gibson Gowland and Walter Riml in the dramatic passage-at-arms that precedes Gowland's insane attempt on his companion's life.

THE HUNGER FIGHT

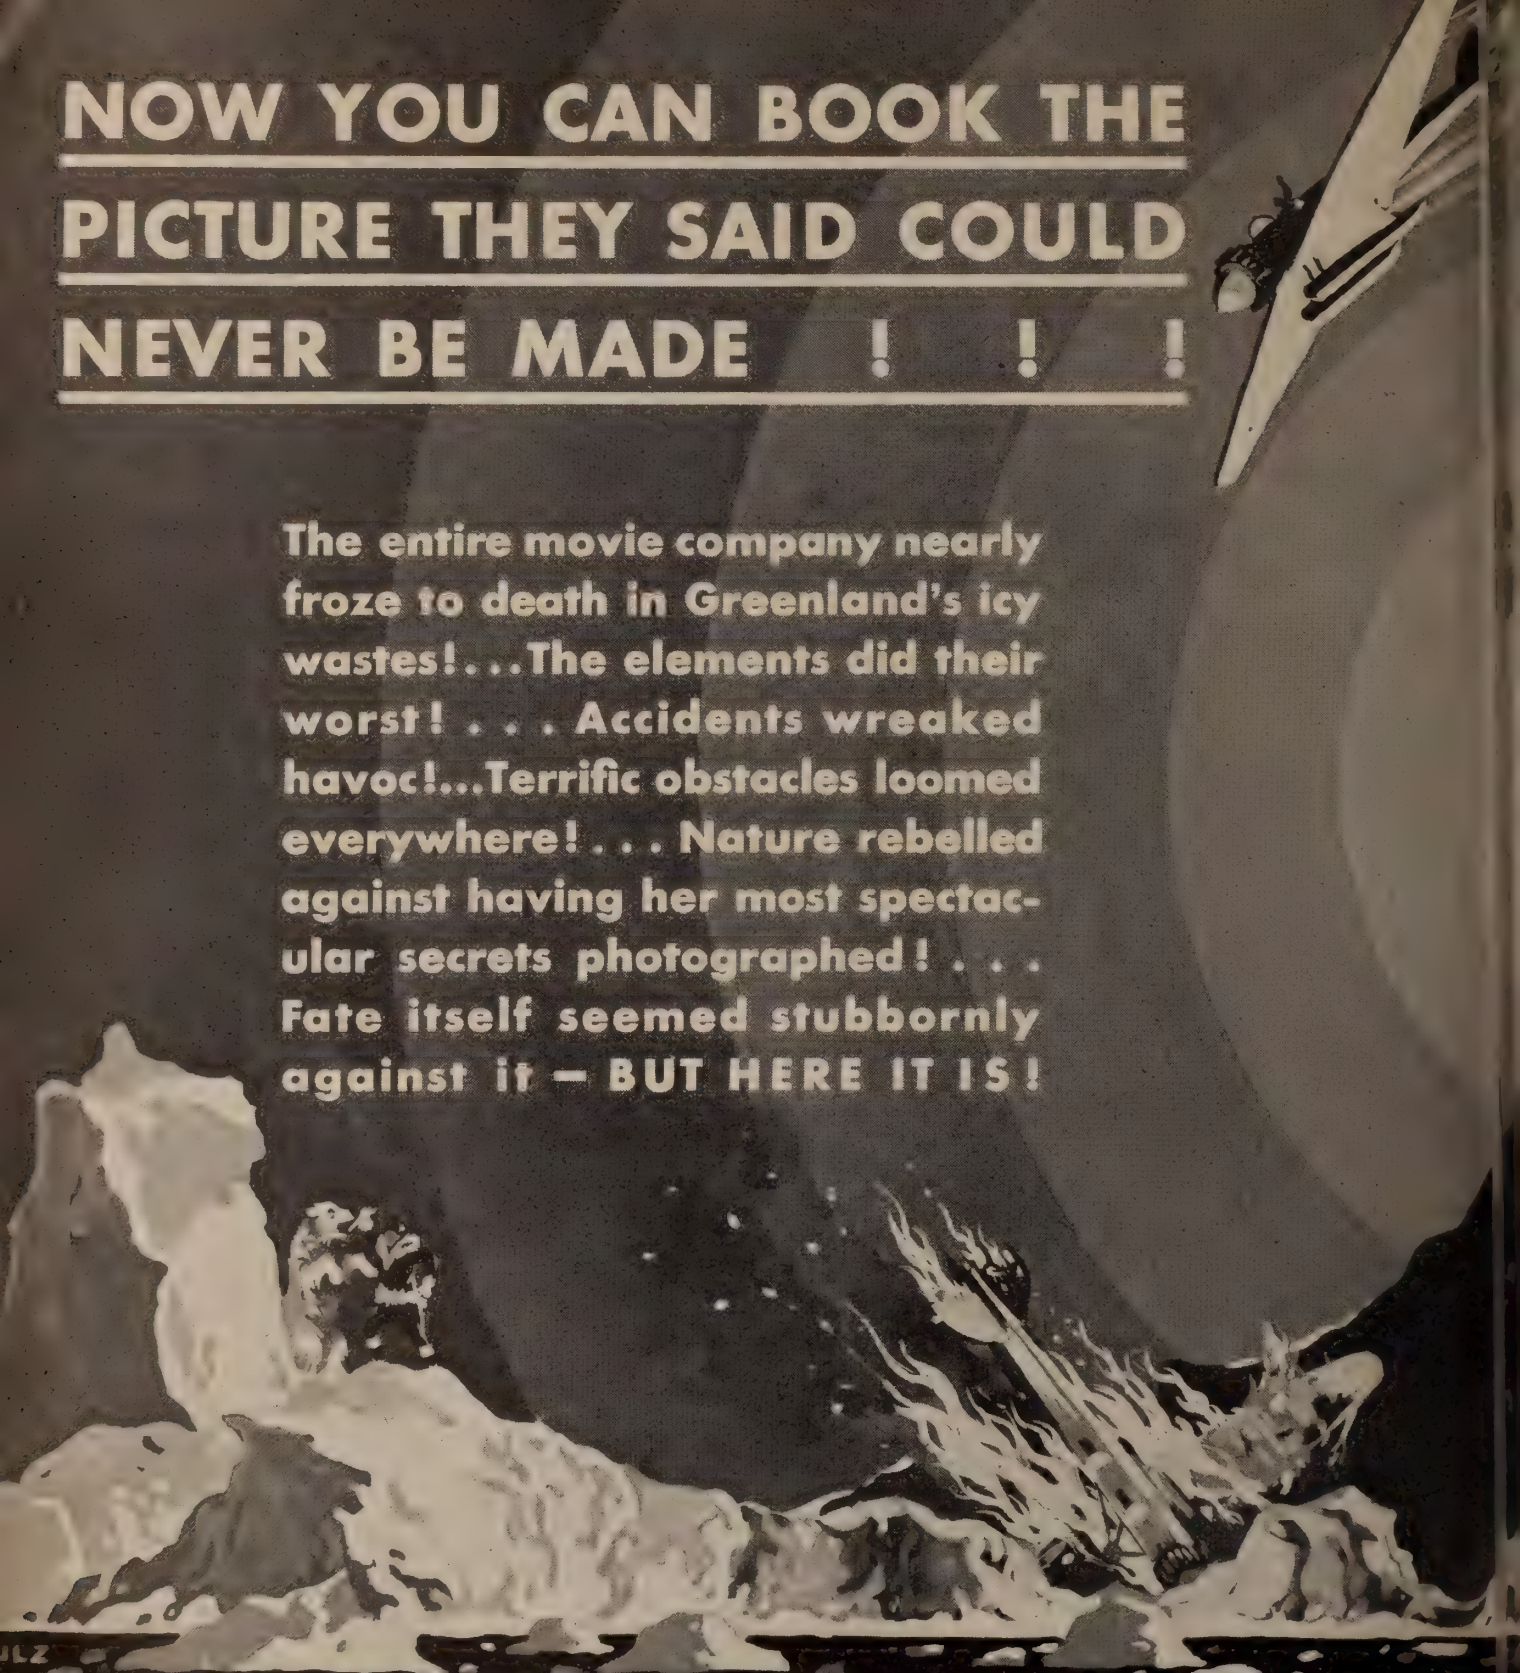
Gowland and Riml struggle on the rim of an iceberg ninety feet above the water, from which one of them eventually plunges to his death in the icy Arctic.

Sending Out the S.O.S.

Gowland and Sepp Rist frantically shouting their "S.O.S." into their fast-fading transmitter to arouse the world to their terrible danger.

NOW YOU CAN BOOK THE PICTURE THEY SAID COULD NEVER BE MADE ! ! !

The entire movie company nearly froze to death in Greenland's icy wastes!...The elements did their worst! . . . Accidents wreaked havoc!...Terrific obstacles loomed everywhere! . . . Nature rebelled against having her most spectacular secrets photographed! . . . Fate itself seemed stubbornly against it — BUT HERE IT IS!



S.O.S IC

EBERG

"S.O.S. Iceberg" is Unbeli

This Dramatic Production of Lo Inaccessible Realm of Power ar ant Position the Scre

AFTER all, no creation in this world is as beautiful as Nature. Even the most terrific, dangerous and gigantic works of Nature have aspects of beauty which only a marvellous painting could suggest. But while paintings might suggest the beauty which lies in "S.O.S. Iceberg," nothing but a motion picture, and one made by a master hand, could absolutely re-capture for motion picture audiences the awe-inspiring beauty and sheer gorgeousness of Nature, as revealed at the roof of the world. And that is what this film contains.

On this page will be found a few of the manifestations of Nature in utterly untrammelled display chosen by Dr. Arnold Fanck as scenes against which to throw this pulsating drama of love and sacrifice called "S.O.S. Iceberg." Dr. Fanck is such an artist with the camera himself that audiences will sit spellbound before the sheer beauty of these scenes. His cameramen, Richard Angst and Hans Schneeberger, have stood him in good stead many times before. Schneeberger was also the photographer of "The Doomed Battalion," famed throughout the world as one of the most beautifully photographed dramas ever to reach the screen.

Vista of Greenland scene, as photographed under the protecting wing of Major Ernst Udet's "Motte" plane, one of three he took on the "S.O.S. Iceberg" expedition. This plane was wrecked on one of Udet's spectacular stunts.

As Tay Garnett and Dr. Fanck have woven them into the scene, the giant icebergs, the inevitably crawling glaciers, the swirling snow storms play as dramatic a role in this suspenseful drama as do the actors themselves. They are the menace, terrifying and beautiful, grim and majestic, lovely and fatal. It would have been impossible for any writer or any director to have moulded a screen story which would rival the impassive and grandiose acting of these Greenland glaciers, sheathed in shining armour and armed with hidden missiles of destruction. Human acting pales beside such enormous creations of the Master Hand. The trick is to keep the acting and the spectacle from conflicting.

The Jaws of Death Iceberg, upon the top of which the marooned explorers sent out their S.O.S. to a horrified world. Fantastic and mesmeric in its awesome beauty.

The Sceptre of Destruction, tallest iceberg photographed by the "S.O.S. Iceberg" expedition. It exploded and turned over immediately after this picture, almost drowning sixteen persons.

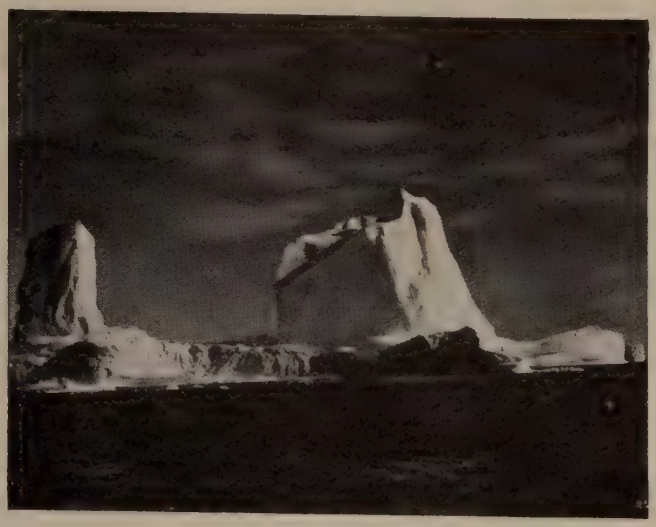
vably Beautiful nd Sacrifice in the World's Most Majesty, Proves Again the Domin- Holds Among the Arts.



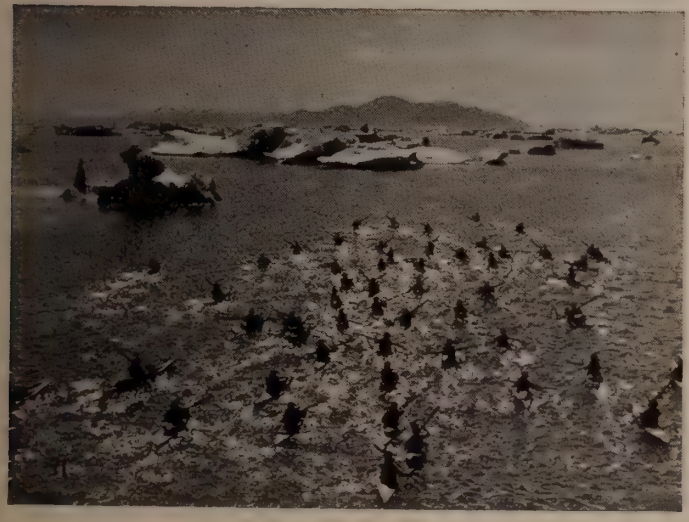
The Palace of the Tyrants of the North, against which Leni Riefenstahl's airplane crashed and went up in a pyre of flames.

Garnett, with the well-known skill of his craft, has given due scope to the display of these monsters of the deep for which Carl Lemmle sent a million dollar expedition three-quarters of the way around the world. Winging with Major Udet over, around and across these fantastic leviathans is a thrill which comes once in a lifetime, a thrill which is breath-taking in its beauty and utter madness.

Seeing "S.O.S. Iceberg" establishes all over again the tremendous importance of the film to modern civilisation, knowledge and entertainment. The masters of the screen think in terms of movement. "S.O.S. Iceberg," has movement of every description and yet its greatest thrill is not one of movement at all. As a matter of fact, everything in the film and everything which has been filmed this entire year pales into insignificance beside the gigantic, majestically lonely, menacingly beautiful icebergs as they pass in solid review before the eyes of the camera perched in Udet's venturesome plane.

Viking's Shield, regarded by Dr. Fanck and his photographers as the most beautiful iceberg they saw in their six months in Greenland. It was also the most treacherous. It turned over almost on top of them.

"S.O.S. Iceberg" is compelling drama. It was the most dangerous and difficult to film ever attempted, but, withal, it is a film of unbelievable beauty. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Nothing like it will be filmed again. It is unique in pictures.



Knud Rasmussen's fleet of kayaks summoned to the rescue of the ice-imprisoned explorers by the intrepid Udet.

Famous S.O.S. Calls in History

"S.O.S." Three dots, three dashes, three dots. SAVE OUR SOULS!

To us to-day, that famous wireless call for help is more or less taken for granted, yet the story of its origin and early use furnishes one of the most thrilling chapters in maritime history. But if an ordinary "S.O.S." gives a spine tingling thrill, what kind of a thrill would a call from an iceberg produce? There is keen drama in the title itself, "S.O.S. Iceberg."

Although the first case of saving from danger at sea through wireless dates back to 1903 when the steamer "Kronland" got into a heavy storm off the southern coast of Ireland, the "S.O.S." signal came into real prominence in 1909 when the English steamer "Republic" collided with the Italian steamer, "Florida." Summoned by the desperate "S.O.S." calls of radio operator Jack Binns of the "Republic," the steamship

(Continued on Page 21)

SEE the rescuing airplane piloted by a beautiful girl crash in flames against an iceberg !

SEE the crashing masses of white death—crumbling worlds of ice menacing man and beast alike !

SEE the terrific hand-to-claw battle between a man and a polar bear—man the loser !

SEE the airplane piloted by Major Ernst Udet perform unbelievable feats among the ice crags !

SEE a lone woman trapped on a melting and crumbling iceberg with five desperate men !

SEE the birth of an iceberg — a mountain of ice exploded into the sea — mothered by a gigantic glacier !

S.O.S
GEBERG

AN expedition from Hollywood to Greenland for a moving picture is an undertaking so enormous that it is difficult to visualise it without a map. Even with the map, which has been drawn by the well-known artist, Forest Ages McGinn, there can be no comprehension of the dangers, the almost unsurmountable difficulties and the hardships which such an expedition entailed.

Dr. Arnold Fanck, in whose fertile brain the idea of "S.O.S. Iceberg" originated, first made a trip to Universal City to consult Carl Laemmle. At Universal City he secured actors, technicians, sound apparatus and the very latest moving picture ideas in order to make this production, which was almost as far-flung and as far-fetched as a Jules Verne adventure tale.

The lives and safety of 40 people, a treasure of a million dollars and the reputation of a great scientist and a great moving picture company, as well as many personalities were involved. The Danish government fostered it, and the famous Arctic explorer, Knud Rasmussen, gave it his personal attention and sponsorship.

EVENTS IN "S.O.S. ICEBERG" TOOK PLACE

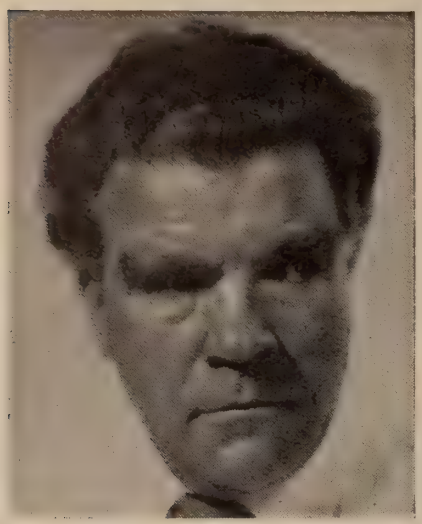
Now study the map carefully, and see where it all happened. The British ship Borodino with the company, the airplanes, the cameras, the technical crew and supplies for a six-months' stay in Greenland, sailed from Copenhagen on May 20th, 1932. It arrived in Umanak three weeks later. Here the expedition was met by Dr. Rasmussen and camp was established. Locations were sought for the high points of the dramatic story, and the company started its race against the sun to complete "S.O.S. Iceberg" before the short Arctic season would be over. It succeeded miraculously.

THE CAST EXTRAORDINARY of "S.O.S. ICEBERG"

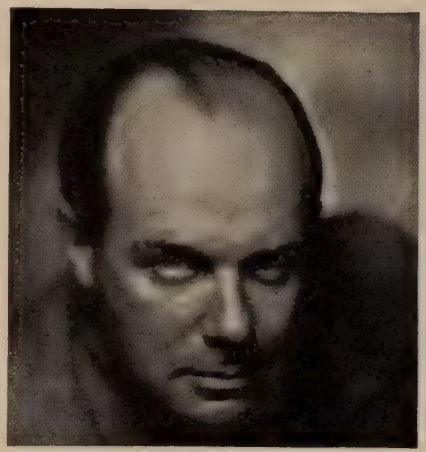


Gibson Gowland
The Villain

Leni Riefenstahl
The Heroine

Sepp Rist

Major Ernst Udet
Ace of Aviation



Who They Are:

ROD LaROCQUE, one of the most popular of American leading screen stars, who has been residing in Europe, makes his return to the screen in "S.O.S. Iceberg" in the role of Dr. Carl Lawrence, opposite Miss Riefenstahl. Together with Vilma Banky, his wife, LaRocque has recently returned to the United States to re-enter pictures in that country. His splendid work in "S.O.S. Iceberg" will pave the way for an enthusiastic reception by film fans the world over.

LENI RIEFENSTAHL, famous European actress, dancer and motion picture producer, plays Mrs. Lawrence. Miss Riefenstahl's reputation for fearlessness, athletic excellence and acting versatility is known throughout the Continent, and much credit must be given her for her courage in braving the dangers of the Arctic to accompany the Dr. Fanck expedition to Greenland to make this picture possible.

GIBSON GOWLAND, noted character actor of the American screen, although English by birth, achieved his greatest fame in Hollywood by his portrayals in such

(Continued on Page 21)

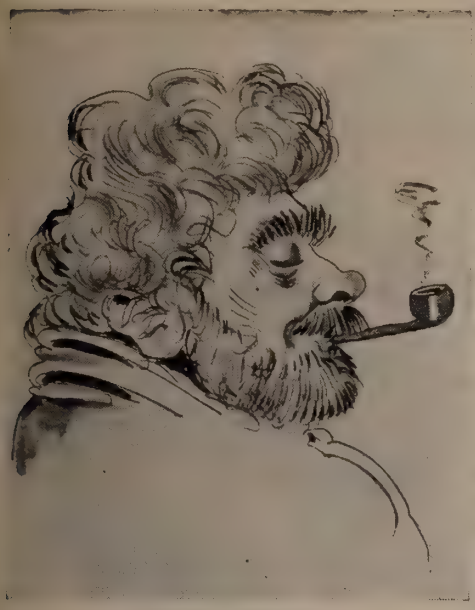
Rod La Rocque
The Hero

Walter Riml

Dr. Max Holsboer



Gibson Gowland.

Unparalleled Danger

(Continued from Page 9)

big that it submerged the company and isolated them from any human help except by Udet's airplane, for sixteen days. Udet fed them, as the ravens fed Elisha, by dropping parcels of food down from his airplane. He could not land, and no expedition or boats could reach them. The shot itself was awe-inspiring. It makes a thrilling high spot in the picture, but there is no evidence there of the desperate nature of the successful effort to film it.

No one in the world had ever worked in the movies with icebergs and very little was known of their behaviour, peculiarities and treacherous character. One of the greatest menaces to navigation, they look peaceful and gentle enough, but an iceberg is liable to turn over at any moment, to break up in a thousand pieces, creating waves forty feet high, and back-lashing tides and eddies. Sudden and terrible death lies in their shadow. With all of the knowledge of climbing and of ice fastnesses at his command—and there is no more skilful and intrepid Alpinist than Dr. Fanck—he was at his wits' end to film the big scenes demanded of his scenario of "S.O.S. Iceberg." Hairbreadth escapes, daring rescues, and a luck which was more than human, were the only things that prevented dire catastrophies almost every day.

The Cast Extraordinary of "S.O.S. Iceberg"

(Continued from Page 20)

pictures as "Greed," "Blind Husbands," "Mysterious Island," "The Sea Bat" and "The Doomed Battalion." Gowland plays the role of John Dragan, a wealthy scientist and explorer in the film. He went all the way from Hollywood to portray this part and immediately upon its completion returned to California.

WALTER RIML, one of Europe's most widely known comedy stars, has the role of "Fritz," a young scientist, eager for adventure, who absorbs the thrills and breath-taking dangers of the icy Arctic with keen delight.

ERNST UDET, most famous of the World War aces, plays himself. He accompanied the expedition with three of his planes, doing most of his spectacular flying stunts in the famed "Motte" plane, which he used in the War. Since playing in "S.O.S. Iceberg," Major Udet has figured prominently in London and in the International Air Races held in California this July, and recently in Chicago.

SEPP RIST, well known European leading man, has the important character role of Dr. Johannes Brand in the story, the second in command of the expedition. He is called upon for a swim that is a classic of daring and endurance.

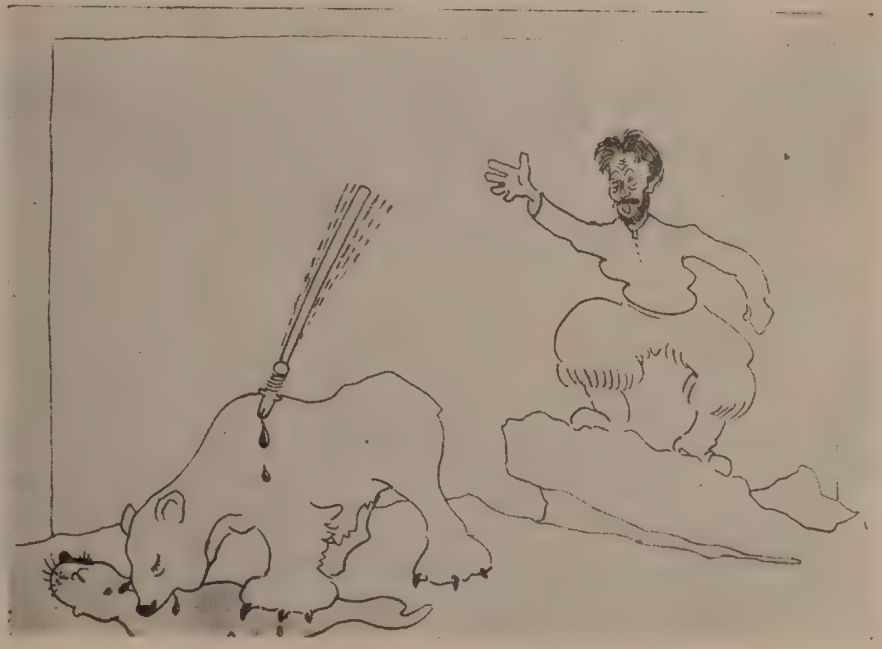
DR. MAX HOLSBOER plays the part of Dr. Jan Matushek, another scientist who is included in the personnel of the film expedition. Holsboer in real life is European Hockey champion, an expert skier as well as actor, and an experienced mountain climber. He was of invaluable assistance to Dr. Fanck in both the preliminary work and actual shooting of the picture. He plays the role of the Bear Hunter.

* * *

Famous S. O. S. Calls in History

(Continued from Page 15)

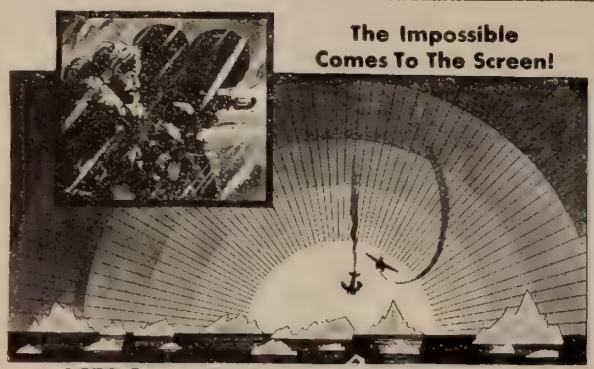
"Baltic" came to their rescue and took 781 persons on board. The story of how Binns stuck to his apparatus until the last minute is still the classic of the many radio rescue yarns. Binns became a national hero like Hobson. He went into vaudeville, wrote for newspapers, spent a season at a Coney Island concession, got his statue in the Wax Museum and wound up as the radio editor of Colliers. It was all this publicity and hero worship, that so tremendously popularised the term "S.O.S."



Cartoons on this page were drawn by Udet in Greenland. This famous aviator is also an artist.

Samples of the Big-Space Ads

A Campaign that is Pulling the



The Impossible Comes To The Screen!

ICEBOUND! BLIZZARD-LASHED! FACING UNKNOWN TERRORS!

FACING DEATH ITSELF—NOT ONCE, BUT A THOUSAND TIMES—

ALL TO BRING YOU THIS PICTURE!

In sub-zero weather, for nearly two years, a courageous band of movie pioneers lived in the hazardous glacial wastes of Arctic Greenland to film this awesome spectacle of Nature's fury and man's gallant battle for existence. They never knew when a snow covered crevasse would swallow them forever. They never knew when a crashing berg would send them to Kingdom come. Or the fierce white bears of the Northland would tear them to a thousand pieces.

CARL LAEMMLE PRESENTS

S.O.S. ICEBERG

with ROD LA ROCQUE, LENI RIEFENSTAHL, GIBSON GOWLAND, ERNST UDET, World's Greatest Dare-Devil Aviator. Story by Dr. Arnold Fanck. Music by Paul Dessau. Directed by Tay Garnett.

Produced by CARL LAEMMLE, Jr.
A UNIVERSAL PICTURE

"The Screen's Supreme Adventure!"

WORLD PREMIERE, FRIDAY NIGHT 8:45

Thereafter Twice Daily 2:45—8:45 3 Times Sats. & Sundays 3—6—8:45

Ernst Udet, colleague of von Richthofen, the 'Red Knight of Germany,' photographed the aerial scenes of this sensational picture—scenes that vie with anything ever seen for stark grandeur and breath-taking beauty!

CRITERION
Theatre, Broadway at 44th Street

3 COL

2 COL

The Impossible Comes to the Screen!

A movie expedition spent a year and a half in the Arctic wastes of Greenland—and brought back the picture others had considered impossible to make—impossible because it was too dangerous, because of forbidding nature; because of freezing cold; because of hundreds of obstacles, because of lack of knowledge of the country, the frailty of human endurance—BECAUSE NOBODY HAD EVER DARED TRY IT BEFORE!

NOW THE PICTURE IS ON THE SCREEN!—A STAGGERING SUCCESSION OF TERRIFIC THRILLS, PULSING HUMAN DRAMA AND AWE-INSPIRING BEAUTY!

CARL LAEMMLE presents

S.O.S. ICEBERG

with ROD LA ROCQUE, LENI RIEFENSTAHL, G
GOWLAND, UDET World's Greatest Dare-Dev
Arnold Fanck. Music by Paul Dessau. Directed by T
A UNIVERS

3 COL

TRAPPED!

TRAPPED on a c bling iceberg in heart of the Arctic five desperate m beautiful, cult woman learned savagery still
. . . that hunger,
and fear were bu
to primitive emo

SEE the rescuing air plane piloted by a beautiful girl crash in flames against an iceberg!

SEE the crashing masses of white death—crumbling worlds of ice menacing man and beast alike!

SEE the terrific hand to claw battle between a man and a Polar Bear—the man the loser!

SEE the airplane pilo oted by Major Ernst Udet perform unbelievable feats among the ice crags!

SEE a lone woman trapped on a melting and crumbling iceberg with five desperate men!

SEE the birth of an ice berg—a mountain of ice exploded into the sea—mothered by a huge glac ier!

CARL LAEMMLE Presents

S.O.S. ICEBERG

with ROD LA ROCQUE, LEI
RIEFENSTAHL, GIBSO
GOWLAND, ERNST UDE
World's Greatest Dare-Devil Aviat
Story by Dr Arnold Fanck. Music
Paul Dessau. Directed by Tay Garne
Produced by CARL LAEMMLE.
A UNIVERSAL PICTUR

WORLD PREMIERE TOMORROW FRIDAY NIGHT at 8:30

CRITERION THEATR
BROADWA
at 44th S

Thereafter Twice Daily 2:30—8:30 3 Performances Sats and Sundays 3—6 and 8:45 Matinees 50c, 75c, $1.00 Nights 50c 75c $1.00 $1.50

in the New York Newspapers—Crowds to the U.S. Premiere

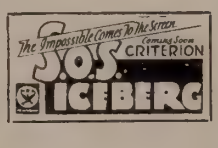
2 COL

4 COL



3 COL

A Million Dollars' Worth of Talent in one Grand and Glorious Picture!

MOONLIGHT AND MELODY

A
WILLIAM ROWLAND-MONTE BRICE Production

•

50 Gorgeous Girls!

•

6
Big Song Hits!

With Leo Carrillo, Mary Brian, Roger Pryor, Herbert Rawlinson, Lillian Miles, Bobby Watson, William Frawley, Alexander Gray, Bernice Claire, Jack Denny and his Orchestra, Frank and Milt Britton and Band . . . Story by Monte Brice, Sig Herzig and Arthur Jarrett . . . Screenplay by Sig Herzig . . . Dances staged by Bobby Connolly . . . Music Supervision by Jay Gorney . . . Songs and Lyrics by Jay Gorney, Herman Hupfeld, Al Siegel, Sammy Fain, E. Y. Harburg . . . Directed by Karl Freund. Dialogue direction by Monte Brice.

•

Produced under the personal supervision of Stanley Bergerman.

COMING!

The Picture with 93 Featured Players and Cast of 5,000!

Starring
John Boles,
Margaret Sullavan,
Billie Burke,
Reginald Denny,
Edna May Oliver,
Benita Hume

JOHN M.
STAHL'S Greatest Human Drama for
UNIVERSAL

ONLY YESTERDAY

Coming To Thrill The World!

He Walks!
He Talks!
He Loves!
He Fights!
He Kills!
Catch Him If You Can!

H. G. WELLS' fantastic sensation
starring
CLAUDE RAINS

With Gloria Stuart, William Harrigan, Dudley Digges, Una O'Connor, Henry Travers, Forrester Harvey. Screenplay by R. C. Sherriff. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by James Whale. Presented by Carl Laemmle. A UNIVERSAL PICTURE.

THE STRANGEST STORY EVER CONCEIVED BY THE MASTER OF THE UNCANNY, H. G. WELLS

— — Now one of Universal's Greatest Productions

Rawlings & Walsh, Ltd., Printers, Chertsey, Surrey.

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

VOL.33 NO.26
DECEMBER 9,1926

LEW AYRES
in
"CROSS COUNTRY CRUISE"
Universal's Bus Feature

The Drama of a Daring Adventuress!

Madame SPY

With

FAY WRAY
NILS ASTHER

Edward Arnold, John Miljan, Noah Beery, Robert Ellis, David Torrence. Screenplay by William Hurlburt. Original by Max Kimmich, Johannes Brandt, Joseph Than. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Karl Freund. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

•

Another Class Smash from UNIVERSAL

Oswald is an old friend to millions of moviegoers . . . He is increasing his circle of fans faster today than ever . . . Hitch your wagon to this star NOW!!

Oswald

The LUCKY RABBIT

AN HONEST

No. 751 Straight-from-the-Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

It's good for the soul to tell a joke on one's self. Here's one on me:

I nearly sold one of the best motion picture stories ever written, instead of producing it myself.

That is, I tried to! It was "Counsellor at Law." If I had succeeded I would have lost. But I failed, so I won!

You see, Universal paid one of the highest prices on record for the picture rights to this great play. Then we tried to cast it, and we simply couldn't.

I tried to borrow stars from other companies. I almost got down on my knees in the effort to get other companies to lend me a star who would fit "Counsellor at Law."

But I flopped on the job. No other company would come through.

Then I tried to sell the story to get some of my big investment back. Several companies seemed interested but all of a sudden they lost interest. They quit bidding for the story. They said I had paid too much for it.

CONFESSION

I tried again to cast it properly and out of a clear sky, to my amazement, I got the one man in the world I would rather have than any other to play the lead — none other than John Barrymore himself.

So, after months and months of failure, I hit success right on the nose!

Of course all this cost plenty of money, but when you see the picture, you will realize that every dollar was well spent for your benefit and Universal's.

You are going to revel in the picture! You are going to see John Barrymore do a part which no other actor on the screen or stage could do half so well!

All the old traditions of the Barrymore family are more than justified by John Barrymore in "Counsellor At Law."

And, think of it! I tried to force some other companies to buy the story which will set a new screen record!

So I can't take credit for one of the greatest pictures ever made. I actually tried to get rid of the darned thing!

Carl Laemmle

"Going Great

because it was—

MORE typical Variety reports: "Rialto, Wash.: Town still going ga-ga over Margaret Sullavan. Second week holding up. Last week big $9,000"—"Keith's Boston: Sullavan damsel the talk o' the town. Should hit $16,500"—"Pantages, Los Angeles: Initial week take of around $11,000, which at current scale is plenty"—"Golden Gate, San Francisco: Clicking smartly at $13,000."

Guns" in Minneapolis

'Only Yesterday' Sold Right, 14G, State, 9G, Mpls.

Clipping from VARIETY

MARGARET SULLAVAN
JOHN BOLES

Billie Burke, Edna May Oliver, Reginald Denny, Benita Hume, Onslow Stevens, Jimmie Butler and many others. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Suggested by the book by Frederick Lewis Allen. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

Minneapolis, Nov. 27.

What a tremendous exploitation campaign can do for a meritorious picture is being demonstrated currently by the Minnesota theatre where 'Only Yesterday' is going great guns. and the t
Manager H of a job in the public.

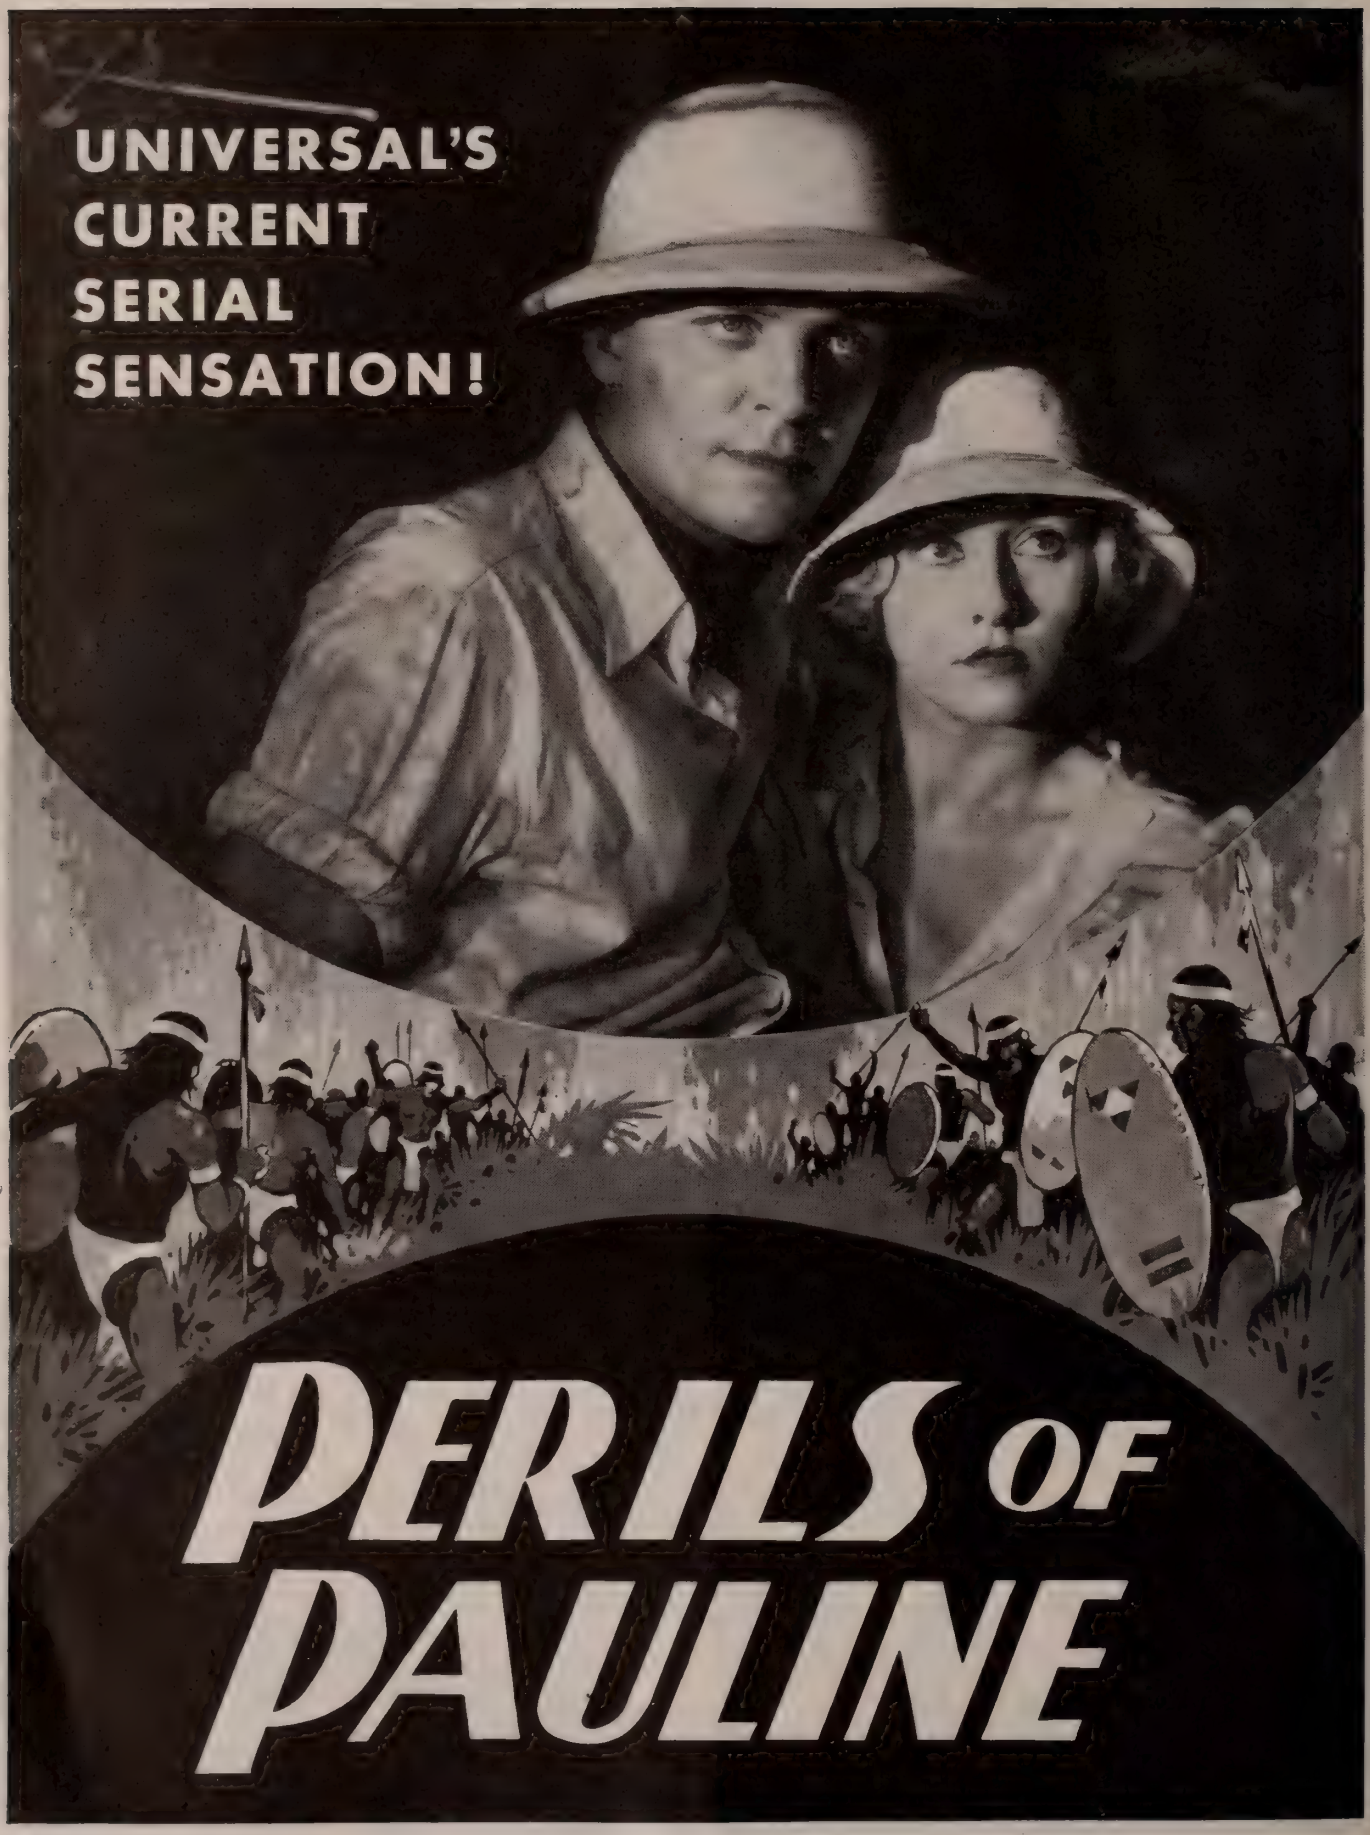
Minnesota (Publix) (4,200; 25-35-40)—'Only Yesterday' (U). Extra heavy ads and other tie-ups helped to make the public 'Only Yesterday' conscious-minded. Sure-fire feminine fare opened big, should roll right along to a good $14,000. Last week, 'Duck Soup' (Par), $12,000, pretty good.

AY



UNIVERSAL'S
CURRENT SERIAL SENSATION!
PERILS OF PAULINE

SPOT NEWS

Three More Kentucky Colonels

The stingy Governor Ruby Laffoon has been pried loose from three colonelcys on the staff of the Governor of Kentucky. The new Kentucky Colonels are John Boles, F. J. A. McCarthy, eastern sales manager for Universal, and E. T. Gomersall, western sales manager for Universal.

✚ ✚ ✚

Pity The Villain

Emmett Vogan, Broadway leading man, and playing currently in a stage show in Los Angeles, has been also portraying the heavy in Slim Summerville and ZaSu Pitts' latest comedy, "Two Clucks." Inasmuch as the company is working at Palm Springs and the show is working at the El Capitan, Vogan has to airplane nightly between the city and the health resort.

William Seiter will complete direction of "Two Clucks" this week at Universal City, where Vogan will be nearer his stage work.

✚ ✚ ✚

Wyler Here

William Wyler, accompanied by his brother, Robert Wyler, arrived in New York on Monday night for the opening of his picture, "Counsellor at Law," at the Music Hall.

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magaine for Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick, Editor
Published Weekly by the Motion Picture Weekly Publishing Co.
730 Fifth Avenue, New York City
Copyrighted 1933
Universal Pictures Corp.
(All Rights Reserved)
DECEMBER 9, 1933
Vol. 33 No. 26

CABLEGRAM

CABLE-LONDON
DEC 1 1933

CARL LAEMMLE
UNIVERSAL CITY
(CALIF)

INVISIBLE MAN TRADE SHOWN LAST EVENING GREAT RECEPTION BOOKED WHOLE GAUMONT CIRCUIT INCLUDING WESTEND PREMIERE TIVOLI STOP EVERYBODY UNANIMOUS THIS TREMENDOUS WINNER
DITCHAM

Kurt Neumann Recovering

Kurt Neumann, who stayed on the job in face of an impending appendicitis operation to finish "King for a Night," is recovering from an emergency operation in a hospital in Los Angeles. As soon as he is well enough, he expects to embark upon the direction of "The Countess of Monte Cristo," which Earle Snell is adapting from Walter Fleisch's play.

✚ ✚ ✚

A Young Hix

John Hix, author of Universal's famous "Strange As It Seems," became an uncle when little Dixie Ann was born on November 28th to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hix, brother and sister-in-law of John. Dixie weighed six pounds, eight ounces at birth, and is the first baby in this generation of Hix'es. Our heartiest congratulations to Uncle, Father, Mother and Baby.

Whale To Europe

James Whale, director of "The Invisible Man" and "By Candlelight," arrived on Tuesday, sailing on the Bremen, to visit R. C. Sherriff in England. Together they will develop the author's story, "A Trip to Mars." It will be better than "The Invisible Man" and "Frankenstein" rolled into one.

✚ ✚ ✚

McNamee! Hooray

The Newsreel will continue to enjoy the services of Graham McNamee. This week the ace announcer of the National Broadcasting Company signed a new contract with Universal to continue as its Talking Reporter for another year.

✚ ✚ ✚

You Haven't Seen Anything Yet

In the first half of its schedule of thirty-six pictures, Universal has already disclosed three tremendous hits, "Only Yesterday," "The Invisible Man," "Counsellor at Law," but the best part of the program, the part that Universal banked on most heavily when this year's program was announced, is still to be made—"Zest," "Imitation of Life," "Little Man, What Now?" This will be a great year for Universal.

Nov. 24, 1933

Invisible Man' To Radio and Palace

New York.—If you don't believe that "Invisible Man" clicked with a bang on the main stem here, just listen to this:

When the Universal picture finishes at the Seventh Avenue Roxy it will go into the Radio City Roxy and the RKO Palace theatres for immediate booking.

Radio officials only let it get away from the Music Hall because of the jam with their own big special, "Little Women."

—Hollywood Reporter

Marian Marsh, one of the big reasons why "I Like It That Way," is being so confidently awaited as a hit. Marian rounds out a cast of blondes.

UNIVERSAL IS WELL

James R. Grainger, Ir
Universal Exchanges -
On Next Season's Pr

WITH half of the current schedule of feature releases completed and the other half merely a matter of selection of material, James R. Grainger left New York yesterday for a swing about the entire exchange circuit. His route will cover almost every Universal exchange and will take him to Universal City about the 18th or 19th of December. Here he will go into session with Carl Laemmle and Carl Laemmle, Jr. on the make-up of the production schedule for the year starting in September.

Half of the 1933-1934 Product Completed

The first eighteen productions developed a number of exceptional pictures including "Counsellor at Law," "Only Yesterday," "The Invisible Man" and "By Candlelight." There still remain in the cutting room at Universal City pictures of which the studio feels very proud. They include "Cross Country Cruise," Lew Ayres' starring vehicle, which is being rushed out in order to beat the other trans-continental bus stories; "Bombay Mail," starring Edmund Lowe, from the novel by L. G. Blochman to be published January 1; "Madame Spy" with Fay Wray and Nils Asther, produced under the guiding hand of Edmund Grainger; the musical romance, "Beloved" with John Boles and Gloria Stuart, produced by B. F. Zeidman; the Stanley Bergerman musical, "I Like It That Way,, with Roger Pryor, Gloria Stuart, Marian Marsh and others.

Last Half the Biggest

The latter part of the program, contains the heaviest guns,—Fannie Hurst's "Imitation of Life," which Sally Starr, one of the bright spots in the Warren Doane two-reel comedy, "Palsie Walsie," starring Henry Armetta.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

LAEMMLE SR. SMILES AS GRAINGER SHOWS HAND

New York.—Carl Laemmle Sr., arriving here a few days ago to defend a stockholders' suit brought against him, has never smiled better or with more reason. J. R. Grainger, the Universal general manager, has shown him the contract book and the playdates for December on "Counsellor at Law," "Invisible Man" and "Only Yesterday," confirming Grainger's statement, "Give these exhibitors who have contracted for our pictures a good brand of entertainment and Universal will have the greatest year in its existence."

Universal has every key city, every important theatre chain and most of the other money runs under contract. They have 5007 contracts with that many exhibitors and fully expect to have it increased to 6000 by the first of the year.

Grainger told Laemmle Sr. that the month of December will show the greatest collections that Universal has ever had. On hearing that, the elder Laemmle announced that he would return to Hollywood Sunday and contribute whatever help he could to the production of "the best pictures we have ever had."

The way the sales effort of Universal is going this season is well exemplified by this article which appeared in the Hollywood Reporter. So that there would be no legerdemain about it, the Editor of the Weekly made a cut of it and it is herewith reproduced.

OVER THE TOP

onfident Mood, Starts Swing of Vill Advise With The Laemmles uct At Universal City Studios

John Stahl will direct; Edna Ferber's "Glamour," for which Gloria Stuart has been chosen; Vicki Baum's "I Give My Love," Charles G. Norris' "Zest," which Lowell Sherman will direct; and Hans Fallada's best seller, "Little Man, What Now?" for which Margaret Sullavan is on the way to the coast. Frank Borzage will produce it.

On his departure, Mr. Grainger declared the production program and the selling effort had both been beyond the expectations entertained at the beginning of the season and that there was every prospect of a tremendous cumulative value to both the production end and the sales end, due to the remarkable reception which had been accorded to "Only Yesterday," "The Invisible Man" and "Counsellor at Law." And, he concluded, as he dashed for the Century, "we have the most powerful productions on the year's schedule still to make."

McCarthy Is Also Confident As Result of His Southern Trip

Mr. Grainger has just received a report from F. J. A. McCarthy, eastern sales manager, who had just returned from a tour of his own eastern exchanges, extending as far south as New Orleans. Mr. McCarthy was convinced of a more confident tone in the feeling and condition of all of the theatre men he visited. "They are all in more prosperous circumstances and they are all looking for better times to come to this country and to this industry."

✚ ✚ ✚

PETE HARRISON, SAYS

"Counsellor At Law" with John Barrymore

(Universal, Dec. 4; running time, 81 min.)

GOOD entertainment. It has an abundance of human interest, fast action and situations that hold one in tense suspense. Even though the story unfolds entirely in a law office, the audience never has the feeling as if the action is confined to one certain spot for the characters move around from room to room, and there are several good character studies of people who work in the office and other who visit the office. The suspense is sustained throughout because of the dangerous position John Barrymore finds himself in as the result of a kind but shady act he had once committed to save a man from a life sentence; he had established a false alibi. But this does not lessen the sympathy one feels with him because it was more of a human act of kindness rather than one of crookedness. The closing situation comes as a pleasant surprise; Barrymore obtains information about his enemy with which he forces him to abandon his efforts to disbar him. Bebe Daniels, Barrymore's secretary, is a sympathetic character, as is Barrymore's mother, for they are both devoted to him in an unselfish way. There are some good comedy situations that should arouse laughter.

Suitable for children, adolescents, and Sundays.

Looking 'Em Over

"Counsellor at Law"

(Universal)

AN ace attraction headed for new b. o. records. Carl Laemmle, Jr., has spared no expense in the production of Elmer Rice's play and it will undoubtedly go extra time in many theatres. It is graced with star names such as John Barrymore, Bebe Daniels and Doris Kenyon, supported by 20 others, including Onslow Stevens, Isabel Jewell, Melvyn Douglas, Thelma Todd and Mayo Methot. William Wyler has done a swell job in the direction. The author adapted the play and Norbert Brodine manipulated his camera for compelling effects.

As a silver-tongued, quick-witted attorney, Barrymore's success is rapid. His cases range from the lowly Communist friend of the family to the biggest of business men. In defending Victor Simon on a murder charge, Barrymore misses a loophole in the alibi which frees Simon and which threatens disbarment unless the matter is quickly adjusted.

While Barrymore is trying to get a hold on Elmer Brown, who threatens the disbarment, Doris Kenyon, the legal light's wife, shows her colors by becoming upset when her husband plans to contest the will of her friend and cause unpleasant publicity. Rather than face possible disbarment for her mate, Miss Kenyon plans a trip to Europe and when she learns her husband cannot go with her goes without him. But Melvyn Douglas, who has been playing friend of the family, is also a passenger on the boat and his purpose is to play hearts.

Barrymore gets the upper hand on Brown when an agent discovers the latter, in addition to living in New York, is also maintaining another home in Pennsylvania, which would create headline scandal. This causes the disbarment threat to be dropped and again Barrymore is the high-pressure counsellor.

—From Motion Picture Daily

Edmund Lowe and Shirley Grey are the proponents in "Bombay Mail." They are here shown in one of the scenes from this most unusual picture which was taken in its entirety on a coach of the luxurious express train which runs between Calcutta and Bombay. A lot of exciting things happen on this trip, all of which go to make an outstanding motion picture. Score another for Universal.

Variety Says:

NEW YORK: Roxy Theatre: "Doing smash business...Will end the week with $42,000 or better." (Note: It smashed the Roxy record and was held for a second smash week.)

•

CHICAGO: Palace Theatre: "Rides into top average money of the town at whizzing $27,000." (Note: Balaban & Katz put it into the McVickers AFTER the Palace run!)

•

PITTSBURGH: Warner Theatre: "Gave house best opening in months, should breast tape at $7,300, fine."

The INVISIBLE MAN

Claude Rains Made Visible

by Eileen Creelman in The New York Sun

EVERY once in a while it would be too much for him. A phrase, a sudden memory would startle Claude Rains into a shout of laughter. And, when Claude Rains laughs, for that brief, alarmingly brief moment, he is laughter itself. His personality, like those dark vivid eyes and strong features, is very much his own.

It was "The Invisible Man" and his adventures in the making of it that interfered with any grave discussion of the drama. Mr. Rains had been a Theatre Guild actor not so far back. That seemed to call for a few dignified gestures in the direction of the drama anyway. Instead, Mr. Rains learned his first talkie was breaking all the recent box-office records at the Roxy. Immediately he shouted twice and, still half-convulsed said:

"And for five years, five years mind, I was prating to the Theatre Guild about my artistic integrity. I was so cock-a-hoop about it. My artistic integrity."

There was glee in those dark eyes. He continued in a muffled voice:

"Then the first day at the studio James brought over some bandages. I asked about them; and he said, Oh, yes, I was to be bandaged during most of the picture. And there I had been fighting with the Theatre Guild about my artistic integrity. Oh, it served me right."

"The Invisible Man"

Probably it did serve him right for he had a lot of fun making "The Invisible Man." He did not know his old friend and fellow-Englishman, James Whale, was to direct it until he arrived at Universal City. In fact he seems to have known little, indeed, about the whole business until he actually started work.

"James kept talking about this and that in pictures, about actors and pictures of whom I'd never heard. When he learned I'd seen only about six films in my life, he told me to go right out and see pictures—to see three a day until I knew something about them. So I started going to them. Helen Westley and I saw "Ma-

CLAUDE RAINS
"The Invisible Man"
as he really looks.

ma Loves Papa" together because she wanted to study comedy. Do you know Helen? A grand person, I drove her all over Hollywood on her first day there and pointed out all the stars' houses. Oh, she loved it, kept leaning out of the car and exclaiming."

Mr. Rains was laughing again. Some one had just remarked that "Only Yesterday" was making out all right, but that "The Invisible Man" was to be held a second week at the Roxy.

"And just before I left the studio," he confided. "Henry Hennigson—Oh, I like Henry, really like him—told me 'The Invisible Man' was all right, but that 'Only Yesterday' was an epic.

Venture

Mr. Rains doesn't quite know how he did get into pictures. Universal had bought "The Man Who Reclaimed His Head," in which he appeared here last year. That interested James Whale, who suggested he take a test for "The Invisible Man." The test director, to whom Rains is grateful, had the good taste to select one of the most effective scenes in the Sherriff script of the H. G. Wells thriller. It was the one in which the mad scientist explained how he had become invisible and why he had to remain so. There were no bandages in the screen test. Not until Mr. Rains was before the cameras did he know that his face never appeared until the end when he is dying.

"I thought at least I could try to express something with my eyes," he explained, those eyes still filled with merriment. 'But I was very happy with James. I had great confidence in James, and left everything to him. Some times, of course, we didn't quite agree. I would want to do a little more. Then he'd say, 'But Claude, old fellow, what are you going to do it with? You haven't any face!' "

There was another shout of laughter. Perhaps he'd remembered that artistic integrity again. His record, after all, both here and in London is a dignified one of dramas and comedies, mounting in importance from his stage debut at the age of 10 through the years when, to have something to occupy him through the days, as well as the theatre-filled evenings, he instructed in the London Dramatic Academy in London, with Charles Laughton as one of his pupils, until his increasing prominence on the Broadway stage. He hadn't really thought much about movies.

The Future

He is thinking about them now, when he can tear his mind away from that small white farmhouse and big red barn set in the middle of fifty-eight country acres way out yonder in New Jersey. He'd much rather talk of his newly purchased, of the "emotional contractor" who manages to visualize his ideas from a transcontinental correspondence and rebuild the old house just as Mr. Rains had imagined it, of the neighbors who did not know of his association with the theatre until his return from Hollywood, when two small boys commented, 'Why, there's the movie man."

(Continued on Page 25)

James Scott, Peggy Terry, Lenore Kingston, Lois January, Dean Benton.

Five of Carl Laemmle, Jr's. Juniors

AS the outcome of one of the most satisfactory experiments in its more than a quarter century of film production, Universal has given optional long-term contracts to three girls and two boys, "graduates" of the Universal Junior Stock Company. These capable youngsters are Lois January, Lenore Kingston, Peggy Terry, James Scott and Dean Benton.

Designed to meet the serious need for actor training—a need created by the decline of legitimate stock companies—the Universal Junior Stock Company was formed last June under the supervision of David Werner, Universal casting director. Eighty-two boys and girls, selected from more than 3,000 auditions, then began a daily curriculum of study in preparation for screen careers. By means of semi-monthly playlets and original sketches, the personnel of the school was gradually reduced, all but thirteen having been eliminated at the end of the summer. These remaining hopefuls were given screen tests. When the studio executive committee, headed by Carl Laemmle, Jr., viewed these tests, the winners were named and contracts awarded.

The five winners, all of whom had had experience in community theatre work, will be given every opportunity to make good on the screen. Early assignments in Universal films will call for them to appear in short reel comedies, serials and feature pictures, it being the desire of Carl Laemmle, Jr. the studio boss, to give the young actors a thorough stock company training before the camera.

"These youngsters have unusual talent and physical fitness for motion picture work," says Mr. Werner, "and we will not attempt to make 'types' of them. Within six months or a year any one of them will justify outstanding screen roles."

UNIVERSAL

first again with the big new idea in pictures . . . .

Lew AY CROSS

with

JUNE KNIGHT

in a smash romance-adventure-drama story with a locale on a speeding transcontinental bus — a brand new idea in pictures and a TREAT FOR YOUR SCREEN!

RES
With ALICE WHITE, Alan Dinehart, Eugene Palette, Henry Armetta. Story by Stanley Rauh. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr Directed by Edward Buzzell. Presented by Carl Laemmle.
COUNTRY CRUISE

UNIVERSAL
marches on–here's another big one!

Fans like mystery!

Fans like action!

Fans like novelty!

Fans like drama!

Fans like romance!

HERE THEY ARE!

With Shirley Grey, Ralph Forbes, Hedda Hopper, Onslow Stevens, Tom Moore, John Wray, Brandon Hurst. Screenplay by Tom Reed from the novel by L. G. Blochman. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Edwin L. Marin. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

EDMUND LOWE in

BOMBAY MAIL

"AN ACE ATTRACTIO

BOX-OFFICE RECORDS

OPENED AT RADIO C

N HEADED FOR NEW

" SAYS M. P. DAILY —

TY MUSIC HALL DEC. 7

(This is a reproduction of the striking 24-sheet)

Kansas City Star Calls "Only Ye

Beautiful and Skillfully Placed Upon the Screen. A New Star Rises, Says Jack Moffitt, Photoplay Editor Of This Widely Read Paper.

THIS beautiful picture is probably the finest women's story that will reach the screen this year.

It is the narrative of a courageous woman who, finding her girlhood infatuation had been lavished upon an unappreciative man, did not let that wreck her life. Her life was empty but, like a true portrait of the modern woman, she did not wring her hands and tear her handkerchief to tatters. Neither did she perform like the spoiled, theatrical heroines of the cheap magazines, getting dizzily drunk and spraying sticky, meaningless caresses over gigolos. She chokes back her tears and permits the wound to heal, although it leaves its scar. She is too honest to delude herself with the idea that she never had loved the man and too decent to make everyone miserable by forever dramatising herself as the wronged heroine.

With courage and decency she sets out to make a place for herself in the world. Assuming the responsibility of both father and mother, she sets out to care for the son her love has brought her.

THIS IS A RELIEF

Such a one comes as a great relief after the mawkishness of "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," the dolorous tragedy of "Jennie Gerhart" and the woebegone series of feminine suffer dramas that have kept a good section of the screen as hysterical as a mouse infested tearoom the last two years.

"Only Yesterday" has a heroine women will sympathize with, but she also is a heroine men can respect. It is significant that in telling this tale of an abondoned heroine, John Stahl, the director, scarcely once shows her crying. Neither does he show her indulging in catty, malicious sarcasm about the world in general. She is sad eyed but clear eyed, and her head is up. Here is a heroine who holds her pride and fights her destiny.

HOW THE STORY DEVELOPED

When Universal bought the movie rights to Frederick Lewis Allen's "Only Yesterday" and handed them to Mr. Stahl he must have felt like a man suddenly told to make an hour's entertainment out of a history textbook. "Only Yesterday" had no plot. It was not fiction. It simply was a well written enumeration of the experiences of our times. Of these Mr. Stahl makes use of only two, the war and the stock market crash, and they serve as motives rather than for the frame of his picture.

Margaret Sullavan, star whom Jack Moffitt hails in this review, and who is now on her way to Universal City to make her second picture for Universal.

Yet with a shrewd understanding he selected what is perhaps the most inspiring of our experiences, the recognition of the new woman, the woman who has replaced the dainty, swooning, lady-like heroine, in facing the realities of life. The woman who can love a man, but not demean herself to one. The woman who doesn't ask special consideration because she is a woman. He has brought forth the new heroine!

A NEW SCREEN HEROINE

In undertaking a story that was sanely sentimental and debunking without being sophomoric, Mr. Stahl was fortunate in being able to bring his new heroine to the screen in the person of an actress the movie public never has seen before and one whose talents are more than adequate to the part.

That actress is Margaret Sullavan, who made her great hit in the Broadway production of "Dinner at Eight," playing the part of the selfish wife of the crooked promotor (the role Jean Harlow makes memorable in the screen version). If your first glimpse of Miss Sullavan is in this picture it will be difficult to believe she ever played so tawdry a character as that in "Dinner at Eight." Here she is all sincerity and refinement. You are introduced to her when she is a fluttery girl living near a cantonment in Virginia. One night at a dance she bursts out to a young lieutenant with a confession of how she has admired him. Here her acting is conceived beautifully, a thing of tenderness and nervous laughter, of youthful frankness and sudden, childlike reticence.

IT'S THE BEST BOLES ROLE

She is even better as the poised and worldly wise mature woman when she appears beautifully gowned in the later sequences. Here you feel she really is a person who could command both herself and the situation.

This department is beginning to believe that, affable though Mr. Stahl is, he is John Boles' Svengali. Mr. Boles, who usually is simply a statuesque ornament, turns in a performance of Trilby-like perfection whenever Mr. Stahl wields the megaphone. He did it in "Back Street" and he does it in "Only Yesterday." Through this handsome fellow the director has been able to dramatize ruthlessly and charmingly man's cruel attitude toward sex. He is convincing both as the flirtatious young lieutenant and as the man of affairs.

IT'S GREAT ENTERTAINMENT

Mr. Stahl, unlike most men who seek to dramatize the times, does not get preachy. He keeps his leading character human and he plays his supporting cast for drama rather than history. Of the vast number of players who appear to advantage in the film, Billie Burke is the outstanding performer. The widow of Flo Zieg-

terday" A Powerful Love Story

feld has at last mastered the technique of the talking picture and her charming, humorous personality gets across as it does on the stage.

Never during the entire proceedings does Mr. Stahl become so occupied with the sadness of the theme as to forget that movies are supposed to provide entertainment. There is a great deal of comedy and the picture closes with a note that lifts the spirit of the audience. William Hurlbut, whose "Recessional" was presented in Kansas City recently, deserves great credit for his excellent screen play.

✦ ✦ ✦

San Francisco Hails Sullavan

New Star Is Success In First Film

Margaret Sullavan Perfect in "Only Yesterday" at Golden Gate

By CLAUDE A. LA BELLE
The News Drama Editor

A NEW star has settled herself firmly in these critical affections. Her name is Margaret Sullavan, and although Broadway has known quite a lot about her for some time, the movie public has never seen her, probably never heard of her. She may be seen at the Golden Gate in "Only Yesterday," and she is as good as any I've yet known.

She has all that it takes to make a star that will be liked by fans of all ages and classes. She can act, she has a bubbling throaty laugh, she has expressive eyes and pretty hands, both of which she knows how to use. She can impart her emotions by expression, an ability that actresses sigh for but seldom achieve. Also she has a warmth that even the cold screen can't destroy.

EASE IS UNSTUDIED

Mainly she wins my praise because she has that other rare acting trait, the ability to say unimportant lines, and enact small but necessary situations with unstudied ease. So many screen stars either do and say everything in a bleached manner like Bette Davis, or else go to the other extreme and play Lady Macbeth all over the studio lot.

✦ ✦ ✦

New Screen Star Bows in "Only Yesterday"

By FRED JOHNSON
Call-Bulletin

A PICTURE that nearly everybody is going to like—one filled with beauty, tenderness and charm—came to the Golden Gate screen yesterday. Its title is "Only Yesterday," an adaptation from the novel by Frederick Lewis Allen and directed with sensitiveness by John M. Stahl.

In it Margaret Sullavan, a Broadway stage ingenue, makes her screen debut opposite John Boles—and does it brilliantly. Without distinction in beauty and with a voice remindful of Ethel Barrymore at the same age, she achieves starring rank with her first film performance.

A lengthy cast of splendid players in their best efforts make the picture one of high artistic merit. Its story, moving in its pathos, is one that women in particular will enjoy—with all the enjoyment to be found in a good cry. Seldom have I witnessed a picture more impressive, more expertly acted, and yet felt more annoyance with its major premise—that a man may so soon forget the girl who becomes the mother of his child. In this respect the story hangs by a slender thread of plausibility.

Lieutenant James Emerson (John Boles) leaves for France after Mary Lane (Miss Sullavan) surrenders herself to him on their first meeting at a dance in her Virginia home town, having already admired him from afar. On his return after the armistice he sees her in the street, but fails to remember her while she conceals her identity and the fact that her son is also his. The screen writer attempts to explain this as being due to her bobbed hair and his many months overseas. But his memory of other people has not been impaired.

On a second meeting, after his marriage, she again hides her identity and again surrenders to him. It is not until he is caught in the stock market crash and is about to end his life with a pistol that he reads her letter of revelation, written on her deathbed.

The girl's long sacrifice may easily be regarded as more probable than the hero's strange lapse. The latter would be a point for mere quibbling were it not the story's complete basis and one that persists in the spectator's mind.

There are innumerable scenes of romantic beauty—the first meeting of the pair, the third, when Mary Lane once more gives herself to the man who has forgotten her and the fade-out, when Emerson takes his boy into his arms. And there is delightful humor in Reginald Denny's romance with Billie Burke and Jim, Jr.'s comedy passages with his mother.

Miss Sullavan makes good in her bid for screen recognition. She will be heard from again. John Boles recalls his "Back Street" performance in the quiet charm of this new portrayal. Jimmy Butler, as the boy; Edna May Oliver, Benita Hume, June Clyde, Bramwell Fletcher and many others of a lustrous cast are deserving of salutes.

"Comedy Runs Riot

Looking 'Em Over

"Myrt and Marge"

(Universal)

Comedy runs riot in this musical with Myrt and Marge of radio fame as headliners. Actually, Ted Healy and his gang furnish all the laughs with Eddie Foy, Jr., assisting with his neat routine of dance and song. Some of the gags are a bit spicy. With the names of the air personalities, the vaudeville topliners, Trixie Friganza, Grace Hayes, Thomas Jackson and J. Farrell MacDonald, plus some swell dance routines, songs and patter, this musicomedy is first class entertainment. There are plenty of exploitation possibilities.

The story pivots about a show about to be produced by MacDonald when he and his backers walk out on it. Myrt Spear takes it over, interests Jackson in financing it and stays on as manager. The new promoter falls in love with Marge Minter, whose time is being taken up by Foy, Jr. When he sees his efforts failing, Jackson attempts a walkout, and goes through with it after Foy beats him up for trying to crash Marge's room. Miss Friganza, the heroine's mother, comes to the rescue, and buys the show and it later proves a howling success when it finally reaches New York.

Healy and his gang are "prop" men with the show, bobbing in and out to make the affair interesting and lively. It smacks of showmanship throughout. Al Boasberg, who knows the theatre and his background directed.

MYRT and in This Musical!"

says-MOTION PICTURE Daily

With Ted Healy, Eddie Foy, Jr., Thomas Jackson, J. Farrell MacDonald, Ray Hedge, Grace Hayes, Trixie Friganza. Story by Mrs. Willard Mack. Songs by M. K. Jerome and Joan Jasmyn. Directed by Al Boasberg.
Produced by Foy Productions, Ltd.
Presented by Carl Laemmle.

MARGE

Here's a cartoon you can copy and use with this clever picture. It is not in the Press Book.

This original drawing is by Sam Russell.

UNIVERSAL'S "HORSEPLAY" FAST-MOVING GAG COMEDY

Direction Milks Gags For Their Full Values

ORIGINALLY labeled "Tin Pants," "Horseplay" is just that in every sense of the word, with a story as wild as a Marx Brothers brainstorm and more gags than there are cacti on Slim's Montana ranch, where the yarn takes off.

With ZaSu Pitts, heroine of the earlier numbers in the Summerville comedies, out of the cast, this number is considerably broader and hokier than the others. But the preview audience went for it with uproarious delight and kept the house echoing with laughter. It will do lively business wherever played, and is a good introduction for the lanky, solemn-faced comic to audiences that have never seen him before.

The opening on a western ranch is just a springboard for the story. Slim and Andy are a pair of poverty-stricken cowboys, who become millionaires overnight when radium earth is discovered underneath the soil, and promoters force a million on them.

With his million, his pal and his horse, Cynthia Anna, Slim hightails it for England, looking for Angelica, the niece of a neighboring rancher, whose aunt packed her over to visit her dear friend the Duchess of Something-or-Other, to get her out of Slim's way.

Slim parks the horse in the bridal suite on the steamer, and the royal suite in a London hotel, paying royally as he goes. The Duchess, a good old sport, insists on seeing the Yankee cowpunchers and their horse the papers are all talking about, learns to drink American style, and spin rope, and finally invites the three to her castle to participate in her 13th century masquerade fete.

Angelica is there, of course, and so are two crooks who are planning to woo the girl and shake down the Duchess. From that point the end is in sight, and it's paved with comedy all the way.

—The Hollywood Reporter

Sedgwick milks every gag and situation for the maximum of screams. The grapefruit gag with Sidney Bracy playing straight as a frozen-faced British waiter is a honey. So is the folding opera hat routine between Slim and Andy. Later Slim gets into medieval armor for another flock of giggles, and finally Sedgwick backs him up against a blacksmith's open fire while the smith extracts him from his helmet and breastplate. Standard gags, but all cleverly manipulated by a director who knows them backward. And the hootch party between May Beatty as the Duchess, Una O'Connor, Slim and Andy deserves honorable mention.

Everybody in the cast clicks in support of the two comics. Photography is good, plenty of production value is noticeable and altogether it's another box office number for Slim and Universal.

GRAHAM McNAMEE

GRAHAM McNAMEE SIGNS AGAIN

UNIVERSAL Newsreel has just re-signed for another year with Graham McNamee, noted radio announcer and the screen's Talking Reporter, it is announced by Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Pictures Corporation. McNamee's graphic and descriptive narrative in the Universal Newsreel has been one of the reel's outstanding features since its inception four years ago. This form of running comment accompanying news pictures, initiated by McNamee, marked a new era in newsreel presentation, and has been widely copied.

"We are very happy to announce an extension of Mr. McNamee's contract," said Mr. Laemmle, "and I know that exhibitors all over the country as well as their patrons, will welcome the news. Mr. McNamee is without a peer when it comes to vivid, entertaining news descriptions. His motion picture following is immense, judging by the great volume of letters of commendation received by Universal from exhibitors and from the public. Thousands of showmen have found that Graham McNamee's name in lights on their marquees, with the Universal Newsreel, is just as great a drawing card as a feature picture.

"In starting a new year with Graham McNamee as its dramatic and forceful 'newscaster' the Universal Newsreel is entering what is expected to be a banner season. During recent months, the growth of the reel's popularity had speeded up greatly. This is evidenced by the hundreds of exhibitors who are signing up for the reel—new customers, impressed by the coverage and audience values of the Universal Newsreel."

"Yes sir," said Mr. McNamee, "I've renewed my contract with Universal for another year, and it gives me great pleasure to announce it. It's an up-and-coming newsreel and from what I know of Universal's plans for the coming year, plenty of newsreel history's going to be made during the next twelve months. Describing news events for the screen is vastly different from ordinary broadcasting. There is a definite technique. A newsreel can be dull or it can be interesting and exciting, depending upon the way the pictures are covered,edited and explained. I'm glad I'm associated with Allyn Butterfield, its Editor. Exhibitors can tell their patrons that I'll give it everything I have during the coming year."

Graham McNamee is one of the highest paid stars in the motion picture industry. He brought to Universal Newsreel a reputation as the most popular announcer in the entire radio field, with his name a household word on two continents. The combination has been helpful in the extreme to both.

✚ ✚ ✚

CLAUDE RAINS MADE VISIBLE

(Continued from Page 12)

That all amuses Mr. Rains hugely. So do the movies, which he still manages to like.

Now that picture was real movies, something they could never have done any other way. Oh, I enjoyed making it, especially with James directing. We had such a lot of laughs. He always reminded me that I must do it all with my voice. More difficulty? Well, if I may say so, no, I didn't think it was. Pictures don't seem to demand as much of one as the stage. Of course, stage knowledge does help.

The principal thing I noticed during those weeks of seeing three pictures a day was, I think, the ease, the apparent lack of effort with which every one played scenes. That was very interesting."

Now that he's started, Mr. Rains is all set to make more pictures.

"I want to make all kinds, dramatic ones, thrillers, comedies. Yes, I'd like to do a comedy. I'd like to do Tolstoy's 'The Living Corpse,' too."

Universal has already asked him to make "The Man Who Reclaimed His Head" in April, probably with Lowell Sherman directing as well as playing what Mr. Rains is pleased to call the dirty dog. That, he says, is a poignant drama, and he wants to make a poignant drama as well as all the others. He'll be visible in his next film, which is a pleasant thought.

"I asked Henry Hennigson—yes, he's studio manager—if he minded whether I suggested a story now and then. He said, 'well, no, not if you don't mind when we turn them down.' Oh, I like Henry. Then he said, quite seriously. 'I hope you won't mind if we take up your option.' "

Mr. Rains thought once more of his artistic integrity and shouted again with wholehearted glee.

A sparkling picture —as gay and deliciously diverting as its own tangled love affairs!

With ELISSA LANDI
PAUL LUKAS
NILS ASTHER
Dorothy Revier, Esther Ralston, Melvyn Douglas, Frederic Burton, Lawrence Grant, Lois January. From the play by Siegfried Geyer.
Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr.
Directed by JAMES WHALE
BY CANDLE LIGHT

THE UNIVERSAL WEEKLY SHOWMANSHIP SECTION

A DIGEST OF THE BEST EXPLOITATION IDEAS OF THE WEEK

THOSE LIQUOR TIE-UPS

Turn The Tide To Advantage!

The repeal of prohibition in most cases will be the talk of the town for weeks to come. It will be inaugurated with merry-making and thanksgiving in many quarters.

Showmen should make plans to capitalize on the new trend immediately. No one can tell for sure, just what the result will be. Certainly it will not affect your matinee business. After carefully considering all angles it seems to us that it should BOOST your evening business!

The stay-at-home crowds will be inclined to leave the fire sides for more nights out. Supper at the hotel or at the restaurant will become a more frequent occurrence. But one cannot sup forever; nor drink forever.

It is our idea that the "stepping-out" crowds will go to the movies to start or to complete the well-rounded evening. That midnight shows will be better patronized due to more people "stepping out." That nothing can ever take the place of the movies as the grandest and best entertainment ever offered to man, woman and child.

We see the movies the gainer because of repeal. We see radio the loser. We see cooperative tie-ups offering themselves between the hotels and restaurants and the movies. For example: After a good dinner with excellent wine at the Ritz, be sure to see "By Candlelight" at the Rialto —a perfect finish for a glorious evening, etc.

We urge, however, careful discrimination in all "liquor" tie-ups. Keep them dignified and beyond criticism. Remember always, you must sell your show to the whole family—and to the wets and drys alike. And there are still some drys left.

Joe Weil

We Thank You

LOUISVILLE

For Your Generous Patronage and Ardent Appreciation of

"ONLY YESTERDAY"

Indisputably one of the greatest triumphs ever brought to the screen.

For your convenience the management urges you, if possible, to attend Matinee Performances and avoid evening congestion.

BROWN

Clever "appreciation" ad used by Jack Schwarz, manager Brown Theatre, Louisville, Ky., in "Only Yesterday" campaign.

Bollyhoo sound truck broadcast the title song between ad talks on the production as it travelled Indianapolis streets in Henry Burton's campaign for "ONLY YESTERDAY" at the Lyric Theatre.

"YESTERDAY" TIE-UP STILLS GET MANY INDIANAPOLIS WINDOWS

Henry Burton, manager of the Lyric Theatre, Indianapolis, used the set of accessory tie-up stills to good advantage in his campaign for "ONLY YESTERDAY." Burton mounted the stills on special art panels and placed them in a variety of store windows covering the important shopping streets.

Other stunts included the ballyhoo sound truck, illustrated at the left, which broadcast the song from the picture and ad messages on the attraction as it travelled around the city; one hundred auto bumper snipes on as many city taxi-cabs; invitations to 750 prominent club women; and special radio broadcasts.

Extra newspaper space, the distribution of roto heralds and window cards and wide posting completed the campaign. Duke Hickey, Universal exploiteer assisted.

BOSTON GIVES "YESTERDAY" BIG NEW ENGLAND SEND-OFF

Los Angeles Campaign Starts Hunt For Invisible Man

Goldstein Sells Drama And Bright New Star in Keith Theatre Campaign

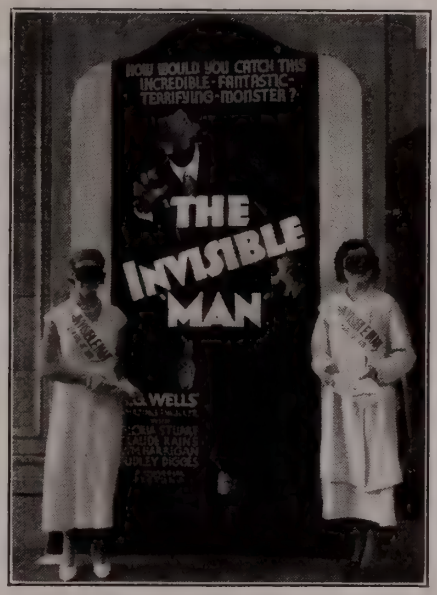
THE first things that struck hard-working Jack Goldstein, RKO New England publicity chief, when he previewed "ONLY YESTERDAY" was that he had one of the biggest pictures of the year and a beautiful new star to sell, in his campaign for the Keith Theatre, Boston. So great was his enthusiasm for picture and star he carried its infectiousness to the local dramatic editors who played up the picture and Margaret Sullavan with a super abundance of art and stories for several days in advance of the opening.

Goldstein concentrated on these angles in his ads also, space for which was jumped considerably.

The Lux soap tie-up was completed netting large newspaper ads and two hundred window displays. One of these displays and examples of other tie-ups secured for the campaign, are illustrated below.

Extensive billing was also given the picture, including 130 subway boards, fifty 24 sheets, one hundred 1 sheets, two hundred 3 sheets and five hundred window cards.

The campaign resulted in booming business for the Keith. Congrats, Jack!



Two of the masked girls who appeared on Los Angeles streets during the "INVISIBLE MAN" campaign staged by Dick Moss, manager, and Ken McCaffey, publicity manager, for the RKO Hill Street Theatre. The girls handed out heralds offering prizes for the best suggested method for capturing "The Invisible Man."

Gives Away Smokes To Steady Nerves for "The Invisible Man"

As an advance stunt for "The Invisible Man" Stan Meyers, manager of the Alhambra Theatre, Milwaukee, tied up with the local Walgren drug stores for the distribution of several thousand cigarettes attached, through slits, to cards. Copy on the cards read: SMOKE "WINGS" CIGARETTES TO STEADY YOUR NERVES FOR "THE INVISIBLE MAN" COMING TO THE ALHAMBRA THEATRE SOON!

L. A. Campaign Offers Fans Many Prizes for Way to Capture "Man"

INVITING Nick Harris, prominent criminologist, to a preview of "THE INVISIBLE MAN" proved very profitable to Dick Moss' and Ken McGaffey's campaign for the RKO Hill Street Theatre, Los Angeles. Harris was so enthused over the picture he wrote a special article on it for the Post-Record, offering cash prizes for readers solving his method of capturing the "Invisible Man." He also spoke about the picture on his radio program and broadcast the prize offer.

Utilizing this same idea from another angle, Moss and McGaffey had several masked girls on the streets handing out heralds announcing prizes for the best method suggested for the capture of the "Invisible Man." They also placed 250 window cards in the downtown area with copy offering ten thousand dollars reward for the capture, dead or alive, of "THE INVISIBLE MAN."

The lobby was decorated with black cut-out shadows underlined with "I'm the Invisible Man—Try and Catch Me!" Green lights replaced the usual bright ones, lending an eerie effect!

Extra newspaper space, daily broadcasts and wide spread billing of posters, completed this campaign for the year's greatest thrill picture.

One of the many window displays through tie-up with Lux soap. Center—Department store window featuring Jimmy Butler boys' clothing. Right—John Boles Shirt window. Note the use of stills, lobbies and accessory giant streamer, for decorations. Just a few of the many displays secured by Jack Goldstein for his "Only Yesterday" campaign for the Keith Theatre, Boston, Mass.

WHITAKER FINDS ACCESSORIES GREAT HELP IN "ONLY YESTERDAY" ATLANTA CAMPAIGN!

Practically all of the regular accessories and many of the national tie-ups were used as the backbone of manager E. E. Whitaker's campaign for "ONLY YESTERDAY" at the Fox Theatre, Atlanta, Ga.

The jumbo moviegrams were used as a lobby display with a special congratulatory wire from the mayor, which was also enlarged and placed in several downtown windows. Two hundred of the large window cards were placed in stores of the Rogers Grocery Company. Fifty tire covers were mounted on as many city taxi-cabs. Streamers and hangers were used in the front and marquee decorations.

Cut-outs from the six and twenty-four sheets were made into a big flash display erected in the centre of the downtown business section.

In order to get a smash flash over the entire city the usual posting was doubled and augmented by the use of large quantities of 11 x 14's, 22 x 28's, insert cards and both sizes of window cards.

The Lux soap tie-up ad appeared in the local papers and one hundred and fifty proofs of it were used in store windows with stills and a special tie-up card.

All of the accessory tie-up stills were used in securing displays in the best downtown stores.

The radio talk suggested in the press-book was broadcast on three nights preceding the opening.

The Atlanta Better Films Committee became so enthused over the picture at a preview they volunteered to put their best speakers to work on a telephone campaign.

Great work, Whitaker! A well rounded campaign! We'll look forward to hearing from you again.

Ferry boat ballyhoo truck equipped with sound, used by W. M. Griffin, manager of Gem Theatre, Cairo, Ill., for "Her First Mate" campaign.

GRIFFIN GRABS FAIR EXHIBIT FOR "FIRST MATE" BALLYHOO!

W. M. GRIFFIN, manager of the Gem Theatre, Cairo, Ill., made quite a scoop for his campaign on "Her First Mate" when he borrowed a Chicago World's Fair exhibit from the local American Legion post for a ballyhoo.

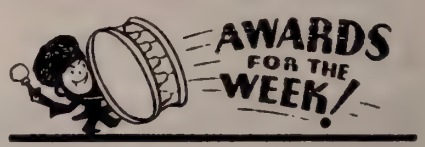
The exhibit was a good sized model of a ferry boat, a replica of one used until recently by the citizens of Cairo in travelling to Kentucky or Missouri towns, but taken out of service on completion of the new Missouri River bridge.

Realizing that the residents of Cairo still had memories of the days when they had to run to catch that ferry boat he left a dodger on their doorsteps with the morning milk reminding them that those worries were over for them but were just beginning for Slim Summerville and ZaSu Pitts in "Her First Mate." Later in the day Griffin sent the ferry boat model, mounted on a truck, around town. A phonograph with amplifiers was installed and old river tunes played between talks about the picture.

Griffin says he played to capacity business and that everyone was pleased with the picture.

LOS ANGELES S. E. P. BOYS PARADE TO THEATRE

Hundreds of Saturday Evening Post delivery boys paraded to the Paramount Theatre to see "Saturday's Millions" as the guests of the management.



Presenting four more winners of showmanship certificates:

WILLIAM SCOTT, manager Stanley Theatre, Pittsburgh, Pa., for his campaign on "ONLY YESTERDAY."

ROY ROWE, manager, Warner Theatre, Pittsburgh, Pa., for a splendid campaign on "INVISIBLE MAN."

JOE FELDMAN, Warner division publicity chief, for his part in the "ONLY YESTERDAY" and "INVISIBLE MAN" campaigns in Pittsburgh.

K. A. GRIMES, manager Warner Theatre, Morgantown, W. Va., for showmanship exploitation of "THE INVISIBLE MAN."

Congratulations, men! Your certificates are in the mail. Watch for them!

"PACKED WITH THRILLS" —Says Film Daily
S.O.S. ICEBERG

VARIETY OF SHOWMANSHIP ANGLES IN THESE ADS!

(1.) Double column x 6½" from Orpheum, San Francisco. (2.) Triple column x 7" from Paramount, Omaha, Neb. (3.) Double column x 6½" from Sierra, Sacramento, Cal. (4.) Double column x 8" from Rialto, Washington, D. C. (5.) Smash 3 column x 12" announcement from Music Box, Portland, Ore. (6.) Double column x 6" from Des Moines Theatre, Des Moines, Iowa. (7.) Double column x 5" from Branford, Newark, N. J. (8.) Double column x 5" from Roxie, Oakland, Cal.

This is a 3 - column ad mat reproduced from the campaign book. Get your copy of the book and learn of the wealth of ideas it gives you to put this picture over with a bang!

From

UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORP.

730 FIFTH AVENUE

NEW YORK CITY

LARRY EDMUNDS, INC.
CINEMA BOOKSHOP
HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.

Sec. 562, P. L. & R.
U. S. POSTAGE
Paid
Permit No. 949
New York, N. Y.

ROBERT B WENNER
22 CROSS ST
MALDEN MASS

UNIVERSAL NEWSREEL

• FIRST IN THE FIELD

Printed in U. S. A.

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
VOL. 34 NO. 1
DEC. 16, 1933

OK

FAY WRAY
in "Madame SPY"
UNIVERSAL

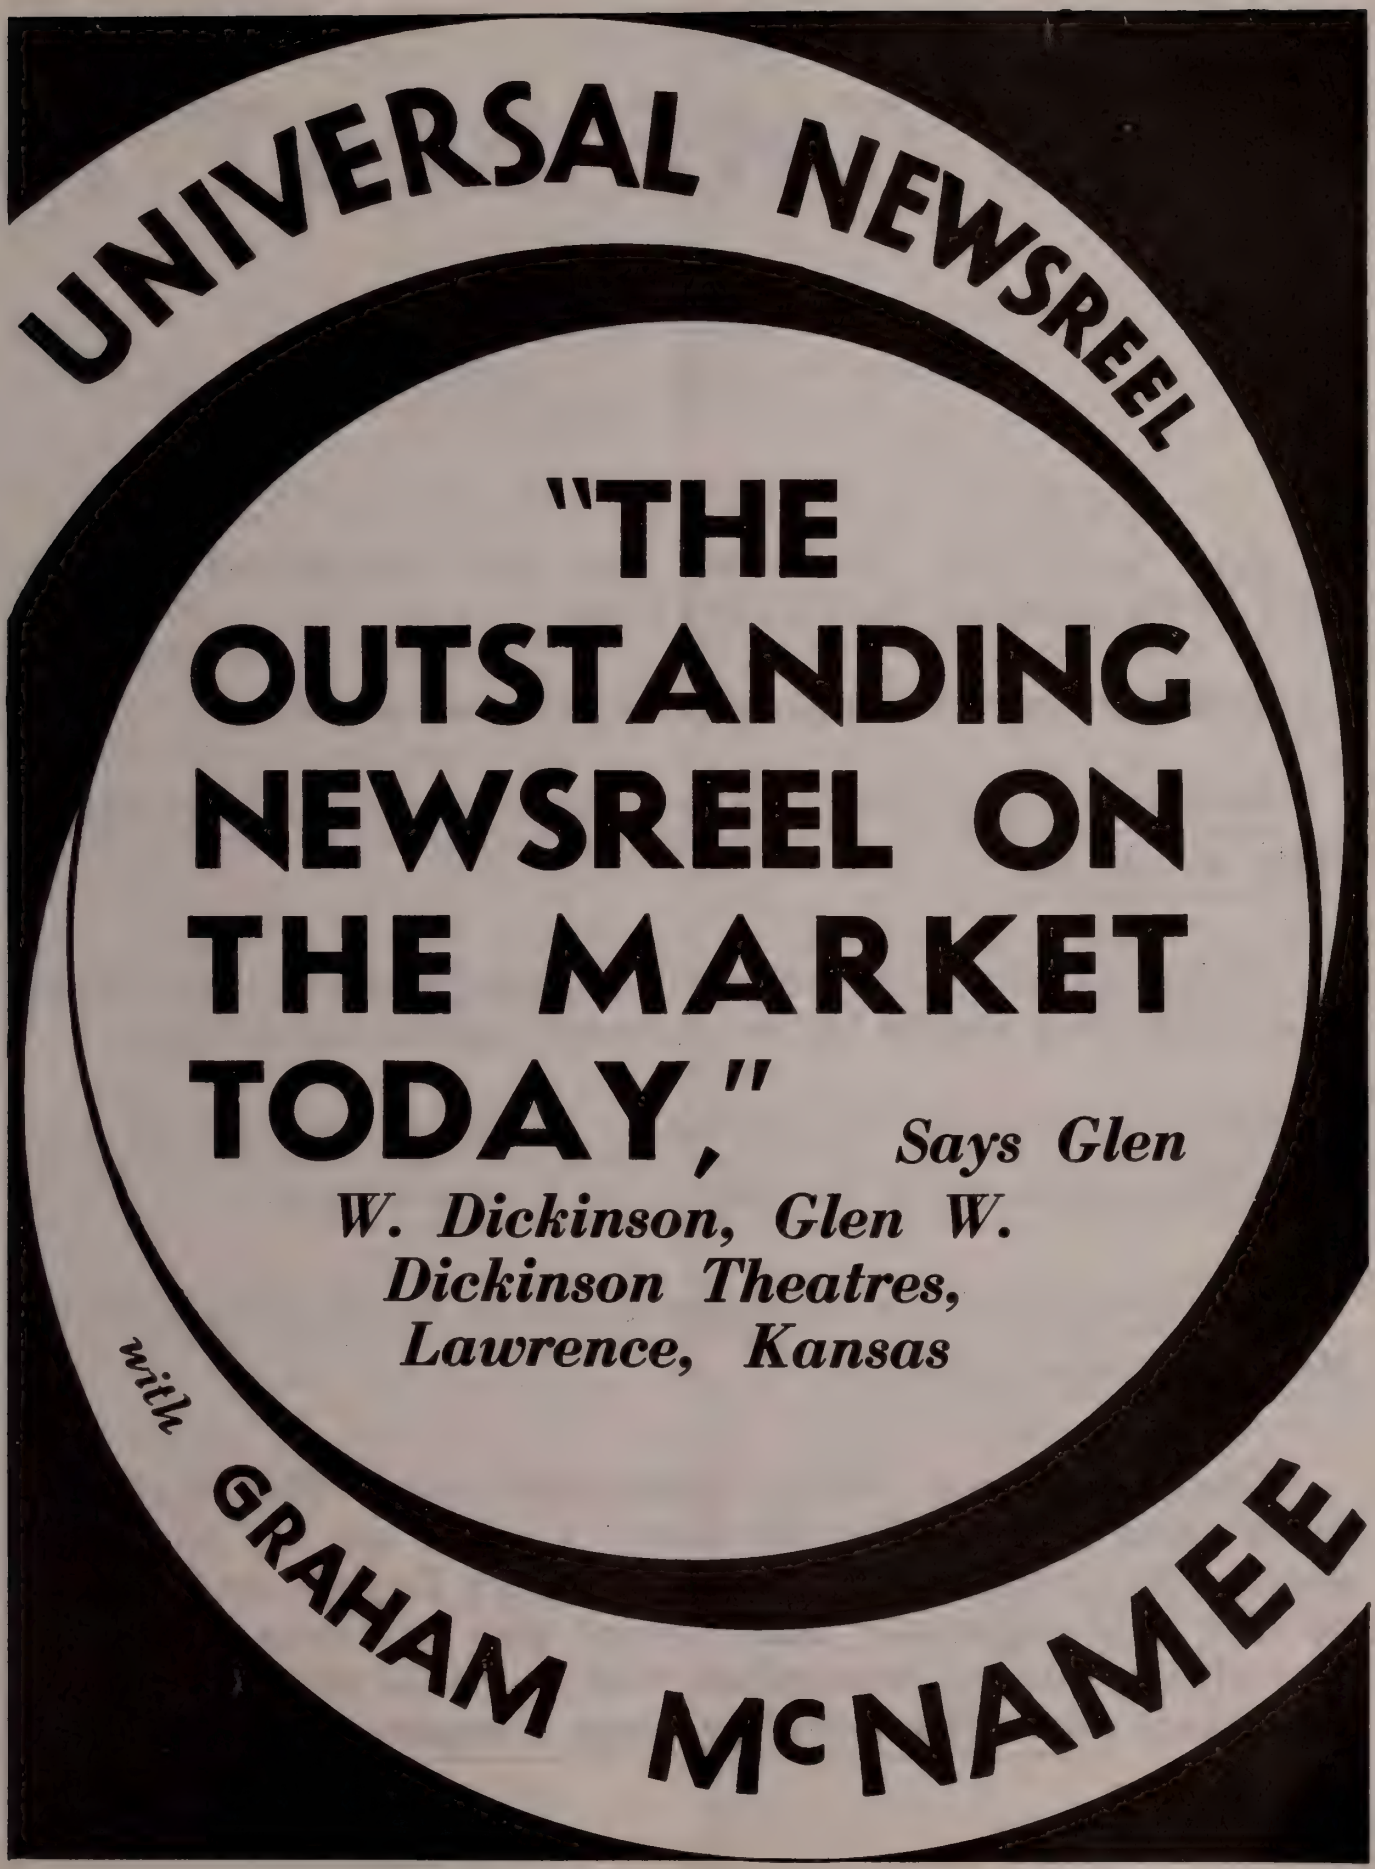
Coming! The Drama With a Kick!

ALL STAR CAST

From the Theatre Guild Play by Paul and Claire Sifton. Directed by Chester Erskin.

MIDNIGHT

With Sidney Fox, O. P. Heggie, Henry Hull, Lynn Overman, Humphrey Bogart, Kathrine Wilson, Margaret Wycherly, Helen Flint, Moffat Johnson, Richard Wharf, Cora Witherspoon, Granville Bates, Henry O'Neill.



UNIVERSAL NEWSREEL
"THE OUTSTANDING NEWSREEL ON THE MARKET TODAY," Says Glen W. Dickinson, Glen W. Dickinson Theatres, Lawrence, Kansas
with
GRAHAM McNAMEE

AND THE BEST IS

No. 752 Straight-from-the-Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation

As I write this, Universal has just completed exactly half of its product for 1933-1934.

Eighteen out of 36 promised pictures are done.

Eighteen out of the eighteen are better than I promised they would be.

Of the eighteen, three are more outstanding than I ever dreamed they would be in my most optimistic dreams.

On the average, no company produces three such exceptional pictures in the course of a whole year.

Yet Universal has completed them in its first half of its production schedule.

You now have "Only Yesterday" and "The Invisible Man" and "Counsellor At Law." I could go on and talk about "By Candlelight," "Cross Country Cruise" and others of our first eighteen, but I want you to concentrate on just three, and to remember that in these three we have delivered more than the average company releases in a whole year.

YET TO COME, SIR!

And the best is yet to come!

So far, Universal has beaten its best promises.

Now, I want you to remember that we are still going to deliver three properties which I am confident carry even better promise than even those magnificent specimens already completed.

You are still to get "Zest" and "Imitation of Life" and "Little Man, What Now?" — and if after all my years of experience I know anything at all about heart stories, I tell you there never have been three to beat this trio!

Never mind the rest of our 36. Take my word for it, they will be better than you thought you had contracted for.

But when it comes to "Only Yesterday" and "The Invisible Man" and "Counsellor At Law" and "Zest" and "Imitation of Life" and "Little Man, What Now?" — I tell you you are going to take off your hat to Universal as you never did in all your career for any picture producing company.

All you have to do is to step out with Universal!

Carl Laemmle

With ALICE WHITE, Alan Dinehart, Eugene Palette, Henry Armetta. Story by Stanley Ruh. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Presented by Carl Laemmle. ANOTHER clicker from UNIVERSAL
Lew
CROSS CO
KULZ

Get ready for the ride of your life . . . on a speeding bus packed with romance, laughs, thrills, action and drama!

AYRES in UNTRY CRUISE

WITH

JUNE KNIGHT

OSWALD
The Lucky Rabbit
Be sure to have Oswald on your holiday programs!

MISS 1934

Little Gwen Ray, who was chosen Universal's Miss 1934, after an interesting contest which was photographed for Universal Newspaper Newsreel.

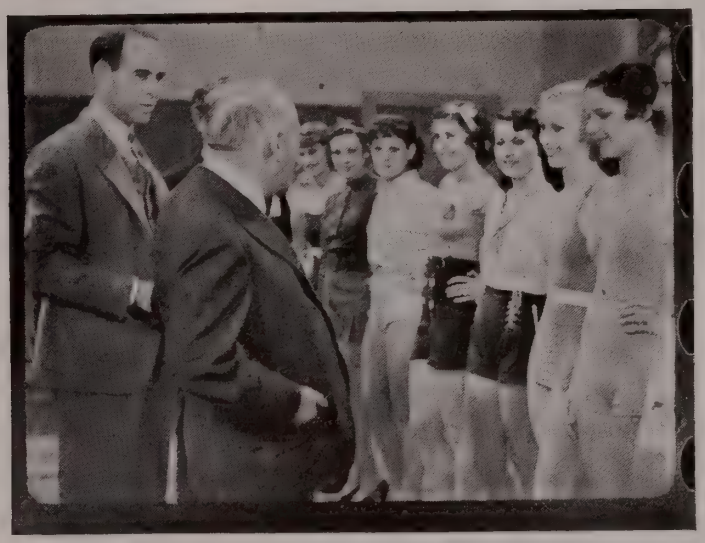
Universal's Miss 1934

GWEN RAY, sixteen year-old Los Angeles girl, has been awarded the title of "Universal's Miss 1934." She was personally selected by Carl Laemmle, Sr., from a group of more than 300 girls among whom were the cast of "I Like It That Way."

Miss Ray got her first chance on the screen in Stanley Bergerman's production, "I Like It That Way," which co-stars Gloria Stuart and Roger Pryor. In this picture she appears as a dancer, at which she is very adept, having danced since she was four years old.

"Universal's Miss 1934" is five feet four inches tall, weighs 112 pounds, has a fair complexion, blue eyes and reddish blonde hair. She lives at 1133 Arapahoe street, Los Angeles, where she attended Hoover street public school, and Junior and Los Angeles high schools.

From Universal Newsreel No. 204



This is an enlargement from the interesting clip in Newsreel No. 204 showing the judging by Carl Laemmle and Stanley Bergerman of three hundred girls to find Universal's Miss 1934. A number of these girls were in the chorus of Stanley Bergerman's picture, "I Like It That Way." The one who eventually was chosen the winner Gwen Ray, was one of these. She has been given a contract by Universal.

Joe Weil And Andy Sharick Promoted By Universal

CARL LAEMMLE has announced the appointment of Joe Weil as Assistant to the President. He will take up his new duties on January 1.

For the last eight years Mr. Weil has been Exploitation Director of Universal Pictures. He has also combined with these duties the individual exploitation of the several houses which Universal operates, like the Rialto in Washington and for two years was Director of Exploitation and Advertising of the Universal Chain Theatres.

At the same time, Carl Laemmle announced the appointment of Andrew H. Sharick as Exploitation Director, Mr. Sharick was formerly one of Universal's exploitation men in the field, covering Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati and points in the middle west. Last year, however, he was brought to the Home Office and made sales contact liason officer between the Sales Department and the studio. One of his duties in this position was to edit The New Deal.

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magaine for Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick, Editor
Published Weekly by the Motion Picture Weekly Publishing Co.
730 Fifth Avenue, New York City
Copyrighted 1933
Universal Pictures Corp.
(All Rights Reserved)
DECEMBER 16, 1933
Vol 34 No. 1

NRA MEMBER U.S. WE DO OUR PART

UNIVERSAL IS OUT IN FRONT!
DATE NOW
FOR BIG PROFITS!
•
Carl Laemmle
ANNIVERSARY
JUBILEE
Jan. 6—March 10

LATEST PRODUCTION N

Chester Morris, star of "King For A Night," which is having a splendid run at the Mayfair in New York. Chester Morris' work in this production has earned him a new contract with Universal. He will be starred in four more pictures.

Universal Buys "Elizabeth and Mary"

NINETEEN hundred and thirty-four is bound to be a year of queens. Universal stepped into the king row yesterday with two of them. Carl Laemmle, Jr. announced the purchase of Adrian Johnson's epic story of queens entitled "Elizabeth and Mary." It is Carl Laemmle's intention to make a dramatic costume picture of tremendous proportions of this story and he has already assigned Lowell Sherman to direct it and to play the role of Black Douglas. Mr. Laemmle is also planning to make the picture in New York if proper studio arrangements can be made. The present plan is to include a number of well known stage names in the cast. Production in any event will start before February 1, on this picture.

Carl Laemmle, Jr. for a long time has had in mind the ambition to produce a costume picture on this dramatic and historic subject. He thinks that the opportune moment has now arrived. Several plays and pictures have unexpectedly and surprisingly overthrown the prejudice of audiences against costume and period pictures. The success of "The Private Life of King Henry VIII" and "Mary of Scotland" have revealed a hunger for the type of picture which Carl Laemmle, Jr. has in mind to make. He will lose no time and spare no expense in preparing "Elizabeth and Mary" as the climax to this cycle of royal caprice.

✚ ✚ ✚

John Stahl Coming Here For "Imitation of Life"

IN preparation for several roles in Fannie Hurst's "Imitation of Life," John M. Stahl started from Universal City for New York yesterday. On his last trip he discovered Margaret Sullavan. On this one he intends to find a very light complexioned negro girl in New York to play the role of Peola. It is possible also that he will find here Peola's mother, Delilah. No casting has yet been made for "Imitation of Life."

Mr. Stahl will also consult with Fannie Hurst on the story structure which has been built by Arthur Richman. He will also bring with him the script by Preston Sturges.

Paul Lukas Arrives

PAUL LUKAS, who has been enjoying a four weeks' vacations for the first time in six years, arrived from London on the Ile de France. He will go immediately to Hollywood to spend the Christmas holidays. His next production for Universal will be "The Golden Fleece" by L. G. Blochman. It will be made under the guiding hand of Tom Reed, associate producer, who has not announced a director for it as yet.

✚ ✚ ✚

"Honor of the West"

STARTING on Friday, the only company turning a camera crank in the big plant of Universal City became that of Ken Maynard. All the rest of the big sound stages are silent. On Friday he will start production on "Honor of the West" by Nate Gatzert. Direction will be by Allan James. Maynard has just completed "Wheels of Destiny."

Roger Pryor Cast in "If I Was Rich"

ROGER PRYOR was last week assigned by Carl Laemmle, Jr. to take a leading role in "If I Was Rich," the William Anthony McGuire play which the author will adapt to the screen. Pryor has just completed a in "I Like It That Way," Universal's latest musical production. He will begin work on "If I Was Rich" at Universal during the first week in January. He is also slated for "Interlude" by Octavus Roy Cohen.

✚ ✚ ✚

Cast in "The Countess"

GLORIA STUART will play the leading role in "The Countess of Monte Cristo," Carl Laemmle, Jr. announced last week. While this film is not essentially a musical production, it will give Miss Stuart a chance to sing again. Miss Stuart has recently completed singing roles opposite Roger Pryor in "I Like It That Way" and opposite John Boles in "Beloved." Kurt Neumann will direct "The Countess of Monte Cristo," which was authored by Walter Fleisch.

WS FROM UNIVERS

"The Best Is Yet To Com. Says Carl Laemmle, Jr

Boss of Universal Productions Looks Back at "Counsellor at Law," "Invisible Man" and "Only Yesterady" as Schedule Reaches Half-Way Mark and Ahead at "Zest," "Imitation of Life," "Little Man, What Now?"

DATE UNIVERSAL'S Big Hit Line-up! • Carl Laemmle ANNIVERSARY JUBILEE January 6 to March 10

The most beautiful still of the month. Roger Pryor and Gloria Stuart in "I Like It That Way."

UNIVERSAL this week completed its eighteenth production for the season. That is Universal's half-way mark. The company is selling thirty-six productions this year.

A half-way mark is a pretty good place to stop, look and listen. That is what Carl Laemmle, Jr is doing, and what he hears is very pleasant. Praises from all sides on "Counsellor at Law," "Invisible Man," "Only Yesterday," are of a sincerity to guarantee the success of any season. Three productions like this would make any list an outstanding one.

But Carl Laemmle, Jr. is looking into the future and in the second half of the year he sees the larger production effort and the more important pictures. With Fannie Hurst's "Imitation of Life." Charles G. Norris' "Zest," Hans Fallada's "Little Man, What Now?" Vicki Baum's "I Give My Love," Edna Ferber's "Glamour" all in the second half, no wonder Carl Laemmle, Jr. is saying "The best is yet to come."

One Production in Work

The actual shooting at the studio will be confined this week to one production, a Ken Maynard picture entitled "Honor of the West." It will get under way on Friday, but the cutting room is tremendously busy and the scenario department busier still on the eighteen properties schedule for the latter half of the year.

In the cutting room are "Cross Country Cruise" starring Lew Ayres, with June Knight, Alice White, Alan Dinehart and Minna Gombell; "Bombay Mail" starring Edmund Lowe with Shirley Grey, Ralph Forbes, Onslow Stevens and Hedda Hopper; "Two Clucks" with Slim Summerville and ZaSu Pitts and "The Poor Rich" with Edward Everett Horton and Edna May Oliver. It is the last of the eighteen.

In addition to the five productions for the latter part of the schedule referred to above, R. C. Sherriff is represented in the list by "A Trip to Mars." James Whale is now in England working with him on the continuity. Karloff will be starred. William Anthony McGuire has four pictures on the new list. One is "The Great Ziegfeld," for which he and Billie Burke have written an amazing story on the life of the great musical comedy producer; the second is "The Love Life of a Crooner," designed as a feature vehicle for Russ Columbo and June Knight; the third is "If I Was Rich" which, strange to relate, has appeared twice on Broadway as a play under two different names. It will feature Roger Pryor. The fourth is "When the Time Comes," which William Wyler will direct.

And These Winners

Among other productions are "American Scotland Yard" by Courtney Terrett, starring Edmund Lowe; "The Golden Fleece" by L. G. Blochman starring Paul Lukas; Gloria Stuart will be starred in "The Countess of Monte Cristo" by Walter Fleisch, to be directed by Kurt Neumann. "Mr. X" written by John Stahl will be directed by Ted Sloman.

With the latter half of the season merely a matter of selecting material, James R. Grainger, general manager of distribution for Universal, has been summoned by Carl Laemmle to Universal City to advise in laying out the program for the 1934-35 schedule.

(Continued on Page 28)

GENTLEMEN

with BEBE

DANIELS

DORIS KENYON

Onslow Stevens, Melvyn Douglas, Isabel Jewel, Thelma Todd, Mayo Methot. From the sensational stage success by ELMER RICE. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by WILLIAM WYLER. Presented by Carl Laemmle. Another big one from

UNIVERSAL

John

COUNSELL

OF THE PRESS,

I Thank You!

N. Y. Daily Mirror:

"A stunner ... Elmer Rice's recent Broadway hit has been made into a film drama of unusual strength and brilliance ... Barrymore does his greatest work as 'Counsellor at Law,' and Bebe Daniels is a delightful foil for him."

N. Y. American:

"Another hit for the Music Hall!... It comes to the screen a vivid, well-played piece, in which tense drama is punctuated by lines of laughter."

N. Y. Daily News:

(3 stars) "Elmer Rice's play faithfully filmed ... Barrymore performance convincing ... William Wyler, who directed, keeps the action moving spiritedly."

N. Y. Herald-Tribune:

"Barrymore is admirable in his role ... 'Counsellor at Law' is a striking, intelligent and invariable interesting motion picture—another in that series of superior works being presented at Radio City Music Hall."

N. Y. Times:

"Incisive and compelling ... moves along with lusty energy, the scenes being so complete that none of them seems a fraction of a minute too long ... Mr. Barrymore gives to it the vigor, imagination and authority one might expect."

N. Y. Journal:

"Elmer Rice's silver-tongued attorney is impersonated by John Barrymore, who has in the play a highly entertaining vehicle for his brilliant talents ... Smartly cast and directed ... moves fast and vigorously."

N. Y. World-Telegram:

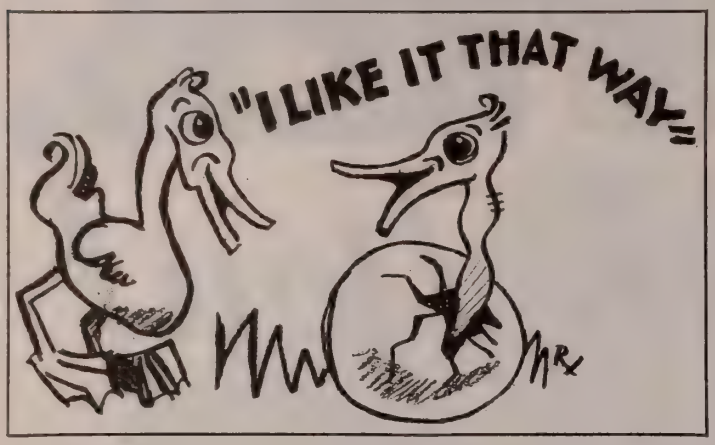
"Mr. Barrymore appears here in a part which falls so perfectly into line with his ability as a sterling actor that it might very well have been written for him originally."

N. Y. Sun:

" 'Counsellor at Law' the daddy of them all (Lawyers' films) ... Unquestionably the best written lawyer play of the modern era in this country."

Barrymore

OR AT LAW



"Compelling"

Says Mordaunt Hall in THE TIMES

JOHN BARRYMORE is to be seen in an incisive and compelling pictorial translation of Elmer Rice's play, "Counsellor at Law," which undoubtedly owes no small part of its strength to the fact that the screen script was written by the author himself. The film, which has succeeded "Little Women" at the Radio City Music Hall, moves along with lusty energy, the scenes being so complete that none of them seems a fraction of a minute too long. Parts of the stage work have perforce been omitted, but where this occurs Mr. Rice and the director, William Wyler, leave nothing in doubt.

Here one has the opportunity of studying the vicissitudes in the few days of the life of George Simon, a highly successful lawyer who has risen from the Ghetto. Virtually all that happens occurs in Simon's offices and for that reason the picture has something of the aspect of "Street Scene." Each episode has its quota of drama, but the actual story is never obscured.

Although one is not permitted to lose sight of the plot of the piece, the various doings in the lawyer's office serve to enhance the value of the production. There are the different characters involved, such as Simon's aged mother, his secretary who is evidently in love with her employer, his snobbish wife, who does not hesitate to encourage the advances of another man, the telephone operator with a childish voice who is constantly chatting over the wire, the politician who looks and speaks to the manner born, the grateful blonde who persists in embracing Simon, and several others.

The part of Simon, which was acted on the stage by Paul Muni, is, of course, played in the film by Mr. Barrymore, who gives to it the vigor, imagination and authority one might expect. The characterization is believable and thoroughly sympathetic. Simon is a lawyer who lives largely for his work, even though he is devoted to his faithless wife, whose children by a former husband hold themselves aloof from their mother's second husband. Mr. Barrymore makes the most of Simon's ability to think fast and of his blindness to the devotion of his secretary.

Bebe Daniels gives one of her best screen performances as the secretary. Doris Kenyon is attractive and convincing as Simon's wife. Melvyn Douglas appears to advantage as Roy Darwin, with whom Mrs. Simon is infatuated.

New York P

"Counsellor At Law" Makes Stirring, Suspenseful Movie

New York American

By REGINA CREWE

ANOTHER hit for the Music Hall in the well-wrought motion picture faithfully adapted from its parent play success. It comes to the screen a vivid, well-played piece, in which tense drama is punctuated by lines of laughter. It holds interest in all its moods and sweeps the audience along in sympathy, suffering or rejoicing with the low-born legal light risen to the summit of his profession, only to be dogged by the Nemesis of an early dereliction.

Law Office Resembels Grand Hotel

It would rob the story of suspense to delineate subsequent events. Suffice it to say that there are both tragic and comic moments prefacing the final denoument, and that, combined, they provide excellent entertainment. Not only is there fascination in the drama's principal protagonists, but interest in all the types that pass through the Grand Hotel-like corridors of the offices of "Simon and Tedesco." The ex-burglar, the Communist, the secretary, the politician, the old neighbor, the mother, even the office help, combine to make a vital, colorful panorama, throbbing with life, its triumphs, its defeats.

Perhaps there is a sign of the times audible in the applause that echoed through the marble halls of the Music Hall at the conclusion of the communistic denunciation of the hero as a "class traitor" during the film's first showing. Or perhaps it was just a well-won tribute to the histrionics of Vincent Sherman who makes a moment all his own, face to face and eye to eye with Barrymore, in a convincing thrilling scene.

Indeed, with the principals, there must be mention of the lesser players, at least those with lesser roles. And so a bow to Isobel Jewell, who's only lost laugh is in the deletion of a line; to Clara Langsner, the counsellor's mother; to Malka Kornstein, the friend from the old neighborhood; to T. H. Manning, Thelma Todd, John Whalen, Mayo Methot and the others who make the play so real.

Mr. Barrymore catches the spirit of the piece and the spirit of his character wonderfully well, and if, at times, he doesn't ring quite true as "George Simon" from the sidewalks of New York, it is only because we've seen Paul Muni in the role. Bebe Daniels gives a warm, sincere portrayal of the faithful, abused and adoring secretary, while Doris Kenyon is properly chilling as the whited sepulchre of a wife. By all means have your day in court with "Counsellor at Law."

ises "Counsellor At Law"

Barrymore Is Effective In Rice Film

World-Telegram

By WILLIAM BOEHNEL

THE motion-picture version of "Counsellor at Law"—Elmer Rice's shrewdly observant and entertaining comedy about a lawyer who is faced with disbarment because earlier in his career, by force of circumstances, he had faked an alibi to save a fourth offender from life imprisonment—is the week's invitation to you at the Radio City Music Hall. John Barrymore plays the role created on the stage by Paul Muni.

It may be visited without regret. Mr. Barrymore appears here in a part which falls so perfectly into line with his ability as a sterling actor that it might very well have been written for him originally, so naturally and completely does he characterize George Simon.

Rice's Uncommon Gift

This is the comedy, you will recall, which Mr. Rice unquestionably fashioned out of his own experiences in the legal field before he turned to playwrighting and producing. A sort of lawyer's office "Street Scene," it is full of his particular talents for character observation and portrayal reportorially in terms of the theatre, the contemporary scene and problems of the day.

Few playwrights have his uncommon gift for imitating what is most characteristic in language and portraiture of the types about whom he writes. The early scenes of "Counsellor at Law," which establish the atmosphere of the law firm of Simon & Tedesco, are genuine both as to characters depicted and language used.

Undercurrent of Tragedy

Although the play, and the film, which follows the original faithfully since Mr. Rice himself prepared it for the screen, is a first rate comedy, it has a serious undercurrent, as it is concerned with the personal tragedy of its self-made hero. However, the effect is primarily comedy because of the gallery of realistic characters shrewdly and satirically drawn.

Although the film moves swiftly and entertainingly, something more of the cinema might have been incorporated into it—particularly scenes which occur outside of Simon's office, which are only referred to in the film.

However, as a film "Counsellor at Law" seems to me to be effective entertainment of its kind, thanks to the magnificent performance contributed by John Barrymore and the good work of his supporting players, some of whom appeared in the New York and Chicago stage productions.

ELMER RICE'S PLAY FAITHFULLY FILMED

By KATE CAMERON in The Daily News

★ ★ ★

ELMER RICE has transcribed his own play, "Counsellor at Law," for the movies by keeping it as nearly like the original three-act play as it is possible for a movie to be. The life of the busy and brilliant lawyer who had risen from the depths of the lower East Side to a high position in his profession is told on the Music Hall screen in the bits of biography that come out during his interviews with his clients, in his conversations with his socially-minded wife, and his unpretentious mother, in his hurried talks with his partner and his faithful secretary, and in the amusing bits of gossip exchanged between his employees.

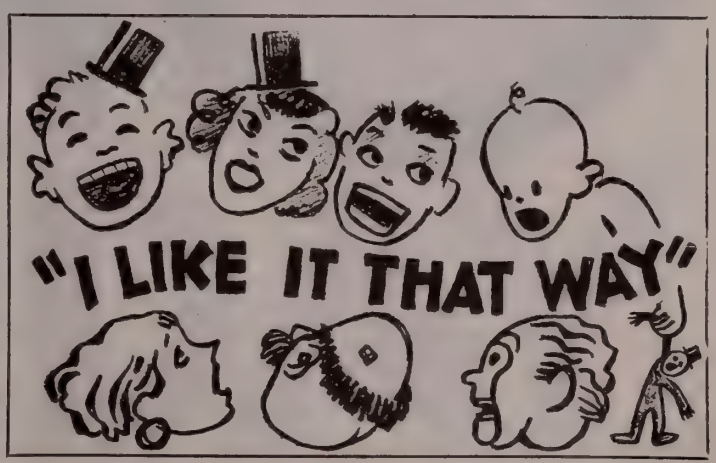
The drama of the piece revolves about the threatened disbarment proceedings, which a rival counsellor is instigating against him, and the abandonment in the midst of his trouble by his pretty and heartless wife, who'd grown weary of having his name linked with the most scandalous and most notorious cases of the day.

John Barrymore plays the George Simon of the Rice play with less zest on the screen than Paul Muni put into the same role when he played it on the stage in 1931 and 1932, but the Barrymore performance of the hard-working, harassed lawyer is as convincing a characterization as Muni's. Every gesture, every glance and every word uttered by Barrymore bears on the character he represents.

Bebe Daniels plays the loving watch-dog of a secretary artfully and Doris Kenyon is beautiful and right in her characterization of the selfish, superficial wife.

Malka Kornstein, Angela Jacobs, J. Hammond Dailey, Marvin Kline, John Qualen and Elmer Brown of the original stage production play the same roles in the movie.

William Wyler, who directed the picture for Universal, keeps the action moving spiritedly within the limited sets of the lawyer's offices and the corridor outside them.



WHEN THE BOX
THE WHOLE IND

— and right now the box-offices of the country are shouting that this picture is doing SMASH BUSINESS wherever it plays!

ONLY
YE

-OFFICE SPEAKS
USTRY LISTENS!

MARGARET SULLAVAN
JOHN BOLES

Billie Burke, Edna May Oliver, Reginald Denny, Benita Hume, Onslow Stevens, Jimmie Butler and many others. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Suggested by the book by Frederick Lewis Allen. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

JOHN M. STAHL'S
GREATEST PRODUCTION FOR UNIVERSAL

STERDAY

Perfection in Screen Entertainm

BY CAND

oduced by Carl Laemmle, Jr., om the stage success by Siegfried eyer. Presented by Carl Laemmle.
Directed by JAMES WHALE

—a new
ESTHER
ALSTON

—a new
NILS
ASTHER

—a new
DOROTHY REVIER

OPENING AT THE RO

ent!

LELIGHT

—a new
PAUL
LUKAS

—a new
ELISSA
LANDI

KY, NEW YORK, SOON

EDMUND
LOWE
in BOMBA

The most exciting, the most novel, the most colorful mystery drama of the season . . . a great screen story with its locale on a train speeding across India! Unusual characters, unusual backgrounds, unusual treatment,
AN UNUSUAL PICTURE!
Y MAIL

BOEHNEL INTERVIEWS JAMES WHALE

Motion picture critic of World Telegram says English director of "Invisible Man" has emerged as king of horror films though he much prefers to make pictures like "By Candlelight."

JAMES WHALE was passing through New York on his way to London. He had just completed "By Candlelight" and his picture, "The Invisible Man" had broken a three year's record at the Roxy. It is breaking records in lots of other places, too, and giving remarkable satisfaction to exhibitors everywhere. Mr. Whale, who first appeared in this country as the director of "Journey's End," seemed to be a fair mark for an interview by William Boehnel, motion picture critic of the World Telegram. A meeting was arranged.

Here is what Mr. Boehnel has to say in the December 9th issue of the World-Telegram about this remarkably successful moving picture director:

With the arrival at the original Roxy, recently, of "The Invisible Man," a number of us who have a weakness for the peacefully morbid Grand Guignol horror items the screen occasionally present suddenly realized two things—first, that it had been a long time between good eerie melodramas and, second, that suddenly one James Whale, English actor and director, had become the successor to the throne once held by Tod Browning as king of all the directors engaged in the pleasant pastime of causing the filmgoing teeth to chatter.

Personally, I find it difficult to understand this scanty supply of morbid melodrama in face of an unmistakable demand. The artless delight which audiences take in being terrified out of their senses by films like "The Invisible Man" and "Frankenstein" is rather fascinating to watch, and suggests that the reason for it might be due to childhood days and forbidden ghost stories. Since audiences like them and the rewards from good shockers are great, it is reasonable to expect more of them.

James Whale, director of seven Universal pictures, every one of which has been a success, and who is under contract to Universal for two more years. A James Whale Production is a guarantee of box-office success.

Methods Compared

But for the moment I am more interested in the methods employed by Mr. Browning and Mr. Whale. Both are experts in weaving abnormal psychology through the mazes of their frankly melodramatic plots, but they differ in one really interesting respect. Whereas Mr. Browning has almost a pathological horror of sunlight and exteriors in his films and confines himself to black cavernous interiors, hideous, menacing shadows and sideshow freaks, Mr. Whale actually comes out into the open and obtains his effects in broad daylight and brightly lighted rooms.

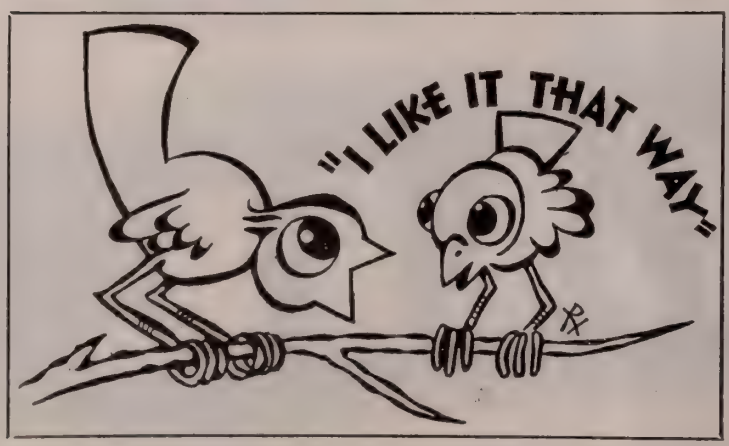
Except for that I can see no other difference in their methods. Both relish using hideously grotesque characters in their films, both are highly imaginative in the treatment of their themes and both employ idiosyncratic touches which a Freudian scholar might interpret as fetichisms.

Recently a reader in Maine complained that in my review of "The Invisible Man" I overlooked the really important factor in the film, which was H. G. Wells' story. So I was rather pleased to hear Mr. Whale, who directed the picture, say the other day before sailing for England that although he realized the effectiveness of Wells' story and had adhered carefully to it, he realized even more that an audience's interest would be in the so-called trick photography.

Prefers Doing Comedies

A tall, slight, gray-haired, youngish-looking man, Mr. Whale, who has to his credit as a director "Frankenstein," "The Old Dark House," and "The Invisible Man" for thrillers and "Waterloo Bridge" and "Journey's End" among the war films, admits that he dislikes making horror films because of the technical difficulties involved. He prefers to make light, sophisticated comedies like "By Candlelight," his latest film, which has not yet been released, and pictures about adolescent love or with characters that have some reason for doing what they do.

(Continued on Page 28)



BOOK UNIVERSAL'S PARADE OF HITS TODAY!
•
Carl Laemmle ANNIVERSARY JUBILEE
Jan. 6—March 10
21

More "Counsellor At Law" New York Reviews

"A STUNNER," Says Bland Johaneson in the Daily Mirror

Barrymore at Best in Film of Unusual Strength

ELMER RICE'S recent Broadway hit has been made into a film drama of unusual strength and brilliance. The scenarists have adapted it literally, confining the action to the law office of the leading character, a trick which tightens the drama and intensifies the excitement of the plot.

John Barrymore, who plays the self-made lawyer, never has given a more vivid and stirring performance. An excellent cast supports him. The principal players are Bebe Daniels, as his secretary; Doris Kenyon, as his wife; Onslow Stevens, Melvyn Douglas, Marvin Kline, Elmer Brown, Vincent Sherman.

The story describes a lawyer, who lifts himself above his East Side origin, and becomes a showy success. He marries a selfish and snobbish woman, never recognizing the substantial devotion given him by his efficient secretary.

His tender heart and his sharp legal practices expose him to the danger of disbarment. The wife deserts him when disgrace threatens. Acting on a shrewd hunch he procures evidence to frighten his most dangerous enemy. An exciting case revives his passion for his work and he recognizes the staunch loyalty of his secretary.

Dramatic, tender, humorous, the story shines with reality. The atmosphere is colorful and authentic. The situations are exciting. The characters are genuine.

Barrymore does his greatest work as "Counsellor at Law" and Bebe Daniels is a delightful and appealing foil for him. The film is exciting and impressive, a substantial and vastly entertaining character drama.

\+ \+ \+

"Smartly Cast and Directed," Says Rose Pelswick — Journal

ACTION of "Counsellor at Law" takes place entirely in the elegant law offices of George Simon. On the stage George Simon was portrayed by Paul Muni. On the screen of the Radio City Music Hall this week Elmer Rice's silver-tongued attorney is impersonated by John Barrymore, who has in the play a highly entertaining vehicle for his brilliant talents.

Like his "Street Scene," Mr. Rice's "Counsellor at Law" is a shrewdly contrived and detailed collection of incidents and minor characterizations that serve as a background for his principal actor. And here the principal is an audacious legal somersaulter, who plunges in and out of high-pressure cases with a fluent ease.

Fast Moving Film

The film moves fast and vigorously. The camera is taken back and forth across the spacious office set to show the switchboard operator sending out for a tonuge sandwich on rye and a chocolate malted; Simon's mother, who drops in to see her boy and tells him to stop eating so much candy; a lackadaisical stenographer who evokes laughs by merely sauntering in and out of the office; a junior clerk who tries to date up the boss's secretary; a bootblack; a Communist client and other bit players, all of whom contribute richly to the pattern of the whole. Barrymore gives an outstanding performance and Bebe Daniels is able as well as decorative in her role. The best of the supporting cast is Isabel Jewell, the telephone girl, who talks with such glib speed that one suspects she's been coached by Lee Tracy.

Fay Wray, the beautiful heroine of "Madame Spy."

VARIETY uses s

"A

WOW

at Proctor's, Newark"

The

INVISIB

trong language!

"Off to SOCK

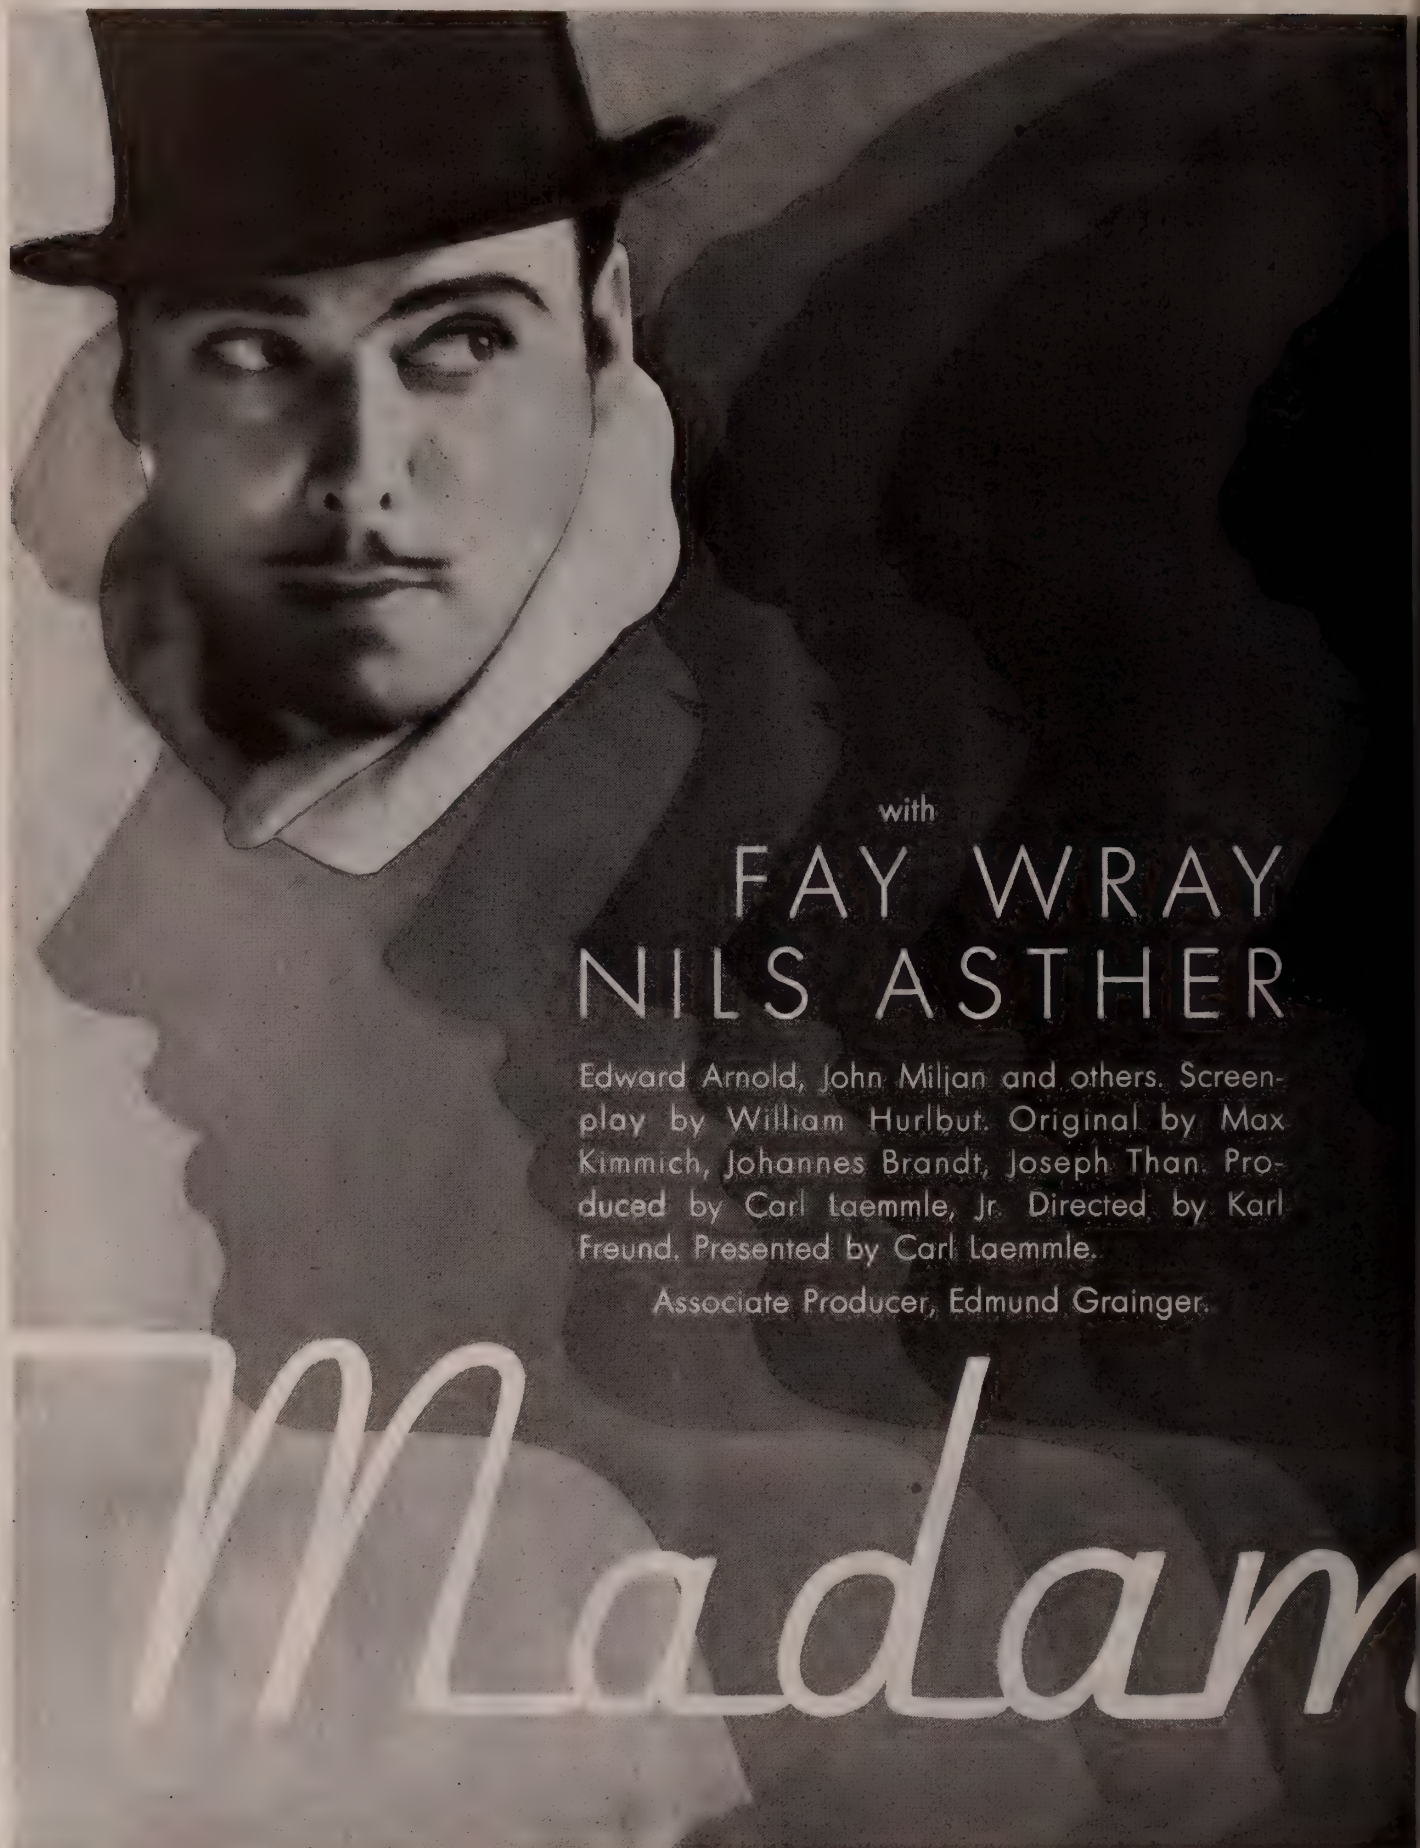
start at College, New Haven"

LE MAN



with
FAY WRAY
NILS ASTHER
Edward Arnold, John Miljan and others. Screen-play by William Hurlbut. Original by Max Kimmich, Johannes Brandt, Joseph Than. Pro-duced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by Karl Freund. Presented by Carl Laemmle.
Associate Producer, Edmund Grainger.
Madam

BEAUTIFUL —but dangerous!
ADORABLE
—but deceitful!
GLAMOROUS
—but treacherous!
—yet first and last of all—
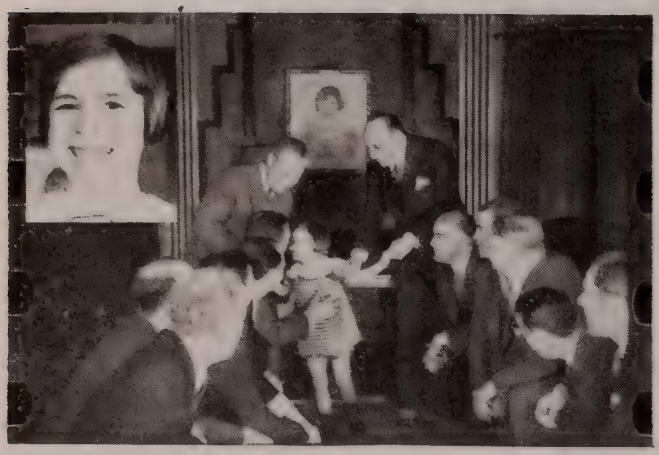
A WOMAN!
SPY

HERE'S WHAT THEY THINK ABOUT



Here is one of the high spots of Universal Newspaper Newsreel No. 204. The insert shows little Catherine "Variety" Sheridan, who was adopted by theatre managers in Pittsburgh after being abandoned in a movie theatre. She is celebrating her fifth birthday. Though she has a hundred "daddies," she is here shown kissing Johnny Harris, head of the Harris Amusement Corporation and founder of the Variety Club, which is educating this happy little orphan who was found in the Sheridan Theatre.

One Of The Finest

HORWITZ TEXAN THEATRES
Texan, Iris, Ritz

Houston, Texas
Dec. 2, 1933

Edw. S. Olsmith, Mgr.
Universal Pictures,
Dallas, Texas.

Dear Dutch:

Want to tell you how thoroughly I enjoyed "ONLY YESTERDAY," it certainly is a well-delivered sample of Universal's 1933 - 1934 product.

"ONLY YESTERDAY" is undoubtedly, and I'm really sincere when I say it, one of the finest and most perfect motion pictures I have ever seen.

.....Wishing you and Universal every success this good old world offers and which you justly deserve, I am

Just—

Mrs. "Bill" Horwitz

AND THE BEST

Best Picture of Month

EVERY month Photoplay Magazine lists the best pictures of the month. Among them in the January number the magazine lists "Only Yesterday." It also has one of the best performances of the month, Margaret Sullavan in "Only Yesterday." Here is Photoplay's review:

A real star blazes forth in the cinema heavens this time, and no mistake! After seeing this simple, but intensely moving play, you'll always have a place on your movie-going program whenever Margaret Sullavan is billed!

It's the simple story of how Margaret loves John Boles, not wisely, but too well—with the consequences to be expected when he goes to war without knowing what has happened. She won't tell—not even years later when their love is rekindled, in spite of his marriage—until she is dying. Then a letter reveals it, in time to give him new incentive for living after the stock market crash.

That's the story, but the exquisite work turned in by Margaret Sullavan, the superb feeling of John Stahl's direction, give it utter, compelling charm.

✚ ✚ ✚

A Honey of a Western

"The Strawberry Roan"
(Universal)

"THE STRAWBERRY ROAN" is a honey of a western. It can be unqualifiedly recommended as one of the most satisfying pictures of its kind to come along in a long time. For sheer thrill and pounding action it is unbeatable. Ken Maynard has never appeared to better advantage than he does in this one.

The plot concerns a group of cowhands who rustle their boss's horses and manage to escape punishment by spreading a story that a leader of a pack of wild horses, known as the Strawberry Roan, has been letting the animals free and driving them off to the hills. Ken, a new hand, suspects the foreman of the ranch is the head of the rustlers.

The roan is captured. A wealthy ranchman promises the one capable of riding it the gift of his property. The foreman, knowing that once the roan is penned up, the truth is certain to leak out, does all in his power to set the horse free. He fails and gets a terrific beating from Maynard, who succeeds in breaking in the animal, gets the reward and wins the daughter of his boss.

The fight between Maynard and the foreman, a struggle between two wild horses and a stampede of hundreds of animals are but a few of the exciting scenes in the film.

Ruth Hall plays opposite Maynard. Harold Goodwin, Charles King, William Desmond and James Marcus are others who do capably. Then, of course, there is Tarzan, who is rather important to the plot.

Kann—Motion Picture Daily

UNIVERSAL PICTURES NOW PLAYING

IS YET TO COME

Praises "Perils of Pauline"

ENTHUSIASTIC endorsement of "The Perils of Pauline," Universal's first serial on the new release schedule, has come from the Motion Picture Bureau of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae. Writing in the weekly report of this bureau, Mary Harden Looram has this to say:

"The new edition of 'The Perils of Pauline' is a definite improvement on that popular thriller of the old silent days. Universal has recreated and re-vitalized from the dim memories of the Pauline of twenty years ago, a modern feature-class serial with its gripping, breathtaking thrills taking place in strange, colorful and varied backgrounds. The hazardous stunts which Evalyn Knapp is called upon to go through in the 'Perils of Pauline' make the dangers which Pearl White faced in the old days pale into insignificance. Robert Allen plays opposite her, in the role of Robert Wart, young scientist who casts his fortunes with Pauline and her father, Dr. Hargrave, in their perilous search for the precious half-discs whose secret will enable them to control the universe.

✚ ✚ ✚

Secret of the Blue Room

Lionel Atwill, Paul Lukas—Interest sustained to very end. The best murder mystery we have shown and we have played them all. Average business, but this will justify extra billing. Gloria Stuart's vocal solo, beautifully and artistically rendered. Did much to balance the production. Played Nov. 10-11. M. R. Williams, Texon Theatre, Texon, Texas. Ranch and oil field patronage.

(Motion Picture Herald)

One of the impressive shots from Newsreel No. 203. It shows the Macy's Thanksgiving Parade down Broadway opposite the Trans-Lux Theatre. This parade, with its huge helion filled balloon monstrosities is one of the fixtures of New York's Thanksgiving Day.

First Family of the land has one of the happiest of the country's Thanksgiving Day feasts. The President is shown carving the turkey in his Warm Springs home for a number of children very grateful for this opportunity of sharing the President's turkey. This shot is also from Universal Newspaper Newsreel No. 203

"Only Yesterday" Thing Apart

THIS is the opinion expressed to Fred S. Meyer of the M. P. Theatre owners. of Wisconsin by Mrs. R. W. Ballentine of the Better Films Committee of the Parent-Teachers Association of Milwaukee. Mrs. Ballentine saw the picture at the Alhambra.

"I have seen 'ONLY YESTERDAY' and I can only say that I think you were more than conservative in your opinion of it expressed before our meeting. To me it is in the class we call a 'thing apart,' and the only word I can think of to half describe it is 'exquisite.' I hope the Producer will give us more like the sample, in large doses. And the fact that such a picture can compete with some of the trash we have had, to the extent of running a second week at the same theatre in Milwaukee, is to say the least encouraging, for the future of good pictures.

Very truly yours,

MRS. R. W. BALLANTINE

✚ ✚ ✚

Should Make Big Hit

HESTER MORRIS as Kid Gloves, minister's son, turns prize-fighter. You become more and more fond of this likable, cocky youngster as the film unreels. Helen Twelvetrees, Kid's sister, considers him above all else, and he reciprocates her affection. This picture should make a big hit with fight fans. Chester and Grant Mitchell turn in grand performances.

—Photoplay

"ONLY YESTERDAY" FIRST MILWAUKEE SOCIETY PREMIERE

Stan Meyers' attractive lobby panel for "Only Yesterday" at the Alhambra Theatre, Milwaukee. Copy page of "book" carries the personal endorsement of the picture by Fred Meyer, general manager.

Giving Milwaukee its first society premiere was the outstanding stunt in Stan Meyers' campaign for "ONLY YESTERDAY" at the Alhambra Theatre.

Two week's advance showing of special trailers and two elaborate lobby displays featured the advance. For the opening Meyers mounted the title on the marquee in giant cut-out letters illuminated by flood lights. Other floods were used to light up the entire front of the theatre. A flash front display was secured through the use of silver framed panels set against a background of purple velour.

Completion of the Lux soap-tie-up netted the engagement an extra newspaper ad and several store window displays. One hundred taxi-cabs carried tire covers advertising the picture.

The Alhambra engagement was one of the many hold-overs for this picture.

Meyers' smash three column by seven inch hold-over ad.

A TRIBUTE TO "ONLY YESTERDAY" FROM A REAL SHOWMAN!

John Balaban, head of the Balaban and Katz theatres was so enthused over "ONLY YESTERDAY" he wrote a personal tribute to the picture which was reproduced in a trailer. This special trailer was run, in addition to the regular one, in every one of Balaban and Katz theatres in the city of Chicago as a boost for the engagement of the picture at McVickers Theatre. Here's the tribute:

A PERSONAL MESSAGE
from
JOHN BALABAN

Something extraordinary happened the other day in our "screening room," "ONLY YESTERDAY" was being shown to our reviewing board of 32 "hardboiled" men and women.

We hadn't gone beyond the first reel when we all realized that here was the SURPRISE PICTURE OF THE YEAR, and that a NEW STAR was being born.

As the picture unfolded our interest increased. Now and then there were sighs and sobs, chuckles and laughs. When it was over and the lights turned on, tears dimmed the eyes of every man and woman there.

WE HAD SEEN A GREAT PICTURE AND A GREAT STAR!

We had all lived the experiences of a girl who changed her whole existence by one night of love, and spent the rest of her life loving a man who didn't even remember her name.

MARGARET SULLAVAN makes her screen bow in this picture. She's a brilliant actress. She has charm, beauty, depth and understanding.

We agreed at once, as you will, when you see her, that here is an emotional star who belongs among the screen's truly great, with Garbo, Hepburn, Shearer, Joan Crawford and Helen Hayes.

It is a privilege and a pleasure to present "ONLY YESTERDAY." It opens at the McVICKERS Theatre soon. By all means see it!

JOHN BALABAN

1300 KIDDIES RESPOND TO SPENCER'S "GORDON OF GHOST CITY" CAMPAIGN

Perry Spencer, manager of the Colonial Theatre, Hagerstown, Md., went after his opening chapter of "GORDON OF GHOST CITY" with everything he had. 1300 boys and girls crowded into the theatre for the opening.

Using the radio, newspapers and heralds at the schools, several days in advance he announced the formation of the BUCK JONES GORDON OF GHOST CITY CLUB, and was swamped with applications for membership.

A large parade, headed by the local Moose band, and with several of the boys and girls carrying banners, started both the club and the chapter play off with a bang. In order to insure a big line-up for the parade, Spencer announced that he would give one of the BUCK JONES accessory masks to every one on line.

Tie-ups with a local bottling plant and a candy company, provided soda and candy for all the kids attending the show.

Spencer used extra posters and newspaper space to boost the opening chapter. He also devoted a part of his front display to the serial using poster cut-outs and lobby photos for the decorations. Atop the marquee he mounted a large cut-out head of Buck Jones.

"This is certainly a wonderful picture. You have got to see it to appreciate the bigness of it."
—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich., in Motion Picture Herald
S.O.S. ICEBERG

THE PICK OF THE WEEK IN SMART ADS!

(1.) Double column x 11" from the Music Box, Seattle, Wash. (2.) Review excerpt played up in 3 column x 6½" from Orpheum, Salt Lake City. (3.) Double column x 7½" from Sierra, Saçramento, Cal. (4.) Single column x 6" teaser ad from Missouri Theatre, St. Louis, M. (5.) Single column x 5" from Pantages, Los Angeles. (6.) A nice flash in 3 columns x 10" from Minnesota Theatre, Minneapolis, Minn. (7.) Double column x 7" from Rivoli, Toledo, O (8.) Two single column x 1½" teasers from Apollo, Indianapolis, Ind.

Get ready for

JOHN BOLES and GLORIA STUART

in the picture which Daily Variety says is "a running mate for 'Only Yesterday!'"

A B. F. Zeidman Production
Directed by VICTOR SCHERTZINGER
Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr.

beloved

From

UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORP.

730 FIFTH AVENUE

NEW YORK CITY

LARRY EDMUNDS, INC.
CINEMA BOOKSHOP
HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.

ROBERT B WENNER
22 CROSS ST
MALDEN MASS

Sec. 562, P. L. & R.
U. S. POSTAGE
Paid
Permit No. 949
New York, N. Y.

UNIVERSAL

is proud to announce

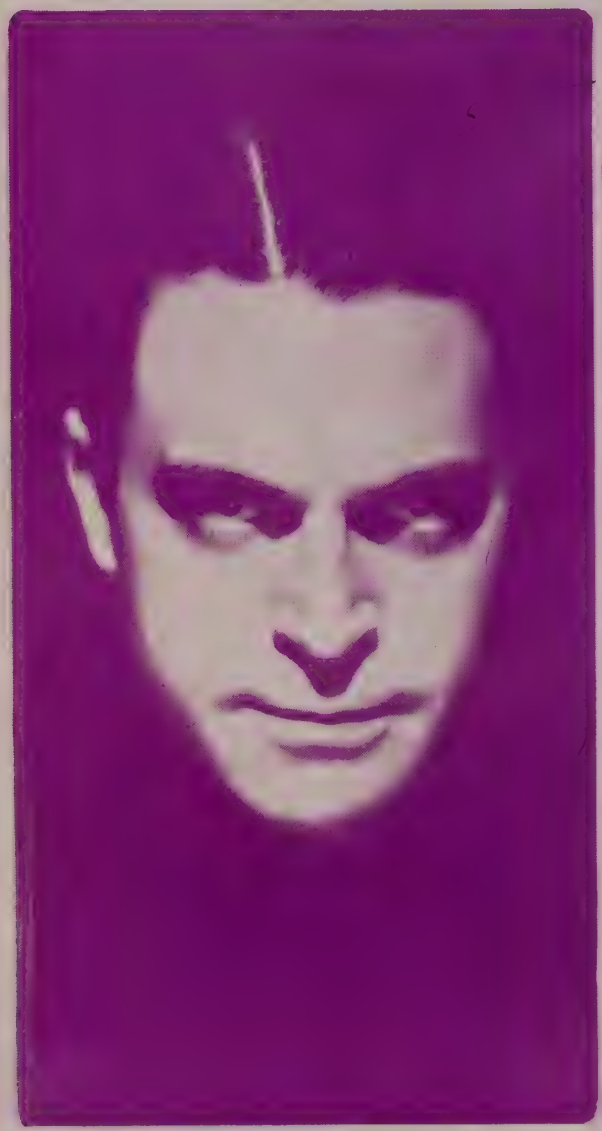
CHESTER MORRIS

as a Universal

STAR

under a new long term contract . . .

—Carl Laemmle



JUST COMPLETED

"KING FOR A NIGHT"

Printed in U. S. A.

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY

VOL. 34 NO. 3 DEC. 30, 1933

Carl Laemmle

ANNIVERSARY JUBILEE

JAN. 6 — MAR. 10

TWO WOMEN

—and many men!

At midnight one woman was destined to die!

At midnight another woman was destined to kill!

What a strange premise for a movie!—Yet its working out brings you one of the most absorbing and worth-while dramas in months!

FROM THE THEATRE GUILD PLAY by Paul and Claire Sifton. With SIDNEY FOX, O. P. Heggie, Henry Hull, Lynn Overman, Humphrey Bogart, Kathrine Wilson, Margaret Wycherly and many others. Directed by Chester Erskin. Produced by All Star Productions, Inc. Presented by Carl Laemmle. A UNIVERSAL PICTURE.

MIDNIGHT

(NOTE: This is an enlargement of the 3 column ad mat. See your campaign book)

WHY YOU ARE CELEBRATING CARL LAEMMLE'S JUBILEE

THE celebration of a Carl Laemmle Anniversary is a custom in this business which combines business and pleasure. There is sentiment in the motion picture trade as well as on the screen. Sentiment has been a part of Carl Laemmle's life. Sentiment has been extended to him on the part of his competitors and on the part of his customers on numberless occasions.

But when sentiment can be enjoyed (for it usually is a luxury) and profit as well, that is an ideal combination. Yet that is the situation that confronts exhibitors this year as they are invited by Universal salesmen to help them celebrate the Carl Laemmle Anniversary Jubilee, commencing January 6th.

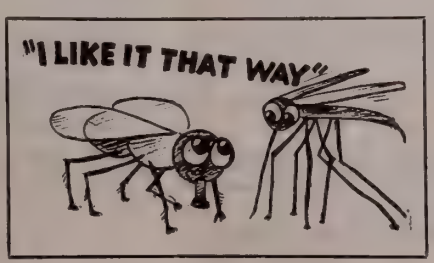
BOOK "U" BIG HITS TODAY

•

Carl Laemmle ANNIVERSARY JUBILEE Jan. 6—Mar. 10

Never before has Universal Pictures in the short part of the year had three such winners and money-makers on the market as "Only Yesterday," "Invisible Man" and "Counsellor at Law." Companies are proud of one outstanding feature in a season. Universal has triplets in half a season —and the best is yet to come.

"By Candlelight" has not as yet been played and that is a picture for the Gods. James Whale has never fallen down on a picture yet and he thinks "By Candlelight" is better than "Invisible Man." Then there are the January and February releases, "Bombay Mail" with Edmund Lowe, "Madame Spy" with Fay Wray and Nils Asther, "Cross Country Cruise" with Lew Ayres, June Knight, Alan Dinehart and Alice White, "Midnight" with O. P. Heggie, Sidney Fox, Humphrey Bogart, Henry Hull and Lynn Overman, "Beloved" with John Boles and Gloria Stuart, "I Like It That Way" with Roger Pryor, Gloria Stuart and Marion Marsh and "The Poor Rich" with Edna May Oliver and Edward Everett Horton. What a list!



But even more important—Think of what is still to go into production. "Little Man, What Now?" with Margaret Sullavan and Lew Ayres to be directed by Frank Borzage. What a combination; what a book. If you haven't read it buy a copy and see what Simon & Schuster have given to this country's reading public. It has already gone through seven printings.

Fannie Hurst's "Imitation of Life" is another best seller from the pen of the author of "Back Street." John M. Stahl is in New York right now selecting a cast which will be as distinguished and as capable as that of "Only Yesterday."

Charles G. Norris is represented by "Zest." Big plans await this distinguished novel, the successor of "Seed." Lowell Sherman is slated to direct. Three great novels. Three great authors. Three great directors.

So when exhibitors are asked to join in a tribute to a man who has the Universal reputation of being the friend of the Exhibitor, he can join in that tribute without any thought that it will cost him money. On the other hand he will be booking the greatest line of pictures Universal ever made.

In all the years that Carl Laemmle has been in business he has been writing Straight from the Shoulder Talks. This is one time that he could not very well do that. So R. H. Cochrane has written the Straight from the Shoulder Talk in this Anniversary issue. Mr. Cochrane, Vice-President of Universal has been associated with Mr. Laemmle even longer than Mr. Laemmle has been associated with the Motion Picture business. So this talk comes as straight from the shoulder and the heart as do the talks of the chief. For no one can be associated with Carl Laemmle even for a short time without loving, admiring and respecting him.

A MESSAGE WHICH CARL

I've read so darned many straight from the shoulder talks by Carl Laemmle over a period of more than a quarter of a century that I feel the urge to write one myself.

The occasion happens to be the 28th anniversary of Mr. Laemmle in the motion picture business.

He can't very well write about it himself and ask you to help celebrate the occasion because it would hardly be kosher as far as good taste is concerned.

So I have asked him to rest for a week and let me do the writing.

And my message is quite simple:

For 28 years, and most of them tough ones, Mr. Laemmle has gone through hell and high water to keep you and himself alive and breathing.

I have seen him risk his whole personal fortune time after time to keep you supplied with product — to keep your theatres going on a profitable basis.

The world will never know, unless I have the time to write it myself, how often he has gambled for your welfare —gambled everything he possessed and gambled it with a grin and a twinkle of the eye.

LAEMMLE DID NOT WRITE

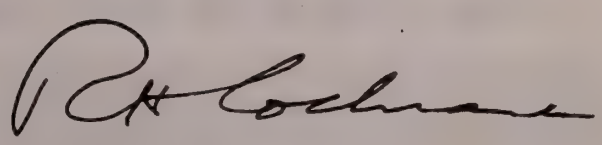
He's a queer cuss. For more than a quarter of a century he has been obsessed with the idea that the only way he could do something for himself was to do something for the exhibitor, especially the smaller exhibitor who had to shift for himself.

As a result, strange as it seems, Mr. Laemmle is not a rich man as far as this world's goods are concerned. He has more of responsibilities than he has of riches. He has always tried to put himself in your place, which is another way of saying he has sort of played up to the golden rule.

Now comes an opportunity for everybody who feels like it to celebrate his 28 years of decent dealing.

The most important reason for doing this is that the Universal product is so much better than ever that it will pay you to use it up to the hilt. The secondary reason is that it gives you, if you want it, a chance to show your sentiment toward Mr. Laemmle in return for his fine attitude toward you.

Tell the Universal salesman how you feel about it.



"'By Candlelight' is ace entertainment for adult audiences anywhere, and should bring in all the handy box-office money wherever it plays."

— Daily Variety.

ELISSA LANDI
PAUL LUKAS
NILS ASTHER

Dorothy Revier
Esther Ralston

BY CANDLELIGHT

Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr., from the stage success by Siegfried Geyer. Presented by Carl Laemmle. Directed by James Whale.

EDITORIAL NEWS AND COMMENT

Tonight, December 30th, Carl Laemmle will be the featured attraction on the RKO Hour, 11:30 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, over a national hook-up on the Columbia network. Listen in.

●

Carl Laemmle, Jr. Will Vacation in Europe

TWO weeks from today, Carl Laemmle, Jr. intends to sail from New York for Europe for a long-deferred vacation. He will, however, take the opportunity of making a survey of European studios, particularly in London and Paris, with a view to deciding definitely on the participation of Universal in productions in Europe. Already a number of projects initiated by Carl Laemmle on his last trip are ready for consummation.

This combination business and vacation trip on the part of Carl Laemmle, Jr. is made possible by the fact that nineteen productions are already in the exchanges and that nine more are virtually ready for production in January and will be all ready before Carl Laemmle, Jr. leaves. Before he goes, too, the balance of the thirty-six to be completed by July will have been chosen. Carl Laemmle, Carl Laemmle, Jr. and James R. Grainger are in daily conference upon the balance of this year's program and the plans for the next one, including in their consultations Henry Henigson, Frank Mastroly and Dale Van Every.

✚ ✚ ✚

"MADAME SPY" IN PUBLIC EYE

WITH public attention now focused upon the sensational disclosures of a huge spy ring in Paris, the release on January 8th of Universal's "Madame Spy" will come at the psychological moment. How spies operate and the fates which some of them meet is vividly pictured in this film.

Fay Wray and Nils Asther are the principals in a highly competent cast, which also includes Noah Beery, John Miljan, Edward Arnold and Vince Barnett. The story, based on the play by Max Kimmich, involves the adventures of an Austrian Intelligence Officer who is detailed to put a stop to the leakage of information across the front into Russia. A woman is responsible for the leak.

"Madame Spy" is the third assignment for Karl Freund at Universal. The swift movement and steadily mounting suspense which is attributed to "Madame Spy" make it seem as though this film will be an even greater tribute to his ability than "Moonlight and Pretzels." Edward Grainger was associate producer of the film.

HERE 50 YEARS

ONE of the high spots of the celebration of Carl Laemmle's Anniversary Jubilee this year will be the celebration of his fiftieth year in America. On February 14th, 1884, Carl Laemmle landed in New York from the steamship Neckar. February of 1934 will be one of the biggest months in the life of Carl Laemmle. On the 14th he will celebrate fifty years in America and on the 24th, twenty-eight years in the moving picture business.

This country has done well by Carl Laemmle. Never has he regretted coming here. He became a citizen of this country as soon as it was legally possible, and the fiftieth birthday of his advent here is every bit as important and as sacred to him as his own birthday. So here is another milestone which will be marked in this

CARL LAEMMLE
ANNIVERSARY
JUBILEE

UNIVERSAL WEEKLY
A Magazine for Motion Picture Exhibitors
Paul Gulick, Editor
Published Weekly by the Motion Picture Weekly Publishing Co.
730 Fifth Avenue, New York City
Copyrighted 1933
Universal Pictures Corp.
(All Rights Reserved)
DECEMBER 30, 1933
Vol. 34 No. 3

Today, William Anthony McGuire begins the adaptation of Hans Fallada's novel, "Little Man, What Now?" which Frank Borzage will produce with Margaret Sullavan and Lew Ayres, starting on January 8th.

●

New Lew Ayres Revealed in "Cross Country Cruise"

And You Will Absolutely Fall in Love With June Knight in this Swell Picture.

LEW AYRES has been holding out on the public. Despite his fine performance in "All Quiet on the Western Front" he has held in reserve one side of his personality, a most fascinating side. He shows it at last in "Cross Country Cruise."

This bus feature which Universal has been working on for a year and a half and only speeded up in order to head off competition, serves to present a new Lew Ayres. It is a Lew Ayres different from any yet revealed.

In "Cross Country Cruise," Ayres takes the part of a wealthy playboy leaving New York on a transcontinental bus to go west and work in a lumber camp, as his father has ordered. Most important, he must stay away from women.

But the Lew Ayres of "Cross Country Cruise" has such utter charm, such a lovable, laughable nature that women can't resist him, or he them. In the opinion of pre-viewers, Ayres has never given a more skillful, appealing performance than in Universal's bus picture.

Supporting Ayres in this novel film is a cast which includes June Knight, Alice White, Alan Dinehart, Minna Gombell, Eugene Pallette, and Hugh Enfield. Eddie Buzzell directed, from the story by Stanley Rauh and screen play by Elmer Harris.

✚ ✚ ✚

DOUBLE APPEAL IN "BELOVED"

HAILED as a running mate for "Only Yesterday," "Beloved" has a double appeal. It offers, for one thing, the pictorial record of a hundred years in music, including several

(Continued on Page 26)

BELO

Universal's Glorious Dramatic Romance, With Haunting Music and Songs!

VED

With

JOHN BOLES
GLORIA STUART

Morgan Farley, Ruth Hall, Albert Conti, Dorothy Peterson, Edmund Breese, Richard Carle, Lucille Gleason, Mae Busch, Jimmie Butler. Story by Paul Gangelin. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

•

A B. F. Zeidman Production

•

Directed by VICTOR SCHERTZINGER

JOHN BOLES
SINGS AGAIN in–

BELO

One of the greatest love stories ever brought to the screen!

VED

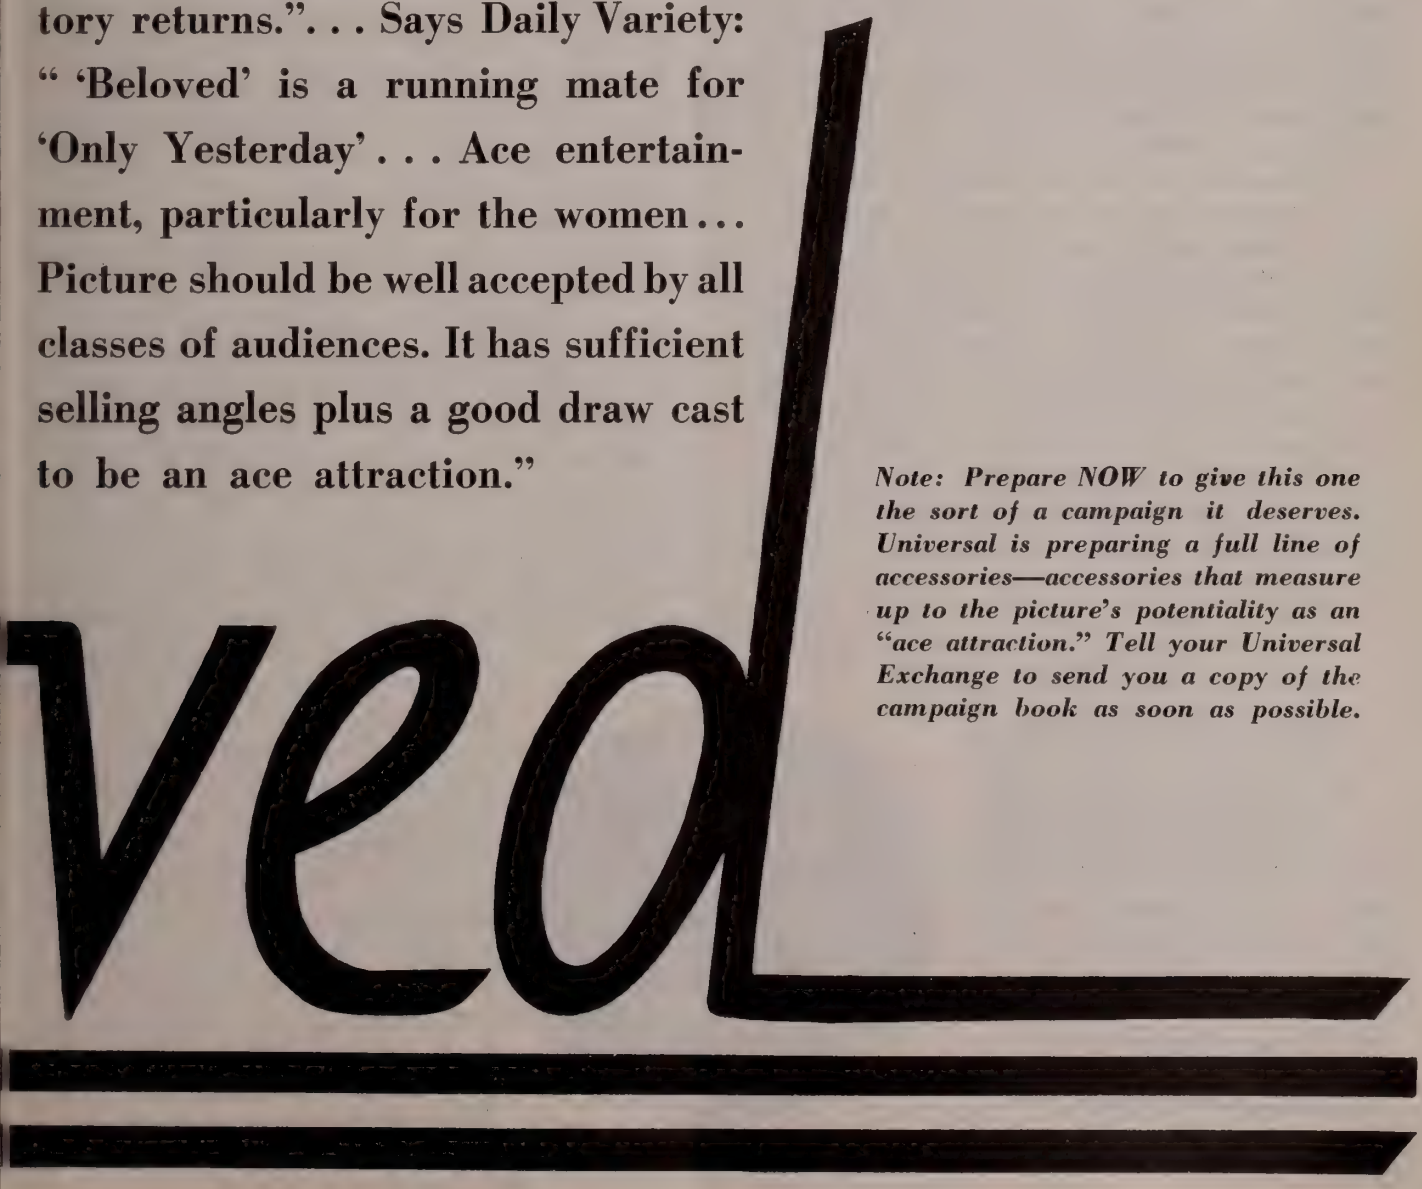
Take

Belo

the trade papers' tip —

Says Hollywood Reporter: "Intelligent exploitation of this offering by the showman, with the box-office values he undoubtedly has in Boles. Stuart and Schertzinger's music — not forgetting a trend 'Little Women' has started — should sell 'Beloved' to plenty of audiences for satisfactory returns."... Says Daily Variety: " 'Beloved' is a running mate for 'Only Yesterday'... Ace entertainment, particularly for the women... Picture should be well accepted by all classes of audiences. It has sufficient selling angles plus a good draw cast to be an ace attraction."

Note: Prepare NOW to give this one the sort of a campaign it deserves. Universal is preparing a full line of accessories—accessories that measure up to the picture's potentiality as an "ace attraction." Tell your Universal Exchange to send you a copy of the campaign book as soon as possible.



Minneapolis and Milwa
"Counsellor At Law"

Minneapolis Journal Gives A A A A

I HAVE seen criticism by competent reviewers who give it as their opinion that the screen version of "Counsellor at Law" is equal to or superior to the one seen on the stage. However, this is a comparatively inconsequential matter, for the picture is quite good enough to satisfy any demand for a strong, closely knit, ably written and excellently acted show.

John Barrymore has long since abandoned that posturing, condescending attitude that frequently irked some of us in his earlier pictures, and in "Counsellor at Law" he gives a performance that to my mind is superior to anything else he has done with the exception of his unforgettable "Topaze." He is direct, powerful and finished—the consummate actor every minute.

The play is ingeniously written by Mr. Rice, who has a high talent for involving the lives of his characters in a pulsating story that gives an impression of great reality. A conspicuous example of this genius was "Street Scene" and his "Counsellor at Law" carries with it the same conviction.

Merle Potter

✚ ✚ ✚

"Big Casino" Completed

"BIG CASINO," a two-reel musical novelty, has been completed by the Mentone Productions. It features Rex Weber, Marguirita Padula, Patsy Flick, the Donovan Sisters with Rees and Owen, Tita Guizar, Marney Francis, Charles Lawrence, the Belmont Sisters and the Chester Hale Girls. It was written and directed by Ballard Macdonald. Milton Schwarzwald was the musical director.

SEEING THE FILMS WITH JOHN ALDEN

Minneapolis Tribune
Orpheum

EVERY time a producer transforms a stage play to the screen without injecting a lot of wholly irrelevant and often imbecile details, this department always sets up loud, shrill cries of delight. The citizenry must again submit to such yelling in these docket entries concerning "Counsellor at Law," the excellent film Universal has made of Elmer Rice's stage play.

Like all playwrights with a sound claim to distinction, Mr. Rice knows and practices the fundamental rule that drama is written to be acted. Like all actors who know their craft John Barrymore rises to such stimulating bait and turns in a vital and explosive performance in "Counsellor at Law," which will open December 22 at the Orpheum.

This is not a picture which depends primarily on story values for dramatic effect. It is primarily a play for actors, many types of actors. It also is a keen psychological study of the affluent lawyer who shades his shyster characteristics and his ruthlessness with undoubted humanity and compassion. Mr. Barrymore plays the part superbly and the character bits such as the part of his mother, his office staff, and his clients have been nicely cast. Most of the bits are played by the members of the original stage cast.

"Counsellor at Law" is playing at the Alhambra, Milwaukee, and the Orpheum in Minneapolis.

xee Praise

"IT'S GRAND," says Peggy Patton in Wisconsin News

IT'S grand! But I'll cut my hosannas short and tell you a bit about it.

The capable hands of Elmer Rice, like those of a skilled surgeon, have taken the successful legit, "Counsellor at Law," and retained its original dramatic power without a flaw in his own screen adaptation, at the Alhambra Theatre.

Set against an elaborate background of "classy" law offices the marital and business difficulties of George Simon (John Barrymore), the talented criminal lawyer, who makes judges, defends financial institutions as well as wives who kill their husbands, are unfurled in most compelling fashion.

Vivacious Shirley Grey is very much elated over her role in "I Like It That Way," the musical comedy in which she appears with Roger Pryor and Gloria Stuart. Shirley came direct to the cast from her work with Edmund Lowe in "Bombay Mail." She is one of four blonde leading ladies in this one, the other fair-haired members of the quartette being Gloria Stuart, Marion Marsh and Gloria Shea. Others in the cast of this Stanley Bergerman production are Merna Kennedy, Lucille Gleason, Mickey Rooney, Eddie Gribbon and Noel Madison. Its musical numbers were especially composed by Gottler, Conrad and Mitchell, the popular trio responsible for many of the hits of this and last season. Harry Lachman directed.

✚ ✚ ✚ ✚ ✚ ✚

Keeping Grip On Public's Imagination Is The Determination of Carl Laemmle, Jr.

CARL LAEMMLE, Jr. plans to keep his grip on the public's imagination during 1934. The youngest film executive, who successfully blazed a trail in entertainment with his production of "Dracula," "Frankenstein," and recently "The Invisible Man," announced yesterday that three pictures with a decidedly novel and shocking appeal are now scheduled for production at Universal City during the coming year.

The first of these pictures is a highly imaginative one entitled "A Trip to Mars." James Whale and R. C. Sherriff, who collaborated on "The Invisible Man," are now in London working out the details of this thriller. Sherriff will write the story, with Whale again directing. Boris Karloff will be starred.

Karloff is also scheduled to appear in the second picture of this group, "The Return of Frankenstein," which L. G. Blochman and Phillip McDonald, noted English novelist, will create. This film has been under contemplation for a year now, and Carl Laemmle, Jr. believes the time is ripe to launch a sequel to the box-office success of 1932.

